

Britain's economic ills blamed for racial rioting

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — With Britain's economic squeeze increasing competition for jobs and housing, more racial violence is predicted after a weekend of anti-police rioting in a black London slum.

Scotland Yard said 204 people were injured — 149 police officers, 40 rioters, 12 firemen and three ambulance crewmen — as rioting snowballed in South London's impoverished Brixton district.

Hundreds of black and white youths fought the police with bottles, bricks and gasoline bombs, looted stores and burned down more than 30 buildings, witnesses said.

Damage was estimated at more than $2 million.

Police, probing the causes of the worst outbreak by blacks in Britain, said political extremists may have been responsible for the trouble, which began with sporadic clashes Friday night and escalated sharply on Saturday and Sunday.

A spokesman said Scotland Yard was investigating reports that large supplies of homemade gasoline bombs were on hand an hour after the start of Saturday night's clashes. He also said the British Broadcasting Corp. called the Yard's press office nearly two hours before the trouble erupted saying it had been told there was rioting in Brixton.

Police Commissioner Sir David McNeer said there were indications the violence was not spontaneous. He said troublemakers from outside Brixton gathered there before it started.

Leaders of the black community said the trouble had its roots in the poverty and unemployment among blacks. But they blamed the violence on "heavy-handed tactics" by the predominantly white police force.

"I saw no evidence of outside political extremists," said Courtney Laws of the Brixton Neighborhood Community Association. "But I wouldn't be so naive as to say that none of these young people were not politically motivated."

"This is not against the white community but against the police. They treat us like dirt," said one of the rioters, a 21-year-old black.

"This has set the cause of race relations in South London back 20 years," said Rene Webb, a West Indian and former community relations chief in south London. "It will not end here."

The National Council for Civil Liberties, an independent body, said it feared "further incidents unless the government takes immediate steps to end the harassment and discrimination against black people caused by racist immigration laws and practices and increasing unemployment among black people."

The six hours of rioting Saturday night was one of the worst racially-related clashes in Britain since non-white immigrants from former colonies in Africa, Asia and the West Indies began pouring into the country in 1948.

'Better late than never': Shuttle sails through tests

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The astronauts of Columbia, their rocketship sailing along like a "champ," tested control systems today for Tuesday's searing re-entry after sources said photographs indicated the underbelly heat shield — crucial to survival — is apparently intact.

On Flight Day Two, "everything's working just fine," a mission director said today. "There's nothing remotely resembling a problem."

John Young and Robert Crippen were awakened from a chilly night's sleep in orbit by a country-western tune that celebrated their "mean machine." They began testing Columbia for the dramatic landing that will conclude the mission that thrust the United States back into the space race.

Cabin temperatures overnight were in the 60s, a few degrees below normal and Crippen said, "we got about ready to break out the long undies." Shuttle Control quickly resolved that by dumping water out of a heat exchanger.

The song, "The Flight of the Shuttle Columbia," warmed their spirits. It said, in part, "Many, many hours went into this thing. A job well done by the shuttle space team."

Following breakfast, Crippen and Young plunged into a day of extensive testing of spaceship systems — working well except for minor "anomalies." A remarkably clear telecast showed Young testing the ship's flight controls.

"The vehicle is performing just beautifully, much better than anyone ever expected on the first flight," Young said Sunday.

"It's performing like a champ," Crippen reported.

Said flight director Neil Hutchinson, "It's absolutely amazing, the machine is operating so well; we have nothing that's a real show-stopper. There's nothing remotely resembling a problem."

The astronauts relayed their praise during a four-minute telecast to Shuttle Control nine hours after Columbia vaulted spectacularly off its launch pad at Cape Canaveral.

The maiden journey of the world's first reusable spaceship is a test flight, and Young and Crippen were to do just that today. Nothing glamorous like landing on the moon. Just dogged checking and rechecking of all the systems, as they did Sunday after launch.

From the moment of the fiery on-time liftoff, Columbia was almost a flawless machine, bothered by only a few nuisance problems.

A remarkable recovery for a craft that only a few months ago critics were calling such unflattering things as "space turkey" and "aluminum Dumbo." Columbia had fallen two years behind schedule, bedeviled by technical troubles with its main engines and thermal tiles.

The three powerful engines were perfect Sunday. At least one of the ship's 30,922 tiles was missing and 13 or 14 were damaged by the rigorous launch stress, but National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said the gaps were in non-critical areas and posed no threat.

Hutchinson, one of three flight directors at Shuttle Control, said the affected tiles probably were hit by a shock wave as the craft barreled up through the atmosphere.

Reagan resumes restful schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, out of the hospital but under doctor's orders not to work in the Oval Office yet, is staying upstairs in the White House with no immediate plans for public appearances while he builds up his strength.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Sunday Reagan's only scheduled visitors this week were Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who will report on his recent trip to Europe and the Middle East, and his top three White House aides.

Speakes said Reagan may tape a 10-minute economic speech for radio broadcast this week, but a televised address on the same topic will be delayed.

As he recuperates at home from the bullet wound in his left lung inflicted by a would-be assassin two weeks ago, Reagan also may telephone members of Congress for a progress report on how his economic plan is faring, Speakes said.

But the president planned to spend most, if not all, of the week secluded in his upstairs living quarters. First lady Nancy Reagan has redecorated the rooftop solarium for Reagan's use during his convalescence.

After being released from George Washington University Hospital on Saturday, Reagan spent a quiet weekend with his wife and their daughter, Patti. Aides agreed not to disturb him.

On Sunday he arose early to watch the launching of the space shuttle Columbia on television. "It's a spectacular sight," his personal physician, Dr. Daniel Ruge, quoted Reagan as saying.

After visiting the president, Ruge reported through Speakes: "He's in great shape. He looks great." Reagan is taking penicillin orally to ward off infection.

Speakes said Reagan's senior staff made a "conscious decision" to "leave him alone and give him some time with his family" after he returned from the hospital.

To a large extent, Speakes said, the president will follow his hospital routine at home. His top three aides, counselor Edwin Meese III, chief of staff James A. Baker III and Michael K. Deaver, will visit him in the mornings "to discuss whatever matters come up," and daily national security briefings will be in written form.

Vice President George Bush will continue to stand in for Reagan at official functions, though aides said he probably would no longer preside over meetings of the Cabinet and the National Security Council.

The vice president gave a speech at Alabama's Tuskegee Institute on Sunday — a trip Reagan had been scheduled to make — and was to address a group of trade association executives at the White House today.

Bush will begin 'backing down'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush will gradually relinquish his responsibilities as President Reagan's stand-in as Reagan's stamina returns.

With Reagan back in the White House, Bush likely will no longer preside over meetings of the Cabinet or the National Security Council as he did after the president was felled by a would-be assassin's bullet March 30.

Reagan, who returned home Saturday after 12 days of hospitalization, probably will want to run those meetings again, said Peter Teeley, Bush's press secretary.

Bush will continue many ceremonial jobs of the president, such as greeting White House visitors, and will preside over sub-Cabinet groups.

"I'll be doing that all the time 'til he (Reagan) gets back, but it will get gradually de-emphasized," Bush told reporters Sunday as he flew to a speech in Alabama on the plane that normally carries the president.

In his speech at Tuskegee Institute, Bush told a largely black audience that doubts expressed by some black leaders about the administration's commitment to the protection of minority rights were "totally unfounded."

He also indicated he no longer would substitute for Reagan at the daily meeting of senior White House staffers.

Bush will substitute for the president at fund-raising events in Los Angeles on April 23 and in Hartford, Conn., the next day.

Asked if he would give away the president's daughter, Maureen, at her April 24 wedding in California, Bush said with a grin, "I'm not going that far in my stand-in responsibilities." The president is going to be unable to attend the wedding.

When Reagan was discharged from the hospital, "he was a little tired," Bush said. "The tendency will be to push too much in on him, and I think his tendency should be to resist that," the vice president added.

Bush sought to play down lingering reports of a dispute between Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. over who was in charge while Bush was flying to Washington from Texas after Reagan was shot.

He said he was unaware of any confusion in the White House situation room and said that overall "I think history will record it all worked pretty darn well...a limited degree of confusion."

Bush flew to Alabama to substitute for Reagan at the Founders Day and Centennial Celebration of Tuskegee Institute, a predominantly black school founded 100 years ago by Booker T. Washington to teach former slaves and their children.

Greenwood youth killed

A 17-year-old junior at Greenwood High School was killed early Sunday morning when his car struck a dirt embankment at the intersection of county roads 110 and 1060 12.6 miles east of Midland.

Mark Edward Benton, a football player at Greenwood High School, died of massive head and neck injuries at 2:47 a.m. Sunday at Midland Memorial Hospital. He was pinned in his vehicle when the crash occurred at 1:45 a.m., according to Department of Public Safety reports.

A DPS spokesman said Benton was traveling west on County Road 110 when his vehicle struck the dirt embankment.

The accident was investigated by Trooper Ken Pittman of Midland.

Hostages just medaling around

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former American hostages in Iran are getting together again, 12 weeks after their release, to be honored for "exceptional personal bravery and perseverance" and to undergo checkups on their readjustment to freedom.

About 40 of the former hostages were to receive the State Department's Award for Valor from Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. at a noon ceremony today and then head for a West Virginia resort to meet with a team of government doctors.

The Award for Valor is given for service under "unusually difficult or dangerous circumstances, which require exceptional personal bravery and perseverance."

The award is being presented to 54 former hostages, including 37 State Department employees, four International Communications Agency officials and 13 Marine guards, though not all were expected to attend today's ceremony. Some of the recipients were released from Iran in the early stages of the crisis, which began Nov. 4, 1979, when Islamic zealots overran the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Non-Marine military personnel are ineligible for the State Department award because they were under Defense Department jurisdiction in Iran.

Today's ceremony was the first official reunion for former hostages since President Reagan welcomed them at the White House a week after their departure from Iran.

On Tuesday, most of the group will be flown to White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., 250 miles from here. There they will meet with the same team of doctors which examined the returning hostages in West Germany immediately after their release from Iran.

The former captives will be housed at the Greenbrier Hotel in White Sulphur Springs, a swanky, 700-room structure nestled in the Allegheny Mountains a few miles from the Virginia border.

The medical team will conduct three days of workshops with the former captives on lessons learned during their 444-day ordeal and on coping with their return to normal lives.

The Greenbrier has invited the hostages and their immediate families to stay on through Easter weekend and will pick up the tab for all six days. They will have the run of the 6,500-acre Greenbrier layout, which includes golf, swimming, fishing, hiking and other activities.

Both the State Department and the hotel have been anxious to limit news coverage. But as of late last week, 75 rooms at the hotel had been reserved by the media.

To preserve privacy, reporters will be barred from the area of the hotel designated for the former hostages.

So far as is known, the overwhelming majority of the former hostages have had no major readjustment problems.

West Texas: A chance of showers or thunderstorms most sections Wednesday. Partly cloudy Thursday and Friday. Warmer Friday. Highs Wednesday and Thursday 70s north to 80s south. Highs Friday mostly in the 80s except 90s Big Bend. Lows Wednesday and Thursday 40s north to 50s south. Lows Friday near 50 Panhandle to 60s south.

South Texas: Partly cloudy Wednesday through Friday. A chance of thundershowers, mainly north, Wednesday. No important temperature changes. Daytime highs mid 70s to mid 80s. Overnight lows mid 50s northward to near 70s coastal and south.

Strong chance of rain, lower temperatures in the forecast

If the sweat seemed to pour non-stop on Sunday, that's because it was one of the warmest days this spring. But Tuesday should be a different story as the winds should be blowing heartily at 15 to 25 mph out of the northeast, bringing a strong chance of rain and dropping the temperatures. The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport is calling for a high Tuesday in the middle 70s after an expected overnight low in the middle 50s. Probability of thunderstorms tonight and Tuesday stands at 40 percent. High on Sunday was 90 degrees, a near-hit to the record high of 99 degrees set on that date in 1972. Overnight low was 59 degrees, a sizzler compared to the record low of 28 degrees set in 1957. Precipitation so far this month has been zero, and the year's total stands at 1.79 inches. Area towns reported overcast skies and warm temperatures early today. April showers and thunderstorms scattered early today from northern Oklahoma through the Dakotas to Illinois. There were showers and thundershowers from the Ohio Valley to the Atlantic and from Virginia to New England. Rain scattered from southwest Texas to eastern Arizona, the Idaho Panhandle and western Montana. A tornado touched down in southwest Oklahoma. And Ohio's first tornado of the spring storm season hit so fast, it was over before some people could take shelter, a witness said. No injuries were reported, but several barns and houses were destroyed or damaged in the storm. Showers and thundershowers were expected to scatter today from the southern and central Rockies across the Central Plains, Ohio Valley, Great Lakes and Mid-Atlantic states. Temperatures around the nation at 2 a.m. EST ranged from 20 in Cutbank, Mont., to 75 in El Paso, Texas. Forecasters warned that a few of the thunderstorms in North Central Texas might become severe during the afternoon and early evening hours. Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s, ranging from the 50s in the Panhandle to the 70s along the coast and in West Texas. Extremes ranged from 57 at Dalhart to 73 at Brownsville.

Advertisement for 'Avalanches kill two men' by The Associated Press. A 27-year-old cross-country skier was killed when he and three colleagues were swept from a snowfield and buried by an avalanche near Washington's Snoqualmie Pass, and a man died after an avalanche buried his snowmobile near the Montana-Wyoming border. Authorities in Hyak, Wash., said the cross-country skiers were buried Sunday afternoon when an avalanche swept the skiers from a snowfield near Source Lake. Three were dug out of the snow Sunday afternoon without serious injury, said Sgt. Donna Nolan of the King County Police. They were not able to get the deceased out due to danger of additional avalanches, but there are plans to resume that effort in the morning, dependent on conditions, Ms. Nolan said. Identities were not immediately released. A high avalanche warning was in effect Sunday for the 3,022-foot pass area about 50 miles east of Seattle. The U.S. Forest Service had advised skiers, hikers and climbers not to enter the basin. Meanwhile, Carbon County, Mont., Sheriff James Eichler said two men, riding separate snowmobiles, were crossing an area near Red Lodge, Mont., Sunday when an avalanche began. Eichler said one man was trapped in the snow and killed, but his partner escaped injury. He said both men were in their 40s or 50s, but he declined to release their identities.

Administration may compromise on tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration may trade its proposed three-year tax cut for a one-year plan and promises of more, says the chief budget writer in the Democratic-controlled House. Administration officials "indicate they are willing to compromise on both the spending cut side and the tax cut side," Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the House Budget Committee, said Sunday. It was the first indication that the administration is ready to compromise on its proposed 30 percent cut in individual income tax over three years. Admitting that he had no "official statements" from the administration, Jones said, "What I would propose is that we state policy clearly in Congress that we want to have a multi-year tax bill. But before we do it, we ought to come to grips with the spending side, and we ought to force Congress and the administration to cut spending before we have large tax cuts." Such a statement of intention, Jones said on the CBS program "Face the Nation," would be binding on Congress and the administration only through "political pressure." Jones said he believed the administration is willing to compromise because "there is a growing feeling that if you have a three-year, 30 percent cut in taxes that you're leaving yourself wide open to a very large deficit the third year out." While Jones did not say who harbored that feeling, similar sentiments have been expressed by congressional Democrats. The Republican-dominated Senate Budget Committee rejected Reagan's overall program last week after calculating that it would fall far short of the president's pledge of a balanced budget in 1984. Jones' committee endorsed a Democratic budget alternative last week, saying it would balance the budget in 1983, would spend more on social programs and less on defense and would leave a $25.6 billion deficit in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 instead of the $45 billion forecast by the administration. The tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee then unveiled a one-year tax cut of $40 billion as an alternative to the $54 billion called for in the first year of the administration's three-year plan. Administration spokesmen scoffed at the Democratic plans. Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan called the one-year tax cut "less than half a loaf." Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., ranking Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, said, "At this point nobody is talking compromise." David A. Stockman, the administration's budget director, said the difference between the Jones budget and the administration plan was "not in the realm of compromise (but) in the realm of fundamental difference."

Showdown expected between budget supporters, opponents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A budget showdown between President Reagan's supporters and opponents in Congress is expected after the lawmakers return April 27 from their two-week Easter recess and resume action on federal spending and tax proposals. Here is the status of major legislation: Federal Budget Reagan's allies, suffering setbacks in battles last week as Senate and House budget committees argued over what figures to propose for floor consideration, are attempting to develop a spending and revenue program to match the president's recommendations for fiscal 1982. Various proposed versions of a fiscal 1982 budget, covering the year which starts Oct. 1, were being discussed in Congress. The House Democratic leadership is sponsoring its own alternative to the Republican president's plan. Proposals along the lines of Reagan's plans were rejected 12-9 by the Republican-controlled Senate Budget Committee, which is to continue work after the recess, and were defeated 17-13 by the Democrat-dominated House Budget Committee. By 17-13, the House panel approved the Democratic alternative budget plan calling for spending $714.5 billion and running a $25.6 billion deficit in fiscal 1982. Reagan's fiscal 1982 plan provides for spending $695.3 billion and operating at a $45 billion deficit. Income Taxes Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said last week that a majority of the panel's mem-

Trial may get more startling

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — The custody trial involving the children of slain former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. has produced, in the past four weeks, an unprecedented — and often startling — look into the private life of a powerful political family.

And if the past truly is prologue, as Shakespeare said, the days ahead may provide accusations even more startling than those of wife beating, drug use and homosexuality that already have surfaced.

Lead defense attorney in the effort by Vickie Daniel, 33, the widow of the former speaker who is charged with his Jan. 19 shooting death, to retain custody of the two sons she bore Daniel is Richard "Racehorse" Haynes.

During testimony on behalf of Daniel's sister, Jean Daniel Murph, who is trying to gain custody of Marion Price Daniel IV and Franklin Baldwin Daniel 3, Haynes has baffled and often befuddled witnesses.

Now the stocky, diminutive defense attorneys goes on the offensive and, although he is bound by a gag order preventing attorneys from talking about the trial, he is expected to continue his previous probing into the marriage between a one-time Dairy Queen waitress and the son of a prominent South Texas Democrat.

In the closing days of the case presented by Mrs. Murph's attorney, J.C. "Zeke" Zbrank called Price Daniel Sr. to the stand to bolster his contention that Mrs. Daniel is an unfit mother and that her late husband was a stable, loving father.

The elder Daniel, overcome at times by emotion, flatly denied that his son used drugs or had homosexual tendencies, as has been charged or implied in previous testimony.

"I spent a lot of time with him," Daniel replied in an emotion-choked voice when asked if he was around his son while he was growing up.

Asked by Zbrank if his son was a homosexual, Daniel, 71, replied with a ringing denial.

"No, Zeke. That's the farthest thing from the truth that has been in this trial," he said.

However, Daniel testified that he did not feel any "animosity or hatred" toward the woman accused of killing his son and said she still would be welcome in his home "under certain circumstances."

"If she had had treatment and was back to her old self she would be welcome anytime," he said.

Man arrested on pot charge

Charges were expected to be filed early today against a man arrested in Midland early this morning for allegedly possessing marijuana.

The man, one of three people riding in a pickup that Officer J. Garza stopped at the intersection of Oak Street and Main Street at 1:06 a.m., allegedly had two clear plastic bags of a substance believed to be marijuana in his possession at the time.

The police officer also reported finding numerous seeds, which he believed to be marijuana seeds, on the seat of the pickup.

Midland firemen answered a fire alarm at the home of James E. Settiff, 3005 Meadowbrook Drive, at 5:50 p.m. Sunday, but the fire was out when firemen arrived.

According to fire department reports, overheated grease on the stove apparently caused the blaze which heavily damaged the vent-a-hood above the stove and the wall behind the stove.

DEATHS

Mark E. Benton

Mark E. Benton, 17, of Route 1 Box 155, died Sunday from injuries received in a one-car accident 12 miles south of Midland.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Greenwood Baptist Church with the Rev. Ralph Caffey officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven North Cemetery.

He was born March 5, 1964, in Midland. He played football for and was a junior at Greenwood High School. He worked for Big 3 Tire Company in Midland during the summer. He was a member of the Greenwood Baptist Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Benton of Midland; a brother, Matthew Benton of Midland; a sister, Laurie Benton of Midland; his grandparents, Mrs. and Mrs. Hershel Benton of Midland and Ella Murray of Midland; his great-grandmother, Mrs. E.H. Green of Brownfield; and several aunts and uncles.

Eisenhower press secretary dead at 71

BRONXVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled Tuesday for James C. Hagerty, who was press secretary for President Dwight Eisenhower for eight years.

Hagerty, 71, died at Lawrence Hospital Saturday after suffering a severe hemorrhage. Hagerty, who suffered a stroke several years ago, had gone to the hospital Friday complaining of stomach cramps.

A native of Plattsburgh, Hagerty was an ABC vice president before his retirement in 1975 after 14 years with the company.

He was an Albany correspondent for The New York Times when he was hired by the late Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as an executive assistant and then press secretary in 1943.

At the urging of a group of reporters, Eisenhower hired Hagerty as press expert during his 1952 presidential campaign and then appointed him White House press secretary in 1953.

It was Hagerty who reassured the nation of Eisenhower's physical condition after a heart attack in Denver in 1955. He made history, at Eisenhower's orders, by revealing complete details of the president's condition.

He instituted the practice of regularly scheduled presidential news conferences and abolished the long-standing policy of requiring special permission before directly quoting the president. In 1955, he pioneered the admission of newsreel and television cameras into presidential news conferences.

Ohio congressman dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tennyson Guyer, a five-term Ohio Republican member of the House of Representatives who apparently died in his sleep, will be buried Thursday in his home town of Findlay, Ohio.

Joseph Jansen, Guyer's press secretary, said Sunday at the district office in Lima, Ohio the congressman's wife, Mae, told him she was unaware of anything wrong "until she awoke this morning and discovered him."

The cause of death was not immediately known.

Guyer, 67, had suffered heart attacks in 1963 and 1976, the aide said.

dens. Rice moved to Odessa in February 1978. He was a member of the Episcopal church.

Other survivors include his wife, a daughter, three sons, 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Composer's son, grandson defect

NUREMBERG, West Germany (AP) — The son and grandson of the late Dmitri Shostakovich, the Soviet Union's foremost composer, are the latest Soviet artists to defect to the west.

Conductor Maxim Shostakovich led a performance Saturday night of the Soviet Radio Symphony Orchestra in nearby Fuerth, then went to the police and requested political asylum for himself and his 19-year-old son, Dmitri, a pianist with the orchestra.

"He just told the police he didn't want to go back and said his son wanted to stay, too," said a federal police officer.

A friend in Moscow said Maxim, who is 42, and his wife were divorced and that Dmitri was their only child. Maxim's father died in 1975 of a heart ailment.

The friend said Maxim and his son left the Soviet capital earlier this month for the Soviet Radio Symphony's West German visit and had been scheduled to return to Moscow in a few days.

The West German government in Bonn had no immediate comment, and officials would not say where the two defectors were staying or planned to go. But West Germany has one of the world's most liberal political system laws, and it was expected that the request of the two Shostakovichs would be granted speedily.

A small army of Soviet artists have defected to the West, most of them to escape the Soviet Communist Party's restrictions on experimentation and innovation and its complete and arbitrary regulation of the careers of all artists.

These notable defectors include pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy, cellist Mstislav Rostropovich and his wife, Galina Vishnevskaya, the Soviet Union's leading soprano; conductor Kirill Kondrashin, who died in Amsterdam recently; and ballet dancers Rudolf Nureyev, Natalia Makarova, Mikhail Baryshnikov, Alexander Godunov and Valery and Galina Panov.

Maxim Shostakovich, while not in the top rank of Soviet orchestral conductors, was one of the Soviet Union's most popular artists because of his frequent appearances on television with the Soviet Radio Symphony.

His father was acclaimed for an enormous output of symphonies, operas and chamber music that included some of the outstanding compositions of the 20th century as well as worthless potboilers written to satisfy Soviet officials.

Thousands pay tribute to Bradley

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Eulogized as "a real soldier's soldier" and "a man who inspired the troops," the nation's last five-star general was headed for his final resting place at Arlington National Cemetery.

Thousands of mourners filed through an unadorned chapel at Fort Bliss for four days to pay tribute to General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, who died Wednesday at the age of 88. His body was to be flown today by presidential jet to Washington, D.C., for burial Tuesday after a private ceremony for the family.

"He was a real soldier's soldier," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said Sunday at the Fort Bliss chapel.

He said Bradley, who died of a heart attack in New York, "was a man who never sought war, but a man who inspired the troops. He was a real hero to all of us."

A 19-man honor guard was to escort the casket from the chapel to the airport.

Once it arrives at Andrews Air Force Base in Washington, the body was to be taken to Bethlehem Chapel at the National Cathedral. A funeral service and burial are Tuesday.

An estimated 5,000 mourners filed past Bradley's body in the adobe chapel at the West Texas post.

Libraries receive awards

RANKIN — Libraries at Rankin and Eden have been presented J. Frank Dobie awards totaling $4,525 in funds for books and materials.

The awards were presented at the recent Texas Library Association convention in Houston.

Receiving the awards at the 88th annual TLA conference were Ann Clark of the Rankin Public Library and Evelyn Nelson of the Eden Public Library.

Thirty-two libraries applied for eight Dobie award-grants, which total $18,100.

Dobie was a Texas folklorist and professor who authored such titles as "Coronado's Children" and "Tales of Old-Time Times." He died in 1964.

"Losing Hair? Try This At No Risk"

HOUSTON, Texas— If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss...but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself! Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc. will supply you with treatment for 32 days—at their risk—if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail. Adv.

HERE'S OUR MINT NEW PENNY WITH A FIGURE THAT MEANS SOLID GOLD

Dear Pat Walker's,

For years I made excuses for my large arms, saying it was because I'd used crutches for a long time. That was a real crutch! Now I have slender arms and a size 3 figure.

I really do and...I lost a total of 50 pounds and 80 inches in 1 1/2 years and maintained it for 2 1/2 years. That changed my looks, wardrobe, attitude and career. Now I keep up easily with my 2 live wire sons and as an executive in a large international corporation.

And does Ken, my husband, care? I'll say! Now instead of practical 'house' gifts I get very personal pretties, like my diamond ring in an 'S' shape, for 'Sexy.' Thanks Pat Walker's. We love you.

Homosexual ex-convicts included in child slaying probe

ATLANTA (AP) — A task force investigating the slayings of young blacks is checking the whereabouts of homosexual ex-convicts, according to a newspaper report, although authorities say there's "no evidence" of a homosexual link to the killings.

The Atlanta Constitution reported today that the special task force investigating the 23 deaths and two disappearances here in 21 months is using computers to determine if any former prison inmates classified as homosexuals lived near the victims.

The newspaper, quoting unidentified sources, said such former inmates found to live near the victims could face questioning.

There was no official comment on the report, but Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown said last week that the task force has "no information that would lead to the conclusion that the killings we are investigating are homosexually related."

"That is speculation ... We have to look at all possibilities, but there is no evidence that we should single out homosexual involvements any more than any other factor," he said.

Meanwhile, the stabbed body of an unidentified black man, aged 20 to 30, was found in a vacant lot. Police said the case had no connection with the 23 other slayings.

In another development, police reported that fear of the incidents and a curfew seem to be keeping children from Atlanta's streets.

Some of the victims have disappeared at night, however, despite the 7 p.m.-6 a.m. curfew for children under 15 imposed Feb. 2. The American Civil Liberties Union has said it may take legal action against the city if the curfew is renewed after its May 3 expiration.

"We share the same concerns everybody else does about the safety of our children," said Gene Guerrero of the ACLU of Georgia, "but we can't just curtail the liberties of a certain group of people because there is trouble."

According to police statistics for March, officers checked 4,670 juveniles during curfew and took 116 home. They arrested 23 for violating the curfew and arrested 31 others for other offenses.

Deputy Police Chief Eldrin Bell said police "have seen the number of youth out on the street late at night dwindle considerably" since the curfew went into effect.

"The curfew provides an element of safety from the possibility of a child turning up on the murdered and missing list, but also helps curtail robberies, burglaries, assaults and other crimes," Bell said.

The head of a citizens' patrol said she also has noticed a drop in the number of unaccompanied youths out after dark.

"When we first started patrolling, we would find 30 to 40 children out late at night," said Grace Davis of Atlanta Youth Against Crime. "We are finding very few children out now."

The ACLU's effort to end the curfew would be a "disservice to this city," Mrs. Davis said.

"Sure children have rights," she said. "They have the right to live, too. They have a right to grow up into productive citizens."

In another development, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, civil rights leader and head of the self-help group Operation PUSH, charged there is a "cultural conspiracy to kill black people ... The nation cannot ignore this problem and dump it in the lap of Mayor Maynard Jackson and the public safety commissioner." Jackson declined to speculate on the race of the killer or killers, saying "these bizarre episodes point to a deeper, cultural malady — a crisis of national violence."

The 23 slayings have occurred since July 1979. All but two of the victims have been between the ages of 7 and 16. The other two were young adults described by police as small in stature and mentally retarded.

About 100 volunteers turned out Saturday to search for the missing children — 15-year-old Joseph Bell and 10-year-old Darron Glass — but their efforts failed to uncover any new evidence in the cases.

Shooting victim may be transient

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police say they have few leads concerning the recent activities of a man who was shot in the head and stuffed in the trunk of his car, which then sat for 80 days at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

The victim, tentatively identified as Larry V. Vejrosta, 69, is thought to be a transient whose last known address was Hot Springs, Ark. An autopsy showed he died after being shot in the head with a .22-caliber pistol.

Officials said the car, which was parked at the airport when passersby noticed a bad odor and called police open the trunk, was registered in Omaha, Neb.

The man's body was stuffed inside a cardboard box which had been sealed with duct tape, officials said.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY

You share this birthday with such distinguished members of the acting profession as John Gielgud, Bradford Dillman, Rod Steiger and Julie Christie. Those born on this day are more interested in the broader picture than details, but it is careful attention to detail that will mean the difference between moving ahead and standing still this year.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Stay out of the limelight today and let others take the lead. Mail will bring welcome news. Family members need tender loving care. Show them with affection! Expend restless energy on hobbies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A favorable day for traveling or contacting those overseas. Limit the amount of money you spend at sales. Allow plenty of time to get to appointments. An early night is indicated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Track down an elusive individual to advance your career, business plans. Heart-to-heart talk will relieve tension, prevent misunderstandings. Be thorough in all that you do. Small mistakes are costly now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Routine work goes well today. Colleagues are helpful. Real estate dealings can be a source of special satisfaction. Do what you can to speed the signing of contracts, papers. Romance looks much more promising.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Tackle complex projects with lots of details early in the day. Others may ask personal questions. Speak out if it will not embarrass loved ones. Your batteries need recharging. Stay home this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Certain recent worries will sort themselves out now. Concentrate on creative projects to boost profits. You will have to get in touch with the experts if seeking specialized information.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Give careful consideration to co-workers' suggestions. It is possible to get a better return on your investments now. Perform more services for yourself to help beat inflation. Buy in bulk whenever practical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tap your sources to come up with the support you need. Information from behind the scenes can help you clinch an important financial deal. Write letters that say exactly what you mean.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A good day to give and receive advice. Difficult person sees you in new light. Be alert to changes in attitudes, priorities. An ability to move with the times is the key to success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Diplomacy helps you straighten out a delicate situation. Pressures ease. Teamwork is favored. Your intuition is at an all-time high. Use it constructively. Long-range goals move closer to becoming reality.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be leery of those who shower you with flattery. Follow your instincts. Sign contracts, agreements only after conducting an extensive investigation. Something that appears to be a bargain could actually be a gyp.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): News from afar will please you. A trip abroad is a real possibility. Renew passport if necessary. Now is the time to set new goals. Share innermost feelings with loved one.

Q.4 - Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF

© 1981 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1 - Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ QJ108752 ♦ Q72 ♣ Q53
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♦ 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?

A. - You have tremendous playing strength but virtually no defensive tricks. Someone at the table must hold a lot of spades because partner is unlikely to have more than four. You must do all you can to shut out that suit. Jump to four hearts. You would make the same bid had East not entered the auction.

Q.2 - Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ AQJ10854 ♥ AJ63 ♦ 6 ♣ 4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass Pass
2 ♠ 3 ♦ 3 ♠ 4 ♦
4 ♥ 5 ♦ Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?

A. - Defensively, your hand is bound to be a disappointment to partner. However, if he has no more than six hearts to the king and a singleton spade, you have a good play for five hearts. In any event, you won't get hurt badly. Since there is no guarantee that you can beat five diamonds, pull to five hearts. We don't like overruling partner, but this is one of those cases where you should bid one more "for luck."

Q.3 - As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠ 6 ♥ AQ872 ♦ J5 ♠ 109863
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A. - You have already told partner that you are not enamored with a no trump contract, yet he has persisted. Obviously, he has spades well stopped, for the auction has pinpointed that you have spade shortage. Pass, and hope that your values are sufficient for partner to make game.

GOREN BRIDGE

♠ 832 ♥ 5 ♦ 98 ♠ AQ108763
Your partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?

A. - Don't count your points. Count the number of tricks your club suit will produce for partner at a no trump contract - at least six. Unless the opponents can collect five fast tricks, you are an overwhelming favorite to make a no trump game, so jump to three no trump.

Q.5 - East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ A87 ♥ KJ10732 ♠ AQ63
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Dble. Pass 1 ♠ ?

What action do you take?

A. - The auction and your holding suggest that partner should be short in spades, and his hearts were not good enough to bid at the one-level over the double. Therefore, it sounds as if he should have a fit for one of your minors. Normally you would rebid a six-card suit before introducing a four-card one, but if you do that here, the auction may get too high for you to introduce your club suit later with any degree of safety. Bid two clubs.

Q.6 - As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ 873 ♥ J108 ♦ 72 ♠ KQ954.
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Dble. Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A. - Bid three no trump. Partner has shown a hand of 19-20 points and you have a good five-card suit, useful fillers in hearts and 6 HCP. This contract does not come with a guarantee, but you should have a shot if partner has any sort of club holding.

Launch enables Rockwell to say 'I told you so'

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Writer

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — For two years, the developers of America's space shuttle were the target of criticism and ridicule.

But in the aftermath of Sunday's successful launch, Rockwell International officials were able to say of their product, "I told you so."

"This space craft really deserved it (a successful launch). The program has taken a beating for so long but it's a space craft that tested out nearly perfectly" said Dick Barton, public relations officer of Rockwell Space Operations.

The chorus from the cockpit was music to a PR man's ears:

The shuttle, said pilot Robert Crippen, "worked as advertised.... I think we got something that's really going to mean something to the country and the world."

"The vehicle is performing just like a champ," astronaut John Young said 9½ hours after lift-off. "It was as smooth as it possibly could go... better than anyone expected on the first flight."

And from Mission Control, flight director Neil Hutchinson called the Columbia "a super vehicle...a super piece of machinery up there."

Said Barton: "Most of the negative comment about the program was undeserved. This is a test program but the shuttle responded better than most test programs."

After watching the launch from the Kennedy Space Center, Barton recalled that he was forced many times in the past several years to defend Rockwell's project, which critics say came in nearly two years behind schedule, was over budget and with problems with its protective tiles.

And the shuttle has not yet passed what many consider to be its most rigorous test: re-entry and landing.

Many of the Rockwell employees at Kennedy Center and the company's assembly facility at Palmdale were stung by the criticism, Barton said, but they never lost confidence.

This week, signs reading "Shuttle Fever — Catch It" were put up around the Palmdale facility.

Rockwell was selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1972 as the contractor for the development of the space shuttle after testing of the prototype Enterprise. The Columbia, now in orbit, was assembled at the Palmdale facility near here and transported to the Kennedy Space Center in March 1979.

Still another shuttle is scheduled to undergo final assembly this summer and officials have contracted for two more such space vehicles to be built after that.

Space buff, 13, celebrates birthday at 'first real launch'

By PAT LEISNER
Associated Press Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Niall O'Malley builds spaceships, publishes a space journal, and lectures on space. So, for his 13th birthday — what else? — the curly-haired, freckle-faced New Yorker got a trip to see his first real launch.

His parents, both educators, sent the young space whiz to Florida to see Sunday's lift-off of the shuttle Columbia.

"I just kept praying it wouldn't fail," said Niall. "What a beautiful sight. It was all I expected, but a lot more smoke and cracking thunder. I got my camera and kept snapping pictures. I got 20 shots."

If those pictures turn out, he'll use them in his school lecture program at The Little Red School House in Manhattan and in his mimeographed four-page journal, "Space Report."

Niall wasn't always a space buff. He had dyslexia, a reading problem, that once threatened his school work when his family lived in Red Hook in upstate New York.

During a second-grade science class Niall spotted a picture of the Saturn rocket, an awesome booster 360-feet tall that first put man on the moon when Niall was 1-year-old.

"I kept turning back to that page, looking at it. I can't tell you why. It just intrigued me. I began to wonder about weightlessness. What it was like to fly like a bird."

His mother, Elizabeth, a teacher, and his stepfather, Dill Lammers, a vice president at New York University, saw the interest and encouraged it.

"He had a good mind, but was diagnosed a non-reader. His mother would have done anything to help motivate him," said Nanneen Rebori, Niall's grandmother from Sanibel, Fla.

Then 8, Niall began subscribing to science magazines and writing to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. As his curiosity waxed, he built 15 model rockets, from a two-inch plastic one that streaked 2,000 feet to a 4½-foot model that flew 800 feet.

Gonorrhea may not show symptoms

Dear Dr. Solomon: At my last regularly scheduled physical examination, I was shocked to learn that I have gonorrhea. Is it possible to contract the disease from a woman that has absolutely no symptoms? Also, can a man have gonorrhea and yet have no symptoms? — Mr. D.B.

Dear Mr. B.: The answer to your questions are "yes" and "yes." Both men and women with gonorrhea may either have symptoms or not have symptoms. The sexes are equal in this respect.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have just been diagnosed as having gout, and my doctor has prescribed medication. Assuming that the condition is controlled, is there any reason I would not live as long as if I did not have the disease? — Abe

Dear Abe: A study by Dr. Ts'ai-fan Yu, of Mount Sinai School of Medicine, New York, and Dr. John H. Talbott, of the University of Miami School of Medicine, indicates that patients with primary gout live as long as men who do not have the condition. Among both groups, coronary heart disease was the leading cause of death.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My friend is taking a drug she says was prescribed by her physician for acne. It is called vitamin A acid. I have a mild acne condition and don't want to start taking medicine for it. Could I achieve the same results as my friend by taking a vitamin A supplement? — Lee

Dear Lee: In one word, "No!" Although vitamin A is readily attainable in drugstores and health food stores, self-treatment with large amounts is asking for trouble. Some very serious side effects, including damage to the liver, are real possibilities.

Researchers at the National Cancer Institute have tried a synthetic drug which is related to vitamin A for the treatment of acne. Although their results were dramatic, there were numerous side effects. Dosing yourself with large amounts of vitamin A will only prove to you that there are worse things than acne.

Dear Dr. Solomon: The first time I ever became aware of the word "amblyopia" was when I read it in a comic strip; the second time was when a doctor diagnosed the condition in my grandson. I would like to know whether this will leave him with any impaired vision. — Mrs. A.Y.

Dear Mrs. Y.: If amblyopia (a condition characterized by dimness of vision without any apparent change in the structure of the eye) is detected and treated when the child is between 6 and 8 years of age, it should not result in permanently impaired vision. To avoid the possibility of a vision deficit from this cause, Dr. Robert A. Sargent, chairman of ophthalmology at the Children's Hospital in Denver, suggests routine vision screening for amblyopia as soon as a child is responsive to testing, usually around 4 years of age.

Treatment for amblyopia involves putting a patch on the good eye to force the use of the other one. The most common cause of the condition is strabismus (eye movement problems).

Strobe Exploration re-opens Strawn production in Fisher

Strobe Exploration Inc. of Abilene has completed the No. A-5 Fields to re-open the Strawn production in the Raven Creek field of Fisher County.

Producing from perforations made from 5,016 to 5,020 feet, the well flowed 125 barrels of 48 gravity oil in 24 hours through a 10/64 inch choke

Flowing tubing pressure was 400 pounds per square inch with a gas oil ratio of 768-1.

Total depth is 5,040 feet with a 4 1/2 inch casing set on bottom.

Wellsite is 10 miles southeast of Longworth in section 1, block K, T&P survey and 1 3/8 miles northeast of the original discovery, Humble Oil

Amarillo firm stakes project

Tuthill & Barbee of Amarillo has filed an application to drill a 7,400-foot wildcat project in southern Mitchell County, 23 miles south of Colorado City and one mile southwest to a 7,204-foot Mississippi production in the Jameson, Northwest field.

Designated the No. 1-10 Ellwood, location is 660 feet from the northwest line and 660 feet from the northeast line of section 10, block 15, SPRR survey, and about four miles west of the Dixon field, which produces oil from the Ellenburger, Odom, Mississippian and Strawn zones.

Borden County wildcat planned

Houston Oil and Minerals Corp. of Midland has staked an 8,600-foot wildcat in Borden County, 16 miles northeast of the town of Gail.

Designated the No. 1 Beaver, the drillsite is 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of section 369, block 97, of the H&TC survey and is 1/2-mile southwest of a 8,409-foot wildcat failure and one mile east-northeast of a 7,798-foot Strawn "B" production in the Lucy, Northeast field.

Wildcats planned for District 8-A

Woods Petroleum Corporation, Oklahoma has announced plans to drill the No. 1-4 Nichols in Cochran County as a 5,500 foot wildcat.

Location is 1,980 feet from the section and 4,547 feet from the west of section 4, Block 1, PSL Survey and the site lies 1/4 mile east of Bledsoe.

Ground level elevation is 3,948 feet.

Another Cochran County wildcat will be drilled by woods as the No. 2-4 Nichols and will be located 660 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east of section 4, block Y PSL Survey, 1/4 mile east of Bledsoe.

Total depth of the explorer is projected to be 5,500 feet.

GARZA COUNTY:

Garza County has been sited by Texas University Petroleum Co. has the location for the No. 1 Post-Montand Refining Co.'s No. 1-B Lila Touchstone, completed in 1955 for a daily flow of 171 barrels of oil from perforations made from 4,962 to 4,982 feet.

Also in Fisher County, six miles south of Longworth, Address Petroleum Inc. and LaJet, Inc. of Houston has staked a location for a 4,500-foot new field wildcat.

The No. 1 J. Wylie Harvey Estate is located 2,310 feet from the south line and 1,650 feet from the east line of section 12, block 21, T&P survey, and 6,300 feet from south of a 6,208-foot Ellenburger production in Omar field.

Chaves County projects sited

Read & Stevens Inc. of Roswell has announced plans to drill a 6,700-foot Montoya wildcat in Chaves County, New Mexico.

The new test is the No. 2 North Haystack Federal, located 15 miles northwest of the town of Boaz, is 1,980 feet from the south and west lines of section 26-55-26e and one location south of the same firm's No. 1 North Haystack Federal, an active wildcat, currently bottomed at 6,660 feet ad testing "tight".

It is also located 1 1/2 miles northeast of a 6,056-foot wildcat failure and one mile northwest of a Cisco gas production in the Haystack field.

Also in Chaves County, 17 miles west of Elkins, Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia will drill a 4,500-foot wildcat.

Designated the No. 1 Beard "QQ" Federal Communized, location is 660 feet from the south and west lines of section 18-7s-26e and two miles northeast of an unnamed Abo gas discovery.

gomery wildcat.

The explorer is located 660 feet from the north line and 1,980 feet from the east line of section 4, block 4, K-Aycock Suvey, and is 10 miles northeast of Post, Texas.

Total depth of the wildcat is projected to be 3,600 feet with ground level elevation reported at 2,406 feet.

KING COUNTY:

A wildcat project has been announced in King County by Energy Reserves.

The No. 1 R. B. Masterson explorer will be drilled to a projected total depth of 5,900 feet.

Location of the site is 957 feet from the south and 742 feet from the east line of section 2, block 2, T&NO Survey.

The explorer is 11 miles southwest of Truscott.

Projects, field tests filed in District 8

Wildcats were announced in the Texas Railroad Commission District 8.

CRANE WILDCAT:

The Costa Resources Inc. of Dallas has contracted to drill a 3,400 foot wildcat four miles northeast of Imperial in the Tucker field.

The No. 5 Davis is located 2,123 feet from the southeast line and 467 feet from the southwest line of section 23, block 3 of the H&TC RR Co. survey.

It is situated 2,000 feet southeast of No. 1 A.H. Meadows, a completed oil production and 3,500 feet south of No. 2 Tucker drilled by Texas American Syndicate, drilled to the total depth of 6,145 feet and abandoned on March 8, 1946. It is also 4,700 feet south of No. 1

Tucker drilled by the same company, a depleted gas production which is now plugged-back.

GLASSCOCK WILDCAT:

The Lario Oil & Gas Co. of Odessa plans to drill a new field 11,200-foot wildcat 22 miles east of Midland.

This was originally scheduled to be drilled to the total depth of 9,400 feet but the depth has been amended.

The No. 1 Cooper is located 1,980 feet from the south and west lines of section 34, block 35 of the T&P RR Co. survey.

PECOS WILDCAT:

The Florida Exploration Co. of Midland will drill a 3,100-foot wildcat seven miles southeast of Fort Stockton.

The No. 1 Crawford 21 is located 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines of section 21, block 131 of the T&STL RR Co. survey.

It is situated 6,500 feet south of No. 1 Griffin Price, drilled to the total depth of 2,875 feet and abandoned location; 6,700 feet southeast of No. 1 D.G. Griffin, S/R drilled to the total depth of 16,196 feet and abandoned on August 2, 1956.

It is also 7,400 feet southeast of No. 1 Blalock, a completed gas production, drilled by S.E. Glenn et al to 3,000 feet on June 1, 1971 and 5,900 feet southeast of No. 2 Blalock, a drilled and abandoned location at the total depth of 2,900 feet.

WARD WILDCATS:

The Energy Reserves Group, Inc. of Midland has staked a 19,600-foot wildcat location eight miles southeast of Mentone.

The No. 1 East Vermejo "A" is located 467 feet from the northwest and 1,080 feet from the southwest lines of section 38, block 1 of W&NW RR Co. survey.

It is 2,700 feet east of a completed oil production, 2,000 feet southeast of a plugged and abandoned location drilled to 4,867 feet and 3,400 feet northwest of a plugged and abandoned location drilled to the total depth of 4,866 feet.

The HNG Oil Co. of Midland will drill 5,900-foot wildcat three miles west of Poyte.

The No. 1A University 17-21 is located 660 feet from the northwest and 2,073 feet from the southwest lines of section 21, block 17 of the University Lands Survey.

This will be a replacement for well No. 1 which was plugged and abandoned with junk (drill collars) in the hole on April 3, 1981.

The company decided that it would be cheaper to drill another well because of the drilling problems involved in the first well.

It is situated 3,200 feet northwest of No. 1 University 17-21, a depleted gas production drilled to the total depth of 18,835 feet and abandoned on April 12, 1977.

MITCHELL COUNTY:

Max Walden Production of Post has filed applications to drill three field tests in the Dockney (Clear Fork) field 2 1/2 miles southwest of Westbrook in Mitchell County.

The projects are located in section 9, block 28 of the T-1-S, T&P survey, in the vicinity of the dry and abandoned 8,045-foot No. 2 Barber (Dillingham) abandoned April 3, 1950.

The No. 12 Barber "C" is located 2,228.44 feet from the south line and 2,313 feet from the west line and is 1,900 feet north-northwest of the No. 2 Barber (Dillingham).

The No. 13 Barber "C", located 2,000 feet northwest of the Barber (Dillingham), is 2,228.42 feet from the south line and 1,263 feet from the west line.

The No. 14 Barber "C", located 2,228.42 feet from the south line and 330 feet from the west line, is 2,500 feet northwest of the No. 2 Barber (Dillingham).

Church gets confidence votes; challenges the coal industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Mine Workers President Sam Church, armed with a vote of confidence from the union's top governing council, is challenging the soft-coal industry to resume contract talks as the coal strike enters its 15th day.

The union's 21-member International Executive Board approved unanimously on Thursday a resolution backing the bargaining efforts of Church and the UMW's negotiating teams and issued a companion resolution expressing general support for moves Church has taken to protect the financial integrity of the union during the strike.

The actions gave new negotiating leverage to the embattled Church, who squared off in a fistfight with the union's safety director earlier in the week and had been criticized by miners who rejected a tentative contract settlement March 31.

The union's 39-member bargaining council was meeting here today to discuss strategy for reviving talks with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, bargaining agent for some 130 coal companies.

Meanwhile, Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan said the administration was "disappointed that miners rejected the (contract) package," but he reiterated that the government has no plans to intervene in the stalemate talks.

In the coalfields, thousands of striking miners received their last paychecks and pickets were thrown up around non-union operations in West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia.

State welfare officials in West Virginia and Illinois said they had set up temporary field offices in preparation for next week's anticipated rush of food-stamp applications from the strikers. Some 30,000 applications are expected in West Virginia, while Illinois officials say they are expecting 12,000.

Following the executive board meeting here, Church said, "I call upon the industry's negotiators to return to the table." "I said I thought that the tentative contract we had worked out with the industry was a good one," he said. "That was my honest opinion. But the only opinion in this union that really matters is that of the membership."

The tentative three-year accord, which included a 36 percent increase in wages and benefits, was rejected by roughly a 2-to-1 margin by rank-and-file miners.

Shortly afterward, B.R. Brown, the chief industry negotiator, accused miners of following the advice of disidents and said the rejection placed in question the UMW's collective bargaining ability. Brown said the industry had no plans to resume contract talks.

Church vowed, however, that "I and the members of the union's negotiating team have continually bargained in good faith and we will continue to do so."

The vote of confidence followed by two days a widely publicized fistfight at union headquarters between Church and Everett Acord, the union's safety director.

Acord was among 135 UMW staff personnel laid off, effective April 15, by Church's top aides while the union president was in seclusion.

Acord had chastised Church for permitting such actions to be taken by unelected aides. Church himself is unelected, having been appointed by the UMW in December 1979 to succeed the ailing Arnold Miller.

Donovan said he had not talked with Church or Brown, but he said the administration hopes negotiators will return soon to the bargaining table.

"We applaud any effort by labor and management to get back to the bargaining table. ... It's their prime responsibility," he said.

Senators give the administration's energy proposal the cold shoulder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Senate Aging Committee are giving the cold shoulder to the Reagan administration's plan to cut federal energy assistance and weatherization programs for the elderly, poor and handicapped.

"In this instance, to subject these programs to across-the-board cuts is to victimize elderly Americans by contributing to their fears, anxieties, uncertainties and perhaps to the destitution of health and spirit," said Sen. William S. Cohen, R-Maine.

Cohen said the cost of heating oil in his state has risen in the last three months from $1 a gallon to $1.40 a gallon.

Budget director David A. Stockman argued, however, that the $1.3 billion included in the president's budget for energy assistance will be adequate because it won't be siphoned off by federal bureaucracy.

He said the federal money will go directly to states to meet the energy needs of low-income and older people.

"I think $1.3 million is not being niggardly," he said. "It will do the job if the states and localities target it to low-income and the elderly."

Amoco completes Eddy extension

Amoco Production Co. of Hobbs has announced the completion of the No. 1 Greenwood Pre-Grayburg Unit Federal "F" Communized, formerly the No. 15 Greenwood Pre-Grayburg Unit as a 1/2 mile northeast extension to the Shugart (Pennsylvanian) gas field of Eddy County.

The well flowed 2,400,000 cubic feet of gas per day through a 22/64 inch choke from perforations made from 11,396 to 11,549 feet. The flowing tubing pressure was listed as 800 pounds per square inch.

Wellsite is 11 miles southeast of Loco Hills in section 26-18s-31e.

Nolan County reports discovery well, project

W.H. Price of Granbury has completed the No. 4 Elmer Jordan "C" as a Flippen oldiscovery from perforations made from 3,676 to 3,682 feet in Nolan County.

On the 24-hour potential test, the well pumped 32 barrels of 42 gravity oil and 72 barrels of water with a gas oil ratio of 256-1.

Total depth is 4,025 feet with a 4-1/2 inch casing set at 4,003 feet.

The well is three miles northwest of the town of Blackwell in section 34, block 1-A of the H&TC survey A-591 and 6,700 feet southeast of a 3,562-foot Saddle Creek oil production in the Group, South field.

Sun Oil Co. of Abilene has staked a location for a 7,000-foot new field wildcat in Nolan County, seven miles south of Sweetwater and two miles northeast of a 6,180-foot Strawn oil production in Harp field.

The wildcat is the No. 1 W.L. Boothe located 710 feet from the south line and 880 feet from the east line of section 96, block 22, T&P survey.

The discovery well for the Harp field was the Textel Petroleum Corporation's No. 1 R.H. Gibson, completed in 1979 for a daily flow of 118 barrels of oil from Strawn perforations made from 6,176 to 6,183 feet.

Loving test sited

American Quasar Petroleum Co. of Midland has announced a location for a 19,000-foot new field wildcat in Loving County, 18 miles east-northeast of Mentone and 2 1/2 miles south of a 15,475-foot Pennsylvanian gas and a 20,638-foot Ellenburger gas production in Everts field.

The deep test is the No. 1 Vest, located 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of section 34, block 28, of the PSL survey.

Tom Watson, winner of the 45th Masters Golf Tournament at Augusta, Ga., keeps his eye on the ball as he hits from the sand on number two hole

Sunday. Watson's ability to get out of trouble helped him win his second green jacket by two strokes over Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller.

Tom Watson is master of golf world

By The Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The Sunday spring outing in the splendor of Augusta belonged to Tom Watson, champion of the Masters golf tournament.

The green jacket fit perfectly, unlike 1977 when it was baggy. The color matched nicely, with his green pinstriped shirt and solid green pants.

And the victory was quite fitting, too. It matched his position in golf. At the top, alone.

The Masters was won by Watson. It was lost by Jack Nicklaus. It was won by the best player in golf today, lost by the best player the game has ever known.

And the strains of Watson's winning song at the expense of Nicklaus seemed oh, so similar to the requiem for Arnold Palmer, played by Nicklaus almost two decades ago.

"It feels great to beat the top player in the game for the last 20 years," said Watson. "I'd be lying to you if I said it didn't. Of course, it does."

Watson assaulted Nicklaus' kingly position twice in 1977 — in the Masters, and again in the British Open.

In the Masters that year, Nicklaus and Watson were tied for the lead after 17 holes in the final round. Nicklaus was playing in front of Watson, and stood poised on the 18th for his second shot.

Suddenly, a thunderous roar erupted from the 17th green. It meant only one thing. Watson had birdied the hole.

Nicklaus promptly hit his shot in the bunker, took a bogey on the final hole and lost the tournament by two strokes.

The British Open finale was even more dramatic. Watson and Nicklaus were paired the final two rounds. Each fired 65s in the third round, setting the stage for one of the finest golfing moments in history.

Nicklaus shot a 66, a tournament record, and still lost. Watson shot a 65.

The dawning of the Tom Watson era had arrived. The passing of the Jack Nicklaus era had begun, slowly perhaps, but nevertheless passing.

The changing of the guard had occurred.

Nicklaus was not to win another major tournament for two years, until 1980 when he silenced whispers of erosion of his stature with victory at the U.S. Open and the PGA.

Nicklaus is 41 now. He stands between Palmer at 51 and Watson at 31. Their ages span three decades.

Palmer failed to make the cut in the 45th Masters at Augusta National Golf Club, where tradition and dogwoods and azaleas and stately pines abound.

Nicklaus soared to a 4-stroke lead with a 65 in the second round, then proceeded to blow it with a 75 on Saturday.

He shot even par 72 on Sunday, a round he was not particularly proud of.

"I hurt myself the same way today that I did yesterday," he said. He bogeyed No. 7 and No. 9 both days.

Watson, nervous yet cool, under pressure that never intensified, fired a one-under 71.

The confrontation everyone expected never really developed.

Nicklaus dropped three back on one point, then rallied but never threatened the slight, sandy-haired Watson.

"Indescribably delicious," said

Watson. "It's better the second time around."

Why? "I was fighting myself," said Watson, who was a non-winner this year.

In 1977, he had been a two-time winner prior to the Masters.

Watson said he never put two bad shots together in the final round. "No body made a real solid move on me. I kept up the pressure on the rest of the field," he said.

Pressure that no one could bear, even the best player the game has ever known.

Watson, unlike Nicklaus, dwells on immediate goals. Nicklaus gears his thoughts primarily on the major tournaments.

'Brown Bomber' dies of heart attack at age 66

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, the "Brown Bomber" who dealt a blow to Hitler's racial doctrines with his victory over a German prizefighter and helped open the sport to other blacks, has died at the age of 66.

"Joe was a boxing genius," Max Schmeling of West Germany, defeated by the Alabama-born fighter in a 1938 rematch, said after Louis died Sunday morning at Desert Springs Hospital here.

Louis' wife Martha, and other relatives were at his side. Not long before the attack, Louis had attended Saturday night's World Boxing Council heavyweight title fight between champion Larry Holmes and Trevor Berbick at Caesar's Palace.

In 71 professional fights over 17 years, Louis won 68 and lost just three. Of his wins, 54 were knockouts, 12 coming in the first round.

He held the heavyweight crown for 12 years and fought off 25 challenges after taking the title — a record for successful defenses.

A 6-foot-1½, 200-pounder, Louis impressively, relentlessly and gracefully stalked his opponents. When he struck, it was with a quick, jolting jab and rapid, powerful combinations. And when the opponent went down, Louis would move indifferently to a neutral corner and wait for the referee to end it.

Louis was born Joseph Louis Barrow in Lafayette, Ala., on May 13,

O'Grady wins title

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The fighting O'Grady has claimed the World Boxing Association lightweight title for Oklahoma and Ireland.

Sean O'Grady, 22, polite, cheerful and as all-American as his native Oklahoma, was none of those in his brutal 15-round triumph over Hilmer Kenty for the WBA crown Sunday.

O'Grady, a sophomore pre-med student at Central State University, sports a shamrock on his green trunks and even green bubble gum in his mouth.

Sean's father, Pat O'Grady, a character seemingly off the streets of Dublin with 123 fights of his own, worked Sean's corner and later thanked the luck of the Irish and the skill of his son for the victory.

Important games on tap in 5-5A baseball race

By MIKE CRUVER Sports Writer

The first half of the District 5-5A baseball race comes to a close Tuesday afternoon with three very important games on tap.

Ablene will be the site of the most important clash. Ablene Cooper, leading the loop with a 5-1 mark, plays Abilene High, 4-2 in district and tied with Big Spring and Midland Lee for second. An Eagle win plus victories by Big Spring over San Angelo (1-6) and Lee over Midland High (3-3) would leave the first-half race in a four way tie for first. In the only loop game not carrying some importance to the first-half race is Odessa High (2-4) playing Odessa Permian (1-5).

The Rebels go into their game with Midland High on the Memorial Stadium field at 4 p.m. buoyed by the confidence of a 10-0 win over Abilene High Saturday. MHS will be trying to recover from a disappointing 14-12 loss to Cooper in the Key City.

When the Rebels and Bulldogs get together at 4 p.m. Tuesday, fans can expect to see some fireworks. Both teams are coming hot. Midland High is hitting .358 (57-for-159) as a team while the Rebels carry a .385 mark into the contest.

Jerry Zachery leads MHS with an astronomical .733 (11-for-15), one home run and six RBI. Michael Feldt adds hitting support with his .556 average.

Zachery also leads the Purple Pack in RBI with six while Frank Garramone has netted five. MHS has cracked out four home runs in district play, one each by Feldt, Zachery, Garramone, and Tim Davis.

Ron Smedley leads the Rebel in hitting, .579, RBI, 9, and shares the lead in home runs, 1, with Randy Velarde, Alan Koonce, Kevin Bradshaw and Barry Blackwell.

Blackwell and Koonce are second on the team in RBI with seven each.

Velarde's .526 is the second best mark on the club.

Defensively, the Rebels have the edge. In six loop contests, Lee has committed eight errors. On the other side of the field, MHS has bobbled the ball away 27 times in six outings. Of course, in their last game, the Bulldogs only had one error.

Pitching is said to be 75 percent of baseball. If this is true, Lee should have a slight edge on the mound. Koonce is to start for Ernie Johnson while MHS' coach Tim Whelan hasn't come to a decision. Whelan can pick from Mark Hewitt, Doug McLain, Joel Castaneda, or Michael Feldt.

The Rebels need the win and a loss by Cooper to tie for the district's first-half race. Midland High needs the victory as a springboard into the second half race.

Jackson, El Paso winners

By The Associated Press

In other Texas League action, Jackson defeated Tulsa, 6-3, and El Paso edged Amarillo, 6-5.

Al Pedrique singled home two runs to spark a six-run second inning as the Jackson Mets downed Tulsa 6-3 on Sunday.

Tulsa's Ron Gooch and Tracy Cowger each had homers for the Drillers.

Brent Gaff, 1-0, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Ted Davis, 0-1.

Al Manning's two-out solo homer in the sixth inning was the difference as the El Paso Diablos edged the Amarillo Gold Sox, 6-5.

Jerry Jenkins was the winning pitcher. The loser was Bryon Ballard.

Cubs play terrible baseball

Lose to SA, 34-8

By TED BATTLES Sports Editor

Thank goodness for Ross Jones. He didn't get his first hit for San Antonio until the ninth inning. Up until then, he was about the only one of four Midland pitchers and a catcher-turned-pitcher could get out as the Dodgers lambasted the Cubs, 34-8, that's right, 34-8, Sunday in a Texas League fiasco at Cubs Stadium.

But what's really bad is that it happened on a relatively mild West Texas night. When these things happen, they are usually blamed on the spring winds, but this was just terrible baseball. As Midland Manager

Roy Hartsfield put it later, "We couldn't have played any worse if we had tried."

AND AFTER 34 runs and 27 hits, 12 walks, three wildpitches and not a dirty Dodge uniform in sight, San Antonio outfielder Mark Bradley got hit in the back with a pitch and precipitating two bench-clearing incidents. The first after getting hit and the next when elusive second baseman Craig Kornfeld niftily sidestepped his flying tackle on a force play at second.

Catcher Mike Shepton, who finished up the final two innings on the mound, hit Bradley in the back with a pitch after a tattoo of five ninth inning singles. "I knew I had to come inside on someone if we were ever to get home. I wanted to get out of the game," Shepton admitted later, as he soaked his arm in ice. It was the first time Mike had pitched since high school, six years ago, when he was a pitcher-shortstop.

BELIEVE IT or not, Midland actually led 4-0 at one time and San Antonio tied it with four runs in the third without the aid of a hit when starter Carlos Gil issued three of his six walks (The Cubs walked 12 in all) and third baseman Carmello Martinez made two of his five errors.

But after that, San Antonio didn't need much help. Tom Beyers cracked out five hits in six trips, including two doubles and batted in seven runs. "No, I never even came close to a game like this one," Beyers said.

The Sax brothers, Steve and Dave, each hit three run homers in the 10 run seventh and Mike Zouras poled out a two-run job in the eighth. Steve Sax is now 11-for-16 in the series, with two homers, while Beyers is 10-for-14 and 10 RBI.

AND JUST think, Cubs fans get two more nights of this rowdy bunch. Tonight at 6 p.m. it will be lefthander Norman Churchill pitching for Midland while Steve Narsden will go for the Dodgers.

Actually, there were some bright spots for Midland Sunday. Kornfeld not only displayed fancy footwork around second, but collected four hits while Tom Grant lashed out two doubles and a single for four RBI, but somehow they were left in the carnage.

The Cubs played without centerfielder Mel Hall, who pulled a muscle sliding into second in Saturday night's 5-4 win.

Fitzsimmons surprised at playoff success of Kings

By The Associated Press

Even their coach, Cotton Fitzsimmons, is surprised at the success of the Kansas City Kings.

"I'm not going to kid you, I sure am surprised that we're leading 3-1," said Fitzsimmons, whose Kings held off the Phoenix Suns 102-95 Sunday to move within one victory of wrapping up their best-of-seven western conference semifinal series.

In the other west semifinal, the San Antonio Spurs edged the Houston Rockets 114-112 to even the series at two victories apiece. In the east, the Boston Celtics beat the Chicago Bulls 109-103 to complete a four-game sweep while the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 109-98 to tie their series at 2-2.

The Kings have taken the play away from the Pacific division champion Suns despite having lost one of the best starting backcourt tandems in the National Basketball Association, Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong, because of injury.

Their replacements, former reserve Ernie Grunfeld and converted forward Scott Wedman, combined for 48 points in Sunday's victory, the Kings' sixth in nine games against the Suns this season. And it was the fifth time in seven playoff games that Kansas City has held its opponent under the Kansas City defense, led by Grunfeld's three steals, capitalized on 15 Phoenix turnovers, while the Kings lost the ball just nine times.

Grunfeld led the Kings with 27 points, including a 12-foot jumper that gave Kansas City a 91-80 lead with 5:52 to play. Phoenix came as close as three in the final minutes, but two free throws apiece by Wedman and Sam Lacey locked up the victory.

Grunfeld contributed three steals for the Kings, who slowed the tempo of the game and committed only nine turnovers. Wedman and forward Reggie King scored 21 points apiece while Len Robinson led Phoenix with 23.

Spurs 114, Rockets 112

George Gervin scored 33 points to lead San Antonio over Houston in their Texas shootout. The Spurs led 100-87 but Houston rallied and nearly tied the game, but a driving layup attempt by the Rockets' Robert Reid fell off the rim at the buzzer. Reid, who led Houston with 33 points, claimed he was fouled on the play.

"I tried to stuff it and just got kicked out of my rhythm," said Reid. "When I put my foot down to go up I was tripped. It made me go up too early. I tried to lean forward and put it through but I couldn't do it."

James Silas and Mark Olberding added 21 points apiece for San Antonio, while Houston center Moses Malone, a dominant factor earlier in the series, was limited to 17 points and nine rebounds.

Celtics 109, Bulls 103

Larry Bird scored 35 points, including eight in the final 2:19, as Boston wrapped up its series.

Chicago grabbed a 103-102 lead with just under one minute remaining when Reggie Theus hit a pair of free throws, but Bird countered with a layup to put Boston ahead to stay. Cedric Maxwell followed with a free throw and Bird added four more from the foul line in the final seven seconds to finish Chicago off.

The sweep left Bulls center Artis Gilmore in awe of the way the Celtics go about their business.

"You can't beat the system," said Gilmore, "and they've got the best. They know when to pass and when to go to the boards. They knew when to run and when to get back on defense. And the most important thing is, they know what almost everybody is doing at all times."

David Greenwood led Chicago with 24 points and Gilmore added 19 and a game-high 15 rebounds.

Bucks 109, 76ers 98

Marques Johnson shot 16-for-25 and scored 35 points for the Bucks, who built an 18-point first-half lead and held off a rally that saw Philadelphia pull within one in the final period. But Johnson scored three baskets off offensive rebounds down the stretch and teamed with center Bob Lanier to dominate play inside. Lanier scored 11 of his 23 points in the fourth quarter and induced 76ers center Darryl Dawkins to foul out.

"I'll never fight again," he said. But two months later he was back in action with a string of victories. His career ended at 37, when Rocky Marciano, 28, knocked him out in the eighth round of a Oct. 26, 1951, bout.

Louis remained extremely popular, even after a stint in professional wrestling dictated by his tax troubles: "It's an honest living and it's better than stealing."

He may be best remembered for his victory over Schmeling, who defeated Louis in a stunning upset in 1936.

On June 22, 1938, in Yankee Stadium, Schmeling crashed to the floor three times before the rematch was stopped in the first round. The United States rejoiced at the victory, which was of international significance because of Hitler's racial doctrine of "Aryan supremacy."
