Revenues Pinch City Budget

by Wes Burnett

The Post City Council reviewed, studied, discussed and struggled over the fiscal year 1987 budget during a work session Monday night, finally turning off the lights at city hall at 12:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Working with a projected drop in revenues from oil and sales tax rebates, the council scrutinized the budget worksheets from top to bottom, suggesting spending cuts as well as adjustments in fees and water rates.

A major change proposed by the council would be to raise sanitation fees so that the service would be self supporting. The new fees would be increased for residential customers from $4.25 to $5.30 per month, commercial from $12.75 to $16 and similar increases for industrial as well as residential and commercial users outside of the city limits.

City manager Bill Pool told the council that the appraisal district has listed the uncertified appraised value for tax purposes at $99,906,622.

The council did not get into a tax rate increase during the session, opting to look at raising revenue from other sources as well as trimming the expenses.

The projected loss in revenue from the oil occupation tax is listed as $64,000 and loss in oil royalties to the city is expected to be down from $60,000 this year to $36,000.

An extensive discussion was held concerning water rates, but no decisions were made.

Council members agreed that the water rates have historically been too low, and that the water department would have to "pay its own way."

"For too many years we have relied on oil revenue to offset the costs of our services, including water," council member Larry Mills emphasized, "and now we're just going to have to pay the price."

In previous years water and sewer service have been subsidized by the general revenue fund by as much as 50 percent.

The council directed Pool to prepare a variety of water rate schedules for its review at the next meeting.

Pool told the council that the working budget was prepared with a 40 percent decline in sales tax rebate estimated.

He based the estimate on the recent sales tax rebate trend.

The budget includes a proposed 3.5 percent increase in pay for city employees.

Other spending categories are either projected flat, decreased or slight increases.

The council decided to raise the motel occupancy tax rate to the state allowable seven percent, after hearing from an interested group of citizens attending the meeting.

The motel occupancy tax revenue may only be used to promote tourism.

The discussion on water prompted council member Maxine Earl to repeat her call for a revenue bond to repair and replace water mains and "get our water distribution problems taken care of at one time."

She also called for the developing of a master plan for the city "so we won't be always working on a crisis response basis."

The citizen group at the meeting was assured by Mayor Giles McCrary and the council that funding for the Texas Main Street Project would be included in the budget.

The council voted June 9 to officially support the Texas Main Street Project application with funding for a project manager.

July 4th Winners Named

"Citizen input to this budget work session is most appreciated," the Mayor told the group, "this is a tough job we're in to, and we need your counsel as to how to provide the services the people expect, with declining revenues."

Attending the meeting were council members Earl, Charles Wallace, Larry Waldrip, Larry Mills and Mayor McCrary; city manager Pool and city secretary Wanda Wilkerson.

The High School tennis courts with Kay Lamb and Shirley Storie winning the Women's Doubles, James Easterling and Scott Lewis gaining the Men's Doubles title, and Easterling and Pam Baker teamed up for the Mixed Doubles title.

Letters to the Editor

Regarding Mr Skinner's letter of July 2, I really do not understand who has been "had."

The citizens of Lubbock have voted to fund the Justiceburg project and the Post Lake, to take care of their water needs into the 21st century.

The citizens of Post and the surrounding area will certainly be able to enjoy many benefits from these lakes.

Having three lakes within 45 minutes of Post will afford many recreational benefits to all.

Being in the catering business, I know how a lake such as White River, attracts many people and organizations for fishing, skiing, swimming, reunions and so on.

These people do have an economic impact on several different kinds of businesses.

With a 20 percent drop in sales tax revenue for May, Post needs that boost that lakes will give us.

I just can't see how Mr Skinner can state that the local folks would get absolutely nothing from these projects.

A few words about Chambers of Commerce.

The Post Chamber of Commerce very simply is a representation of the citizens of Post; private citizens and business people striving to make Post a better place to live.

These people are volunteers, they work very hard and no one should suspect that they have any motives other than being proud of where they live.

Just simply consider the outstanding 4th of July celebration we just had in our town.

The sponsor...Post Chamber of Commerce.

If we are to grow, and we must if we are to survive, we have to work together to take advantage of all the economic opportunities available to us...including the tremendous impact the Post and Justiceburg lakes will have.

No, Mr Skinner, you are wrong...no one "has been had," we're just all eager to get on with helping our town be a vibrant, dynamic and prosperous place to live.

Sincerely,
Don Glidewell

Hey, fellow merchants, it is great to have the opportunity to work with a group that hangs together!

A HOUSE DIVIDED CANNOT STAND.

Post is indeed fortunate to have such fantastically progressive city and county governments. Our times prove that we are in great need of such far sighted leaders.

We are trouble-shooters for them on the Main Street Project and must pick the bugs out of retailing.

So, come on...we can take the flack!!

This project will create inevitable changes that are imminent to keep even with the times and give job potential to Post citizens.

A trip to market showed me how much the retail field has changed.

When wholesale firms drop lines that they have sold for 40 years it is time for us to reassess our own retail section.

The facade of ones building shows the character of its business.

Shop windows are a promotional invitation to enter each individual place of business for the purpose of browsing or buying.

So - until the Main Street Project gets into full swing let's dust the proverbial cobwebs out of our brains, pull together for improvement and give downtown Post a jolt!

Why a Texas Main Street Project?

In most of our smaller Texas cities downtowns are in a serious state of decline. The automobile, suburban housing and the growth of local and regional shopping centers and malls have greatly reduced the traditional role of the small town as the principal center of economic activity.

Post is a prime example of this trend. Sales tax rebates are declining and something has to be done to stop the deterioration.

Many government programs, such as urban renewal and various city beautification programs, have failed to halt the decline.

In the last five years, a new philosophy for revitalizing central business districts has evolved. The concept is simple: rehabilitate existing structures, capitalize on the unique character of the buildings, and couple that with developing progressive marketing and management techniques.

Preservation and rehabilitation of the historic commercial buildings in the central business district provide the necessary image for the downtown area and serve as a unifying factor to encourage area merchants and building owners to reinvest in the downtown.

While this historic image can establish the tone for the revitalization effort, a commitment to a full time project manager and utilizing progressive marketing and management techniques are critical elements in the Texas Main Street concept.

The Texas Main Street Project of the Texas Historical Commission works to bring this proven downtown revitalization approach to towns across the state. Each year the project accepts applications for official designation to the program from cities with populations under 50,000.

Five cities are selected annually. The Post Chamber of Commerce and Post Merchants' Association, through the Main Street Committee, is committed to securing official designation this year. The application will be submitted in August.

The selected cities are required to fund for three years a full time project manager, who is employed by the city and reports to the city manager. In turn, the Texas Main Street Project is pledged to work with each of these communities for three years, providing start-up assistance and developing more local initiative and expertise in the second and third years.

Training and supervision of the local project manager is provided, along with professional assistance and supervision in design, restoration, marketing, display, parking and other areas where the community does not have local expertise.

The Historical Commission has developed a cooperative effort with 12 other state agencies to work with the Main Street cities. The Texas Tourist Development Commission, the Governor's Budget and Planning Office and the Texas Department of Community Affairs play ongoing and vital parts in the training of the project managers and in providing technical assistance to the cities.

In the first four years of the Texas Main Street Project, more than $74 million in private money was reinvested in the downtowns of the official and self-initiated Main Street cities, none of this money was from tax revenue.

The strictly private reinvestment in the central business districts also saw 721 new businesses coming to these cities' downtowns.

These figures indicate that the Main Street concept of economic development within the context of historic preservation works.

It is the aim of the Texas Main Street Project to have many Texas towns follow the successful model in the Main Street network and take a renewed interest in the revitalization of their downtowns.

Mrs Danny Gunn

Tatum, Gunn Wed

Miss Melinda Loyce Tatum and Mr Danny Keith Gunn were united in marriage Saturday, July 12, 1986, at 7:00 p.m. in the Post Church of Christ.

Officiating the ceremony was minister Paul D. Jones. Mr and Mrs Don Tatum, parents of the bride, and Mr and Mrs Clarence Gunn, parents of the groom, reside in Post.

Honored grandparents in attendance were Mr and Mrs Ira Farmer and Mr and Mrs Bernie Jones.

Both sisters of the bride served as honorary attendants with Melissa Tatum of Lubbock as maid of honor and Mendy Tatum Dalby of Post as matron of honor.

The best men for the groom were Shelby Brake of Slaton and Lance Bownds of Lubbock.

The bride chose a formal gown of white silk organza and a high Victorian collar which was accented with seed pearls and embroidery.

Rows of ruffles accented the satin bodice with embroidered flowers and pearls in the front and back.

Covered buttons and ruffles garnished the back of the bride's dress.

The long sleeves were embroidered with flowers. The full skirt was also accented with motifs of silk, embroidered flowers and leaves with two tiers of ruffles from the waist holding a cathedral train, appliqued with delicate European lace.

The bride chose a chapel length headpiece consisting of a band of flowers, tear drops of pearls and sequins.

The bridal bouquet, fashioned of silk, consisted of catalia orchids, accented with cascading sweetheart roses in the bride's chosen colors of magenta and white.

Stephonitis highlighted the bouquet flanked with backing of English ivy and prayer leaves.

The bridesmaids carried smaller replicas of the bridal bouquet.

Darlene Speck, Nita Jo Heckaman, both sisters of the groom, and Donna Aten, cousin of the bride, also served as bridesmaids.

The bridesmaids wore full-length taffeta dresses. The dresses were fashioned with puffed sleeves, round neckline and a sash at the waist in the bridal color of magenta.

Monica Schooler served as a junior bridesmaid with Erica Schooler and Jennifer Josey serving as flower girls.

The three girls wore matching gowns of lavender accented with magenta.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with a matching cummerbund and bow tie.

Other groomsmen included Bobby Heckaman, Gary Speck and Bud Jones.

The groomsmen were adorned in matching black tuxedos with lavender cummerbunds and bow ties.

Jeremy Josey, the ring bearer, wore a tuxedo matching the groom's.

Ushers for the occasion were Rex Cash, Brian Compton and Pat Mitchell.

Michelle Mason registered guests for the couple.

Jan Carnes, Larisa Shiver, Penny Redman, Gena Lott, Mitzi Brown and Keila Cruce served at the reception held in the fellowship hall of the church building.

Aunts and cousins of the bride served in the house party for the reception. The couple are both 1979 graduates of Post High School.

Melinda, a graduate of Lubbock Christian College, currently teaches for the Post Independent School District.

Danny graduated from San Angelo State University and is working for George R. Brown in Post.

The bride and groom plan a honeymoon cruise to the Bahamas.

Upon their return, they will reside in Post.

We worked hard to keep electricity costs down . . .

and, WE DID IT!

In the last three years, while national electric costs went up 12.7%, we held the line. Most SPS residential customers pay about the same for electricity as they did in 1983 . . . some even less.

At SPS, we will continue to do everything we can to keep the cost of electricity
 as low as possible.
