Hart School Budget Approved

IN THE HEYDAY OF Henry Ford, this was one of his best sellers. It's a 1915 Model-T and belongs to Paul Armstrong, eight-miles southwest of Hart. Children of the Armstrongs shown here are Brenda, 12, Mike, 11, and David, 7. Armstrong put the automobile together himself.

Hart school trustees approved the largest budget in the school's history and set the school calendar for 1963-64 at a meeting Thursday night.

The budget for 1963-64 amounts to $616,097.09, compared with $205,968.39 for last year. Most of the difference is the $360,000 bond issue for a new high school and junior high building which is incorporated in the new budget.

Estimated expenditures are $109.84 less than the expected revenue for 1963-64.

Total anticipated expenditures are $616,097.09. Total revenue expected is $616,206.93. Approximately $129,138 of this will come from local sources, based on 95 per cent collection of taxes.

A complete listing of revenues and expenditures expected in 1963-64 is printed on page 7 of today's Hart Beat.

The tax rate was set at $1.50 per $100 of assessed valuation, the same as last year. Valuations were increased to take care of the bond program.

In other activity at the meeting, the school board set this calendar for the year:

Aug. 26--Teachers report for in-service training.

Sept. 2--School opens.

Nov. 28 - 29--Thanksgiving holidays.

Dec. 20--School closes for Christmas holidays.

Dec. 30--School resumes after Christmas.

March 25--School dismisses for Easter holidays

April 1--School resumes after Easter holidays.

May 22--School dismisses.

Also approved by the board was a new policy in the lunchroom. In the future, the trustees decided, the lunchroom will be operated on a cash basis.

Each student will pay each day for his meal, thereby eliminating most of the bookkeeping involved.

A report on expected enrollment, by grades, in Hart schools next year, with last year's figures in parenthesis, shows:

1st grade: 90 (89); 2nd: 67 (62); 3rd: 61 (63); 4th: 63 (55); 5th: 54 (44); 6th: 42 (48); 7th: 47 (28); 8th: 25 (25); 9th: 25 (33); 10th: 33 (27); 11th: 27 (16); 12th: 16 (11).

Total expected enrollment is 550, compared with 501 last year.

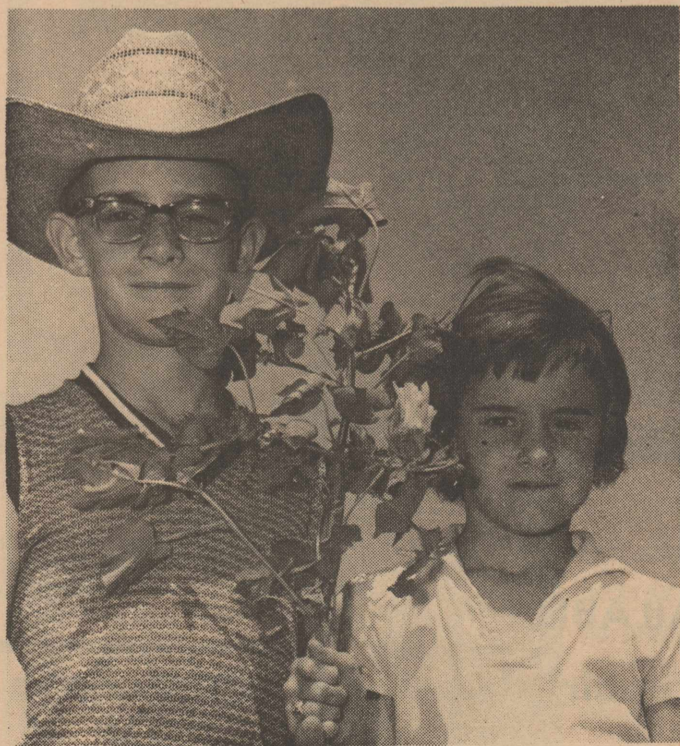

didn't make cars then with starters, generators or batteries," said Armstrong, "they didn't come in until 1919 and were extras then."

The farmer told that from 1909 to 1927, Ford made 15 million Model-T's. "And the same crank shaft fit every one of them," he added.

Taking a spin in the vehicle is sort of an adventure.

First the spark is retarded so the crank won't reverse directions and break an arm; next the gas lever is adjusted

WHAT IS thought to be the first cotton bloom in the Hart area is held here by Cathy and Vic Nelson. The two youngsters own an acre a piece of the two-acre patch, planted the 27th of April. They're paid 25 cents an hour and get the cotton that the land makes. Vic helps out by driving a tractor and hoeing. The two made more than three-and-1/2 bales off the two acres last year. They're the children of Mr. and Mrs. David Nelson, four-and-one-half miles southeast of Hart.

1915 Model-T Captures Spirit

Remember the old Model-T "lizzies" in the heyday of Henry Ford?

Can you recall the magneto headlights--the coal-oil tail-light, wooden-spoked wheels and the oooga, ooga of the coarse-sounding horn.

For Paul Armstrong those days have returned. He has a 1915 Model-T that reeks with the past.

More impressive about Armstrong's sleek-looking coupe, he searched out the parts and put it together himself.

He's a dandy sight steering the relic of yesteryears down Main Street in Hart.

The postmistress here teased Armstrong by telling him: "This is the first time I've ever handled a car through the post office."

Several pieces, including two tires from the Firestone factory have been mail-ordered.

Armstrong said, "I started putting it together last fall." He ordered the chasis, got some pieces from an Amarillo wrecking lot and the body, motor and fenders from Fort Worth.

"As a farmer, I get plenty of outdoor life", Armstrong said, "therefore when the weather is bad and winter comes on, I work on the model-T".

He tells that it's just a hobby and wishes others would get interested.

"As a member of the Horseless Carriage Club," said Armstrong, "our purpose is to restore the cars just as Henry (Ford) made them."

Collecting the antique relics of the road is the newest hobby in the U. S.

"The scarcity has made them valuable," says the Hart farmer. He estimates an offer of $1,500 to $2,000 would be made on his 1915 model.

"You'd be surprised how much early history a person picks up about automobiles by owning one of these old timers," said the A & M graduate.

He tells that the original 1915 cost was $750 and the average horsepower was 22 or 23. "They

ABLE WITH YOUR ELIHOOD OR LIFE

Be Wise! FOLLOW THESE SIX SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

1. Keep all equipment in good repair — know and use the safety rules in operating machinery on the farm and highways.

3. Eliminate all fire hazards around your farm — and be aware of fire dangers at all times. Don't smoke in barns!

5. Be careful around water holes, wells, and lakes. Learn how to swim and never go out in or on water by yourself.

2. Treat animals with caution — always speak to an animal as it is being approached. A frightened animal can be deadly.

4. Many accidents can be eliminated by keeping your farm clean and neat. Keep buildings in sound condition, too.

6. Learn the methods of first aid — keep a kit handy — and always apply first aid promptly when an accident occurs.

This & That

BY MYRT LOMAN

We will have another new business for Hart soon. Our latest is the artificial flower arrangements business in the office at the Hart Beat. We will be happy for you to come by and see them. Our other new business is to be a T. V. Shop in the building between the Hart Beat-Newman Dudley insurance and Rue's Beauty Shop.

The joy of being in the news paper business—there's nothing like it. But sometimes getting out the paper is no picnic.

If we print jokes, people say we are silly; if we don't they say we're too serious. If we stick close to the office, we ought to be around hunting material. If we go out and try to hustle news, we ought to be on the job in the office. If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate genius and if we do print them, the paper is filled with junk.

If we edit the other fellow's writeup, we're too critical and if we don't, we're asleep. If we clip things from other papers, we're too lazy to write them ourselves. If we don't, we're "Stuck on our own Stuff".

Now just as likely as not some guy will say we swiped this from some other paper. WELL WE DID.

to get her idling.

When the engine fires, the spark is pulled down and the gas lever pushed up. There are three pedals on the floor. The left one is low or neutral; the middle one is reverse and the pedal on the right is the brake.

Armstrong estimates his Model-T will split the breeze at near 35-miles-an-hour. With that, the 4-cylinder craft is treading on fringes of orbiting.

Armstrong hopes to find a touring body to go on the car.

In his spare time, he drifts over to the other workshop and works on a 1925 model-T.

"These are the only things I own," said Armstrong, "that become more valuable every day."

Watershed Conservation

Interest in watershed conservation is increasing steadily in this area, according to reports by Charley E. Hill, secretary of the ASC County Committee.

The interest here has been activated by the intended work on Running Water Draw.

Conservation measures are in the planning stage for the Draw. Other watershed programs are being planned and carried out throughout the nation.

Farmers and ranchers are sharing in these conservation programs.

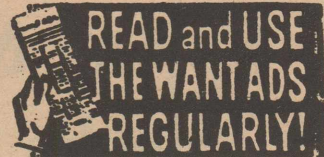

Last year conservation measures were applied on more than 113,000 farms in the United States.

The total farmer and rancher investment in these soil, water, woodland, and wildlife practices during 1962 amounted to about $40 million. Half this cost was covered by the Agriculture Conservation Program.

While farmers reap the immediate benefit from improved land management, a watershed protection program really benefits everyone in the community and nation.

Direct results have been pointed out. They are upstream watershed protection, reduction of siltation in lakes, streams, and reservoirs; better and cleaner water, and fewer damaging floods.

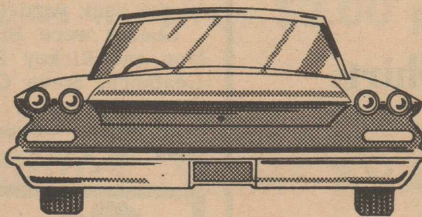

Indirect results include such benefits as economic stability and prosperity of both farm and urban industry, which are necessary for basic rural areas development.
