Heath Allen May, son of Larry and Kay May of Plainview and grandson of Mary Stephens of Lubbock and Edwin and Claudine May of Silverton, received his master of architecture degree, magna cum laude, during the fall commencement at Texas Tech University.

He is employed by WMW Architects, Inc. in Lubbock as an intern.

While a Tech student he was a maintenance crew member at the TTU Student Union where he designed and coordinated construction of office renovations and designed a commemorative plaque for the Masked Rider program.

From May 2003 to February 2004 he coordinated and drafted drawings for the Natural Sciences Research laboratory addition to TTU Museum, produced a 3-D model of Lubbock area public safety memorial, rendered presentation drawings for Gerald Long Office Building and designed memorial prints for the dedication ceremony.

He has packed tandem parachutes for Skydive San Marcos, done freelance portraits and graphic designs and website designs.

He was a member of the Golden Key National Honor Society, Gamma Beta Phi National Honor Society and Tau Sigma Delta.

(NAPSA)-Before coins or paper bills, people used gold nuggets, cattle and arrowheads in exchange for goods or services. A new online exhibit depicts the various forms of money-and shows how it has evolved over time.

"The Story of Money" features hundreds of images-rare artifacts, early coins, ornately detailed currency notes-from the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta's educational collection. The exhibit presents many interesting historical items and facts:

- Throughout time, money has come in all shapes and sizes, including gold shaped like a dog, once used by the Incas.

- Silver certificates from 1896 are widely considered the most beautiful U.S. paper money ever issued.

Photographic
History on Display
At Texas Tech

by Casey Bomar
(Daughter of Wylie Bomar III)

Hitchhiking to New York, living in the mountains of Mexico with the Yarahumara Indians and following a group of Mexican rodeo performers on their circuits from Mexico to Los Angeles would seem like strange career ventures to some, but not for Tony Gleaton.

For Texas Tech's visiting professor of photography, these events are focal points along his path as a photographer.

These photographs and more will be excited in the Student Union Red Raider Lounge until Feb. 29. This compilation of photographs is a portion of his "Africa's Legacy in Mexico" exhibition originally toured by the Smithsonian Institution.

After shooting fashion photography in New York, Gleaton began his journey as a traveling photographer by capturing images of Hispanic, black, Native American and European cowboys. Gleaton said he does not focus his photography on specific questions of race.

"My work involves race, but it's not about race," he said. "It's a subtle difference. But my work tried to relate to a greater society."

Gleaton's work has taken him from the Artic Circle to the Rio de la Plata in Argentina. Having covered more than 50,000 miles in his travels and encountering many different cultures, Gleaton learned to adapt with his subjects.

He immerses himself in the daily lives of the people he photographs to gain their trust and participation.

Mike Gunn, assistant director for the Center for Campus Life, said Gleaton's photographs are very powerful and revealing.

"We can relate to and are impacted by his photographs because, although Tony takes his pictures in primarily poor places, the beauty and passion of the people photographed really shine through," Gunn said. Gleaton's photographs have been displayed by the Smithsonian Institution, the Denver Public Library, the

Couple Exchanges Vows in Colombia

Ms. Luz Helena Para-Castro became the bride of Jamie Frizzell in a civil ceremony at 1:00 p.m. on December 27, in Bogota, Colombia. The wedding was held in an outdoor ceremony at the Hacienda Marquez.

Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County, and by various other museums and universities.

After acquiring a teaching position as visiting professor of photography at Tech, Gleaton did not believe he would stay in Lubbock for any amount of time. However, the unique beauty of the land and people of West Texas soon convinced him to consider staying longer, Gleaton said.

"Beauty is not obvious down here. In a way, Lubbock changed me," Gleaton said. "This area of Texas was the last part to be settled. The sons and daughters of the pioneers who first set foot in this area still live here."

Gunn said Gleaton's photographs show an integration of races and the different aspects of their culture.

Gleaton's photographs will also be available for viewing in the International Cultural Center throughout February.

Gleaton's photographic history is on display for the Tech community.

Learn from the mistakes of others; you can't live long enough to make them all yourself.

Eleanor Roosevelt

The bride is the daughter of Beatrice Para-Castro and the late Carlos Para. The groom is the son of Lynn Frizzell of Silverton and Kathy and Micky Woodard of Idalou. The groom is the grandson of J. L. and Faye Self and Margaret Frizzell, all of Silverton, and the late Snooks Frizzell.

The bride, escorted by her brother, Mauricio Para, was presented to the groom for the walk down the aisle. As they made their way down the aisle they carried a lighted candle that symbolized their new family. The bride paused and lighted a candle for the groom's family, held by his father. The groom then lighted a candle for the bride's family that was held by her brother.

Ring bearer was Juan Carmella Para, nephew of the bride. Flower girl was Loire Para, niece of the bride.

Vows were repeated beneath a stained glass domed tent with wreaths and bows decorating each corner. The bride wore a white full-length sheath dress with blue roses trimming the narrow shoulders. Her bouquet was made of fresh calla lilies with small floral accents of blue and yellow.

The ring bearer was attired in a pin stripe tuxedo which matched that worn by the groom. The flower girl wore a blue and white dress with a wreath of blue, yellow and white flowers in her hair.

Following the ceremony, which was completed in Spanish, the bride and groom poured water from a silver urn onto a small tree. The tree represented their lives together and the water was a symbol of the care that they would provide to the tree and their acknowledgement that, like the tree, their life together would need attention and care to flourish and survive. They concluded with a dream candle ceremony where they each took a single taper and lighted one joint candle. The joint candle was their dream and the lighting of that candle illustrated their individual commitment to that dream. Each of these symbolic gestures were explained in Spanish by the bride and then again in English by the groom. Music for the ceremony was provided by a three-piece band.

The new couple was toasted with champagne and then guests were seated for the reception meal. The wedding cake was served to guests as the dessert course. Following the meal the couple waltzed to the Blue Danube. Family and friends took turns dancing with the couple. As a tribute to Jamie's heritage, the Salsa and Merenque dancing followed. The highlight of the evening came when the Texas family introduced the Colombians to the Chicken Dance. The visitors were assured that this would soon be tradition at all Colombian weddings.

Following a wedding trip to Cartegena, the couple will make their home in Bogota. The couple plan to take a belated honeymoon to his home state in the future.

Mrs. Frizzell is an officer with a local bank and the couple own The Business English Center (an English school) where the groom is the manager and head professor.

Those attending from the States were Lynn Frizzell of Silverton; Micky, Kathy and Bethany Woodard of Idalou; Casey and Lori Frizzell of Austin, and Roy Beavers of North Carolina (originally from Quitaque).

A gift party was held for the couple on Monday, December 22. The party was hosted by friends of the bride who had introduced the couple. Lynn Frizzell made the trip down early to attend this party.

A perfect summer day is when the sun is shining, the breeze is blowing, the birds are singing, and the lawn mower is broken.

Organizations that sponsor the cards negotiate with pharmacies and pharmaceutical manufacturers to pass these savings on to the consumers. In some cases, the cards are offered directly by pharmacies or the manufacturers themselves. Still others are offered by companies called pharmacy benefit managers, such as AdvancePCS, which offers its cards for free. In addition to no enrollment fee, the AdvancePCS RxSavings Plan offers a safety feature that monitors the cardholder's drug usage and automatically alerts the pharmacist if it detects potentially harmful medication interactions.

Cotton Market weekly

A Service Provided by Plains Cotton Cooperative Association

A lack of fundamental news this week, coupled with fund liquidation, sent cotton futures tumbling to lows not seen in five months. However, a recovery occurred when cotton futures on the New York Cotton Exchange rallied Thursday following the export report.

USDA's weekly export report showed higher-than-anticipated export sales with China returning as a primary buyer. The department's report for the week ended Feb. 5 showed net export sales of U. S. cotton totaled 703,100 bales, a figure almost two and one-half times the previous week's and more than four times the prior four-week average. China was by far the largest buyer for the period with 363,200 bales while smaller quantities were sold to Turkey (75,700 bales) and Indonesia (40,600 bales).

"Today's export sales are a block-buster," one analyst said after reading USDA's export figures on Thursday. "China accounted for about half of the total sales while the rest of the world grabbed the other half," he explained.

Export shipments of 348,400 bales were nine percent higher than the prior week's volume and a 20 percent increase from the four-week average. China was the primary destination with deliveries of 209,900 bales. Turkey and Mexico rounded out the list of the top three destinations for the week as they accepted U. S. cotton shipments totaling 31,900 and 21,100 bales, respectively.

On the spot cotton scene, online sales by Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas producers in the five trading days ended Feb. 13 totaled 4,258 bales, up from the previous week's sales of 2,738 bales. Prices received by producers selling their cotton online ranged from 57.48 to 59.40 cents per pound versus the prior week's 55.82 to 60.87 cents per pound range.

In other news, sources said the latest USDA monthly supply/demand report for the 2003 crop was seen as neutral by most analysts in the cotton industry and did little to support futures prices. The department's report showed no change in U. S. cotton estimates in February, compared with the previous month. However, minor changes were made to world numbers.

USDA increased its estimate of world cotton production by 450,000 bales to 92.65 million bales. Estimated world consumption also rose.

Sara Kirchoffner

Sara Kirchoffner Is Practice Teaching In Oklahoma Schools

Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford has 104 students who are doing their practice teaching assignments during a 12-week period of the 2004 spring semester. Their assignments, which started Feb. 9, and continue through April 30, are a joint effort between the SWOSU School of Education and participating schools.

Among the SWOSU students is Sara Kirchoffner, a graduate of Silverton High School, who is teaching at Yukon Independence Middle School and Clinton Nance Elementary School.

What to do for colds and flu

• Children and adults with viral infections recover when the illness has run its course. Colds caused by viruses may last for two weeks or longer.

• Measures that can help a person with a cold or flu feel better:

- Increase fluid intake
- Use a cool mist vaporizer or saline nasal spray to relieve congestion
- Soothe throat with ice chips, sore throat spray or lozenges (for older children and adults)

• Viral infections may sometimes lead to bacterial infections. Patients should keep their doctor informed if their illness gets worse or lasts a long time.

Silverton ISD Reduced Employee Injuries

Silverton ISD, one of more than 454 participating schools, received the Diamond Award for savings to the district of $14,315. Mr. Wesley Slade, Executive Vice President of Claims Administrative Services, explained, "Taxpayers will be gratified to know the results of participating in the CAS safety program results in a reduction of injuries and claims costs."

Silverton ISD, represented by Mr. Bill Mayfield, interim Superintendent, was recognized by the West Texas Educational Insurance Association for success in implementing safety programs designed to prevent employee injuries in the workplace. The workers' compensation program has assisted Texas schools in avoiding over 13,533 employee injuries since 1991. Plus, districts have saved over $154 million dollars through lower cost to the schools.

Mr. Barry Jones, CEO/President of CAS, explained, "Our insurance programs were created to offer the safest working conditions and the lowest cost for Texas school districts, creating savings of tax dollars while providing safer work environments for employees. Thirteen years of success for this program is proof of the district's and CAS' commitment to providing Texas schools with the safest working environment for school employees and the lowest cost to the district."

At CAS, our number one priority is providing the safest possible workplace for district employees while keeping costs at a minimum."

Don Sauls, a company representative of CarQuest, was present at the Customer Appreciation Day held at Brown-McMurtry last week, and assisted with the cooking. Approximately 140 attended the special event.

Bits & Pieces of News

by Lataine Dillard

Visiting with Loretha Rhoderick last weekend were Billy and Patsy Rhoderick. They live in Lubbock, but originally are from Quitaque. They attended church with her and enjoyed the "Seasoned Adult" meal.

At the lunch also were Glenda McGavock Collins and her friend, Glen, from Amarillo. They come down quite often.

Wayne Stephens had surgery on the pinched nerve in his back, and is doing better than he has in a long time.

Hubert Brooks of Wellington is home and doing well after his by-pass surgery.

Lois Walker was back in church after having had surgery on her wrist.

I got to teach Glenda Couch's senior ladies Sunday. The lesson was on sexual purity which the whole church was studying. We learned that statistics for a family to be poor or not sometimes depended on three things: finish school first, not have a child before marriage and not marry before the age of 20. Stats for this family to not be poor were 8%. In cases where these three things were not done, the chances of being poor are 79%. Good advice. Wait, wait, wait! Proverbs says that sin was sometimes lots of fun and is sweet at first, but how at the end it is bitter.

Prayers and condolences go out to Toy Cogdell's family on the passing of her grandfather, Estle Haught, who lived at Tulia.

Sam Brown visited his family here over the weekend and played the offertory for FBC on Sunday morning. He also played for Lisa Cherry as she sang "In the Garden." "It was very nice," Lisa said, "as Sam was my voice teacher."

We saw Johnnie Burson at the grocery store in Tulia. It was 10:30 and he had already been to Amarillo and gotten back to shop for groceries.

Nothing slow about him!

We really miss Bill Boling at Senior Citizens Exercise Class. He is doing really great after having surgery on his broken femur. He always had something interesting to tell us. He used to work for the railroad. They also handled the western union where you could wire messages, money, etc. When one person got off the train coming from Fort Worth, he told Bill that they had gotten off with mom's keys and could he please wire them to her. Bill was quite surprised by that, and said no, he could not. "Why not," the customer asked, "you wire flowers!"

Most of the time we have most of these people at exercise. They are Fred and Wanda Strange, John and Maebelle Francis, Roy Mack and Lois Walker, Clifton and Joy Stodghill, Jerry Baker, Valeria Weaver, Shirley Reynolds, Bobbye Bean, Glenda Couch, Loretta Hardin, Theta Holt, LaNelle and Sylvia Hill, Christine King, Bill Boling, my sister-in-law, Doris Yates, and myself. We really miss any one of them when they are gone.

I purchased a big round brown dish made of pottery, 2 1/2 inches tall, about 10 inches wide and written on the bottom, "Brown Betty, ovenproof, USA." Can anyone tell me what it is used for?

An interesting fact about our wonderful state of Texas: El Paso is closer to California than Dallas and the King Ranch is larger than the state of Rhode Island.

To forgive is to set the prisoner free and then discover the prisoner was you.

An easy way to clean ceiling fans is to cover your hands with a pair of old socks, dip them in sudsy water and run your hands over the blade.

As our search committee drove to Spur recently, the folks I was traveling with were talking about trees. I was very interested to know that there is a tree named bois d'arc, pronounced "bodark." Bud Couch, Jimmy Burson and Rank Cogdell remembered going to the springs to swim and picnic at what is now Matador Ranch.

Don't be a grouch.

Our attitude and the way we treat others affects the people around us and also influences our own outlook on life. Being nasty or grouchy serves no purpose and will not make our day any better or our tasks any easier. Being a grouch is just being mean, and no one wants to be around a mean person. Someone that develops a positive attitude and a pleasant personality usually has a more enjoyable and contented life. We realize that someone's personality is normally developed and formed at an early age; however, being aware of our negative inclinations can help us to be better, more positive people. Being assertive is quite different from being mean and nasty. In the Bible, Jesus was assertive, but He was never nasty, mean or obnoxious. God loves His people, and everything that He does is because of His great love for all mankind. When we smile and show a gentler attitude, we reflect God's love and things just seem to go better.

As God's chosen people, holy and dearly loved clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience.
