TEXAS' RANK IN EDUCATION

The fact that Texas ranks 37th among the states, insofar as its public schools are concerned, has plagued many Texans for a long time. The thoughtful Texan has felt that such a rating was sadly low for a state ranking so high in population and wealth.

In an article in the Dallas News, Alonzo Wasson dispels much of the perplexity with which the rating has been viewed. He shows that the standards by which Texas' educational system is thus placed so far down the list are arbitrary and artificial, and that they take no account of factors which ought to be of weight in considering the relative rank of the states. Mr. Wasson has done something that we have for a long time wanted to see done.

No one would contend that Texas schools are all that they should be or all that Texas really wants them to be. Goodness knows, there is plenty of room for betterment, and we would be the last to want to see Texas become complacent about such a matter. But it is unfair to Texas to rate her among the backward states in educational matters, when the facts do not justify it.

The criteria by which states are rated, educationally, are such that Texas might have the finest and most efficient school system of all the states and still rank rather low. Here are the 10 points on which the ratings are based: Percentage of school population attending school daily; average number of days attended by each child of school age; average number of days school is kept open; percentage of high school students; percentage of male high school students; average annual expenditure per child of school age; average annual expenditure per teacher employed; average expenditure per pupil for purposes other than teachers' salaries; expenditures per teacher for salaries.

As Mr. Wasson points out, four of these points have nothing at all to do with school equipment or school efficiency. Taken as a whole these points preclude Texas' ever ranking high because of the large negro and Mexican population, the sparseness of population in many sections, and the fact that weather conditions make it impractical to hold school more than nine months in the year. Under a system designed for Indiana or Massachusetts, Texas would continue to rank low, regardless of how excellent she made her schools.

Texas has its school needs and its social problems, and they are very real. But there has been too much of trying to pattern after states where conditions are different and where different standard must apply. Texas has the largest school endowment of any state. It spends more for school purposes than for all other purposes combined. Nobody rates it on these things. It is entitled to have, on the basis of equipment and efficiency, a much higher rating than it can ever have by the arbitrary rules Mr. Wasson describes.—Wichita Daily Times.

A HITCH-HIKER LAW

The person who stands along the roadside, with a wave of the hand as automobiles pass by him, is destined in some states to fall into the clutches of the law. Hitch-hikers are to be banned.

The fellow who walks along the roads and sees automobiles with room for two or more passengers dash by him, may think the driver is very selfish not to pick him up and provide him with a lift. So he may be surprised to learn that there are movements on foot to curb the practice by law.

In Indiana such legislation is proposed for the next legislature. It would prohibit the soliciting of a ride in passing machines.

The proposal seems to be foolish and another indication of the widespread disposition to cure everything we do not like by legislation. Most automobilists know they are responsible for injuries to those who ride with them if they are chargeable to drivers negligence. It may be liability, but why try to regulate all drivers' actions, especially as few motorists care to make common carriers of themselves, and the vast majority can be left to decide when to comply with requests for a lift?

This is the season that the back seat driver of a canoe decides to change places in the middle of the stream.

MODERNIZING TEXAS LEGAL MACHINERY

Its committee on Remedial Procedure and Law Reform recently recommended to the Texas Bar Association certain changes in the law of criminal procedure which Texas editors think would speed justice, save the state thousands upon thousands of dollars, and go far in restoring public confidence in the integrity of the courts.

The committee recommended that preliminary pleas in capital cases be made at or before the time the case is set and the venire ordered. Among such preliminary pleas are included motions to quash and to change venue. Other committee recommendations included these: That jury comment upon a defendant's failure to testify in his own behalf no longer constitute reversible error; that indictments may be amended as to descriptive matters, names and places where the identity of the offense charged will not be changed; that judges, rather than attorneys, qualify the jurors; that a man may be tried at the same time for two offenses growing out of the same transaction, instead of having two or more separate trials as is now required by law; that cases may no longer be reversed for harmless error which in no way could have injured the defendant.

Upon the whole—in fact almost without exception—Texas editors heartily endorsed these proposed changes. They in no way violate that fundamental philosophy of the law which places the burden of proof upon the state and assures to a defendant every advantage in the conduct of his case. They do, on the other hand, disregard obsolete and antiquated practices which needlessly prolong criminal prosecutions and put the tax payers of the state to tremendous, unnecessary expense.

Unfortunately, however, any action taken by the Bar Association with respect to these and other suggested changes in the law of criminal procedure would not be final. The legislature first must enact them into law. It is here that editors anticipate delay and disappointment.

At the next session of the legislature these and other important changes in the Criminal Code and the Laws of Criminal Procedure will be submitted. One Texas editor gloomily forecasts that "when they are presented to our sterling representatives, they will be buried in a grave of cheap politics, with talk about evolution, Tammany Hall, the price of popcorn in Liberia and everything else which does not pertain to good government."

Another editor, however, contends that "Public opinion and newspaper influence will sooner or later force a radical change in court procedure."

In the meantime voters and taxpayers of the state have six months in which to impress upon their representatives at Austin the fact that the needless waste of time and money must be stopped. After all, if the people speak emphatically enough few legislators will refuse to listen.—Editorials of the Month.

RECOGNIZING A PESSIMIST

There is no mistaking a pessimist—you can recognize one as soon as you see him.

His countenance is shrouded in gloom so thick that a smile has no chance of escaping. If he has a slight toothache, he is as solicitous of his jaw as a man is of his first automobile.

If he has a slight touch of lumbago, he walks as if he had one foot in the grave. If he is afflicted with indigestion, as most of his kind are, he never loses an opportunity to tell his friends about it.

If there is nothing wrong physically, which is rare, he fancies in the dark recesses of his imagination that the world is going to the eternal bowwows.

All models of pessimists are the same. That's the reason you will have no difficulty in recognizing one.

Curing them is questionable. Those in the last stages are beyond hope, but a little persuasion used on those who are not too far gone may lead to a conversion and add another good citizen to the community.

A COMMON CHARACTERISTIC

So many of us are in a hurry and don't know where we are going. It is characteristic of the age—Constantly seeking a new thrill, a new sensation.

A young man bought a new automobile, had it a few months and boasted that he had run ten thousand miles.

"Where have you been?" he was asked.

And he answered, "Oh, no place in particular—just around."

Around expresses it—traveling around in circles.

He was out in search of a thrill that he had never experienced before.

And he had been no place.

And many folks not so young are endeavoring to live on thrills.

There are many people who literally tremble at the thought of being left at home alone one evening with

OUR HOME COMFORTS

The average American home has more comforts and conveniences than the palaces of Europe. Home for home, the American household has a well-kept look, an atmosphere of prosperity and contentment you can not find in the homes of any other country in the world.

In foreign lands, the modernized dwelling as we know it is found only in limited numbers and then only in the larger cities. In America, even in remote rural districts, you find pianos, vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, phonographs, telephones, radios and numberless appliances that make life easier, happier and more worth while.

You may not realize it, but America's high standard of home life is due largely to advertising. For development of advertising is distinctively American. It has taken its place as a leading force in bringing together the interests and wants of a great united people. And a large share of this credit is due to the newspapers.

Stop and think how many of the appliances you use, the clothes you wear, the food you eat and other articles entering into your everyday life, were popularized by newspaper advertising.

Then you will realize what a vital part advertising has played and is playing in your daily life.

BUILDING CHARACTER

The most desirable of reputations are the easiest to lose. It requires years of correct living to build them up, and but an incautious moment to destroy them.

Too many men seem to forget that they are judged not by what they really are, but by what they seem to be. Their actions and their words are the only things that count.

The little things of life are of vast importance. They indicate the character that lies beneath the polished surface, and it is from them that the most lasting impressions are formed.

A sanctimonious countenance is not indicative of a clean heart. It is a cloak under which many disreputable deeds are performed.

A cheerful smile, a truthful tongue and an honest heart are all that any person requires.

Character is built from these and reputation is but the aftermath of character.

ATTAINING OLD AGE

The average person may not be aware of the fact, but you can live six hundred years if you split your cholin.

This is the assertion of a physician of Chicago, who claims that cholin is the substance that coats glands, clogs them up and results in old age and senility.

So, to get at the seat of trouble, the natural thing is to have a "cholin splitter," a disintegrator, as it were, which routs cholin and restores youthfulness.

The doctor insists that he has found a serum, made from the fresh glands of steers which will do the work.

There is nothing new in the knowledge that cholin exists in the human blood, he says. It is ptomain poisoning filtering into the blood from products of decomposition.

Thomas Parr, an Englishman, is reputed to have lived to the ripe old age of 154 and the Hungarian Zartin is said to have been 185 when he died. This physician believes they absorbed some cholin splitter into their systems.

Medical science has not passed on the "secret" to long life, so most of us will suspend judgment and keep on absorbing our cholin until such time as those fitted by technical knowledge and experience come to some conclusion about the merit of the serum.

But the prospect of living to be six hundred years old has something that recommends itself even though the means by which such an end is to be attained can not be regarded as very tenable.

Chevrolet Uses 5,500 Newspapers to Spread Messages of Its Car

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—The automobile dealer now has a voice in the national advertising program of his factory. Chevrolet dealers throughout the United States are taking part in a unique series of advertising conferences being conducted by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

These dealer conferences are held at the home office here under the general supervision of R. K. White, advertising manager. One is being held every month this summer with a different group of dealers from different parts of the country present each time.

"The object of these advertising conferences," Mr. White explained "is to keep the home office constantly in touch with problems faced daily by the dealers so that Chevrolet advertising may be guided by actual field conditions and thus prove most effective."

"The assistance given by dealers in these conferences," he continued, "is invaluable in adding to the efficiency of our advertising, particularly the newspaper advertising, which forms the greatest retail advertising force of each individual dealer."

"While every type of advertising—newspaper, magazine, outdoor and electric spectacular signs and trade papers—is discussed, major interest attaches to the newspaper schedule because this makes up by far the largest part of the year's budget. There are now more than 5,500 leading newspapers carrying the Chevrolet message to practically every city, town and hamlet in the United States.

Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails
No More Burning Aching Feet

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corns and callouses right out—roots and all and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the salts right to roots of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted off ho-hoily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy—vigorous—hard skin on heels and toes goes also.

Ferguson Bros. and all good drug-stores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't insist upon them ordering it if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

We often hear people remark that "it makes no difference what others think."

But it does make a difference. The state is a collection of cities and towns and the surrounding countryside.

This country is simply a collection of sovereign states welded together in a single and central government for their own protection and advancement.

The government is dependent upon the states, and the states are dependent upon their cities and towns and countryside, and the latter are dependent upon the people who compose their respective populations.

Does it make a difference "what other people think?"

THE BOYS' PART

A woman, speaking before a men's club is reported as having said that the boys of the country were suffering from too much male domination and that what was needed is the womanly touch.

Every man will admit that they do need the influence of a mother, but that they are not being "dehumanized" by their elders.

The boy is the fellow who is going to carry on what the men of the present generation have begun or are beginning. He needs to be in close contact with men to get the masculine viewpoint—and he isn't going to suffer if the man is inclined to interest himself in boys.

More and more intensely are men coming to realize that they can do more for the future by taking some interest in what the men of the future will be, than in any other way.

Men's organizations are devoting time to a study of the boy and trying to direct his activities and thoughts into channels that will develop him so that he will be able to take up the job where they leave off.

Men who stop to think have long since realized that it is wasted effort to build up a business based on an ideal if something is not done to instill the same thought in the mind of him who will carry on.

Man's work today is going to be judged, and praised or condemned by the boy of today, when he becomes a man.

Man's efforts, no matter how sincere and well meaning, are as snow before a hot sun unless he takes into account those who are to follow.

He—this boy of yours—is going to be the president, the senator, the statesman, the preacher, the teacher, the lawyer, the judge, the merchant. The fate of the nation and humanity is in his hands.

So it is well to pay him some attention for the measure of success he has with the tasks of the next generation depends on the training he has at the hands of the men of the present generation.

A SERVICE OUTSTANDING

The case is reported in the press of a letter, written by a soldier during the Civil War, which was delivered a few days ago to a relative of the one to whom it was addressed.

Such instances are unusual. The postoffice department functions with great precision and provides splendid service for the people.

The circumstance which was given widespread publicity, because it was rare, might be contrasted with the thousands and thousands of cases where mail is delivered promptly.

The postoffice department is in receipt of frequent letters commending mail service, but none quite equals the record which a Utah woman reports.

For ten years she has been maintaining a weekly correspondence her sister in England, and up to June 1 of this year each woman had written 520 letters to each other, not one of which had been lost.

This record reveals a state of perfection that is seldom reached and though it is uncommon, it indicates that the postal service is a very efficient branch of the government.

When you feel a dollar bill in your pocket it serves only to remind you that you've forgotten to pay a bill some place.

It is a wise thing to keep in touch with the world, but still wiser to keep beyond its touch.

Retired Minister Talks

"In a Short Time Argotane (Argotane) Has Built Me Up: I've Suffered Twenty Years," Says Wichita Man

I've suffered twenty years and Argotane built me up in a short time," said R. E. Helm of 300 Pool St., Wichita Falls, Texas, while talking with an Argotane representative.

"I had a severe case of stomach trouble and everything I ate would sour on my stomach and bother my heart, which would beat so fast at times, I thought it would run away with me. I had to take soda all the time and never had any appetite for I was afraid to eat, I was bilious and was dizzy all the time and was very nervous. My system was worse every day and I realize that something must be done but everything I did seemed to do me no good.

"I was reading the paper one day and noticed a stomach preparation, Argotane. I got a bottle and have simply feel better and stronger than I have in twenty years. I am glad to endorse Argotane for it is the best stomach medicine I ever heard of or have ever taken. Any one who will give it a trial will soon learn of its value."

Genuine Argotane may be obtained in Crowell at the Reeder Drug Co.

TEXON TALES

Well, it looks like we clear light skipped last week and never had no time to fix up no Texon Tales nor nothing. Just busy, so you know how it is. We got a lotta oil wells that's just got to be looked about or else they might turn up salt water or something. Also got Mexico's best army polo team over here to San Angelo and we can't let Mexico get away with nothing, even in polo. The way Texas is getting along in the polo business it looks like we are going to maybe be the best in the world but it is sure going to be a hard tussle with Oklahoma on one side and Mexico on the other trying to down us all dollars.

If you loan a friend five dollars and you never do see him no more why that must of been a good investment.

TEXON TATTLER.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

The report of a state superintendent of schools shows in striking contrast the per capita cost of tuition in the small high school with the cost in the school where attendance was up in the hundreds. In one high school with 47 pupils the cost per pupil in attendance was $659, while the per capita cost for a high school of 500 pupils was only $127.

Answering a correspondent of the United States Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, the commission discusses the viewpoint that secondary education concerns itself with life purposes rather than with traditional subject matter, that need exists within the community for several lines of training as looking towards occupation, that freedom of occupational choice for the child is an essential American ideal, and says:

"Such a viewpoint and such ideals make secondary school administration in the United States a matter of compromise. On the one hand, is the demand for variety of educational offerings necessitating large and specialized teaching staff, special rooms, special equipment, comprehensive libraries and the like. On the other hand, we have the demand and necessity for keeping educational costs within reasonable bounds.

"The chief means of adjustment of the high school to these demands is through centralization. Centralization increases the valuation of district served so that a comprehensive school can be maintained on reasonable tax levies.

"Centralization increases the number of pupils instructed as grouping, not only on a basis of specific life purposes of the child become possible."

DOUBLE NEWS VALUE

Back in the forties it took months for the thrilling news of California's gold strike to cross the continent. Not long ago a championship prize fight was under way and people all over the United States and other countries knew about it as quickly as did those who were witnessing the event. A baby made his appearance in the home of Col. Lindbergh, and the nation again knew about this news event in a short period of time. In the early days news spread by word of mouth. Today we have the radio that sends out flashes of news, and with the aid of telegraph and telephone lines, the messages in detail are sent into the newspaper offices, rushed in type, the paper is printed and soon the news becomes public property.

There are two kinds of news in the paper. One consists of the affairs of other people, their sayings, doings and what they are going to do; things that may happen, have happened or didn't happen.

The other kind of news is your affairs. That's the part you will find in the advertisements. There's a lot of valuable news there about things you want or will want; things that have to do with your personal comfort, convenience and every-day efficiency.

Every advertisement carries a personal message to some one. Many advertisements carry messages of vital interest or value to you. That's why you can't afford to miss the advertisements.

Diamonds have been discovered in thirty-five places in the United States.

Konjola Ended Two Years of Stomach Misery

Again This New and Different Medicine Shows Why It Has Become Famous

Strange, but absolutely true—Konjola, the new and different medicine seems at the very peak of its powers when pitted against the stubborn cases that have held on with bulldog tenacity. Take for example, the experience of Mrs. Bertie Cowan, 614 West Second St., Ft. Worth, Texas, who says:

MRS. BERTIE COWAN

"For two years the lightest of foods caused misery. At times I had to gasp for breath, and I belched up bits of undigested food. I took soda constantly. My kidneys gave me trouble too. I had backache and had to rise many times at night. But Konjola ended all this, and today my back is free from pain, my nerves are steady, I sleep soundly and wake up every morning rested and refreshed."

Thus Konjola works, swiftly yet surely. It is strongly recommended however, that a complete treatment of from six to eight bottles be used if best results are to be obtained. Konjola is sold in Crowell at Ferguson Bros. drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Relatives of Crowell People Married 59 Yrs.

The Plano paper of last week contained a news item which will be of much interest to a number of people here. It stated that June 29th was the 59th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Hughston of that place. Mrs. Hughston is a sister of J. W. Beverly and Mrs. T. L. Hughston and Mr. Hughston is an uncle of T. L. Hughston of this place, and both are known by quite a number of Crowell people. It is a rare thing that people are privileged to journey together for such a long space of time.

CARD FROM GRAVES

The News is in receipt of a card from Grady Graves, Crowell High School coach, stating that he is planning to attend a coaching school that is to be given for two weeks by Matty Bell and assistants of Texas A. & M.

He stated in his message that he and Mrs. Graves had spent the weekend visiting in Houston and Galveston and that they would remain in A. & M. for the last half of the summer.

Pupils in big rural schools made better arithmetic scores than children in one-teacher schools, in a recent series of tests in a number of states.

SPLINTERS

In the great earthquake of Japan, buildings made of wood stood up while others fell. In the Florida hurricane the well constructed frame buildings were the least affected by the wind. Build well of lumber.

We know a lot of folks in this community who think of Cicero Smith Lbr. Co., whenever they think of building materials and we are glad that they do.

COURT HOUSE PAINTED

The painting of all outside wood and metal work of the court house was completed this week. In painting the metal work around the court house, near the top, it was necessary to lower a scaffold by block and tackle for the painters to stand upon while doing their work. The upper part of the dome was painted also. H. D. Nelson had the contract for the work.

PLAY CARDS IN CHURCH

San Antonio, Tex., June 24 (UP)—"I'll take two" and "I'll pass" were the words floating from the pulpit of an old church on West Travis near North Santa Rosa Avenue, when station officer Bert Long stepped through the front door.

Six boys playing cards on the pulpit scooped up the "stakes" and fled through a side window as the officer entered the front door. They fled into the arms of Patrolman R. L. Parks, who was stationed outside in anticipation of such a move.

Five of the boys were lodged in the city jail and one in the county jail after they were taken to the police station. "Gaming with cards" was the charge with which they were booked.
