As far back as we can remember Republicans have always had the reputation of being the party with the money and the Democrats have been the working-class party. We noticed the Abilene Republican Women donated a $4,750 elephant for the local zoo.

A few local Democrats are trying desperately to raise enough money to buy a flea-bitten jackass from Mexico so they will be equally represented at the zoo.

Most of our boners are pulled in the Herald each week and become a matter of record, but Friday we managed one that has us a bit worried.

Last week was hectic, to begin our alibi before the story, so that could have been the reason. Anyway, one of our electric motors was out of order and we needed to go to Lynn Electric in a hurry. The wife had already left in the car and we had just returned from a coffee break in the pickup so we hurried outside to get underway.

Unfortunately our pickup nor a car of any description was on our side of the street.

Luckily, Jack Land was headed our way so we told him we were afoot and that someone had borrowed our truck.

Being observant, Jack spotted the truck in the middle of the block on Main street where we had parked it when we went to have a drink—and conveniently forgot to pick it up when we came back to the office.

Jack promised not to tell, but we don't believe him, and we just want you to get it straight, we hope, the second time you hear about it.

A sales representative for a major product was in the office last week and confirmed our belief that Knox City has some of the finest stores for its size you will find anywhere.

The representative was amazed that his company had sent him to Knox City on an advertising assignment, when ordinarily he calls on such towns as Fort Worth, Dallas, Abilene, and Wichita Falls in this area and Lubbock and El Paso, farther west.

"I thought they had made a mistake when I came into the city limits and saw the sign with 1805 inhabitants," he confided, but when I looked over the store I saw why the company sent me."

According to Remington-Rand, Hoge's Pharmacy is one of the company's best customers!

His impression was the same as our own several years ago—that Knox City had some of the finest drug, hardware, and clothing stores, anywhere, and that groceries were cheaper by far than anywhere we had lived previously. . . . we are proud the majority are regular Herald advertisers who continue to grow and prosper — competitively.

Attended another Santa Rosa Roundup Directors meeting in Vernon Monday with Bruce Campbell Sr., and Texas Ranger H. T. Melton, and everyone was sorry Director Lee Smith was unable to attend.

Constable Leroy Davis has a new police radio in his car and wanted to run an ad thanking the 50 generous citizens for their help in financing the project.

We talked him out of spending his hard-earned money for we know the folks who donated are glad to help a lawman do a better job as well as help an elected official "roll his own" so to speak.

RUGGED FUN AT VERNON—The 20th annual Santa Rosa Roundup at E. Paul Waggoner's fabulous arena at Vernon will be the scene of plenty of rugged action and fun for four full nights, May 26-29. The scene above is typical of the frivolous daring which will be exhibited by Gene and Bobby Clark, two of America's outstanding clowns and comedy bull fighters, who have been engaged to return for this year's big rodeo. A galaxy of outstanding feature attractions and the annual Quarter Horse Show, as well as a downtown parade on opening day, will be a part of the festivities in Vernon.

Accurate records are absolutely necessary to the efficient operation of a farm. A record of wages paid to hired farm workers ranks right at the top of the list.

For this the farmer needs to know the name, social security number, wages paid to each of his employees. If he hires a crew leader to furnish a crew of workers, he must keep a record of the crew leader's name, permanent address, and employer identification number.

Former Resident Publishes Book

David Stephens, 16 year old son of Deputy and Mrs. V. P. Stephens of Petersburg, former Knox City resident, has written a 93 page book entitled Model Rocket Handbook.

David is a junior at Petersburg High School. He was born in Knox City May 7, 1948, and is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ab Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Garrison. He moved to Lubbock when he was three.

He acquired the idea of the book after experimenting with model rockets and discovering that there was not such a book on the market. He spent two years doing research and writing the book. One of the youngest authors in the nation, he is a member of the high school annual staff and a member of the Petersburg Buffalo Football team. In addition to his school activities, he works at a food store and has made printing his hobby.

Social Security Pays $701,148.00 Yearly In County

More than 1,000 residents of Knox County are now receiving a monthly Social Security benefit according to figures furnished by Francis J. Stevens, Social Security representative for Knox County.

As of the end of 1964, the number of beneficiaries listed totaled 1,057. This is an increase of 73 over the number at the beginning of the year. The dollar benefit amounts total more than $701,148.00 yearly.

Retired workers and their dependents and those who receive survivor benefits are the largest group of beneficiaries. There are 1,007 in this group who receive a total monthly benefit of $55,588.00. Disabled workers and their dependents number 50 and receive $2,841.00 monthly.

In releasing these figures Mr. Stevens pointed out that Social Security benefits are of great importance to the community as well as to the people who receive them. "It is an established fact," he said, "that this money stimulates local business within the county; most of it is spent for food, clothing and shelter. There is no doubt that Social Security benefits are helping to stabilize the income and spending of many residents in Knox County."

As of the beginning of 1965 almost 10 per cent of the population of the United States were receiving Social Security benefits. As of that same time, January, 1965, 13.4 per cent of Knox County residents received benefits.

COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AGENT

Since there is an increased interest in growing guar this year, we would like to offer some production recommendations. Guar (Cyamopsis tetragonoloba) is a summer annual legume. The current Texas acreage is approximately 45,000 acres. Guar survives extended periods of drought but adequate moisture is essential for stand establishment and satisfactory seed production.

Under favorable growing conditions, seed production may reach 1,200 pounds or more per acre. Guar usually produces higher yields of green manure per acre than many other summer legumes, even under adverse conditions. Properly inoculated guar will fix atmospheric nitrogen in amounts similar to cowpeas or other legume plants. Crops following guar in rotation generally benefit from the residual nitrogen.

Seed contain 26 per cent protein and can be processed to make guar flour which is the source of manngalactan gum, valuable in paper manufacture for increasing wet strength and uniformity of paper sheets. In the food industry, guar flour is used as a stabilizing agent in cheese spreads, salad dressing and ice cream mixes. The 35 percent protein meal is equal or superior to cottonseed meal in regard to essential amino acids. When guar meal is fed to livestock, roasting improves palatability. Cattle feeding trials at the Coastal Bend Experiment Station show that rolled guar beans perform as well as cottonseed meal when equal quantities of protein are fed. The carbohydrate fraction of the meal retains moisture and is a binder for processed livestock feeds.

Other possible uses of guar include cosmetics, pharmaceuticals and as a flocculating agent to remove suspended solids from liquids. Most of the guar grown in Texas is marketed at guar processing plants in Kenedy and Chillicothe.

The Feed Grain and Wheat Programs permit guar to be grown on diverted acres with reductions in the diversion rates of payment. The local ASCS office should be consulted concerning details of these pro-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I did not receive my check for last month, and I want to know why.

A—Wait a reasonable period of time and then notify the VA regional office having custody of your claim file. Make sure you furnish your claim number and, if you have moved, give them both your old and new address.

Q—The envelope containing grams. Guar grows well under a wide range of soil conditions, but does best on fertile, deep loam and sand soils with good structure and having well-drained subsoils. Previous crop residue should be turned under far enough in advance to permit decomposition before planting.

This practice helps reduce southern blight disease and increases water infiltration.

Prepare seedbeds early to obtain a clean, firm, settled seedbed. Use row spacings of 36 to 42 inches.

Planting dates depend upon soil moisture and temperature. Guar has higher temperature requirements than cotton for stand establishment. Optimum dates in North Central Texas are May 15 to July 1. Planting and cultivating methods are similar to other row crops. Inoculate seed with a special guar inoculum of the cowpea group. Plant the seeds as soon as possible after they are inoculated. Five to 6 pounds of seed should be planted at a depth of one to one and one-half inches when using a standard-width row. For rapid establishment, soil temperatures at planting time should be above 75 degrees F. Plant on firm soil to utilize moisture for quickest emergence and growth.

Although late plantings usually give satisfactory stands, seed frequently mature during lengthy periods of rainfall, which may cause staining and reduction of bean quality.

Response to fertilizers depends upon soil moisture. When soil moisture is adequate, fertilizer applications might be profitable. In years of low subsoil and surface moisture, preplanting fertilizers probably would not increase yields. If moisture conditions become favorable later in the season, sidedress applications may be profitable. A soil test will determine the amount of nutrients available and the amount of fertilizer required to meet the needs of the crop. If soil tests results are unavailable for the current season, a grower should apply 100 to 150 pounds of 16-20-0 per acre, if the land has been heavily cropped in the past. When guar is rotated with other crops, best results have been obtained by applying fertilizer to the alternate crop rather than guar.

Weed control is one of the most important cultural practices in guar production. Seed yields can be greatly reduced if weed competition is serious. Also weedy fields will create problems in combine operations. Early preparation of land and three or four cultivations during the growing season should adequately control most guar field weeds. Guar should not be seeded in fields heavily infested with Johnsongrass. The plants should be on the highest point of the bed to make combining easier. The use of herbicides on guar is not recommended at present.

We are out of space for this week but will continue in next week's column on guar varieties, cultural practices and cost of production.

HERALD

my check had the large letters "V-O" on it. What does that mean?

A—That is the way the postal authorities identify Veterans Administration checks that are to be released for delivery on the 30th of the month. Checks are printed and shipped to key delivery points throughout the country prior to the delivery dates.

Q—I am a patient in this VA hospital. How do I find out if I am eligible for a pension?

A—File application and request that your treatment records be requisitioned to support your claim that you are permanently incapacitated for earning a living. The VA rating officials must also consider the amount and nature of military service and type of discharge, amount of money you expect to receive other than from the pension, and your "net worth" and dependency status.

Q—My father, who was totally disabled in Korea, died in a car accident in 1960. Am I eligible for training assistance from the VA?

A—The new law providing training for children of veterans permanently and totally disabled due to military service includes those families where the veteran so qualified has since died. You should make official application to the VA to determine your rights.

Q—Am I entitled to care in a VA hospital if all my service was in peacetime?

A—A peacetime veteran may be admitted to a CVA hospital if he receives service-connected disability compensation, was discharged or retired for disability incurred in line of duty, or has awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Q—I have heard that the so-called paraplegic housing is also available to blinded veterans. Is this correct?

A—Assistance, up to $10,000, in acquiring specially adapted housing is provided for veterans with service-connected total disabilities including the loss or permanent loss of use of both legs requiring use of wheel chair, crutches, cane or braces. For veterans with service-connected blindness the loss of use of one leg is sufficient to qualify.

Letter To Editor:

Dear Editor:

On April 5, the Abilene Reporter-News carried the editorial listed below, which I believe corresponds to what you advocate, locally.

Future Homemakers Elect New Officers

The Knox City Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America met in the Knox City High School library Monday for a regular chapter business meeting.

President Glenda Cox presided and called the meeting to order.

Meeting was turned over to Carolyn Crownover who was in charge of the election of 'officer' and 'girl' of March. Belle Burnett and Karen White were nominated for 'officer' of the month. Linda Hill, Sherry Sutton and Pam Waldrip were nominated for 'girl' of the month.

Belle Burnett was elected officer of March. She is presently serving the chapter of Historian, and served as secretary last year. Belle attended the FHA leadership training workshop last summer. She is active in many school activities.

Sherry Sutton was selected girl of the month. She is a freshman who has been a very active FHA member this year. Sherry has submitted her junior degree of achievement; and has served as vice president of her homemaking section.

The main order of business for the meeting was election of officers. Officers for the FHA Chapter for 1965-66 are:

President Becky Howell, First Vice President Susan Reese, Second Vice President Karen White, Third Vice President Wilma Fahring, Fourth Vice President, Twyla Standee, Fifth Vice President Carolyn Crownover, Secretary Judy Rushing, Treasurer Becky Lowry, Historian Sharman Watkins, Parliamentarian Cathy Richardson and Pianist Pam Waldrip.

Becky Howell was appointed chairman of the decorating committee for the FHA-FFA banquet. The committee consists of Nancy Smith, Gail Cornett, Sherry Sutton, Becky Lowry, Judy Rushing, Phyllis Tankersley and Twyla Standee.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served.

The editorial was headed: FIGHT AGAINST SECRECY PURSUED

Another round of hearings on secrecy in government begins in Congress under supervision of indefatigable Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), whose 10-year campaign shows no sign of ending.

The elusive goal of the congressman is to curb the growth of secrecy in public affairs, but his House sub-committee is confronted — in Moss' words—by the "unfortunate fact that governmental secrecy tends to grow as government itself grows."

The service the Moss sub-committee performs is vital to the proper operation of the republic's business. Without adequate information, the public cannot assess the work of its effective body, nor can it vote intelligently on the issues. Of paramount importance, too, is the need for careful scrutiny of activities in the many governmental agencies that are free from direct voter control.

While freedom of information has its basis in the U. S. Constitution, enforcement of the public's right to know is only as effective as citizens make it. The tendency to minimize and summarize actions that restrict individual freedoms poses an ever-present threat to constitutional government.

The congressional panel's unrelenting struggle against secrecy in government is a movement which all responsible citizens should join. Representative government must serve not just the people in government, but all of the people. And it is through secrecy—at any level—that the people's rights are first subverted.

Yours truly,
A Concerned Citizen

(Editor's Note: To be "concerned" is over half the battle, but don't be too complacent to believe the representative will get his bill across, because there are just too many politicians too afraid of the people knowing what they are or are not doing!)

Judy Meinzer And Jimmy Dale Skiles Are Wed April 24

Miss Judy Meinzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Meinzer and Jimmy Dale Skiles were married April 24, at 8 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Huck Skiles of Abilene are parents of the bridegroom.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Johnny Smith pastor of First Baptist Church of Knox City.

Two double branched candelabra holding blue candles made a background for the nuptial space.

The bride was attired in a two piece lace dress fashioned with a V neckline and three quarter length sleeves. Her veil was attached to a crown of pearls and sequins.

She carried a bouquet of white carnations atop a white Bible. Penny Meinzer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a two-piece pink lace dress, fashioned with a round neck line. She carried a single long stem carnation.

A reception was held in the home. Kay Reeves registered the guests. Sandra Stubblefield and Bea Morrow, cousins of the bride from Munday, served the refreshments. A blue and white color scheme was used in the decorations.

The bride will be a May graduate of the Knox City schools. They will live in Abilene where Skiles is employed with Willis Pool Chemical Co.

Multiple Sclerosis Still Mysterious Nervous Disorder

Multiple sclerosis is one of the major disorders affecting the central nervous system. It is also one of the most mysterious. Its cause is unknown, and there is no known cure or specific treatment. Yet there is cause for considerable hope about multiple sclerosis today. More knowledge is being gathered as investigators dig deeper into its origins and behavior.

Today, the multiple sclerosis patient lives longer than was thought possible years ago — Many people with mild or even moderately severe cases can live normal lives and work regularly for years.

Paducahan Speaks To Historical Committee

Mrs. Jessie Thomas of Paducah was guest speaker for the Knox County Historical association on April 21, at a special meeting held at the court house.

Mrs. Thomas was introduced by Mrs. L. A. Andrews of Crowell. Both Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Andrews attended the recent meeting of State Historical groups held in Austin. Mrs. Thomas urged members to order booklets on Texas Land grants and the history of Texas land.

Multiple sclerosis is not contagious nor is it an inherited disease. It is "multiple" both in the sense that it attacks several areas of the body at once, and that it frequently returns after a period of improvement. It is "sclerotic" — it leaves scars — at the points where loss of the protective covering takes place.

The loss of the myelin sheath gives faulty insulation or protection of these nerve fibers of the spinal cord and brain. This affects the human body much as it would an electrical wire.

When the insulation or covering, becomes frayed or faulty, the electrical impulses or signals go astray.

Hence, the characteristics or multiple sclerosis may include shaking or tremor, extreme weakness, and progressive paralysis. Early warning signs are slurred speech, along with tingling sensations and numbness. Other symptoms are stumbling gait, poor coordination, shimmering movements of the eyeball and double vision. In advanced cases, there may be loss of bladder or bowel control.

A person with multiple sclerosis does not always have all these symptoms, and someone having one or more of these symptoms may not have multiple sclerosis. Moreover, many multiple sclerosis patients have "remissions," periods or months or even years during when symptoms disappear.

A physician can advise treatment in many cases — a balanced general diet, physiotherapy and rehabilitative training of major assistance to the patient. Retraining in the basic physical skills or daily living helps the handicapped person find major satisfaction and aids his mental outlook.

Colleges' Role Cited In Economic Destiny

By HARLEY PERSHING
The economic destiny of Texas hinges on success in achieving unsurpassed excellence in all its institutions of higher learning.

This creed is recognized by the responsible citizens of Texas, men and women leaders in government, education, industry, commerce and business.

Heading the list is Gov. John Connally who has tailored his program for the future on one major goal:

"Texas can leave no stone unturned, no field of endeavor unplowed, no avenue of development untraveled or region of accomplishment unexplored in its quest for greatness in higher education.

"Our colleges and universities must develop young citizens cognizant of the needs of this era and that of the future. We must give them the capability of coping with the future and equip them with the vision, the energy and the courage to accept the challenges thrust on their shoulders in this new age."

The governor and educators place development of state's junior or community colleges to full potential along with that criterion for the senior colleges and universities.

The two programs are so closely united that any attempt to separate them or to abrogate one from the other would destroy both.

Texas now is topped only by California in the number of community junior colleges. The trend in California is to continue development of existing community college and create new ones when and where the need exists.

This need grows almost daily as the state's population continues to grow and its big urban centers continue to expand.

It is just the reverse in Texas. More and more, communities and lawmakers seek to elevate junior colleges to four-year schools in the mistaken belief that such action will add great distinction to the institution's place in higher education.

"Such a trend," says Dr. C. C. Colvert, University of Texas professor in junior college programs, "is helping to destroy the junior college image at a time when it should be bolstered and enriched."

Dr. Colvert, one of the nation's top experts in his field, strongly advocates the creation of additional junior colleges in Texas, schools which have a purpose, a need and a desire to serve their communities in many levels of education.

His views are shared by many others in the field of education. Among those are B. W. Musgraves, assistant commissioner of Texas Education Agency in charge of the junior college program.

Staff Members of the Commission on Higher Education have pinpointed several areas in Texas where creation of new community colleges is considered essential to overall improvement of education beyond the high school.

Dr. Colvert made a similar plea at a recent seminar at Bracketville recently, a meeting sponsored by the Texas State Committee on Public Education. Approximately 75 citizens those representing a cross section of the state's leadership in many fields, attended the sessions to hear the needs of public education now and in the future.

A report from the Commission on Higher Education on the outlook for colleges during the next 10 years explored the junior college program in great detail.

And the major theme centered around the need for creating new community colleges and developing and enriching existing ones.

The report says that the community colleges should prepare to handle a great influx of students in the next few years, students who will not likely enroll at the senior colleges for their first two years of study.

"This fact provides further indication that the thumacmfw indication that much of the enrollment increase in Texas can and should be met by existing public junior colleges and by the creation of additional junior colleges," the report states.

The report sent to the governor and the legislature recommended that an extensive study be started immediately to determine need for creation of new junior colleges.

Some of the areas suggested as likely spots for new colleges include Abilene, Austin, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Orange, Ft. Worth, El Paso, Dallas, Lubbock, Galveston, Houston, Midland, Waco and Wichita Falls.

The willingness and ability of the various regions and communities to enter the junior college program will have a profound effect on public education in Texas for the next 20 years, the report concluded.

Challenges of the problems of providing excellence in higher education have been met by Governor Connally. He has asked his special committee to study needs of education beyond the high school to give top priority to the junior college program.

"This state can expect to grow, prosper and develop only if it provides the technical training and intellectual development required in this new era of science and technology," said Connally.

"Our future must be aimed in one direction: To educate our youth for life in the vast unknown future and to give them the highest degree of excellence in education that is possible."

KNOX CITY, TEXAS

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — In the stormiest week of the 59th Legislature, House and Senate deadlocked over the entwined issues of longer terms of office and addition of eight more senatorial districts.

Whatever the outcome, many feared resulting hard feelings from the feud would so dent harmony that finishing up necessary business at hand without a special session would be difficult indeed.

Big problem began when some representatives, as the price of going along with a constitutional amendment to give statewide officials four-year terms, demanded the same consideration. House tacked onto a Senate proposal to increase membership of the upper house from 31 to 39 (and increase senatorial terms to six years) a provision for 4-year terms for representatives, too.

Senate had decided its net proposed constitutional amendment to enlarge membership to 39 should be submitted to an election on August 7, without the controversial term attachment.

House stripped a Senate compromise calling for a November election on lengthened terms for both houses (as a separate proposal) of the six-year senatorial term provision.

Senate retaliated by threatening to block the House version of legislative redistricting and leave reapportionment up to federal courts.

Also caught in the backwash of the feud were such major legislative items as the state budget, congressional redistricting and teacher pay raises.

Both houses played a rough game of bluff, bluster and brinkmanship in efforts to break the logjam to their own advantage. Even the best solution appeared likely to leave some deep scars on the face of harmony.

FARM LAND TAX DEFERENTIAL — Resolution authorizing a constitutional amendment to give special tax consideration to farm land needs six more House votes for passage.

Constitutional amendments require 100 votes for passage, but the resolution's sponsors, Rep. Bill Dungan of McKinney, Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton and Rep. Wayne Connally of Floresville, could muster only 96.

If passed by the Legislature and approved by voters, the amendment would require tax assessor-collectors to put two values for agricultural land on tax rolls — the valuation based on income from agricultural purposes and the non-agricultural (or speculative) valuation.

Land owner would pay taxes based on the presumably lower agricultural valuation. However, if he sold the land, he'd have to pay the difference between two values for the three previous years.

Valuation would affect all taxes—city, county, state and school district.

TAXES TALKED — Top-level lawmakers are speculating on possibility of a two-cents-a-pack cigarette tax boost and extension of the two per cent sales tax levy to all alcoholic beverages (now exempt).

Increased spending — including teacher pay raises and medical care costs — may make as much as $100 million in new taxation necessary, some believe.

About $50 million could be raised from the cigarette tax boost and $21 million from placing the retail sales tax levy on liquor and beer, according to reliable estimates.

Another $12 million could be gained by extending the "temporarily" increased corporation franchise taxation level, observers noted.

A joint conference committee continues to wrestle with the general budget bill, which has been delayed two weeks beyond the deadline previously set by House Speaker Ben Barnes.

NEW TECHNICAL SCHOOL APPROVED — Two weeks after he first recommended creation of new James Connally Technical Institute in Waco, Gov. Connally received final legislative authorization and signed the bill into law.

Institute at old Connally Air Force Base is scheduled to go into operation September, 1966, just three months after the $41 million installation will be deactivated militarily.

It will be administered by Texas A&M University, authorized by the new legislation to accept the base from the federal government. Installation includes 107 permanent buildings, 366 housing units, and 2,228 acres of land.

"INDIAN TERRITORY" Planned—Heap-big doings are planned on the old Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation near Livingston.

Bill by Reps. Emmett Lack of Kountze and Will Smith of Beaumont to create a State Commission for Indian Affairs to run the reservation received approval.

Smith said the commission would help the Indian Tribal of House Committee on state hospitals and special schools. council achieve self-sufficiency for its 550 people, largely thru tourism.

OIL CUT ORDERED — Railroad Commission ordered oil production for May held to 27.2 per cent of potential with allowable set at 2,900,000 barrels a day.

April's 28.5 per cent order permitted a 2,900,000 barrel daily maximum.

May, 1964, production was 2,800,000 barrels under 28.5 per cent order.

RATABLE TAKE OIL BILL ADVANCED — Senate Oil and Gas Committee approved the bill

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Position is Everything"

To a certain young housewife, there is special meaning in the saw that "position is everything in life." Injured while shopping, she lost a claim for damages simply because of her position—her physical position — at the moment of the accident.

It happened this way: Standing near the checkout counter in a market, she decided to hand the cashier an extra package she was carrying. She stepped into the cashier's booth, stumbled over an obstruction, and fell down hard.

As a rule, a shopper has a favored legal status. Classified as an "invitee" (or "business visitor"), she is entitled to have substantial care taken for her safety.

But that status continues only as long as she stays where she belongs.

Outside that area, she loses her favored status. Her chance of collecting damages, in case of injury, is automatically reduced.

In the above case, the housewife stepped out of the bounds, when she entered the cashier's booth. Result: she lost her status and lost the lawsuit that followed.

How far does the area of invitation extend? Farther, of course, than the precise point of purchase. For instance, you are still within its protection while entering or leaving the store in the normal manner.

Thus, in a case involving negligence on the part of a bank, damages were awarded to a man injured while entering through the bank's front door. But damages were denied to a woman injured while entering a restaurant through the side shipping door, obviously not meant for public use.

The telephone you want to use the telephone or a washroom? Does the area of invitation reach that far?

Much depends on the nature of the store. Facilities that would be considered public in a department store may be considered private—for use of employees only—in a dress shop or a pharmacy.

Merchants know they have less legal responsibility in out-of-bounds areas. Often, for that reason, they make less effort to keep the floors safe and the lighting adequate.

So if you should stray, be sure to keep a sharp lookout for hazards. Far better than winning damages is not getting hurt at all.
