NUMBER 1

WHERE IS THE RAIN?--This question is being asked more and more as irrigation wells continue to run at full speed in the area. After one of the wettest Junes ever, July weather has been its usual hot and very dry self.

Water Flows, Crops Grow

Farmers continue to pour the water to crops, only a few weeks after most were asking the rains to stop.

Some farmers have run into an unusual problem with lake pumps this year--they can't get to them because of the water.

Now most appear ready to see the sky cloud up again.

Either the pumps themselves are under water, or stands built to hold pumps up have been washed out so badly that the pumps are inoperable.

With the wheat harvest over, original dismal forecasts on the crop seem to have been disproved. Despite wet weather and wind at harvest time, total production appears to have been at least average, and much better than average in many locations.

Crops on the whole seem to be looking very good, with cotton from six to 12 inches tall, and sorghum two to four feet high.

Two elevators in Hart reported nearly .5 million bushels of wheat brought in.

Meanwhile, the long dry months of July and August have started and farmers continue to hope for rain, only three weeks after most of the were hoping for it to stop.

And despite some early predictions about a labor shortage, there appears to be little difficulty in securing hoe hands.

Tractor drivers are still needed as cultivation gets into full swing, but heavy application of weed killer appears to have held weeds down sufficiently for hoe hands available to get around to different field.

Immunization Clinic Is Set

Farmers have completed soy bean planting, some to raise as a cash crop on halled out cotton ground, others to hold down the soil on diverted acreage and others to serve as a dual role, both as a cash crop and to hold down the soil on wheat ground.

An immunization clinic for migrant workers will be held in Earth at the Community Center Monday from 7-9 p.m.

Soy beans appear to be at a premium. One elevator manager estimated the crop to be 50 per cent larger than last years' if all farmers who bought seed harvest the crop.

Sponsored by the Texas State Department of Health, Migrant Projects, and the Earth Young Homemakers shots will be given to adults for diphtheria, polio and tetanus, and to children under eight years of age for diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis.

Another manager reported farmers from as far as 160 miles from the Hart area buying soy bean seed for replanting purposes.

Dr. Charles Bausman will be present at the clinic. Farmers are urged by the health department to ask tenants to attend.

English Woman Visits Hart And Speaks To Girl Scouts.

A woman from England who, "Just came to see the country," talked to approximately 30 Olton Girl Scouts and mothers last Friday on how similar the Girl Scouts and the Girl Guides of England are. Yvonne Vautier, "the name's French," said the two organizations were slightly different, but there are really more similarities than differences. Miss Vautier earlier talked to a group of Scouts from Hart and said she would be delighted to have the opportunity to talk to others on her trip West if she were asked. Miss Vautier said she was not representing the Girl Guides in any official role in the United States. "I was coming to the United States, and since I have been a leader in the Girl Guides for eight years, was pleased to have the chance to talk to some of the girls here." Miss Vautier was staying with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burrus in Plainview. She met Mrs. Burrus in England when the Burrus' made a European trip several years ago.

Annual Day Camp Ends After Energetic Campouts

Fifteen local Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts ended a week of annual Day Camp activities on a high note of enthusiasm Friday.

Mrs. Ralph Wilson of Friona was official Day Camp visitor. Other out of town guests were Mrs. Elvin Wilson of Friona, Mrs. Tom Vestal of Plainview, and William Alling Jr. of Dallas.

How does she like Texas? "Oh, I just love it. I've been here a fortnight, that's two weeks, and have enjoyed every minute of it."

During the week, the girls practiced the seven basic scout skills in camping and participated in supervised games.

Scouts registered for the camp were Jana Hill, Ann Moore, Cynthia Smart, Carla Rambo, Nora Tovar, Donna Welty, Joyce Welty and Kathy Cheves.

She first arrived in the United States, eight week ago, and traveled through Washington, D. C., the New England states, New York, Virginia and Tennessee, before heading west.

They also practiced the patrol system, by which each girl could take part in all camp activities.

Also registered were Jan Harris, Cheryl Friday, Jean Foster, Suzanne Hawkins, Jennifer Smart, Jackie Seago and Shirley Flippo.

Miss Vautier, who lives in Ruislip, Middlesex County, near London, said there was no comparison between the two countries.

Activities included a flag ceremony at the beginning and the end of each day, pitching tents and campfire cooking. Four senior scouts from Friona, Darlen Wilson, Jan Welch, Frieda Floyd and Martha Martin, visited and led songs and games for the group.

"We are only an island, while your country is so vast."

Skating Slated At Hart School

Hart Public School is sponsoring skating at the Hart Elementary School each Saturday. Skating begins at 6:30 p.m. and ends at 9:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the sessions.

Staff for the day camp consisted of Mrs. Willis Hawkins Jr., unit leader; Mrs. Leonard Welty, assistant unit leader; Mrs. Jeff Smart, assistant director, and Mrs. Arthur Cheves director.

She said the climate was the main difference. "London is much more damp, although parts of England have weather close to this part of the United States."

Local guests included Mrs. Ed Harris; Mrs. Guy Ford Jr., Mrs. Carl Rambo, Mrs. Bud Hill, Kelley and Lisa; Mrs. Friday and her daughter; Mrs. J. Haden Moore and Kathy; Brenda Cheves, Leoria Welty, Jeff Smart and G. C. Graves.

Speaking to scout groups is only a little extra job for Miss Vautier, who is a secretary by trade.

"I plan to travel to the West Coast and get a job for a while, since I will be here two years."

And before she concluded the talk with, "Jolly to have seen you," she said right now her plans were to, "just see the country and meet the people."

A VISITOR FROM ENGLAND--Yvonne Vautier, touring the United States, spoke to several Girl Scout groups in the area while visiting with friends in Plainview. She has been an active Girl Guide leader in England for eight years.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cole of Hart. Mr. and Mrs. Floy Richardson of Post are parents of the groom.

Best man was Jerry Stone of Post. Ushers were Gary Cole of Hart, brother of the bride, and Ronnie Gurdine, of Amarillo, cousin of the groom.

The altar of the church was decorated with pink and white carnations. Pink and white bows were attached to the pews of the church.

At the reception held immediately following the wedding ceremony in the community center, the serving table was covered with a white gathered cloth. Hormone Applications May Reduce Cotton Water Need

(Editor's note--This is one of a series of articles prepared by the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway on water and soil conservation, and what the Foundation is doing to solve the problems connected with these two areas.)

Farmers have searched many years for ways to produce crops on less water. This may be just around the corner for Texas farmers.

Laboratory, greenhouse and field experiments currently underway at the Foundation may disclose the possibility of securing the same yield from cotton on 1/4 to 1/2 of the irrigation water now used.

A hormone applied in research by Dr. Arthur F. Gohlke assistant director and senior soil scientist for the Foundation, has been found to produce cotton plants with shorter stems thicker stems, and thicker darker green leaves than untreated plants. This change of the plant inhibits the evaporation of water through the leaves of the plant.

Treated plants undergo a great change, but this change does not reduce the yield or quality of harvested cotton. The application of the hormone in sufficient amounts shortens the internode distance between leaves and stem.

This, in turn, produces a shorty dry weather cotton plant capable of possibly producing from one to two bales of cotton per acre on less irrigation water.

The Plains of Texas grows 16 percent of the nation's cotton on 1.6 million irrigated acres. Water alone has made this possible. It is hoped that by the full utilization of this chemical hormone, the productivity of the land can be maintained.

It is thought that yields on dryland cotton may be obtained, through the use of this hormone, similar to those now being harvested off irrigated acres. On irrigated land, the reduction of up to 50 percent of irrigation needs might not be too far in the future. Due to the dwarfing effect on the plant caused by the hormone, it is also thought that yields may be increased in some instances by closer planting of the crop.

At this time, Dr. Gohlke reports his research will be complete on this project in about three years. The results of the 1964 hormone research showed an increase in lint of from 16 to 50 percent per acre. Quality was unaffected with some indication of a stronger fiber.

Sidedressing Of Cotton Discussed By Agronomist

BY W. F. "BILL" BENNETT, AGRONOMIST

Cotton is off to a good start this season in some areas. It has been hit by wet weather and blight in some areas. This past week of warmer weather and higher soil temperatures has caused cotton to start growing faster. The question comes up as to whether to sidedress.

If your cotton is off to a good start and a good stand, yield potential on cotton is good. This says that possibility of profit from fertilizer looks good.

First, lets look at nitrogen. If cotton follows grain sorghum, nitrogen is definitely needed. A good rate is 80# ammonia per acre on heavier textured soils. If cotton follows cotton or wheat, 50 to 60 # ammonia should be sufficient on heavier textured soils. On light textured sandy loam soils, increase these rates by 20# nitrogen.

Phosphorus can still be applied. The most convenient way to apply it now is as a liquid with a dual applicator. Sidedressed phosphorus by 4-6 leaf stage should be as beneficial as preplant. Sidedressed phosphorus could still be profitable up to first square. It should be applied soon, however. A suggested rate of phosphorus for cotton is 110 to 135# 11-37-0 or 200 to 250# 11-20-11S per acre on clay loam soils and 135-165# 11-37-0, 350 to 300# 11-30-11S per acre on sandy loam soils.

When sidedressing cotton, be careful not to prune roots. It would be desirable to apply fertilizer, particularly phosphorus, just ahead of new root growth. Applying it on 20-inch centers is still satisfactory for most cotton but it may be necessary on taller cotton to place it in the middles.
