VOLUME 11

HART, CASTRO COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1964

NUMBER 52

THE SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME — The new Tide Industries branch fertilizer plant east of town is rapidly taking shape. When completed, the blending plant will serve a twenty square mile area around Hart.

Methodist Revival Scheduled

A revival meeting will start Sunday, July 12 at the First Methodist Church.

Rev. Don Davidson, pastor at Lasbuddie, will be the evangelist.

The James Robert family of Lubbock will lead the singing. Rev. Davidson will speak twice daily at 7 a.m. and at 8 p.m.

The Methodist men will serve breakfast each morning at the church.

Fair Plans Are Made

Entertainment plans for the upcoming Castro County Fair were made Friday, July 3, at a fair board meeting in Dimmitt.

The request was made that all civic clubs and organizations interested in preparing an entertainment booth on the fair grounds contact fair officials now.

Pete Wright of Dimmitt is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Clubs preparing entertainment booths will receive 50 per cent of the net profits, with the other 50 per cent being placed in the Castro County Fair fund to help pay expenses.

Mrs. Roma Swindle represented Hart at the board meeting.

NEW PLANT TAKES SHAPE

The Tide Industries branch plant in Hart is rapidly taking shape east of town.

The Union Carbide subsidiary is investing between $150,000 and $175,000 in the fertilizer blending plant.

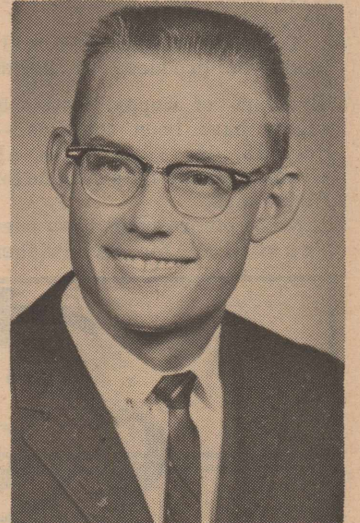

At present only the wood framework is up, but construction is proceeding at a rapid pace.

The Hart plant is one of several being built in the area. The plant at Littlefield is having its grand opening Sunday, and plants at Hereford and Farwell are now being completed. A plant will also be built at Seagraves.

Three of the plants have already been in use for some time. These plants are at Hearne, El Campo and Jennings, La.

The Hart plant will employ about four persons year-round. These include an agronomist, a plant manager, a salesman and a warehouse manager.

The operation is designed to serve areas of 20 square miles, enabling the individual service to be offered.

JERRY FELDER

Jerry Felder New Teacher

Jerry Felder, Texas Tech senior, has accepted a position as vocational agriculture instructor at Sperman High School.

Felder, 21, is a 1961 graduate of Hart High School and will graduate from the Lubbock college July 10.

Following his college graduation, he will move to Spearman to start his duties.

While at Texas Tech, Felder was president of the collegiate FFA chapter, a member of the Aggie Club, Rodeo Club, and was on the executive board of the Board of Student Organizations.

He was named to the Dean's Honor Roll this past semester while carrying a 27-semester-hour course load.

DENNIS McLAIN—the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L.C. McLain, started work Wednesday as a new bookkeeper for Farmers State Bank.

MONKEY BUSINESS

Don't monkey around with the monkeys!

'Twas on a visit to the zoo that this tale took place.

The characters—a long-tailed monkey and a Homo sapien.

But both of the figures of the tale were monkeying around, or so we are told.

'Twas before the cage containing the long-tailed monkey, or so we are told, that the tale began to unfold.

There was this monkey, you see, hanging on the wire of the cage—by paw, by foot, by tail—or so the tale was told.

'Twas then that the human struck.

It was only a friendly little pinch on the paw, but it was entirely too familiar to please the long-tailed character.

In a rage, or was it in revenge, the monkey reached out and grabbed a whole paw full of eyeglasses. And then the tables were turned, as the monkey smashed the glasses to pieces.

Terry Newman of Hart was pressed into emergency service as a seeing-eye guide to escort his grandfather, O.O. Breland, from Lubbock back from the zoo.

Which all goes to show that it sometimes doesn't pay at all to monkey with the monkeys in the zoo.

MULE TRAIN--J.D. Rogers, Sharron and John, might have been on the tail end of Plainview's recent Annual Rodeo Parade, but they got plenty of attention as their small shetland pony pulled them and a trailer with two rare shetland mules.

DAY CAMP PRACTICE--Girl Scouts from Hart are shown as they practice at the Dwight Miller home for Day Camp.

Loss Of Soil Nitrogen

BY BILL BENNETT, AGRONOMIST

A review of research recently released by TVA provides additional insight into losses of nitrogen by way of volatilization in the ammonia form into the atmospheres. The report was primarily a summary of the research work done on topdressing the various forms of dry nitrogen fertilizer such as ammonium sulphate, ammonium nitrate and urea.

The summary pointed out that nitrogen losses can occur on alkaline, calcareous soils which contain free calcium carbonate (caliche). The ammonium sulphate, ammonium nitrate or urea can apparently react with calcium carbonate to form ammonium carbonate. This compound is unstable and will break down and release nitrogen as a gaseous ammonia.

The extent of the loss will obviously depend on several factors. First, soils with a pH or soil reaction of 7.8 or 7.9 or less will contain little or no free calcium carbonate, hence, very little loss would be expected on these soils.

Soils with pH 7.9 or above usually contain free calcium carbonate. Soils with pH of 8.2 or 8.3 usually contain an excessive amount. When nitrogen is topdressed on these soils, losses can occur. Losses will usually be greater on hot days.

Losses can be prevented or decreased tremendously if the fertilizer is watered in soon after application or if it is chiseled into the soil or disked or plowed in.

The magnitude of losses of nitrogen by research workers varies considerably. Most of those reported will average around 10 to 20 percent loss of the nitrogen when left on the surface. Losses were usually greater from ammonium sulphate than from ammonium nitrate. This is because half the nitrogen in the ammonium nitrate is in the nitrate form.

A nine-run second inning by the Dimmitt Giants proved too much for the Hart Indians last Thursday as they fell to a one-run defeat, 15-14.

Bob Crick started for the Indians and was followed by Gary Rambo, Jim Kendricks, and finally Benny McKay.

Gary Rambo had three hits for Hart including a triple. Phil Davis had two hits also, including a triple. Benny McKay banged out a double, and M.J. Janeck bagged a single and a double. Bob Crick, the losing pitcher, made two singles.
