Hart Nurse Is High In State Test

Mrs. Geniva Hudson of Hart, a nurse in Dr. Bishoff's clinic in Dimmitt, recently ranked fourth highest in the state on a State Examination of licensing of vocational nurses.

Mrs. Hudson made a grade of 94. There 956 who took the examination, which was four and a half hours long.

She and her husband, Tom, moved to Hart from Throckmorton April 21, 1963. Tom does custom farm work.

A graduate of Eastland High School in 1956, Mrs. Hudson started working as a nurse's aid while her husband was in the army.

"I had nothing else to do and I had dreamed of becoming a nurse when I was a child," she explains.

She worked as a nurse's aid for five and a half years in Olney at the George B. Hamilton Hospital.

She had previously had nine months floor training at Ranger College in Throckmorton.

She worked about 17 months

MRS. GENIVA HUDSON

in Elizabeth Town, Ky., while her husband was stationed at Fort Knox.

She took half of her vocational training at Olney and the other half at Plainview, where she finished school last November.

She says that she knew what her goal was and she "wanted it bad enough to work hard to achieve it."

She adds that she has "enjoyed every minute of it."

Wheat Program For 1964 Offers Diversion Payment

Wheat growers who take part in the voluntary 1964 wheat program by meeting at least minimum diversion and other program provisions will be eligible for marketing certificates, Charley E. Hill, office manger, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today.

Also, he said that growers will be eligible for wheat price support loans and purchases if the farm's wheat acreage is not in excess of the farm allotment.

The loans will be based on county average of $1.27 per bushel, and they will be available for a participating grower's entire wheat production.

The domestic certificates--representing the producer's share of the wheat allocated for U.S. food--will have a value of 70 cents per bushel; they will cover 45 percent of the normal wheat production of the farm allotment.

The export certificates will be valued at 25 cents per bushel, representing wheat for export, and these, also, will cover up to 45 percent of the farm allotment's normal production.

In no case, however, will the certificates cover more than the normal production of the acreage determined for the farm. In case of underplanting or extra diversion, certificates will cover the "domestic" portion and then the remaining "export" portion.

Hill points out that the wheat program's diversion payment available on acreage shifted into a conserving use, will depend on a grower's diverting as many acres as he specifies when he signs up to participate. The diversion payment per acre will be based on 20 percent of the county's wheat loan rate, on the farm's normal yield.

The grower would be eligible for the marketing certificates even if he did not divert all the acreage he agreed to, provided he met the program's minimum acreage diversion and other provisions.

The deadline for signing up--the first step in qualifying as a program participant--is May 15.

FFA Team Fifth In State

Hart's FFA dairy products judging team placed fifth in the state in contests last weekend at Texas A&M University.

Joe Bob Sanders was second high individual in the contest. On Hart's team are Sanders, George Bennett and Elgin Brooks.

The dairy cattle judging team, Mark Martin, Bob Crick and Danny Godfrey, place 26th.

There were 89 teams in the contest.

Cotton Notices Go Out Soon

Cotton notices will be mailed to farmers soon, giving certain information applicable to the individual farm under the new "domestic" choice provided by recently enacted legislation.

Charley E. Hill, office manager, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said that the notices will be mailed as soon as the necessary determinations can be made by the Castro County office.

The notices will list the farm's domestic allotment, normal yield, and the rate per acre of the price support payment which will apply to the acreage planted for harvest within the domestic allotment.

As authorized by the new cotton law enacted April 11, planting within the farm's "domestic allotment" is one choice upland cotton growers have in growing the 1964 crop under the quota program approved by farmers last December.

If they choose to do this, they will get an extra price support payment of 3.5 cents a pound on the normal yield of the cotton acreage determined for the farm. This would be in addition to the regular price support loan, based on 30 cents a pound, middling 1-inch at average location. Growers on farms with an effective allotment, the regular allotment after any release or reapportionment, of more than 15 acres will also need to keep within the farm's feed grain base in order to get the extra price support payment.

In most cases, the office manager explained, a farm's domestic allotment will be 67 percent of the farm's effective allotment. For small farms, the domestic allotment will be the smaller of (a) the 1964 effective farm acreage allotment or (b) 15 acres.

Hill pointed out that acreage not planted to cotton because the producer chose the domestic allotment plan may be planted to other crops (with the feed grain limitations mentioned above), thus providing an additional source of income.

Other "allotment" choices under the 1964 cotton program are

(1) Planting within the farm's effective allotment,

(2) Planting an export acreage over and above the effective allotment, not to exceed 5 percent of such allotment.

Growers wanting to plant an "export market acreage" will have until June 1 to file an application at the ASCS county office and furnish a bond assuring that the cotton will be exported without Government subsidy.

Naturally, when you call Grandmother's phone, that's the one you expect to get, and you do. But that's not as easy as it sounds.

Your call must work its way through all sorts of interconnections, wires, cables, switches and so forth until, finally, it picks the right phone out of some 83 million in the U.S.

Yet, out of all the possible chances for mistakes, your call goes where you send it . . . in town or out-of-town, to Grandmother, wherever she is. This sort of reliability is the result of service improvements that keep increasing the convenience and personal value of your telephone.

Principal Feels Teacher Is Serving His Country

"A teacher is delegated the responsibility of training the youth of America to become good citizens and carry on the duties of this great nation with honor and dignity."

Malcolm Atwood, Hart High School principal, gave this answer as part of the reason he chose teaching as a career, adding:

"In some small way, I hope to help this to be achieved."

Atwood has been teaching for 11 years, four of which have been in Hart.

He taught three years in Rio Vista, two years in Tahoka and two in Henrietta.

He now teaches typewriting and bookkeeping. In the past, he has taught high school mathematics, physical education and has been a coach.

"My first interest as a young man was to be a coach", he says.

The principal adds that he was interested in teaching math and business subjects because he has always had a personal interest in these areas.

"I enjoy being around young people and taking part of their kind of activities," Atwood says.

"One of the reasons I chose teaching was because I felt that this would be a great opportunity to be of service to my country and to my community."

He says that, in order to "do his duty," a teacher must be completely dedicated.

"My profession holds a high position in society and has made great strides in improvements but we must continue to make improvements if we are to draw new and good teachers to the profession," he notes.

"It's an old story," he explains, "but industry has drawing powers that we as teachers do not match."

He points out that many people train to become teachers and then find, on graduating from college that their training is also wanted in industry and they can get better salaries there.

Only a small number of graduating seniors each year choose to go into the teaching profession.

"I fear," Atwood says, "that in the future, we will find it much harder to get the number of teachers we need and some of these will not have the profession at heart as a teacher should."

A 1947 graduate of Rio Vista High School, he says he was influenced by his high school superintendent who suggested that he go to college.

"He didn't indicate that I should become a teacher, though," Atwood says.

"I guess he knew me better than I knew myself."

He attended Tarleton Junior College for two years and graduated from Texas Tech with a BBA in 1951 and a masters in education in 1960.

He has majors in business education and administrative education with minors in commercial teaching, physical education and mathematics.

While in school, he participated in basketball, football and track.

He says that he still enjoys "all sports," noting that he is especially interested now in golf and fishing.

His educational plans call work on his doctorate.

"I feel that helping all students choose a field that they can succeed in is the most important area of my teaching field," Atwood explains.

He says that he is especially happy when he reads that one of "his" students have done something worthy and has made a mark in life.

"I am particularly proud," he continues, "when some student that did not have the means to go to college, but who, through my pushing, did go and graduate, goes on to make a good life for himself."

Tony Steiert Gives Lecture

Tony Steiert gave a slide lecture on Thailand at Dimmitt High School Tuesday. Steiert told the youths that people are basically the same the world over, in that they want security, something better for their children and to learn more of other people. "Though you can't travel to all countries," Steiert said, "you can avail yourselves of opportunities to learn more." He praised the student exchange program, saying that someday some of the students at the program might be exchange students. "The more we learn about other people, the easier it will be for everyone to get along in this world," Steiert pointed out.

Aqua Ammonia Is Discussed

BY BILL BENNETT
AGRONOMIST

Aqua ammonia as a nitrogen fertilizer is receiving increasing attention in the area. Most of the interest occurs in the sandy, lighter-textured soil area in Hale, Lamb and Bailey counties and the southern part of Castro and Parmer counties. A small amount of interest has been shown in the area of heavier textured soils in Hale, Castro and Deaf Smith county.

Aqua ammonia is not new. The main reason very little has been used is that it costs more than anhydrous ammonia and it takes longer to apply aqua than it does anhydrous.

Aqua ammonia is ammonia dissolved in water. It usually contains at least 20 percent nitrogen and is sold as 20-0-0. The material has a slight vapor pressure and has to be injected into the soil to a depth of one to two inches to avoid loss of nitrogen as ammonia. Compared to anhydrous ammonia and other nitrogen sources, aqua ammonia will give equal results when used on a nitrogen-equivalent basis.

The price of aqua ammonia will usually be quoted at a delivered price and a "pick-up" price, which is usually slightly lower if the nurse tank is picked up at the dealer's location. Some dealers do not deliver aqua to the farm. It takes four tanks of aqua to be equal to one tank of ammonia on a nitrogen-equivalent basis. Actual nitrogen from aqua will usually cost about 8 cents per pound. Actual nitrogen from anhydrous is 61/2 cents per pound.

The main reason given for using aqua instead of anhydrous is that too much ammonia is lost during application. If, for some reason, the chisel mark cannot be properly covered, for instance, in very cloddy soil or soil that is too wet, ammonia can be lost. If the chisel mark can be properly covered, there will be no loss of ammonia. If soil is too wet to close a chisel mark, compaction by tractor may cause more harm than the good you will get from either anhydrous or aqua. Even our most sandy soils that are being farmed have enough clay in them to hold the heaviest rates of ammonia normally used. The main advantage of aqua is its use on soil with very heavy stalk residue, however, there would be few situations where the higher cost of aqua could be justified over the use of anhydrous ammonia as a nitrogen source.
