Only a small amount of gas was reached in the abandoned test, which was the first unsuccessful one for the Texas Company in this area since an oil sand was uncovered in the Johnson No. 3 in July, 1933. No. 1 and No. 2 had been dry holes.

Thousands of Tons New Soil Settling On Farms of Foard

This section of Texas is getting a very liberal share of new top soil and according to figures kept by P. M. Hinkle of the Good Creek community, Foard County certainly must rank right at the top as a depository for the Kansas and Oklahoma farms that continue to move toward the Lone Star state. For the week ending April 13, Mr. Hinkle found that an average of twenty-five ounces of dust settled per square yard on his place. As there are 4,840 square yards to the acre, this would give 7,260 pounds per acre, or approximately 3.35 tons. Using these figures as a basis, a total of 1,962 tons of dust settled per section of land during the week which ended April 13. Of course, later winds may take away more soil than they bring to Foard County, but for the year as a whole this section will no doubt gain far more new top soil than it loses. Measuring the dust is not as big a job as one might suppose and getting the right kind of a place is the big job, according to Mr. Hinkle. Here is his method: You simply take a cloth or a piece of tin that is a yard square and place it some place that the dust will settle on it and not blow off or blow on from the ground. After the storm is over, take up the dust and weigh it, and then you are ready to begin your figuring. "Housewives say the plan is not correct, since they know more dust falls than that," Mr. Hinkle stated.

TRUSCOTT TO PLAY HERE IN 1ST HOME GAME

The Crowell baseball club will play its first league home game Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at which time the Truscott team of the Cotton Belt League will clash with the local nine. The new league that was organized in January is composed of six teams, Quanah, Medicine Mound, Crowell, Truscott, and Elmer and Eldorado, Okla. All clubs seem to be about equal in strength and fans of this section expect to witness some good baseball this season. New material for the Crowell club has been added this year by Manager O. O. Hollingsworth. New players are Bill Mulkey, catcher; Wylie and Huckaby, outfielders; Oldham, Green and Rushing, infielders and outfielders. The old ball park has been regraded and the infield has been worked over. The wire screen has been erected and everything is in readiness for the first home game here. Within the next few weeks a wire fence about the field and bleachers may be added. The management states that collectors will be placed on the streets leading to the ball park to collect admission fees and hopes that all fans will contribute cheerfully so as to help the club get started right and to help make additional improvements at the field possible and help with other club expenses. The probably line-up and batting order for the opening game here follows: H. Norman, cf; G. Graves, 1b; L. Sloan, ss; LaRue, c; C. Ashford, 2b; Mulkey, lf; Rushing, 3b; Huckaby, rf, and the pitcher to be selected from a staff including Dink Russell, Skeet Rasmussen, William Bell, Chas. Drabek and Herman Green. Utility players include Bylie, Oldham, Pichard and King.

TEXAS COMPANY'S GAS PLANT OPERATES SUCCESSFULLY IN FOARD DURING FIRST YEAR

The Johnson Gas Plant of the Texas Company in the western part of Foard County recently completed its first year of operation. Five families are now housed in five modernly constructed and equipped residences at the plant site. They are: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mills and four children, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Click, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ray and two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Quinn and one child. Mrs. W. E. Givens and two daughters are other regular residents at the plant site. They live in rooms adjoining the mess hall which has been operated by Mrs. Givens since construction on the plant was started in November, 1933. Mr. Mills is chief engineer of the natural gasoline plant and is assisted in its operation by Mr. Click, Mr. Marshall and Mr. Ray, engineers. Mr. Quinn is production foreman. The plant is made of attractive frame construction. All the modern conveniences to be found in homes of the largest cities are included in these. The supply of distilled water used in the plant's boilers is also connected with the water systems for the homes. A 70 h. p. engine generates electricity used in operating the plant and for its homes, thus making it possible for all to have electrical refrigeration. The plant has a modern sewage system. Another convenience for the homes and one that certainly can be used as freely as desired, is natural gas. A cold winter brings no fuel-bill worries to the "Panther Gulch" residents. Members of the school board for the Good Creek district are now considering plans for the erection of a school building at the site of the plant. Miss Kathryn Woods of (Continued on Page Four)

B. F. RINGGOLD FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for B. F. Ringgold, 72, will be held this afternoon, Thursday, at 3 o'clock in the Methodist Church with the pastor, Rev. Geo. E. Turrentine, officiating. Interment will follow in the Crowell cemetery. Mr. Ringgold, a resident of Foard and Wilbarger counties for the past 47 years, died at his home in Crowell last night at 7 o'clock after being confined to his bed two days with pneumonia. He had reported for work at his variety store Monday, but was unable to remain there throughout the day. This was the second time within the past two years that Mr. Ringgold had been seriously ill with pneumonia, the first case confining him to his home for about two months early in 1933. This pioneer merchant had engaged in business in Crowell since coming here June 14, 1902, and was owner of the Ringgold Variety at the time of his death. Benjamin Franklin Ringgold was born Sept. 1, 1862, at Cabot, Pulaski County, Ark. In 1888 he was married to Miss Lula Brooks at Cabot and three children were born to this union, two of whom are living. They are Miss Minnie Ringgold and Howard Ringgold of Crowell. One child died in infancy. Before coming to Vernon in 1888, Mr. Ringgold engaged in the mercantile business at Cabot and continued to follow this work for the remainder of his life at Vernon and Crowell. In 1900 Mr. Ringgold was married to Mrs. Maggie Williams at Cabot. She and one daughter born to this union, Mrs. Claude Brooks of McLean, Texas, survive. Also surviving are three step-children, Mrs. W. C. McKown of Crowell, C. B. Williams of Amarillo, and A. E. Williams of Donna, Texas, two brothers, Tom Ringgold of Cabot, Dr. John Ringgold of Ashdown, Ark., and three sisters, Mrs. W. J. Batts of Cabot, and Mrs. Walter Brannon and Mrs. Pries Shoffner of Little Rock, Ark. After Mr. Ringgold's arrival in Crowell in 1902, he operated a mercantile business in a wooden building at the site of the present Ringgold building, a 70x80-foot two-story brick structure with basement that was constructed in 1910. It has four business fronts. He built the residence where he died in 1902. Mr. Ringgold's honesty, dependability and sincere devotion to causes that he considered right will be forever remembered by all who knew him. He quietly and conservatively attended to his duties and few persons anywhere can be found who have been more closely attached to their business than was the case with Mr. Ringgold. Neatness and cleanliness from the street curb to the alley have always been characteristic of the manner in which he operated his business here. While duties with his store took up most of his time, Mr. Ringgold never hesitated to devote time and energy to an issue, political or moral, that he considered to be the best public interest. He became a member of the Methodist Church when a young man and had since retained membership in this church.

FACTS ABOUT EASTER

Easter Sunday, which falls on April 21, this year, is observed by Christians in commemoration of Christ's resurrection...

The custom of celebrating Easter is really an outgrowth of the Jewish Passover. There is no trace of its observance as a Christian festival in the New Testament...

But as most of the early Christians were derived from the Jewish church, many of the old Jewish festivals continued to be observed by them and gradually passed into the Christian calendar.

The name of Easter is derived from Eastre, the Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring, and many customs which have marked the day's observance are drawn from pagan sources.

The proper time for the observance of Easter has been the subject of bitter controversy among various Christian groups. In the year 157 Pope Victor excommunicated Polykrates, bishop of Ephesus, and his entire Asiatic following for not conforming to the Roman custom.

According to present usage Easter can not occur earlier than March 22 or later than April 25. The last time it fell on March 22 was in 1818, after which some three centuries must elapse before it occurs so early again.

Successful Service for Older Folks at Margaret Revival

Sixteen persons over fifty years of age were present for the "older folks" service at the Margaret Methodist revival last Friday.

Seven of the 16 over 50 years of age present last Friday, were also present for a similar service in 1934. The only person among the older folks at last year's service to pass away during the year was Mrs. M. Bond, 86, who died March 18.

The sixteen older folks present last Friday, together with their ages, follow:

W. T. Dunn, 86; Mrs. Sudie Bradford, 67; Mrs. Mary F. Hunter, 56; Mrs. W. S. Wrenn, 64; Dr. W. S. Wrenn, 76; S. J. Boman, 61; Frank Dunn, 58; Mrs. W. T. Dunn, 60; W. S. Carter, 57; Mrs. R. P. Boman, 80; Mrs. F. L. Bond, 63; Mrs. S. J. Boman, 51; J. C. Starnes, 53; Mrs. Frank Dunn, 52; J. D. Wright, 72; Mrs. J. D. Wright, 66.

Several in this group had been Christians over 50 years. W. T. Dunn had the longest record, having been a Christian 65 years.

Foard CCC Quota Is Set at Seven Boys

Foard County's quota of boys for enrollment in C. C. C. camps has been set at seven, according to Bryan O'Connell, county relief administrator.

County administrators were notified immediately to instruct boys selected to report to recruiting stations between April 17 and 23.

Gas Plant—

The four oil wells near the plant are allowed to produce 900 barrels daily by the Texas Railroad Commission, although any one of the wells is capable of producing far more than that amount.

The oil, and the gas that accompanies it from the wells, is piped to the separator, where the oil is diverted into storage tanks, one of which has a capacity of 55,000 barrels and the other 2,300 barrels.

The processing plant is of the vapor rectification type and incorporates a number of new features never before used in a plant of this kind before it started operation in March, 1934.

An average of about three thousand gallons of natural gasoline have been produced daily since operations were started. The plant is equipped to produce much more than this amount, however, its production is governed by the oil allowable set by the Railroad Commission and when this allowable is increased, the production of natural gasoline will also increase proportionately.

Natural gasoline is the product used to step up the gravity of ordinary gasoline. The gasoline from the Johnson plant is carried through a 3-inch pipeline to a loading rack at Foard City, about 15 miles away, where it is turned into tank cars.

All oil from the four Foard County producers is carried away by pipeline. A line from the plant connects with the big line of the Gulf Production Company at a point about one-half mile east.

Practically all of the production finds its way through this and other lines in finally reaching the Texaco refinery at Port Arthur. The oil is of extra high gravity, averaging about 45. Mr. Quinn is in charge of this division of the plant's operation, while Mr. Mills is in charge of the operation of the gas processing equipment and the loading rack at Foard City.

He superintended the construction of the plant, which is located about 18 miles airline distance west of Crowell and about 22 miles road distance, 13 of which are on Highway No. 28 pavement. A good dirt of boys will be to take approximately 5,000 Texas families of the relief rolls by June 1, at which time first checks will be received by beneficiaries of enrollees.

Guy said approximately 2,725 young men will be sent out of the state to camps in Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming. The remainder will go to the 55 camps in Texas.

Enrollment of these boys will again bring the quota of Texas young men in CCC camps to the maximum figure of slightly more than 14,000.

the equipment of the Meason Market last week, moving it from the location that it has occupied in the Ringgold building for many years.

Last Friday the market was opened in the Lanier Grocery with Mr. Meason in charge.

"We are mighty proud of our new market and feel fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Meason to manage it, due to his long record here as a real expert in the meat business," stated J. H. Lanier, Jr., store manager.

road, nine miles in length, connects the plant with the pavement.

The plant's water supply comes from Good Creek at a point about six miles northeast of the McAdams ranch.

The plant has operated very smoothly and efficiently since production was started. No serious break-downs or other trouble have developed and regular 24-hour operation has continued each day with but very few interruptions.

The erection of this plant is the greatest piece of development that has taken place in this section of Texas in many years. Efforts of the Texas Company in bringing Foard County its first major oil development have meant much from many standpoints and are naturally appreciated by the people of this section.

Margaret—

is first impressed with the unusual cleanliness of the school grounds. The same neatness prevails within the building, which leads one to wonder just why such favorable conditions exist. It does not take long to find that there is a very fine school spirit among the pupils of the school with respect to co-operation with their teachers in performing their regular work well and at the same time in helping to keep their school building and grounds in a neat and orderly condition.

The quality of work done by all classes was recently reflected in the various exhibits in each room in connection with the "Parents' Day" program. The work of all pupils was shown in these exhibits in giving parents and visitors a practical demonstration of the accomplishments of the school as a whole, instead of exhibiting only the work of the most brilliant pupils. For that reason the neatness and general excellence in by far the greater part of the many different exhibits were very impressive. "Thoroughness" is given particular emphasis by the Margaret teachers at all times in the work of instructing their pupils. The same fine spirit that exists within the school also may be found with regard to the community as a whole in connection with its school system. Practically all children of school age are enrolled and the interest of their parents in their work and school was vividly shown by the unusually large attendance on their part during "Parents' Day" on April 9.

Produce Winners

Margaret's regularity in producing fine basketball teams and outstanding individual performers has been truly unusual for a school of this size. The attractive trophy case in the hall includes a wide assortment of beautiful silver and gold trophies that have been won through the performance of Margaret's girls and boys basketball teams and individual players.

Besides acting as superintendent and high school teacher, Mr. Smart is also basketball coach for several teams at the school, since training in this sport is started early, which is one reason accounting for the fine material developed there. The school has four baseball courts and most of the pupils above the primary grades participate in this game.

Last year the Margaret senior girls won the tri-county championship and consolation honors in the ball success. Four of the five regulars on the Wildcat district championship squad this year were from Margaret. Previous seasons have also found Margaret boys playing a prominent part in Crowell's basketball and football success.

In addition to exhibiting the cleanest sportsmanship, members of the Margaret teams do various kinds of work in raising practically all of the funds necessary to buy their athletic equipment, such as uniforms and balls.

A QUICK WAY TO BETTER PAY

The most important objective in any educational program is the ability to earn a good living. For in this modern age when there are so many things that require a substantial income, such as a car,
 good clothes, pleasant vacations, and facilities for entertaining friends, money has become more than ever a symbol of success.
 Business as a career offers the shortest route to these laudable rewards. It provides early incomes, congenial surroundings, association with successful people, and broad opportunities for development of talent and culture.
 It has therefore been the lifework of Draughon's Colleges to make it possible for young people to step into good incomes at the earliest possible time and begin the accumulation of a bank account that will gratify the wholesome desires of a happy life.

A new booklet, "Planning Your Future," describes today's inspiring opportunities in business and a proven method of securing good starting positions for graduates.

 tions, I. T. Graves announced the decision of the judges. "Pink and Patches" received two first place votes and one second place, while "Her Country" received one first and two seconds. After short talks by Mr. Miller and Mr. Johnson, the announcement of the all-star cast was made by Mrs. Baird, who also presented the Silvertown director, Miss Esther Root, with the silver loving cup offered to the school winning first place.

The attendance was good throughout the tournament, especially Saturday night at which time the auditorium was practically filled.

 Did he remain a prisoner, or es-you probably know and if you've read the book you are certain to want to see the picture by the same

Christian Science Services

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 21.

The Golden Text is: Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation." (Hebrews 9:28.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept." (1 Corinthians 15:20.)

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Glorify to God, and peace to the struggling hearts! Christ hath rolled away the stone from the door of human hope and faith, and through the revelation and demonstration of life in God, hath elevated them to possible at-onement with the spiritual idea of man and his divine Principle, Love." (page 45.)

Foard City Methodist Church

The Methodist revival will begin Thursday evening, April 25, at 7:45, and run for ten days. Rev. O. B. Herring of Abernathy will assist the pastor in this meeting. The charge in the date became necessary on account of Brother Herring not being able to get here Easter Sunday. He is a good preacher and a fine spirit. I'm sure the people will like him and with the fine cooperation I'm sure we will have a good meeting. Let's remember what Jesus said, "Ask and it shall be given unto you, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you." We are assured that if we ask in the name of Christ the things we need that they will be withheld from us. If we put feet and conveyance to our prayers great things will result.

The second quarterly conference

The second quarterly conference will be held at Foard City April 28. Rev. Eldridge will hold it for us. The District conference will be held at Chillicothe April 24-25. Hope all delegates will be able to attend.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

The Future Life.
 Lesson for April 21st, Luke 24:1-12.
 Golden Text: John 11:25.

"Can we believe in eternal life?" In asking at Easter this question that probes the very heart of our Christian faith, I have in mind two classes of people. First of all, there are a few who flatly deny that the soul has any immortality. Next, there are those who believe in the soul's immortality, but who believe that the soul is a separate entity from the body, and that it can exist independently of the body.

Rev. Charles E. Dunn

Now this protest against the thought of immortality has important elements of truth in it. It is undeniable that the Puritan tradition over-emphasized the glories of heaven, and under-estimated the delights of this world. The pendulum has swung away from the conviction that this life is essentially vain, that we must postpone happiness until we die.

The Easter hope, however, is not to be ignored just because life has its happy moments. We are all candidates for trouble, sorrow, and death, and so must turn our eyes toward God's eternal City of Light. The body, of course, decays. But while the flesh fails, the spirit, as St. Paul assures us, is renewed day by day.

But to the Christian eternal life is more than a wishful hope. It is a definite fact. This is made clear by our thrilling Golden Text, "I am the resurrection, and the life," said Jesus. Here we have not a fancy, not a theory, not a "perhaps," but a firm assurance, "In my Father's house are many mansions." These we shall enter, in God's good time, if we are true to the gospel of His Son.

Cases of Neuralgia Are Often Caused By Decayed Teeth

Austin, Texas, April 18.—Neuralgia is one of the commonest of medical terms. And naturally so, because neuralgia is an exceedingly common complaint. Few people, however, could accurately define it. They will know when they have it, though. As a matter of fact, the term neuralgia is rather an inclusive affair. It applies to any pain that follows a nerve's course, though it is usually applied to the nerve which lies close to the surface of the cheeks. This nerve sends branches and sinuses behind the eyebrows, nose, below the cheek bone and to the teeth.

It is frequently very difficult to locate the real cause of this type of pain. There are many conditions that arise in the areas of influence of this nerve. And when one of them develops the result is suffering and usually there is plenty of it. In this respect, as one authority aptly puts it, "The tiny part which is inflamed is like a radio station which sends waves of sound into the carrying ether to be picked up by any one who tunes in. The nerve is like a many-wired antenna which catches the message and takes it to the tuned-in brain."

While, as indicated, neuralgia can have a large number of causes, one of the more general of them is a decayed tooth. As a matter of fact it is not at all uncommon to find a decayed lower tooth reflecting pain into the upper jaw and even the temple.

It follows that much of the neuralgia could be prevented by the simple practice of proper dental hygiene and the semi-annual visit to the dental chair. That this fact is becoming more and more appreciated is obvious in the greatly increasing numbers of persons who are making a daily rite of oral hygiene, and who also routinely every six months visit their dentist for professional prophylaxis and check-up. This practice is earnestly endorsed by the State Department of Health.

About Women

Mrs. George A. Waters, recently ousted warden of State Reformatory at Oklahoma City, announces she will write a book and then run for U. S. Senate against Senator T. P. Gore.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Moore, a 21-year-old New Yorker, made her debut recently as the youngest member of Manhattan's Metropolitan Opera Company.

Miss Louise Hackmeister is chief telephone operator at the White House, having won that position by her efficiency, diplomacy, and memory of voices, names and numbers.

Miss Maribel Y. Vinson, the 23-year-old women's senior figure skating champion, holds the distinction of being the only feminine member of the New York Times' sports department staff.

Miss Lillian E. Hayes, Dunreith, Ind., has trained a whistling choir of canaries. Their best selections, she says, are Yankee Doodle and My Old Kentucky Home.

Tests have shown the new infantile paralysis vaccine to be 85 per cent successful and to immunize for a five-month period.

S. M. U. REPRESENTATIVE SPEAKS

Mrs. Witherspoon, a representative from the Southern Methodist University of Dallas, spoke to the seniors last Wednesday, April 10. Mrs. Witherspoon pointed out the advantages of the social contacts that Dallas would be able to offer students, as the Texas Centennial is to be there. She also gave an interesting lecture on co-education and its advantages.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The Junior-Senior banquet is to be held April 25 in "Raymond's Cafe." This is to be an elaborate affair, and an interesting program is planned. There will be approximately one hundred guests present. The Junior-Senior banquet is an annual affair, and it is an event looked forward to by all the juniors and seniors each year. The banquet this year is to be on a type of the Texas Centennial and is a very appropriate one.

SIDELIGHTS ON FOOTBALL

The Sophs, pulled the unexpected out of the bag and let the Juniors down last Friday by one touchdown.

Bill Dunn, a senior, was the outstanding defensive player, but due to the fact that he played one-half on each side he was not worth anything to either side.

Perhaps Tully Spears was second best on the field from a defensive standpoint. He was a thorn in the side of these junior backfield men all afternoon.

Another Freshman that was a big help to the Sophs, was Big Boy Klepper. He did some pretty blocking to aid McKown in his runs.

Johnnie Cogdell is hard to get out of a play, but he was really pinned on one play by Dunn and Klepper.

Who was that junior that was counting on winning by fifty points and wanted to give all those odds?

Aldon Horn showed why he was elected captain by his sportsmanship and hard fight.

It is rumored that the eyes have such men as Bob Oswalt, John Todd, and Lester Patton in their line-up Friday so it looks like second place for the school boys.

Watch Saunders and Cogdell play the game of their life Friday. It looks like the school boys will be without the services of the court house twins Friday.

IMPORTANCE OF BEING A DOG

COMPOSITION ON THE MULE

(By Vernon Gibson)

A mule is a large quadruped with a striped down its back. A mule has six legs; two hind legs and his fore legs. A mule is a common noun, and the singular number except his ears, and is always in the objective case and ain't governed by anything. General Washington had many mules; horses are superior to mules, and mules follow horses like common people trot after big folks. The largest mule in the world came from Kentucky. Daniel Boone killed bears on the north by the Ohio River, and the Ohio River empties into the Mississippi River, and the Mississippi River empties into the Gulf of Mexico. The Gulf of Mexico is a great gulf. There ain't no mules in the Gulf of Mexico. That's all I can think of about mules, excepting my little brother's a mule, cause I heard Pa read about a baby mewling in its nurse's arms.

SUPERIOR FISH WORK

The Senior is my enemy; I seek revenge. He maketh me to carry his books down the hill; he driveth me mad with foolish commands; he gripeth my soul. Yea, tho I try always to please him, I have no freedom; for still he haunts me, his voice and his eyes they compel me. He prepareth embarrassing situations, in the presence of an audience, he blisters my wrist with two fingers; my wrath runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall come to me later on in my life, and I shall rest in peace forever.

DETECTIVES OF C. H. S.

If you would like to hire a good detective, just come to C. H. S. Our detectives work in pairs, and they are the best in this part of the state. The detective force furnishes a body guard.

As Coach Graves has already hired a detective, or rather a body guard, just ask his opinion. Coach's body guard, Skipper Brisco, seems to take things pretty seriously when playing football at noon each day. Skipper really does his duty, for he does the blocking and Coach does the passing. John Todd, the enemy, received severe punishment from Coach's body guard; and if stretchers had been available, John

SLUMBERING GOLD

by Aubrey Boyd

10th Installment

Young Ed Maitland hardened gambler, Speed became partners on the Yukon gold fields when word of the rich ores came down the Pacific trail, came of a New England family, was determined to win back his lost family. Frenchy, the fisherman, took him and Speed north; he, beautiful young woman had given Maitland a keepsake; Fallon, trail the miners, who resented attention to Maitland; the money lender; young his drunken partner, Bill Brent, old-time prospector; Garnet, well-to-do mod- who hired Maitland and to haul his stuff from the mountains to the these were among the made up the gold seek- Liarville, a camp in the ed was made trail boss in place, because Speed in closing the trail till it repaired. When a de- of the Canadian North- mounted Police came riding the pass and mended the Speed, there was a trace him and Fallon and the recognized. Garnet went civilization for the winter his ponies and equipment and Maitland. But the disappeared just after the Lefty, who could hardly words out for stuttering, ed he'd help him find the ed him to a tent alone ose was waiting for him. ed to want him and Mait- ed something for her, but endness held her off. she told him she had his horses for him and that was waiting outside.

"Maybe nowheres else. Outfits are gambled and lost right along the trail without needin' a gold secret back of it. What you heard Owens say doesn't count for much. And this prospecter had a gold mine, why, wouldn't he record it, thus endin' the secret? Another thing—I'd bank she wouldn't be that much interested even in a gold mine. She comes by gold too easy."

"Then what motive would she have?"

"Motive?" Speed's mouth tightened. "You'd better not guess. Nothin' sets a man wonderin' like gold, and the best trick a woman has is to get you wonderin' till you go round her in circles. When she talks of puttin' heads together, whose head do you figure she's interested in? Maybe Fallon and me both cramp her ideas. She baits me with a gold lure to go trailin' him, and her other argument is plausible. It would surely be a wise move to hunt Fallon down and settle that feud. But not on Canadian ground. . . . If that ain't her motive, it's just barely possible she's workin' with Fallon to nail me pelt. Or else—" he concluded, less audibly, "she's drawin' evidence for the Law. She's the most insidious woman I ever met, and I've known some bearcats."

At the top of the pass they looked out over a new world.

The man wouldn't believe that I didn't have a gun notched for him.

"Interesting case," Drew concluded, tapping out his pipe. . . . But I'll be getting your sled-load ready."

Speed listened in silence, his mind apparently less occupied with the inspector's story than with the peculiar circumstance of their making a haul for the police.

The snowfall continued in flurries as they sledged on toward Lake LeLargé. Between the canyon rapids and the Takhim they passed a creek that cut into the left bank of the river. It appeared to Speed as a site for a winter camp. The timber around it was good enough for cabin logs, and they could haul in the finer-grained wood they needed for the boat.

The solitude of the region remained unbroken. Feathering snow had erased the track of a patrolman's mount, which they had noted occasionally. So, when they were returning to the horses after a side excursion to examine timber, Maitland was surprised to see his partner stop suddenly and look down, as if he had detected some mark on a blank rise of snow.

The shape of these marks was not that of bootprints but of some moss-like foot covering. There were other phantom dots and lines that suggested a sled track—unaccountably to him.

Speed studied them with an absent intenceness, from which he was recalled by a question from the other.

"Must be the track of the lone Siwash Drew's patrolman was curious about," he said. "Myster'ous, too, because there ain't any native settlements in this region, and nothin' much to bring a wanderin' Siwash in."

They made an uneventful trip down the stretch of Lake LeLargé to the Lewes and delivered their consignment to the inspector in charge, without meeting the other official personages. Nor did Speed show any desire to do so. He lost no time in getting rid of the order, and putting miles of lake ice between them and the Lewes.

Retracing their lonely route with the empty sleds, they loaded up with legs they feilled along the way. Prospecting for timber sometimes led them far apart. They had been separated in this way for some hours when Maitland became aware that it was turning dark. A wolf howl, weird in the distance, deepened it still more.

Some minutes later his ears were stung to alertness by the muffled double crack of a rifle.

Wondering what game Speed would consider worth that number of shells, he pulled the horses into a faster gait.

Presently, through the snow drizzle, he discerned a dark lifeless bulk on the snow-blanketed ice. He found it to be a stray woodland caribou—the first he had ever seen. It had been dropped by a clean head shot, and its blood, still warm, stained the snow. Speed's bullet had stolen a feast from the timber wolves.

In answer to his shout, his partner came toward him out of the shadow of a clump of cottonwoods.

"What were you looking for?" Maitland asked.

The other had an oddly abstracted look and was still scanning the shore line. I must be gettin' mental," he said. "I got a dim sight of this caribou crossin' the river mouth, and had to shoot twice to stop it. Then it seemed like I—like somethin' else was moving in the timber."

"Maybe a wolf was trailing the deer you shot?"

They put the deer on the sled and kept trailing till they camped in the shelter of some timber above the river mouth. When they had skinned the game and cleaned up, darkness had closed around them with a bitter night cold. Maitland broke limbs from a fallen tree for the camp fire, while Speed was cooking caribou steaks on some wood coals. Releasing the axe for a moment to blow on his fingers, Maitland happened to glance across the river, and was arrested by a yellow gleam from a dark, slinking shape of fur.

"There's your wolf," he called to his partner.

Speed gave another turn to the steak he was broiling.

"That's no wolf," he muttered. "It's a Siwash dog. And lame. Must of strayed from the team of that disappearin' Indian. Or the Siwash cut it loose."

The cruelty of leaving a lame dog to starve seemed extreme to Maitland. But while the steaks were cooking, Speed mentioned some harsher examples of the law of survival in the snow country. The topic did not dull their appetite. Having appeased it, they lolled in the fire's warmth.

Speed took a deep drag at a waning cigarette and tossed the stub in the fire. Then he got up and sleepily stretched his arms. As he did so, his eyes came suddenly and sharply awake.

CONTINUED NEXT WEEK

Clouds billowing darkly on a chill wind, shadowed the crests of a piling sea of mountain peaks. To the east and below them, a gleam that followed this moving darkness changed a sable wood to misty enchanted green, and glinted over the snow-dusted surface of Summit Lake—first promise of their approach to the headwaters of the Yukon. The sky turned grayer as they descended, till it melted in flakes that drifted around them like leaves, mantling their mud-stiffened clothes.

When the long strait of Windy Arm brought them into the wooded stillness of Lake Tagish, and they reached the lower end of this waterway, they came on an advance crew of police, setting up a barracks.

An officer walked out through the snow flicker to meet them. It was Drew, wearing a winter service uniform. He asked where they were bound.

"Just lookin' for timber and a place to camp," said Speed.

Drew's eye was on the pintos, as he filled and lit a pipe. "If you're heading toward the Lewes and you'd like to make some wages, I could give you a load of supplies to haul to Thirty Mile. One of our inspectors is camped here. He's taking Judge McGuire and the Crown Prosecutor to Dawson. Drew explained, as a pleasant conversational item. "The goods are to be delivered to him. No rush about it."

Speed looked darkly at his partner, who had a provident thought. With what lay behind them, it might be good politics to do the police a service. "We could leave our stuff here," Maitland ventured, "and prospect for a camp on the way."

"That's an idea," said the inspector. "If you make your camp between here and LeLargé, you'll be in the line of Cathcart's patrol. Corporal Cathcart's a new man. I'll be an event for him to meet anyone along that lonely beat."

"Does he use dogs?" Maitland asked curiously.

"No. Our dogs haven't arrived yet. Sneaking of that, though, Cathcart's very interested in the sled track of a mysterious Siwash he's seen down that way. If you should get a glimpse of this lone Indian, you'll have exciting news for him."

"What makes the track a mystery?" Maitland inquired.

"The fact that no one has ever had a clear view of the Siwash or his team. This sounds odd, but it dates back to a time before our men entered the territory—when a miner from the Pelly brought in some gold he claimed to have got from an Indian in a storm. The snow, he said, was driving thick, and the native, whose face was muffled in a parka hood, spoke in Chinook, offering a potlatch of furs and nuggets in exchange for supplies. A cold legend grew from it, and whenever a cache was robbed, or ribbed by wolves, the vanishing Indian was blamed.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE FIGHT DEVELOPS IN TEXAS LEGISLATURE

From Austin American-Statesman

Christian Scientists of Texas asked for broad "and a senate committee, by an overwhelming vote, handed them a brickbat." That is, made an unfavorable report of senate bill 312. According to the leaders of the Scientists, this bill which received an unfavorable report is very simple and has as its sole purpose the granting of "religious freedom under the medical practice act."

They boldly declare it is not designed to injure or affect adversely in any way the medical act. In addition, they say the Christian Scientists are interested in the doctors of Texas having the best and most effective practice act that can be enacted by lawmakers. And they ask that it should be placed in the record they have no fight with the doctors and "are interested only in being free to carry on their religious activities according to the dictates of their own conscience." They reminded the reader that the medical practice act was originally passed in 1925. In 1923 it was voted in committee to amend it to read just exactly as the senate bill 312 would now amend it. The amendment was progressing on the floor of the senate in a satisfactory manner to the Scientists and just a moment before the vote came a member offered the amendment which now is a part of the act and reads as follows: "And that no charge is made therefore directly or indirectly." It is contended by scientists that this clause robs the Christian Scientist of religious freedom and is quite obvious when one understands the government of the Christian Scientist Church.

This is the argument: The Mother church, the first Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Mass., and its branches in all the civilized world is governed by the church manual written by Mary Baker Eddy; that the manual contains the basic law which has and will govern the entire Christian Scientist movement for all time to come; that this basic law can never be changed, concerning the points that have been raised by lawmakers or non-lawmakers. Section seven of the manual provides as follows: "A branch church of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., shall not be organized with less than 18 loyal Christian Scientists, four of whom are members of the mother church. This membership shall include at least one active practitioner whose card is in the Christian Scientist journal." Section 9 makes this provision: "Members of this church who practice other professions or other vocations, shall not advertise as healers, and shall have no card in the Christian Scientist journal excepting those members who are officially engaged in the work of Christian Science and they must devote ample time for faithful practice. It is the contention as well as the conviction of Christian Scientists that in view of these two laws of their church it is plain that "no church can be organized or present churches maintained without Christian Science practitioners." It is also set forth under these laws that a practitioner cannot be engaged in any other activity or profession. This being true a practitioner must have some form of livelihood if he is to perform his duties properly; that Christian Science practitioner occupies the position more of pastor than physician; that he heals mentally, morally and physically; that he is entirely dependent upon those whom he helps for his support.

This is the clincher to the argument advanced by Scientists who insist that they have been robbed of religious freedom under the medical practice act. "At present Christian Scientists and Christian Science practitioners are forced to violate the state law in order to maintain churches and carry on their practice work." Those who feel that they have a sensible grievance assert that Christian Science practice has been exempt under the medical practices act of 41 states and that the seven states set to grant this freedom are West Virginia, Maryland, Montana, Alabama, Delaware, Ohio and Texas. They invoke the protection of the bill of rights of the Texas constitution to aid them in their battles before the lawmakers for religious liberty as guaranteed by the venerable documents drafted and adopted by framers of the federal constitution as well as the men who made the constitution of Texas in the long ago.

Educated Hen

A prophetic hen evidently exists at the home of T. J. Cates in this city, judging by a lettered egg of normal size laid by a Rhode Island Red at his place last week.

In gathering the production of his poultry flock, Mr. Cates' attention was attracted to one egg that seemed to have some sort of mysterious raised letters in semi-circle order on one side. As a result the egg was brought to The News office for inspection.

By blackening the raised surfaces with printers' ink, three letters, NRA, were immediately visible, which probably indicated that the hen was operating under a code and that she had adopted the plan used by other manufacturers operating under NRA codes in stamping the NRA insignia on their products. Part of the raised surfaces resembled the Blue Eagle.

Further and closer inspection also brought out three other letters in the following order: W A R. Not being acquainted with such "goings on" by the feathered tribe, we do not know just what the Rhode Island Red hen meant with her unusual piece of work. Quite a war is going on within NRA ranks, so there is no doubt about the two groups of letters forming an appropriate combination.

Maybe the hen is prophesying another World War. Maybe she has seen "War" and "NRA" in the headlines so much lately that she simply typed off these letters in an effort to imitate the front page headlines of daily papers.

Use whatever interpretation you wish concerning the matter. Incidentally we'd like to see the hen's next edition and wonder how often she has press day.

The Newspaper Borrower

A man in a neighboring state, on returning from a hunting trip several weeks ago, found his neighbor just leaving the house, and being of a jealous nature, drew his gun and filled the man's legs with fine shot. A lawsuit followed, and it was learned that the man was there to borrow the local paper. The lawsuit cost $75, and the doctor bill $25; $1.50, the price of his local paper for a whole year, would have saved the trouble.—Hopkins, (Mo.) Journal.

Foard County's sizable group of newspaper borrowers seem to have had better luck than the man referred to above, but still the warning is in line here, for human nature is pretty much the same to the world over and we'll say to the newspaper borrowers to "look out" for we have the names of lots of jealous persons on our subscription list.

Back Again!

Several years ago we were greatly thrilled in listening to the radio broadcast of Lindbergh's return to America following his Paris flight. We have thrilled at the newspaper accounts of numerous welcomes given other returning heroes . . . and we had always hoped for the opportunity to be among such groups and had been curious to know what thrills were experienced in such cases.

And now we know! Yes, we were among that mighty delegation at the local depot Tuesday afternoon that was drawn there as flies are drawn to sugar when the report spread over town that Tom Beverly was returning on the 4:07 from a three-day visit at Texon.

We didn't know—and don't yet—just what new development had characterized the dashing local youth as a hero. All that anyone seemed to know was: "Tom's coming home on the four-seven." Any- way, the gallant warriors of old never received a more enthusiastic welcome than did Tom when the 4:07 "doodle-bug" came to a stop at Verre Walden's hang-out. Some heated arguments have since developed over the situation. All agree that it was one of the most gala events in the history of the local station, but some of the old-timers are inclined to believe that the arrival of the first passenger train in 1908 and departure of soldier boys in '17 and '18 will go down in history as local depot affairs of a more gigantic nature than Tom's return from Texon.

With 1934 Seniors

(Thumbnail sketch of Fred Spears) President of Class of '34, now employed at Thomas Service Station. Has been there several months. Always provides snappy and courteous service, but especially so for the good-looking lady tourists. In his Conoco uniform, some claim he resembles those trim-looking fellows pictured in Conoco ads.

Maybe they're using Fred as their model. Former Wildcat athlete. May play with Exes in football game tomorrow against the '35 Wildcats.
