FOARD WHEAT ALLOTMENT ANNOUNCED

HAYS BURKS IS KILLED SAT. IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Hays Burks, 23, of Covina, Cal., formerly of Crowell, was instantly killed at about 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Aug. 5, when the light coupe he was driving crashed into a concrete bridge railing on U. S. Highway No. 63, eight miles east of Altus, Okla.

Mrs. Mary Louise Russell of Margaret suffered three fractured ribs and other injuries in the accident and was confined to an Altus hospital several days. The other two occupants of the car, Miss Juanita Hunter of Margaret, and Robert Long of Crowell, cousin of the deceased, escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

They were en route to Oklahoma City to visit Miss Hunter's brother, T. P. Hunter Jr., and family. The coupe, which belongs to Long, was travelling at a high rate of speed when the crash occurred and was practically demolished.

Funeral services for Mr. Burks were held in the Crowell Presbyterian Church at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. It was in this church that Hays attended Sunday school as a child. Rev. R. R. Rives, pastor, officiated at the services. Interment was in the Crowell Cemetery, where the body was laid to rest by the side of a sister, Sula Elizabeth, who was buried there in 1907.

The body was taken in charge by Womack Bros. of Crowell Saturday afternoon and was returned to this city Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. On July 5 of this year he arrived in Crowell in company of Jimmy Oats of Pomona, Cal., for a visit with relatives here. Mr. Oats is a former resident. This was the first time that Mr. Burks had returned to Crowell since leaving here.

Before finishing high school at Covina, Hays enlisted in the U. S. Navy in June, 1926. His first service in the Pacific Coast fleet on the battleship, Arizona. Later he was transferred to the Nevada. After serving in the ground outfit of the dirigible, Los Angeles, at Lakehurst, N. J., Burks was transferred to the airplane carrier, Saratoga, when this ship was first commissioned. After serving on this ship, he was transferred to the submarine division and did shore duty for two years. He was on the cruiser, "Chester," when discharged in Dec., 1932.

Pall bearers at the funeral Tuesday were: Edwin and Irwin Greening, J. H. Lanier Jr., Vance Swaim, Granville Lanier and Raymond Bell. Flower girls were: Misses Leila and Frances Patton, Harriet Evelyn Swaim, Vera Patton, Frances Schlager and Mrs. William Ricks.

LOCAL SCHOOLS WILL OPEN ON MON., SEPT. 11

Monday, Sept. 11, was set as the opening date for the 1933-34 term of the Crowell schools at a meeting of the local school board last Friday evening.

Members of the faculty for both the grade school and high school will be the same as for the 1932-33 term.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

In the future The Foard County News will attempt to have a sufficient number of papers off of the press Thursday morning in order that they may go out on all rural routes Thursday afternoon, instead of Friday as has been the case in the past.

To do this it will be necessary for us to move publication time up about one-half day, therefore we request the co-operation of correspondents, reporters and advertisers in making this possible.

We feel that this arrangement will prove more satisfactory to our readers and advertisers, in fact many of them have informed us that it would. By this plan papers will be in the Crowell postoffice early Thursday afternoon.

Rural correspondence must be in this office not later than Tuesday. We request that all church notices and programs reach this office not later than noon Tuesday. Early preparation of ads and the co-operation of the public in general will be greatly appreciated in this matter.

Lucille Spears and Murrell Gray Marry

Miss Lucille Spears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Spears, became the wife of Murrell (Doc) Gray in a wedding performed at the court house Tuesday afternoon by Rev. C. V. Allen.

BEER ELECTION IS ORDERED IN FOARD COUNTY

The official order for an election Aug. 26 was voted by the Foard County commissioners' court at its session Monday to determine whether or not the sale of 3.2 per cent beer will be permitted in this county in case Texas legalizes 3.2 beer when voters of Texas vote upon an amendment to this effect at the same time.

Complying with the law passed last spring by the legislature, the commissioners' court called the election when a petition asking such action was presented over the signatures of more than 10 per cent of the vote cast for governor in the last election.

Foard County has been dry by local option since this county was organized in 1891. Even though 3.2 beer should be legalized by Texas, its sale will not be permitted under the existing dry law of this county. The local option election on Aug. 26 calls for permission to sell 3.2 beer in this county and does not apply to any other alcoholic drinks.

CERTIFICATION BLANKS MAILED TO WASHINGTON

Eighty certification of performance blanks were mailed to Cotton Adjustment Administration officials at Washington, D. C., on Wednesday of this week by Fred Rennels, county agent.

This was the first shipment of blanks of this nature from Foard County. These blanks certified that eighty cotton growers of this county had completely destroyed the amount of cotton agreed to in the cotton reduction contracts.

Before certification of performance blanks are issued, a member of the local committee must see the cotton grower's field to determine if the acreage has been properly measured and if the cotton is completely destroyed.

Mr. Rennels stated that cotton had not been completely destroyed in some fields where it had been plowed up and that it must be destroyed 100 per cent before certification blanks can be completed and sent to Washington.

All farmers are requested to complete destroying their cotton as quickly as possible.

CROP CONTROL PLANS STARTED BY U. S. GOV'T.

Foard County has been allotted 234,420 bushels of wheat to be raised in each of the years, 1934, 1935, for domestic consumption. This figure represents 54% of the county's 5-year average production, taking the 1928-1932 period as the basis for figuring, according to information received by O. B. Martin of College Station, director of the Extension service, from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in regard to launching the wheat acreage reduction program.

Texas has been allotted 20,384,322 bushels on the same basis. Confernces of district and county farm demonstration agents of the major wheat producing districts have been called to meet in Mineral Wells August 14, 15 and 16, and Plainview on Aug. 16, 17 and 18.

The extension service will be in the wheat campaign, as it was in the cotton, the agency charged by the Secretary of Agriculture with the responsibility of making clear the provisions of the contract to every grower and of organizing the county and local committees who will swing the job.

Each wheat producing county has a definite allotment and within the counties these allotments will be sub-divided to wheat growers by computing the individual grower's acreage production over a period of three years. The grower who joins up to reduce his acreage for 1934 and 1935 will agree to cut down not more than 20 per cent of his average acreage during the preceding three years, and to sow in wheat in a "workmanlike manner" the number of acres that should produce the number of bushels that are allotted to him. He also agrees not to use the released acres in any way except for soil building, erosion preventing, or for the production of food to be consumed at home or feed to produce livestock products to be consumed at home. And here, Mr. Martin asserted, is an opportunity every wheat grower should seize to develop on a definite live-at-home policy. The Extension bulletin "Filling the Farm Storehouse," will be found a good guide, he said.

In return he receives, on or after September 15th this year, 20 cents per bushel on his farm allotment; and not less than 8 nor more than 10 cents additional per bushel after proof of compliance. This last payment will not be made before June 1, 1934. These payments he will receive regardless of the price for which he sells his wheat. The 1934 and 1935 payments by the Secretary of Agriculture will be based on the amount necessary to bring the price up to parity.

The growers who enter into this contract with the Secretary of Agriculture will be expected to organize county wheat control committees, selecting a paid director to devote his time to the business of the organization. The salary and expenses of this executive will be deducted from the money to be sent into each county by the Administration. In counties lacking sufficient production to justify setting up County Wheat Production Control Association but whose growers wish to participate in the plan, special arrangements will be made whereby counties may combine to carry out the organization steps herein enumerated. Such combinations of counties will be assisted by the Extension Services and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Counties entering into combinations will be known as District Associations, and their allotments and payments, both for the combination of counties and for the individual growers in such counties, will be handled in approximately the same manner as in the case of counties in which County Wheat Production Control Associations are organized.

Thad Knox of Coleman purchased the half interest of J. C. Dunn in the tailor shop the first of the week and a few days later became dissatisfied and sold his interest to Ross Edwards. Mr. Edwards is an enthusiastic young man and with the efficient workmanship of Mr. Parker, we feel sure that this business will be a grand success.

R. B. Edwards is moving into the house recently bought by Joe W. Beverly from W. A. Cogdell and will occupy the same until his new residence is completed.

J. V. Fleming, townsite man for the Orient Ry. Co., was in Crowell this week. Mr. Fleming is of the opinion that Crowell should purchase about $10,000 worth of bonds in order to show the proper spirit towards the road.

It seems that Quanah is behind the movement to build a railroad from that town to Paducah. If Quanah has always wanted to be a railroad center, and it appears that she has, she lost the opportunity of securing the best road in the United States when she ignored the proposition made by the Orient years ago.

With all the railroad building that town might do until the steam engine becomes a relic of antiquity, Quanah can never purchase what she let go when the Orient's proposition was refused.

Fiddlers' Contest
An old fiddlers' contest was held at the Opera House Monday evening. R. M. Magee officiated as master of ceremonies and Sheriff John Ray and Dr. R. L. Kincaid served as judges. Mr. Ray is an authority on anything musically produced by Edison and Dr. Kincaid is a premier virtuoso and manipulator of the appendix.

The usual foot power accompaniment was fully up to the recognized standard of excellence. The entertainment was assisted by the Crowell orchestra, which rendered some fine selections. It now has nine members with the best amateur talent between Ft. Worth and Denver.

Winners were Mr. Ewing, first; Mr. Prewitt, second, and Mrs. Hastings, third. Other contestants were: Ross Edwards, Charlie Battle, W. H. A. Whitley, J. R. McGuire, J. H. Gollaher and Mr. Hanks.

J. R. Edgin, while eating oysters last week, found something about the size of an ordinary shot, but much harder. Being examined and polished by Mr. Williams, the jeweler, it was found to be a valuable pearl.

Relief Bond Issue Interest Increases In All Parts of Tex.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 8—From the Panhandle to the Gulf, from east to west, Texas is organized to push the campaign for the proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to issue relief bonds to feed the destitute of the State. Nearly 200 counties have been organized into complete campaign units under the direction of the campaign steering committee headed by William Strauss of Houston. A campaign manager, publicity chairman and speakers' bureau chairman for each county has been designated. Each county organization will direct and conduct its own campaign, assisted by literature and material from the State headquarters in Austin.

In the ten days since the State campaign headquarters were opened there has been a tremendous swing favorable to the proposal, according to Mr. Strauss, who now believes the amendment will be overwhelmingly adopted.

"Two weeks ago the outlook was dark," said Mr. Strauss, "because the voters of Texas knew almost nothing about the proposal except it involved more bonds, and the people generally do not feel kindly toward bonds. They didn't know then that it was a question of voting these bonds or letting a lot of their neighbors and friends go hungry. They didn't know that if the bonds are issued it will not increase the taxes on their homes and farms one penny, because the bonds are not to be funded with property tax. They did not know that 1,270,000 Texans are being fed entirely with Federal funds, which funds stop the minute this proposal is defeated. They did not know that with the NRA program working perfectly, as I believe it will, not more than half those now on the relief rolls can be absorbed into industrial work. Because of age disability the others will remain public charges. They didn't realize that more than half of the population must be publicly subsidized. When in certain drought-stricken counties the people realize these facts they will give the legislature power to issue as many bonds up to $20,000,000 as that body finds needed."

FOLLOW THE LEADER

As we begin to see the whole recovery program taking shape, several things about it become more clear.

The most important phase of it is the cooperative feature. The success of the President's plan depends upon a degree of cooperation between individuals and business organizations such as we had never dreamed of in America a year ago.

Under the recovery program, cooperation is essential, among agricultural producers in their respective line, among business men and industrialists in theirs, among the people generally in supporting and encouraging this gigantic effort to bring a depressed nation back to prosperity.

We believe the effort can be successful, but only if everybody does actually cooperate. Those who hold back because they cannot clearly see the advantages to themselves will be hampering themselves as well as everybody else by their hesitation.

The strength of the situation lies in the provisions in the Farm Administration Act and the National Industrial Recovery Act whereby, once a majority in any line have adopted their code or agreed to cooperate, the others can be forced in.

It certainly is true that if all the people of the United States once start pulling together as a team, in one direction, we can pull ourselves out of any hole, however deep. The direction has been pointed out to us. The thing for all good Americans to do is to follow the leader.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE

No one has ever really circled the globe, because to literally do that would mean going around the world at its circumference, whether by following the equator or otherwise.

How the time required for this feat has been reduced is strikingly illustrated by the fact that Magellan's ship Victoria, the first to circumnavigate the globe in the accepted sense, took three years, lacking 12 days, for its voyage, 1519 to 1522.

Drake made it in 1,052 days, something over a half century later. Cavemish in 1856 sailed from Plymouth England, and returned in 781 days.

Then challenged by Jules Verne's book, "Around the World in 80 days," Nellie Bly, a newspaper woman, went around the world by boat and train in 72 days in 1889. The next year, George Francis Train did the stunt in 67 days. Other records ranging around 40 days were made in the succeeding years before the advent of the airplane.

In 1927 Linton and Wells, employing train, boat and airplane, completed the circuit in 28 days. In 1928 Mears and Collyer reduced the time to 24 days; the dirigible Graf Zeppelin in 1929 cut the record to 21 days.

Then came the real record-breakers. Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in 1931 made the trip by airplane in 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes. A few days ago the speediest world flight of all time was made by Wiley Post, one-eyed aviator, flying alone, in 7 days, 18 hours and 49 minutes. And that's something for other globe trotters to shoot at.

WHAT OF HEALTH FADS

The subject of how to live long is always of interest, which perhaps accounts for the eagerness of the average mortal to seize upon various methods which are recommended for promoting health and longevity, such as doing daily exercise to radio music and the like.

However, there are many who are skeptical regarding the real benefits of strenuous physical activity. One of these wrote a letter to the Cleveland Press, pointing out that Walter Camp, famed athlete and originator of the "daily dozen," died at 65, while he, the writer, had never taken any kind of exercise to speak of and was still in excellent health, although a great-grandfather. He added that "the longest-lived people are the physically lazy and mentally alert."

Commenting on the letter, William Feather, a well-known editor, declares that several years ago he adopted a vigorous health program, including vegetarianism, cold baths and the daily dozen, with this result:

"Acute indigestion led to the abandonment of vegetarianism on doctor's orders. Another doctor recommended discontinuance of cold baths. The daily dozen are still pursued, but faith in them has been shaken by the untimely death of

N-I-R-A Brings Luck

Here is Nira, her full name being Nira Collins of Upper Darby, Pa. Little Nira, shown in the arms of her nurse, was born as President Roosevelt launched his "NRA" plan. Nira's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Collins, decided upon the name when the father obtained work after being idle a year.

Still, we may find many who swear by the health fads and feel that their lives have been saved thereby. As the proverb has it, "What is food for some is black poison for others."

WHAT'S NEW?

After years of experimenting, the Sangerhausen Rosarium in Germany now claims to have developed a perfect black rose.

E. Hubold of Germany has invented a small paddle boat which fits over the shoulders of a bather, holds her head above water, and enables her to paddle in any direction.

A new device was recently demonstrated by which the sound of the propeller is transmitted through microphones to the airport, where it causes a light to flash on a ground map, showing the location of the plane at all times.

A new type of false teeth, showing a larger part of the natural gums and held together by less bridgework, was shown at the annual convention of the Northeastern Dental Society.

An electric fly catcher was shown recently at the Leipzig, Germany, fair.

Photographic prints now can be made directly on cloth from any negative by using a solution which sensitizes the material.

Germany is exhibiting a windmill plane which can be used on the ground as a three-wheeled automobile.

Tells How She Took 4 ins. Off Hips 7 ins. Off Waist

In 40 days by taking Kruschen Salts, Mrs. Helga Blaugh of New York City reduced 26 1/2 lbs.—took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7 1/2 inches off waist. She writes: "I haven't gone hungry a moment—I feel fine and look 10 yrs. younger."

To get rid of double chins, bulging hips, ugly rolls of fat on waist and upper arms SAFELY and without discomfort—at the same time build up glorious health and acquire a clear skin, bright eyes, energy and vivaciousness—to look younger and feel it—take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

One jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle at any drugstore the world over. Make sure you get Kruschen because it's SAFE. Money back if not joyfully satisfied.

Down From His High Horse

By Albert T. Reid

BRUCE BARTON

Writes of "THE MASTER EXECUTIVE"

Supplying a week-to-week inspiration for the heavy burdened who will find every human trial paralleled in the experiences of "The Man Nobody Knows."

THAT SECOND MILE

What did Henry Ford mean, one spring morning, when he tipped a kitchen chair back against the whitewashed wall of his tractor plant and talked about his career?

"Have you ever noticed that the man who starts out in life with a determination to make money, never makes very much?" he asked. It was rather a startling question; and without waiting for my comment he went on to answer it: "He may gather together a competence, of course, a few tens of thousands or even hundreds of thousands, but he'll never amass a really great fortune. But let a man start out in life to build something better than it has ever been built before—let him have that determination and give his whole self to it—and the money will roll in so fast that it will bury him if he doesn't look out."

"When we were building our original model do you suppose that it was money we were thinking about? Of course, we expected that it would be profitable, if it succeeded, but that wasn't in the front of our minds. We wanted to make a car so cheap that every family in the United States could afford to have one. So we worked morning, noon and night, until our muscles ached and our nerves were so ragged that it seemed as if we couldn't stand it to hear any one mention the word automobile again. One night, when we were almost at the breaking point I said to the boys, 'Well, there's one consolation,' I said, 'Nobody can take this business away from us unless he's willing to work harder than we've worked.' And so far," he concluded with a whimsical smile, "nobody has been willing to do that."

What did Theodore N. Vail mean when he said that only once in his life did he set out with the deliberate intention of making money—that all the rest of his fortune had come from work which so gripped him that he forgot about the money? The one occasion to which he referred was his trip to South America where he found a mine that did prove profitable, and doubtless still is. He made that trip because he had lost all his money in an effort to establish a big central heating plant in Boston—to give people better warmth, as he had already helped to give them better communication. The heating plant failed, and he paid its debts with the South American mine. But the bulk of his fortune came from the achievement for which he will always be remembered—the establishment of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. To that great enterprise he gave everything he had—"threw his life into it," as we say—"lost his life in it," as Jesus said. And it gave him back larger and richer life, and a fortune and immortality.

"Whoever shall compel thee to go a mile," said Jesus, "go with him twain."

A WONDERFUL VIEW AHEAD

One of the big business men made this remark a few days ago. "I wish my eighteen year old boy had the vision that I have of the wonderful era of business into which we are moving."

Of course, an eighteen-year-old boy cannot be expected to have the judgment of a fifty-year-old man; but here are some facts so fundamental in the present situation that one does not need to be fifty years old to understand them.

For three years, business has been stagnant—the flow of trade through the usual channels of exchange and interchange has been sluggish and as a result, we have come to a place at which not only the nation, but the world, is making a united effort to swing back to normalcy.

Customers have deprived themselves of many things that they wanted and needed because they have been afraid to buy. Today there is confidence in the future. Money is beginning, once more to flow more freely and will continue until it gets back to normal rates.

When business moves at high speed, it moves effectively and it demands efficiency in all its departments. Efficiency is always the result of trained ability. If efficient service is the result of technical education—and it is—how easy it should be for any eighteen year old boy to select the type of education

A few days ago a Wisconsin woman lost her false teeth while swimming in Lake Waukesha, she found them in the stomach of a large bullhead fish caught by her husband.

ANIMALS KEEP SUNDAY

An interesting fact concerning the lions, tigers and leopards in the New York Zoo is related by the director of the park.

Describing the feeding of the various animals, he states that these big representatives of the cat family are fed only red, raw meat, with an occasional dash of cod-liver oil. Beef is generally used, but horse meat is also given them at intervals. But the interesting thing concerns the day of fasting these animals must undergo once a week.

The director says: "Sunday is their fast day, and they know it. On week days just before 2 o'clock the whole cat house livens up. The tigers pace about, the lions stretch and watch the front of their cages, the leopards lean over each other and like as not the pumas start an argument that may get serious before their keeper reaches their cage. But 2 o'clock on Sunday is just 2 p. m., and passes with no more attention than any other hour."

Now the question is, how do these animals know when Sunday comes? Can they count the days? There seems to be no other explanation; or if there is, the director doesn't give it.

Infantile Paralysis Increases in August

Austin, Texas, August 10—The month of August usually shows an increase in the number of cases of infantile paralysis in Texas, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. It is not only a serious disease but also one of the most treacherous with which the medical profession has to deal. The death rate is very high and also the number of cripples. It is estimated that one third to one half of all the cripples in the United States can trace their handicap to infantile paralysis.

Suspicion should be aroused when an illness begins with headache, drowsiness, fever, irritability, vomiting, diarrhea or constipation and with stiffness in the back of the neck and spine. When such early symptoms appear, parents are urged to obtain medical advice without delay, and not assume the condition to be of temporary or trivial importance. Treatment at this stage of the disease is of the greatest importance and more effective than when delayed until after the appearance of paralysis. These acute symptoms rarely last more than a few days, 75 per cent of the cases developing paralysis on or before the fourth day.

The disease may be divided into two main groups, the paralyzed and the non-paralyzed. The latter, regardless as to how mild, is the greater danger in spreading the disease. No one would deliberately expose a susceptible person to a definite paralyzed case, so it is the exposure to unknown cases or carriers which cause the greatest spreading of this disease.

Dodging infantile paralysis infection is a blind game for no one knows where the infection exists. Sometimes it appears as if the infection spreads as readily as that of influenza, but owing to the longer period between exposure and illness, cases, do not appear in such rapid succession and because of extensive natural immunity, at least to its paralytic effects, the recognized cases are many times fewer. The best plan to follow to avoid this disease as well as many others is for the individual to follow the rules of personal hygiene.

Window-smashing bandits in England are treated to a dose of acid smoke, a flash of red light and a police siren alarm through the use of a new safety device which will fit any type window.

Christian Science Churches

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ Scientist, Sunday, August 13.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 42: "My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God."

Among the citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord redeemeth the soul of his servants; and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate" (Psalms 34).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes citations from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," one of which is as follows (p. 390): "We cannot deny that Life is self-sustained, and we should never deny the everlasting harmony of Soul, simply because, to the mortal senses, there is seeming discord. It is our ignorance of God, the divine Principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony. Truth will at length compel us all to exchange the pleasures and pains of sense for the joys of Soul."

SERMONETTE

SMOKY JOHN

By Arthur B. Rhinow

"I'm sorry for you fellows," the derelict said to a business man for whom he worked occasionally. "You are so afraid of losing your money these days, I don't have to worry. I have no money to lose. A few odd jobs give me all I need. When I am tired and hungry I go to Smoky John's for a bite and a bunk, and I am satisfied."

"Take me over to Smoky John's sometime," the business man suggested. "I'd like to see the place. Must be interesting."

"No, no," the derelict replied with a smile that was wistful as well as whimsical. "That's not for you, boss. That'll do for me, but you'd be out of place."

And thereby he admitted that with all his boasting of being carefree, he still appreciated something better. Something in him still cared.

That something said to him, here and there, perhaps at long intervals: "You buried your talent in the ground. You should have used your gifts to and others, not in the sordid way of just making and hoarding money, but in the nobler way of becoming a blessing to yourself and your fellowmen. Your shiftlessness has left you poor, not only in purse but also in spirit."

We know that we may become rich and lose our souls, but let not the man who simply drifts along boast of being superior because he has nothing. He, too, is losing his soul. He is not giving his best self a chance.

Not riches or poverty lead to the blessed life, but, using all our powers to contribute our full share to ennobling of the race. Smoky John's may be a comfortable place, but they that frequent it do not live in Paradise.

The British railway industry is claimed to be the largest private undertaking in the country, with the equivalent at par of $5,500,000,000 invested.

MISTAKES

It is a mistake to consider germs the cause of all diseases. Neuritis is seldom caused by germs.

It is a serious mistake—repented of when it is too late to repair the damage done—to extract all the teeth, or any considerable number of them—for sciatic neuritis. I have seen women have all their teeth extracted for "sciatica," and un-relieved, without even having had a pelvic or rectal examination!

And what a raw deal the patient gets—to have the tonsils removed for sciatic neuritis, regardless of the condition of the tonsils! A tonsil, of course, needs extirpation—but not because of sciatic neuritis.

I have seen hundreds of foci removed from people, in effort to get rid of infecting micro-organisms—all in the fight against joint troubles, and, wholly without relief. I've seen many relieved by happy removals of infected glands—but fully as many have not been benefitted. We should diagnose carefully. Fully half are NOT helped.

Especially do I hate to find people deprived of their teeth unnecessarily or ill-advised, or hastily. I myself am a victim, and I believe few misfortunes are greater than the loss of our natural teeth.

If we just knew as much as we DON'T KNOW! Let us remember that it is our patient that does most of the regretting, to say nothing of the "cussing" bestowed on the hard-beset doctor who does the very best he can.

I have had a pair of diseased tonsils 71 years. "The massacre of the teeth" got me, but tonsils, not yet.

Second Installment

... Ruth Warren, living in the East, comes into possession of a three-quarter interest in an old ranch, left to her in the will of her only brother, reported to have died on business in Mexico. Her ailing husband and small son go to Arizona to take possession, thinking the climate would prove beneficial to her husband's weakened lungs. Arriving at the nearest town, she learns that the "Dead Lantern" is 85 miles from the desert. Charley Thane, rancher and rural mail carrier, offers to take them to "Dead Lantern" gate.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Listen!" commanded the girl suddenly. Her face was white, tense with dread, and her lip quivered. "Kenneth!" she cried hysterically. "There's not a sound—not a sound—it's too much. I tell you! Kenneth—nothing moves, not a thing! It's too big!"

Charles put down his sandal and stepping on the starter, he broke into an unsteady roar. He gave color to his action the old man got out of the car, threw back his head, and stood staring skeptically within.

The back seat the husband and wife were locked in each other's arms. Little David watched them with solemn eyes, not quite sure of proper course. "It'll be all right," then man's voice came to her in a strained whisper above the rattle noise of the car. "We'll just stick it out—you'll get used to it—all—Again the thing in his head began to flutter madly.

knew about it, which is about what I told you.

"Was there anything to show what caused Harry's death?"

"Nothin' exact. The Mexican said it looked like he'd been thrown from his horse and dragged—but it's hard to tell."

"Was Harry buried?"

"Yes, the Mexican did that and he marked the grave. He told them at the next rancho he come to about where to find the grave and all."

The girl's eyes filled. "That was kind," she murmured.

"I expect Will told it wouldn't hardly be possible to have the body

"Why in the world is the ranch called the Dead Lantern?"

Old Charley's mild surprise young woman sat beside him for the rest of the afternoon. Her man had changed. Silently, she looked at her. There was no pleasure in her face as her eye and each detail of her surroundings—it was as though she felt it incumbent upon her to understand this strange country. After half an hour she began to ask questions:

"Will we see any cowboys to-day?"

"We passed one an hour back."

"That man on the horse? He didn't look like a cowboy. Oh, but they wear those—those fur things on their legs and high-top boots and big hats and revolvers—forty-fives?"

"Hair chaps are all right on a plain cowboy, or in a cold country. That man was wearin' the kind—plain cowhide. He was probably wearin' ridin' boots—high tops. But nobody packs a gun now—keeps hi-kickers and peace pipes. Oh, it's kinda usual to carry a gun in your car for coyotes such, but I ain't seen a cowboy with a holster on for fifty or twenty years."

"Why, according to you, this wild country must be as safe as a town with a good police force?"

"Lots safer. We got rattlesnakes and a few other things, but in town we've got high school kids scootin' around in stripped Fords."

"For the first time in many hours the girl laughed. She relaxed in the seat, and pulling her tight-fitting dress from her head, let the dry wind play on her hair. "We've been awfully tired," she smiled, "we should have introduced ourselves—my husband's name is Kenneth Warren; I'm Kenneth."

The old man nodded. "I figured you might be. I think my name's Will, wrote you about—Mr. Warren."

"Oh!" The girl's face went sober. "Of course, Mr. Will Thane's name came from Los Angeles and I didn't think of there being a connection when I learned your name this morning. Did—did you know my brother?"

"Yes, pretty well. He and Will used to ride the country together a bit whenever Will came out. Will was here when the news was brought about your brother Harry."

"Please tell me what you know about Harry's death," asked the girl anxiously.

Old Charley shook his head. "There ain't much I can tell you. I expect Will wrote about all anybody knows. Your brother went own into Mexico last fall. After the fall the sellin', it was. He and his partner, Jep Snavelly, had been lookin' over some stock when that way—so Harry went. I haven't heard from him a time or two and learned Harry was goin' back into the interior. After that Snavelly didn't hear from him. For a couple of months he didn't think nothin' about it because mail's mighty uncertain in some parts of Mexico. Then he commenced gettin' worried—he even come over to my place and asked me what should be done. Well, just about then a Mexican came into Palo Verde and told about finding Harry. Close to two hundred miles below the line, it was. The Mexican knew the body was American and he brought some letters—and one of them was from Harry. He described the clothes and so on from the story the Mexican brought back and the letters and other personal things, everybody knew it was Harry. Snavelly was notified and he told the Mexican and he told all he run two thousand head, the land's all fenced, and there's heaps of browse up in the hills."

"How big is twenty thousand acres?"

"Sizeable. The skyline of those mountains is the western boundary; to the south where that ridge runs out into the valley is the southern line. My place is 'round on the other side of that ridge 'bout twenty miles by road. But there's a trail over the ridge from the Dead Lantern home ranch to my place, that makes it about six miles.

"And all that land from here to the mountain tops belongs to the Dead Lantern?"

"Yes. And there's a heap more of it you can't see tucked away in them canyons. If you followed the line fence on horseback it would take you about four days to ride 'round the ranch."

"No wonder it can hold two thousand cows! What do cattle sell for apiece—I mean how much a head?"

"Forty to fifty dollars laterly."

She made a quick calculation. "My heavens! Could we get a hundred thousand dollars for the cattle?"

Old Charley smiled. "It's not quite as simple as all that." Old Charley remarked gravely as he turned from the road and stopped by the Dead Lantern mail box. Just beyond the mail box was the gate; a newish sign, crudely lettered in black paint, was nailed on the middle bar. "Anybody coming on this ranch is liable to get shot."

When the old man heard the girl gasp he knew that she had seen the sign, and with averted eyes he began to rummage in the government mail sack.

The girl watched her husband's face as he read; their eyes met blankly, then turned to the old man.

"What in the world does that mean?" asked Warren.

"Nobody thinks it means anything," answered Old Charley reassuringly. "Just Jep Snavelly's way—he's a little eccentric." He pointed to a faint cloud of dust far up the two wheel paths which led from beyond the gate toward the distant mountains. "I'll be going along now—I reckon it would be best for you folks to meet your new partner alone, anyways." He looked into Warren's eyes. "And if something should come up sudden-like that you'd want to get to town in a hurry just ride over the mountain to my place. This old car ain't much but she still rolls."

While they were piling the baggage by the mail box, both the girl and her husband glanced frequently at the sign.

They watched Old Charley until the car disappeared over a hill a few hundred yards south of the gate.

When the wagon stopped at gate, an Indian boy of ten slid cautiously to the ground and, with his wide eyes fixed on the three by the mail box, sidled to the gate and opened it. This done, he speedily rejoined the family in the wagon. Kenneth Warren went forward. "Can you tell me," he addressed the two-hundred-pound Indian on the wagon seat, "where Mr. Snavelly is? Are you his man?"

The Indian looked at his two-hundred-and-fifty pound square, glanced back among his numerous progeny, and then turned his black eyes on Warren. "No sabe." The horses started forward.

"Mama, letter for the man!" David, the letter from the box outstretched, started toward the retreating wagon.

"No, David, not to that man. Mama will tell you when the man comes to whom you are to give the letter." An instant later she whirled about to her husband, the letter in her hand. "Kenneth! This letter—it's the one I wrote over two weeks ago to Snavelly—he doesn't know we're coming!"

Both the girl and her husband glanced frequently at the sign.

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change.

We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable.

Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

This-That, Etc.

By Typo Wrighter

Last week in this column we mentioned the danger that some Crowell parents were subjecting their children to by permitting them to ride the fenders and running boards of their cars. Instances of serious and fatal accidents in Floydada, Lubbock and Paducah, caused by this practice, were mentioned.

Coming closer to home, a funeral was held at Vernon Monday of this week for a 16-year old Cherokee County, Okla., youth who died in a Vernon hospital Sunday from injuries sustained Saturday night near Vernon when he was riding on the running board of a car. The machine sideswiped a parked car and the youth was thrown into the side of it when the driver of the car upon which he was riding quickly swerved his auto to avoid hitting the parked car.

A serious collision was thus avoided and the other occupants of the car escaped without injury, however, the rider of the running board sustained a fractured skull, concussion of the brain and bruises about his body and later died from these injuries.

N. R. A. jokes may be expected in great numbers, as is the case with any big topic of the day, however, here is one that actually happened at a Crowell drug store, at least Tom Reeder, proprietor of the store, vouches for its truth:

Shortly after a N. R. A. placard had been placed in the store a customer saw it and exclaimed: "By golly, that's what my wife told me to get." It so happened that the customer wanted a box of N-R (Nature's Remedy) tablets.

No doubt, the customer must have figured that the "We Do Our Part" motto on the placard was nothing more than appropriate at that.

Some folks say you can't draw a picture on a Linotype, but we ask you, what Crowell () baseball player does this remind you of?

It is difficult to tell just what kind of a football team Crowell High will have this fall, but if spirit counts anything, the team should be a dandy, even though only 3 regulars will be back. It is our frank opinion that when Coach Graves opens practice on Sept. 4 he will face one of the finest and most enthusiastic group of youngsters that ever reported for practice.

Having seen a number of the prospects the past week, we will publish some of the remarks heard from them, although this is done without their knowledge. Here they are:

W. F. Brisco—"I've done my best to keep in shape all summer and am rarin' to go."

Sam Crews Jr.—"I can grow a lot before the season is over."

Jim Riley Gafford—"This will be my first year with the Wildcats, and boy! am I looking forward to it!"

Lester Patton—"Olney handled me pretty rough last year, but the chance for revenge is coming."

Millard Marr—"I don't know much about football, but expect to learn a lot."

Dick Todd—"Things are looking pretty good to me."

John Cogdell—"I may not make the team, but am going to make a

Aldon Horn—"I don't believe Olney will be any tougher than those Seniors were."

Guy Whitfield—"I'm sort of a newcomer, but I know these Wildcats sure have the spirit that wins."

Raymond Gibson—"My ambition is to earn four football letters."

Bill Dunagan—"It's going to be a job to keep up the good record, but I believe the Wildcats will do it again."

Paul McKown—"Olney Day, Nov. 3, is what I am looking forward to."

Berl Lovelady—"Too bad that Ramsey and Bull Graves won't be among our competitors."

Jiggs Barker—"I hope Foard City will be represented among the regulars this year."

Capt. Bill Dunn—"The boys sure have the spirit and I believe that they will make a fine record in both the class room and on the field this year."

By next week, we will possibly hear from some more of the prospects.

Mr. Tourist, We Apologize

"Crowell is the only town I've ever been through where cars are permitted to completely block a section of the highway passing through it," stated a tourist who also let forth some unprintable remarks when he arrived in Crowell Saturday afternoon at a time when it was impossible to drive down the west side of the square on account of the double, triple and quadruple parking of automobiles.

We suggest that some local patriotic organization furnish guides each Saturday and the late afternoon of week days to show tourists how to leave the highway here in town where it is blocked with cars and then how to get back on it.

And then it wouldn't be a bad idea to establish first aid stations and attendants at regular intervals along the west side of the square, and possibly the north side. Injuries and something worse than that may be expected if local traffic practices continue. If this can't be stopped, let's at least make plans to care for the casualties.

Dumb Dora wants to know if that wonderful Wildcat oil well west of Crowell was named that on account of the fame gained by the Crowell Wildcats.

It is estimated that 28,000 out-of-town automobiles visit the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago each day.

There were 158,947 prisoners confined in federal and state penal institutions in this country in 1932.

PLAIN TALK ABOUT FALL SUITS

It now appears to be a settled fact that the price of Fall suits will advance. One thing is certain—the prices will not be lowered.

WHY NOT SAVE

—by making a small deposit and let us take your measure for you FALL suit now, before it is TOO LATE? By doing this you will have the advantage of today's prices, regardless of a later rise in prices. You can also name the time that you want your suit shipped, whether it is now or three months from now.
