Personal Records Are Available For Students

Personal School Record Books for medical records, report card, pictures and other valuable information are being sold by P.T.A. for $1.00 each.

They are available at School Offices and will be sold at P.T.A. meetings.

Lions Announce Lucky Winners

Winners in the Lions Club drawing held Friday night during halftime of the Longhorn-Turks football game were David Smith, David Moses and Mamie Rich.

Smith won the top prize, a half beef; Moses drew the ham and Mrs. Rich was the winner of the turkey.

Harold Bennett, Student Council president; Gary Six, vice president; Vicky Six, secretary and delegates, Donnie Shive and Jean Foster.

Delegates met in discussion groups of 35 and considered functions of the Student Council, including such phases as promotion of school spirit, development of leadership qualities and responsibility for civic projects.

Dr. A. B. Martin, President of Amarillo College, was speaker for the morning session. Luncheon was in the Tascosa High School cafeteria.

FTA Selling Hart Beat

Hart Future Teachers Organization has as its project the sale of subscriptions to the Hart Beat.

It is the purpose of this group to place the hometown paper in as many Hart homes as possible, and at the same time earn money for its annual projects.

All persons who desire to help this school endeavor and who wish to receive the Hart Beat, either by renewal or new subscription, should contact any member of Future Teachers.

'Riches Of America' Is Theme Of Annual Community Service

The riches of America and the progress the nation has made since the first Thanksgiving were points of emphasis in the address Sunday night by the Rev. Kenneth Wyatt at the annual Community Thanksgiving Service.

Rev. Wyatt concluded the sermon held in the First Baptist Church with the sixteenth verse from the third chapter of St. John.

Congregational singing was led by Preston Upshaw with special music and scripture by Elmer Six and Robert Hawkins.

Rev. Wyatt is serving as interim pastor of the First United Methodist Church. He and his family moved to Tulia from Morton about a year ago.

He is widely known for his public speaking and has been speaker for the National Knife and Fork circuit.

He has served pastorates in Paducah, Chillicothe and Texline. He began preaching at the age of 14 in Stephenville, sometimes preaching three or four times daily in different places but using the same sermon.

Representative Of TANE To Speak Here Sunday

A Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education (TANE) representative will speak in The First Baptist Church Sunday Nov. 30, 1969.

TANE speakers, ministers and laymen of several Christian denominations, speak in some 2,500 churches in Texas each year.

The organization is dedicated to the prevention of problems that arise from the use of alcohol, narcotics and other dangerous drugs. TANE programs include public school assembly programs, publishing, production of audio visual aids, legislative information service, free film lending library, and an annual school on alcohol and narcotics studies, sponsored jointly by TANE and Baylor University.

TANE's books and film strips, geared to prevent alcohol and drug problems, have been distributed throughout the English-speaking world. Some are being translated into other languages for use in the Far East and South America.

A non-profit, educational organization, TANE is supported financially by Texas churches of 19 denominations.

"The speaker's purpose in visiting a church is not to reach drunks and narcotics addicts, but to report to the church on alcohol and drug problems, what can be done, and what is being done about them," said Rev. Albert F. Tucker, TANE Executive Director.

Banking Commission Announces New Examination Procedures

Banking Commissioner J. M. Falkner has announced that the Texas Banking Department is expanding its normal routine examination procedures to include a program of direct verification of customers' deposit and loan balances in State-chartered banks in Texas. He said that during future examinations Examiner personnel will mail verification forms to bank customers whose accounts are selected on a random sampling basis. The forms will request the customer to verify the deposit or loan balance indicated, to indicate any discrepancies which might be noted, and to return the form to the Banking Department. In the event of differences or discrepancies, further contact with the customer will be made by Banking Department personnel.

Commissioner Falkner explained that similar verification programs are already in limited use by various bank supervision agencies of the Federal Government.

"These practices have also been used for several years in bank auditing by professional audit firms," he said. "As well as being a means of discovery of bank employee error or misappropriation, verification programs provide a psychological deterrent against defalcations."

The Commissioner stated that the development of a system for verification of accounts will necessarily be gradual and will be based on experience accumulated by the Banking Department and by the various Federal agencies which are cooperating in the program. Certain banks which have already established audit procedures satisfactory to the Banking Department will be exempt from this phase of examination, in order to prevent duplication of effort. The pilot project calls for only a few Examiner personnel to be specifically assigned to perform these duties, with the rate of expansion of the program to be determined by the problems encountered.

"It is hoped that the banking public will not be unduly concerned upon the receipt of these requests for verification of its banking activities, and bankers are being asked to publicize the project in their locales", Commissioner Falkner said.

Adult Education Classes Meeting

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

The good neighbor policy doesn't just pertain to nations. You can be a good neighbor in the area of health where colds are concerned, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

Do your children show symptoms of the common cold? Keep them home from school. Don't send them to play with the neighbor's children.

Colds are spread from person to person. Recent studies show that there are more colds in winter because people are indoors together more than in summer.

If you or your husband have a cold, be a good neighbor. Cancel social calls. Stay home and take care of it. And if a member of your family is recuperating from a communicable disease, be considerate. Don't let the neighbor's children into your home where they will be exposed to the disease.

The common cold is a name given to any of a number of short-lived infections of the nose and throat. All of them are highly contagious. Many different viruses cause a cold. These cold-causing viruses are present in great numbers in your nose and throat when you have a cold and are carried on the droplets you expel when talking, coughing or sneezing.

Fatigue, chilling and poor physical condition seem to give the virus a better foothold. The first hint of a cold, after the virus takes hold in your body, usually is a scratchiness in the throat. Within a few hours your nose gets stuffy and you have vague feelings of discomfort and illness. Sneezing usually accompanies it. Within 48 hours your cold is in full bloom -- eyes teary, nose running, voice husky, breathing obstructed and your senses of taste and smell dulled. You may feel lethargic and achy, have a headache and run a temperature.

Once the cold has fully developed, it usually continues at its peak for several days. The cold itself may be relatively minor in nature, but various complications which result can be serious.

There is no cure for the common cold, but secondary, bacterial infections associated with colds will respond to antibiotics.

The best treatment can be prescribed by your family physician. It usually includes keeping warm, getting plenty of rest and drinking lots of fluids.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Refusal of the U. S. Supreme Court to grant Nixon administration's request for reasonable delay in implementing full integration in 30 Mississippi school districts raises grave questions for people in all parts of the country.

First of all, the decision by the Supreme Court poses the question of what is constitutional. The Supreme Court's rulings have no permanency. For 14 years, the court held that it was constitutional for school districts to proceed with integration with "all deliberate speed." In other words, gradualism was deemed constitutional. All of a sudden, gradualism is out. The Supreme Court says that integration must be accomplished "at once." This raises the question: If gradualism was constitutional last year or last month, why isn't it constitutional this month or in the future?

The court's latest ruling confirms the suspicion of many citizens that it doesn't really have a constitutional standard, but simply adopts this or that sociological standard, depending on the whim of the justices and the temper of the times.

Moreover, even the limits of this sociological standard are unclear. Does the latest Supreme Court ruling apply only to the 30 Mississippi districts? To all the Southern states that formerly had legally segregated school systems? Or does it also apply to Northern school districts where de facto segregation prevails?

If past experience is any indicator, the court will zero in on the Southern states, treating them as targets for a judicial crackdown. The other states, which maintain de facto segregated school systems, may escape censure and regulation.

Understandably, Southerners are very sensitive in this matter. They feel, with justice, that there are two classes of law in the United States -- one for the Southern states and one for states outside the South. They can point to the unequal application of the law insofar as voter rights legislation is concerned. The voter rights law was framed to apply to the South and South only. The law is unconcerned with violation of voter rights elsewhere. It is intolerable and outrageous, of course, to have a double standard of law in a federal republic.

Then there is the practical question of how Mississippi and other similar situation states and school districts will adjust to the "at once" requirement of the Supreme Court.

No matter what the high court rules, there are limits on what local school officials can do to alter schooling arrangements -- and still operate an efficient, acceptable school system. In some districts, immediate, forced change of schooling arrangements acceptable to both races may simply result in the end of public schooling. Parents with sufficient means will send their children to private schools. Those without means may decide to relocate, to move elsewhere.

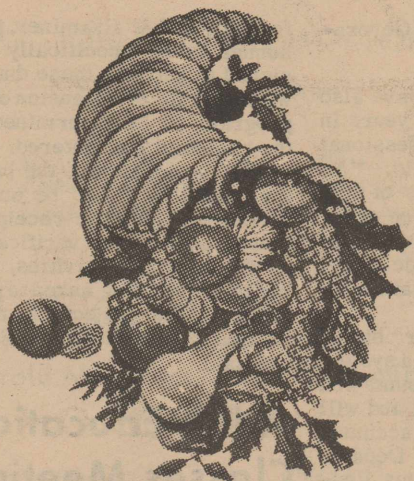

No court can abolish a parent's concern for his children and his determination to give them good schooling and a decent educational environment. If the schools in a community are virtually shattered by arbitrary court action, parents will withdraw their children from the schools and look for other communities in which to earn their living and continue their careers. It is too much to expect responsible parents to accept the notion that their children must be guinea pigs in a sociological experiment -- an experiment, moreover, that is not desired by the majority of either racial group.

One way or another, responsible parents will get acceptable schooling for their children, even if they have to "bootleg" it. In the Northern states, the flight to the suburbs is an attempt to do just that.

The courts have lost sight of the fact that education is an intimate matter, touching on family values. No court in the land can decree a single educational experience for all American children, for the reason that Americans are different. They are not a monolithic group, but have a variety of social, religious, sectional and cultural values. In the past, the courts honored and respected these differences, and saw in them the source of a vital differentiating liberty in the United States.

Now, unfortunately, activist judges and liberal politicians demand a totalitarian uniformity -- a rigid democracy that isn't at all what the Founding Fathers intended or that the majority of the American people want today. In other words, the courts are ruling in ways alien to the desires and best interests of the American people. They are ruling against the spirit of the U. S. Constitution. It is time that the federal judiciary reappraise its thinking about public education in the United States. If a sound and thoughtful reappraisal is made, there won't be any more "at once" declarations by the Supreme Court.

Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

Did you know that there was once "tree" money? History is literally overflowing with interesting stories about countless types of money.

The story of "tree" money comes from the East Indies.

In the tiny kingdom of Malacca, near Singapore, the government minted tin coins. The coins were in the form of a tree. Each coin had a hole in the middle and was fastened to a center stem.

The Malaccans would carry all or part of the collection of coins around with them. When they wanted to spend a coin they just snapped one off the tree. This action was similar to breaking a grape from a bunch.

Because the money was made of tin it was easy to carry. Also, it was convenient because the "tree" money itself formed a kind of purse.

Longhorns Win Last O

BY DAVID BASS

The Hart Longhorns ended their most successful season in history Friday night as they blanked the Turkey Turks 34-0 to end a season of 8 wins and 2 losses.

The Turks kicked off to the mighty Horns to start the game. The Horns began from their own 35 yard line before being stopped by a pass interception by Rod Setliff.

The Turks moved the ball well down to the Hart 25 but another pass interception by Gary Six thwarted the drive. The Horns set out to work on their next drive and moved the ball to the Turkey 23 yard line.

Jimmy Robinson took the ball there and scooted 23 yards for a score. The kick for the extra point was no good but the Horns led 6-0.

The Turks found the going too tough for them on their next drive and had to punt. The Horns took the ball on the Turk 49 and were moving the ball well before an untimely fumble was recovered by Lenord Carlisle. The Turks could do nothing with the ball and had to punt to the Horns.

Hart moved the ball well on this drive as they moved the ball to the Turkey five yard line.

From the five Johnny Ethridge shot through an open hole in the Turkey line and scored Hart's second T. D. of the night. The first quarter ended with the score at 12-0 in favor of the Horns.

In the second quarter the action slowed down a little as neither team moved the ball very far. Turkey had a pass intercepted in this period by Roy Ethridge and the Horns

Jimmy Robinson took the ball and scored a touchdown of the Horns. The score was 12-0 from Jerry Helms. Black was good on the extra point and the Horns led 20-0.

In the third quarter the Horns found the Turkey five yard line and scored a touchdown. The score was 27-0.

The Turks found the ball again. Ethridge did it a

Take Time For Your Children

By Richard L. Evans

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was given to us by a reader who wished to share it with all our readers:

We "shall not pass again this way". And in these swift-passing scenes and seasons there seems to come-insistently, almost above all else-this compelling cry: Take time for your children.

More and more, professional people are telling us that children are shaped and molded at a very early age - so early that it is a sobering fact to face. Home, parents, early impressions set the pattern for the future - and the evidence is overwhelming that nothing in this world is ever going to take the place of wholesome, happy homes.

And there is more to this than food, shelter, and physical sustenance.

There is the shaping of attitudes, of minds, of morals; opening avenues of interest and activity; instilling honesty, respect, reverence; prayers at a mother's knee; correction with fairness and firmness "showing forth afterwards an increase of love" and kindness.

All this we cannot be, all this we cannot do, by not being there, by living separate lives, by an overabsorption in outside interests.

Take time for your children.

They are so soon grown, so soon gone. "Is mother home?" "Where is mother?" are the questions asked when they come home from anywhere. Oh, let them have the blessing of your being there.

Take time for open arms; for talking, for reading, for family prayer; for home evenings and hours. As one discerning poet put it: "Richer than I you can never be - I had a mother who read to me."

Take time for making memories; for fixing sure foundations that will last long after less essential things are far forgotten. Mothers need to be home. A mother, a father, waiting is a source of safety and assurance.

Parents need to give their children wholesomeness and wholeness by the very lives they live. Oh, the blessedness of coming home and finding mother there, with love and kindness and encouragement.

Life goes quickly. Don't brush them off and turn them over to others.

Take time for your children - before they're grown, before they're gone.

Oh, take time for your children.

Vehicle Inspection Behind Last Year

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that motor vehicle inspections in Texas are running almost 30 percent behind the inspection rate at this time last year.

"Unless the inspection rate increases, there are going to be some awfully long lines at inspection stations prior to the April 15 deadline," Speir said.

During the year which ended August 31, some 6.3 million vehicles were inspected in Texas. Since September 1, only 538,000 have received the required inspection.

The State Motor Vehicle Inspection Act was amended by the Legislature to provide that inspection stickers issued after September 1 will expire 12 months from the date of issue. However, the law requires that all motor vehicles display a new sticker before April 15, 1970.

Speir noted that the new stickers are being placed on the driver's side of the windshield and contain a number tab showing the month of expiration. The old stickers are on the passenger or right-hand side and have no number tab.

"The inspection program is intended to discover vehicle defects which may lead to an accident. We urge all Texans to have their vehicles inspected soon to make sure they are safe for winter driving," Speir said.

WE GATHER TOGETHER

We all went to church this morning. Later, as I carved the turkey, Mary and I began to reminisce about our first Thanksgiving in our own home.

It was the year Joe was a baby. Always before, we'd gone home to our families. We set a festive table and pretended not to be lonely.

"And were you?" asked Jane.

"Did you pray before you ate?" asked Ruthie.

"Of course, they prayed," said Joe importantly. After all, he'd been there! "That's what Thanksgiving is all about!"

Mary and I smiled at each other, remembering how we'd nearly forgotten. We'd bowed our heads together, baby son at our side. Suddenly, the real meaning of Thanksgiving swept over us, and we gave thanks for the blessings of the hour.

How grateful we are for the teachings of our church, which through the years has helped us interpret the source of all goodness!
