NUMBER 30

We are thoroughly convinced that most everyone can tend to someone else's business better than they can their own.

Anyway, whether it be a commendable trait or not, we are certain that we fit in that category.

In our own experience we have been associated with the art of selling—candy, later coffee and still later advertising. In between those jobs we jerked sodas, worked as a call boy for the Santa Fe, as a laborer in the roundhouse and on the rip track, was a telegraph operator and station agent, and later a Linotype operator, and printer, and still later a Linotype machinist on dailies and, then the final mistake of publishing a weekly newspaper.

If you are confused, you can readily see why we are like we are!

What this all leads up to is that at no time in all these different trades and professions did we have any misgivings as to what the best way to run the business happened to be.

Several years ago we could go in a newspaper and after a little observation, tell the publisher how we could save him anywhere from ten per cent to 50 per cent on his production.

Now that we are involved up to our ears in every kind of crisis known to a businessman, we find we can't see the forest for the trees, so to speak.

If anyone needs help in any of the businesses mentioned, and can put out a paper, let us know and we'll swap ideas.

Remember the old adage—"What's the younger generation comin' to?"

Since we aren't THAT old we are wondering what has become of the Hayes office.

You know that is the guiding hand for movies, etc., to see that nothing "shady" transpires.

Recently we have seen several movies where the players seemingly went out of their way to curse. Television is loaded with some of our greatest stars using profanity. Why?

Realism? probably. Sunday night a world famous singer sang a song with a curse word.

As for "freedom of the press" the only ones who think they don't have freedom are authors of some of the filth magazines now being published so profusely—it is certainly not a newspaper like the Herald—for all newspapers and other news media have more freedom today than any of them have.

Publisher Roy Craig of Stamford and West Texas Utilities Vice President Bob Kennedy of Abilene were in the Herald for a short visit Tuesday. In reply to ways of making a good town better, Bob said he has always advocated a town must have a newspaper and a bank, after that a clean town with good streets and a tax structure not out of line with other towns of comparable size and prestige.

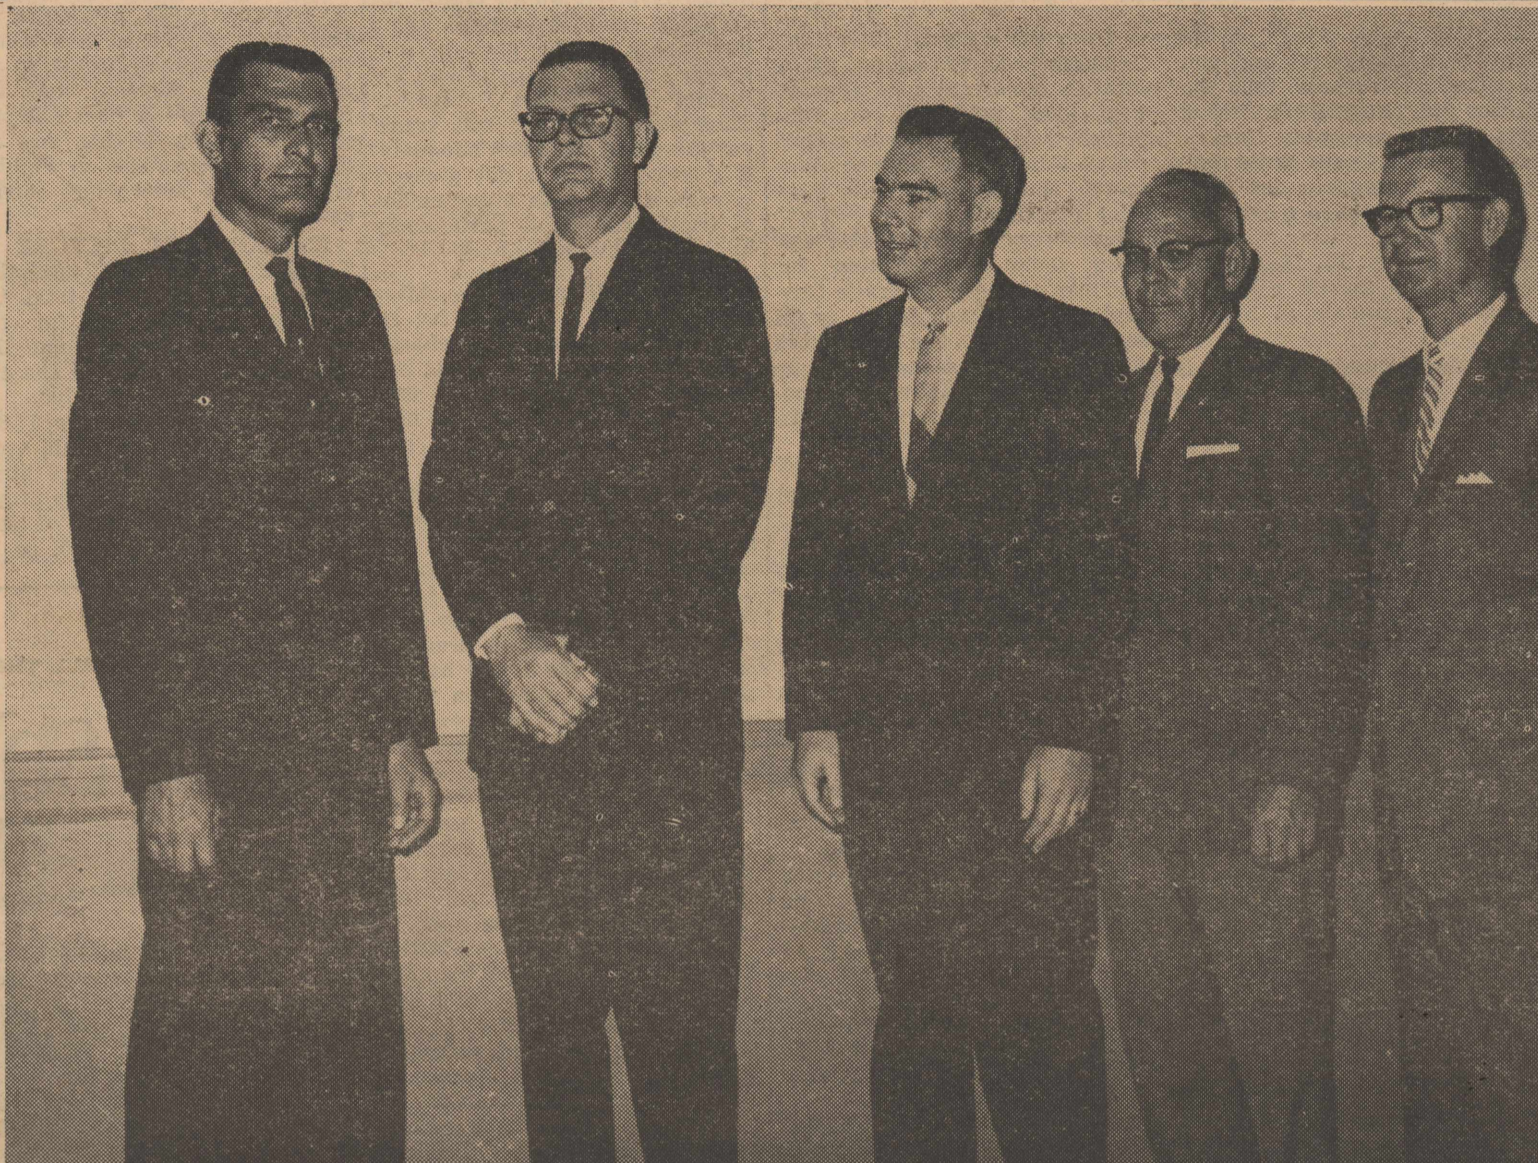

What helps a bank and a newspaper doesn't necessarily help a town... Bankers could hardly do worse than foreclose on some $300 an acre land for $125 an acre mortgage, just like our weekly newspaper would be hard up to print all the ads we could get out of Abilene and Wichita if they were 60 miles closer!

On the other side of the scale Bruce couldn't farm all this land, and in a few years there wouldn't be enough people left here to justify the cities advertising in our sheet.

Due to the wonderful inclement weather last week at this same time, the golf invitational was called off till this week. The program will be the same as last week.

Modernization Has Ended One Of The Country Folks Most Pleasant Pastimes

CHAD WILSON

Although the earth soaking rains were more than welcomed the past two weeks, this writer can well remember when it once rained cats and dogs, like last week, at least one man would leave for work with a lot of apprehension and anxiety for he knew he would be in for a long day and probably a hectic one, at that!

It the late 30's and early 40's we recall that after a rain we would hitch the team of horses and await the coming of the postman. The team was to pull the postman's Model A Ford from my uncle's house to the neighbor's one mile farther down the gumbo-sticky road.

The RFD mail has been one of the most important commodities ever devised for the farmer and his family, and it doesn't cost him one cent.

The RFD carrier also supplied us and his other patrons with happenings of San Angelo, the city, as well as world events and what our neighbors down the road were doing and planning for the next day or the week end. In fair weather, sometimes we'd have to run almost to his next stop, to get all the news. When we pulled him it was always a welcome event for country folks, because at least one of us could ride in the car and really get all the news while we made the mile to the next team and house.

R. P. (Rick) Barnard Jr., the RFD carrier for O'Brien told us things had changed as much on the route as it had in everything else. Rick travels over 51 miles of rural roads to deliver mail each day except Saturday and Sunday. He has 18 miles of paved roads and none are impassable during the rainy season or winter, he said. Rick began his mail carrying duties in 1949, but has been close to the post office all his life as two uncles were carriers, way before Rick was born.

Rick said that before the roads were paved and maintained, his people along the route would meet him with a tractor and pull him to the next mailbox or farmer who owned a machine and this would continue until he could navigate his old '40 car by itself.

Today, Rick can go to the office at 7 and be home before lunch, even in inclement weather, thanks to the 18 miles of paving and the rest of the road maintained and kept in "real good" condition.

Time was when the commissioners court of a county found it impossible to meet with out the RFD carriers there to argue and try to get them to keep the roads in passable condition, Rick said.

Today, even in inclement weather, as we've had the past two weeks, Rick claims that 30 minutes is all the time added for bad roads.

Chad Wilson, Knox City's RFD carrier, travels 91½ miles each day and 45 miles of his route is paved. He began work for the postoffice in 1934 and has been rural carrier since 1965 Wheat-Feed Grain Substitution Announced For Greater "Flexibility"

To permit greater flexibility in farm operations, substitution between wheat and feed grains will be authorized under the 1965 programs, O. E. Moore, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Knox Committee, said today. The program determination is announced early so that summer fallow operations for next year's crop may take place promptly.

Agricultural legislation provides for such a substitution in the 1964 and 1965 wheat and could not be put into effect for 1964 because of the lack of time.

The chairman explained that the substitution will apply on individual farms only if the farm has a feed grain base or oat-rye base, and a wheat allotment. The substitution provisions may be used by producers who meet at least the minimum diversion for both wheat and grain, marketing certificates will be issued in 1965 to program co-operators; however, the number of certificates allocated to a farm will not be increased because of the substitution of wheat for feed grains.

The certificates will be provided for the smaller of (1) the normal production of the wheat acreage allotment, multiplied by the domestic and export allocation percentages — which will be announced later; or (2) the wheat acreage planted for harvest multiplied by the normal yield.

The total wheat production of producers who carry out wheat program provisions will be eligible for price-support loans even though the wheat acreage is in excess of the wheat allotment because of the substitution provisions.

When feed grains are grown in place of wheat, the feed grain production of program co-operators will be eligible for price-support loans. If price-support payments are authorized as a part of the 1965 feed grain program, substitution of feed grains for wheat will not increase the payments available; the price-support payments will be limited to the normal production of the feed grain base less the diverted acreage (at least the minimum diversion under the feed grain program.)

1941. Chad starts the day at 6:30 a.m. and arrives home at lunch. After the heavy rain Friday morning he arrived back at the postoffice to check in at 1 p.m.

When asked for a comparison of today and yesterday's RFL run, Chad said that time was when a rain such as Friday's would stop him at the west bridge and patrons would have to wait on each other to deliver the mail on horseback.

He also recalls that years ago he and other carriers would take up more space in their cars with groceries, tobacco and medicine than they did with mail.

The postoffice department frowned on patrons writing the carriers notes, etc., but it was a practice to which all contributed and has since fallen by the wayside with modernization.

Chad has no trouble getting the mail through any more, for although there are still places where he can get stuck, "I know them well, now, and I just make a few more miles to get around them," he replied.

Today the RFD (Rural Free Delivery) carrier doesn't have as many patrons as he had at one time, his motto is still the same as always, and is much easier nowadays to keep: "The Mail Must Go Through."

We would like to express our appreciation to those who sent flowers, food and cards and came to see us in our hour of need.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — A study of the recent party primaries and runoff elections reveals that the number of Republican candidates on the upcoming General Election ballot, in the grass roots area, will strengthen the ever-growing trend toward a complete two-party state.

For example, 18 Democratic nominees for sheriff will face Republican opponents in November.

Also the Republican party is engaged in one county judge race (in Lubbock County); seven races for county attorney; two for county clerk; 12 for county tax assessor; two for superintendent of schools; and 78 for county commissioner.

GOP also has candidates for most top state posts and for more than half of the 150 House of Representative posts. In addition George Bush will carry the Republican banner in the U. S. Senate race against incumbent Democrat Ralph W. Yarborough.

WATER POLLUTION — Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr's opinion committee on the oil-field-waste disposal question may postpone its decision meeting indefinitely no what Superior Oil Company has filed suit against the Texas Water Pollution Control Board, asking for a declaratory judgment against the agency.

A decision by former Atty. Gen. Will Wilson ruled that the board has jurisdiction over disposal of oilfield wastes under the Water Pollution Control Act passed by the 1961 Legislature.

Railroad Commission asked Carr to issue a new opinion after a group of oil companies raised strong objections to the board's regulatory actions. Superior's filing of the suit may change the picture entirely on any new opinion.

CONNALLY HONORED — Governor John Connally returned from the national Governors Conference in Cleveland, Ohio, with an important new appointment. His selection as first chairman of the eDemocratic Governors Caucus was a unanimous one by the 50 Democratic state chief executives.

Reportedly, Connally also was given some consideration for chairman of the eDemocratic Gov. Conference, although he is in his first term. The governors will hold their first major caucus just before the National Democratic Convention in Atlantic City, N. J., during August.

NATIONAL GUARD CONCERNED — Texas National Guard Association expressed concern over reports that U. S. Department of Defense would stop logistical support to the so-called "reinforcing reserve."

These units, said NGAT, would provide a mobilization base on which the country would build its force in event of large-scale war.

Texas' 49th Armored and 36th Infantry divisions are both part of this "reinforcing reserve," as is the 90th Reserve Division.

MANUFACTURING PLANTS TOTALED — Texas had a total of 10,325 manufacturing plants which added $6,400,000,000 of value by processing raw materials into finished goods in 1962, according to the "Annual Survey of Manufacturers," recently released by the Bureau of Census.

Figures represent an addition of $589,000,000 capital expenditure for new plants during a single year. Some 500,000 plant workers earned a total of $2,700,000,000 for the year, while 350,000 production workers earned $1,600,000,000.

Food processing was the largest employer with 80,239 employees. Biggest investment was made by the chemical industry, with $167,000,000 in new capital expenditures. The petroleum refining industry spent $155,000,000 for plant construction and improvement.

RAILWAY AUTHORITY — U. S. Representative Henry B. Gonzales has asked support from Gov. Connally, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and House Speaker Byron Tunnell on his recently introduced bill which aims at creating a multi-state railway authority for Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Gonzales told them, "This is truly a states' rights program. States involved would jointly investigate and determine their own needs in the area of passenger rail transportation. He further stated that "In my judgment, passenger rail transportation has not been adequately developed and is not presently competitive with other modes of transportation — particularly in the Southwest."

FIRE INSURANCE — After July 1, it will be illegal for an insurance company to charge less than 6 per cent interest per year on delayed premium payments for fire insurance, a new State Board of Insurance ruling decrees.

Several years ago, the board issued this same rule, but withdrew it when an objection was made by a company which charged no interest at all for deferred payments. An attorney general has held on two previous occasions that the board has no authority to set minimum interest rates on delayed payments, but Attorney General Carr has advised the board to take a new tack.

However, litigation is entirely possible on the part of insurers who would prefer to deviate from the ruling by charging less than the new minimum.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED — Governor Connally named Tom Pegues of Mineola and Charles T. Wickersham of Orange to the board of directors of the Sabine River Authority. He reappointed Gus Orsborn Jr. of Emory. Appointments extend until July 6, 1969.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., has chosen Norman V. Suarez of Austin as legal counselor for the Texas Department of Public Safety. He succeeds the late Bill Kavanaugh of Round Rock.

TRIAL PUBLICITY EXPLORED — Representatives of Texas' four major associations met here with State Bar officials for the first of a series of discussions about news coverage of trials.

Texas Press Association, Texas Daily Newspaper Association, Texas Associated Press Managing Editors Association, and United Press International Managing Editors Association, participated.

Talbot Rain of Dallas served as chairman of the panel.

Future conferences on the subject will be conducted for radio and television broadcasters and law enforcement officials.

COURT CASE ARGUED — The State of Texas has asked the Texas Supreme Court to reconsider its decision that the Sunday closing law does not prevent customers buying any article of merchandise on Sunday if they sign emergency certificates.

EMPLOYMENT PICTURE — Texas Employment Commission reports that in April total unemployment declined for the third straight month some 39,300 jobholders increased the employment total to 3,590,700.

Farm employment rose 17,800 to reach 300,700 by mid-April as seasonal workers were hired to plant a variety of row crops. This brought the total of seasonal workers to 105,800, or 3-500 more than at this time in 1963.

SHORT SNORTS — The State Board of Education voted to extend to one year the State's six month program to combat school dropouts. . . . Twenty-one of the 2,500 elderly persons who have signed up for "Texas 65" health insurance coverage so far this month are over age 90. . . . Texas Good Roads Association announced David D. Ford of Austin is its new manager. He succeeds Callan Graham, who was TGRA executive vice president.

Clint C. Small Jr., of Austin is the newly-elected president-elect of the State Bar Association. Vice President will be W. O. Shafer of Odessa. . . . A voter in a party primary is ineligible to sign the application of an independent candidate for a notice for which nominations are made in the primary. Atty. Gen. Carr held in an opinion. . . . Measles cases are four times more numerous than last year, State Health Department reported.

Bob Shepard of Harlingen was elected governor of Boys State during activities here. Bill Storm of La Feria was chosen lieutenant governor and Bill Birdwell of Hearne attorney general.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

CHILDREN IN CAMP

It's a good idea to give written consent for necessary medical care if your child leaves home for a visit or a camping trip, or if you plan to be away for any length of time.

For example, a summer camp nurse may bring a boy into a hospital with an acute case of appendicitis. But the doctor may well hesitate to go ahead and operate without the parent's consent.

Is the doctor arbitrary, and is such permission just a legal technicality? No, he is well within his rights, though he may give first aid—but only for emergency treatment where a child's health or life may be at stake. He is likely to put off follow-up care until he can reach the child's parents. A relative or baby sitter generally cannot grant consent for a child's treatment.

Even an adult must request treatment and grant consent to medical care on his own before a doctor can give it to him. Children cannot do this.

By going to your doctor you show your willingness and consent to accept his treatment. Your consent is assumed also when you ask for a house call by the doctor, or if as a result of an accident you come to a hospital for emergency treatment. If you are unconscious, the doctor may well give you emergency care, yet later he should get your consent to further treatment.

Minors cannot consent to medical treatment, and except in dire emergencies their parents or guardians must give it for them.

The consent should not be broadly or loosely phrased, but should be as specific as circumstances permit.

The principal reason for having the consent in writing is to avoid later misunderstandings. It is a protection both to the patient and physician.

Rodeo Greats To Appear At Vernon Rodeo This Week

The greatest names in a profession so rugged a performer may rocket to stardom, only to sink to oblivion within a few years, will resound across the arena during four nightly performances of the 17th annual Santa Rosa Roundup-Rodeo at Vernon June 17-20. Rodeo fans who have poured into Vernon by the thousands from over a wide area over the years are accustomed to the thrilling action and the names of such great all-around cowboys as:

Guy Weeks of Abilene, one of the geratest rider-roper combinations in rodeo's long history with an earning record of over $200,000 in the last nine years; Harley May of Oakdale, Calif., who came up from collegiate rodeo circles to earn up to $31,180 in a single year with $19,253 this garnered in winning the world's champion steer wrestling title; Harry Charters of Melba, Ida., a genial giant who walked off with the NRA "Rookie of the Year" award his first year as a professional in 1959 and roped in $37,370 with his chain-lightning lariat during the 1960 and 1961 seasons; Don McLaughlin of Fort Collins, Colo., six-time world champion roper.

Saddle-bronc top hands such as Enoch Walker, who won $17,608 in 1960; Alvin Nelson of Sidney, Mont., with a $15,837 purse, and Canadian Marty Wood of Bowness, Alberta, who raked in $13,558 off the backs of twisting horseflesh, are also familiar sights in the Santa Rosa arena.

Or pick the world's greatest cowboys in bareback riding, such as world champion Eddy Akridge and number two money winner Jack Buschblom; steer wrestlers such as champion James Bynum and Benny Combs; bull riders such as Freckles Brown or calf ropers such as world champion Dean

Oliver, Tom Nesmith and Jim Bob Altizer.

They all have placed their entry fees on the line in years past and are expected to be back this year to help make the Santa Rosa Roundup unquestionably the greatest rodeo event of the nation at the time its being staged.

VETERANS

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q — Where should I send a change of address notice for my compensation check? It comes from some place in Chicago.

A — You should mail your change of address notice for any VA payments to the VA regional office where your records are maintained. This is the VA office which authorized your payments. When you move to another regional office area, the VA will transfer your records to this new regional office if you request such transfer.

Q — How do you get a veteran who requires medical treatment into a VA hospital?

A — The veteran or his physician applies for admission, which is forthcoming if he is eligible, needs hospital care and a bed is available. (In service-connected cases, a bed is always available). In the case of a sudden emergency, the veteran may be taken directly to the hospital but someone, acting for the veteran should communicate with the VA Hospital by telephone or telegraph beforehand to facilitate admission.

Q — Are women veterans eligible for VA benefits?

A — Yes. Women veterans are eligible for the same benefits and under the same conditions as men.

Q — As an eligible War Orphan I have educational rights but I wish to continue working, too. May I attend school for less than half time under the War Orphans Educational program?

A — No. Regulations require that a student must attend school at least half time to be eligible for the War Orphan program payments.

Small Businesses To Get Govt. Aid

The very small businessman—chiefly operators of retail shops or service establishments—many of whom have had a hard time obtaining financing in the past—will now find it much easier to qualify for a Government loan, Jack Teddlie, Lubbock Branch Manager of the Small Business Administration, said this week.

The new, liberalized loan program was announced by President Johnson at White House ceremonies in Washington on May 26, which Mr. Teddlie attended, along with SBA Administrator Eugene P. Foley, Cortland J. Silver, Chairman of SBA National Advisory Council, and other businessmen and government officials.

The White House ceremonies, in connection with National Small Business Week, were the climax of a trip to Washington by Mr. Teddlie along with other SBA regional directors and branch managers to review the Agency's activities.

"President Johnson's Administration is very definitely concerned with the welfare of small business," Teddlie said. "He assured us that he has small businessmen very much in mind every day and his interest was clearly demonstrated by his willingness to take time out from a very busy schedule personally to greet the SBA representatives."

The SBA's new small loan program reflects a new emphasis on helping the very small businesses, Teddlie said.

SBA Administrator Foley has frequently expressed the view that the Agency in the past has not done as much as it should to help the businessman at the lower end of the small business scale, he said. Yet they are of ten the businessmen most in need of financial help, and those have the most difficulty in obtaining it.

The new small loan program was designed to meet this need, Teddlie said. Under this program SBA will make loans to small firms up to a maximum of $15,000 for as long as six years under greatly liberalized terms.

Primary emphasis will be on the character of the applicant and his past record of meeting obligations, and no application will be turned away merely because he lacks collateral to pledge as security for the loan.

"SBA believes that you have to take a chance on people," Teddlie said, "and we will take a calculated risk in cases where we believe the applicant has a favorable earnings potential sufficient to repay the loan."

"We have simplified our procedures and requirements for these loans. We believe it is important to help the many thousands of struggling small firms, as a means of creating new jobs, and stimulating the Nation's economy."

"It is clear," Teddlie said, "that the SBA will have an important role in President Johnson's war against poverty. More and more it is becoming apparent that a thriving small business community can do much to ward taking up the slack in unemployment."

He said that top SBA officials in Washington are also concerned with the large number of business mergers which may be a threat to small business and the problem of industrial conversion from defense to commercial production.

Teddlie added that SBA officials are giving serious thought to the effect on small business in the future as the government cuts back on defense production and the economy converts to provide for civilian needs.

Chigger Facts You Didn't Know

Call them red bugs. Call them harvest mites. Call them chiggers. By whatever name, they mean sleepless nights and ceaseless spasms of itching misery. It will last from now until cold weather cuts into their ranks.

A few people have an apparent immunity to chigger attacks, but the vast majority of us are oh-so-susceptible.

They—the chiggers, have a special affinity for low, damp places covered with vegetation. Bermuda grass harbors them well, but for some unexplainable reasons they are not usually found in carpet grass.

Just for the record, it's the larvae which do the damage, attaching themselves with their mouthparts and sucking blood until they become engorged and fall off. The fiery itching is caused by an anti-coagulant material they inject into their victims.

Although adult chiggers—large, red and velvety—are probably harmless to humans, their wayward offspring can be serious as well as annoying.

Not that they spread any specific disease—at least not in this country, but their bites demand retarding which frequently causes secondary infections in the form of sores and boils.

To find out if your back yard or your picnic area is infested with chiggers, stand a piece of black cardboard on end where you suspect they might be. If after a few moments you see tiny yellowish or pinkish mites accumulating on the upper edge, you'll know its time to check your supply of insect repellent.

Chiggers attack lizards, snakes, birds and rodents with the same vigor and resourcefulness they display in attacking humans. They draw no distinction between mankind and lesser animal species.

Light applications of sulphur dust on lawns and low branches of shrubs have been used successfully for years to control chiggers. Insecticides such as chlorodane and lindane are very effective when used strictly ac-

Health And Safety Tips From AMA

The cooling and prattle most mothers seem to instinctively lavish on their children isn't just so much "baby talk."

Psychiatrists and pediatricians now recognize such maternal "gushiness" as highly important to the emotional development of children.

The absence of such development in turn, is a factor in mental retardation. Indeed, most authorities agree that 75 to 80 per cent of the mental retardation in this country stems from a lack of emotional development.

Of course talk isn't the only thing that stirs interest, curiosity, and intellect—factors which go to make up emotional development in an infant. But it is one of the most readily available means of communication between parent and child—even if they don't understand each other's words—and early communication is the basis for emotional development.

All babies, except those with congenital disorders, start out babbling and cooing. But if the child gets no encouragement—if no one cuddles and talks to him—he loses interest after awhile and fails to learn words when he should.

Words, and the ability to link them into thoughts, are highly important tools of learning. If these tools aren't learned, the child has difficulty developing. He becomes, in effect, walled off from the normal world about him.

It is, of course, possible to over-coddle a child. Because a rich stimulation of a child is good doesn't mean that more stimulation is better. He can be pushed too hard, made to decorating to directions.

But perhaps the biggest gun in the arsenal of chigger control are the repellent products which can be applied directly to exposed skin surfaces and to clothing. They come in spray, liquid and stick form and when properly used will keep most insects at arms length.

velop too fast, and this can create its own set of difficulties.

The important thing is to make certain that your child does have a rich stimulation; that he gets the attention and the palaver he needs to encourage his curiosity, interest and imagination.

Grain Stubble Has A Lot Of Value SCS Service Says

How much is a ton of wheat stubble worth? Many people think of grain stubble as having very little value, but this is not true of a conservation farmer. A conservation farmer recognizes the value of grain stubble in protecting the land. He plans his farming operations so that the stubble is kept on the surface where it will do the most good. Stubble managed on the surface proves its worth in terms of increased crop yields in future years.

Properly managed grain stubble is an excellent conservation measure. When kept on the surface of the soil it helps to conserve moisture that can be used by the next crop. Stubble is especially valuable on the heavy soils in helping to get the water into the soil. The stubble protects the soil from the hammering of the raindrops and prevents it from crusting over and sealing out the rain. Soils that are protected by stubble will allow the rain to soak in and be stored in the subsoil. Soils that are left bare often seal over during hard rains causing the water to run down the slope and stand in the terrace channels or run off the field and be lost. It is not uncommon to see water standing behind terraces for several days on fields that are plowed clean, while adjoining fields with a feed grains.

As under this year's wheat program stubble cover have drunk up the water and stored it for future crops.

Reduced evaporation is another value of good residue management. Field tests have shown that soil shaded by grain stubble will run 15 to 25 degrees cooler than bare ground in mid-summer. Lower temperature means less water lost. The stubble also protects the soil surface from the wind. This reduces water loss and prevents the loss of topsoil by wind erosion.

Each year more and more West Texas farmers are realizing the value of crop residue. Plows are being replaced by chisels and sweeps. Clean farming is being replaced by conservation farming. Crop residues are being left on the surface to protect the soil and help hold the water.

The true value of a ton of wheat stubble cannot be measured by its cash value. Its worth as a conservation practice far exceeds its market value.
