The 100 ft. elevated tank will afford enough pressure to supply several streams of water, probably higher than any in Knox City. Thousands of dollars will be saved, in the course of years, by having fire protection.

COMMUNITY DAY MONDAY, DEC. 11

Committees Working Harmoniously and Prospects Encouraging for Success of the Event.

There were a number of those present at the Community Day board of directors. The Commercial Association and the Chamber of Commerce were also present. A sort of endless chain, you know. But if the farmer had sent that dollar to a catalogue house, where in hell would it be by this time? Certainly not in this community. — Ex.

the collection at Sunday morning services.

Then it reaches the church treasurer, and he tickles the palm of the preacher with it and the ministerial gentleman slips it to the milliner in exchange for a hat for Mrs. Preacher, or a party payment.

Mrs. Millner needs some face cream, and the beauty parlor on drug store gets it.

Then it goes to another grocer for foodstuffs, and the grocer hands it over to the farmer for produce, and the dollar starts off on another round of calls.

A sort of endless chain, you know.

But if the farmer had sent that dollar to a catalogue house, where in hell would it be by this time?

Certainly not in this community. — Ex.

Travels of a Dollar.
Consider the rounds of a dollar when it is spent at home: The farmer receives it in exchange for produce, he ships to city market.
He pays it to the grocer.

That gentleman pays it to his clerk, and the latter hands it over to the shoe dealer.

SAYS CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

"Who's your lawyer?"
"Lawyer Glibwitz."
"He's good, all right. But Lawyer Pumpham's on the other side. He's a powerful man with a jury."
"I'm not worrying any. There are four women on the jury and Pumpham's a careless feeder. They're not going to pay much attention to a man who has egg stains on his vest."

Mother Tells How to Make A Baby Bright

"If your baby is bad and cross it's a sure sign he needs Teethina," says Mrs. Clair McConnell, of Norman Park, Ga. "That's the way it always was with my little boy. When he was fretting and cross I would give him Teethina and then he was bright and laughing again."

"Teethina is wonderful for them when they get older, too. I give it to my seven-year-old boy and you never saw anything do so much good."

The most frequent cause of fretting, cross babies is painful disorders in their little tender bowels. Give them Teethina. Your mother used it. It's perfectly harmless.

Sold by all druggists, or send 30c to Moffett Laboratories, Columbus, Ga., and get a package of Teethina and a wonderful booklet about Baby.—Advertisement.

Presumptuous.

Mrs. Goodbody always spoke to poor men in the streets and did her best to help them.

"And how long," she said to one of them, "were you a prisoner?"

"Seven years, ma'am," he answered.

"But the war didn't last seven years," said the old lady in astonishment.

"Ah!" said the tramp. "But who was talking about the war?"

Just say to your grocer Red Cross Ball Blue when buying bluing. You will be more than repaid by the results. Once tried always used.—Advertisement.

The Tonic.

Mrs. Smith (thoughtfully)—I'm afraid I shall have to stop giving Tommy that tonic the doctor left for him.

Mr. Smith (anxiously)—Why, isn't he any better?

Mrs. Smith—Oh, yes. But he has slid down the banisters six times this morning, broken the hall lamp, two vases, a pitcher and a looking glass, and I don't feel as if I could stand much more.

For speedy and effective action Dr. Peary's "Dead Shot" has no equal. One dose only will clean out Worms or Tapeworms. Adv.

Making Things for Christmas

Human Nature vs. the Christmas

By Mary Graham Bond

WE WERE full of the Christmas spirit. We were going to be kindly, more charitable, more friendly with the whole world. The Christmas spirit had penetrated. We could feel its warm glow. And so—after a riotous Christmas in the old home town where lately our work had taken us.

The travel was heavy, of course, and we found ourselves waiting at the end of a long line to get into the dining car. We waited for an hour by our watches. We were exhausted from having stood and from annoyance at the slowness of others and because we were very hungry.

Finally the line grew shorter. Soon our turns would come. But it seemed not. For those who had gone into the dining car at last to eat took time about it even though their absence made the waiting line a shorter one.

At last we were at the head of the line. It had been a long process to work up to this point and we smiled at one another.

"Only a moment now and we'll be eating," we fairly beamed the words.

But again it seemed not so. For those at the tables were eating and eating and eating. They would never finish, it appeared. When they approached the end of their meal and we almost bounded to the nearly vacant table we discovered they were taking their time over their coffee.

"How selfish people are," we said to each other. "How much they lack the unselfish Christmas spirit. It means nothing to them! They know there is a great line waiting and they don't hurry in the least. Why, just think of the length of time we've waited and there are more to follow us. And yet those people can be as leisurely as though they were in their own homes. It's outrageous, simply outrageous, how utterly selfish people are. And you would think at this time of the year they'd be a little more thoughtful."

And to our exhaustion was added the sorrow we felt in the thoughtlessness of human nature.

And then—the head waiter summoned us to a table. Two persons had at last arisen and at last our turns had actually come!

We sat back and luxuriously perused the menu. Well, we were hungry. We'd have a good meal!

And we began to order.

"And I'm just going to take my time about it, too," I said. "Just because people stand there and glare at us, as though we almost had no right to be eating our meal, isn't going to make me hurry."

But as soon as the old lady heard the word "Christmas" she became wholly unable to hear more. Susy continued from behind her back, got down on her knees, peeped up from the floor, peeped up through her fingers, without effect. Finally, remarking in an aside, "Wouldn't she wear you out?" the child was about to give up, when she was encouraged by the beginning of a smile that seemed to promise to spread all over Mrs. Begone's countenance. This hint of success was reflected in a broader smile upon the child's face that in turn found registry upon the face of the other and certified that the battle was won.

It was a costly smile for Mrs. Begone; six very empty stockings asked for contributions the next evening, but I dare say that she was happier in filling them than she would have been if her deafness had not been cured. She was even happier than the child, and that is saying a good deal. She was so happy that she changed an old saying in her mind and, instead of "True happiness, if understood, consists alone in being good," she made it "True happiness, if understood, consists alone in doing good."

"I should say not," said my companion. "We'll take all the time in the world in spite of their ugly looks!"

It was some time later that we remembered the Christmas spirit we had been so full of before!

"Human nature vs. Christmas spirit," we said sadly to each other.

Dead Broke.

"Are you going to hang up your stockings this Christmas?"

"I am more likely to hang up my watch."

Contractor Has Gained 30 Lbs. on Tanlac

"Tanlac fixed me up so I gained thirty pounds. I have never seen or heard of such a wonderful medicine in all the sixty-six years of my life," declared William Magee, well-known retired contractor, 3840 Lafayette Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

"About two years ago I had a severe bladder trouble that left me in an awfully run-down condition. My appetite went back on me and my stomach got so weak I could not eat and digest enough to give me any strength. I also had the worst sort of pains across the small of my back, and could not sleep.

"I began picking up soon after I started taking Tanlac, and now I have a fine appetite, sleep like a log and that tired, worn-out feeling has all left me. I could not do otherwise than recommend Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Reducing. "I don't eat as much as I did. I'm reducing."

"Trying to bring down your weight, eh?"

"No, my expenses."

THE DELAY BOYS.

Knox City Journal: You can get your ad in early in the week as easily as you can on press day. We cannot give you as good service when all the ads come in late as we can when they come in early. See the difference? The same applies to news items.

Isn't it remarkable that so many people proceed on the theory that an advertisement or a news item has only to be sent to the office a couple of minutes before press time to insure its insertion? They forget, or overlook the fact, or simply don't give a darn, that every line that goes into the paper must go through at least half a dozen processes before it reaches the press, and that each of these processes requires time and vigilance, extreme vigilance, in fact. Things that go to the press without having been carefully scrutinized by practical scrutinizers are liable to come forth in shocking form. The types are tricky little demons, and there are countless embarrassing miscombinations likely to escape the most watchful of workmen and be flaunted to the world on the printed page. Patrons who never have their ads or news items ready until the last minute of the eleventh hour put a strain on the whole printing office. Don't do that way, patrons. Be good. If you can't be average good, be as good as folks like you can be.—State Press in Dallas News.

We have had many nice compliments on the improved appearance of The Journal recently, which we truly appreciate. A word of appreciation from our readers is always a great encouragement to us, and really the encouraging remarks of one's friends is an asset to their business. We are now printing more nearly the kind of local newspaper that it has been our desire to publish all the time, but certain conditions have been against us, and even yet there are circumstances which prevent us from reaching our goal. However, with the co operation and support of Knox City and community, we hope that within a short time we will be able to make some permanent improvements in your home paper. Are you with us?

BE CAREFUL!

We ask those who indulge in the Yuletide pastime of shooting fireworks to be very careful not to shoot them near the cotton yard, as to do so might cause disaster. Please take heed to this appeal, and oblige.

Yours very truly,
W. E. Raney,

THOUGHTS TURNED TO VANITY

With the Passing of Years of Hardship, Puritan Women Began to Consider Adornment.

After the first years of hardship were past and wealth began to pile up, some of the puritanical traditions weakened. There arose among women of New England not only the desire for fine dress, which religion considered wicked, but, still worse, according to the traditions, also a love of cosmetics.

As early as 1686 it was said of a Boston woman: "To hide her age, she paints and to hide her painting she dares hardly to laugh." One of the ministers about that time stated to his congregation: "At the resurrection of the Just, there will be no such sight met with as the Angels carrying Painted Ladies in their arms."

But in newspapers began to appear advertisements of washes for the skin, face powders, face paints, composition to take off "Superfluous Hair," face patches and the like. One of the leading cosmetics was the wash-ball, a substitute for soap. Perfumes were used not only on the person, but also to scent linen chests, closets and rooms.—Detroit News.

DECIDE AT LAUSANNE ON PULSORY MIGRATION OF GREEKS AND TURKS.

DONE TO AVERT MASSACRE

Will Mark End of Greek Colonies in Asia Minor, Take Turks From Balkans to Turkey.

Lausanne.—Greece must ask the great powers, especially the United States, to relax their immigration laws and admit Greek subjects. M. Venizelos informed the Lausanne conference, if the project to send Greek residents in Turkey back to Greece was so framed as to include Greek residents of Constantinople. He said that his fellow-countrymen in Constantinople numbered almost half a million and that Greece, already overburdened with refugees was in no position to take care of them.

Lausanne.—Wholesale exchange of Turkish and Greek civilian populations in Asia Minor has been arranged at the Near Eastern Peace Conference.

Thousands of inhabitants will be forced to wade from their homes under the decision of the conferees who believe the best plan to prevent massacres of Turks by Greeks or by Greeks by Turks is to separate the peoples who have held bitter hatreds for each other for centuries.

It is estimated that a million Greeks and Turks will re-enact the old exchange under the terms of the agreement reached by the first commission.

Lord Curzon, British Foreign Minister, presented figures to show that between 300,000 and 400,000 Greeks must be transported from Asia Minor to Greece and 300,000 Turks removed from Greece into Turkey.

Carrying out of the agreement will mark the end of the Greek colonies in Asia Minor which revived eyes after the return of the Turks to Europe. Similarly, Moslem colonies which have endured in the Balkans will be thrust back into the confines of Turkey. It is hoped to induce the population to leave their homes voluntarily, but if they refuse to do so the migration will be made compulsory.

KELLER FILES BILL ASKING DAUGHERTY IMPEACHMENT

Washington.—Chief Justice Taft was named in a statement to the House Judiciary Committee by Representative Keller (Rep.) of Minnesota as a witness to be called in support of his demand for the impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty.

The Chief Justice was desired to testify, Mr. Keller wrote, in connection with his charge, formally filed that Attorney General Daugherty had appointed "untrustworthy, corrupt and dangerous men" to high office "knowing at the time that they were men of such character."

George W. Wickersham, former Attorney General; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Guy Oyster, Mr. Gompers' secretary, also were mentioned by Mr. Keller as other witnesses he would ask the committee to summon as to this particular allegation.

Regarding the committee request that he give the names of all persons who could testify as to any of the charges on which he based a demand for impeachment, Mr. Keller wrote that he would not comply except in such certain particulars as he and his advisers regard as safe.

Setting forth fourteen specific grounds for impeachment, Mr. Keller alleged that Mr. Daugherty had practiced "fraud and deceit" on Mr. Taft while President to obtain the release from prison of Charles W. Morse and that on Morse's failure to pay Daugherty's associates in the pardon proceedings an agreed fee he "prostituted" the office of Attorney General for "personal revenge" by securing an indictment of Morse.

Labor Scarce in Cane Fields.

Marshall, Texas.—The cane crop in Louisiana is being handled very slowly this season, on account of the scarcity of labor. So far only about 50 per cent of the crop has been hauled to the mills and the Texas & Pacific alone is about 1,000 loads behind the hauling up to the same date last year.

Pierce Oil Directors Enjoined.

Richmond, Va.—An order restraining the board of directors of the Pierce Oil Corporation from other than routine acts was issued by Judge Moncure in Chancery Court at the request of the preferred stock holders.

I Know He Would Come

The First Christmas Tree

I WAS the sure every year was time to orphans' home back two or children to spend days with them.

This year their had been two girls boy, Jean and Robert, brother, sister, and Souzette, a little-eyed, winsome girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin (Daddy and Mother, they had asked the children to call them) and the three kiddies were busy trimming the tree.

"My, what beautiful ornaments," exclaimed Souzette.

"What bully lights, you mean," corrected Robert, who was all eyes for electrical things.

"Well, I like the tree best," put in Jean. "It's wonderful. Did you have a tree when you were little, mother?" queried the child rather shyly.

"Yes, I had one every year, and I still have my tree, you see."

"Pears like they've always had them doesn't it?" said Robert.

"They have had them for long, long years. Haven't you ever heard of the first Christmas tree?"

"No," burst forth Robert. "They don't have time to tell us anything at the home, but get up and go to bed."

"Well, a long time ago, there was a huge forest where the fairies and elves all lived. They had a fairy queen who was always planning surprises for them. One day she called a few of her favorites around her and gave them some orders. 'Now be sure and don't tell anyone,' she said, and off they went laughing and whispering to each other.

"Days passed, weeks passed, and then months, but still these little fairies were busy as bees, working at some big secret, from morning till night."

"Finally the fairy queen sent out her heralds and called all her subjects about her. When they were assembled she said: 'Tomorrow, come to this place at the same time. Put on your finest clothes and come happy as a lark, for I have a great surprise for you.'

"Then the fairy queen sent out her heralds again, and this time had all the forest folk sent to her. When every bird and animal in the forest was assembled before her, she told them what she had told the fairies and elves. They fairly scampered away, they were so eager to get ready for the morrow."

"Do you suppose they were more excited than we were when we got ready to come here?" piped up little Souzette. "I don't think they could be."

"Well, a Long Time Ago—"

for the birds. Just everything that they had wanted. It was a great success.

"You know Santa grew up with these fairies, and—"

"No, I didn't know it," broke in Jean and her eyes grew the size of saucers.

"So," continued Mrs. Martin, "when Santa began making toys for children he thought of this idea of the pine trees, and he took a tree for each child and hung their presents on it."

"By and by, though, his load grew to such a size that he found it was impossible to carry so many trees."

"Yes," said practical Robert, "they took up too much room, and he wanted to make toys."

Mrs. Martin nodded.

"So the mothers and fathers agreed to get the trees and trim them for him, which helped him a great deal."

"That's how they thought of these ornaments, then," said Souzette. "This, the last one to put on, too."

"Come on; let's get to bed quick now, so Santa will come," suggested Robert.

SYNOPSIS.—The time is the late '90s or early '00s and the scene a steamboat on the Mississippi river. All the types of the period are present and the floating palace is distinguished by merriment, dancing and gallantry. There are the customary drinking and gambling, also. Virgil Drace, a young northern man, is on his way south on a mission of revenge. He meets an eccentric character in the person of one Liberty Shottle, who is constantly tempting the goddess of chance. They agree to a singular bet. Drace, seeing an opportunity, Shottle, confides to him that the mission is to find a certain ex-misericordiar... Stepho la Vitte, who had been a gambler's father. It is his mission to hang La Vitte as a murderer. Drace falls in love with a striking young beauty on the boat. The steamer reaches...

in the wall before the house. But now came a new cry and a scramble for safety. A troop of United States cavalry came sweeping the thoroughfare from curb to curb, their drawn sabers flashing, the aroused anger of Uncle Sam rebuking a riot. Not to run was to be trampled to death, but Drace stood an instant to look about him. Shottle. He could not find him, however, and he had to seek his own safety, for the cavalry were near, spreading out upon the sidewalk.

"Where he waited until he had a look at the other side of the street, he stood not of his going but ran to the street and then hurried out of the path of the cavalry. There he waited until he had a look at the other side of the street...

strangled victim of the mob. There opposite was the house and there was the window at which he had seen Nadine's face; but across the window, boards had been nailed! The other windows, too, and the doors, were nailed up; the place was deserted. Could that face at the window have been only a creature of his imagination?

An old negro in nondescript livery came down the walk from a house a few doors away. He might have been a footman to a barlequin. But when Drace spoke to him, the dignified change in his countenance appeared to alter even the aspect of his attire; and now he might have been usher to a governor. This quick change had been brought about by his intuitive discovery that Drace was a man of consequence.

"Do you know anything about the people who lived across the street?" Drace asked.

"Wall, no sah; da wus po' folks, sah."

"Then you don't know where they went?"

"No sah. My 'ploverment is ter look after folks ob er higher 'dition, sah. An den ter preach on Sunday."

"Oh, you are a preacher."

"Called, sah, wid er blast from de trumpet."

"Does your church ever need money?" In a moment he lost his dignity.

"Look yeh, boss, whut's er nigger worth fur ef it ain't ter need money? C'ose it need money. But what you gwine do erbout it?"

"Yasuh," he said, when Drace had named him with a greenback, "I can dey done moved away. There er kind of rumpus last night. And when they-all thought it wasn't no foh dem no mo'; dey lef mighty much ubly dis mawnin'."

"I wish all Drace could learn; the vicinity would admit of them or their destination to call too much a day."

"I came to the market. He St. Louis cemetery. the novel sight of red in a wall with a cornice. These compartments, were rented by the poor; and a short tenant for many a son and daughter, answering Eternity's when the grim agent failed the pittance promised by the shrouded renter was evicted; and Spanish custom, Drace was led by these grim surroundings to the purpose that had brought him to the South. Drace now determined to give himself wholly to his quest for Stepho la Vitte. He returned to the hotel, and found Shottle nervous in a cloud of smoke. The floor was covered with burned matches and the stubs of cigars.

"Lib, I'm crushed," announced Drace. "So am I. But how does it happen that the dust-cart drove over you too?"

"Nadine is gone. The place is nailed up."

"That's tough, all right. But what are you going to do about it? Are you going to come to your puritanic senses and give the whole thing up, or do you expect—"

"I expect to fulfill my sacred mission. I must find Stepho la Vitte."

Shottle got up and shook hands with his friend. He swore that he would make the search the aim of his life. "Suppose you hire me by the day," he suggested. "A man does better work by the day. He always has fresh stimulus every time the sun rises."

"Very well—ten dollars a day."

"That's liberal, Virgil, and I'll take it. And let's get Old Josh to help us. He is more or less acquainted with Stepho's habits."

"That case of wine was addressed to Stepho la Vitte at Farnum's Landing, Miss."

Chicago, Illinois.—"You surely gave women one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. After I had my baby I was all run down and so nervous it kept me from gaining. My doctor did everything he could to build me up, then he ordered me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with his medicine and I am now a new woman. I have had three children and they are all Lydia E. Pinkham babies. I have recommended your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world."—Mrs. ADRITH TOMSHECK, 10557 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

There is nothing very strange about the doctor directing Mrs. Tomsheck to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There are many physicians who do recommend it and highly appreciate its value.

Women who are nervous, run down, and suffering from women's ailments should give this well-known root and herb medicine a trial. Mrs. Tomsheck's experience should guide you towards health.

"Virgil, I fought as long as I thought it was of advantage. The old carbine I had wouldn't shoot, and I want to tell you that mauling darky heads with a piece of iron is hard work. I looked about for you but couldn't find you, and knowing that you knew how to take care of yourself, I began to sniff for a way to get out, found a hole in a wall, ducked through and scooted. That was all natural enough. Anybody could have done that. But now comes the inspirational part. I got around into Royal street and met a steamboat captain who asked me to have a drink, and I needed it, for I had been hard at work.

"So I went in with him. And then up I hops to a gambling house with the money you'd paid me for introducing you to Nadine la Vitte. The poker tables were full, so I slipped in modestly at the faro-bank. That's not a very swift game, but sometimes it is as sure as buying houses and lots, if you've got the patience. I fastened cautiously till about daylight, cashed in exactly two hundred, and here I am as refreshed as a horse grazing on clover."

"Colonel, I congratulate you!" said Drace.

The two breakfasted together, and then Drace set out to find again the house at the scene of the riot—the house at the window of which he had seen the face of Nadine la Vitte. At length he found himself in the sidewalk street where he had taken refuge the night before, and turning out of this he came to the tree from the limb of which he had cut down the hair-

PIRGLAR'S WORK MADE HARD

Latest Device Is the "Telealarm," Which Notifies Police of the Presence of Intruder.

The "telealarm," the invention of a young London engineer, which is to be placed on the market immediately, is guaranteed to trap the wild-burglar or to give an instantaneous alarm of a fire, according to the London Daily Express.

A burglar may enter a house where the "telealarm" is installed and burgle to his heart's content; but while he is busy the "telealarm" will automatically ring up the telephone exchange operator, tell her there is a burglar in the house and give the address.

The alarm machine consists of a small wooden box which contains a telephone, and a gramophone. The gramophone is connected with electric wires that are placed across every door and window and every point where a burglar might enter.

When one of the wires is touched the gramophone is set in operation and the record, like a human voice, raises the alarm through the telephone, which is immediately connected with the telephone exchange. Help for help continues for twenty minutes.

The closed circuit on the record utilized for the burglar alarm; the open circuit on the same record calls for the fire brigade when a fire has broken out. The fire alarm is controlled by an improved electric thermostat.

EVENING SCHOOLS IN POLAND

Poland is waging a campaign to combat illiteracy, and elementary schools for adults have recently been opened in Warsaw. Three-year courses will be given. The classes are conducted in the evening from 7 to 9:30, five days a week.

At the end of the course students will receive state certificates of equal value to certificates given students who have completed the seventh grade of the regular state elementary schools. Classes are for adults of eighteen years and over and for youths from fifteen to eighteen years of age.

HIGHWAY ETIQUETTE

In England there has been recently passed two new "charabanc" laws aimed at disorderly automobile parties. One prevents stinging and music by parties traveling along the highways and the other prohibits the throwing out of coins or other articles to be scrambled for by children. These customs have recently been the cause of serious accidents.

RUSKIN'S BEAUTY OF THOUGHT

Few Writers Have Excelled Him in His Exquisite Employment of Word-Painting.

Ruskin as a writer excels in beauty of language and delicacy of thought. In one of his letters there is the following beautiful passage about a flower: "You will find," he says, "that in fact, all plants are composed of essentially two parts—the leaf and the root—one loving the light, the other darkness; one liking to be clean, the other to be dirty; one liking to grow for the most part up, the other for the most part down, and each having faculties and purposes of its own. But the pure one which loves the light has, above all things, the purpose of being married to another leaf, and having child leaves, and children's children of leaves, to make the earth fair forever. And when the leaves marry they put on wedding robes and are more glorious than Solomon in all his glory, and they have feasts of honey, and we call them flowers."

SPANISH OLIVE OIL OUTPUT

Spain is the largest olive-oil producing country in the world. Its normal output is about 37 per cent of that of the whole world, the world's normal olive oil production as estimated by the Spanish oil merchants being $35,000,000 metric tons (metric tons, equaling 2,204 pounds), while in 1924, when the world's olive oil output amounted to 907,000 metric tons (and estimated at 1,100,000 metric tons), Spain's output was 417,000 metric tons, or more than that of Italy and double that of Greece.

The Old Home

It was just a humble dwelling
In a little one horse town,
Weather beaten, small and old,
You would say:
With its front door looking old,
Upon an old road worn
brown,
Where the hens stroll unmolested
then the day.

Now the automobile, coupe-roadster
And the motor gavan,
With their scarred tops and cushions,
Springs and fenders—"I'll be d—!"

Have been new and and dressed-up looking, for you owe yourself a head.

TO USE CORN AS FUEL

Using corn as fuel had a temporary vogue some years ago as a scheme to tide the farmer over a dull market. It is now being taken more seriously in the Middle West in view of the high cost of coal. A clay products company in Iowa is using it to fire brick kilns and will continue to do so as long as it pays. Two tons of corn equal a ton of coal for heating.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

RIDE SERVED FLY PURPOSE

Airplane Trip Gave Pleasure to Aged Man and Brought Gister to His Knowledge.

William Dick went out from Scotland, Australia 70 years ago, and lived in the commonwealth ever since. The great age has made him an invalid, and when, one day last week, he expressed a wish to see his old home, it was felt that he ought to be given that pleasure.

Not only more; when some public-spirited airmen flew their machines over the town he lived, they took the old man up for a ride, to his great delight, and showed him his home from a height of 3,000 feet.

The newspapers of course told the story, and proud fellow Scots saw that it was sent home, as well they might, for even Scotland has not many sons using airplanes at the age of one hundred and three.

And so the news of William Dick's existence and whereabouts reached a house in Dundee where lived a lady who thought he might be her long-lost brother, who had left Scotland before she was born.

Letters followed, and the two proved to be in truth brother and sister. Thus the brave old man's ride in the clouds found him a sister across the earth.

AN ENGLISH SCHOOLGIRL

A Jeffersonville young woman has among her correspondents an English "schoolmarm," a teacher in a girls' private school. She sent this gem in a recent letter:

"Some weeks ago I told one of my classes the story of Cincinnatus, and mentioned how each soldier was ordered to carry five 'stakes' with him as well as provisions. One child, slightly mixed, reproduced my simple words as 'sandwiches' and 'staves' and proceeded to tell, in a very lively style, how the Romans 'staked' around the camp, and 'staked' my narrative as 'stakes.'"
