LOSES RECORD BOOK IN FIRE AT VIVIAN

A lost record book does not stop Opal Blair, garden demonstrator for the Vivian 4-H Club. Opal lost her record book in the school house fire but is busily engaged in collecting the data and preparing another.

She has planted so far carrots, beets, radishes, lettuce, cucumbers, and June Pink tomatoes. All of these are up and growing nicely in spite of the sand. Opal plans to plant okra and other vegetables a little later.

EXPERIMENTS WITH 4-H GARDEN PROJECT

"I did a little experimenting on my garden," said Annie Mae Hall, garden demonstrator for the Black 4-H Club. Annie Mae planted fifty feet of carrots, putting a little water in the drill where about half of these were planted and none in the other half.

Those that had been watered came up well, those without only in spots. Annie Mae also discovered that the clods of dirt hindered the carrots in coming up. She plans to replant the carrots in a few weeks, this time covering the seed with about one-half inch of well rotted manure rather than soil in order to prevent the packing of the soil around the seeds. The carrots are to be planted a few weeks apart so that fresh ones will be available all time.

The Dualens transmits all of the light, but none of the glare. Around the margin the finest absorptive glass blends delicately and gradually inward to a clear center. It is thru this clear center that the eye receives all of the light, while the tinted margin eliminates the glare. . . In addition, the Dualens is the most inconspicuous and becoming of all lenses. You can recognize the Dualens by its two tone appearance—pure white center—delicate tinted margin.

One of the most unusual and dramatic ways ever conceived to exploit the use of newspaper advertising has been adopted by the Continental Oil Company. Aside from these company-owned and operated vehicles, it is expected that a good percentage of the 22,000 Conoco dealers will likewise participate.

Warning Against Hitch-Hiking Germ of Typhoid Fever

Austin, Texas, April 4. — A warning against the hitch-hiking germ of typhoid fever has just been issued by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. They must catch a ride from an infected person to the well person; this is generally accomplished by water, milk, flies, fingers, or food. Every case is contracted by way of the mouth and digestive system.

A carrier is a person who has had typhoid fever at some time and who even after recovery carries the germs of the disease in the urine and discharge of the bowels. Carriers who are careless in their personal habits are likely to infect any food they handle with unwashed hands. Some of the most serious and far-reaching outbreaks of the disease have been caused by drinking milk or eating foods that have been handled by carriers. Persons may be carriers without knowing it.

Typhoid fever is unnecessary and preventable. Every case is due either to community negligence or to the ignorance or carelessness of some individual. Persons planning a vacation or trip where sanitation may not be rigidly enforced should protect themselves against this disease by being vaccinated. Three inoculations with typhoid vaccine, a week apart, are all that is necessary to secure protection against this disease for two years. The purity of water, milk, or food cannot be judged by looking at it so the best thing to do is to play safe and have your physician protect you.

Information Given on Emergency Seed Loans for Farmers

Field Supervisor Jas. I. Lane of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Dallas, states that applications for emergency crop loans and feed loans are now being received by the Foard County Loan Committee, with offices located on the third floor of the court house.

In accordance with the Act of Congress authorizing the loans, and regulations issued by Governor W. L. Myers of the Farm Credit Administration, loans will be made only to farmers who are unable to obtain elsewhere seed, fertilizers, supplies, feed or the necessary credit to purchase such items. Loans will not be made to applicants who can obtain credit in the amount needed from any other source, including the production credit association.

Any farmer who has the necessary security should apply to the production credit association first. If the association is unable to make him a loan in the amount needed the farmer will receive a statement to that effect and will be considered eligible to apply for a loan from the emergency fund.

The regulations provide that the largest loan to one farmer this year is $500 and the minimum $10, but no loan may be made in an amount greater than is actually needed to cover the cash cost of purchasing seed, fertilizers, supplies, feed, etc. Loans will be made for the purpose of growing and harvesting crops, for summer fallowing, for purchasing feed for livestock; but not for the purpose of purchasing livestock or machinery, or for the payment of debts or taxes.

Loans will be made only to applicants who are co-operating with the Production Control Program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

As in the past, the security for an emergency crop or feed loan will consist of a first lien on the crop financed or on the livestock to be fed. A tenant must also give a first lien by getting the landowner to waive his claim in favor of the crop lien; but the landowner is in no way obligated for repayment of his tenant's loan.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be issued by the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Dallas, Texas; and not by the field supervisor or the loan committee.

LETTER RECEIVED FROM E. W. BURROW

The News is in receipt of the following letter from E. W. Burrow, who moved from Crowell several weeks ago with his wife to a point near Park View, N. M.

Dear Friends—We arrived here over one month ago, reaching Park View at 3 p. m. Found a big snow on the ground and as it was ten miles up the mountain to our new home, we stayed all night and got an early start the next morning while the snow was frozen. We made it pretty good until about half way. We ran into a snow bank about four feet deep. I shoveled snow for an hour trying to get going. No use! I walked a mile to a ranch house. Got a man and sleigh and team. After a hard struggle, we landed in our mountain home, a beautiful place. A high mountain peak to our north and south, each a mile away.

The one to our north is 10,572 feet high and is inhabited by deer, turkey, mountain lion and whistling marmots. The mountain south has bear, porcupine, grouse. The woods are alive with squirrels—some of the strangest specimens I ever saw. Some have tassels on their ears. Now in regard to marmot hunting, it is on a par almost with big horn sheep hunting. You must hunt over very much the same kind of country and while you probably will not make such long tiring stalks, yet to all intents and purposes, marmots are just as hard to get at, as big horn sheep, and just another word—this high mountain game—don't go monkeying around in the realm of the white gods unless you are clothed for any kind of weather. It is no place for BVD's. It is a real he-man country.

The Brazos river is 100 yards south, a beautiful mountain stream with plenty of trout—3 kinds, rainbow, brook and cutthroats. Two miles east is the famous box where the river cuts through the snow capped mountain, that's where the largest fish stay. Eleven miles of pretty scenery, caves, etc.

We have had 15 days of snow since we came and it's snowing today. We have a Mexican boy that brings our mail every two weeks by horseback. To my friend, John Rasor, I will say that this is just the place he was wishing for to spend his summer vacation and to Pete Bell, I will say that the bear hunting is o. k., as the natives tell me there are lots of them.

The river has heavier in it. They cut down large trees. Foot through. There is a big saw mill one-half mile away but they can't operate with timber frozen.

I would be glad for any of my friends in Foard County to write and if you take a vacation this summer, would be glad for you to come up to Park View and I assure you that I will do my very best to make you happy if you enjoy hunting and fishing. We look forward to the Foard County News and enjoy every line.

Sincerely,
E. W. Burrow,

THE BOOK
... the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures ...
by BRUCE BARTON

It is a terrible handicap to the memory of a man when a descriptive phrase or adjective attaches to his name, for people feel that they are thereby relieved from learning anything more about him. Thus "the patience of Job" has effectually cloaked the real significance of that heroic figure; "as meek as Moses" has distorted the grandeur of one of the really great leaders of history, and the adjective "doubting Thomas" has labeled the brave soul who cried, "Let us also go up with Him that we may die with Him." Similarly, Jeremiah has been labeled the "weeping prophet" and, though there is hardly any Old Testament character about whom we have more biographical material, this totally unworthy phrase constitutes his entire biography for a majority of people.

Bruce Barton

He did weep, and good cause he had to do it. God laid on him a tremendous burden, and once when he cried out because he was carrying every bit that he possibly could God's answer to him was, "Cheer up, Jeremiah, the worst is yet to come," or, in the fine phraseology:
If thou hast run with the footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou contend with horses? and if in the land of peace, wherein thou trustedst, they wearied thee, then how wilt thou do in the swelling of Jordan?
Only a courageous spirit could stand a message like that, and Jeremiah was, on the whole, the bravest figure in the Old Testament. He was the kind of man who would have enjoyed a home, but it was denied him.

The word of the Lord came also unto me, saying,
Thou shalt not take thee a wife, neither shalt thou have sons or daughters in this place.
He was a priest, but he had little to do with the temple. He was a man of property, yet he encountered continuous privation. A friend of kings, he was cast into prison for reproving royalty. A stern patriot, he was under suspicion of giving aid and comfort to the enemy and was compelled at one period to take shelter with the enemy against the friends whom he had vainly sought to save. A natural optimist, loving people and desiring to be loved by them, he was forced to utter truths which estranged him from companionship.

Wee is me, my mother, that thou hast borne me a man of strife and a man of contention to the whole earth! I have neither lent on usury, nor men have lent to me on usury; yet every one of them doth curse me.

Jeremiah was a countryman, born in the little town of Anathoth. When the call of God came to him to stand forth as a turbulent prophet instead of a quiet priest, it found him modest and reluctant.

Crowell Ball Team to Play at Paducah

After three weeks of workouts, the Crowell ball club, a member of the Cotton Belt League, will play its first practice game with Paducah, a member of the Red River Valley League, Sunday afternoon at Paducah.

The local players from last year's team are Rasberry, Bell, Russell and Drabek, pitchers; Landon, catcher; Graves, C. Ashford, Sloan and Norman, infielders. The rookies are Green, pitcher and infielder; Mulkey, catcher; Huckabee and Rushin, infielders; Wylie and King, outfielders.

The entire squad will likely see service in this game, because it will be the only chance for Manager O. O. Hollingsworth to test the newcomers under fire before entering into the Cotton Belt League competition with Truscott Sunday, April 14.

The positions of the players are undecided at present and will not be fully decided until later on in the season.

Centennial Not to Interfere in Plans for 1935 State Fair

Dallas, Texas, April 1. (Special)—Plans for holding the State Fair of Texas this fall and pushing centennial central exposition structures at the same time are formulated, following an agreement between the officials of the Fair and of the Exposition.

"The State Fair of Texas will be held in Dallas in 1935, but it is not such attractions as are staged in the auditorium, track, stadium and live arena," announced Otto Heister, who is President of the fair and Assistant Managing Director of the Centennial central exposition.

The Texas Centennial exposition officials have agreed to the construction work so as to interfere with the State Fair activities as little as possible, and the Fair will plan no activities which might hinder the Centennial preparations.

look up Garnet. We ain't seen him for two days."

"What are you going to do?" Maitland asked, with a foreboding that Speed had not disclosed his real intention.

"We agreed once," said the outlaw, after a pause, "that I'd warn you and we'd split partners if I ever went up against the Law. Seems like I've reached that junction. Bud, I'm into this play neck deep and I can't quit."

Maitland gave a sober nod of half-comprehension.

"It's only my hand Fallon's callin'." Speed explained earnestly and with more emphasis, "He'll head through here, first with his shebang, and either he don't cross this bridge, or I don't live to see the miners' law, or will have, by sun-up."

"Mob Law," Maitland amended. "If you don't see your way to quit, Speed, you can't count me out. On principle, I'd—"

The Westerner groaned. "You ornery down-East Yanks, with your principles and proverbs—Listen, Bud, whether I ever reach Dawson or not don't matter a whole lot; with you it's different. It's what you come for, I've figured. Garnet as your chance of gettin' there."

But there is no law, East or West, and no tie as strong as that which binds a man to a partner against fighting odds, and with Maitland the bond had been steel-woven by the memory of a bleak day in the Sound. Speed here found himself opposing something as elemental as his own refusal to yield.

The creek had a glacial canyon, with smooth rock faces that started well up over the steep banks. Above a defile connecting with the bridge, there was a rocky bluff commanding a long view of the canyon and of the trail along the rim. Its weakness lay in a broken gulch that fell from it into the creek on the north side, and its possible exposure to gunfire from the hills on the other bank. It would be difficult to take, however, on the side facing the trail.

Here, within a rock corral, some goods lay stacked; provisions, a water canteen, several boxes of shells and a forty-four Winchester carbine. The outlaw had evidently foreseen what was coming.

During supper he was broodingly quiet. A blood-red moon was look up Garnet. We ain't seen him for two days."

He was in the saddle and away. The mare shot down the defile in a headlong gallop, took the full span of the bridge in a beautiful leap, and dashed up the hill on the other side into timber.

A half mile to the south the trail came in view over a timbered mountain shoulder. In the rising sun, the trees last long shadows across it, and it was a flickering in the rosy aisles between them that gave the signal.

A team of gray mules topped the rise, shielding the men behind. Other pack animals followed, and their drivers gathered on the vantage ground, peering down the long vista toward the creek crossing. There was a puff of smoke; a bullet screamed over the bluff through the morning silence; then came the sharp rattle crack. Out of the blue canyon mist, a great-winged bolden eagle rose and soared away.

"We're jake so long as they keep in the creek," said Speed. "She flattens out short of the bridge. Unless they can dig past under the near bank, Watch that gully, Bud." He drew the six-shooters from his belt and inspected them; then raised his head carefully above the rim of the rock corral to get a steeper view.

His eye raked the canyon below for a glimpse of Fallon. Suddenly a bullet went "spank" over the rampart, and he slid back with a grunt, shaking away the blood that oozed from a raw seam above his temple. Smoke was swirling out of some brush a few yards below the point where the trail reached the creek bottom.

"Nobody lied," said Speed, as he tore a handkerchief and tied it round the wound, "when they said this man Fallon could shoot. But I got him placed now."

Changing his position, he edged along the boulders till he touched the outer rim. A bullet hissed between his neck and the rock, with a glancing spark. Speed wheeled out and fired in the same instant. "Nicked his gun arm," he said, as he whipped back into shelter. "Fallon shoots best left-handed. Watch your gulch, Bud."

Whiffs of smoke eddied out from various points high in the timber. The men who had started the ascent, paused irresolutely. These shots from above came as a surprise, throwing a new and disturbing factor into their plan. They suspected that Speed had planted a guard on the hill to protect the bluff, and they had no way of guessing its strength. Finally they dropped back into the canyon, to consult, it seemed, with their leader.

"You haven't any men up on that hill?" Maitland asked Speed. Speed's grin was mysterious. "Ain't I, though, I got one, and he's as good as a gang. The little devil had it all figured when he crossed the bridge."

"Pete!" Maitland exclaimed. But their attention was now summoned back to the posse. They caught a glimpse of Fallon with his arm in a bandage, giving orders.

Until now Speed had contented himself mainly with making the trail impassable. Now he shot with a searching intent to kill, hoping the while that Pete would vacate his position. But the gun kept speaking on the hill; the boy was standing his ground. After the first few yards of ascent, the timber on the near bank offered the attackers a helpful screen. Speed's eye came back to the boulders on the other side of the creek. If he could reach these, he could sweep a wider arc of hill, with no impending trees.

He was gathering up the ammunition to make this desperate move when a sudden din from below stopped him. Maitland, from his lookout, shouted above the roar, "Look!"

The deep voice of a heavy-calibered gun was booming and reverberating through the canyon. It had halted the men on the hill, who now answered it by pouring a hot fire into the creek. Bullets were splashing like rain around a wiry, gray-headed figure who was fording the creek through a blue smoke haze, toward the boulders Speed had had in view. Coolly munching a large tobacco wad, he returned the broadside as he went, without haste, but with terrible effect.

"By Ginger!" cried Speed. "It's Brent's deer gun. And ain't she a talkin'!"

At this point there was a wavering in the rear of the crowd. A hum ran electrically down the pack train, and Fallon summoned back his men with an exultant shout. The crowd spread out to give way to a cavalcade coming down the trail.

"Soldiers!" Maitland asked in wonder.

Talking Picture Here on "Tractor Day" Wednesday, April 10

A new talking motion picture entitled "Partners" will provide a full hour of entertainment and education to farmers who attend John Deere Tractor Day, to be conducted by M. S. Henry & Co., local farm equipment dealer, aided by representatives of the John Deere organization.

This picture which is being enthusiastically received by farmers in other localities, takes the audience into the huge John Deere tractor plant at Waterloo, Iowa, and shows how tractors are built and tested.

From the factory, the cameraman takes the audience out into the field to see John Deere Tractors at work.

We've into the picture is a story of how a father and his son became partners on the farm.

The meeting will be in session from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., April 10, at M. S. Henry & Co. building in Crowell.

"We invite every farmer in this section to be our guest and we want the boys to come, too," says M. S. Henry. "The program will be in charge of men who are thoroughly familiar with tractors. In plain, understandable language and illustrations they will demonstrate the latest developments in tractors and the best ways to keep the farm tractor tuned up for greatest efficiency.

"We are planning to make this a sociable affair, but at the same time a very worthwhile affair to farmers and their families. We are counting on a big crowd coming in to enjoy the big day with us."

John Deere Tractor Day is proving exceptionally popular with farmers as evidenced by the picture above which shows an interested group at one of these meetings.
