THE DEADLY SHOT GUN.

Washington Dec. 6.—A most atrocious murder was committed about five miles south of this place on the 25th of December. A negro named John Smith had procured a certain colored girl, whose name was George Bailey, another negro, had become engaged. On the night before the wedding was to have occurred, some one heard her where she lived, and screams loudly after which was continued for some time, becoming gradually weaker and weaker, until they ceased together, some twenty, those who heard the cries would not respond, and next morning search was made on the body of John Smith was found in a weedy field, where it had been dragged one distance from the road. Deputy Sheriff Alex Jones immediately began search for the murderer, and proceeding to the house of George Bailey, who had left her in being a girl, the murderer was found bloody and the search was strong evidence pointing to the man of George Bailey. Mr. Jones, a brother, the sheriff, James Smith, and his posse, and after that time those in the neighborhood were helped in Colorado County on the 27th of Dec. 1888. He took his trial as a matter of course, several witnesses were implicated in the murder, some from East Bernard, a double bluffing occurred there Friday evening. A man by the name of H. and Fitzgerald, recently cleared Justice of the Peace of that precinct, got into a buggy and rider was killed outright. H. and Fitzgerald were named. Particulars of the affair have not been learned.—Dallas Morning News.

ROBBED THE STAGE.

Coronado, Dec 6.—The stage between here and San Angelo was held up and robbed a mile south of here this morning by a young man who gives the name of Townsend. He compelled the driver to get out of his stage while he found him. He then drove off with the stage a short distance and rifled the baggage, when he contained nothing of value. The driver tossed his feet and came to camp when a large part of the population started to chase. While the passengers were out the robber came back, was identified and taken in by deputy United States Marshal Goodale. He is now in jail. He is known to many citizens.

Work on two new lines, Fort Worth, Dec. 6.—Work on Brownwood Road is progressing satisfactorily, and the force

THE "YONGMAG" RAILROAD.

The "Yongmag" railroad is now being built from Fort Worth to Seymour, and the engineers yesterday drove through the route of the line to their camp for Santa Fe, N. M. Concrete is now being laid under way and it ought to be a great section. The president, in his message has mapped out the work so plain that even the "pretence hands" should be able to understand just what is expected of them. All that is necessary is to lay to the line, follow the line, and the country will be benefited by the work.—Fort Worth Gazette.

General Land Commissioner.

General Land Commissioner Walsh's report is published. It covers the 31. Exhibit A of the report shows the revenue of 187800 pounds, and Exhibit B shows the revenue of 177,700 acres. Speaking of the general land office, Walsh says: "When the full survey of the public lands is completed, the system is fully ready to be put in operation. Here will be a day of reckoning for those responsible if they can be found. In a population of over 2,000,000 souls, a least 98 per cent. are interested in real estate. A revenue from the school land grant would be sufficient to pay the cost of the land, and the system is fully ready to be put in operation. Mr. Home belonged to the ancient border family of the Homes of Bassendean. His father also lived to be the "father" of the church.

A NEW operatic star, Fraulein Anna Kirbel, is creating a great sensation in Norway. Ole Bull's son, Alexander, among other experts, is said to have predicted that Fraulein Kirbel will throw Jennie Lind into the shade, and Mme. Marchesi, under whom she prepared herself for the stage, as well as Miss Emma Thursby and Mr. Maurice Strakosch, are reported to be equally charmed with her voice. Fraulein Kirbel was born in Drontheim, and is 23 years of age.

"THE quick forgetfulness of the world as regards great men that have outlived their usefulness was painfully exemplified at the funeral of Count Beust," says the Vienna correspondent of The London Times. "The Protestant church in the Dorotheengasse is not large but it was only half full, and the Fremdenblatt, the organ of the foreign office, reports the deceased statesman's funeral in a paragraph of a dozen lines. Count Taaffe and Count Kalnoky were both present at the service."

THE Guinness family, whose great Dublin brewing establishment has been successfully floated as a stock company, have spent money lavishly, but always within their own church and party. Sir Benjamin Lee Guinness, father of Lord Ardilaun, spent more than $500,000 in rearing St. Patrick's cathedral—"the largest insurance against fire I ever heard of," said the bishop of Peterborough. It is said that Lord Ardilaun, on retiring from the business, got $12,500,000 for his interest in it.

BARON ANTONIO MANNO, of Turin, author of "Relazioni Diplomatiche della Monarchia de Savoia," "Bibliografia Storica," and other learned works has recently been given an honorary degree of doctor of philosophy by the University of Tubingen. In conferring the degree the university particularly desired to express its appreciation of Manno's generous assistance to German scholars in Italy, whose attention he directed to archives and other historical source houses. Thus, he enabled Pflugk-Hartung to enrich his "Iter Italicum" by communications from more than one hundred archives and libraries.

Convict Captured. HOUSTON, Nov. 18.—An escaped convict with a handcuff and a long chain to one arm was captured near here on the 14th.

...to say radical things and spit up... I will now close, thanking you for your kind presence. I will ever strive, while representing you in congress, to retain by following, and never, by word or deed, endeavor to win fame and applause there at the expense of votes at home. I care not to be embalmed in the school speakers and declaimers of future ages, provided my tombstone shall bear upon it the simple, poetic refrain: "He goes there."—Bill Nye in Chicago News.

From The Fountain of Experience. I have heard men say to me, "Yes, Mr. Beecher, it is very easy for you that are in prosperity and in popular conditions to stand up there in the pulpit, with your salary, with all your loving friends around you, to talk to us about patience. Just come down where we are, and take the buffeting life as we do, and you would see." Then, thank God, that there is somebody that stands so much higher than care that he can tell you what you ought to feel. But don't be in a hurry. I have had my share of trouble in this life, and thank God! I have had my emancipation out of the very doctrine that I am preaching to you to-day. If I were to groan and grumble as some men do over trials that have pursued me, sometimes like a hurricane, the bereavements and sorrows and various trials of my life, I should be like a fountain of complaints all the time. But I learned early to love Jesus. I learned early to take that peace which passeth all understanding from Him. He has never forsaken me; and I have carried this thought with me at every step through my long and laborious, and varied life; and I bear witness to you that, though I have known of hopefulness naturally, I should have been crushed long ago if I had not had it. I know that I am dear to God; I know that He would not have put the troubles upon me if He did not mean to sustain me. I have said in many and many a dark hour to the Lord, "Lay on; I believe you would not put on me more than I can bear, and I will bear what ever you put on."

I have been very poor in my lifetime, and I was not cast down. I had this feeling: "The less I have, and the more I can serve my Lord and Christ in my poverty, the happier I shall be. This life is not my home; the other life is mine, and He is looking upon me; and if I be heroic, and take suffering and sorrow for His cause, what triumph is mine!" And above all bodily wants and above all sense of shame or comparison of estate with other men's, I went through the wilderness, for I was a missionary in my earlier days in the unsettled and newly settled portions of America, and I gloried in my poverty. My name was as nothing, my means were none. I expected to live and die in obscurity, and I gloried in it. For me to live was Christ and to die gain. And I do know—oh, not as much as I should, not as I ought, but as I know enough to declare that in the midst of sufferings and deprivation there may be rising out of the soul notes of exquisite music peace that passeth all understanding, joy in the Holy Ghost.—Henry Ward Beecher, in Brooklyn Magazine.

What do you care, gentlemen, for what I said or did in our great session of last winter, so long as I came home to you with a solidified vote for this fall, so long as I have not trodden on the toes of the Irish, the German, the Scandinavian, the Prohibitionist, the reform-suffragist, the anti-Mormon, or the international copyright crank? Let us be frank with each other, fellow citizens. Do you ask me on my return to you, how many speeches my private secretary and the public printer attached to my name or how many packages of fly-blown turnip seed I sent to you last year?

You ask yourselves how is the vote of our party this fall as compared with two years ago, and I answer not a vote has been mislaid or ballot erased. I have done nothing and said nothing that a carrying constituency could get hold of. Though I was never in congress before, old members envied me the long, blank, evasive and irreproachable record I have made. No man can say that, even under the stimulating influence of the wine cup, I have given utterance, in the last two years, to anything that could be distorted into an opinion. And so to-day I come back to you and find my party harmonious, while others return to their homes to be greeted by a disarranged constituency, over whose ruins the over-ardent adversary clammers to success.

So I say to you, to-night, Mr. President, and gentlemen of the convention, let us leave to the newspapers the expression of what we call earnest convictions—convictions that arise up in after years, to blot us across the face and eyes. Let injudicious young men talk about that kind of grocer's bill, and the wary, self-made politician who succeeds, does not do that way. It seems odd to me that young men will go year after year trying to attain distinction by giving utterance to opinions when they can see for themselves that we do not want such men for any place whatever, from jurymen to congressmen.

If you examine my record for the last session, for instance, you will not find that I spent the day pounding my desk with an autograph album, and filling the air with violent utterances, pro or con, and then sat up nights to get myself interviewed by the distributing elements of the press. No, sir! I am not a disturber, a radical, or a disrupter.

At Washington I am a healer, and at home in my ward, I am also a healer. What America wants to-day is not so much a large number of high-browed men who will get up on their hind feet and call on heaven to paralyze their right arms before they will do a wrong act, or ask to have their tongues filled to the ridge-pole of their mouths rather than utter a false or dangerous doctrine. That was customary when the country was new and infested with bears; when men carried their guns to church with them and drank bayum as a beverage. These remarks made good pieces for boys to speak, but they will not do now. What the country needs is a congress about as equally balanced as possible, politically, so that when one side walks up and smells of an appropriation, the other can growl in a low tone of voice, from December till dog days. In this way, by a pleasing system of post-ponements, previous questions, points of order, reference to committees, laying on the table and general oblivion, a great deal may be evaded, and people at home who do not closely read and remember the congressional record, will not know who to blame. Judicious inactivity and a gentle air of evasion, will do much to prevent party dissension. I have done that way, and I look for the same old majority that we had at the former election.

I often wonder if Daniel Webster would have the nerve to get up and talk as freely about things now as he used to when politics had not reached the present state of perfection. We often hear people ask why we haven't got any Webster in congress now. I can tell you. They are sat down on long before they get that far along.

Our tailor-made gowns give us faultless fits, but there is no denying, they are tightly snug. They are built on the principle of giving comfortable warmth, but it is attained without sacrificing the purpose of revealing the form divine. They carry with them a masculine air, a horse-race atmosphere. A tea-gown is purely feminine. It may be fashioned of white muslin, with knots of blue ribbons, or of sunflower yellow chints with black buttons; it is bound to be unmistakably feminine. A sublimated tea-gown is soft and silky, flowing and graceful, concealing and revealing. In it any woman, if she is not what all would call beautiful, comes precious near being so.—Chicago Ledger.

Charity Begins at Home. "I'm going to become a missionary," she said, as she gazed at him with a why-don't-he-ask-me-to-marry-him expression on her face. Looking down upon her, he replied: "Don't you think you had better begin on a ho—then?" The were married in the spring, under the chestnut trees.—Carl Pretsch, Weekly.

The Patronage Issue. St. Louis, Dec. 8.—Hon. Jas. H. Jones, of Henderson, Tex., who now represents the third congressional district of Texas, but who was defeated for the renomination by Capt. Kilgore, was in the city yesterday on his way to Washington. Mr. Jones says he was defeated because of dissatisfaction in his district upon the patronage question. He said: "The patronage issue was what defeated me, and it will be found that it was the patronage issue that defeated Mr. Morrison, of Illinois. The protectionists merely combined the dissatisfied element against him. Mr. Willis, of Louisville, also was defeated by the Courier-Journal's opposition, because of the same issue. "Will the patronage issue affect Mr. Cleveland's chances for recognition in 1888," was asked. Mr. Jones replied: "I do not know. He has held to his construction of the civil service law, and that is not the construction all of us would put upon it. He found that infernal law upon the statute books when he became president, and he had pledged himself to its enforcement. He is a Democrat and believes that Democrats ought to occupy the offices, but this is a big country, and it would not do to disarrange the business of the government by wholesale removals. He has been conservative in that, perhaps too conservative, but he has two years more to make a record for himself, and those years may change entirely the complexion of his chances. The fighting Democrats should read his letter to Stone, the Republican suspended for disobeying the order with reference to the participation in politics of federal officeholders. It contains some comfort for them, I think. The claws seem to show themselves through the velvet."

When asked as to his opinion of Mr. Carlisle as a presidential possibility Mr. Jones said: "It is doubtful if Mr. Carlisle has any chance of being elected to the presidency. There is a strong prejudice in the North against a man who comes from south of Mason and Dixon's line. It is a great crime, even with Northern Democrats, to favor the South too much, and old Col. Bill Morrison, with bullet holes through his body, received in the Federal army, has to be defended against the charge of being a Southern sympathizer. Carlisle is a good man and thoroughly orthodox. He is a big-brained man and a great man. He is worthy of any office in the gift of the people, but I very much doubt that he will ever be president."

Important Telephone Test. GALVESTON, Dec. 8.—What is regarded here as an important test in telephone inventions was made to-day and proved a great success. The new instrument is known as the Barriett-Nelms telephone, being the invention of S. R. Barriett and W. W. Nelms, both young men, residents of Houston. The test consisted in talking over a wire 830 miles long, being the distance to New Orleans and return. The articulation was far more distinct and perfect than over an ordinary short city circuits by the Bell telephone. Some dozen of the leading citizens talked over to-day's circuit and all agreed they had never held more satisfactory conversations. The new invention differs from the Bell, Edison and other telephones, inasmuch as it combines the uses of an induction coil and a helix of a hand phone have set them to act simultaneously and in concert with each other by winding the coils in the same direction and using a carbon diaphragm with carbon contacts, enabling the use of a large amount of battery power. To-day's test was made with three cells; for a short distance no battery whatever is required, the automatic dynamo current being sufficient to articulate with great distinctness and plainness. The inventors claim they can talk from New York to San Francisco with the same distinctness as to-day's test. A caveat has been issued on the new instrument and the Patent Office is now considering an application for a patent.

Ex-Alderman for State Prison. GALVESTON, Dec. 8.—The penitentiary agent left Saturday night with Ex-Alderman E. A. Smith, and a white and black felon, all chained together by the neck, bound for Huntsville. Smith was a prominent citizen, alderman and treasurer of the Screwmen's Benevolent Association. In the last-named capacity he embezzled $4500 belonging to widows and orphans, and in consequence gets two years in the penitentiary.

To Enforce the Sunday Law. MARSHALL, Dec. 8.—Sheriff Perry, by direction of the new county attorney, J. B. Carter, has notified the saloons and business houses of Marshall that the State Sunday law will be enforced in future, and that there will be no exemptions. The saloons must be closed at 12 o'clock Saturday night and remain closed until 12:01 Sunday night. Up to the present time the saloons have been acting under the city ordinance, which permitted them to keep open until 9 a. m. Sunday and open again at 4 p. m.

Prohibition in Greenville. GREENVILLE, Dec. 5.—The anti prohibitionists have issued the first number of their campaign sheet. It is christened the Freeman and is filled with the ordinary argument used in opposition to prohibitory measures. The county papers are giving both sides a reasonable amount of space for the discussion of the question. A number of the most sober minded business men oppose the measure, while some of the drinking class favor its adoption.

A BIG THING FOR TEXAS. Proposed Steamship Line Between Galveston and Liverpool.—What Mr. Ralph Says of It. GALVESTON, Dec. 5.—The News said editorially this morning: Mr. Ralph, managing director of the Anglo-American Fresh Meat Supply Company, leaves to-day for New York en route to England. In an interview with a representative of the News yesterday Mr. Ralph stated that could he get the proper support here the company which he represents would very soon put on a line of at least five steamers between Liverpool and Galveston, leaving each port every fourteen days, and confining the business the entire year through. If the railroads centering at Galveston can be induced to give equitable rates for through freights from England to Mexico, California and the West generally, this proposed line of steamers could make Galveston a distributing point instead of having to unload at New Orleans, which resident merchants and importers may perhaps be able largely to control. But like every important undertaking this matter is in its conception and requires aid and encouragement. The company which Mr. Ralph represents has secured the beef packing and slaughtering works at Victoria. Other works will go into operation at San Antonio, and it is understood that Mr. Talmage and those interested with him will erect works of a similar character on Clear creek, through all of which a constant supply of meats for the English market may be secured for this proposed fortnightly line of steamers between Liverpool and Galveston. A spirit has been evinced in Galveston of late to foster and encourage undertakings looking to the advancement of the port, and it occurs to the News that an excellent opportunity presents itself in this direction in aiding the establishment of this proposed steamship line. The benefits involved would not occur alone to the port of Galveston, for the successful carrying out of such an undertaking would insure immensely to the profit and prosperity of the live stock interests of the State.

Forest on Fire. AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 5.—From Sumner to Charleston, South Carolina, a distance of ninety miles, the forest is a solid sheet of flames. In many places the fire approached so near the track on either side of the railroad that trains were literally run between walls of flames. The fire is fiercely swept on by a swift breeze from the northwest, and at some places leaps across the roadway. Some of the tall pine trees resembled pillars of flames in motion as the trains rushed by them. At Monk's Corner several plantation houses have been burned, with everything in them. Around the town of Early, S. C., the fire is terribly grand. The woods all around are lit up, while the town nestles in the centre in imminent danger of being caught. The ground is covered every where with a thick coat of sedge, wiregrass and other lowland growth. After frost this growth dries up and becomes very combustible. The inhabitants—men, women and children—are shoveling away this growth in a circle around the town, so that the town may not have food upon which to eat its way in, but the task is almost more than they can accomplish.

Mysteriously Skipped to San Francisco. DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 5.—W. H. Chandler, a young business man, disappeared last May and all efforts to learn of his fate were fruitless until Wednesday night, when he quietly appeared at his father's house. He says he was in Windsor, Ontario, on business when he lost consciousness. Upon recovering his senses he found himself a passenger on a west bound train, near Kansas City, with a bleeding wound in his head and a ticket for San Francisco in his pocket. Perplexed as to what explanation he could make at home he concluded to finish the journey. He has been ill in San Francisco most of the time since. He cannot account for the adventure. His reputation for veracity is unquestionable, and his friends believe the strange story.

Death of Col. George Noble. DALLAS, Dec. 8.—Sunday morning all Dallas shocked to learn the sad news of the death of Col. George Noble, general manager of the Texas & Pacific Railroad. Mr. Noble died Saturday night at 11:30, at the Bogel House. He was taken sick last Friday a week ago and gradually grew worse, but not considered dangerously ill, and the sudden death was a hard blow to his family and a shock to his thousands of friends. He was a native of Pennsylvania, and 56 years old at his death. His career has been brilliant, entering the railroad service when a young man, and gradually rising to the position of general manager, in which he has spent about all his active life. He was a great and good man, and was so universally loved and respected that his death was a loss to the community. He was the father of the late Joseph E. McDonald, of Indiana, and had two sons, Lawrence and Hal. These can have the assurance that with them mourn some thousands of people over the loss of the dear husband and father. The funeral takes place from the First Presbyterian Church to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Col. Mills says that it was prohibition, and not the war, which reduced his means from 13,000 to 6,000. Death of Col. George Noble. DALLAS, Dec. 8.—Sunday morning all Dallas shocked to learn the sad news of the death of Col. George Noble, general manager of the Texas & Pacific Railroad. Mr. Noble died Saturday night at 11:30, at the Bogel House. He was taken sick last Friday a week ago and gradually grew worse, but not considered dangerously ill, and the sudden death was a hard blow to his family and a shock to his thousands of friends. He was a native of Pennsylvania, and 56 years old at his death. His career has been brilliant, entering the railroad service when a young man, and gradually rising to the position of general manager, in which he has spent about all his active life. He was a great and good man, and was so universally loved and respected that his death was a loss to the community. He was the father of the late Joseph E. McDonald, of Indiana, and had two sons, Lawrence and Hal. These can have the assurance that with them mourn some thousands of people over the loss of the dear husband and father. The funeral takes place from the First Presbyterian Church to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Col. Mills says that it was prohibition, and not the war, which reduced his means from 13,000 to 6,000. He says: "They got a strange resolution in our state platform, and I was forced to oppose it, and I was elected for congress by a large majority." REAGAN'S CANDID. Judge Reagan doesn't about the senatorial canvass has heard more of it here he was in Texas. He is candidate, and having pl seeds for "talk" before leaving he is now cultivating it by entire effort to his interest, mere measure. William F. Cole, of Texas, was noted to-day in the treasury department from $1000 to $1200.
