KITCHEN KORNER

By Lela Gallion

If you are planning on going camping these tips I found are very good.

Be sure to try drop biscuits the night of the fish fry. Another day, bake meat turnovers - with slices of canned meat and chili sauce wrapped inside the biscuit dough. Delicious under the open sky. But maybe you don't have a reflector oven? Then use roasting forks over campfire coals and bake Surprise Biscuit Balls with a cheese surprise in the middle. The recipe's below. To roll out biscuit dough in the out of doors, improvise. Choose a large level surface, like a big flat rock, and spread with aluminum foil. And, one thing more - don't forget the biscuit mix. It's basic equipment for the outdoor kitchen.

SURPRISE BISCUIT BALLS

Mix 1 cup biscuit mix and 1/4 cup water. Place dough on piece of aluminum foil; pat into 6-inch square. Cut dough into 3x1-inch strips. Wrap each strip around 1-inch cube of process American cheese, completely covering cheese. Insert pointed end of peeled green stick in cheese ball; rotate slowly over hot coals or campfire 5 minutes or until evenly browned. Makes 1 dozen.
