Million $ Rains Hit Area

A great million dollar rain Saturday night and Sunday night totaled three and a half inches in Big O with measurements running to four and five inches. It was the best general rain in August in the Baldies since late in 1941. Only Newnoore and Wells received rain in fractions of an inch. The cotton was generally in good condition and the harvest should be about normal.

Rural Accident Report Made

The Highway Patrol investigated five rural traffic accidents in Lynn county during the month of July, according to Sergeant A. E. Roberts, Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for one person injured and an estimated property damage of $2,650.00.

The rural traffic accident summary in Lynn county for the first seven months of 1965 shows a total of 34 crashes resulting in two persons killed, 15 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $15,943.00.

"School days" are almost here again. Many of the schools in this area will be starting their classes before Labor Day. Many drivers have become accustomed to ignoring school zones and signs during the summer months with the thought, "Why bother, school's out anyway." But now the time is rapidly approaching to start paying close attention to signs warning of school zones and school buses.

Many parents will attempt to make the Labor Day weekend their final vacation outing. The Sergeant stated, "Don't let this final outing be fatal." Thirty-nine lives were lost in traffic over the Labor Day week-end in 1964.

New Hunting And Fishing Licenses Due September 1

Austin—One and one-half million "passports to paradise"—that is hunting and fishing licenses—have been put in the mail for distribution to Texas sportsmen.

J. Weldon Watson, executive director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said that a custom first installed last year has been pursued "with substantial refinements."

This, he said, means that the licenses were mailed a full three weeks before the September 1 beginning of the new state fiscal year.

"It is now up to the mails and then to the 2,500 licensed dealers to serve the sportsmen in adequate time and to avoid delays that occurred in the past," said Watson.

The overall consignment included 775,000 fishing licenses and 736,000 hunting licenses. The present year licenses will be invalid September 1 when the new licenses become effective.

The fishing licenses cost $2.15 to both residents and non-residents. Resident hunting licenses cost $3.15. There is a special $5

The O'Donnell Eagle football squad reported for their first workout of the season Monday, Aug. 16. The 40 men that comprise the varsity squad are relatively inexperienced with eight returning lettermen. Although larger in weight this year than last, the team is small and inexperienced, according to Head Football Coach Malcolm Kennedy. Kennedy added, smiling, "The boys have a lot of enthusiasm and are in good shape."

Kennedy will use an overbalanced line, a formation that is new to the team. Changes in the positions of many of the experienced squadmen have been made with four of the eight returning lettermen in new positions.

Effective Saturday, July 24 the following Lynn County offices will be closed all day on Saturdays:

- County Clerk

- County Treasurer
- County Judge
- County Attorney
- County School Supt.
- Justice of Peace

(Altho the Attorney General has ruled that the Commissioners' Court has no jurisdiction or authority in this type of situation, the decision of the above officials was discussed with the Court and the Court had no objection to the plan.

The primary reason for the decision to close on Saturday was the lack of people coming to the Courthouse on Saturdays for business. Also this will save the county heating, cooling and lighting for a day little used.

What Shall We Do...

(Cont. from Page 1) The farmer would have to reduce the planting of his allotment by fifteen per cent to be included in the program at all.

How much money will Congress appropriate to make a direct payment to an individual cotton farmer? Under the present law supports are handled by the complicated Complicated Credit Corporation loan process, and the direct subsidy to the individual farmer isn't readily apparent. Yet it can be determined.

As Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, I have a special responsibility, and I am of the opinion that within a couple of years it will be most difficult to prevent a limitation being added to the Agricultural Appropriation bill limiting the amount of subsidy payment to any one producer. We already have the problem with us and this proposed program would make the problem more difficult to handle.

The reactions which I am getting from farmers and farm organizations at home are many and varied. To some farmers the bill is good; to others it is bad. The majority of those contacting me are skeptical about the cotton section or are against it. But most seem to grasp the seriousness of the situation and the urgent need for an improved program to reduce the mounting cotton surplus.

The Plains Cotton Growers organization is usually considered a pretty good barometer of cotton farmer sentiment. Last year the organization finally supported the enactment of the present law. It has thus far withheld support of the pending bill. Caution and concern are understandable since the facts are so complex, the future unpredictable and the matter of such vital importance to the economic well being of all our people.

The proposed bill would certainly reduce the amount of cotton moving into the loan. How much it would stimulate export trade is difficult to calculate but it would help.

The United States is producing about thirty per cent of the world crop of cotton. We have been exporting cotton at near world prices for years, but have had poor success with the export sales program in recent years.

If we cut the loan slightly below the world price, will we sell large additional cotton stocks and will foreign producers, who are now holding their cotton, sell the American offering below the American offering? Would the twenty-one cent just mean less price for the world-wide?

We are already selling one-inch U. S. cotton about twenty-four cents. It certainly dampen plans for cotton expansion abroad, but foreign growers continue to our price and sell slightly below it. Nobody can prove what the effect of this question is.

Congress will have to pass it adjourns some type of measure to cover most major crops of the present laws expire next year.

If the omnibus farm bill featured in the House this week, the Committee on Agriculture will have to back-up and try some new bill. As difficult as the situation is, it is not correct to say the issue is the pending nothing.

With respect to cotton, the present proposal is defeated, continuation of the present law and amendment calculated to open a great improvement in the situation would no doubt be among the approaches considered.

If the present law expires nothing is done, cotton would revert back to the law of 1950 that is not an acceptable solution. It would be up to Congress to devise some kind of alternative present program which is proceeding in moving sufficient ton into export.

At the moment it is just possible to predict what this Congress will do about cotton. I believe something will and must be done in dimensions of the final legislation are not yet apparent.

During this month the Senate will once again consider ways to provide funds and assistance for education. Our own state, through actions of our legislation and our educational officials, continues to make good progress in improving educational facilities. I hope the Federal Government can contribute also.

However, I feel that it is unwise for the Federal Government to operate massively in aid to education, this being a matter best supervised at the local and state levels. And, I feel that if federal tax funds are distributed in support of education then they should be distributed to all Americans regardless of race, color, creed, religion, or national origin.

I am a former college professor, and I have for years supported granting of an income tax credit for education expenses on all levels—college, high school, and elementary school. I regard this system of leaving money in the hands of the individual to be the most satisfactory way around the church-and-state dilemma. With the money left to them, taxpayers can support whatever schools they want to support.

The tax-credit approach for education assistance preserves local and state control and supervision of education. The taxpayer's money never leaves his control; it never is spent in Washington and then only partially sent back. Thus, there are no federal strings attached; no control strings, and no strings that can tangle in the constitutional briar patch surrounding private and religious-backed schools.

This approach offers a constitutional and effective way of channeling greatly increased new funds into education facilities. It would help preserve the diversity and flexibilities of the American schooling system, a diversity of vital importance in maintenance of the freedoms so cherished in our national life.

of the State Department of Health. In fact, they are rising in a number of areas of the state.

In a typical month last year, over 560 infant deaths were reported in Texas.

While infant mortality rates declined in the nation as a whole between 1950-1960, they rose in 7 of 10 of the nation's largest cities. Two of these major cities are in Texas. Rates also have risen recently in other Texas cities.

There are many causes for the rise in infant deaths, says Patsy Reynolds, Texas A&M University Extension specialist in family life education. "These causes boil down to a major factor which is lack of good prenatal care for the expectant mother."

This is especially true for the very young mother or the mother in moderate-to-low-income levels. "We must teach all mothers—and especially the teenage girl—how necessary this care is to the health and even the very life of their babies," says Miss Reynolds. We can't afford this loss of valuable human life, she emphasized.

MAKE SWINE YOUR CHOICE

(By Kent and Billy Jack Wood)

The 4-H Swine program is well suited to the boy or girl looking for a project in which he can demonstrate his skills and knowledge. We find many persons ready to help. Our parents, 4-H leader, county extension agent, fellow club members and local business men give us encouragement. To be successful you must show a keen interest in your animals and seek ways of improving your work.

Among the first things you may do in the swine program is to choose a breed. Then you will select animals which will give you the best results, the highest prices, and with good management, the highest quality pork. You will learn to identify the types, breeds and grades of hogs; swine breeding, feeding and management. The records you keep will give a clear picture of your management successes. Judging, exhibiting and demonstrations will add interesting, new experiences. Working with swine breeders and feeders, extension agents and specialists will be enjoyable and educational.

WHAT SHALL WE DO ABOUT COTTON?

By George Mahon
To the cotton farmers and business people whose economic welfare depends on cotton, I might say as the week of August 15 begins, "Hold your hat! Here we go." The long-awaited and much debated omnibus farm bill, which contains across-the-board legislation for many crops, including cotton, is scheduled for debate in the House beginning Tuesday noon.

With respect to cotton, neither farmers nor legislators can predict what the effect of the passage of the cotton section would be. I am deeply worried about what to do. The economy of the 19th Congressional District is largely dependent on cotton.

Shall we embrace the low loan and direct payment route which the bill prescribes? The loan on mid-dling one-inch cotton would be twenty-one cents per pound for 1966. This would mean about eighteen cents for West Texas and Plains type cotton. The direct subsidy payment to the farmer under the bill, if he reduces the planting of his allotment by thirty-five percent as many would be expected to do, would be the equivalent of about fourteen and one-half cents per pound, seventy-two dollars per bale.
