High Plains Research Annual Field Day Congressman Bob Price To Be Speaker

Hundreds of West Texas area farmers are expected to be on hand Sept. 11 for the 13th Annual Field Day at the High Plains Research Foundation.

With the addition of agricultural chemicals and seed distributor exhibits to the regular features, the Field Day is expected to be one of the most successful since the Foundation began in 1956.

The chemicals and seed displays will be exhibited in a tent on the lawn south of the Moody Building near area where field tours will begin.

The chemical and seed displays will become a part of the farm machinery exhibits which has proven to be one of the most successful features of Field Day activities. It is estimated that the farm machinery exhibits will number some 50 to 60 different exhibitors. Noting its popularity, Longnecker Foundation director, said the farm machinery exhibit grows every year.

Field Day activities begin with research plot field tours at 1:30 p. m. These tours will continue until 4:30 p. m. Foundation facilities will be open for inspection during the afternoon.

The evening program will begin at 5:00 p. m. Guest speaker will be Congressman Bob Price, U. S. Representative, 18th Congressional District.

Door prizes will be given away during the program.

A highlight of the program will be drawing for a free Hawaiian Vacation for two and $500 in expense money. The vacation has been donated by Hale County State Bank, Plainview Coop Compress and City National Bank.

Area residents are invited to attend the activities and view the latest research underway at the Foundation. Special areas of research include new programs in minimum tillage, castor volunteer control and the swine feeding economics study.

The Board of Trustees will conduct a regular business meeting the morning of Field Day.

A first attempt in this High Plains area to determine the marketing potential of the new feed grain -- Triticale -- will begin this week at the High Plains Research Foundation.

The Foundation will implement the second phase of a swine production economics study comparing Triticale with grain sorghum as a feed base.

Dr. Tom Longnecker, Foundation director, said the study was being conducted to determine the value of Triticale as a base in rations for finishing hogs.

"According to chemical analysis, Triticale contains about 12.5 per cent protein as compared with 9 to 10 percent in grain sorghum and has a better balance of amino acids than corn or grain sorghum, especially the lysine content which usually is supplemented", Dr. Longnecker said.

The study will consist of three rations each of grain sorghum and Triticale with varying amounts of each grain depending on the size of pigs. Fifty SPF hogs will be used in each test.

Due to Triticale's higher protein content, Dr. Longnecker said the finishing ration for pigs in the study will contain 1,635 pounds of sorghum per ton of feed compared to 1,760 pounds of Triticale per ton of feed.

"In swine production, supplements are the most expensive part of the feed, usually about 45 per cent of the total cost in finishing pigs," Dr. Longnecker said.

"It could be that Triticale in a finishing ration would mean less supplementation than either corn or sorghum thereby cutting swine production costs," Longnecker added.

"In order for Triticale to become an economic crop in this area, a market must be developed. Since Triticale is classified as a feed grain, its main market will be through livestock", Dr. Longnecker said.

He pointed out that Triticale can be grown the same as wheat and could be used for double cropping procedures, if the feeding study on swine is successful.

Words OF Devotion

By Rev. Fred Brown, United Methodist Church

Our world has been forced, almost against its will, to recognize that our lives are bound together in a common bundle. No pain, no injustice, no legitimate frustrated yearning, can safely be ignored. Sooner or later, the bill will come due, and it must be paid.

The recognition that has been wrung from us so painfully, was common knowledge among the ancient Hebrews. The prophet declared that Israel was a vine and Jehovah was the husbandman. Not all parts of the vine are alike. Leaves, tendrils, fruit, and branches are the tokens of our individual differences. And we may thank God for them. But these separate parts gain their true significance only when they are part of a living vine.

So, boldly, Jesus took this honored symbol of ancient Israel and applied it unto himself. He was the true vine of God, and men would find the fullest meaning of their lives only in relationship to Him. The claim carried an element of threat. The pulpy, stringy wood of the common Palestinian vine was useless. It was specifically forbidden to place its wood on the altar fire. What did not contribute to the production of fruit was fit for nothing and must be ruthlessly pruned away.

But the claim is promise too. That man has never yet been found to whom Christ has nothing to say. He is wisdom for the wise, courage for the feeble, and mercy for the strong.

Jesus is the vine. It is in our relationship with Him that the promise of our human nature finds its true fulfillment.

Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

The first seed of a State Bank was planted in 1160. The Venetian Government borrowed 150,000 silver marks from important merchants to finance it.

The first issue of government bonds took place in Venice. The year was 1171. A forced loan of one per-cent on net incomes was instituted. The bonds paid four per-cent.

By 1200 the city was already using bills of exchange. This was their method of sending money to representatives abroad.

Loans were made by Venetian bankers to ship owners. This was called "bottemry." The risk was great, so the interest was correspondingly high. The average interest was around twenty per-cent.

Various bankruptcies among private bankers in 1502, led to government action. A Supervisor of Banks was appointed.

Directors And Coaches Are Added Teacher Shortage List In Texas

there's a new old story of the e in Texas.

ssue an emer- or a . . . coach, a woman phys- teacher, and over industrial and mathe-

ne superinten- all these jobs oter hand, any chief who has them all signed for is counting himself lucky.

"We haven't stopped totally up the figures yet, but the calls are coming in fast and furiously for emergency permits in these areas or just for suggestions on filling the jobs," Wuarine Walker, acting director of teacher certification at the Agency, says.

"The big rush right now is for coaches, music people, women in physical education, and industrial arts teachers. At least, these are the surprises."

Why are some teachers more scarce than others? A look at the college and university graduating classes provides some of the answer.

Last year, the Agency issued 1,081 emergency permits to science teachers not fully qualified for certification in Texas. At the same time, the 53 teacher education schools in the state graduated 322 students with the necessary semester hours to teach science from the seventh grade through senior high school.

The story in mathematics is almost a re-run every year. Of the 422 college seniors graduated with teaching degrees in mathematics, only 277 took their skills into the public school classroom. At the same time, the Agency issued 1,188 emergency permits.

Industrial arts, a major subject in only 12 of the state's colleges, graduated 184 students. Of these, 107 went into teaching. Another 271 partially qualified industrial arts teachers were issued emergency permits.

The demand for special education teachers, particularly for men trained in occupational skills for the mentally retarded high school age youngster, is on another terrific upswing, according to Miss Walker.

"Last year Texas schools of education graduated 250 students qualified in this area, a year in which we issued 1,066 emergency permits simply because the demand was so great."

Emergency permits are expected to top the 12,000 mark by the end of October. However, this figure is not the true indicator of the number of teachers who aren't fully qualified, Miss Walker points out.

"About half the teachers who enter Texas schools on emergency permits lack only some minor qualification. Many of them completed their college work in another state and need only to pass the Texas government and American history requirements for certification. Others haven't filled the student teaching requirement before graduation, so must teach for two years before they can be certified."

"In many cases, these young teachers completed their work in August but won't receive their degrees until the next formal graduation ceremonies in January or June. Others are certified teachers but have transferred to subjects outside their usual specialties because of the needs of the school district."

Meanwhile, back on the playing field

Tax Man Sam Sez:

Students -- Keep Those W-2's

September is here and back to school time has finally arrived for Mama -- or much too soon for Junior. Going back to school does create one small income tax problem for those students who worked during the summer. Nowadays this includes most of the senior high school students, as well as college students on summer vacation. Ordinarily the students worked on jobs that required their employer to withhold income tax and social security tax from their pay check. The law requires their employer to issue them a W-2 within 30 days after they leave the job. The students will need to carefully put away this W-2 until January 1, 1970. Ordinarily if they do not work elsewhere, they will get all of their income tax withheld refunded, provided they file a Form 1040 with the Internal Revenue Service. Of course they are not required to file unless they make $600, but IRS can't send their money back until they do file. The students that lose the W-2's usually find that the employer will give them a duplicate--but only after at least one, and usually a series of tongue lashings.

Moments OF Meditation

C. T. Cunningham, Pastor of The First Baptist Church

It is easy to become a church member today - but it is not easy to be a Christian.

"In the last days," writes Paul to the young preacher, Timothy, "it is going to be very difficult to be a Christian."

It is no longer true that opposition to evil may land a man in jail. Paul told Timothy, "That is why I am suffering here in jail, and I am certainly not ashamed of it." (1:12) In our day, we have become so permissive that evil men can get away with almost anything.

What are some of the indications of "latter-day evil" which Paul mentions?

First, is selfishness. "People will love only themselves and their money." (3:2). The paramount ambition of almost all men today is security. Not spiritual or even mental security, but financial. Little thought is given to the future, except in its financial aspects. The measure of a man is estimated not by what he does so much as by what he has.

Second is sneering at God. "They will be proud and boastful, sneering at God," (3:2). When they proclaim that He is dead or, speak slightly of Him they are sneering at Him.

Third is parental disobedience. Whether or not you agree that men are more prone to evil today than they were in Paul's day, you will surely agree that disobedience to parents is more common today than at any time in the past.

Fourth is immorality. "They will think nothing of immorality...they will sneer at those who try to be good."

And the hypocrisy: "They will go to church, yes, but they won't believe anything they hear." (3:5).

What can we do about it? Follow the Lord's rules for doing His work. Work, so God can say to you, "Well done."

Be a good workman, one who does not need to be ashamed when God examines your work. Know what the Bible says and means. Run from anything that gives you evil thoughts. You must keep on believing the things you have been taught. You know they are true for you know that you can trust those of us who have taught you.

There is something you can do! Live for Christ in these difficult times. That is needed more than anything else today.

SAFETY EXPERTS URGE PERIODIC DRIVING TESTS

Because years ago you could get a license without ever taking a driving test, many an older driver today can say: "I never passed a driving test, but I've had a driver's license for more than 40 years."

Such a driver may be among the safest who ever set foot in a car.

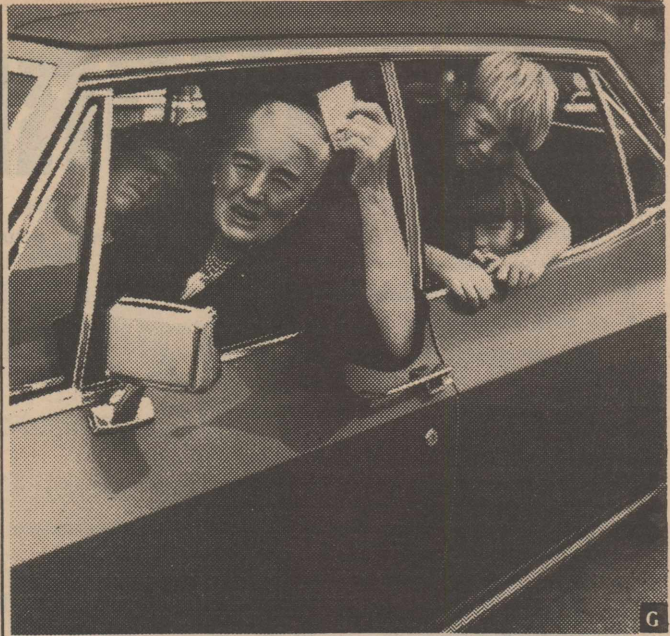

Or perhaps the deadliest. Nobody knows.

What's worse, nobody may ever know until it's too late.

Because there are still many states where some people may never have to prove they can drive. Or at best only once. Even if that once was 20, 30, 40 or even 50 years ago. Even if the car they took the test in was a 45-horsepower job. And even if the speed limit then was 45 miles per hour.

But now there are 400-horsepower cars racing about at speed limits up to 70.

On top of all that, people change too. And not always for the better.

This is one reason why many safety-minded organizations, notably The Continental Insurance Companies, urge us to write our legislators so we can be sure of having driving tests which really test, given often enough to weed out drivers who are better off not driving.

In any age group, not everyone should drive.

Rats & Mice Menace Health

With cold weather approaching, Texans may have some unwelcome guests--rats and mice--in their homes and business establishments this winter unless precautions are taken, advises the Texas State Department of Health.

In addition to causing economic loss, these guests also are a serious menace to the health of their benefactors. A costly, common enemy, the rat contaminates everything it touches and destroys upwards of a billion dollars worth of food and property each year in this country. Another loss is caused by rats gnawing insulation from electric wires with a resultant fire. It is estimated that five to 25 per cent of fires of unknown origin on farms are caused by rats.

Presence of rats indicates there is food, water and harborage for them. Eliminate these and you can eliminate the rats. Rubbish, tall grass and other debris should be removed from your premises. And, garbage and other food materials should be stored in rat-proof containers.

Rats may be controlled by poisoning or trapping. Trapping may be used with good results, and the dead animal can be disposed of neatly. Sometimes poisoned animals die in inaccessible places.

Local health units can supply rat control information.

Sometimes a mother wonders what makes a boy's mind work. Even when boys still seem like babies, they have a preoccupation with tools and a desire to "make" something that goes beyond their actual years.

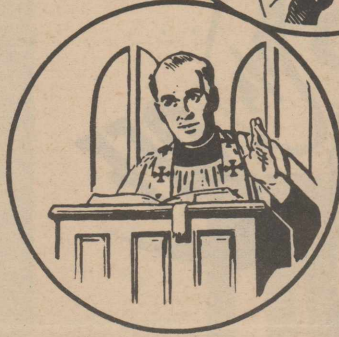

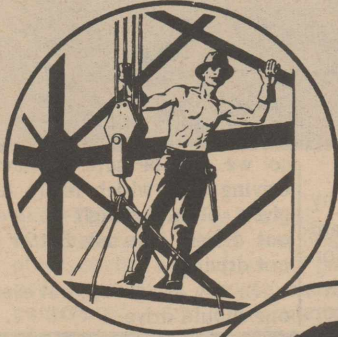

This is an urge that should never be "squelched." Out of such beginnings come great inventions, machine marvels, electronic wonders and all the rest.

WORKMAN

Then, allow your child to explore and experiment, even if what he is creating doesn't have any significance to you.

Let him expand his horizons in every direction. He was, after all, meant to explore three worlds: the physical, the mental and the spiritual.

Don't stint on any of them. Be sure he gets a good start in every area. If your son isn't going to church school and to church services with you, why not start now?
