In the seventh grade, David Allen Harris and Patricia Richburg made all 'A's' and David Duane Harris and Amanda Rogers made all 'A's' and one 'B'.

Bonus Acres Released

Castro County has received a bonus of 4,209 acres of cotton under the 1963 acreage release reapportionment program.

This represents a gain over 1962 when the county received an additional 2,445 acres which were released in other areas and reapportioned in this county.

It will still leave the county 3,899 acres short of the total acreage, including bonus, available for planting last year.

The 1963 total acreage will be 56,229 acres in the county, compared with 60,128 in the county last year.

Plans for a bond election which would provide Hart with a new high school building complete with auditorium and gymnasium were approved by school trustees at a special meeting Tuesday night.

The plans call for:

1. A $375,000 bond election for the erection of the new high school building directly across the street from the present school.

2. An $85,000 bond vote which would provide funds for the building of an auditorium along with the new school.

Trustees set up the bond election to coincide with the annual school board vote, which is scheduled for Saturday, April 6.

On that date, Hart voters will mark two separate ballots, one for the trustee election and the other for the building expansion program.

The three propositions on the building expansion election will be:

1. To authorize the operation of the Hart school system under Senate Bill 116.

2. To authorize the issuance of $375,000 in school building bonds.

3. To authorize the issuance of $85,000 in school auditorium bonds.

Senate Bill 116 allows the school district to issue bonds over and above limits set up under the school's present financial structure.

School officials explained that the passage of Senate Bill 116 by Hart voters is necessary in order for the other two propositions to carry.

"In other words," said Supt. Paul Kennedy, "it would do us no good at all if we voted for the two building propositions and against the Senate Bill proposition."

"Senate Bill 116 gives us the financial structure we need in order to carry out the building program. Furthermore, bond companies will buy the bonds at a lower rate of interest under SB 116, thereby making a substantial savings to the district over a period of years."

Hart school trustees have been working on the overcrowded conditions problem in Hart schools for about 2 1/2 years. Over the past few months, the board has devoted many hours in both regular and special meetings to planning for improvement of the system.

In addition, the trustees traveled hundreds of miles to study new construction and all of its phases in other school systems across the Panhandle.

"The board has found that the school district can build a modern, compact, air-conditioned building as economically or more so, than it could the conventional type building we're accustomed to seeing," Supt. Kennedy said.

"This type building would mean a savings to us in many ways, especially in utility costs," he added.

The general building plans call for an all-masonry structure which will provide for nine general classrooms, two science laboratories, a library-study hall, commercial room, homemaking room, general administration area and gymnasium.

An optional benefit would an auditorium which would seat 600. The auditorium will be listed separately on the ballot.

The new building would house both the high school and junior high. The present high school building would be converted to an elementary school.

Formality of calling the election will be handled at a special board meeting next Tuesday night. Supt. Kennedy said the board has agreed unanimously on present plans for the election to be held April 6.

Absentee Vote Slated

Absentee voting in the Hart school trustee election and the school bond election on Saturday, April 6, will open next Wednesday, March 20.

Persons voting in the elections must have been a resident of the state for one year, a resident of the school district for six months, must be on the school tax roll and must have paid their poll tax.

Terms of Rodney Smith, the board president, and R. G. Henderson will expire. Smith is planning to move from the community and will not seek reelection.

Henderson is seeking reelection and will be on the ballot along with Deryl Clevenger and Theron Morrison. The three men seeking the two spots are farmers.

Absentee voting period is from March 20 to April 2.

Foster Now On Board

Tuesday night's special school board meeting was the first for a brand-new member, E. W. Foster, a farmer.

Foster replaces Glenn Reed, also a farmer, who recently resigned. As successor to Reed, Foster will serve the two years remaining on Reed's term of office.

By law, it was necessary for an appointment to be made to fill the vacancy, since Reed's position did not come up for election this year, according to Paul Kennedy, superintendent.

Foster, because he had not had time to study the background on the current building program, abstained from all votes at the Tuesday night meeting.

In addition to setting up plans for the local bond election, the board also re-elected the system's three coaches, Dub Cleveland, head football and track coach; Eddie Nicholson, head basketball and assistant football coach; and Don Ewing, junior high coach and scout.

Editor's Note

The following three essays by Rebecca Futrell, Iona Clevenger, and Barbara Inscore, who are in the 6th grade at the Hart School, were judged to be the three outstanding essays. Among those written at Hart Schools recently.

Democracy

BY REBECCA FUTRELL

To have a free democratic country the government must be run by the people and for the people. In order to obtain this the people must have the privilege of voting by secret ballots in honest elections.

For a representative democracy to work well it should have two or more political parties, so the people with different ideas of government can make their ideas known to voters. Majority rules and all people work together for the party chosen, in this way they respect the rights of other.

The Bill of Rights in our Constitution makes sure that all Americans have rights as freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of religion. Not even the highest government official can take these rights away.

Among the first to establish democracy were the Pilgrims. They didn't have freedom of religion or of speech. They had to go to the church of England or not at all. If they said anything against this they would be put in jail or punished in some other way. They came to America to be free. They drew up an agreement called the Mayflower Compact. The Pilgrims promised that the new colony would be ruled by "just and equal laws which would be applied to all people."

Quarrels between colonies in America and England because England was taxing the colonies without them knowing about it. They also made laws that interfered with the colonists trade with the rest of the world. It abolished courts and refused to let assemblies meet.

The Virginia Assembly took these matters into their own hands. It took control of the colony and the English officials fled. This assembly drew up a document called the Virginia Bill of Rights which paved the way for many rights guaranteed by our Constitution.

On July 4, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was adopted in its final form. The Declaration clearly states that "all men were created equal, that they endowed with certain Rights, among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness."

Democracy does have its weaknesses. Some people are slow to act, but that is not the main danger. The main danger is people don't live up to the privilege of being citizens of a democracy. For example:

A university survey of 10,000 high school students in 1960 showed disquieting results. Almost 37 per cent didn't care how the police treated arrested people confess to their crimes. They also had no objections to police beating people to make them confess. Forty-three per cent either favored limiting freedom of speech or were undecided.

If a democracy fails to defend human rights how can it remain a democracy? Former President Truman said, "If we have to give up our freedom to live, life will not be worth living."

When we see America today we see millions of people living in unhealthy slums, surplus crops piling up, crime and delinquency increasing, more than 5,000,000 people out of work and Negroes having a hard time getting rights to vote. Also many children do not get a first-class education because of overcrowded schools, not enough well trained teachers and the lack of top-notch equipment.

The Communist have said they have a democratic government. Do you believe it when they have to brain-wash people to make them believe their propaganda. They have to be drowned out radio broadcasting from free countries. In Berlin the Communist have had to build a brick wall to keep free people out of their part of the country. You ask them, "Why do they kill or try to kill people going under or over 'The Wall'?" I think the reason is because they know that if they let the people that want to be free that the Communist empire will fall. Also in Communist-led countries, they have rights to vote, but the Communist party is the only party to vote for. The reason some Americans believe Communist rules and propaganda is because they did not know the real meaning of democracy.

DO YOU?

By IONA CLEVINGER

Last month we watched people that lived in East Berlin dig under "The Wall" to free themselves. They knew what freedom meant, but they were not allowed the privileged of freedom. They did not get to read or worship as they pleased protect against unjust action by their Communist rulers, or choose their own leaders or have any voice in their government.

As people watched it they thought, "We are lucky to have freedom." But it is not luck. We won our freedom through men who fought and died for it. We won our freedom and it is called "democracy". The word comes from two Greek words, "demos" meaning people, and "Kratein" meaning rule. The people rule. It also means respecting the right of others. In a democracy people are protected against the government. In a democracy people rule, control and make laws, and choose their own leaders.

After we won the war for our independence there were thirteen states, each like a republic. There was a central government for the nation.

Democracy is freedom of voting, how the people live, and their health.

Our democracy has grown and flowered as our nation has grown.

In Italy there once was a dictator named Mussolini. He did not like democracy. He said, "The people don't know what is best for them. There is too much foolishness and lost-motions. I've stopped the talk and the nonsense. I'm a man of action."

In World War II he found out what free men could do by working together.

Democracy does have weaknesses, though. Some of them are failure to understand the obligation of democracy, buying elections, special interests, and neglects. In some countries democracy is misunderstood and misused by the people. This should not cause us to look upon democracy as a poor or bad government but to work to understand it, and by a better understanding of democracy to be better citizens, and give our democratic government the kind of support that helps rather than hinders.

By BARBARA INSCORE

To work well a democracy needs many things. Some of these things are (1) free and honest elections, (2) secret ballots, (3) two or more political parties, so people with differing ideas on government can make their ideas known to the voters, (4) laws that apply equally to all people, rich or poor.

The Bill of Rights gives all Americans such rights as freedom of religion, freedom of the press, and freedom of speech. No one can take away these rights.

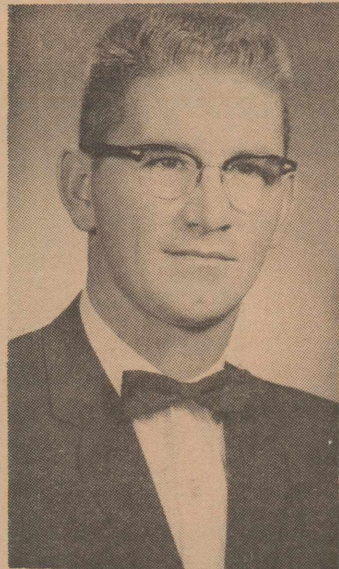

Brave people fought for these rights and others like them. The Pilgrims before they left the Mayflower promised they would be ruled by just and equal laws which would apply to all people. Roger Williams fought for religious freedom. To him, religious freedom meant freedom of worship for all people. Peter Zenger was a printer who fought for freedom of the press. Patrick Henry urged America to fight for its independence. "Give me liberty or give me death," he cried. All through history he has been known for this saying.

In 1869 women received the right to vote. Since then they have fought for many other rights and have gained most of them.

In the United States there are still many things we need to take care of. Some of these are: (1) better homes, (2) more and larger schools, (3) more money for old people, (4) more places for people to find work.

EASIEST, SUREST WAY TO RECORD TAX DEDUCTIONS

The butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker . . . pay them all by check and you'll have an accurate record of expenditures, and legal proof of payment!

At income tax time your cancelled checks are especially important. For example, you can't deduct the actual cost of your food, but you can deduct a certain portion of what you paid, because it was tax. With cancelled checks you can accurately figure that deduction — and prove it's valid!
