Mayor Proclaims Clean-Up Week

Raising Rabbits

Don Follis Finds Hobby Is Also Money Maker

Don Follis, 16-year-old son of Mrs. Juanita Follis, has gone into the "rabbit business" to help pay his school expenses.

Don, who underwent surgery last October to correct a spine problem, was hospitalized for six weeks then was at home in bed, before returning to the hospital in November to have a rod removed from his back.

He was confined to the hospital for another month and then returned home, where he recuperated, spending approximately six months total time in bed.

Now that Don is able to walk, he had decided to do something to help his mother with family expenses as his father was taken in death last year prior to Don's operation.

Don now has three grown rabbits and 15 baby ones. He plans to sell these or at least a part of them. He spends quite a lot of time with a colt and shetland pony which belongs to his older brother.

Although Don is able to walk, he cannot sit, so he must either stand or lie down. He is very patient about his condition and is not easily discouraged.

And besides -- he's a full six inches taller than before his operation!

WHEAT HARVEST UNDERWAY--Wheat harvesting operation in the Hart area got underway last week with the first load of wheat reported in Hart Thursday. Freeze damage is expected to make a sizeable cut in the total yield of this year's crop.

Work To Begin Here June 19

Mayor E. E. Foster has declared the week of June 19 through June 24 as "Clean-Up Week", in the City of Hart.

City commission requests that each business furnish a truck or personnel to help with the clean-up work. If the businesses have no one who can help, the city will furnish a worker and the business can pay for the labor.

The residents are also asked to clean up around their homes and to clean any vacant lot which belongs to them. All trash and rubbish is to be put in the alleys, where the trucks will pick it up Friday and Saturday of that week.

Everyone in the city is asked to participate in this clean-up program to make the city a cleaner place to live and help solve the mosquito problem.

Paul And Thomas Brooks Harvest First Wheat Here

Paul and Thomas Brooks officially began the 1967 wheat harvest in Hart last Thursday.

The two, who farm 1 1/2 miles west of Hart on the Sunnyside highway, brought in a 14,560 pound load of wheat to Hart Grain Co. about 3 p. m.

Wister Clevenger, Hart Grain Co. manager, said the grain tested 14.2 per cent moisture and 61 pounds per bushel.

Clevenger said the yield seemed to be hurt by the late season freeze.

The wheat was Tascosa variety and brought the two farmers $2.00 a bushel, or a premium of about 50 cents a bushel.

School Board Hears Reports, OK's Remodeling Project

Hart school board members heard reports by Supt. Andy Gardenhire and voted to go ahead with a remodeling project during a Monday meeting.

When work at the school is done, the school nurse's office will be located in the building north of the elementary school.

Currently, the building houses Title I reading classes and special education classes and the nurse is located next to the grade school principal's office.

Supt. Gardenhire reported to the group on visits made to school districts during the past two months and also presented board members with copies of the Texas Education Agency's bulletin on accreditation for individual study.

Board members postponed action on teacher salary schedules until the next board meeting, and also tabled a study on the county re-evaluation program.

In other action, the board authorized Charlie Howell to plaster three houses in the group just west of the school.

PACKAGES TO VIET NAM--Members of the Hart chapter of Beta Sigma Phi are shown packaging goods donated to the group to send to area servicemen serving in Viet Nam. The group said they had a very good response to their request for goods. The sorority is also "adopting" a company of servicemen to donate goods to during their Viet Nam stay. Pictured wrapping the items are Mrs. Theron Morrison, Mrs. Ronnie Farris, Mrs. Paul Armstrong, Mrs. Melvin Aven and Mrs. Glyn Reed.

Clyde Wimberly Goes To Viet Nam

Sergeant Clyde Wimberly, who has been home on a 45 day leave, left Monday for Viet Nam. He and his family had just returned from Germany.

While he is in Viet Nam, his wife and children, Kaime, two-years-old and Cindy, four-years-old, will live here in Hart.

His father, John C. Wimberly, resides at Olton.

Election day 1968 is beginning to cast its shadow across the political landscape. Unless he chooses not to run for some presently unforeseen reason, President Johnson will be the Democratic standard bearer.

Granting that it will not be easy, Republican strategists generally believe that President Johnson can be defeated in 1968, and because of this the Republican presidential nomination promises to be a hotly pursued political plum. Opinion polls taken just before convention time will strongly influence the final choice.

At the present moment, Richard Nixon is front-runner for the nomination. This is the opinion of Republican leaders in all 50 states polled in a recent U. S. News & World report telephone survey. Gov. Romney is considered the most likely second choice. According to U. S. News, "Many top party people expect the Republican National Convention to turn into a head-on struggle between the forces of Mr. Nixon and those of Mr. Romney.

If neither of these men gets a majority of the 1,333 delegates, the final choice could come from among half a dozen others, including 'favorite son' candidates."

Among these will be Governor Rockefeller of New York, Senator Charles Percy, the new senator from Illinois, Ronald Reagan, Governor of California, now the nation's most populous state, and James Rhodes, Governor of Ohio, who has proven his campaigning ability by impressive election victories in his own state.

It is generally felt that if Mr. Nixon is to win the nomination he must do so in the early stages of the convention. Although most Republicans consider him the most qualified, he carries with him the burden of having lost the presidential race in 1960 and the governorship in California in 1962.

According to the U. S. News survey, Nixon is the betting choice of party officials in 25 states with 610 convention votes, but his commanding lead could quickly melt away if repeated balloting should give time for doubt of his winning ability to develop among delegates on the convention floor.

If this should happen, Governor Romney is now expected to be next in line. His campaign organization will be devoted to establishing him as a national figure of decisive character with the force to carry a national election. But, some feel he is starting too early and so far there has not been the kind of enthusiasm toward Governor Romney that will be needed.

For the time being, Governor Romney has the whole-hearted support of Governor Rockefeller, whose vast personal resources and contacts combined with his experience as Governor of New York, make him one of the most knowledgeable and influential figures on the Republican political scene.

He has stated unequivocally that he is not in contention for the nomination, but the pressures on him to reconsider will be great as the convention deadline nears. At this stage, neither Senator Charles Percy nor Ohio's Governor Rhodes are well enough known on the national scene to appear likely as contenders for the top position on the ticket, but this can change in the months ahead, and Senator Percy does have one advantage at present over any of the top-running contenders -- he has no established powerful political enemies.

Governor Reagan's meteoric rise in California, undimmed by several months in office, makes him a growing force of as yet undetermined proportions. Although the Eastern Wing of the Republican party apparently considers his nomination impossible, Newsweek magazine estimates that, "Reagan, merely by making himself slightly available, could pick up as many as 300 delegates, almost entirely at Nixon's expense." As California's favorite son, he is assured of another 86.

The fascinating business of American politics is getting into full swing once again. As Newsweek observes, "For Republicans, 1968 is not just a presidential year, it is the big year-- the year they expect to elect a President." Every effort will be made to pick a winning combination with a positive approach to the nation's issues and problems and with less emphasis on philosophical dogma.

The names of the presidential candidate and his running mate will probably not be known until the final count is in on the last of many roll-call votes.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford

A task force of federal officials, here for a conference on federal-state relations, got an earfull from disgruntled state agency officials who complained of poor communication between Austin and Washington.

Gov. John Connally opened the conference by telling the men from D. C. that the federal grant system is characterized "by misunderstanding, disharmony and, in some instances, utter confusion."

Other state officials got down to specifics when the conference broke up into small groups to discuss intergovernmental coordination, health and welfare, education, water development, outdoor recreation, economic opportunity and manpower development.

INSTITUTE OF TEXAS CULTURES--Newest state office to open in Austin is the Institute of Texans Cultures. It's task is to assemble educational exhibit material for the ITC building at the HemisFair in San Antonio.

After HemisFair '68 closes its six months' run, the educational program by the State of Texas will be continued there as a permanent feature.

Institute is under the direction of H. Henderson Shuffler, former West Texas newspaperman who has been heading the UT Texana programs for the past five years. Exhibits will portray the colorful history of Texas in terms of the people who made that history.

COURTS SPEAK--Supreme Court will hear arguments July 19 on whether parents can collect damages for premature birth and subsequent death of a child due to injury of the mother in an accident.

In other questions the high court:

* Agreed to review the $200,000 judgment favoring a workman who was burned when his bulldozer burst an underground pipeline in Brazoria County.

* Upheld a trial court decision awarding damages to a woman who lost her hair from application of a lanolin bath on bleached hair (extending doctrine of strict liability to cases other than foodstuff).

* Found parents of injured child who poured kerosene on smoldering stick are not barred from suit against an oil company which allegedly adulterated fuel with gasoline.

AGRICULTURE AND THE URBAN LEGISLATURE--Although the lawmakers turned down a proposal for creation of a coordinating board to study problems in agriculture, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White was given the job--and the money--to make the sort of studies envisioned for the proposed super-board.

In the appropriations bill, funds were earmarked for studies on ways to expand marketing outlets for Texas commodities and research on boll weevil eradication, aflatoxin control, peanuts, plums, peaches, dairy products, fire ants, castor beans, vegetables, cotton, mohair, wool and statistics on county farms.

In addition, appropriations were bigger and better than ever for the Texas Animal Health Commission, A&M's Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension Service, salaries for teachers of veterinary medicine and the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES--Texas gas and oil production taxes do not apply to gas and oil which is severed in Texas, but produced from reservoir located entirely out of state, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other opinions Martin concluded that:

* "Cable TV" concerns are not required to pay gross receipts tax charged telegraph message companies.

* Parks and Wildlife Department has authority to control and protect marl, sand, shells, gravel and oyster-bed resources and to seek court action to protect fish and shellfish breeding grounds against disturbances (except those necessary to navigational purposes).

* Lamar County Hospital district may pay private institutions located within its district for medical care rendered to needy and indigent in district's own facilities.

* State Board of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists has authority to refuse to issue a license for operation of a business which has same name as one previously licensed and still in operation.

* Sharpstown State Bank can purchase a building in Sharpstown Center, Houston, with legal limitations governing bank investment of capital.

PADDED PAYROLLS--Gov. Connally is keeping state employees and legislators guessing as to whether he will veto a bill which would improve retirement benefits for both.

Connally has made known he is giving serious consideration to a veto because lawmakers tagged benefits for themselves onto a bill designed originally for state employees.

While retired workers would get a 10 per cent hike in their pensions, credit for five years military time, disability provisions and benefits for widows and dependent children, legislators would receive a 50 per cent hike in their retirement compensation under the tampered bill that passed late in the session.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service has issued its preliminary county by county report on 1966 Texas cotton production, showing 1,293,700 bales of 500-pound gross weight produced in the 23 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

This compares with a 2,227,000 bale revised production figure for 1965. The huge reduction was a joint result of fewer planted acres and adverse weather conditions last year.

Under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 producers were required to reduce plantings by 12.5 per cent in order to qualify as "cooperators," and in addition were given the option to reduce up to 35 per cent and receive payments on all acreage diverted from production.

High Plains producers cut plantings back an average of 32.5 per cent below 1965, from 2,170,400 to 1,466,300 acres according to the report.

The production cut however comes to 41.9 per cent.

Weather worked two ways to bring the 1966 total down. First, losses to hail, sand and drouth resulted in 5.7 per cent less acres being harvested than were planted. In 1965 such losses amounted to 5.3 per cent.

Second, wet, cold weather and an early freeze reduced yield per harvested acre from 519 pounds in 1965 to 449 pounds in 1966.

The High Plains crop last year figured 40.6 per cent of the 3,182,000 bales produced in Texas, considerably below normal. For the past several years this area's production has been between 45 and 50 per cent of the state total.

The following table show planted acres, harvested acres, yields per acre and total production for the 23 High Plains counties in 1966, along with yields per acre and total production in 1965.

A dollar limit in government payments to individual producers of all farm commodities was again narrowly avoided June 6 when the House of Representatives in Washington voted on the Agriculture Appropriations Bill.

Amendments to the bill, proposing that no farmer be allowed to receive more than $25,000 in government price support and diversion payments for all crops produced, was introduced by Representative Paul Findley of Illinois.

According to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the measure was defeated only as the result of a strong effort by Texas' Nineteenth District Congressman George Mahon and other farm belt leaders in the House.

Johnson said "Too many urban people and their legislators fail to recognize government payments to farmers for what they are -- an inseparable part of the price received by the producer for his commodities and a part without which in most instances such commodities could not and would not be produced."

He went on to say that limiting the payments that could be made to large producers would be rank discrimination against the agricultural initiative and drive which now feeds and clothes the people of the United States for a much smaller percentage of total income than in any other nation of the world.

"When consumers realize and admit this fact, there will be no more carping about government farm program payments. But until they do, the battle to prevent such limitations will be an unending battle, and one which PCG and other producer organizations in agriculture must be ready to fight at a moment's notice," Johnson stated.

The recent announcement by the Texas Tech Board of Directors that $500,000 would be allocated to a new building and additional equipment for the school's Textile Research Laboratories is hailed by Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., as a move which will mean much to the High Plains cotton industry.

The new building and equipment is expected to give Tech a top role in the investigation of blending possibilities of short staple, low and high micronaire and high micronaire cottons. An initial appropriation of $275,000 for this study has been approved by the House Agriculture Committee. The project is expected to be assigned to the Southern Regional Research Laboratory at New Orleans, but much of the work can be farmed out to Tech if its facilities are capable of carrying it out.

"In view of the micronaire and staple problems being experienced on the Plains, this study could well lead to a breakthrough in utilization of this area's cotton which would be comparable if not exceed the 1957 discoveries on light spotted cotton," Johnson said.

Studies carried out by PCG through the Textile Research Laboratories at Tech in 1957 and 1958 led to the establishment of the "Light Spot" category in cotton grading, and has meant over $100 million dollars to High Plains producers through higher prices for each year's crop. The higher prices for light spotted cotton became effective, both in the textile industry and in the government loan schedule for the first time in 1959.

"It is to be hoped that this is the first step toward making the textile research facilities at Tech among the finest and most complete in the world, capable of researching every textile phase from fibers through finished fabrics," Johnson said.

PCG furnished the original $45,000 which made possible construction of the building which now contains the Textile Research Laboratories and has since given financial help to climate control in the building, as well as purchased several pieces of equipment which are now on loan to TRL.

"Whatever we have done to aid the Textile Department at Tech has been with an eye to potential dollar returns to our members many times the cash outlay," Johnson said, adding "We will continue to give full cooperation to college officials in their expansion program, because neither our objective nor our faith in textile research has changed."

Slated for immediate purchase by the college is new blending feeders which will facilitate work on low and high micronaire blending. The new building and its equipment will be for textile oriented chemical studies of bleaching, dyeing, resin treating and other phases of fabric finishing.

KITCHEN KORNER

By Lela Gallion

June is Dairy month and as in all months we should try and use as much milk or milk products as we can for our health sake. As we grow older we need more milk for the calcium for our bones. I know of a lady in her eighties, who fell two times and the doctors wondered why she hadn't broken any bones as the falls were quite serious and she was badly bruised, she still contends it is because she drank three glasses of milk a day all her life. Better start drinking milk, Huh?

COTTON TALKS

The Research Committee of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., is recommending that the 23-county cotton producer organization in 1967 provide grants-in-aid totaling $32,200 to help carry out 12 research projects on High Plains Cotton production, according to Don Jones, committee chairman.

The committee's recommendations already have been approved by PCG's Finance Committee and will be considered later this month by the organization's full 48-man board.

The Research Committee will recommend that a major portion of the funds, $23,800, be spent on the development and evaluation of improved varieties and strains of cotton adapted to High Plains conditions and on cotton disease and weed control research.

Other studies the committee felt should get financial help include conservation and utilization of rainfall and irrigation water, various methods of modifying the cotton plant for adaptation to the low temperatures prevailing on the Plains, soil fertility and the influence of planting designs and climatic conditions on cotton fiber development.

Established research institutions sharing in the grants will be the South Plains Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Bushland, the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway and Texas Technological College.

The $32,200 total to be spent by PCG on cotton production research in 1967 compares with $36,250 budgeted for grants last year.

Jones said "Though it is felt by the committee that adequate research is no less important to producers now than in previous years, and that in fact there may now be more urgency for research in specific areas, the sharp cut in acreage and production has substantially reduced available funds.

"Accordingly, we are recommending approximately a nine per cent reduction in the budget for agricultural research. But we have thoroughly evaluated each individual project in order to make cuts where they would least affect the overall research program."
