Barnes Announces For Commissioner Of Precinct Three

To The Voters of Precinct Three, Lynn County:
I wish to take this opportunity of announcing my candidacy for Commissioner of Precinct Three. For those I am not acquainted with, I have been a resident of Precinct 3 for 23 years.
In announcing for this important county office I wish to stress the point that in every important decision effecting the welfare of the precinct, I will endeavor to determine how the people of my precinct feel about the issue. I will try, if elected, to administer the precinct's business in a fair and business-like manner showing no unfair favors to any individuals. In the event of the announcement of a qualified veteran for the above office, I pledge to withdraw from the race.
Thanking you for your consideration of my candidacy, I will try to see each voter of the precinct before election.

Mesquite News

Thalua Bearden, Reporter
A large number enjoyed the 3-act play presented at the Mesquite school auditorium last Friday night. Among those present were folks from the Harmony, Draw and Berry Flat Communities and from O'Donnell. Each character played his or her part well. We are sure the community appreciates the efforts of the high school and the sponsors put forth in getting up such fine entertainment.
Clifton Harris, 1-c, who is stationed at Corpus Christi, came home for a three day leave last week, however Clifton got to stay only a few hours since traveling conditions were not so good.
Farms of the community are looking very nice, since the farmers seem anxious to get their land listed so it will hold the moisture from the rains which we hope to get.
Jeffrey Ansel Bearden is in bed with the flu. We hope Jeffrey will soon feel better so he can enjoy the attention that a young convalescent usually demands.
Mrs. Albert Lamb has been moved home from the Lamesa hospital and is able to sit up a few hours each day. Her young daughter, Carol Anne, is particularly glad to see her home again. She had been staying with her Grandmother.
We hope to have the Mesquite school news next week including the honor roll.

Methodist Revival Mar. 10

The Revival at the First Methodist Church will be from March 10 to the 24th for fifteen days with two services daily. The hours will be announced later. Dr. James M. Smith, one of the general evangelists of the Methodist church will be the preacher for the revival. He is a great Gospel preacher and a successful Evangelist. He has had much experience in all types of revivals ranging from small churches to large city-wide revivals in which all churches participated. So far as Methodists are concerned, these 15 days will be set aside exclusively for the revival. We cordially invite all the pastors and congregations of the community to cooperate with us and the attendance of everyone will be welcomed. Especially do we invite all the unsaved people to attend these services. There will be various group meetings planned and held during the revival. A large choir led by our own local talent will feature all the services. Everyone who sings are earnestly solicited to be in the choir. Above all, we urge-

Dr. Smith
I earnestly request that every christian pray daily for the Revival. If a genuine, far-reaching Revival ever comes to this community, it will be due to the effectual, fervent prayers of the christian people. No evangelist, however good and qualified he may be, can bring a revival. He can only lead and direct, the results will be in accordance to the following: the people give to his leadership.
You are cordially invited to the services next Sunday, morning and evening. The church school is at 10. There were six additions to the church last Sunday.
Edward H. Crandall, pastor.

Church Of Christ Announce Revival

We are happy to announce that everything is in readiness for our meeting to begin Friday nite, March 1st. The evangelist will be Bro. C. H. Tabor of Lamesa and the song director will be Bro. Elmo Burkett of Tahoka. Services will be each week day at 10:30 and each evening at 7:30. To every individual in town and the surrounding community we extend a cordial invitation. We are interested in you and your soul. We invite your investigation of the lessons that will be given; compare them with the Bible and if you find anything that is contrary to the Scriptures, you will be doing us a great justice by calling our attention to the error that it might be corrected.

It becomes the responsibility of every member of the church to do his best during this meeting. The Lord will expect great things of us. He has given the word and promise to save those that are obedient. Heb. 5:9. May every individual fill his hand to the task and bring many to hear the truth taught as it was taught in the first century. You will be no stranger when you attend this series of meetings.

Tennis Time

This week marks a pause in the tryouts to determine who's who among the O. H. S. tennis sharks. Already three girls and two boys have placed in the ranks as representatives for the Alma Mater at the annual district tennis matches to be held soon. LaMoine Line came out in the lead to claim the title in girls' singles along with Peggy Cummins and Edna Edwards who placed in girls' doubles. These girls will go to the district meet in a few weeks and our guess is strong for O'Donnell to make a good showing here. A confidentially there is liable to be some planning for a trip to Austin before the thing is over.)
As we go to press, all of the boys have not been selected. Joe Harris and Bob Clark have, however, secured their position as representatives in boys' doubles. The winner in boys' singles is yet to be determined.
Starting Wednesday of this week Supt. Johnson began to lay definite plans for another all school tournament in tennis. This will mean that anyone who will be eligible for scholastic tennis honors for next year will be eligible to pit his skill against a similar opponent for tennis letter honors. The winners, in both boys and girls' doubles and singles will be selected and presented with the coveted "O" letter award given by the school.
J. D. Fairly of Pecos was in O'Donnell Friday on business.
Mrs. G. T. Childress and son, Charles Wayne of Pale Center visited from here Friday. The Childress family formerly lived here.
Mrs. Ernest Goad and children, Sam and Martha spent the week end visiting at Plains and Denver City.

JUNIOR PLAY IS A BIG SUCCESS

Last Friday night local playgoers had the opportunity to attend another of our highly entertaining high school plays. The Junior Class presented "Grand Old Darling" to a packed house. There have been many favorable comments which were well deserved. The cast was composed of Durwood Seeley, Dan Turner, Welton Tilley, William Shoemaker, Wymia Gilliam, Bonnie Nelson, Edna Edwards and Artie Lee Sumrow, Odette Saleh, Charles Shumake, Geno Jones, Carroll Jones, Zane Harris, Tol Schooler and James Farmer were in charge of the stage and Dorothy Ritchey, Doris Gantt, Trudy Melton and Ouida Isaacs were in charge of the costumes. Eva John Etter was in charge of publicity and J. W. Roach was the director.

The highlight of the evening was when the audience gave a ringing applause to William Shoemaker who was appearing in his regular role in spite of the fact that he had suffered a painful accident the afternoon before in which he cut the tendons of his right hand. A Lamesa doctor performed an operation late Thursday which is believed to have restored William's hand to normal.

Town Hall Meet Friday Nite

Because of the requests of several business men, the Index has taken the lead in sponsoring a meeting of interested business men Friday nite, March 1st, at 7:45 at the Legion hall. At this time the group will discuss the advisability of organizing an informal group for the purpose of determining the policy of the business firms in connection with commercial plans and development.

The group, as we now think of it, will in no manner be a Chamber of Commerce, with no assessments or features of a like nature until event later warrant such a policy.
O'Donnell is at the crossroad in her future. In a small manner we hold our development in our hands. We can develop along planned lines or grow as unplanned policies would warrant. Because such is true, the very best brains of our business leaders is surely needed.
Important events will be forthcoming where our future may be forever decided. Strong out side pressure is working on us and our face, across the table, and discuss the subject nearest to us all -- our little town. All new business men, employees and the older established firms are invited and urged to be there. FRIDAY NITE, 7.45. Either Mr. Waggoner or Bro. Crandall will serve as acting chairman.

Cpl. Wilbur Line arrived home Saturday from Japan after four years service in the Army during which time he was stationed in the Pacific area.

Rev. and Mrs. Calhoun young child is recovering from an attack of diphtheria.

Harvey Gardenhire received an income tax exemption in the person of a cute black curly-headed baby son born last Wednesday nite at Lamesa. Charles Hervey weighed in at 7 pounds 6 oz. Mother and baby returned home Monday. Congratulations, folks.

J. J. Podnett and wife and Miss Florence Carpenter, while returning home from a visit to their farm in Mitchell Co., had a blow out causing the car to overturn. All three escaped with only bruises and returned home on the bus.

ROPING SHOW IN MARCH

The O'Donnell Calf Ropers Club requested the Index to express their genuine thanks to the business men of O'Donnell for the approximately $1,000 contributed by them. The club purchased 20 wild Brahma steers and they arrived Tuesday. The group plans a matched show here probably for Sunday, March 17th. The Scouts will have the soft drink stand at the park grounds.

Pert, Pretty Pinafores May Be Remodelled from Old Shirts

By Erlta Haley

OUR little boys have always worn make-overs from Daddy's shirts, but have you ever thought of using these shirts for dressing up daughter? The beautiful fabrics and interesting weaves of men's shirts make excellent material for sprightly little pinafores and blouses.

Most of you mothers know the high cost of those frilly blouses for sister to wear with her jumpers. Or you know how quickly she grows out of pinafores. Yet the cost of converting Dad's old shirt into one of these items is frequently only the price of a spool or two of thread to match.

If the shirts are worn or torn around the armholes, this need be no problem in making the pinafore, because this material is not necessary. Only the back and front of the shirt need be in good condition. Worn sleeves will not spoil the plans at hand.

Cutting the Pinafore.

The back of the shirt is used for the front part of the pinafore, as this takes the greatest amount of solid material. Since the pinafore is open in the back, the front part of the shirt may be used for that. To get the most material from a shirt, wash it carefully, then press and rip, being careful not to tear any of the fabric.

If You Have a Man's Shirt...

If the sleeves are in fairly usable condition, cut tie-strings from them, and perhaps a ruffle to substitute for sleeves and a pocket or two. A belt is desirable, too, and there should be a big, perky bow in the back to make the pinafore look crisp and dainty. If, however, the material is short, use a slim belt that ties in the front.

Trimming Is Important.

One of the little touches that makes a pinafore fit, very often, the trimming. This may be as simple as ric rac around the sleeves or pockets, or a thin edging of lace around the neckline or bow.

The delicate shirt fabrics are best for the frilly, dressy pinafores. White shirts can be made gay with red touches of trimming, or navy blue or

Playtime Togs

A casual dress that is ideal for sports or casual outings is this one made of raw silk. Its new features are the cap sleeves, slash pockets and leather-lined belt. Rounded shoulders give freedom of movement.

Fashion Notes

If you are making a dark suit with a plaid trim, it's smart to have three-quarter dolman sleeves, cuffed in the plaid trim used for the rest of the ensemble.

Cap stole suits are popular in the checked fabrics for spring. A new note is added by pleating the jacket softly, and making the belt stand out by putting a silver buckle on it.

Interesting effects with scarves are popular. They may be worn just as a scarf, or planned as part of the dress, sleeves or skirt.

Plaid gingham are going old-fashioned with bustle and backdrop treatments for afternoon and evening wear. Dust ruffles, big bow sashes and deep-rounded necklines from picturesque bygone days are back in fashion again.

Make a Pretty Pinafore.

gray can be brightened with green, red or white.

For the more sturdy pinafores, use a minimum of trimming and depend upon tailoring and detail to put the pinafore across. A feather stitch around the pockets may be all that you will need, provided this is in an attractive, contrasting color thread.

Making a Blouse.

If your daughter is a little too tall for a pinafore made from Daddy's shirt, try a blouse. Blouses can be made short for the youngsters and there will be ample material in the shirt for such a project.

As in the case of the pinafore, the back of the shirt is used for the front, if the blouse is buttoned all the way down the back.

If, however, you are making a shirtwaist style, use the back of the shirt for the blouse and the two front pieces of the shirt cut down to make the front. Very often the tiny buttons on the shirt will go very well with the blouse.

The sleeves of the shirt will provide ample material for a little round collar and puffed sleeves. These may be trimmed with lace or crocheting, or even bright-colored piping.

Whenever you are working with this type of remodeling, it's best to keep ironing board and iron handy. Seams should be pressed often to make them easier to stitch. Basting takes time, too, but the more exact work resulting from it is a gratifying reward. Both of these precautions are essential in making small-sized blouses and pinafores.

Patching Pointers

For tears in children's play clothes, use a double-stitched patch for its durability.

If you have a perfect figure, settle on satin for your best dress. Its shiny surface reflects light in such a way as to point up your best qualities.

The good portions of a worn-out dress may be used to line a wearable jacket, for making a blouse or jerkin, or cutting off the bodice and making a separate skirt.

In darning fabrics with a distinct pattern, study the pattern carefully, and match as closely when darning. This is known as reweaving, and when carefully done, the darn can be almost invisible.

If a skirt is too short to hem, a facing may be placed in it. Stitch the facing, which should be of material fairly similar to the skirt, to the bottom. Press the seam before turning facing to wrong side, and baste. Turn up material and hem to place.

Before you wear a dress even once, protect the underarms from fading or wearing out with a pair of dress shields. Sew or pin them in, and remember, they must be washed frequently. Shields such as these will save cleaner's bills and often prevent the dress from becoming ruined.

A plain, drab dress can often be made wearable and even quite gay by an applique around the shoulder, on the pockets, around the belt or even to the side on the skirt. Choose a simple flower design and trace the outline on contrasting fabric or cut the design from a scrap of gay print. Or, use old, leftover yarn to embroider a bouquet.

You can completely disguise an unsightly tear or burn by covering it with a decorative patch. These patches are especially suitable for youngster's clothing, sports clothes and casual lingerie. Use an applique made of contrasting colored material from an illustration or a transfer pattern. Be sure that the design is large enough to cover the damaged place. Felt appliques are effective on many rayon fabrics; cotton prints are good against cotton; and silks may be used for silk or woolen material. Hem close to the edge, using a fine needle and matching thread.

Kathleen Norris Says:

You Can't Get Back What You Never Had

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"Clay is safe from trouble; he will have—or has had—no difficulty in explaining to his wife that one of the office girls is cracked about him."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

LOVE does not last; not all by itself. Love all by itself is like a bottle of pure, rich milk. Leave it alone for a few days and what have you? A bottle half-filled with sour curds, and half of evil-smelling water.

But mix milk with flour, yeast, butter, salt, and you have the fine bread that is indispensable to the growing bodies of boys and girls.

Unless you mix love with service, companionship, mutual interests, mutual ambitions, honor, honesty and common sense, you have the bitterest draught in life to drink. It won't stand alone, no matter how deliciously exciting and satisfying it is in the beginning.

Nothing is so hard on a woman as the grand passion that peters out into loneliness, bewilderment, shame, crushed pride and vanished illusion. Especially if that grand passion is illicit, and it usually is. The sweeping, breath-taking, absorbing, dizzying type of loving rarely comes into your life by the pleasant, well-worn trail of friendship, engagement, marriage. There again a great many elements enter to stabilize matters.

Getting clothes, kitchen showers, house-hunting, acknowledging presents, calling on Jim's people, making arrangements for bridesmaids, church, music, reception—all these things are delightful in themselves, and they help make a girl feel that she really is getting married. But they don't go hand-in-hand with the mad sweetness, the agony and joy, of love completely unsupported by material, everyday, practical commonsense.

Loves Her Boss.

Take Evelyn Peters' affair, for example. Evelyn is an office worker of 28; she writes me that she has loved Clay for seven years. Clay is 40; he is her office boss.

"How shall I know if he no longer cares?" writes Evelyn.

"There is no question of this being the real thing, for it has survived every possible difficulty and handicap. In the first place, Clay is married, and although he no longer loves—or even likes his wife, they have a daughter of 12 whom he adores.

"Four years ago Clay went to officers' camp, emerging a captain; I was intensely proud of him, even though the long separation was hard on us both.

"Up to this time I had held our friendship to strictly platonic lines, but the pressure of war tragedies and partings made me feel I could refuse him nothing, and during the first war year, when he was in various American camps, we managed to meet very often. Far from being ashamed of having surrendered, I was proud of his love. When he finally sailed for South Seas duty it was with the implicit promise that when he returned he would make our relationship legitimate.

"He has now been home seven weeks, and I count the days in growing uneasiness. I don't doubt his love, but what is keeping us apart? It may be that he is going to surprise me by arriving suddenly to announce his freedom, but so far I have had only one unsatisfactory telephone call, which terminated with his casual promise 'see you soon' but on that occasion his wife may have been within hearing. During the war I took a much

STRIVE TO FORGET

Evelyn is in love with her boss. She is 28; he is 40. The trouble is, he is already married. He has lost all affection for his wife, but he continues in the marital relationship because of his 12-year-old daughter.

This affair has been going along for several years. It has survived a long separation, while Clay was serving as an army officer. Now he has returned, and the time has come for him to make good on his promise. Clay told Evelyn when he left that he "would make their relationship legitimate." Now he has been back for two months, and has called only once. He spoke vaguely of "seeing her soon."

Evelyn is worried. She doesn't know what to do. This is "the real thing," she insists. "Without this prospect (marriage with Clay) life would be insupportable to me." Should she tell his wife about the situation? Evelyn is desperately looking for a solution.

Miss Norris points out that Clay probably has changed his mind, if he ever intended to obtain a divorce so as to marry Evelyn. He very possibly has met another woman who interests him now more than Evelyn does. There is no sensible course, says Miss Norris, but to forget him.

finer position in a nearby town, which I still hold. This, of course, makes me less accessible.

"Mutual Trust."

"Our affair was by no means trivial. It was entered upon with a deep sense of mutual trust. But it was not supported, naturally, by any recognition from my family or his, or our friends, nor any normal opportunity for meeting; it was only when he could get away for brief leave, often then to discover that between his family's claims and mine we had but a few stolen hours together. Now I want it openly admitted: I want to take my place beside him; without this prospect, life would be insupportable to me.

"Shall I call on him in his office, write requesting a talk, or go see his wife—who is six years older than he—and tell her frankly how matters are? That he is as wretched as I am under this arrangement I am as sure as I am of my own feeling."

You mean "as you wish you were of your own feeling, Evelyn." You know very well, in your heart, that this affair is cold—cold as the Iceland snows. Clay is safe from trouble; he will have—or has had—no difficulty in explaining to his elderly wife that one of the office girls is cracked about him. I would bet even money, although far from a betting woman, that there is another woman—not in the wife's place, but in yours. He and his wife may have had their upset times, but she will prove a fine buffer between him and any disturbance you can create.

There is only one piece of advice for you. It is contained in two forceful words. "Forget it."

Gelatin Stiffens Rayon

When rayon dresses become limp from washing they may be given a lift by dipping in a gelatin and water solution. Two tablespoons should be enough. Soak the gelatin a few minutes in a little cold water, then dissolve with boiling water. Pour the solution in a bowl large enough to hold the dress and add cold water. After the dress is washed and rinsed, dip in the gelatin solution and squeeze gently. Then roll the dress in a thick towel until dry enough to iron.

Household Hints

If salt fish are soaked and cooked in milk they become much sweeter than when soaked in water.

Shoes that are stiff after being worn in the rain will become quite pliable if vaseline is well rubbed in with a soft rag.

Clean the underside of rugs frequently, for dirt works through, and insects are likely to hide underneath.

Paint wooden knitting needles and crochet hooks with a coat of colorless nail polish the minute they begin to get rough or scratchy. Smooths them off. Make sure polish is thoroughly dry and hard before putting needles to use again.

Should the loud ticking of a clock in the sick room bother the patient, place a glass bowl over the timepiece.

Cat-stitch seams on baby's sleeping garments and underwear to hold them flat. Helps prevent needless irritation to his sensitive skin.

A little salt in the bottom of the skillet will keep the fat from popping.

For cleaning tiles in the bathroom and kitchen, use a soft cloth moistened with kerosene.

Screw a hook into the end of your broom handle. You'll find it handy for reaching objects on high shelves, also the window shade pull that springs to the top. And naturally you hang the broom up by its hook in order to preserve the bristles.

We're Investing $8,000,000 to provide more and better Electric Service for West Texas

We're proud of West Texas' past growth and steady development and solidly sold on its future. That's why we're convinced that an additional $8,000,000 investment in new and modern equipment to improve and extend electric service facilities for this area is sound business.

Our policy is to look ahead—to see that there is always an ample, dependable supply of electricity for West Texas industries, stores, offices and homes—to do whatever is necessary to maintain and encourage prosperity in the territory we serve.

It was such a policy of planning and building ahead that enabled this Company and other privately-owned, business-managed electric utilities in the State and nation to serve the tremendous war loads when they came on, without stint, delay, rationing or any increase in price.

Looking ahead at the expected increased demands for electric power from industrial development in this part of Texas and planning to provide ample electric service to operate new electrical equipment soon to be available for homes has encouraged us to set a two-year construction budget of $8,000,000.

Every penny of this money has been earmarked for some specific addition to or improvement in our electric generating facilities, transmission and distribution system, farm electric service and oil field electric power supply.

It is our peace-time hope and promise that the ever-expanding business and home life of the people we serve will find good electric service always available at the least possible cost.

Proposes Rural Social Security Minus Red Tape

Simple Stamp Plan Evolved to Record Modest Beneficiary Payments and Avoid Complicated Bookkeeping Duties.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

There are 7,148,422 specimens of wildlife in the United States—not recently vindicated Esquire magazine...

Prof. Murray R. Benedict of the University of California has been doing some counting too in the wide open spaces...

Professor Benedict doesn't suggest a Bill of Rights for the farmer, but in a pamphlet entitled "A Retirement System for Farmers"...

The farmer earning no more than $750 from the sale of products would be listed as a self-employed worker making an assumed net income of $400...

Farmers who earn $750 or more can follow the same procedure. They are given a standard deduction based on how much they earn...

But some farmers may insist that their expenses exceed the deduction allowed them. That's okay with Mr. Benedict...

Farm Hands Also Covered

All this applies to farm-owners. But perhaps the farm owner, Jake Duncan, has a helper, Tom. Tom is a farm wage-worker...

Here again, Mr. Benedict wants to save Jake, the employer, from long nights spent at the roltop desk pouring over social security records...

Mr. Benedict doesn't think that nine million farmers and farm-workers can be brought into the social security system overnight...

The idea of including farmers under the social security plan is not a new one. Most of the important farm organizations have okayed the idea...

BARBS... by Baukhage

While the troubles of this world continue, our scientists insist on borrowing more, even if they have to go to the moon to do it...

dorsed it in the last election campaign, the social security board last month broached the subject to congressional attention once again...

Of course, there is opposition to the idea in some quarters. Some persons who oppose including farmers, and other workers not now insured, advance the nation-can't-afford-it argument...

In 1939, the lawmakers threshed this out and came up with a plan to make the fund continuously self-supporting. They decided to make the contributions high enough so that the government would not have to help out...

Other Aid Now Tops Billion

Consider what the government is already handing out to support aged persons not covered by social security. The costs of old-age assistance and aid to dependent children from 1933 to 1944...

Other opponents foresee the farmer bogged down in an avalanche of government questionnaires, financial reports, lists, ledgers and statistics...

Still another argument is advanced by people who predict gloomily that if workers are assured of a regular income from social security after retirement...

Mr. Benedict thinks that argument is as ancient as the reconstructed dodo in the Smithsonian institution. Social security benefits, as set up now, will certainly not buy retiring oldsters any mink coats or Cadillac coupes...

STEEL CARTEL FILES

WASHINGTON.—Dozens of G.I. investigators have been working since the shooting war stopped to help win another war...

What the G.I. investigators have uncovered in Germany is a tribute to Nazi thoroughness and to the gullibility of American big business...

And the names of the same men who have been dickered with Truman over steel—Ben Fairless, Eugene Grace, et al.—have turned up in European files as part of the cartel which unwittingly played into the hands of the Nazis...

The steel cartel files, seized in Luxembourg, reveal that S. M. Bash of Bethlehem Steel and A. G. Mundie of U. S. Steel took the initiative in binding their companies to the cartel...

The steel barons were careful about the Sherman antitrust act, however, and the minutes of the June, 1937, meeting reveal that no written agreement regarding U. S. markets was concluded...

"Our representatives," the Luxembourg files showed, "obtained a very clear declaration of responsibility for the agreements from" Messrs. Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel, Ben Fairless of U. S. Steel, Frank Wysor of Republic Steel, Frank Purnell of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, M. Hackett Jones and Laughlin Steel, Charles Hook of Armco International, William Holloway of Wheeling Steel, Robert Wolcott of Lukens Steel, and Ernest Weir of the National Steel Corporation...

Also included in the American group were Inland Steel, Newport Rolling Mills, Pittsburgh Steel, Otis, and the Allan Wood company.

RACE FOR WAR

What the steel barons agreed to was not only a division of markets but arrangements for price-maintenance. Quotas were set regarding the total production of each participating company, with fines levied against the firm if it exceeded its quota...

However, here is the pay-off. The Germans always exceeded their quotas, after which they politely paid their fines and then kept on speeding their output of steel in the race for war. Meanwhile, American and British firms stayed within their quotas and kept down their war machine...

In contrast with the Germans, American firms, when they exceeded their quotas, were contrite and apologetic. For instance, here is an item from the steel cartel minutes of April 18, 1939, which read:

"In regard to a recent shipment by the American group to Belgium, i.e., a home market, the American representative stated that he was taking this matter up with his group in order to avoid a recurrence."

How the cartel worked is also illustrated by a cable sent by Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel to Sir Charles Wright in London, dated January 12, 1938, which read:

"Glad to have your message and talk with Elliot. I feel sure there will be no question about performance of member companies. Our only difficulty will come from outside and uncontrolled interests. It will be our hope to protect prices and bring all influence possible on uncontrolled interests."

CAPITAL CHAFF

Bob Hannegan will soon launch an all-out drive to get the President's legislation program passed on Capitol Hill. Hannegan's first target will be the minimum wage bill increasing minimum wages to 65 cents an hour...

'RUSSIA OF TODAY' MUST BE READ AS PROPAGANDA

I HAVE NOT MADE A practice of answering criticism or commendations through this column. I do not intend to do that in the future. I am making this one exception because of the number of letters received protesting against my repeated reference to the Russian government as a dictatorship...

I had read it long before that letter was received, but I read it with the full knowledge that "Russia of Today" is propaganda, prepared and circulated for the purpose of selling the communist system to the people of capitalist countries.

"Russia of Today" covers the theory of communism as Lenin visualized it. The dictatorship of Marshal Stalin exemplifies the practice of communism. It is what any nation operating under a one-party system will inevitably become, a totalitarian, which means a one-man, government.

To say that Russia is ruled by a dictator, a one-man government, is not disparaging Marshal Stalin, or condemning such a system—for Russia. If that is what the Russian people want there can be no reason why the American people should oppose such a government for Russia, or attempt to change it.

A one-party political system means a totalitarian government. That is government by one man, a dictator. It is true in Russia. It was true in Germany, Italy and Japan. One-party government precludes any opportunity for opposition; it means a selected membership for that party; it means government from the top rather than coming up from the bottom as the will of the people. Members of that one party think as they are directed. That is the practice of communism in Russia under Marshal Stalin, a one-man boss. He directly or indirectly names the members of the supreme soviet, and they follow his directions. That is a part of the story "Russia of Today" does not tell.

In the World War the Russian armies put up a valiant fight. On the home front the Russian people worked where, at what, for what hours, and at what wages Marshal Stalin directed. They produced to the limit possible under such a system, but free enterprise America provided much of the war equipment, and much of the food needed to make that valiant fight of the Russian armies possible. That despite the fact that Russia has far greater natural resources, and far more people, than has America.

FREE ENTERPRISE PROVEN BY AMERICAN PRODUCTION

Free enterprise made it possible for America to feed and equip her own people and her own armed forces, while fighting a war on two fronts, and also provide much of the food and equipment needed by her allies, including Russia.

One of the things "Russia of Today" does not tell us is the wide difference between the earnings and living conditions of the bosses and the workers in industry; a difference that is far more radical than anything we know in this country. With that are working conditions American labor would not tolerate.

The outside world is not permitted a free access view of conditions in Russia. Those from the outside who, by permission, get into the country are shown and told only what Marshal Stalin wants them to see and to hear. A limited number of American technicians have been employed in Russian industries. I have seen and talked with a few of these on their return. They do not condemn Russia, or its system of dictatorship government, but it is from them I have learned that "Russia of Today" tells only the theory and not the practice of communism. Without exception these technicians prefer the American way.

THEORIES ARE NICE to think about but practical facts are hard to avoid.

FRANCE CONTROLS the Saar and there is coal there for the digging.

THE GLAMOUR of the big city bright lights; unusual things to do, places to go and things to see, would seem to offer inducements to those from the rural places. They do for a few days. Along with such attractions there is an intense loneliness. There soon comes a longing for the simplicity of the country home and the cheery voice of a friend and neighbor with a kindly greeting. To those who have experienced such things they have an enduring value the glamour of the city cannot provide.

That Nagging Backache
 May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—the risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become overtaxed and fail to filter excess and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, fainting, swelling—feet constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

A PEOPLE FINDING A HOMELAND

LESSON TEXT: Joshua 1:1-4, 21-11. MEMORY SELECTION: Thou shalt bless the Lord thy God for the good land which he hath given thee.—Deuteronomy 8:10.

God is the Lord of nations as well as of homes, and he is concerned that those who honor him in their homes have opportunity to serve him in their national life. This was true in a special way with Israel, but it is also true of us today.

Ready to enter the Promised Land, the people had to part with their great leader, Moses, who was not permitted to enter. The time comes when even the mightiest of men fall, but life must go on and new leadership must be found.

I. The Changed Leader (Josh. 1: 1-4).

1. Workers Die—God's Work Goes On (vv. 1, 2).
 God buries his workmen at the end of their day of labor, but God's work goes on. The people had become attached to Moses and had learned to trust his leadership, even though they often murmured. With his death we might have assumed that there would be a letdown, but that was not in God's plan.

The Lord works through men. He gives them abilities and uses them for his glory, often in a way which astonishes them and others. But let them not become proud, for God has someone to take their place when they are gone. They are not indispensable.

2. The Need Is the Same, So Is the Blessing (vv. 3, 4).

The promise given to Moses was still good. God's promises are always good. They are the only really stable thing in a trembling universe. The question is, Are we ready to take him at his word?
 They were to step out by faith. The land was promised to them only as the sole of their foot should tread upon it. Israel never took out the full promise of verse 4. They lacked faith.

God honors those who believe him and who move forward by faith to plant the foot of spiritual conquest in new territory. Some are doing it now. Are we?

The enemies of God's people were many and mighty, but they were not able to stand in the way of God's people when they were moving forward for him. Here again, Israel failed. They did not drive them out, because they did not take God at his word. The application of that truth to us is obvious.

II. The Unchanging God (Josh. 23: 1-11).

Between our first scripture and this selection will be found the history of the conquest of the land (at least, of the larger part of it), and the division of the territory between the tribes.

Years have passed quickly, and the new leader, Joshua, is now an old man, soon to go to his reward. He gathers the elders who represented the people and gave them good counsel for the days ahead, even as he recalls the blessings of the past.

1. God Did Help (vv. 1-3).

Israel had been in many hard battles. They had gone through the trials of pioneer days in a new and unfamiliar land. Now they were established and at peace. Perhaps they were recalling their mighty exploits and their own sacrificial efforts.

Joshua reminds them that it was God who fought for them (v. 3). We need just such a reminder in our land today.

2. God Will Help (vv. 4, 5).

Joshua had a word of encouragement for the days ahead. There was much yet to be done. The land had not been fully taken. He reminded them of God's help in the past, so that they would depend on it in the future.

It is one mark of a great man that he looks beyond the end of his own short existence and plans for the future.

What about the future? Joshua reminded them that every blessing they had received, every victory they had won, everything had come from the hand of God. There and there alone was their hope for the future. And it was enough!

3. Help Yourself (vv. 6-11). To keep true in the land where their neighbors engaged in idol worship and all manner of immorality required definite action on the part of Israel.

They were not to deviate in the slightest from God's way, "to the right hand or to the left" (v. 6), for a little beginning in the wrong direction winds up in awful departure from him.

They were not even to swear by the heathen gods, not even to mention them. They were to "cleave" to the Lord, a graphic presentation of the close relation between God and his people.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Careful Mixing, Accurate Measure Make Fine Pie Crust

Deep-Dish Pie made of cherries or rhubarb is a colorful treat for any supper. Time can be saved by mixing the crust ahead of time and using canned fruit put up last summer.

Everyone who has ever bit into a piece of pie knows the value of good pie crust. No matter how good the filling, the pie will not be up to standard if the pie crust falls down on flakiness or crispness or taste.

However, it is a very simple matter to make a good pie crust, even if one is a beginner, provided accurate measurements are used and the cook does not become too ambitious.

Good pie crust requires only enough mixing to cut the shortening into small pieces, the size of green peas, and to coat them with flour. Then, just enough water is added to make the mix ture hold together. Some women are so afraid to use water in pie crust, afraid to use water in pie crust, afraid to use water in pie crust, afraid to use water in pie crust.

The ideal way is to use just enough, and to work that in thoroughly.

It is not necessary to use more than one-third cup of fat to one cup of flour. Salt and water are the only other ingredients. If desired, the fat can be worked into the flour which has been salted, and the mixture allowed to stand in the refrigerator until it's time to make the pie.

To blend fat and flour together, a pastry blender is a great help. This should not be attempted by hand as the hands are always warm, and this will cause the shortening to melt and give a less flaky result.

No definite guide can be given as to the water which must be added. Most recipes say from five to six tablespoons of cold water for 2 cups of flour, but this may be a little more or less since flours vary in their rate of absorbency. An all-purpose flour is more suitable for pastry than cake flour, because it has more gluten and will give a flaky in place of a crumbly crust.

Apples are generally available throughout the year and form the basis for one of our most delicious pies. Here is an open-faced apple pie which you will enjoy:

Apple Pie.
 3 cups fresh apples
 1 cup sugar
 4 tablespoons flour
 1 tablespoon butter or substitute
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 Cinnamon or nutmeg

Peel the apples, core and cut into eighths. The pieces of apple should be at least 1/4 inch thick. Apples should not be too thinly sliced as this will prevent the pie from being juicy. Combine sugar with flour. Add the apple slices to the flour mixture and mix thoroughly. Add the lemon juice and cinnamon or nutmeg.

Mix sugar, cornstarch, flour and salt together. Add the boiling water, stirring constantly. Use high heat until mixture begins to thicken then cook slowly over a low flame until thick. Add beaten egg yolks, cook 2 minutes longer on low heat. Add lemon juice and rind. Cool. Pour into a baked pie shell (9-inch) and cover with meringue.

This above filling may also be used for lemon tarts. The shells for these may be baked in muffin tins or small-sized pie plates. These, too, may be topped with meringue, if desired.

Most cream pies take a meringue topping which is made from whites that were not used for the filling. It is important to beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry, and to fold the sugar in gradually, beating all the while.

The best proportion of sugar to use for the meringue is one tablespoon to each egg white. If too much sugar is used, the meringue will have little drops of brown syrup.

The meringue should be baked rather than browned. Use a 350-degree oven and bake until browned. Be sure to anchor the meringue on the crust so that it does not shrink too much.

It's easy to extract lemon juice, if the fruit has been warmed for a few minutes.

A custard pie is a delicate dessert for a hearty meal. It is nourishing because of the eggs and milk, yet it requires little sugar.

Custard Pie.
 3 eggs
 5 tablespoons sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 2 1/2 cups milk, scalded
 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and scalded milk. Mix thoroughly and pour into an unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake 5 minutes at 450 degrees, then decrease to 325 degrees and continue baking for 30 minutes.

Cherries or rhubarb are responsible for the bright cheerful color in this deep-dish pie:

Rhubarb or Cherry Pie.
 (Deep-Dish type)
 4 cups rhubarb (cut into 1-inch pieces) or
 4 cups canned or fresh cherries
 3 tablespoons tapioca or
 3 tablespoons flour
 1/2 cup sugar and 1/4 cup honey or
 1 1/4 cups sugar
 2 tablespoons butter or substitute

Mix fruit, sweetening and tapioca or flour together. Pour into a 9-inch pie plate lined with unbaked pastry. Dot with butter and cover with pastry which has opening cut in it. Bake for 45 minutes.

For fish dinners, there's no more perfect dessert than a tart lemon pie:

Lemon Pie.
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 4 tablespoons cornstarch
 4 tablespoons flour
 1 1/2 cups boiling water
 4 egg yolks
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Grated rind of 2 lemons
 1/2 cup lemon juice

Mix sugar, cornstarch, flour and salt together. Add the boiling water, stirring constantly. Use high heat until mixture begins to thicken then cook slowly over a low flame until thick. Add beaten egg yolks, cook 2 minutes longer on low heat. Add lemon juice and rind. Cool. Pour into a baked pie shell (9-inch) and cover with meringue.

W. N. U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Jim Keller and his sister, Jane, with old MacDowell, the foreman, operate El Rancho de Las Vacas. They are on the lookout for a former employer, Jordan, a drunkard and dope-runner. MacDowell picks up a strange young man in his car. The manager wants work and Jim needs cash, so Mac takes the new man to his ranch. Jim's friend, Max Stenhardt, has pneumonia in the hospital. Old Teresa, the Mexican woman, thinks Stenhardt has "got a devil" in him. The newcomer goes to the sick man's window, and she speaks one word: "Sherwin." The sick man is startled.

CHAPTER II

Her blue eyes widened. Another question was on her lips, but a door opened suddenly and the trained nurse came down the long corridor toward them.

Jane turned quickly. "Anything wrong, Fanny?"

The nurse shook her head. "He's coming all the time."

"Fanny!" Jane turned in an exasperated way to the stranger: "A friend of my brother's, Mr. Stenhardt, was taken suddenly ill with pneumonia here; we couldn't let him move and he's been having a hard time. Miss Sewell, this is the nurse in need who helped old MacDowell." She looked around. "Actually, I don't know your name!"

"John—" he began, and stopped, apparently confused.

"But there's more to it than that!" she laughed.

His face burned; he was trying to remember what name he had given MacDowell; unaccountably it seemed to evade him, and again he tried to lie to this girl.

"Hazellet," he said at last.

Her eyes met his for an instant and he thought there was a questioning look in them, but she wrote his name down mechanically on a slip of paper on the desk.

"John Hazellet."

It had a bizarre effect; he knew that it would be hard to get used to. He stared at it oddly himself, then suddenly aware that his look might be a self-betrayal, he averted his eyes, conscious that he had the thread of the talk between her and the nurse; but Jane was sorting the mail for her.

"Here are yours, Fanny, and here for Max." She held them out, and the nurse, gathering them all up, departed hastily toward the sick-room.

"John Hazellet," she repeated quietly, then lifting her honest eyes to his, she added: "That's not your name."

Trained in a hard school, he rolled Jordan over and got his hand almost on his throat, then suddenly they both went over the ledge. Below it, Jane had panted poppies. The two men fell together, struck and unclenched. Jordan leaped up and ran. His antagonist had struck his head on a stone, and there was an instant in which he saw stars and heard the shouts from the house; Jane had roused the vaqueros!

He rose dizzily to his feet, brushed his hand across his eyes, and tried to discern the fleeing figure. The moon was just rising behind the mountains; the sky was silver with it, but the earth was dark, like the bottom of a cup. He ran forward, stumbling now and then on strange ground, but, as the sky brightened, he made out the dark figure ahead of him, still running. He did not know where they were going. Behind them was a confusion of sounds, in front he began to hear the cattle in the corral, but he kept on.

A flame shot out ahead of him. He made out the stooping figure of a man; something like a torch shot up in the air, hurtled forward and fell blazing. As it fell he saw that the gates were open and things were moving. He heard bellows of terror, saw horns flash in the light of a blazing torch, and the very earth shook under his feet. A flood of dark, seething, writhing shapes poured out. Another torch blazed on the other side, another herd broke loose, the gates caught fire, the night was ablaze with flame and smoke, and bellowing animals were rushing together in a great stampede. One herd rushed at the blaze, another trampled over it, with pounding hoofs and whirling horns; bellowing with terror, the cattle stampeded. In the nick of time, the young man sprang behind a huge old tree trunk and the red stream parted and flowed past him. Dust blinded him, but he heard the trampling of horses and the shouts of the vaqueros; they were riding down from the house and he caught a wild cry from the man whom Mac had called "Pete."

"By gosh, he's let loose the yearlings; the gates are afire!"

Not only the gates, but some piled brushwood had caught. The flames leaped up ten feet in the wind and sent out long black streamers over the bellowing herd and the wild figures of the riders. The vaqueros shouted and whirled their quirts, trying to stem the tide, but the yearlings were wild. Some of them were splashing and foundering in the creek, some headed straight for the canyons, but a few plunged into the flames and came out smoking and mad. Bellowing with pain and fury, they charged at the shouting herders. Here a horse was gored, there a rider went down and the horse bolted for the stables. The brightening sky was streaked with black smoke clouds, pandemonium reigned.

"John Hazellet," she repeated quietly, then lifting her honest eyes to his, she added: "That's not your name."

The man who had called himself "Hazellet" straightened against his tree; he saw a riderless horse coming, his bridle flying loose. With a leap he reached the frightened animal's head, caught the reins and clung by main force. There was an instant of intense action, the horse plunging and kicking, then the man conquered and scrambled to the saddle. The flames seemed to have gained new fuel; when they died down in one place, they leaped up in another. Everything that could burn was afire. The wind carried burning brands and tossed them on madly whirling horns, bulls gored each other in sheer terror; the distant ranch-house shone white in the reflection, the mountains loomed black against a silver sky.

The young man who had never seen the like of this before, held in the frightened horse and thrilled with a new emotion; he tasted freedom, adventure, the joy of living. He knew nothing of herding these wild things, but he longed to ride into the midst of it, though he felt his horse trembling under him. Then, in a flash, he saw a big car speeding toward him; the moonlight showed it clearly, when it stopped and a man leaped out and came running into the thick of it. As he came he recognized him; it was Jim Keller! Back before he was expected. A moment before he would have been safe, but the herd had broken, some of the yearlings had turned before the shouts of the vaqueros. With a rush they came straight for the single figure in front of them; Hazellet had no spurs, but he struck his heels into his horse's sides. Frightened, the animal shot forward in front of the oncoming rush, in front of Jim.

"Keep behind my horse—quick!" The young man felt in his pocket as he saw Jim stop and reel with surprise. He rode his horse across the space and turned to face the danger.

Flame and moonlight outlined the black forms and white horns, fifty—sixty—he could not count them. The earth seemed to shake under them; his horse plunged and he swung in his seat. They were coming, they were almost on him, they would trample horse and rider! Then he did the one thing he could think of, he fired point blank at the front row. There was a terrible plunge and bellows, and a big steer crumpled and fell to its knees. Its mates fled from it, parting in two streams and flowing on either side. In the center the horse and rider whirled in a wild semi-circle, shielding the man on foot. Again and again he fired, and when he hit, they gave way, bellowing. Flames were behind them, the vaqueros were shouting on their right; they hurtled themselves at the bridge, jammed it, toppled over and went into the water. As the stream of maddened beasts parted and swept past and left them, the young man dismounted.

"Take my horse, Mr. Keller," he said.

"Jim looked up at him, dazed.

"Who are you? My God, I was a fool; you saved my life!"

The dawn was breaking behind the mountains when Hazellet limped up toward the house. He had been with the other men in the saddle all night. As the day broke the vaqueros had been able to count the damage—the burning gates and brush, the stampeded yearlings, two horses gored to death and a heavy toll of cattle. Meanwhile, Jordan and his confederates had made good their escape; that hit the enraged cowpunchers more sharply than Keller's losses. Hazellet could hear them swearing in a queer medley of Spanish and English. By this time they all knew of Jim's narrow escape and made room for the newcomer more readily, but they drifted past him now to storm Ah Ling's kitchen. Hazellet came slowly, his eyes on those windows into which he had looked the night before. Stenhardt's stricken face seemed to rise before him again. He laughed bitterly to himself, then old Mac, coming out of the house, saw him and stopped to slap him on the shoulder with his well hand.

"Gosh, you're a trump, Hazellet!" he said heartily. "You sure saved the boss. He wants to see you; I reckon you can get any place you want round Las Palomas now!"

Hazellet stared down at the mud and dust that covered him from head to foot.

"He nearly broke my head; the honors are his," retorted the younger man grimly.

Old Mac nodded. "That's like him, the fox! Come on over to breakfast after you've seen Jim."

Mac pointed toward the front door and the young man, still reluctant, crossed the wide veranda and entered the hall. There was no one in sight; the sun had not yet topped the mountains and that long corridor was shadowed by day-gloom. Far down was a door that shut in Stenhardt! Involuntarily the newcomer took a step toward it, then he heard a quick movement across the hall, a door opened and Jane came to him, both hands outstretched.

"You've made good," she said, her eyes shining, "you've more than made good; Jim told me!"

Will Film Atom Blast of Ships

Cameras Set on Towers to Be Operated by Radio; Cost Half Billion.

WASHINGTON.—The navy's atom bomb tests this spring will be photographed by cameras set on 100-foot steel towers, arranged in a ring around the warships in Bikini atoll. The cameras will be automatic, operated by remote control by radio on a distant ship. Other cameras will take pictures from airplanes flying at safe distances. In addition several planes operated by remote control, pilotless, will carry cameras closer than the manned planes, says the Associated Press.

The arrangements were announced, with approval of the navy security office, Washington, by the Fairchild Camera and Instrument corporation, which will supply cameras, radio and electronic equipment for the crossroads photography.

The tower cameras will be in batteries, set over several islands surrounding the enclosure of atoll waters. The instruments will be housed in small rooms, each shielded against x-rays and other radioactive hazards of an atomic bomb explosion. Photographic film requires better shielding than do human beings, because the emulsion is very sensitive to fogging by even a slight excess of radioactive rays.

Fear Blast Heat.

The shielding will be lead. Inside this heavy housing there will be airtight, waterproof boxes, and in them the cameras. Airtight boxes are necessary because after the explosion small radioactive particles in the air might drift through openings and damage the undeveloped pictures.

The photos will be taken through windows set in the boxes. Portholes will open automatically in front of the windows at the instant the pictures are taken and will shut automatically afterward, as an added precaution.

Special pains will be taken to prevent the heat of the explosive flash from burning the film. This heat, will be millions of degrees Fahrenheit. Although the cameras on the ring of towers will be from five to ten miles distant from the exploding bomb, the sensitive film might be damaged by the hot flash. Such damage occurred in the first two frames of photographs taken in New Mexico of the first atomic bomb. The first photo, that showed the flash just developing as a small ring, had a large black spot in the center; the result of burning. The second frame, showing the explosive ring a little larger, had several black spots.

The announcement says it may be several weeks after the test before any human can approach the camera houses on account of radio activity of the water.

To Cost Half Billion.

The test of the atom bomb versus the modern warship stacks up as a proposition that will cost close to a half billion dollars, if not more. The exact amount was impossible to calculate, but navy figures supplied an indication of what would be involved in the forthcoming atomic experiment in the Pacific.

It cost $200,000,000 alone for the bombs and engines of the 47 U. S. combat units assigned to the guinea pig fleet.

It cost more than $100,000,000 more for the navy transports which make up about half of the 47 non-combat types which also will be targets.

Girding to Save Erring Youngsters

Justice Department Plans to Curb Delinquency.

WASHINGTON.—Attorney General Clark announced the first step in the justice department's program to curb juvenile delinquency.

In an interview, Clark said he will appoint within a few days a special panel of 25 churchmen, educators, business men and welfare leaders to help the department formulate plans to combat the rising trend in juvenile crimes.

Within a few weeks he will ask representatives of state, county and city governments to meet with the panel and justice department officials to work out remedial measures.

"When 70 per cent of adult criminals are known to have been delinquent in their youth, it is high time that a new step be initiated to curb such a disgraceful situation," Clark asserted, adding: "Erring boys and girls must be saved from continuing lives of crime."

Clark said the panel and the justice department will make a survey of the entire field of juvenile crime. Its findings will be made available to social, juvenile and law enforcing agencies throughout the nation.

"According to a recent report sent me by Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI," Clark said, "21 per cent of all arrests are of persons under 21. More 17-year-olds are arrested than any other age group."

Since 1939, he said, the arrests of girls under 18 have jumped 198 per cent while arrests of boys under 18 have increased 48 per cent.

Clark said he is encouraging all United States attorneys to experiment with the deferred prosecution plan which he said is "achieving gratifying success in eastern New York."

"This procedure," he explained, "permits the delay of prosecution and provisional release by the district attorney of the youthful offenders under official probationary supervision."

"The guilty who are deemed worthy are placed on probation before trial, thus avoiding the stigma of a conviction. If there is no further breach, the record in the case is marked 'not entertained.' Hence there is no black mark against the youth."

Carrier Jet Plane Is Developed by U. S. Navy

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The navy announced development of its first exclusively jet powered fighter plane for carrier operation. Its top speed exceeds 500 miles an hour.

Designated the FD-1 "Phantom," the plane was designed and built by the McDonnell Aircraft corporation, St. Louis, Mo. Already extensively flight-tested, it has a service ceiling of "well over seven miles," the navy said. Primarily designed as an interceptor, it has a range of approximately 1,000 miles.

The "Phantom" is built of light aluminum alloy polished to a finish which presents little air resistance. Total weight of the plane with full combat load is less than 10,000 pounds. The single seat, low wing monoplane has a wing span of approximately 40 feet. The wings fold electrically and when rigged for storage the plane is only 16 feet wide.

Armament consists of standard fighter armament mounted in the nose.

Per Capita Share of Federal Debt Goes Down

WASHINGTON.—This might cheer you up a bit—

Your per capita share of the prospective national debt is coming down.

A year ago President Roosevelt figured the debt would be 292 billion dollars this year. That would have been $2,118 for every American—man, woman and child.

But with the war over and government finances looking up, the debt now figures to be 271 billion dollars by next year. That works out at $1,935 per capita, thanks to an increase in population as well as a lower debt figure.

Jefferson Davis Home Now Draws Many Visitors

MONTGOMERY, ALA.—The first White House of the Confederacy, the house in which Jefferson Davis lived during his residence in Montgomery, as president of the Confederate States of America, is today a shrine which attracts thousands of visitors annually.

A recent estimate, described as conservative, by leaders of the White House association, placed the number of visitors at more than a thousand a month.

Famine Crisis Now Menaces South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, S. A.—The Union of South Africa is on the verge of a food crisis, it was authoritatively stated. Meat is scarce and the country must import large quantities of corn and wheat if deaths from starvation are to be avoided among the native population, which in some districts are eating weeds.

United States Seizes Philippine Hemp Firms

WASHINGTON.—Acting to remedy the current "serious shortage" of hemp in this country, Alies Property Custodian James E. Matkham has announced seizure by the United States of the world's two largest Manila hemp plantations, the Furukawa Plantation company and the Ohta Development company. Both concerns are near Davao, P. I. They controlled about 90 per cent of the world's prewar hemp supply.

Happy Relief When You're Sluggish, Upset

WHEN CONSTIPATION makes you feel punk as the dickens, brings on stomach upset, sour taste, gassy discomfort, take Dr. Caldwell's famous medicine to quickly pull the trigger on lazy "bowels" and help you feel bright and chipper again.

DR. CALDWELL'S is the wonderful Senna laxative contained in good old Syrup Pepsin to make it so easy to take.

MANY DOCTORS use pepsin preparations in prescriptions to make the medicine more palatable and agreeable to take. So be sure your laxative is contained in Syrup Pepsin.

INSIST ON DR. CALDWELL'S—the favorite of millions for 50 years, and feel that wholesome relief from constipation. Even finicky children love it.

CAUTION: Use only as directed.

Who was dating Evelyn Crutcher Sunday afternoon? Why, Jack Webb!

We hear Richard Curd, Sammie Ritchey, Buddy Brock, Walter Billings and Robert Isaacs are wanting to go with Sis.

Speaking of a girl! Why doesn't Kenneth Pearson have one. He's certainly CUTE enough to catch one.

James Blair has a new girl friend who answers by the name of Polly McMillan.

Why does everyone call Trula "Slingshot"??

Who is Billie Harris' new boy friend? We believe it is Bob something.

Who was Shirley Schooler with Friday nite? It looked like one of the Webb boys to us.

Who would Marcia Delle like to go with??? We bet we could guess! What has happened to Cythia and "Red".

Poor Mary Moore! J. W. has had to go back to camp.

Why does Mary Allen sing "It's been so long, Darling?" We wonder if she'd be thinking of ---

Where do Peggy, Ruthy and Trula get so much gum?? Suppose we ask Richard Curd.

Joy Kirby surely does want to move in the study hall. Could it be because of John L. Everette.

What sophomore girl has J. C. Durham daydreaming? Why, Ruthy. Why did Reba get a new permanent? Could it be to look cute for Walter Ray??

Did we happen to see Polly McMillan and Welton Tilley together Sunday??

We wonder who finally got Robbie Joe Proctor? Minnie or Emma Jean?

We hear Buddie Brock has been writing notes to a lot of girls!

Who was that boy Jerry Edwards from Tahoka that LaQuita and Betty James thought was so handsome.

Old Eagle thinks Betty Edgerton was quite disappointed was quite disappointed Friday nite. Just why was that??

Horace Henley was with Wanda Huffhines Friday nite.

Wasn't Bob Clark with a girl from Lamesa Friday nite? What happened to he and Wynia Jean??

Hazel Swinney seems to have a good time the 7th period study hall flirting with Kenneth Pearson, Wayne Vandivere and Glendon Stokes.

Who was that we saw Edna Edwards with Sunday?? It couldn't have been Carroll Jones??

Is that Patsy Edwards name we see on Harlan Hale's books??

Who was that Betty Dorman was with Sunday nite? Couldn't have been Jerry New??

Mrs. W. R. Wilson, Reporter

The New Moore Club members met at the home of Mrs. Virgil Adams where they appointed new members on the committee.

Refreshments were served to 19 members and three visitors: Mrs. Marion Snider, Mrs. A. G. Crutcher and Mrs. A. L. Roolen.

Mrs. A. G. Crutcher received word from her husband who said he liked one point before he could come home. He is an M. P. stationed at Sasibo.

Jean Rogers spent Thursday nite with Juanes Lemey.
Mrs. Johnnie Crutcher of Tahoka spent Friday nite with Miss Opal Shepard.

The Truth About Home Building In '46

IT'S TIME VETERANS AND ALL CITIZENS WERE TOLD THE TRUTH ABOUT THE HOME BUILDING SITUATION!

The main bottleneck to home construction is production and equipment.

No legislation, Presidential announcement, government control naps, or system can produce a single additional home until production of materials is speeded up.

Lumber Dealers and the Building Industry are eager to build homes for veterans and all citizens who need them. The reason few homes are being built is because materials are not being produced.

WHY?

1. Governed by OPA's war-time pricing formulas, it is still more profitable for lumber mills to make them for export -- and the items formerly required for war use than it is to make lumber usable in Home Construction.
2. OPA's war-time pricing formulas are still keeping thousands of small mills out of production.
3. OPA's enforcement policies have allowed the creation of a large black market in lumber which is moving outside of regular channels of trade.
4. OPA's slowness in adjusting mill ceiling prices on hardwood flooring, siding, millwork and plywood has contributed to the difficulties mills are having in securing necessary manpower.

With 400 brick and tile plants closed, it took 6 months for OPA to adjust prices. Now an additional 125 plants have opened and production is up 35 per cent.

Clay sewer pipe, cast iron pipe and Gypsum board manufacturers have experienced a similar OPA delay in granting of price adjustments to make increased production possible.

No amount of juggling with an insufficient supply will produce a single home more than can be built with material available.

The OPA can hardly hold present price ceilings when it has no control over volume of employment, labor wage rates, cashing of government bonds, and installment or credit expansion -- EUT THE OPA CAN ACT AS A BLOCK TO RECONVERSION BY CLINGING TO UNREALISTIC WAR TIME PRICE CEILINGS.

Unlock the production of materials caused by unrealistic war-time price controls and the building industry will build enough homes for veterans and all Americans!

Any government program that does not FIRST remove the obstacles blocking production of materials will simply add additional difficulties to the problem facing the building industry.
