COTTON COMIN* — This field of Bob Bowden's cotton south of Hart was hailed on earlier this year, but both it and the sunset in the background were coming along in pretty good shape Tuesday evening.

Hart Longhorns Close Season With Happy Here Friday Night

The Hart Longhorns return to Hart this week to close out the 1964 football season and challenge the Happy Cowboys.

The Cowboys, standing 4-3-1 for the season, were a pre-season favorite to win the district crown, but they are out of contention for the title now.

Although the game will conclude the season for Hart, Happy will still have a trip to make to Nazareth before they can call it a year.

The Cowboys will probably be going all out to finish up the year with a couple of victories, and they are likely to prove to be very stiff competition indeed.

The Happy team does not boast a lot of speed in the backfield, but they have power to spare.

On either side of the big fullback will be a couple of senior halfbacks -- Joe Johnson and Tom Moudy. Moudy weighs only 138 pounds, but he is one of the two fastest men on the Cowboy squad.

The other speedster on the team is junior quarterback Gary Culp. Culp can run, pass and punt -- and will probably use all three talents Friday against the Longhorns.

The Cowboy line will have an advantage of more than 15 pounds per man on the average weights of the two units. That 15 per man advantage for Happy will also prevail in the backfield.

So the Longhorns will be facing a much larger team Friday than most of their previous opponents have been.

A common indication of relative strength of two teams is performance against common opponents. Both Hart and Happy have played Turkey, Silverton, Lazbuddie, Bovina, Vega and Texline so far this year.

Turkey tied Happy 8-8 in the Cowboys opening game. Later the Turks dropped Hart 33-0. Silverton downed Hart 30-14, and then fell 24-16 to the Cowboys.

Lazbuddie was Hart's only victory so far this season, 24-14. And the Cowboys downed Lazbuddie even better, 32-6.

Bovina dropped the Horns 41-0, but also downed Happy 20-12.

Vega stopped the Hart eleven 40-22, but the Tornados turned around and knocked off Hart 20-0.

From past records the last game of the season does not look extremely promising for the Longhorns, but then a football game is not always decided on past records.

HART ROLLS for 14-yard gain against Texline Tornados.

Cotton Harvest Ready To Roll With Freeze Due

Cotton harvest in the Hart area is running somewhat ahead of last year, but cotton producers are still needing a killing frost.

As of Wednesday afternoon, the three gins in Hart -- Hart Gin, Hart of the Plains Gin and Hart Producers Co-op Gin -- had turned out 820 bales of the fluffy 1964 crop.

The grade of cotton harvested in the area so far this year is quite good, according to unanimous consensus from all three gins.

With very good grade, and very few light spots, the ginners reports seem to indicate a good crop this year -- if the area gets a killing freeze in the very near future.

Cotton producers throughout the entire South Plains area have been waiting for that freeze, which is running behind schedule this year -- the average date being during the first week in November.

Asked about a freeze for the Hart area, the word from all three area gins was: "We could sure use a freeze right now."

And right now the weatherman is co-operating with the agricultural community -- for a change.

Forecasters at Lubbock said Wednesday that a killing frost is on the way and will reach the area possible "either Friday or Saturday morning."

The freeze is hopefully being delivered by a powerful Pacific cold front currently heading toward the Texas border. The front has left California drenched and flooded, and the mountain areas under a thick blanket of snow.

If the front brings in the freeze, as predicted, the area's cotton harvest should get underway in earnest.

With a couple of weeks after a killing freeze, the cotton crop should be rolling into the local gins in a veritable white flood.

Such a situation would, of course, be welcomed with open arms by cotton producers, cotton ginners and all the area businesses which reap benefits from each year's harvest.

Basketball Season Gets Underway; Girls Win Two

Football season is just about over, and helping to bring down the curtain on the gridiron action is the approaching basketball season.

Actually the approaching basketball season has already approached, with six 1964 games already past history.

Both "A" and "B" girls teams have played three games apiece -- with the A team sporting a 2-1 record so far, and the B team holding the short end of a 1-2 win-loss statistic.

The first series for the Hart girls was here Nov. 2, and Frenship provided the opposition.

As a matter of fact, Frenship provided a little too much competition for the B team -- downing the Hart defenders, 53-14.

The Hart A team came out on top, though, 47-38.

The Hart girls traveled to Roosevelt Nov. 5 and found the competition mighty stiff. The Roosevelt A team chalked up an 85-46 win, and the Roosevelt B team carted off a 43-21 victory.

Tuesday the Lockney girls invaded Hart territory, and the Hart girls collected the first clean sweep of their young season. Hart's A team downed Lockney 43-37, and the Hart B team claimed a 21-18 victory.

Prior to the start of the regular season, the girls scrimmaged both Lakeview and Bovina. Coach Hayden Moore reported that the girls proved superior to their opposition in all four scrimmage sessions.

The next game is set for Tuesday, Nov. 17. The action will start at 5:30 p.m. in the high school gym here, and three games are slated with visiting Spade teams -- A girls and both A and B boys teams will take to floor to kick the season off in high style.

Use Zip For Zip

"Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night..." The mail must go through and indeed it does, but Postmaster Jewel Brooks adds this postscript to the quotation:

"While it is true that bad weather doesn't stop the mails, it certainly can slow them down."

She mentioned that planes can't get off the ground, switches on railroad tracts can freeze up, trucks must move more slowly and cautiously over highways and added:

"In many places, mailmen might wish for the warmth of an igloo."

Mrs. Brooks said she was bringing this matter up "simply to let the people know that there is a factor that we just can't control...the weather."

She stressed the importance of mailing Christmas cards and gifts early to assure on-time delivery.

"Even if you don't know the code for the address of the people to whom you'll be sending cards and gifts, you should use the code on your return address. And you should record the codes from the return addresses of those who are writing to you."

Postmaster Brooks concluded that shopping early, mailing early and using zip codes will "really put zip into your Christmas mailings...and give your mailmen a hand too."

TEXLINE TOPS

The Hart Longhorns made a long trip north last week to try their luck against the Texline Tornadoes.

The temperature was cold, the reception was cool and the Texline Tornado was hot.

When the Tornadoes finished blowing through the herd, they had scattered the Longhorns to the tune of 20-0.

The Horns lost the toss -- merely a prelude to things to come.

But there was no warning about the speed with which the Tornado struck. The opening kickoff was returned for the fastest score of the season against the Horns.

And a second touchdown was not long in following the first.

The Longhorns were hurt by several explosive Texline plays, but the game was mostly Texline's all the way.

The Horns were never able to mount a really serious offensive threat against the Tornadoes, and, consequently, were on the defensive almost through on the defensive almost all through the game.

The Tornadoes capitalized on the quick TD to throw the Longhorns off balance, and marched for the second score. The Longhorn defense then managed to hold the North Texas group in check -- except for Hart offensive miscues.

The Tornadoes almost turned an interception into a TD in the closing seconds of the first half, but the combination of Hart defense and ticking clock stopped them. However, they successfully converted a fourth quarter interception into an additional six points.

Larry McKay started things off by kicking the pigskin to the Texline 20-yard line, but Tornado quarterback Keith Sheets put the game on ice -- as it turned out -- by returning the opening kickoff 80 yards for a fast six points.

Pete Montoya ran the extra points, and Texline led 8-0 with only 14 seconds gone in the game.

McKay returned Texline's kickoff 13 yards to the 39-yard line.

Gary Heller passed incomplete on the first offensive play from the line of scrimmage in the game. Then David Smith took over the offensive chore and toted the ball seven yards in two carries to the 46, and Danny Rodriguez punted 31 yards to the 23.

Texline put the ball in play at the 27, and there began a 73-yard drive for a second six-pointer. It took the Tornadoes ten running plays to reach the far end of the field.

Keith Sheets, Len Sheets and Pete Montoya did the carrying, picking up four first downs along the way.

Montoya picked up the score, taking three treis to move in from the 10-yard line.

The run for the extra points was stopped short, and the Tornadoes led 14-0 with almost five minutes left in the first period of play.

The second time they got their hands on the ball, the Longhorns put it in the first period of play.

The second time they got their hands on the ball, the Longhorns put it in play at the 37-yard line. Three plays later the ball was resting back a yard at the 36. Rodriguez punted to the 20-yard line.

The Texline receivers bobbled the punt, and Leo Martinez was finally thrown down at the 14.

Three plays and three yards later, Texline punted.

The punt was partially blocked, and Harvey Sullivan bailed it in at the 30-yard line and returned it to the 21.

It began to look like the Horns were going to get into the game after all. Smith moved the ball down to the 18, and Doug Martin pushed down to the 13 -- Smith gaining the first down at the 11 (the first

The Longhorns started again, from the 24 this time. Rodriguez gained three yards, and an interference call on Gary Reeves gave Hart a first down at the 35.
The Horns were unable to advance the ball past the 37, and Rodriguez punted to the 33-yard line in the other end of the field.
The Tornadoes started their first consistent drive in the last half, and it began to look as though the Hart defense might have a real problem.
Pete Montoya started the drive by going 10 yards for the down at the 43.
Then Len Sheets went out to the 46, and a 15-yard penalty moved the ball into Hart territory at the 40.
Three plays netted the Tornadoes only four yards, but then Keith Sheets ran for the first down at the 29.
Four more running plays netted another first down at the 16.
Len Sheets gained a yard, Keith Sheets gained another, and Pete Montoya moved down to the 7-yard line. Quarterback Sheets attempted to pick up the first down, but he was stopped inches short at the 6-yard line.
With the example of the defense, the offense came to life for Hart.
Smith gained to the 10-yard line, and a penalty moved the ball out to the 25.
Four running plays netted another Horn first down at the 39.
A five yard penalty moved the ball up to the 44, and Rodriguez moved into Tornado territory for a first down at the 42.
Rodriguez, Martin and Smith moved the ball to the 32 and another first down.
Martin gained two yards, Heller picked up three, Rodriguez picked up three, but Smith was stopped at the 23 -- a yard shy of the first down.
A penalty on a five-yard loss by Keith Sheets -- brought down by Larry McKay -- gave Texline a first down.
On the next play, however, Hawkins intercepted a Tornado aerial attempt and returned to the 38 in Texline's end of the field.
Four plays later, though, Keigh Sheets intercepted a Heller pass and returned it to the mid-field stripe.
It took the Tornadoes eight plays and three first downs to move in for the score.

The drive was capped by a 19-yard pass play from Keith Sheets to Leo Martinez.
Montoya was stopped on the run for extra points, and Texline led 20-0 with less than a minute remaining in the game.
Smith returned the final kickoff 32 yards to the Tornado 48. Heller passed twice, incomplete both times. Then Pete Montoya intercepted a Heller pass at the 29.
Texline was unable to move the ball past the 35 before time ran out, but the Tornadoes had whistled through the herd -- scattering them for a 20-0 conference loss.

Presidential Libraries Are Discussed

Plainview -- Declaring that "presidential libraries are in the American tradition," Dr. William D. Aeschbacher, director of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Library, Abilene, Kans., explained away some of the misinformation that is circulated about such libraries when he spoke for the first 1964-65 American Heritage Program meeting coordinated by Wayland Baptist College for 11 area public schools, including Olton and Hart.

Some 65 persons heard him at the dinner session in Slaughter Memorial Center, where he was introduced by C. F. Ogilvie, assistant professor of history and coordinator of the American Heritage Program.

"Too many persons think that tax money has been used to build and equip the four presidential libraries now in use," says Dr. Aeschbacher. "President Franklin D. Roosevelt first proposed to provide a building and the land for the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, N. Y. In 1955 Congress passed a bill that states that a building must be provided and the papers must be given to the government before such a library will be placed under General Services Administration for the National Archives to administer," he explained.

"Many changes have taken place since President George Washington set the precedent for 'what to do with presidential papers.' When he left office he loaded five carriages with his papers and took them to Mount Vernon.

"Something that many persons do not understand is that any president can take all his papers and burn them at any time, and some of them have done just this, causing much research material to be lost to posterity and history.

"Another little known fact is that the government has bought some of these historic papers from descendants of presidents. The first of this group were the papers of James Madison."

Dr. Aeschbacher explains that the presidential libraries offer a narrow field of concentration but without these primary source materials, matters with which the president primarily dealt during his years in office, much valuable material is lost.

"The government has not furnished money for the four presidential libraries to be built. Our records show that some 17,480 persons contributed to funds for this memorial library. We think the Eisenhower Library a beautiful memorial structure and we are constantly adding memorabilia."

Pinched Feeling Of Having Less While Making More Is Explained

If you made $5,000 in 1939, you need $12,743 today just to stay even.

The family making $13,500 borrows even more today than does the family making $5,000. Both statements are made this month by Changing Times in its probe of the common complaint:

"The more we make, the less we seem to have."

The Kiplinger magazine believes that overall most people are probably much better off than they used to be, whether they realize it or not.

It points out, though, that while the Consumer Price index has risen only 15 per cent over the past 15 years, items that are taking more of the prosperous family's income have risen much faster.

Findings show that ladies go to the beauty parlor twice as often as they did 15 years ago.

In ten years the cost of hospital room and board had doubled, and estimates are that it will be up almost another 50 per cent by 1970.

Over the same ten-year period, the cost of sending a child to college for one year has risen around 40 per cent to 50 per cent. Indications are that there'll be an additional rise of about 5 per cent to 7 per cent from now on.

Exploring the subject, "Why You Feel Pinched," the Kiplinger editors note, too, that "as a family increases its income, it adds a great deal more each year to its assets, even though it may not always be aware of the improvement."

"Actually, when your income rises, all expenditures don't go up in the same proportion."

Those expenditures that tend to go up faster than income include taxes, insurance, clothing, educational expenses, recreation, gifts and contributions, as well as additions to net worth.

"Other items, such as housing, transportation, and food, don't go up as fast as income."
