Weather Damages Crops

WORK CONTINUES on the strip of highway 194. The construction begins one mile west of town and extends to Edmonson. When completed, the portion will be comparable with the section from Edmonson to Plainview.

Hart Residents Are Reminded Of Clean-Up Campaign Here

Clean-Up Week, as proclaimed by Mayor E. E. Foster, will begin Monday, June 10 and continue through Saturday, June 15.

Mayor Foster and members of the city council urge all residents to participate in the campaign.

Residents are requested to clean up their property and place all trash and rubbish in alleyways in order that trucks may collect and haul it away.

Vacant lots should be mowed shredded.

City councilmen request that anyone willing to help in the clean-up efforts is asked to do so. Trucks are needed to haul trash.

Jr. Riding Club In First Place At Morton

Hart Junior Riding Club continued their winning ways when they were named first in the Morton Junior Rodeo parade Friday, May 31.

Members of the club attended the third District Playday of the year Sunday, June 2. Ten families from Hart participated in the events. A number of friends attended.

Leon Savage of Lubbock was in charge of the outdoor church services at noon.

Local participants earned 369 points and numerous ribbons.

Members have been making improvements on the arena and will be roping calves in the near future in addition to other activities.

Northeast Hart Paving Complete

Paving, curbing and guttering in the northeast part of town has been completed.

Several other Hart streets have been retopped.

Construction will begin on the country road at the east edge of town in the near future.

Reports of tornadoes, a fierce-looking cloud, and damage to crops were all part of the evening last Friday as turbulent weather rolled into the area.

Area residents were alerted about the possibility of tornadoes and as the angry clouds came closer, many of the residents sought the shelter of a storm cellar.

Damage to crops was spotted but heavy where the storm hit.

Ernest Martin reported that the storm blew away a barn and shed on his farm located six miles northeast of Hart. All crops were hailed out completely.

On David Nelson's farm four miles south of town, high winds blew the front porch off the home located there.

"On the farm north of town, we had five inches of rain and the crops were simply washed away," Mrs. Nelson said.

"We have an almost complete replanting job on our hands."

Mrs. Paul Brooks stated that they had only minor damage to their crops. They have farms located west, east and south of Hart.

T. R. Davis, who farms southeast of town, also reported only light damage.

Four miles north of Hart, the wind lifted an antenna and dropped in through the roof of the new home of Bud Steiert.

W. A. Hawkins Jr., local banker, said that before the wind and hail, all crops looked good and still do except where the storms hit.

"The crops are slow to grow due to the cool weather, which we had through May. This spring stayed colder longer than any spring I can remember," Hawkins said.

So the aftermath of the storm is over and some farmers are just beginning again, while others are counting their blessings and all are hoping for warm weather.

High Plains Foundation Installs Sprinkler System

A permanent-set, underground sprinkler system recently has been installed at the High Plains Research Foundation on the 310-acre farm at Halfway, Texas. The installation was jointly sponsored by Gifford-Hill Western and the Eastern RainBird Sprinkler Company. An injector pump for application of chemicals is being furnished by the Nor-Pak Company of Dumas.

This 5.7 acre experimental system should offer great potential in water savings through better efficiency and timing of irrigation. Labor costs should be cut sharply, and extreme minimum tillage is very possible.

Water is supplied through a 6-inch pressure line of plastic pipe to 10 separate 2-inch lateral lines. Each lateral contains either 11 or 12 risers 3/4" in diameter with sprinkler heads spaced alternately for multiple coverage. Each lateral can be controlled through a heat-activated valve which is wired to a master control panel. The control panel can be programmed to operate independently for up to two weeks. This means that each lateral line can be turned on for any length of time desired, up to 60 minutes, with exact amounts of water specified, and the entire process can be repeated if desired. Chemical solutions can also be injected in specific amounts when needed. Once the control panel is programmed, the complete cycle can be activated by a master switch and no further attention is necessary.

In 1968, the Research Foundation will conduct a number of tests, under the direction of Jim Valliant, Soil Scientist. Primary crops to be studied will include grain sorghum and cotton this first year, with the objectives to include a cost analysis of the system, the desirability of applying fertilizers, herbicides, and pesticides through the system, and it's possible practicability for the Texas High Plains.

Happiness Is-Spending Cuts

For centuries poets and philosophers have probed the mysteries of happiness. Now, according to Washington Report, publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the Federal Government is taking a whack at it.

As part of a $249,000 package of projects in Puerto Rico, the U. S. Public Health Service decided to find out what made those island people happy. Out of a survey of 1,500 Puerto Ricans came a study, "The Demography of Happiness," which made these remarkable discoveries:

- People who are in good health are happier than people who are ill.
- People who think positively are happier than people who think negatively.
- People who make lots of money are happier than people who make little money.
- Young people are happier than old people.

To which the National Chamber says could be added: People would be a lot happier -- even ecstatic -- if the federal agencies would stop spending taxpayers' money so ridiculously.

'I'm For The Upperdog'

IF THIS BE HERESY...
... THEN WE PLEAD GUILTY...

For, you see, I have just about reached the end of my tolerance for the way our society at the present time seems to have sympathetic concern only for the misfit, the pervert, the drug addict, the drifter, the ne'er-do-well, the maladjusted, the chronic criminal, the underachiever, the loser -- in general, the underdog. It seems to me we have lost touch with reality and become warped in our attachments, if not in fact psychotic.

In short, I feel it is time for someone like me to stand up and say, "I'm for the upperdog!" I'm for the achiever -- the one who sets out to do something and does it; the one who recognizes the problems and opportunities at hand and endeavors to deal with them; the one who is successful at his immediate task because he is not worrying about someone else's failings; the one who doesn't consider it "square" to be constantly looking for more to do, who isn't always rationalizing why he shouldn't be doing what he is doing; the one, in short, who carries the work of his part of the world squarely on his shoulders. Not the wealthy, necessarily, not the gifted, necessarily -- just the doer, the achiever -- regardless of his status, his opulence, his native endowment.

We will never create a good society, much less a great one, until individual excellence and achievement is not only respected but encouraged. That is why I'm for the upperdog -- the achiever -- the succeder: I'm for building an ever better society and this will only be done by those who take seriously their responsibility for achievement, for making the most of their native ability, for getting done the job at hand.

South Plains Fair Goers Promised Tops In Entertainment, Attractions

A bigger-than-life view of the Navy and Marines in action will be featured in the 51st annual Panhandle South Plains Fair here Sept. 23-28.

Landing a fast jet on an aircraft carrier, plunging beneath the sea in a nuclear submarine, hitting the beach with the fighting Marines--through Cine-Globe's three dimensional movies you are there.

Cine-Globe is a realistic training device developed by the Navy during World War II to sharpen the aim of its aerial gunners. The special lens used in both the camera and trainer covers the extremely wide angle of 142 degrees, almost matching the field of vision of the human eye.

The hemispheric screen curves around the audience, placing the spectators right in the middle of the action. The theater itself is an air inflatable hemispheric dome.

Several other new attractions are being secured and many of the standard fair features are being expanded as the regional fair enters its second half-century.

A completely new show has been signed as the Fair Park Coliseum card. Headlined by Pat Boone, television, motion picture and recording personality, it also includes Diane Shelton, who will bring her twirling and juggling act here for the first time, Don Rice, a champion in the art of laughter, the popular Baja Marimba band, and Lee Castle and the Jimmy Dorsey orchestra.

Tickets for the all-star show remain unchanged at $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50 for all performances. Shows will be presented at 7:30 p. m. nightly and matinees are scheduled only on Monday, Friday and Saturday at 3 p. m. Matinee tickets for children 12 years and under will be one-half price. All tickets purchased prior to the fair opening will be accompanied by free gate admission passes.

New Oat Variety Proves Superior In Yield And Rust Resistance

A new oat variety which is superior in resistance to crown rust and has a good yielding ability is being released to certified seed growers in 1968.

"Coronado" was developed from a series of complex crosses between numerous varieties to breed high yields and disease resistance into oats. The new variety was developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture. Two agronomists from Texas A&M University, Dr. I. M. Atkins and Dr. M. E. McDaniel, started the project in 1961 at College Station.

The new variety is taller than most other adapted Texas varieties, but straw strength is superior and lodging resistance is good. Coronado kernels are plump and attractive. Forage production is equal to that of other varieties, but seedling growth is slow, according to the two agronomists.

Research here, and across the state, shows that Coronado is of about the same maturity as Ora, and is earlier than New Nortex. It is later maturing than Houston or Suregrain. The cold hardiness has not been adequately tested; however, it appears to be about the same as Alamo-X or Moregrain.

Tests at Beeville, Temple, and McGregor were conducted for two years. Coronado was shown to be an outstanding yielder in South Texas, and a moderate producer in the central test areas. It is adapted only to the southern part of Texas and to the adjoining areas along the Gulf Coast.

Foundation seed will be maintained and may be acquired by writing to the Foundation Seed Section, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843. The USDA does not have any seed for distribution.

Congressman George Mahon of Lubbock expects a determined, well-planned attempt to impose a limit on the benefits available to any one farmer under government programs when the House considers an extension of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965, probably about the middle of June.

"I am concerned that the present atmosphere of austerity, the poor people's march and other factors will give this effort a better chance for success than ever before," Mahon told Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

"And I can't think of anything that would destroy our farm programs and wreck the nation's agriculture more effectively than limitations," he added.

A bill to extend the Agriculture Act of 1965 for one year, without changes, has been sent to the House Rules Committee by Congressman Bob Poage of Waco, Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture. Its proponents hope to get it scheduled onto the House floor during the second week of June.

A previous attempt to impose payment limitations was made this year in the House by Congressman Paul Findley, Illinois, who offered an amendment to the Agriculture Appropriations Bill. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 129 to 79, with some congressmen voting against it on the grounds that such a legislative measure was out of place on a money bill.

A similar amendment was submitted to the Senate Committee on Appropriations by Senator John J. Williams, Delaware, but was rejected. It will probably be offered again on the Senate floor.

In a conversation with Johnson, Congressman Mahon asked that PCG prepare information that could be used in the House to defeat the limitations efforts he feels are certain to be made.

Working with Area Farm Management Specialist John Seibert, Johnson worked up a cost-income-profit illustration using a typical 480-acre irrigated farm with a 35 per cent cotton allotment and a feed grains base of 62.5 per cent. Projected yields on the sample farm was assumed to be 600 pounds for cotton and 5,000 pounds for grain sorghum.

Using program provisions applicable to 1968 and assuming maximum diversion of both grain sorghum and cotton, calculations revealed that government payments accounted for 39.5 per cent of gross income and 102.6 per cent of net income. In other words, without farm programs the farm would have lost money.

With a $10,000 limit on payments, which is the figure that keeps cropping up in amendments to farm legislation, net income for the farm would have been reduced by 47.5 per cent.

Seibert, a highly respected farm economist who has studied costs, conditions and returns to farm labor, capital and management on the Plains since coming to Lubbock in 1959 said "With high fixed investments in land, machinery and equipment, adjustment to such a drastic change would be practically impossible. Payment limitations and increasing farm input prices would cut net farm income below subsistence levels."

In PCG's reply to Mahon's request it was noted that about one-fourth of the farmers in Lubbock county received payments of $10,000 or more in 1966, probably about the same as in 1968 and fairly representative of the situation throughout Mahon's Nineteenth District.

But it was pointed out that the effects of such a limitation would extend far beyond those farmers whose payments were actually reduced.

The larger farmers, Johnson figures, with tremendous investments in land and equipment could not and would not stand still for a 47 per cent reduction in net income. "They would either produce outside government programs, with drastic effects on market prices, or else vote farm programs down, creating a state of chaos in agriculture such as the nation has not seen since the depression."

PCG's letter to Mahon emphasized that a vote on payment limitations, whether $10,000, $15,000 or $50,000, is in fact a vote on whether farm programs are to be continued at all.

The letter stated "The purpose of farm programs is to assure for the present and for the future an adequate, but not burdensome, supply of consumer goods from agriculture at reasonable prices. And it is inconceivable that these programs could long survive with a payment limit that effectively excludes from program participation those producers who grow such a high percentage of the nation's crops."

"A majority of Congress recognizes the need for farm programs or they could not have been passed," the letter concluded, "and it would be highly inconsistent for that same Congress to destroy those programs by imposing payment limitations."

Test Driver Shares Personal Safety Driving Rules, Logs 25,000 Off-Duty Miles Per Year

As a test driver for Chevrolet, Paul Awrey has logged almost a million miles in the past two decades.

So how does he relax after a day of 200 miles or more over the loops and straightaways at the General Motors Proving Ground near Milford, Mich.?

He takes a little drive in his own car --- "pleasure" driving that adds up to about 25,000 "off-duty" miles a year, all within Awrey's special set of safety rules.

Obviously, safe driving is of prime concern, and as an experienced, expert professional he is well-qualified to pass along the procedures, attitudes and habits which he and his fellow test drivers feel distinguish the safe, skilled motorist.

On the eve of another major holiday and accompanying heavy traffic, here are the observations and suggestions of these men:

"Safety is much a matter of courtesy and patience."

"First thing I do when I slide behind the wheel of a car is press the brake pedal and check the hand brake. An important part of safe motoring is good equipment - wipers, tires, windows and especially the brakes."

"I imagine I'm driving three cars: the one ahead of me, the one I'm in, and the one behind. That way I can anticipate the actions of the other two cars and can control my own better."

"Just plain selfishness is a leading cause of accidents. We lean backwards at the Proving Ground to follow the rules and to give the other driver a break."

"Safety demands constant attention to three areas --- the road ahead, the rear view mirror and the instrument panel, especially the speedometer."

"Careful planning is important for trips of any distance. When a motorist is pushing a little too much, he's asking for trouble. It is easier and safer to aim for a steady speed with regular rest stops."

Awrey's career as a test driver and his continuing love of automobiles is all perfectly logical and not the least bit surprising to him.

His home as a child was just a few turns of the crankshaft from the GM Proving Ground and he explains, "My mother told me I could say, 'car', before I mentioned 'mama.'"

"I remember as a youngster watching test vehicles circle the track and saying to myself that one day I would be out there as a driver."

Awrey joined the Chevrolet Engineering Test Group just after he turned 20 and has been on the job for more than 17 years since, with the exception of two years of military service.

He has handled almost every type of vehicle imaginable, including the Turbo-Titan III, the turbine-powered experimental "truck of the future," introduced by Chevrolet in 1963.

"Test driving has given me the opportunity to visit and view almost every state in the union, including Alaska, I drove there in a tractor-trailer in the Chevy convoy on the Alcan run," he says.

It all adds up to hundreds of thousands of miles --- in Awrey's case, safe and enjoyable miles.

Demand Greater Than Supply Summer Jobs Available To Youth

If you are a college or high school student and want a summer job, apply immediately. Competition for summer jobs will be keen.

About 300,000 more young people aged 16 through 21 will be looking for work this summer than a year ago, the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates. In all, there will be 3.8 million new workers, and of these about 2.8 million want summer jobs - much scarcer than full-time positions, according to Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist.

"Jobs will go to the most qualified, diligent and ambitious," the Bureau says. How do you measure up in this department?

As a first step, high school students should see a school counselor, advises the Texas A&M University specialist. College students can go to the employment office on campus.

A local office of the State employment service can advise you about any openings it has listed and register you for future openings. Watch the want ads, and make the rounds of potential employers - the more the better, she suggests.

The greatest demand for students will be in private businesses, says Mrs. Meyer, such as jobs as store clerks and helpers, hotel and motel workers, construction helpers, waiters and waitresses, workers in dry-cleaning plants and laundries, bank or insurance clerks; typists and camp counselors.

HEMISFAIR'68

WORLD EXPOSITION APRIL 6-OCT. 6-SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

The only existing portrait of Amerigo Vespucci is drawing huge crowds of visitors to the Italian Pavilion at HemisFair '68.

The priceless work of art of the Vespucci family, and more significantly, of the man America was named after, was Painted in 1472 by Domenico Ghirlandaio.

If not for the great flood in Florence, Italy, two years ago, the fresco would not be at the San Antonio World's Fair and Italian officials say it will not leave the country again.

The painting, the only portrait of any of the four discoverers of the Americas, was attached to the wall of the Ognissanti church in Florence for almost 500 years.

The great flood, however, submerged the lower part of the fresco, and left the wall so damp the entire painted back of the chapel had to be detached and placed on a hard movable surface.

Italy sent the portrait to Texas as a token of appreciation for the help Americans gave to Florence after the flood.

Only the top half of the fresco is on display. The bottom portion is in Italy still in the process of restoration.

"Superb...exciting... colorful... beautiful..." are only four of the adjectives used recently to describe the San Antonio World's Fair by visiting celebrities.

HemisFair has drawn the praise of a multitude of personalities, ranging from comedian Bob Hope on several national television programs to World's Fair veteran Sally Rand, who rated it at the top of her fair list after a two-day visit.

Former U. S. Secretary of Commerce Alexander Trowbridge called the fair "a superb piece of work, not only in form but in content."

Former El Salvador President Julio A. Rivera said HemisFair is an event of "international importance worthy of the highest praise; its conception, a grand idea; its organization, preparation and presentation, a superlatively united endeavor."

Nationally known artist Dong Kingman, who has work in numerous public and private collections throughout the United States, said it is an "exciting and colorful" World's Fair.

A survey also shows the average fairgoer is happy with the compact $156 million showcase. Eighty-five per cent of persons interviewed who live within commuting distance of San Antonio said they are planning to return to see more of the World's Fair.

The 15-foot topographic map of the Panama Canal featured in the Panama Pavilion has drawn praise from the world's most capable critic of the canal system.

The Honorable Walter P. Leber, Governor-General of the Canal Zone and President of the Panama Canal Company, viewed the operational model of the canal and said it could be topped only by a helicopter trip across the isthmus.

"Even a boat trip through the canal, entertaining though it is, gives a fragmented view of the system," he said. "This is an excellent capsule of our operation."

The king of dead pan comedy who has done quite well for himself as an eternal 39-year-old off-key violinist will be featured at HemisFair's Theatre for the Performing Arts June 3-June 8.

Jack Benny and the fabulous Baja Marimba Band will appear in the 2,800-seat Theatre at 8:30 p. m. June 3-6 and at 6:30 p. m. and 9:30 p. m. June 7 and 8.

From usher in Chicago's Barrison Theater and accomplished violinist in knickerbockers to radio and television fame, Benny has supplied underdog identity for millions with his fast-paced hilarity.

For a man whose fiddle is as skillfully prodigious as his wit, "the lovable boob" chose early in his career to concentrate on comedy, with the fiddle playing second.

He first established his image of satirical self-confidence in 1932 when appearing on Ed Sullivan's radio show, greeting the radio world with, "Hello, folks! This is Jack Benny. There will be a slight pause for everyone to say 'Who Cares?'" The crowd that cared grew enormously in a brief span, following him from radio to his TV transition.

Moving into the Television medium more successfully than most "old guard" radio men, Benny carried with him the acclaim of editors and columnists in the United States and Canada who selected him as the "outstanding radio personality in the past 25 years." When the polls are tapped in 1975, the Waukegan Wit may well be pegged as "outstanding television personality" as well. Benny and the Benny Program have secured a total of eight Emmies for programming excellence.

Now turning more attention to his faithful prop, the violin, he performs as a violin soloist with the top symphony orchestras in the country, all proceeds going to charitable causes. He has been invited to solo with every major symphony orchestra in the United States and eventually hopes to cover all of them, a typical undertaking for a child prodigy who could never sit still or allow himself to stagnate.

Rounding the show out to full entertainment impact will be the Baja Marimba Band, the cheerful musical vehicle with its subtle communication of comical men using skilled understated whimsy.

Julius Wechter and his group of eight musicians, under the guidance of Herb Alpert and A&M Records, have become one of the most sought after recording acts in the United States.

The Baja Marimba Band, formed in Hollywood only three years ago, has become one of the great treasures of the performing arts. Few audiences leave less than exhilarated by their performance.

Ticket orders may be addressed to San Antonio Fair, Inc., P. O. Box 2777, San Antonio, Texas 78206. Ticket prices are $2.50, balcony; $3.50 and $4.50, mezzanine; and $5.50 and $4.50, orchestra.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

The good tax folks point out that many employers don't withhold income tax on the students who work for them during the summer, since they know that the student won't earn over $600 and be subject to filing a tax return. The law just don't read like that. You have to withhold based upon the annual wage or salary, not on how long the temporary employee will be around. The student will get it back when he files his tax return in January 1969, but in the meantime, it belongs to Uncle.

Senator Tower Reports

For the information of the Press: The following is the text of Senator Tower weekly report to Texans:

This week the Senate has been heavily engaged in debate and amendment of the 1968 Law Enforcement Bill. It is clear to us here, just as I'm sure it is clear to you at home, that this bill probably will be the most important one from this session of Congress.

This Anti-Crime Bill would authorize federal funds for use in strengthening local police forces. A special 15-million-dollars would be earmarked for anti-riot work, and another special 15-million-dollars to combat organized crime.

This bill also would counteract the effect of recent Supreme Court decisions that have made voluntary confessions inadmissible in many court cases. Provisions of this will would place the decision about admission of confessions in the hands of the highest state courts, rather than the federal courts.

Special electronic surveillance by law-enforcement officials would be permitted by the bill in national-security cases and in the fight against mob crime.

Also, the bill would place some limits on gun sales to minors and felons; and would prevent convicted rioters from holding federal jobs.

I hope the bill will be perfected and passed within the next few days. The need for it is great. Our system of law and order cannot survive unless it has the support of all thoughtful Americans.

Nearly 300 years ago, William Penn envisioned a nation in which "the laws rule and the people are a party to those laws." We have, for nearly two centuries now, prided ourselves on being that nation of laws, not of men.

We have, in that time, never ceased in our efforts to perfect the system of law upon which our whole society rests. We are still a long way from our goal of perfection. But, however far short of perfection we may be, we are also far ahead of any other nation or society in the world's history in the freedoms and rights enjoyed by our citizens.

Our rights and freedoms will not, however, continue to be the envy of the world if we allow our institutions to be trampled in the streets by mobs which burn block after block of riot-torn cities.

It was Abraham Lincoln who pointed out the dangers of any course other than the course of order.

"Let every American," Lincoln said, "every lover of liberty, swear never to violate in the least particular, the laws of the country."

Lincoln, knew order, must precede progress.

No one benefits from the breaking of the laws, except perhaps our enemies who wish to bring destruction upon us.

It is no service to anyone, nor to any cause, to advocate violation of the law.

Yet, we hear men in positions of power and leadership telling their followers publicly that they need obey only those laws with which they agree. Statements of that sort are the grossest form of irresponsibility, for they inspire and give excuse to the flouting of our whole system of law and order.

No society based on law and order can give its citizens the right to disobey the law, for once that happens there is no more law, no more order, and no more social progress.

Whatever the remaining injustices of our society, real or imagined, no group or person has the right, under any circumstance, to exact self-determined retribution or revenge. Our imperfections do not justify tearing down the institutions which have given us our advances and our strength.

There are proper ways, and effective ones, to voice dissent. The principles of free speech, free assembly, free press, and the petition for redress of grievances are not empty principles. They are real -- very real -- freedoms, and are effective means of changing forms and institutions. Even stronger means, to which everyone has access, are the courts and the ballot box.

Our constitutional guarantee of liberty is firmly rooted in an organized society maintaining public order. Without order, liberty is worthless; for, without order, liberty is smothered in the mindless excesses of anarchy and mob rule.

There is no justice in a mob.

The problems we face today are difficult ones, but so were those problems faced by our ancestors. Our forefathers faced their problems squarely within the system given them -- the system of laws and of constitutional government.

We must do the same! If we do not, we will surely succumb to the tyranny of a Lawless Society in which armed camps of fear-stricken citizens revert to vigilante justice.

Americans have learned in recent months that a society can be neither secure for men, nor safe for women, if it is lenient with criminals.

Breaking of our nation's cycle of lawlessness is our priority national task. We must approach the restoration of certain order with the utmost urgency.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES-- School districts are not authorized to issue time warrants for the purpose of purchasing unimproved land only. So held Attorney General Martin in a recent opinion. However, he stated that warrants can be issued to purchase school buildings and equipment.

State officials may be reimbursed by the government for expenses incurred in delivery of veterans land bonds to out-of-state banks, said Martin in another opinion.

NEW BANKS PROPOSED-- State Banking Board is considering requests for charters from Harlingen, High Island and Missouri City.

Organizers of a proposed Bank of Commerce for a new Harlingen shopping center insisted through their spokesman that downtown banks are not readily accessible due to traffic congestion. But presidents of the Harlingen National Bank and First National Bank of Harlingen disagreed.

Request to charter a Peninsula State Bank at High Island was opposed by the Gulf Coast State Bank of Winnie.

And the case for a Missouri City State Bank was protested by officers of the First National Bank of Stafford and Sugarland State Bank.

STOP ACCIDENTS-- Most home deaths from accidents are caused by falls, fires or poisons. Most could be prevented if family members would see that all hazards are removed and kept out of the home.

KITCHEN KORNER

By Lela Gallion

Recently I heard a lady talk on the radio about stretching our food budget and I agree with her. It is better food and at a much smaller cost when we cook all of our meals (from scratch).

It was stated that by buying a roast at 47 or 49 cents per pound, a complete meal for seven could be prepared for $2.74 so tried it and it is very true.

This meal included hot rolls, roast, potatoes, salad, vegetable plus gelatin dessert.

But you must buy flour and potatoes in quantity 25 pounds at least.

I am as guilty as anyone in buying quick to prepare foods such as 63 cents for a bag of frozen french fries when a 10 pound sack would cost approximately the same not to mention other things.

This is just an idea for any of you who must be on a very strict budget especially in this time of food prices going higher all the time.

If you like chicken you can fix a meal for even less as they are usually always on special. You can almost have two fryers for the price of one roast.

HAM-AND-LIMA BAKE

- 1 lb. Dried large lima beans
- 4 c. cold water
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1 large onion, chopped (1 cup)
- 1 can (about 1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 T. sugar
- 1 tsp. seasoned salt
- 1/2 tsp. basil
- 1/2 tsp. thyme
- 3 c. diced cooked ham (about 1 pound)
- 1 c. sliced celery
- 1 c. shredded scraped carrots

1. Combine beans and cold water in a large saucepan; cover. Heat to boiling; cook 2 minutes; remove from heat; let stand, stirring beans once, 1 hour.

2. Stir in salt and onion; cover again; cook 1/2 hour. Stir in tomatoes, sugar, seasoned salt, basil, and thyme; heat again to boiling.

3. Mix ham, celery, and carrots in a 12-cup baking dish; pour bean mixture over; stir well to mix; cover.

4. Bake in moderate oven (350) 1 1/2 hours, or until almost all of the liquid is absorbed and vegetables are tender.

DUCHESS POTATOES

- 4 medium potatoes, pared and cut up
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 T. butter or margarine
- Salt and Pepper

1. Cook potatoes in lightly salted boiling water in a medium size saucepan 20 minutes, or until tender; drain well, then shake pan gently over low heat to dry and fluff potatoes; remove from heat.

2. Break up potatoes with a masher, then beat in egg yolk and butter or margarine until fluffy-smooth. Season with salt and pepper.

SCREWWORM CASES INCREASE--

Livestock producers are again reminded of the importance of checking stock for any wounds and treating them immediately. They are also advised by officials of the eradication program to take worm samples from wounds and send them to the Mission Lab for positive identification. Sterile fly production has been increased in an effort to halt the increases in screwworm cases. Weather conditions continue very favorable for the spread of the pest.

WEED CONTROL --

Post-emergence weed control in cotton is more positive than pre-emergence. It is used from the time cotton emerges until layby time, says Fred C. Elliott, Extension cotton specialist. Timely application of post-emergence herbicides and mechanical methods can drastically reduce or eliminate hand hoeing, he adds. Most post-emergence treatments work best when weeds and grass are less than 2 inches tall and will usually do a better job when the weather is warm. Always use a surfactant at the recommended rate to control emerged weeds and grass, he says. Local county agents can supply details on herbicides and their use.

Texas Youth Rodeo Slated

For 900-plus Texas youths, rodeoing is the state game during the summer months. Their "world series" dates are June 24-30, when the Texas Youth Rodeo Association sponsors the "World's Largest Indoor Youth Rodeo" at HemisFair '68, San Antonio.

Seven days of competition in the giant HemisFair '68 Arena tests competitors' courage, horsemanship, ability and desire. "These boys and girls really put out in their challenge to win TYRA trophies in bull-dogging, barrel racing, calf roping and all the exciting standard rodeo events," explains Gus T. "Pinky" Brown, secretary of TYRA. "Rodeo stock equal to major stock shows assures stern tests. Ownership of a horse is almost a necessity, and hours of training and practice a must between horse and entrant."

TYRA was organized 14 years ago and has grown into one of the most outstanding youth organizations in Texas. A non profit organization, its board of directors is made up of men who are interested in the youth of the state and work untold hours with no compensation except the sheer joy of knowing they are helping to provide a clean, healthy and wholesome activity for boys and girls.

In order to participate in any of the 18 approved shows during 1968, a contestant must be scholastically eligible under the Interscholastic League Rules which govern all other high school sports. Those under high school level must pass two-thirds of their subjects as attested by their school principal.

The idea of a TYRA Rodeo as a part of HemisFair '68 came from George E. Light III, a director, and, as a reward, he was named chairman of the committee. In a matter of a few weeks, TYRA and HemisFair '68 agreed to stage the "World's Largest Indoor Rodeo" as a World's Fair attraction. "We hope that the profits from this tremendous and spectacular rodeo will establish and maintain a Permanent Scholarship Fund," related Light. "In addition to providing a rouser of a rodeo."

The TYRA Scholarship Fund has been established at the Groos National Bank, San Antonio, Texas. Contributions to the fund are solicited, and are tax deductible.

"The contestants already are entered, almost 100%," advised Brown. "The enthusiasm for the World's Fair Rodeo from the two-year-old to the 18-year-old contestants is unbounded."

For tickets to this rip-snorter rodeo, Texas-style, or sponsorship information, address TYRA, 126 Glendale Lane, Luling, Texas 78648.

Some people plant tomatoes in the spring

Others plant carrots, or onions, or cucumbers, or asparagus, or lettuce. But there's one thing you can plant now that will create a variety of tastes. A gas barbecue grill.

We have several varieties. Any one lets you harvest a delicious meal any time of the year. Its perfect heat control and permanent briquettes give you year 'round cooking pleasure without the mess of a charcoal fire.

For best results, we recommend early planting. This will guarantee larger yields because you can start your harvest immediately.

New lower prices on the '68 models are in effect through July 31st. Prices start at $77.52 cash (includes installation and tax) or as little as $2.50 a month, whichever you prefer. After that, it will only cost a few cents per month for us to feed it.

Call us. We'll plant a gas barbecue grill in your yard. That is, if you have a taste for the outdoors.

Buy a PATIO PAIR (one gas light and one gas barbecue grill) and save $26.00. Prices start at $103.70 (includes installation and tax) or $4.00 a month.

HemisFair SCOUT NEWS

It may be Arthur Fiedler conducting an orchestra of automobile parts or a multi-talented musician playing a one-inch long harmonica, but visitors to HemisFair have learned to expect the unexpected.

Fiedler used an oil dipstick to conduct the auto orchestra at the Ford Pavilion during a walk around the grounds before a recent concert appearance at the Theatre of Performing Arts.

He called the unusual combo "the best disciplined orchestra I ever conducted."

Unlike Fiedler's surprise appearance, the harmonica-playing musician is among the scheduled attractions. He is Bernie Burns of San Francisco, appearing from 6:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. nightly through the end of May at the Amphitheater.

During the free 20-minute comedy musical, Burns performs on five instruments. Besides the tiny harmonica, he plays a 12-string guitar, a "mini-calliope," and both the blues and "barrelhouse" piano.

The master of the Sitar-- Ravi Shankar-- will bring his "Festival From India" to HemisFair Sept. 20-21.

Shankar, whose talent has won the admiration of everyone from the Beatles to violinist Yehudi Menuhin, will present a full-scale production of music from India in three performances at the Theatre for the Performing Arts.

Among his troupe will be masters of such instruments as the Sarangi, Santoor, Mridangam, Veena, Shehnai and Kanjira.

Senior Drivers Often Superior

Being 65 or more years old does not automatically throw a person into the "unable to drive" category. In one test an 82-year-old woman showed faster driving reflexes than an Air Force cadet similarly tested.

"Senior drivers are, as a class, vastly superior to drivers 25 or less," Judge Sherman G. Finesilver, Denver, a nationally traveled safety expert, says his studies demonstrate.

Individuals in the 65 years and more age bracket scored higher on knowledge of driving rules on a recent television driving test, according to Minnie Bell, Extension family life specialist.

They present a problem, however, because they don't like seat belts and won't use them; won't yield to right-of-way; drive too slow; and don't like to change lanes, said the Texas A&M University specialist.

Judge Finesilver recommended safety driving training for this group.

A special need exists in Texas because of the change in driver's licensing now done on an individual basis, says Miss Bell. She reported that 211 counties in Texas have local committees on aging.

Many of these committees have sponsored a Drivers' Refresher Course conducted by the Department of Public Safety.

Based on defensive driving techniques on multiple-lane highways in heavy traffic and for night driving and advances in automobile construction, the course was first designed in cooperation with the Governor's Committee on Aging.

About 7.5 percent of American drivers are 65 or more years old.

Social Security Offered Clergy

Social Security coverage has been extended to thousands of clergymen through a recent change in the Social Security Act.

Although formerly excluded from coverage by law, clergymen were allowed to request credit under social security for their earnings if their request was filed within a specific time limit. Because of the time limit, many clergymen wanting such credit could not get it.

Liberalization of the Social Security Law now provides automatic coverage for clergymen for taxable years after 1967. Only those requesting exemption on religious grounds will not get social security credit.

Clergymen, considered to be self-employed, pay their social security tax with their income tax if their yearly profits from the ministry are $400 or more. They must complete a Schedule "C" with each income tax return, indicating their ministerial gross income, expenses and net profit, according to John G. Hutton, district manager.

More information regarding this change in the law may be obtained from your local social security office.

STATE CONVENTIONS -- Every even-numbered year state political parties hold two conventions. In presidential election years the June convention, customarily, is called "the presidential convention," and the September convention is known as "the governor's convention."

This year since the big issue in the State Democratic convention in Dallas on June 11 will be whether Governor Connally is picked as the "favorite son," both Democratic party conventions will be "governor's conventions." If Connally is chosen as "favorite son", the first vote of the Texas delegation at the national convention in Chicago will go to Connally, the second to whomever he likes of the major candidates-- probably Hubert Humphrey.

Republicans, who will hold their convention in Corpus Christi on June 11, doubtlessly will pick US Sen. John Tower as their "favorite son." State GOP Chairman Peter O'Donnell of Dallas, and other southern GOP chairmen, met in New Orleans with hopefuls Gov. Ronald Reagan and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. But O'Donnell is not expected to talk about a second-ballot alternative to Senator Tower until he has conferred with Richard Nixon, and considered results of talks with all three.
