also means and increase in traffic accidents involving school children," stated Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety. "Most of these accidents are caused by drivers who fail to follow safe operating procedures, as well as laws pertaining to passing a school bus," Major Cawthon stated.

State law requires drivers on the same roadway as a school bus that has stopped to load or unload school children to stop and REMAIN stopped until one of three things happen. The bus driver signals you to go on by or the bus or whether you are going in the same direction as the bus. It also applies inside the city limits, as well as outside the city limit. The only exeption to the law is that drivers on the other side of a divided highway (roadways separated by a physical median) are not required to stop. Motorist who fail to stop for a school bus could be fined up to $200.00

"We, as drivers, should realize the dangers involved and do everything possible to prevent these needless deaths and injuries involving our school children," Major Cawthon stated

Labor Day Holiday Coming Up

Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander for the Texas Department + of Public Safety, said, "The Labor Day holiday period is the time for the last trip of the summer. While the Texas driver is preparing his holiday plans, the Texas Department of Public Safety is preparing to save lives and prevent injuries on the streets and highways of Texas through Operation Motorcade.'

Operation Motorcide is designed to focus attention on the increased dangers of accidents and deaths in

Frost Can Cause Prussic Acid Poisoning

Now that fall is just around the corner, frost will be hitting Sherman County before long. This could lead to prussic acid poisoning in livestock if the county has had enough moisture to produce certain pasture grasses and forage, according to Jim Allison, County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

While many plants contain the toxic material that causes poisoning, the greatest culprits are Johnson and Sudan grasses and sorghum or hybrids of these that cause the highest mortality if livestock graze them after a heavy frost.

"The most dangerous time for the grazing of these plants is following frost when the plant material begins to wild," said Allison.

Livestock should not be allowed access to the wilted material until it has fried completely following three or four days of good sunlight. New plant growth usually becomes nontoxic and can be grazed within 10 days to two weeks following a rain, Allison said.

Prussic acid poison acts rapidly and can kill animals within minutes. In most acute cases, animals become affected within 10 to 15 minutes after eating toxic material and can die in two to three minutes.

Symptoms may include a brief period of stimulation followed by derpession and paralysis. Signs of colic may be present. Stupor (loss of sen-sibility), difficult breathing and fre-

Notice to all Stratford Citizens, we support in Stratford Star the article Bike Hazards by W.D. Brannan. The information is of life and death and importance among our young fry, especially to Senior citizens who drive cars.

Also article entitled "Special Session of City Council" informs all citizens of their the councils intent to issue City Of Stratford Certificates of obligation for the purpose of financing NECESSARY improvements on the city Waterworks and sewer system service.

The service for our benefit, On page 2 of the Stratford Star, Aug. 16 is the legal notification that a meeting will be held at 1:30 Sept. 5, 1990 in City Hall, Senior citizens let us be informed and realize that these services are for OUR comfort and WE help finance them through paying taxes. Be informed NOT surprised! Our public officials need our understanding and support. They can inform us ONLY thru newspaper articles and they do so legally. It is our privelige and responsibility to attend meetings or at least READ their article.

Our community is saddened by the death of former S.H.S. principal Travis Galloway on Aug. 18. Our personal and Scot love and prayers are with his sister Lillie Galloway. Alma Lee McMahen is improving after a stay in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harris, Follett, Tex. visited their daughter Patty Brown, Jim, Caleb and helped grand daughter, Ashley Brown celebrate her seventh birthday. After the party grandparents Betty and Baskin Brown went to Amarillo and had dinner with grandson Blair Brown.

Scot. Pres. Max Stephenson, attended a family reunion this past week.

Scots congratulation and blessings go to Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Dyess upon their retirement from Morrison Funeral Directors.

Have we told you that former senior citizen Bob Pendleton is enjoying being a guest at Coldwater Manor? Mrs. Pendleton and her son, Toy, Tex., visited Bob this week. Mrs. Pendleton is in failing health, herself. Bob celebrated his 96th birthday a while back. Scoters add to Bobs pleasure by visiting him.

Thanks to Bobbie Burgess Corbitt we are informed that her sister, Ann Johnson, is in the USA busy enrolling her daughter in school in New Orleans, near her Johnson grandparents. Ann will be in Stratford shortly. We apoligize for writing that Ann's husband James Johnson is in the armed forces He is with a business firm.

However, he is to remain in Saudi Arabia

Scot and Senior Citizen salute. Beulah Lindsay, Dumas regarding her 100th birthday. Hot air-balloon rides aren't for us either! Accountant and ballonist, Bob Pendletonmentioned in the picture caption is John Robert Pendelton, son of former Stratfordite Marguerite Pendleton and the late Walter endleton.

We are looking forward to greeting Old Timers and former citizens at the Barbeque Sat. Sept. 1990.

Until dinner time this Thursday let all Senior Citizens and Scotters spread shoulder pats and luv among folks.

Those attending Kerrick Reunion Sunday had a beautiful day, with lots of food and visiting and picturelooking going on!

Pat Boren, Community Club President, welcomed everyone. She announced the recnt deaths of two former residents, Mrs. Marie Gist, Boise City, who had taught at the Kerrick School and Jack Thompson, Raton, M.M. A moment of silent prayer was held before table grace was said by Ralph Hampton.

Winning awards were Mrs. Ida Lee Leonard, Dalhart, and R.P. Crabtree, Boise City, who were Queen and King of Longevity and Ellen Wainscott Rogers, Buffalo, Ok., who came the longest distance. Since Ellen is the other two's niece, they "kept it in the family!" The awards were made by Donna Avent--baskets of flowers with "Don't Fence Me In, 1990" and a punched tin and rope placque, also with the theme.

Tables were decorated with the Southwestern theme and had copies of old photos scattered on them. Many compliments were given to the decorator, Barbara Schoonover. Mabel Rogers and Virgie Mathev.s

Test Your Vitamin ABCs

Proper nutrition is the key to good health. Today's over processed and refined foods may not be giving you all the nutrients you need. Here's a quick quiz from Nature's Bounty to help you understand the basics of vitamin supplements.

1. What vitamin is important for normal functioning of the nervous system and acts to provide energy (a) A (b) K (c) B-Complex?

2. What is another name for Provitamin A which is essential for good vision, healthy skin and hair (a) Biotin (b) Beta-carotene (c) Folic acid?

3. What vitamin is considered essential to the use of oxygen in the muscles (a) E (b) B-2 (c) Inositol?

ANSWERS: 1. (c) B-complex is all the B-Vitamins together. Vitamin experts at Nature's Bounty also point out that B-complex keeps the digestive system working. 2. (b) Beta-carotene which converts vitamin A in your body as needed and helps protect against free radical formation which can cause tissue and cell damage. 3. (a) Vitamin E, which also prolongs life of red blood cells and protects the lungs.

To learn more about nutrition, and for a vitamin fact sheet, send a self-addressed, stamped, legal sized envelope to: Nature's Bounty, Dept. VMS, 90 Orville Dr., Bohemia, NY 11716.

Postal Pointers

The Check's In The Mail—But Is It Addressed Right? By Ann McK. Robinson Consumer Advocate

No one likes to have a letter returned or misdelivered. While the Postal Service make mistakes, there are often problems with insufficient or improper addressing which cause mail to be delayed, misdi- cluded on every envelope. This will rected, or returned.

Studies indicate that 33 percent of addresses entering the system for processing contain one or more deficiencies which can have a negative effect upon the Robinson processing or delivery

An example of a "letter perfect" address would be:

CHARLES BROWN ABC MOVING COMPANY 2102 ELM ST APT 303 MIAMI, FL 33152-1234

A return address should be inensure that if there is a problem

Tips From The Electronic Industries Association

Different Types Of Videotape

Q. Do all VCRs use the same kind of tape cassette?

A. No, they do not. All VCRs operate the same way, but each tape cassette is different. The different formats are: VHS, Beta, 8mm, Hi-8 and S-VHS. Each format has a registered logo, so look for the logo on the cassette sleeve before you buy

Q. What can non-logo tapes do to my VCR?

A. They may shed oxide easily. Oxide flaking may make the picture streaky or cause the sound or picture to disappear in spots, and such an accumulation could damage the heads

Q. Are there special cassettes for camcorders?

A. Yes and no. There are different camcorder formats: 8 mm, Hi-8, VHS-C, full-size VHS and full-size Beta, and S-VHS in both full and VHS-C versions. All full-size tapes that correspond to the VCRs on which they are played. Compact camcorders-8mm and VHS-Cuse specially designed mini-cassettes which are about the same size as an audio cassette. Each format has its own cassette; they are not interchangeable.

For a free booklet about choosing and caring for videotape, send a self-addresed #10 envelope with 25 cents postage to: EIA, Tape, PO Box 19100, Washington, D.C. 20036. If you have any additional questions write Sally Browne c/o EIA.

When should you see a Chiropractor?

You do not have to wait for an accident or severe pain before you visit your Chiropractor. It does-n't take a car wreck or a bad fall to injure the spine. Most people are familiar with the injuries which follow an accident, but sometimes ""microtrauma'' can cause injury, too.

Microtrauma is a term that means repeated, but not serious, bumps or pulls or jerks. One example might driving. and old, rough-riding tractor. No one bounce of the tractor will injure your back, but it you drive it all day long, you will be exhausted & sore. Your spine will be tired & sore as well. After days or weeks of this microtrauma, you may wake up one day & not be able to stand up straight. You have a condition which Chiropractic can help, even though you haven't had an major accident.

Other causes of microtrauma can include carrying sacks of feed, picking up small children, stacking bales of hay or vacuuming. If you have back or neck or wrist pain that ""just started'' one day, you may be experiencing microtrauma. A visit to your Chiropractor can help find the cause of your pain. You don't have to wait for an accident to see your doctor of Chiropractic.

of mail. Here are some tips which will help you ensure that your letters are properly addressed.

The destination address should appear in the middle of the envelope with the recipient's name on the top line. The line directly beneath should contain the recipient's street address, post office box number. or rural route number and box number. If mail is for a multiunit complex or apartment building, place the room or apartment number to the right of the street address or on the line directly above the street address. The bottom line must show the recipient's city and state, and should include the ZIP Code.

The U.S. flag of 1777 had no official arrangement for the stars. The most popular design was not the circle as many believe but alternate rows of three, two, three, two and three stars. Even back then, the flag served as a symbol of our nation's fundamental freedoms and liberties.

Sherman County: Stats distort fact

By ROY BRAGG Houston Chronicle

STRATFORD — Money. Money. Money. Littering the sidewalks, drifting from tree tops, clogging the streets.

That's the image gleaned from a U.S. Census Bureau report, based on 1980 data and various pre-1990 projections, that lists Sherman County as the state's richest with a per capita income of $16,260.

So rich is this northern Panhandle county of 3,000 residents, the census folks say, that it's ranked 35th nationally among all counties.

The mood here, however, is far from jubilant.

For some, it's more of a death watch, as concerned residents see their hometown drying up and wasting away.

County Judge Bill Fesler points to the vacant storefronts on North Main Street.

"It's very misleading," he said of the numbers. "Our population is 17 percent retired persons. Most of our retailers are momand-pop operations. We've got a stagnated economy.

stagnated economy. "We have one bank. We have one drug store. We have one grocery store. We drive 40 miles to go to the picture show."

Others see it, too.

"I have a daughter in high school and she's lost three or four classmates this year because there's just nothing for their parents to do here in town," said Orlando Garotte, co-owner of the town's beauty shop. "No jobs." If there's money here, Gayland

Vandiver hasn't found it.

"We're not starving, but we sure aren't rich," said Vandiver, the town's pharmacist.

While sales tax receipts rose slightly in 1989, employment figures show a downward trend.

In 1984, 1,349 people worked at Sherman County job sites, according to Texas Employment Commission records.

Last year, there were only 820 jobs -a drop of 60 percent.

There isn't much to the town, located at the intersection of U.S. Highways 54 and 207, nine miles south of the Oklahoma border.

Visitors coming from the south are greeted by Stratford Feedyard, home of 80,000 hungry cattle, and a house-sized sign painted Farms that are still operating are doing so with fewer farmhands, said B.A. Donelson, First State Bank president. Instead of manual labor, machinery helps the family farm stay in business.

"A fellow who used to do a section (640 acres or a square mile) with hired hands can do 3,000 acres now by himself with larger equipment," said Donelson.

That, Donelson says, might explain the questionable income figures for the county. With a farmer doing all of his own work — even though acerage and profits are lower — his income technically rises.

In reality, the census income figures had little impact here when townspeople first read about them in the Amarillo newspaper. A few folks chuckled. Others got

A few folks chuckled. Others got angry and declined to participate in the 1990 census.

Their reason? They thought census information was confidential and reporting the income figures violated that promise of secrecy.

Mayor Dwight Reese said he wondered if news of the town's per capita income might come back to-haunt the community when it applies for scarce community development funds to help bankroll city improvements.

And Fesler is concerned that down-and-out newspaper readers around the country might misread stories — like this one — that refer to the high statistical ranking and show up in Sherman County, penniless and untrained, for jobs that don't exist.

Of more concern to some townsfolk, however, are the missing farmhands, the closed stores and the town's future.

"There are always going to be some of us diehards that will hang on," said Garotte. "My grandfather said 'Don't worry, as many move in as will move out.' But we don't see that many coming in."

"In the '70s, there were 1½ times as many people as there are here now," Vandiver said. "We pride ourselves on being hardworking. There just aren't that many of us left." With the labor force all but vanished, it's hard to attract industry and stimulate the town's economy. And as children graduate, they leave and don't return. That bothers Fesler.

Bridge Tournament

The SCOT bridge tournament was held Saturday, August 18, with 52 ladies from the various Panhandle towns participating. High was Marie Watson, Dumas, 2nd Marcialete Lederwood, Dumas. Prizes were given by Ione Kendrick, Mary Hill, Dicy Stephenson, Headquarters, Keener Oil, The General Store, Brown's Meat Locker, G & W Industrial, Consumers, Coldwater Manor, Ellies' Enterprizes, Elk Pharmacy, and Rowena Williams. Luncheon was provided by the SCOT ladies. This was to help raise money for the SCOT organization.

Prevent Burn Injuries

An informative booklet and two new films can help parents learn how to prevent burn injuries and treat those that happen.

A fun booklet from the Shriners Hospitals can help your children avoid burn injuries.

Booklet and films were produced by the Shriners Hospitals, which offer free medical care to children at 19 orthopaedic and three burns hospitals nationwide.

The films were recognized for their excellence in educating children about burn prevention. "An Ounce of Prevention," a film which was an integral part of the Shrine's successful "Stop Burn Injuries" educational campaign, was recognized by the United States Department of State. Degradable Plastics: Myth Or Magic?

Surprising to many Americans is the way degradable plastics are touted as environmentally friendly. Environmental groups oppose them. The Environmental Action Foundation, for example, recently conducted an extensive study of degradable plastics. The Washington, D.C. public interest group identified four drawbacks to degradable plastics:

1. Little evidence exists that plastics-or any waste for that matter--will degrade in a sanitary landfill. Excavations of landfills have turned up newspapers and food waste fully intact after more than ten years.

2. The end products of degradable plastics may pollute the environment with toxic organic chemicals and heavy metals.

3. Degradable plastics undermine promising new programs to recycle the material. Additives that make plastic degradable contaminate the mix of plastics being recycled by coalescing or even burning during the recycling process.

4. Degradable plastics encourage a throw-away ethic--the very pattern of production and consumption that has spawned today's solid waste and litter crisis. Promoting degradable plastics may also reduce pressure on the plastics industry to develop better source-reduction and recycling programs.

Experts feel safety questions need answering before degradable plastics are adopted on a large scale. What's your opinion? Your legislators want to know.

Many experts agree that recycling and reducing the amount of plastic used in our society appear to be the best and most environmentally friendly approaches to date.

Here, pleasant people live and work quietly and are active in the local high school's activities. Lots of them, including merchants or business people, run cattle or raise crops on their land.

And like Fesler and Vandiver, they're not sure where the Census Bureau came up with its numbers.

Although Loving County, in far West Texas, had an average income above $23,000, government statisticians didn't consider the county for ranking because it has only 100 residents and the sample is too small for consideration.

Townspeople here say there's been a slight increase in energy drilling, an assertion supported by state figures that show 36 more active oil and gas wells here in the last four years. For income purposes, however, the money doesn't end up here, Fesler said. Most of the royalty owners are out-of-town landowners.

The biggest business here is farming, and that's been hurting for the last decade.

Problems began when the cost of natural gas, used to power the irrigation pumps, skyrocketed in the early 1980s. Folks say it became too expensive to irrigate their fields and grow corn.

"We tried to hang on as long as we could," said Garotte. "We just had to give it up and go to dry-land (nonirrigated) farming."

Dry-land farming is less expensive. It's also less lucrative, meaning there's less profit per acre.

Also cutting into the agriculture picture is the Conservation Reserve Program, a federally supervised system in which cropland can be cultivated but not harvested for commericial purposes.

Sherman County officials say 90,000 acres — out of 600,000 in the whole county — are set aside in the program, effectively removing them as income-producing land.

"My generation went to work in the field we were interested in and based our careers on it," the judge said. "We didn't care about college. Now, young people leave town to go to college and don't come back. Nobody is starting up any new business here."

"That's a resource we didn't keep. Did we fall short?"
