Formal Opening New Bowling Alley Wednesday Night

Formal opening of Charles N. Hoffman's new bowling alleys will be held next Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, so he and his alleys manager, Gene Gardenhire, announced last night.

Free drinks, furnished by Happy Smith of the Tahoka Bottling works, consisting of Orange Crush, Grapette and Triple-X Root Beer, will be furnished free.

Hoffman's alleys, regulation in length, were constructed under his personal supervision, and consequently everything has been "done right." Any bowler would be proud of the new bowling place.

Slack as glass, the new alleys gleam with the filling and shellac from the 18-foot runway to where the pins are located.

A large archway, from which lights shine directly upon the pins, was erected about four feet from the end of the alleys.

Spectators were also given a thought by Hoffman in the erection of elevated seats directly behind the bowling runway. At one side, Gardenhire will place his place for the sale of sandwiches, coffee and cold drinks.

Gardenhire or his wife will be on duty at all hours and they are determined to run the place right.

"If we can't run the place right, where any woman or child cannot stay, then we will close the front door—and we don't intend to close the doors," Gardenhire says.

Special effort will be made by Gardenhire to form a four-team woman's league, and players will be secured shortly after they have practiced a bit. Instructors will be available to explain the art of bowling, so Gardenhire also says.

A six-team man's league is in the making now, with players for four teams already secured.

Mrs. J. P. Bowlin, Mrs. Paul Morris, and Carolyn were in Lubbock Monday.

In California They Really Eat Those Juicy Hamburgers

W. W. Williams, popular dairyman, is in receipt of a letter from his daughter, Mrs. Bernie Flatt of California, giving the "lowdown" on a new job she undertook recently. And it concerned hamburgers.

"I thought I'd seen hamburgers before," she wrote, "but in one day at this large place, I personally wrapped over 4,000 hamburgers."

Whether she served hamburgers at home that night to her husband was not mentioned in the letter.

Warning Is Given On Wheat Planting

By C. A. Lawrence,
Secretary Lynn County AAA

With good season in the ground, many farmers will wish to plant some small grain for winter grazing. As wheat is a special allotment crop, a farmer who does not have a wheat allotment cannot seed pure wheat for winter grazing. Farmers who do not have wheat allotments may sow a wheat mixture composed of not to exceed one-half wheat with at least one-half barley, rye, or oats. This may be grazed through the winter and if we have a seasonable spring may be harvested for feed provided the barley, rye, or oats does not freeze out and comes on and matures with the wheat.

Farmers who persist in sowing pure wheat for grazing where a wheat allotment has not been established for their farm will be given some wheat allotment which will probably cause a downward reduction in the cotton allotment for the farm.

Wheat allotments, when once established, are not so easily gotten rid of. The allotment will apply to the farm until the crop is not seeded for three successive years.

We are very much concerned about farmers not abiding by this regulation about the sowing of small grain for grazing.

Son of Local Minister Is Aviation Cadet

Eagles To Battle Semincle Tonight

After dropping their opening encounter to the Fluvanna Buffaloes, an "outlaw" organization, the O'Donnell Eagles will start conference play tonight when they tackle the strong Semincle squad in that city.

Officials of the Fluvanna game were puzzled when told only 40 students were in High School. They saw a pep squad of about 30 and a football team of about 25, but not being compelled by conference rules to play eligible players, Fluvanna promptly played plenty of CCC boys in an effort to win.

The test found the Eagles ready for more, however, and their spirit undampened. They've heard so many wise (?) ones telling them that they cannot win, they have figured they have everything to win and nothing to lose, and any good thing they do will be just so much velvet. Practically all of the five, ten and 25 per cent betters are wagering against the Eagles this season—as usual!

According to Ray DeBusk, it may be true there are better football players in the conference, but none more willing than the Eagles, and encouragement instead of wise cracks would help produce that fighting spirit a team needs.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Kincaid of Azle and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Kincaid of Fort Worth were guests in the home of Boales over the week end.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Nazi Gains at Kiev and Leningrad Are Reported as Russians Continue To Claim Success in Smolensk Area; Cairo, Moslem Holy City, Is Bombed

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WORLD:

Doubting Nazis

News analysts and those who speak in guarded tones of information received through diplomatic channels in Washington were letting it be known that for the first time since the start of the war there was beginning to be a general opinion that Germany would not be the winner in the present war.

Discounting the Nazis' spectacular victories, which had had many diplomats of conquered or menaced countries shaking their heads over the feeling of the "man in the street" of their countries as to the eventual outcome, the people, they had stated now, had changed, or were changing their minds about the situation.

Three main factors emerged as the reasons:

1. The unexpectedly strong resistance of Russia.

(However, reports from the front indicate that the Nazis' gains were continuing.)

2. The growing importance of American aid to Britain and the belief that this nation was drawing closer to actual participation.

3. Britain's growing mastery over the German air force, plus the ability of England to "take" the worst of the Nazi planes had to offer and to carry the fight back across the channel.

The fall of France, the low countries; German victories in the Balkans and Greece, had combined to spread the conviction through more distant points in Europe, Asia, Africa and South America, to say nothing of the United States, that nothing could stop Hitler.

Talk with diplomats in Washington had revealed that this conviction had gone—replacing itself with doubt.

GERMANS:

Their Claims

On the basis of German claims, the Russians faced a certainty of the loss of Leningrad; also the certainty that the Russian oil fields in the Caucasus would be reached and made a theater of war on the south.

The battle of the North Atlantic, they claimed, also was progressing favorably, with half a dozen sinkings reported since the President's speech and action sending the navy in pursuit of Nazi raiders.

Washington announced no further losses after the Montana, but it was hinted at the capital that such reports might be withheld until a considerable time after their occurrence as "military secrets."

The Nazis based their assertion on Leningrad on the fact that they had reached the city's outer defenses, that Leningraders were dynamiting buildings, and that the city was being subjected to steady air bombing and artillery fire.

On the south, the Germans asserted two crossings had been made of the lower Dnieper, either cutting Crimea off from the north or threatening to do so, and that though the river was 1,000 to 2,000 yards wide, considerable numbers of troops were passing over, with nothing before them in the way of natural hazards until the Don river should be attained.

The menace to the Caucasus was deemed imminent, and some saw in this an explanation of Russian pressure on and criticism of Bulgaria, seeing in the latter country a hop-off point for the sending of water-borne troops to the Caucasus region.

RUSSIANS:

Painting a vastly different picture of the battle, the Russians claimed continued victories in the center over determined opposition, plus reports that the Nazis, through losses, had been forced to withdraw half a million men from France alone.

Far from accepting the loss of Leningrad as a matter of cost, the Russians told of retaking an island in Lake Ladoga from the Finns, and of the repulse of a German air and water assault on the island of Oesel off the coast of Estonia.

CAIRO:

Holy City

The bombing of Cairo, a holy city to the Moslems, which Britain had said, early in the war, would result in the reprisal bombing of Rome, Italy's holy city, finally had taken place, with the death of 39 persons and wounding of 93.

Immediately the British press had started the outcry "Bomb Rome Now!"

Though Alexandria, the port of Cairo, had been bombed repeatedly, the enemy planes had never bombed the city itself, and this event, the first, was not immediately repeated.

Nor was there an immediate bombing of Rome. However, the silencing of the Cairo radio, and the failure of the daily communique to arrive had caused many to believe that the British answer to the Cairo incident might be the launching of the long-awaited drive into Libya.

MINERS:

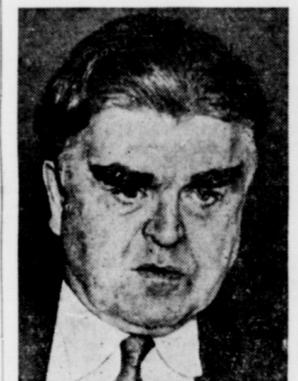

Hit at Lewis

Trouble within the fold of the United Mine Workers of America, John L. Lewis' personal labor union, and the basis on which he founded the C.I.O., was the latest labor difficulty to claim attention.

It resulted when a committee charged with discussing a possible strike ballot instead returned a 50 cent assessment against each member each month.

Union members immediately set up a new committee, which met at Shenandoah City, Pa., in the heart of the Allegheny hard coal area, and made an odd demand.

They ordered Mr. Lewis himself to come before them personally and without delay and satisfactorily explain the assessment, or that they would go on strike forthwith.

The monthly dues of the union members now had been boosted from $1 a month to $1.50, and the miners were up in arms and the union trouble within the union was said to be spreading.

NAVY:

Building Cruisers

A new type of cruiser to chase Nazi raiders is under construction for the navy, it had been revealed, a report disclosing that work had started on six ships, each 27,000 tons, of a type never before built.

They are to be 17,000 tons heavier than any other cruisers now in the navy's possession, and only 8,000 tons lighter than our heaviest battleships.

They were being built at Camden, N. J., by the N. Y. Shipbuilding Corp.

They will bear the names of Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, Philippines, Samoa and Puerto Rico. The navy withheld all details concerning their speed or armament.

ALUMINUM:

A Critique

Newspapers directed sharp criticism at part of the OPM when it was learned that of huge allocations made for the purpose of building plants to manufacture 600,000,000 tons of aluminum a year, only one site had been selected and not one plant had been placed even in construction.

The original plan, outlined by OPM itself, had been to have the plants in actual operation next April or May, when the shortage of the metal will become acute.

Instead, even if the work gets under way now (which it is not) the plants cannot be in production until next fall at the earliest.

Records of the senate defense-investigating committee revealed that there had been a rift between Jesse Jones, RFC head, and Harold Ickes, fellow cabinet member over the sole contract which has been signed—which gives the Aluminum Company of America the right to build plants that would produce about half the estimated yield.

Power clauses in this contract are said to be the quarrel's basis

$750,000 Fire in Boston Area

Photo made from Boston & Maine railroad freight yard in Charles-town, Mass., shows clouds of smoke billowing over freight cars. All Boston police and firemen on duty or off were called to the scene, as were coastguardsmen from the navy yard. Apparatus from six adjacent cities aided. There were five casualties, and the loss was estimated at $750,000.

Pickets Block Power and Light Plant

Trudging pickets prevented all but a few workmen from entering this plant of the Kansas City Power & Light company after a strike was called a few minutes before midnight. The city was plunged into virtually total darkness. Emergency treatments at hospitals were hampered and surface line transportation came to a halt when power failed.

Gasless Club of America Is Formed

To help conserve gasoline, the Gasless Club of America is formed in New York city, with a number of socially prominent women taking to their bicycles. The club, founded by Mrs. Abby M. Ricker and others, discussed plans for holding fox hunts in Central park. They are, left to right, Mrs. Ricker, Miss Rosalie Stonebraker, Mrs. Albert M. Handy and Mrs. Oscar C. Chopin.

'Pop' Patten Joins His Seven Sons in Navy

Legion Commander

Lynn Upshaw Stambaugh, 51, attorney of Fargo, N. D., who was elected national commander of the American Legion at their twenty-third annual convention, in Milwaukee, Wis. Stambaugh served 22 months during World War I, 13 months overseas, and was commissioned a second lieutenant of field artillery while serving in France.

Record Tax Bill

Vice President Henry Wallace signs the $3,553,400,000 tax bill, largest tax measure in American history. The bill then went to the White House for the President's signature.

'Last Pose'

Gen. John J. Pershing, A.E.F. commander, who has just observed his eighty-first birthday at a Washington, D. C., hospital, where he underwent his annual physical checkup. He told photographers this was the last time he would pose for the next 50 years.

Study British Needs

Maj. Gen. George Brett (left), army air corps chief, and Col. C. Haynes, noted army pilot, will tour Africa, the Near East and Mediterranean to study British air force needs. Data obtained will speed U. S. aid to the democracies.

DEATH Death is always a revealing thing. As I looked at Mrs. Roosevelt's face in the repose which comes after death, I understood many things which the animation and play of expression in everyday life probably prevented one from seeing. The lines were smoothed out, the stark beauty of contour and the peace which death alone can bring remained.

I think that everything was done as she would have wished it. She liked simplicity. She loved her own home and her own place. On her coffin there rested only the spray of flowers made from flowers grown in her own garden and greenhouse, by the gardener who has been with her well over 40 years.

Around were banked the floral offerings which paid tribute to her kindness and affection for many individuals, and to her faithful service in many organizations. I think she would have been just as pleased with the flowers which came as a tribute of sympathy to her son.

In the room she liked so well, the rector, Mr. Wilson, read the simple but beautiful Episcopal service, and the church choir sang two hymns which she always liked to sing. The men on the place carried the casket and there were more flowers which one of her nieces, Miss Laura Delano, arranged around the grave.

She had long contemplated this final resting place beside her husband. I think she had an affection for the trees and the familiar countryside around this old church and for this spot in the churchyard, where she had so often gone to lay flowers on the grave of her husband.

She would have liked to have just the family and friends who were here, about her. I wish that all the grandchildren could have been present.

I think everyone is conscious of the fact that the house and place in which she lived so long, will never be quite the same without her. She was a strong personality and left an imprint not only on the people she knew so well, but on the surroundings which she created.

My husband has as great a devotion to the place as his mother had, but it is different, I think. She thought that the land was tied with her family forever. With him, there are memories of youth and of his parents which can never be obliterated, but he does not count on the same kind of future that she liked to plan.

LINCOLN BED

When I reached Washington after the funeral, I was surprised to find that my bedroom and sitting room were being painted, so temporarily I am occupying President Lincoln's bed! It is particularly large and ornate and I never realized before how awe-inspiring it must be to our guests. However, I am glad to find that it is very comfortable, because long ago I can remember my grandmother telling me that one should always sleep in all of one's guests beds, to make sure that they are comfortable.

WOMEN IN ARMED FORCES

I wonder if you have seen, in the October American magazine, the article on the part the British women are playing in the armed forces of Great Britain? For the first time they have been accepted in artillery units and are operating anti-aircraft batteries and the fire control instruments. They are enlisted to fight overseas as well as in England for the duration of the war, and they receive the "danger pay of the combat line."

We have heard before of women in the Russian army, but this is the first instance of women actually working side by side with the men in the armed forces of England. It shows that, when the need arises, there are few places where women can not work side by side with men.

PLASTIC SURGERY AID

I have also received an appeal for charity in which I think every-one in this country will be interested. Those who remember the hospitals in the last war will remember what seemed to be almost the beginning of plastic surgery on a great scale. There are today in England four famous plastic surgeons.

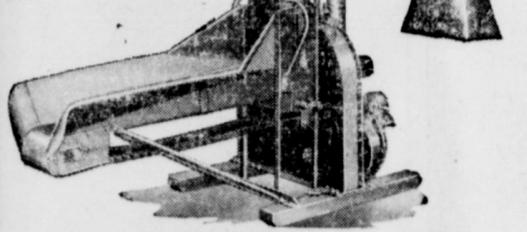

Under the auspices of the British American Ambulance corps, a committee has been formed and is anxious to raise $100,000 to help these surgeons acquire better conditions under which they can treat R.A.F. pilots, munitions workers, civilian defense workers and men, women and children who are maimed or disfigured by modern warfare.

PORTRAIT

On Friday, in New York city, I went in the morning to see a portrait which a young artist had painted for Mr. Liberman, the president of Arnold Constable and company, to add to the collection of works, to add to the collection of works, which traits of inauguration gowns, which Mr. Liberman already has. Considering the fact that this portrait was painted entirely from photographs, except for what the artist could observe in a five-minute talk with me last spring, I think the young man did remarkably well.

These two mills are easy to adjust, simple to operate, and they grind at the exact degree of fineness you want. Come in and see them at our store. The No. 10 has a large capacity, gravity-feed hopper; the No. 10-C is equipped with feed conveyor. By removing screens and hammers in the No. 10-C, you can use it as an ensilage cutter—a feature many livestock feeders and dairymen will like. The McCormick-Deering line is the complete line of feed-grinding equipment. Besides these two mills, we have the new No. 5 Hammer Mill (slightly smaller capacity than the No. 10 and No. 10-C), the No. 2 Roughage Mill, and a complete line of plate-type Feed Grinders.

Honeymoon

By JOSEPH McCORD W.N.U. Service

THE STORY SO FAR: Larry Cutter fell in love with Jacqueline (Jack) Anthony, pretty public stenographer at the Hotel Raynard. While he was dictating an imaginary letter, she told him about her longing for travel. He casually suggested she could realize her dreams by marrying him. Her broker entered before she could reply and informed her that her life's savings had been wiped out. Only a month before, her father had left her when she refused to marry him.

ally suggested she could realize her dreams by marrying him. Her broker entered before she could reply and informed her that her life's savings had been wiped out. Only a month before, her father had left her when she refused to marry him.

you can! I told you this was strictly a business proposition, until you were ready to make it something else. You will. But now . . . I'm glad you mentioned it. I was forgetting."

He dragged a long envelope from that same inner pocket.

"It's only right that you should have security for what you're doing for me. I wouldn't have it any other way. It's the one sensible thing to do. You'll see that . . . when you think it over. You'll find a few government bonds there. They're yours to use as you like. Incidentally, there's a receipt showing they were purchased by me and in my own name . . . from the Guaranty Trust. So you needn't worry about the source. Property of the holder, of course."

Jacqueline nodded her head helplessly. Then she offered a faint and feminine objection.

"The envelope is too long to go in my bag."

"Then stick it in . . . Oh, anywhere. Until you get home. Keep the contract, too. All the damning evidence," Larry essayed a grin. Something told him that the first skirmish in his battle was won.

His smile faded as Jacqueline looked at him steadily to ask, "How many parties must there be in a contract?"

"Two, supposedly. Why?"

"Because you have signed this, but . . . There's no place for my name anywhere."

"I know that," he responded with quick gruffness. "I'm not asking you to sign. I told you I wasn't asking for anything . . . Now."

"But you would be willing to let me . . . not be fair. I can't do that. I gave you my word. Please make some dotted lines for me."

In silence, Larry reached for the paper and produced a fountain pen. Jacqueline leaned forward and watched him jab a neat row of inky dots just above his signature.

When he had finished, he held out the pen. Jacqueline took it and, with steady fingers, wrote her name in small neat characters. She recalled afterwards how cold her hands were.

"There," she said.

Larry drew a long breath as he accepted his pen. "You always would be terribly square about things," he told her in a low earnest voice. "I knew that from the very first. You can't understand what this means to me . . . It will take years." He caught himself. "There's one other thing we really should settle tonight. I told you I had been busy. I was . . . checking up on legal matters, among other things."

"What do you want me to do now?" Jacqueline spoke in that small flat tone again, for the first time. The dark blue eyes were suddenly bewildered, tired.

"Nothing—very bad. This is Thursday . . . I want you to marry me Saturday morning."

Jacqueline received this latest request from Larry Cutter with something bordering upon apathy. If he said this was Thursday, he probably was right. He had a disconcerting way of being right, or seeming to be. The past twelve hours had been an age. Tomorrow would be Friday. Then Saturday . . .

Why not? It fitted well enough into this mad scheme of things. Might as well get it done with . . .

Mr. Cutter was explaining. "I don't wish to seem to arrange everything, but here's the plan I had in mind. We can take my car and run over across the State line. They're very liberal in their ideas of weddings . . . We can get a license and . . . have it over with in an hour. You don't work Saturday afternoons, do you?"

"Not often."

"How about taking the morning off?"

"I suppose I might . . ."

"Seeing that it's a sort of special him additional money for work on his inventions. In a fit of despair, Jack accepted Larry's proposal. She agreed to meet him at dinner to make arrangements for their marriage. Now continue with the story.

occasion," Larry smiled. "I think it would be a good idea to get an early start. If you'll tell me where you live, I'll drop around and pick you up."

"Nine hundred and seven, Courtland street."

Jacqueline watched him scrawl the address on the back of an envelope. He was going to call there for her. They would drive . . . somewhere. And be married . . . married . . . married. That word seemed to be beating against her tired brain . . .

"Would eight o'clock be too early?"

"I'll be ready."

There surely couldn't be much left to discuss now. But Mr. Cutter still seemed preoccupied as he slowly rapped the bowl of his pipe on the ash tray. He looked up with a quick jerk of his head.

"I'm afraid all this has been pretty one-sided. I don't want it to be that way. Is there anything you want to ask me?"

"Nothing."

"What a good little sport you are." He said it warmly, half to himself. "I don't want to seem mysterious, but I'd rather like to have you . . . well, trust me for a little time. There are some things that . . ."

"Please," Jacqueline interrupted in a low voice. "You have asked me for nothing and I . . . I signed, too. If you mean all that you've said . . ."

"And I do. Absolutely."

"Then there is nothing to talk about now. If you don't mind, I'd like to go home."

"Where's your check?" Larry demanded abruptly.

"I have it," Jacqueline's hand closed over it. "I prefer to pay it myself," she added firmly.

"Just as you say."

The little stenographer pushed back her chair, walked quickly to the cashier's booth and paid for her dinner. She took the occasion to slip the folded contract into her bag.

"I am going out the lower entrance," she told him.

"I see. I wish you'd take a cab home. Please. I will not see you tomorrow . . . Until Saturday at eight. You can get word to me here, of course . . . But I hope you won't want to. Good night and . . . thank you."

Jacqueline did take a cab to Courtland street. The gloomy privacy of the lurching taxi was a haven. The reaction to the day's strain possessed her.

Was that what she had become? A chattel . . . ?

Safe within her little apartment, the door closed and locked, she felt secure. The soft lights, the familiar furnishings brought a sudden sense of peace. For the first time since she had established herself there, she had a longing for companionship. If only there were someone to whom she could talk.

Sleep was quite out of the question, activity of some sort imperative.

Jacqueline opened the door of her wardrobe and stood looking at the neat rows of dresses and gowns suspended on their hangers. At the small shoes in orderly array. Hat boxes on a shelf and a smart little week-end bag . . .

No. She wasn't going anywhere. Just for a brief auto ride. And that brown ensemble was her going away costume. Her wedding dress! She was standing here staring at her trousseau . . .

A strange little sound broke the silence of the room . . . a stifled hysterical laugh. It was years before morning came.

Mr. Cutter kept his word about Friday. There was no sign of him around the lobby. Jacqueline was grateful for that. Not that she really wanted to see him, but a glimpse of those broad shoulders would have been reassuring in a way, would have made her positive that the whole thing was not a dream.

Fortunately, Friday proved to be a rather busy day in the small office. That was a help. Although, quite to Jacqueline's own surprise, she found herself looking forward to Saturday's adventure with an unexpected feeling of calm.

Her only item of preparation for the event was a call upon Mr. Archibald Potter in his office on the mezzanine. She wondered if there would be an objection to her closing the office for the forenoon.

"I should think you might do it. I'll leave word at the desk and arrange to have one of the girls up here take care of any emergency cases. Go ahead. Have a good time."

That strange feeling of loneliness assailed her when she covered her typewriter and lowered it into the desk for the night. No . . . until Monday. The sensation persisted as she put the office in order. It was almost as if she never were coming back to the familiar little room.

After all, Jacqueline Anthony wasn't coming back. When she came in here again, she would be a married woman . . . a bride . . . coming to work.

Made Most of Opportunity To Illustrate His Point

The prisoner charged with assault had been severely cross-examined by the prosecuting attorney, but still maintained he had just pushed his victim "a little bit."

"Now," said the prosecutor, "for the benefit of the jury, will you please step down here and, with me as a subject, illustrate just what you mean by 'a little bit'?"

The prisoner descended and the spectators were astonished to see him slap the lawyer in the face, seize him bodily, lift him from the floor and hurl him prostrate across a table.

Turning to the jury, he explained mildly, "Gentlemen, about one-tenth that hard."

Amarillo, Sept. 25.—The Rotary clubs of the 127th district are defense bond minded, according to Cal Farley, district governor.

In addition, almost every club in the district and scores of Rotarians have contributed personally and as clubs to the British Relief Fund sponsored by Rotary International. Gifts to this fund are sent to Rotarians in England, many of whom have suffered great loss and privations. # Household Hints

While beating egg whites see that the bowl and beater are perfectly clean and dry. Also, have no yolk in the white. Otherwise the whites will not beat up to their full volume. If any yolk drops into the white, remove it with a piece of eggshell.

The flavor and vitamin content of cooked white squash are improved by sprinkling grated cheese over it just before it goes to the table.

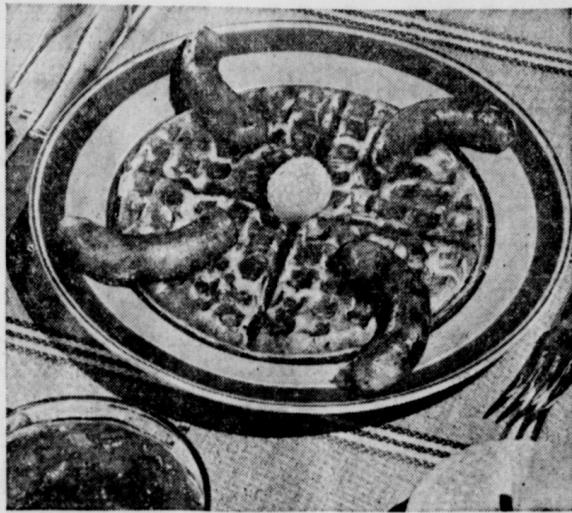

Before cooking rice place it in a colander and pour boiling water over it. Save this water, as it makes excellent starch for blouses, muslin, laces, et cetera.

Bacon will not curl up on the edges if the edges are notched with scissors before putting on to cook.

Vinegar or some other acid such as lemon juice added to beets will cut the bland flavor and help to restore the red color lost when cooking.

WAFFLES AT NIGHT—GUESTS' DELIGHT! (See Recipes Below)

OUT OF THE WAFFLE IRON

Waffles! Um'm! Crisp and browned to suit the taste—a queenly dish, whether you're a homemaker who delights in calling in your friends—a "home body" who caters only to the family—or a lone eater who simply likes nice foods.

It's fun to make 'em . . . it's fun to bake 'em. And waffle baking has made so many homemakers—young and old—waffle-party conscious, that we've included in this week's column games especially suitable for waffle parties.

So why not be a hostess who is different! Invite the "gang" in for a neighborhood "waffle feed."

Your new deal in entertaining—whether your guests be clubwomen, daughter's pals, the high school basketball team, or hubby's cronies—will go down in social history. Mark our words!

Waffle recipes can be divided into two parts—the "ordinary" or "regular" waffle—good enough for anybody; and the waffles with frills and furbelows—gingerbread waffles, chocolate waffles, etc. So we give you some of each.

Waffles.

- (Makes 5 waffles)
  - 2 cups sifted flour
  - 1 1/2 cups milk
  - 3 teaspoons baking powder
  - 3/2 teaspoon salt
  - 2 eggs
  - 4 to 6 tablespoons melted shortening
- Separate the eggs and beat the yolks with the milk. Add the sifted dry ingredients, then the melted shortening, and last, the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into hot waffle iron and bake until iron stops steaming.

Variations for Standard Recipe.

- Pineapple Waffles—Reduce milk in plain waffle recipe to 1 cup and add 3/4 cup well-drained crushed pineapple.
- Date Waffles—Add 1 cup chopped dates mixed with part of flour from recipe.
- Ham Waffles—Add 6 tablespoons minced cooked ham to plain waffles.
- Huckleberry Waffles—Add 1 cup well-drained, canned or fresh huckleberries mixed with 1/4 cup sugar.
- Nut Waffles—Add 1 cup finely chopped nuts to standard waffle recipe.
- Spiced Waffles—Add 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon cloves and 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg to batter for plain waffles. Nuts may be added to this.
- Corn Waffles—Add 1 cup well-drained, canned whole-kernel corn to standard recipe.

Yeast Waffles.

- (Makes 5 waffles)
  - 1 1/4 cups milk
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 4 tablespoons melted shortening
  - 1 yeast cake
  - 3/4 cup warm water
  - 2 cups flour
  - 2 eggs
- Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add salt and melted fat, then milk and flour. Stir until smooth. Let

LYNN SAYS:

Care of the Waffle Iron. Most modern electric waffle irons should not be greased, but extra richness must be put into the waffle batter. This should be poured on the pre-heated iron from a pitcher or with a large spoon.

With continued use, the cooking surface is apt to become brown, and it is a mistake to remove this unless it becomes burned or too thick. During the occasional scourings, great care must be taken not to get water into the connection plug or heating element. A damp cloth or a soft brush should be used to free the iron from excess batter or crumbs.

- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Dash of nutmeg

Chop apples, add lemon juice and nutmeg. Let stand for 15 minutes. Sift flour, measure, add dry ingredients and add apples and butter. Heat waffle iron 6 to 8 minutes, pour on batter and bake two to three minutes. Serve with butter and brown syrup.

Here's a good game for your next waffle party. It's called CONSEQUENCES and is played as the old familiar Consequences. Paper and pencil are needed. Each person draws the head of a beast, bird or man, folds the paper over and passes it to the neighbor on his left. Each person then draws a body of beast, bird or man, according to his fancy, and again folds the paper over. The last item to be added is the legs and feet. The paper is to be folded again and passed to the neighbor on the left, then all are opened. The results may be astonishing. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE FULFILLMENT OF HISTORY: THE NEW JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 21:1-7, 10-12, 22

GOLDEN TEXT—He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son.—Revelation 21:7.

A happy ending may not suit the fancy of modern writers of fiction, but it does suit God. He "who worketh all things after the counsel of his own will" (Eph. 1:11) will see to it that redeemed man shall "be to the praise of his glory" (Eph. 1:12). The eternal, omnipotent God will bring the history of His dealings with mankind to a glorious ending. The last book of the Bible comes to its last pages where, after dealing with the final struggle of man with his enemy Satan (which has gone on since the entrance of sin into the world in the Garden of Eden), we find the glorious, God-given revelation of the "divine, final restoration of the universe, a picture of the home where we who love the Lord Jesus will forever dwell."

I. "The Tabernacle of God Is with Men" (vv. 1-7).

Our God is always with His people, but there is a promise of the time when He shall "pitch His tent" (for thus we might translate the word "tabernacle") in their very midst and "be with them" in full and unhindered fellowship. This He once did for a time when "the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14), or literally "tabernacled among us." In the day of which our lesson speaks He will come to live permanently with His people.

The blessings of His divine presence are beautifully described in verses 4 to 6. There will be no more tears, because every occasion for them is gone. There will be no death, pain or sorrow, for the one who sits upon the throne will have made everything new.

Christianity does not evade the question of sorrow and suffering, but it does point to a glorious day when they will be done forever. What a precious promise!

II. "The Holy City . . . Having the Glory of God" (vv. 10-12).

The description of the holy city is differently interpreted, but perhaps the best one is that it will be in the form of a pyramid on a square base 1,500 miles in width and length (12,000 furlongs—v. 16), rising in terraces, and 1,500 miles high at the top.

The description of the city is glorious beyond words (read 21:1 through 22:7), but the crowning fact of all is that it has "the glory of God." His presence means more than all the glories of precious stones and of "pure gold, like unto clear glass." He is more than His gifts, and His presence is more glorious than all His mighty works.

III. God the Almighty and the Lamb Are the Temple (vv. 22).

As long as we live under the present conditions of life, we cannot do without a place to meet to worship God and to receive spiritual help and strength—a temple. But when the redeemed are gathered in the Holy City they will have no need for a temple. The place of meeting with God "which now has to be delimited from the world, and set apart for God—yes, and held with determination and force of will against invading hosts—has there expanded to cover the whole area of human experience and activity. God's presence has no longer to be sought; it is known; it is felt, universal and all-pervading as the light of day" (C. Anderson Scott).

IV. No Need of the Sun—the Glory of God Did Light It (vv. 23, 24).

The great need of man in this world is light. He rejoices in the sun as it sheds its life-giving rays upon the earth. He does his work and finds his healthful recreation in the day. When darkness comes, he must have illumination, that he may read, study, work, or fellowship with others. From the flickering pine knot man went on to the candle, to the lamp; and now in most places he floods his city and its homes with the light of electricity. But even so there is too much darkness in the world, and the men who love darkness rather than light (see John 3:19) are able to practice their evil deeds.

In the New Jerusalem all will be light, for the One who is light (I John 1:5) and the source of all light, permits His glory to shine forth and "lighten it." Jesus, the Lamb, who is the light of the world (John 8:12), is the never failing lamp of the city.

In such light not only the nations of the earth, but their kings as well, will want to walk, doing honor with all their glory to the One who is all-glorious. The verses which follow our lesson tell us that the gates of the city shall never be closed, but only that which is good and honorable shall enter in. Nothing sinful, vile, or false shall come within its blessed portals.
