

CO-OPERATIVE STATION ASSURED DRY AREA SURVEY OF LYNN COUNTY

WOMEN ARE URGED TO REPORT NEEDS TO COMMITTEEMEN

of Red Cross May Be Asked If Many of County's People Are Destitute

Efforts are being made locally to Red Cross aid in Lynn County those who are in need of food, clothing or medicine. A committee appointed by Governor Danley on the recommendation of W. C. Wells, R. E. Shaver, and L. Lockwood in a meeting Monday afternoon decided to make a survey of the county to determine the need, if any, and report to the governor in an effort to get help.

The following committees were appointed to represent their respective communities and anyone in need of clothing or medicine are requested to report to one of the committees immediately:

- W. Lynn: R. W. Barton, Post, E. J. B. Miller, Tahoka, Rt. 1.
- Benjamin: J. E. Ray, Tahoka, Rt. 1.
- Manhattan: Luther Thomas, Post 1.
- W. Warrick: Post, Rt. 5.
- W. L. Carbell, Post, Rt. 2.
- W. W. Armstrong, Tahoka, Rt. 1.
- Clyde Shaw, Wilson, Rt. 2.
- R. L. Miliken, Wilson, Rt. 2; R. L. Simpson, Wilson, Rt. 2.
- R. E. Finley, Wilson; C. N. Shecky, Wilson.
- Stokes: J. J. Gray, Wilson; W. Edlin, Lubbock, Rt. 6.
- Home: Joe Poindexter, Wilcox; S. L. Smith, Tahoka, Rt. 1.
- W. W. Armstrong, Tahoka, Rt. 1.
- F. A. Pitts, Tahoka, Rt. 4.
- Noble, Tahoka, Rt. 4.
- W. S. Perry, Meadowbrook; Brooks Smith, J. W. Simplicity, Tahoka, Rt. 4.

COTTON GINNED IN O'DONNELL

Port up to noon Wed. Sept. 17

is 120 bales above the report of last week. While it has been no particular rush of the baling gins have run day, and there has been a very increase in business daily.

Cotton Ginning Reduced

Cotton ginning in O'Donnell went down Wednesday morning from 200 bales per hundred to 30 cents.

According to the ginners, holding up well in both grade and price, considering the drought and conditions. Some cotton is being picked, but the most part is not and some being baled.

With the arrival of cotton pickers this week and the opening of much cotton, due to the continued drought, the gins should have by steady running this coming week. And with the coming of the Co-Op sub-station the farmer will have access to a government graded ready market with an advance 10 per cent, if he desires to hold cotton for a while to await a rise in the marketing price.

DEPARTMENTAL WORK SUCCESS IN GRAMMAR SCHOOL

With a total enrollment of two hundred and fifty-six, the grammar school is well in step for the year's work. Either Mrs. Paul Gooch, principal, is lucky in having so efficient and agreeable a staff of teachers, or the staff is lucky in having so enterprising and considerate a principal, for never has the work been so well organized and plans as well under way as they are this year.

For one thing, departmental work that desirably dreamed of plan for several years, is actually being used this year, and each teacher has charge of the subjects she is especially suited for and which she really likes. Naturally, this makes the work more interesting for the teachers themselves as well as for the pupils.

This method is advisable for many reasons. The first has been mentioned. For another, such a method enables the teacher to become acquainted with pupil in all three of the higher classes, to become familiar with their thought processes, and at the same time gives her a variety, or change of scenery and work, much more appreciated, according to several of the teachers.

Educators are of the opinion that such a method makes the transition from grammar school to high school much easier for the pupils, since in this way they will already be accustomed to different teachers for the several subjects.

This is the second effort to establish departmental teaching in the local school. The first was not very well organized and was soon abandoned.

The departments are divided among the teachers as follows: Miss Gates, writing, History, and Reading. Miss Hancock, Math, Geography and Spelling. Mrs. Gilbreath, Reading, Art, and Spelling. Mrs. Gooch, English, Spelling, and Civics.

RODGERS FAMILY REUNION AT TAHOKA SUNDAY

An item which was unfortunately omitted last week was the reunion of the W. L. Rodgers family here last week. Mr. and Mrs. Byrd Rodgers and family returned from Los Angeles on Wednesday, just half-an-hour before Mrs. J. W. Holland and sons arrived from Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Major H. Rodgers and family came down from Levelland and Mr. Mrs. Claude Malone were here from Stanton.

RAYBURN BUYS HOME

SORRELS HOUSE CHOSEN

A real estate deal of interest to local people was completed Saturday when C. A. Rayburn became the owner of the house owned by E. L. Sorrels. The house is a modern and attractive stucco dwelling in the east part of town, having all modern conveniences, and was only recently remodelled. It is for a few months longer occupied by Mrs. N. M. Wyatt of Tahoka. Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Tree-sitting may be merely an indication of evolution in reverse.

NAME COURT'S JURY PANELS

District Court Session Opens Sept. 22nd; Docket Expected To Be Very Light This Term.

District court will open Monday, September 22, for the fall term, and jurors selected to serve published below are furnished by County and District Clerk Truett Smith. Due to prospects for light docket, Judge Gordon B. McQuinn ordered petit jury lists drawn for only two weeks instead of the usual three weeks.

The following have been drawn for service on the grand jury and are requested to report Monday, Sept. 22, at 10 a. m.

John Herb, Ed Cook, J. R. Claborn, C. M. Greer, J. J. Waldrep, Ed Redwine, Clyde Shaw, Burton Edwards, E. W. Holloway, C. H. Mansell, B. D. Ballew, J. E. Rice, Wash Hickerson, J. A. Jones, I. M. Draper, and M. E. McCormick.

The following petit jurors will report Monday, Sept. 29, at 10 a. m.: G. E. Wright, J. O. Thrallkill, Tom Brewer, Russel Vernon, Oliver Todd, Loyd R. McCormick, W. E. Galloway, E. D. Holman, Will Tomason, Dee Rogers, Ray Campbell, J. E. Richardson, Ruby Maeker, Dee Fleming, J. A. Anderson, Joe Kears, J. G. Mathis, W. J. Patrix, Jeff Connolly, R. Painter, Dee Sanders, Willi Curry, W. R. Greer, J. V. Huddleston, E. E. Crooks, O. L. Woddis Bryan Mathis, Bert Short, A. C. Fairley, Lynn Jackson, C. W. Connor, J. M. West and J. M. Farmer.

CHANGES IN B. & O. STAFF THIS WEEK

B. L. Davis of the B. & O. store announced Monday that the store is now under new management. Mrs. Naymon Everett is presiding over the cashier's realm, and Dick Tane is in charge of the meat department.

USE HOME LABOR AND HELP WHEN EVER POSSIBLE IS PLEA.

Now that cotton picking has started, it is affording employment for many who have been without work for some time. When you are in need of cotton pickers, look around and see if there are those in O'Donnell community that are in need of work. It is the duty of those who have jobs to help those who are less fortunate and who are and have been without work.

The same thing is true of the businesses in our town as well as with our farmers. There are many competent and capable clerks that are without employment and who would be mighty glad of an opportunity of securing something to do. Therefore, when ever there is an opening or you have some way to help the other fellow remember there are plenty here at home that can do the work and who will appreciate the trial.

Prof. D. A. Edwards, Coach Scott and the team are asking that O'Donnell people turn out to the game and see how much noise and "hooping" they can do. This year's team is the best that O'Donnell has produced in a number of years and are worthy of O'Donnell. For once, let's turn out and show the fellows we are for them. And because they lost the first game don't go back on O'Donnell. For once, let's be beaten as long as there are sports.

If you drive your car fill it up, there are plenty of people who want to go, and if you don't have a car, fill up some other car. But, go to Tahoka to the game.

LUBBOCK TO HOLD MARKET WEEK AND STYLE SHOW IN OCTOBER

Lubbock, Texas, Sept. 17.—With new names of wholesalers coming in daily, preparatory for a big showing of merchandise at the West Texas Market Week and Style Show, Oct. 5 to 8, looms bigger and bigger each day.

From 150 to 200 Wholesalers, including some of the largest concerns in the Southwest are expected. Quite a large number have already sent in advance fees for the style show which is to be held Monday evening, October 6.

Two thousand West Texas and Eastern New Mexico retail clothing merchants are expected here for the marketing event. These retailers will find a display of the latest styles equal to some of the best markets in the Southwest which will save them much in time away from their business in and traveling and other expenses incurred in going to distant markets.

The latest in styles will be displayed by those entering the style show. Among the articles to be shown are men's clothing, suits, overcoats, hats and shoes, Ladies Ready-to-Wear, shoes, Millinery and jewelry and novelties, hosiery, and other clothing articles and accessories.

The marketing event is being staged by Southwestern wholesalers, assisted by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. It is the second of its kind here. Last March a similar event was held and was highly successful. Due to the unusual success, the wholesalers voted to make the event a semi-annual affair in Lubbock to serve West Texas and Eastern New Mexico retailers.

B. L. Davis of the B. & O. store announced Monday that the store is now under new management. Mrs. Naymon Everett is presiding over the cashier's realm, and Dick Tane is in charge of the meat department.

O'DONNELL-TAHOKA FOOTBALL GAME AT TAHOKA FRIDAY

The O'Donnell High football team goes to Tahoka Friday to engage in a tussel with the Tahoka High team.

Although the local boys lost their game last Friday to Post, the Tahoka lads were only able to hold Wilson to a tie game. Summing up the qualities of the two teams it is evident that this will be a great game and the teams will be closely matched. However, with the experience of one hard game under their belt O'Donnell boys will go into the game in good shape and with the sole intention and purpose of downing the county seat aggressor.

Prof. D. A. Edwards, Coach Scott and the team are asking that O'Donnell people turn out to the game and see how much noise and "hooping" they can do. This year's team is the best that O'Donnell has produced in a number of years and are worthy of O'Donnell. For once, let's turn out and show the fellows we are for them. And because they lost the first game don't go back on O'Donnell. For once, let's be beaten as long as there are sports.

If you drive your car fill it up, there are plenty of people who want to go, and if you don't have a car, fill up some other car. But, go to Tahoka to the game.

EAGLES LOSE HARD FOUGHT GAME TO POST

The O'Donnell Eagles lost the first game of the football season last Friday afternoon to the Post Antelopes on the Antelopes' own field in a few days.

The game was a hard fought battle from the first to the last whistle, and should according to those who saw the game have been a nothing to nothing tie. The teams were evenly matched and for the most part was very exciting and interesting.

If the sport term "breaks" means anything, it is quite evident that the Post team received the only break in the game when they scored. Post was forced to punt, and an O'Donnell back fumbled the punt and was downed in his tracks. Being in the hopes of the boys that a good crowd will attend the game there and lend their support to them and help, by showing that O'Donnell is interested in her team, bring home the bacon from Tahoka.

The Post team failed to add the point after touchdown and the game ended with the count Post 6 and O'Donnell 0.

The local team showed the results of the hard training which Coach Scott has been putting the boys through, and with the experience gained in this game the team will be in condition to give its rivals a good fight for the balance of the season.

MRS. RODGERS SUFFERING FROM SEVER BURN

Mrs. W. L. Rodgers is still almost a cripple from burns received two weeks ago when a vessel of hot grease overturned on both her feet. A slight infection set up and she has been compelled to remain in bed several days.

The accident occurred during the reunion of her family two weeks ago. Mrs. Rodgers, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Malone and Mrs. Holland, was preparing breakfast when she accidentally struck the handle of the frying-pan, knocking it over and spilling the entire contents on her feet and limbs, which were blistered from the ankle half-way to her knee.

AMARILLO PRESBYTERY MEETS HERE IN SPRING

Amarillo Presbytery of the Cumberland church will meet in O'Donnell on Thursday, February 26, and will continue until Sunday, March 1. The Amarillo Presbytery covers the South Plains, reaching from Amarillo to Lamesa. Rev. Walter O. Parr, pastor of the local church, explained something of the working of his church in a statement for the Index. The statement follows:

"The Presbytery is the second court of the church, the Session being their first. The session is made up of men elected by the local congregations. Presbytery is composed of each minister and one ruling elder from each congregation within its bounds. Then we have the Synod, which covers one state. Texas Synod, however, is an exception to the rule in that it takes in China. The reason for this is that we have only one Presbytery in China and it takes three Presbyteries to make a Synod.

Synod is composed of each minister in its bounds and one ruling elder from each congregation. Next comes the highest court, which is General Assembly, which meets once each year. It is composed of one minister and one elder from each Presbytery, unless there are as many as twenty ministers in the Synod.

BUSINESS MEN SIGN UP THE NECESSARY GUARANTEE

Office Open At Once

Many Farmers Express Appreciation For The Station In O'Donnell

The Texas Co-Operative Sub-station for O'Donnell is now an assured thing and will be in operation in a few days.

The business men of O'Donnell have underwritten the chamber of commerce guarantee of three thousand dollars which was necessary to secure the station and see all the merchants but quit as soon as the guarantee was underwritten in order to draw up the papers and get them accepted.

Only a few hours were necessary to obtain the underwriters for this amount, and because the time was short in which to make application for the station, those who were doing the soliciting did not see all the merchants but quit as soon as the guarantee was underwritten in order to draw up the papers and get them accepted.

Marshall Whitsett, president of the chamber of commerce, and J. L. Shoemaker, Jr., carried the papers to the district office at Lubbock Monday morning where the papers were readily accepted and a sub-station for O'Donnell was certain.

The local gin men have lent every bit of aid that they could in helping to secure the station and their co-operation is in a large measure responsible for the station. Each gin has agreed to pay the Co-Op 25 cents for each bale of cotton that is ginned at their gin, but not sold to the Co-Op. This 25 cents goes to the credit of the chamber of commerce, and for each bale that is sold to the Co-Op the chamber of commerce gets a credit of 40 cents per bale.

To become a member of the Co-Operative Association there is a charge of $10 per member, which entitles the member to a life membership to the association. The requirements are that the member will sell every other bale to the Co-Op, until he has sold ten bales, after that it is optional with him as to whether he will sell more or not. Each member is bound to the Association for only two years, after that time he may, if he so desires, drop from the association.

LUBBOCK BOOSTERS HERE LAST FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Lubbock boosters were in O'Donnell Friday afternoon advertising the Panhandle South Plains Fair which is to be held in Lubbock September 29 to October 4.

The party was accompanied by the Lubbock High School band who rendered a concert on the square. Several Lubbock citizens made short speeches boosting the fair and urging the people to attend.

The local schools were dismissed and gathered on the street to give the Boosters a hearty welcome. They were rewarded for their long wait by receiving wooden whistles, and even yet O'Donnell is impressively reminded that there are a few who have not been lost or broken.

On page seven of this issue is an advertisement of the Panhandle South Plains Fair. Turn to that page the attractions and their program.

BETTER TIMES ARE COMING.

Following is an editorial taken from the Saturday Dallas News, which would lead us to believe that better times are just ahead. Here is the article:

"Crop Price to Rise"

"The smallest general crops in the United States in twenty years, due to a severe summer drought, should result in substantial price rises which eventually will prove of immense benefit to American agriculture. The population of this country has increased steadily in the last ten years. Crop shortages of many major commodities will remove the troublesome export surpluses. When corn is 700,000,444 bushels under production of a year ago it means that surplus wheat will have to be fed to live stock in increasing amount and thus add a depressed commodity.

"Texas crops on the whole are more nearly average than those in many of the Middle West States. A survey made by the Federal Government indicates that Texas will have 8,000,000 bushels of surplus corn to sell. Other Texas surpluses are 6,000,000 bushels of oats, grain sorghums 1,300,000 bushels, and rice showing a surplus above last year of around 1,000,000 bushels. The only major Texas farm crop which is selling far below cost of production is cotton. There is no sign of improving prices, due to a complex world situation, slackened demand for raw cotton and general business depression. But even cotton prices should improve sooner or later.

"There are indications that the live stock industry will show marked improvement within the next six months. The culling of dairy and

CENTURY OF RAILROADS

The year 1930 marks the 100th anniversary of the first regularly operated steam railroad in the United States, the Baltimore and Ohio, which in 1830 was only 13 miles long. Other construction under way brought the total for the country to 23,000 miles. By 1840 the mileage had increased to 2,818 and extensions were made with increasing rapidity during the succeeding years. When the railroad was 50 years old, in 1880, the United States had 93,671 miles. The ten years between 1880 and 1890 was the greatest period of railroad building. American roads built during that decade totaled 71,983 miles. The total railroad mileage was reached in 1916, when 254,251 miles were in operation.

Since 1916, owing to the abandonment of a number of unprofitable short lines, the mileage has been actually reduced, being now about 249,300 miles. At present new construction is almost entirely limited to adding a section, third or even fourth track to existing lines.

One of the most striking developments in railroading has been the increase in the size of locomotives. From a weight of less than five tons 100 years ago, they have been built larger and larger until today many passenger locomotives weigh 150 tons or more, while those used in freight transportation range as high as 220 tons or more. A few of special types exceed 400 tons.

With the growing competition of the automobile, truck and airplane, it is impossible to predict what the next century of railroading may bring forth. It is safe to predict, however, that for heavy freight transportation the railroads will hold first place for many years to come.

beef cattle owing to short pastures and scant feed will benefit these industries ultimately. Severe declines in cattle prices always result in tightening up of cattle credit, which leaves the production of these animals in the hands of those best qualified to carry on. In much the same way as severe cotton price depression is always followed by heavy acreage curtailment, which in turn enables growers to obtain a higher price for a shorter crop."

THAT IS SUSPENSE

When the check is $1.60, you have only $1.80, and your lady is decid ing whether or not to have dessert.

TAKE A CHOICE

Desk Sergeant: "Guilty or not guilty?"
Murderer: "What else have you?"

A Chicagoan visiting Dallas had occasion to call Fort Worth. Upon asking what the charge was, he was told fifty cents.

"Fifty cents. For that distance. Great scott! In Chicago you can call it—up for fifty cents."

Citizens who choose the laws which they will obey have an ample variety to select from.

STOP THE WASTE

Overproduction of oil with the result waste of an irreplaceable and limited national resource, is not only the oil industry's problem, but the public's as well.

Then conservation movement is primarily in the public interest. We are depleting our oil reserves, according to the Federal Oil Conservation Board, several times faster than the rest of the world. Only by rigid adjustment of supply and demand can waste be outlawed, the industry stabilized and our own and future generations assured of a steady, adequate and reasonably priced supply of petroleum products.

The fear that conservation would lead to a monopoly is unfounded. Oil is one of the most highly competitive of all industries and will remain so. But it is necessary that the mad scramble of irresponsible producers to earn quick profits be permanently stopped.

GOOD NEWS

The Federal Government estimates that $1,750,000,000 will be spent on the nation's roads this year—$250,000,000 more than in 1929.

This is good news. As the San Francisco Chronicle remarks, road building is one field in which production cannot run ahead of consumption. Every year witnesses increased motorization of all industrial and social activities. Multitudes of new cars come onto the highways, resulting in a congestion that can be relieved only by building more roads.

It is to be hoped that a large part of the $1,750,000,000 will be spent on the construction of secondary, or farm-to-market roads. During recent years splendid highways have been built between the cities of the United States. But rural districts, for the most part, must still depend on the type of road that was in existence back in the horse-and-wagon age. There are 4,250,000 American farms and a well known agricultural authority estimates that 5,000,000 of them are cut off from their markets and from contacts with the outside world during a part of each year by muddy, impassable and unimproved roads. Such a condition must be remedied if agriculture is to keep up with the march of progress.

There is still another important side to the question of road building—it is one of the best and least expensive ways we have of relieving unemployment. Highway construction is of direct benefit to everyone.

INTERESTING BRIEVES

Campbell Soups, after advertising for years in magazines exclusively, started in January to use newspaper space. In the twelve months just past they sold 48,500,000 more cans of soup than in the preceding year in spite of existing business conditions, or gain in dollars of between four and five million.

Thirty-eight American cities are playing league baseball games at night and the change apparently has rescued minor league baseball that was suffering heavily from poor business. Four of the cities with electrically lighted parks are, in the Texas League, Houston, San Antonio, Waco and Shreveport.

Whatever else may happen. Now that the country's dry. The sailor will have his port. The farmer has his rye. The cotton still has got its gin. The seacrest has its bar. And each of us will have a beer. No matter who we are.

A GOOD START

A book agent approached Smith as he stood on the porch and asked: "Is the master of the house in?" "He is," answered Smith. "Second floor front—you'll find him in his cradle."

HELPING TO BUILD TEXAS

A cooperage plant is a new industry at Brownwood with a capacity of 1,000 barrels a day to handle the products of that section of Central West Texas. Orders for 110 carloads of barrels were received with only about a tenth of its territory canvassed, according to the Brownwood News. . . . Specimens of Dal-lam County sand have shown as high a silica content as 75 per cent. Another specimen showed 50 per cent silica, 32 per cent aluminum and 17 per cent iron. A brick plant will be an early result of the discovery.

Capacity of the Petroleum Iron Works and Pennsylvania Shipyards, Beaumont, will be doubled if railroad bridges are rebuilt to give sufficient clearance for vessels coming to the plant's dry dock. . . . Pampa is to get two new industries, a steel fabricating plant and a new refinery. . . . Beaumont's new paint factory, built by a Standard Oil subsidiary, will produce 10,000 pounds of paint a day when it gets into operation. . . . For the first six months of 1930 output of the Texas Electric Service Co., Fort Worth, gained 17.5 per cent over the same period in 1928.

El Paso Electric Co. will withhold payment of taxes on its new plant until the United States Supreme Court decides in which state—Texas or New Mexico—the property is located. Rendered for taxation in Texas, New Mexico has also put the property on its rolls at $1,500,000, so E. J. Gannon, president of the company, decided he would await final decision on the boundary before he would know to which commonwealth to make payment.

Southwest Public Service Co. is adding a new 12,500-kilowatt unit to its Amarillo plant bringing its capacity to 22,500 kilowatts, and building a 66-kv transmission line from there to near Tascosa, adding several hundred horsepower to the demand on the Amarillo unit and rendering better service to the Northwest Panhandle region. . . . Temple plans a 4,000,000-watt reservoir, and is considering installation of an electric pump to handle 2,000 gallons a minute. . . . Texas University regents will receive bids on $500,000 library building, $400,000 classroom building and $250,000 laboratory addition.

The 100th anniversary of the first recorded use of gas for cooking purposes was observed this year. The first cooking was done by means of a spit revolved in front of a gas jet. The first gas range was evolved twenty years later, but little use was made of the idea until in the late 70s following the Centennial Exposition. Fifty per cent of the families now depend on gas for cooking.

KONJOLA VERY MEDICINE THIS LADY REQUIRED

She Rejects Over Wonderful Relief From Indigestion—Happy To Endorse New Medicine.

MRS. ALMA WEBSTER

"I had stomach trouble for a year and a half," said Mrs. Alma Webster, 5017, Avenue R, Galveston. "Each meal brought pain for my food was not properly digested. Gas formed after every meal at times making me very ill. There were many things I did not dare eat because of the condition of my stomach."

"I kept reading in the papers about Konjola and what it was doing for so many people that I began the treatment. Konjola has so improved my condition that I have not had a sick nor dizzy spell since I began taking the medicine. I can eat anything I wish without fear of subsequent misery. I have improved in general health and am happy to endorse this medicine because of what it has done for me."

Sufferers do not have long to wait after taking Konjola before relief comes. However, a six to eight bottle treatment is suggested for the average case.

Konjola is sold in O'Donnell at the Whiteside Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

INTERESTING NOTES

With a population of 690 per square mile, Java is the most densely populated body of land in the world.

Picketwire, Colo., known as the smallest town in America, is to have the world's largest airport.

Havana, Cuba, is believed to have the lowest taxi cab rates in the world, charging only 20 cents for two miles and there is seldom a charge for waiting time.

The Federal Radio Commission has authorized Westinghouse station KDKA at Pittsburg to operate experimentally on 400,000 watts, the highest broadcasting power ever attempted.

A war has been started on hundreds of fortune tellers who have victimized thousands of spectators in the stock market in Tokio, Japan. When the government starts its direct selling method, effective July 1, 1931, more than 480 tobacco brokers in Japan are to be forced out of business.

SELLING TO FARMERS

Business men of the country spend 850 million dollars a year for advertising to reach city dwellers, but only 30 million in reaching the farmers, according to Samuel R. McKelvie of the Federal Farm Board. He added that this disproportion in advertising efforts was all the more striking when it is considered that the farmers of the country have a normal purchasing power of ten billion dollars annually. He might have gone further by stating that no class of prospective customers are more responsive to honest advertising than farmers and farmer's wives. Generally they take fewer newspapers and other periodicals than city dwellers and consequently read those they do take more thoroughly.

Merchants would do well to give more consideration to the newspapers which reach the rural population.

WHAT'S NEWS

An electrical treatment has recently been discovered for labor and bronchial pneumonia, and it is so overwhelmingly positive in 200 tests that it is "virtually a specific."

A loud speaker has been developed by engineers in Germany which can be heard five miles away.

When wood is boiled in paper making, a sulphite turpentine gas is given off which is used in making TNT.

A Viennese X-ray specialist discovered while taking X-ray photographs of abnormal children that the rays themselves caused both the mental and physical condition of the children to improve.

A new printing plate has been invented which is so light that it can be sent through the mail as first class matter and yet it is strong enough to stand more wear and tear than the old ones of metal.

The discovery that rats are afflicted with a disease which appears to be the same as human leprosy will make it easier for scientists to make experimental studies of this dread disease.

Keep your Car young with Flashlike Gasoline & Velvet Motor Oil

Preserve the quietness and smoothness of your car by using a fuel of high anti-knock rating --- and its compression, by using a motor oil that never leaves a moving part unshielded --- whether the motor be cold or hot. Flashlike Gasoline and Velvet Motor Oil form the ideal combination. Flashlike Gasoline makes a motor start easily, develop full power quickly, and run smoothly for thousands of miles of added service-life. Velvet Motor Oil has the body and easy-flowing qualities to protect bearings at all driving speeds and temperatures. It holds compression --- and increases power.

FORMAL GATHERING FRIDAY AT KIMBALL HOME

Mrs. Belle Knight and Miss Christine Milwies, accompanied by a number of friends, were guests last Friday evening at a delightful informal gathering at the home of Mrs. Kimball, who love east town.

Freezers full of ice cream and home-made cake, as well as pleasing games for forty-two, made the most enjoyable.

Other guests were Misses Sue Foster and Mary Gates, Jeanette Thomas, June Gary, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stark, and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Van. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn were leaving that evening for Oklahoma.

E. CLUB ORGANIZED ALICE BUSBY PRESIDENT

Miss Alice Busby was elected president of the Home Economics Tuesday afternoon when the club was organized. Miss Elizabeth Turner is vice-president, Ruth Roberts, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Vaughn, reporter.

Thirty members were present for organization.

It was decided that the club would meet each Monday afternoon in the high school auditorium. Mrs. B. H. Scott will be club sponsor.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

Honoring Misses Louise Edwards and Mary Joe Gates, Miss Christine Milwies was the charming hostess Thursday evening to a number of her friends of the honor guests, who left this week for college.

Miss Edwards left Monday for Ft. Worth, where she will attend Texas Woman's College; Miss Gates left Wednesday for Canyon where she will take up her work at North Texas State Teachers' College.

Forty-two tables were placed for gift players. Punch was served during the course of the games.

Guest prizes were dainty evening underchiefs of pink and green chiffon and net.

Refreshments of ice cream and red food squares with rosebuds as the favors, were served to Misses G. Gary, Vivian Pearce, Mattie Williams, Jeanette Thomas, Sue Thomas, and the honor guests.

FORMAL FAREWELL PARTY FRIDAY EVENING

On Friday evening a few of the friends of Miss Beverly Wells gathered at her home to wish her luck and happiness in her college life.

Miss Wells, accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Wells, left Monday for Denton, where she will attend the State College for Women. Throughout her high school career she has been one of the leaders in student activities. She was a member of the 1930 graduating class.

Music and dancing furnished the amusement of the evening, and all guests look forward to her return at mid-year holidays, hoping for a continuation of the good times at the Wells home.

Those present were Misses Morene Jeff, Irma D. Palmer and Alline McIlroy; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Jordan, Messrs. Charles Cathey, Vance Joyce, Morris McIlroy, Sumner Clayton, Howard Tredway and Alvin Medley.

ODFELLOWS ENJOY MEET THURSDAY EVENING

Last Thursday evening members of the Odd Fellows lodge, with their families, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gates for a picnic style supper and an evening of fun.

Electric lights were strung outside to make room for all the eats and to furnish light for outdoor games.

Chickens, salads, pies, cakes, and ice cream were represented in squads and companies, and the guests did full justice to the ample fare.

Threatening clouds and thunder were such unusual things that they put many of the company home. The others, however, enjoyed an hour of games.

Y. P. U. EXERCISES LARGELY ATTENDED SUN

A great crowd attended the B. Y. P. U. commencement exercises at the Baptist church at Brownfield last Sunday. Special musical numbers from various churches in the association were features of an interesting program. Between six and seven hundred awards were given, with sixty of that number coming from the local church.

The B. Y. P. U. revival has been in progress all over the Brownfield association for the past week. It has attracted large attendance here with much interest on the part of students. It is expected to be of great benefit to the work of the

MR. AND MRS. W. L. WALKER MOVED TO O'DONNELL

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Walker who resided on a farm three miles west of O'Donnell, last week moved to the Charley Clements property in O'Donnell.

In a trade made recently Mr. Clements took over the farm and equipment of his father-in-law, W. L. Walker and is now trying his hand on the farm. It is reported that Charley was not so well received by the farm animals. In about the first attempt to work one of the teams the animals realized it was not their master's voice and "chose to run."

The Index, with the citizens of O'Donnell are happy to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Walker to our city and hope that soon Charlie will be on better terms with the farm stock and farming equipment, wishing for him much success in his new line of work.

LEAGUE RALLY HELD MUCH INTEREST SHOWN

More than fifty members and visitors were at the meeting of the Crusaders' Union held at the local Methodist church Sunday. This is an organization composed of the Leagues of McCarty, Lamesa, and O'Donnell.

Mrs. W. B. Little, senior league district secretary, was present, as was presiding elder Bickley. A most interesting program was rendered, and several inspirational talks was made.

Officers for the coming year were elected. W. M. Peterson of McCarty will be president. Miss Hester Gates and Vernon Kirkland will represent O'Donnell.

WITH THE CHURCH ORGANIZATIONS

Cumberland Presbytrian
Sunday school attendance, 48.

A new class, one for the young people, has been organized with Mrs. A. W. Gibbs as teacher. Any young person not already a member of a class will find a cordial welcome here.

The ladies of the Cumberland church will hold a bazaar on Wednesday before Thanksgiving and on Friday and Saturday after. This bazaar is sponsored by both Aid and Missionary societies. Remember the dates, Nov. 26, 28, and 29. You will find many of your gift problems solved here.

The Ladies Aid Society met Monday afternoon. The lesson, led by Mrs. Hal Simperton, had as the subject, the birth of Christ. The pastor was present and suggested several new thoughts on the lesson.

Among other work, the society is planning the organization of a young peoples' society, as well as other things needful for the growth of the church.

The pastor delivered a helpful sermon Sunday morning on Hope, finding his text in the 19th verse of the 6th chapter of Hebrews. He will not be here this Sunday, but will be in Shamrock. Rev. Henderson will fill the pulpit at eleven o'clock.

This Sunday the Childrens Band will give a program at the Sunday School hour. The public is invited to be present.

Methodist
Sunday school attendance, 114.

Mr. Martin, superintendent of the schools at Meadow, had charge of the laymen services at the morning hour. Basing his remarks on the life of Daniel, he brought a thought-provoking message on what moderns are doing with their lives. Mr. Martin's talks was thoroughly appreciated.

The Missionary Society reported a splendid attendance Monday afternoon.

Baptist
The W. M. S. met at the church Monday afternoon. A splendid attendance was reported, with an interesting lesson in the mission study, "In Royal Service."

A number of members have been attending association at Brownfield this week.

The B. Y. P. U. revival ended last Sunday. Interest was good to the end, and a great deal of good accomplished.

Church of Christ
Sunday school attendance, 84.

LARGE NUMBER TO ATTEND TRI-STATE FAIR AT AMARILLO

A large crowd from here is expected to attend the Tri-State Exposition at Amarillo at the coming Panhandle fete, September 22 to 27.

Interest in the exposition is greater this year than ever before, if talk of plans to attend is to be accepted as an indication.

Advance information from Amarillo is to the effect that the Tri-State Exposition this year is to be the best ever. Thousands of dollars have been spent in making ready, new buildings have been constructed and improvements made on the grounds.

Besides the high class amusement features, including Leonard Stroud and the Anvil Park Rodeo each afternoon, the Spanish Nights entertainment in front of the grand stand in the evenings, and the Beckmann & Greety midway, including twenty shows and fourteen rides, the fair offers many new attractions.

Foremost among these is the automobile show to be staged in the new Automobile Building, just completed. Every member of the Panhandle Automotive Association will have cars on display and this show will match, in every respect except for size, the New York and Chicago motor shows.

Record entries already are predicted in the beef cattle, dairy cattle, swine, poultry and agricultural exhibits, including many from this country.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We are to give a lecture on baptism each Wednesday evening, starting on the seventeenth. The public is invited to hear these lectures. The series is not intended to disturb anyone's mind, but to show what we believe and why on that subject, and also to help any who need help.

One the fourth Sunday at eleven o'clock, the Lord willing, we will preach on the subject "Buried in Christ in Baptism, One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism." If you need help and want it, we will do our best to help you, but if you want to argue and have bad feelings about it, we advise you to stay at home or go somewhere else.

Bro. Henderson will preach for us Sunday at eleven.

W. O. FARR, Pastor.

A scientist declares that much talk is fatiguing. Especially to the listeners.

The sophomore and freshman classes virtually completed their organization this week, and are ready for the year's work.

The pilots of the minnows this year are: president, Clyde Tipton; vice-president, Russell Foster; secretary, Lawrence Tredway. They have not yet chosen their sponsor and reporter.

Sophomore officers are: president, Alline McIlroy; vice-president, Lois Burdett; secretary-treasurer, Mary V. Shook; reporter, Waldine Kirkland; sponsor, Mr. Gilbreath.

With such enthusiastic and resourceful officers, these classes will probably make the upperclassmen step on it to maintain their leadership.

LIGHTS IN THE NORTH

Harry, who was adventuring through the sky, had been hearing about comets.

"Well, you might go through the tail of a comet sometime and not know it," Cosmo announced.

"Really? I'll tell that to everyone when I get back to the Earth."

"I'll say."

"Look here, at this very moment you may be going through the tail of a comet."

Cosmo laughed. "Maybe you'd like to know how they got their name."

"The word comes from the Greek word Kometes meaning the long-haired."

"They're very erratic. Some comets have had as many as six tails, and they won't let people find out much about them."

"They have their own ways and they live their own lives."

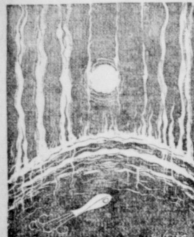

"Yet they may let us go through their tails and never say anything about it! It's certainly a queer old world, Harry."

"It certainly is," Harry agreed.

Cosmo evidently had told the pilot to go rapidly after this for the rockets were shooting forth at a great speed, and Harry knew that when the rockets did this the plane was being forced to go rapidly forward.

He thought of how little he had ever imagined as a small boy that the same idea that sent his rockets up into the air when he was sending off fireworks would be used to give him a trip through the sky.

There were some bright lights ahead, like arches of very clouds in the sky.

The Aurora Borealis.

There were beams and streamers of light going across the heavens from east to west.

"The aurora borealis or northern lights," Cosmo pointed out. "We wanted you to see them so put on a special performance for your benefit."

"I've seen those in the winter," Harry said.

"Yes, they're at their best in the winter and at their best far north. They have their own electrical displays and there are many stories connected with them."

"Sometimes they have been called the Merry Dancers. The Eskimos think that they are boys playing football and that the movements of the lights are the players struggling with each other."

"They say that if the aurora fades away and you whistle it will come back again as though to show that they know you like their football game."

"Then some Indian tribes have believed that they were ghosts dancing in the heavens, but we must hurry now, for you have an important engagement and I know you're going to be pleased when I tell you about it."

"With the Moon?"

"Right! With the Moon."

"Have you thought how I'm going to be able to talk to the Moon or hear anything?"

"Yes, indeed. As a matter of fact that was planned before we started. You'll see—and you'll also hear!"

News Sidelights

(By Marcy B. Darnall) The world's champion "daylight savers" are the Arctic terns, those graceful birds which breed near the North Pole and spend their winter near the South Pole, thus taking advantage of nearly six months of daylight at each end of the earth. Their annual round trip covers some 22,000 miles, and they enjoy more daylight than any other living creatures.

Fossils have disclosed that the progenitors of the modern horse were no larger than a fox. But those early ancestors lived millions of years ago. Now comes a breed of modern tropical opossums to support the zoological theory. A tiny opossum no larger than a mouse, with nine babies clinging to her fur, was found concealed in a bunch of bananas received by a grocer in Waco, Texas, and presented to the Zoology department of Baylor University.

How the mighty have fallen! H. L. Mencken, debunker, iconoclast, reviler of empires and disparager of women, has met just retribution, and at the hands of Montgomery, Ala., at that—Montgomery, with substantial claims of being the capital of the "Old South." "Bible belt." Not only has H. L. M. announced his intention to marry a Montgomery girl, but he has been made an honorary member of the Montgomery Kiwanis Club. "Napoleon has Waterlooed," Mencken has his Montgomery.

In Nebraska a candidate must watch his step if he would avoid running afoul of the state's corrupt practices act. The attorney general of that state has ruled that even the gift of a stick of chewing gum to a voter with the evident purpose of obtaining said voter's good will constitutes a violation of law. This it seems, regardless of whether said voter may be afflicted with halitosis.

Young writers who have been awarded many rejection slips may take courage from the fact that George Bernard Shaw, most famous of contemporary British dramatists, wrote nine years before any publisher would accept a single article from his pen. Aforementioned young writers may also be warmed by the thought that possibly they may not be embryos Shaw.

At Saratoga, N. Y., Elijah Johnson, negro racehorse handler, was caught in the ancient trick of stuffing sponges into the nostrils of a favorite horse to restrict his breathing. The abused horse finished third and Elijah got 90 days in jail, a sentence entirely too light.

Jokes about women being poor drivers are entirely out of order, according to the Pennsylvania commissioner of motor vehicles. He declared that while one-fourth of the drivers in the state are women, they were responsible for only 23 out of 915 accidents in the first six months of this year.

AN OLD-TIMER'S DIARY

An article in The Country Home presents an interesting sidelight on the views and habits of an old-time Delaware legislator, Hon. E. Sutton, who is credited with being the father of that state's excellent school system.

Sutton was a member of the state assembly more than 100 years ago in 1823 to be exact, and like many of his day and since, he kept a diary in which his acts as an legislator were recorded. Some excerpts follow: "Jan. 17, 1823: Attended state general assembly. Favor school bill. Paid three dollars for oats for horse. Got some fine gin today. Took some home in my saddle bags. I believe in education."

A few days later he wrote: "Roads muddy as hell. Brought home one half gal. fine rye."

On Jan. 25, 1823, he made this entry: "Roads worse than yesterday. General assembly killing time. Samy Varden gave me a Qt. of prime brandy today. Planning to pass school bill tomorrow."

The school bill was passed, and the rough and ready legislator who mixed liquor and learning was correspondingly happy.

NO PROPHECY

"Bobby, your mother tells me you are a very bright boy, and she expects you to be a great man," said Beaux as he sat in the parlor waiting for Bobby's sister.

"Ma never does expect right. She doesn't know what she's talking about. She told dad she expected you and my sister would be married 'fore spring, and that was more than a year ago."

Miss Lam: "You say that Dr. Poor has a large practice?"

Miss Bert: "It is so large that when a patient has nothing the matter with him he tells him so."

JUST TO BE CERTAIN

Little Mary had just been to a military funeral and she was all excited. In climbing up to her grandmother about it she said: "And, Granny, the man wasn't dead so the men all back together shot at him."

GOOD PASTURES NEED GUARDING

One Mistake to Be Avoided is Early In the Spring. Cattle to Grazed Too Early.

Editor's Note - This is another story in a series of articles on dairying written by the well known national dairy and poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis, Mo. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

In the country where land is as cheap and so plentiful as it is in the United States it is not surprising perhaps that we have not become the pasture experts our brethren claim to be on the other side of the water.

In Holland, for instance, land is worth anywhere from $500 to $1,000 an acre. To make that land profitable for pasturing requires no little skill especially where you have to pay in rental each year as much as land sells for in many sections of the United States. The soil has been pastured for centuries. The Hollanders nurse it and protect it as carefully as we protect our most important crops.

To show you the difference between good pasture land and poor pasturing in this country, an excellent example is where you have to pay in rental each year as much as land sells for in many sections of the United States. The soil has been pastured for centuries. The Hollanders nurse it and protect it as carefully as we protect our most important crops.

One rule is never violated by careful pasture owners, that of allowing the cattle to go onto the grass early in the spring. The grass must be allowed to get a good start before it is called upon to withstand the sharp hoofs of the cow. It is also very injurious to the soil to allow pasturing during the winter or the late fall when the ground is apt to be wet and soggy.

It is a little difficult to fix exact dates at which cows should go onto the pasture because of the different climate conditions in various parts of the country. As a general rule pastures are ready in the southern states about the middle of March, April 1st is a safe day for the northern O.K. variety of pastures in northern Oklahoma.

CHANGING TO WINTER RATIONS

When changing the dairy cows from winter feed, plan it so that the change will effect her digestion system a little as possible. Supplement the pasture by roughage, and as the pasture gets shorter, gradually increase the roughage. For the grain ration, use farm-grown grains mixed with high protein concentrates in such proportions as to balance the roughages. Well-cured legumes are good for all and winter, and silage and stored root crops are especially valuable in supplying succulence and stimulating the milk flow.

GEN. PERSHING IS 70

General John J. Pershing, 70 years old on August 13, has had perhaps the most remarkable career of any American soldier of his generation, and although retired from the Army since 1924 is still active as chairman of the American battle monuments commission. He was born in Lincoln county, Missouri, he was graduated from West Point in 1886, gaining his first actual battle experience the same year in the Apache Indian campaign. He served in the Sioux war of 1890-91; in the Santiago campaign of 1898, and distinguished himself in successful campaigns against the Moros in the Philippines, for which he was promoted from captain to brigadier-general.

He commanded the expedition sent into Mexico in pursuit of Villa in 1916, and at the outbreak of the World War was placed in command of the American Expeditionary Forces in France. For his distinguished services in the war he was made General of the Armies of the United States, a rank created for him by Congress in 1919. He also received the highest military decorations from all the Allied nations.

General Pershing's life has been marked by many hardships and at least one great sorrow. His wife and three children were burned to death in a fire at the Presidio of San Francisco on August 27, 1915, while he was absent from the post on duty. Mrs. Pershing was the daughter of Senator Warren of Wyoming.

During his long career General Pershing has served his country with extraordinary distinction and his fellow citizens will wish for him many more years in which to enjoy the well-earned honors which have been bestowed upon him.

One way to test the efficiency of your pasture is to see whether it is able to furnish sufficient feed through the normal grazing season. If your pasture grows out too early it may be that you are using it too soon in the spring.

These are minor points perhaps, but dairy animals should not be required to travel long distances in order to secure their food. Therefore, it is highly desirable to have the pasture near the barn. Also, that it have a sufficient supply of good drinking water in it or near it.

Another mistake many farmers make is to shut off the feeding of the cows in the spring. That is a good way to cut down on their production because grass in the spring is mostly water. It cannot possibly contain enough of the necessary food value to maintain the normal diet of the producing cow. Therefore, you should continue the feeding of grain and hay or silage. As a matter of fact, even and protect it as carefully as we protect our most important crops.

secretary, but I have really tried, etc. "Full short! My G-d! Sandison, I think you're perfect! Perfect, do you get me? I wouldn't have an inch of you changed. Darned, I've got sort of an affection for you. I've fought it down, I don't mind telling you, saying to myself it was fair foolishness to get drawn into caring about anyone belonging to your generation. Foolishness! It's ridiculous! Look at Roberta! I've cared for her more than any human being I have ever known—and she grudges a few hours out of her round of pleasure to help me, her old dad."

He stopped abruptly. His secretary was looking at him so oddly. "I think you are quite wrong, sir," he declared. "I'm very sure you are, why, if you will think of it, she might have given her life in just those few years you asked. I really don't think you realized that."

"Good G-d!" exclaimed Roberta's father. "I didn't! She made so light of it."

"Her father's daughter," said the younger man, with a smile which made MacBeth's heart warm to him again. He looked at his secretary keenly, then at you, don't like Roberta very much."

"Sir George flushed. "She doesn't like me, you mean. I think her most attractive."

MacBeth meditated a few moments in silence, then apparently dismissed everything but the business in hand from his mind and said: "What about the police?"

"The secretary hesitated. "I think your daughter would rather not have been called in," said he.

MacBeth frowned. "Why should she get the police called in?"

"Sir George waited a moment, and then said slowly: "I don't know, maybe you could find out. I'll leave you a question here."

"He went through the window as the things harder or more distressing for Sir George, but I think he's all excited about American gunmen and things like that and is liable to imagine any little accident is part of a big plot to get him. You're not going to send him up with that money, are you?"

"Here comes the doctor and your aunt," Roberta MacBeth warned her. Then in answer to her question, "As to that, my lass, I've got to send somebody. Why not my secretary?"

Roberta shrugged her shoulders. Her father looked at her sternly, wondering. Did she, as his secretary had said, know more than she told? He could hardly credit it.

"Roberta," he said impulsively, "do you know any reason why Sir George should be made a Target?"

"You know any reason why Sir George should be made a Target?"

"You know any reason why Sir George should be made a Target?"

"She shook her head. "I can't understand it at all."

"Her father felt the sincerity in her voice. "Well," he admitted, "it's a puzzle."

Sir George strolled back and forth, back and forth, trying to puzzle out whether Roberta had or had not seen the man who fired the shot. His mind continued to reject the thought that the girl, with all her bad manners and temper, could play such a part. And yet? Unable to decide, he finally determined to stop thinking about it.

"It seemed impossible that Roberta MacBeth's daughter could be in league with her father's enemy. And what was the girl's silence meant? Sir George was positive, despite her carefully worded answers, that she had seen enough of the man who fired the shot to know or suspect more than she had cared to tell.

CHAPTER VII

At Saturday night's dinner and dance, Roberta MacBeth, though still a prisoner to the chaise longue, was enjoying himself tremendously. Lady Sandison, who was having an unmitigated triumph, looked about her with secret satisfaction. The terrace toward the river was hung with electric lanterns. The best orchestra procurable was playing from the stage and a caterer from the city was in the kitchen.

Sir George, even Roberta admitted it, was a wonderful aid to any party. He had a certain intriguing beauty, and a certain charm, which made him popular not only with the girls but with the men.

Despite the fact that he danced it well, giving himself up to the rhythm of the music, he had not expected, and he had danced only with Roberta. He had devoted himself to her guests both young and old who were, it seemed to Roberta, flattered by his attention. Jack was not here, had refused to come, to Roberta's annoyance. She would like to parade him in front of them all, especially her father's secretary.

Roberta MacBeth looked with pride at Roberta's lithe, graceful young figure, and her flushed face with its soft halo of red curls, as she danced through the crowd. "You're a beauty," he heard discriminate praise of her beauty from the older men, and knew from their actions that the younger men thought her lovely.

He beckoned his sister to him and they went to move from there until they got in to supper and then you can send August to join me to the library. The men can take me there after supper—at least, if you like. Are you enjoying yourself, Aggy?"

"Just fine."

"The young people seem to be having a good time, too. There was a 'Are they not? Listen to that!'"

"The sound of young voices and vigorous applause came from the hall and living rooms. "One of my ladies is dancing. The Black Bottom, it's called! Did you ever hear the like, Rob? And the rest of them are standing round it singing. It's fair awful! I can't see how my little make-up looks graceful. You like him, do you not, Rob?" She asked it with a little touch of anxiety in her voice.

"Like him? Rob roared at her. "Aggy, I fair do not. If I were only sure he had the brains to stand up against young American business men I'd be tempted to give him a big boost in his business."

"She looked at her brother with a withering scorn. "Brains enough to cope with your young Americans? Havers, Rob MacBeth! Did he not bring your own brains from across the water?"

"Calm yourself, Aggy, and go and look after the guests. It must be time to start them in to supper now. It's fear of your senses when it's a real fear of that lad. After all, you are nothing but a stepmother."

"You're a beauty," he heard discriminate praise of her beauty from the older men, and knew from their actions that the younger men thought her lovely.

"I still have my senses," his sister told him indignantly. "I don't want as well known as I am. I don't think Roberta's any thought of the young men hereabouts. The lads here are as fine as any shall see in a month of Sundays, but they're an old story to your young daughter. I can see her taking far inferior goods—just because they're new."

"She's too young to judge for herself," he said. "Rob, try to make a complete fool of yourself. Be sure she knows what she's after. Every lassie does, though she may not give you credit for it. But some of them are lucky enough to take it when they see it. I'm feared that Roberta's not that sort. She's full of the kind of youthful pride that will let a dish go to waste, but she's not waiting for it, just to prove to herself and to you, that she's not caring—that she can take it or leave it, it's all one."

It was a long speech for Aggy. She drew back to herself, but her brother would show his understanding.

Roberta spoke a little impatiently. "I'm obliged to you, Aggy, for your care of my girl, but Roberta has always found her own way out of any snags and I think we're safe to trust her now. If I find she's really unhappy here I'll take her away—but, she doesn't look unhappy tonight."

"No," admitted his sister with a little look of her firm chin. "Roberta was the use of trying to show a man who could not see? "She does not, but looks as never anything."

As she walked away from him, Rob saw to admit himself that Aggy had brains as well as a presence and was a fine woman for her age.

Roberta saw her aunt bearing down upon her now, and for one moment she thought she was coming to protest about the dance.

But Lady Sandison had no such idea. "Roberta," she said, and for all her presence she was a little nervous. "I don't want to see you out here, but you would receive a suggestion—do you think you could start them toward the supper room after the next dance?"

"Easiest thing you know, Aunt Aggy," said Roberta to her. "I'll be there. She turned to Roger, who had been pursuing her. "Roger, tell the leader that the intermission for supper comes after the next dance."

"Then don't let anybody cut in on us until we get there," said Roger. "I refuse to carry the message myself."

"Oh, I can't promise anything," Roberta told him. "I'll tell you one thing—the man who takes me over to the musicians and delivers the message has the rest of the dance."

"Done," Sir George's voice said, and towering over Roger. He gently replaced him as her partner.

Utterly ignoring another youth who tried to cut in, he had Roberta swiftly over to the musicians and gave her message to the leader.

The Robert then suddenly found herself lifted over the sill of the long open window behind the musicians and was out on the terrace.

"What on earth did you do that for, the man asked indignantly. "You don't want to dance with me."

"Not just now," he frankly admitted, "though later on I'll enjoy it very much, thank you. Then as she moved toward the edge of the terrace, he said softly, "I thought you might want to go with me down to the little landing place?"

"Why?"

"I think you'll see why if you go down there. I don't know whether you want your father to see, too."

He shook his head. He was not, in his suspicions were correct, calmly going to look at her as an attempt to kidnap MacBeth's daughter.

The girl turned on him about to say something drastic, when he moved so that the lantern light flamed his face. "It says he called toward the still figure in the canoe, 'are you waiting to see me or Miss MacBeth?'"

"Is it you, Jack?" the girl called, and hurried from her companion's side down to the water's edge.

"He came from the water in a frantic whisper. "What did you bring him for?"

"I didn't," the girl protested. "I didn't know you were here until he took me on the terrace, and after a 'Then go back,' the voice hissed. 'Tell him anything about me and it's the last you see of me.'"

"The canoe moved off and slowly the girl retraced her steps to the river, just out of hearing. Sir George stood. The cigarette dropped unlit from his hand in his astonishment. The man was afraid of him. He was some one who came from the river. He had no danger yet for the girl, and that bullet had surely been meant for him!"

She came up to him and looked at him without a moment they faced each other without a word. Then without a word or a look, Roberta turned and went toward the house. Sir George quickened his step and, side by side with her, went toward the terrace steps.

Roger Dunham and Ray Browne met Roberta on the terrace, and after a little good-natured argument she finally went away with Ray.

Sir George went to the edge of the terrace and stood looking out toward the river, watching for a dark little spot that would be a canoe. But the fellow must have made quick time, for there was no sign of any canoe. On the mainland a pair flamed lights on the river bank, and a boat was seen. He had not seen the signal Roberta had given as she turned from the landing, and even if he had seen it he would not have known it meant "Wait for my father."

"What would the girl do, Sir George wondered, now that she knew he was aware of this man? What game was she playing that was worth such a stake?"

The secretary re-entered the library. "How much did the doctor say you might eat with impunity tonight?" he asked Sir George.

Roberta MacBeth rolled a sarcastic eye at his secretary. "A cup of soup and some crackers," he said with a grimace. "August is coming presently with me some comfortables and then he'll send a waiter here."

"August can't make you nearly as comfortable as I can," Sir George answered confidently and proceeded to get them. "No," said Roberta, admitted, had been made so comfortable.

"My word, you have gentle hands for a big fellow," he exclaimed, looking up with gratitude at the tall form that bent over him to straighten a pillow.

"Plenty of practice."

Roberta MacBeth checked himself when he started to say "dare." He remembered that this tall, slim young man before him had been through a dreadful novitiate during the great war.

"Why," he asked after a moment, as Sir George moved to ring for the waiter, "why do you so determinedly avoid rich girls? Seriously, isn't that what you came here for—to make a rich marriage?"

"Sir George drew himself erect and turned quickly and savagely. Then, as though the sight of the other man's helplessness checked his natural resentment, stiffened. "That what you think, too?"

"Isn't it true? Or at least partly true?" Roberta MacBeth questioned, taking advantage of his infirmity. "Wouldn't it help you put Sandison in order and restore to you feet?"

"The young man's face darkened. "Oh, undoubtedly! But I'm not going to put Sandison in order at that price, nor am I sure that it would not take me off my feet."

He paused. "If you will believe me, sir, I would like very much to have it finally understood that I came on here for a job and nothing else. It'll be to put myself on my feet."

"He looked up again. "No matter what dear old Aggy says, that's the truth and," he hesitated, "and I'd be obliged if you'd let me go on to believe it, and to tell Miss Roberta that if she does believe it."

"Why, particularly Roberta?" MacBeth asked dryly.

"Which is one that I have not been accustomed to," Sir George said simply, "and one which is not pleasant for a self-respecting man. If it will help matters out," he continued, still with the same quiet simplicity, "you can assure Miss Roberta that if she had the wealth of India belted around her waist, I wouldn't look the road she walked on, much less want to marry her. His tone was heated.

Roberta's father surveyed him with gathering rage. "Set your mind at rest," he declared grimly. "There's no danger of her ever leaving your room. I'll take care from her own lips."

"Good! Then if you will take the trouble to tell her I never dreamed of lifting my eyes to her, or to your pocketbook, you may make it easier for her to treat me as a harmless young man, her father's diligent secretary and no spy."

"That I am not one. Yet Miss MacBeth treats me as though I were continually spying upon her."

"What reason has Roberta to fear that?" he determined father asked again.

"I plead ignorance," declared his secretary. Invariably cursing himself for having even hinted at it. "I don't know the reason for her suspicion. I only know that it is so, and she makes me feel it!"

The waiter entered with the supper and arranged it on the library table. MacBeth settled himself on his pillows and, as he picked up his soup spoon regarded the young man with amusement. "Funny way to spend an hour at a party. I appreciate it, of course, but it makes me wonder."

"There's no cause to wonder." The younger man's eyes began to gleam. "So disillusioned—that it started MacBeth. 'I don't give twopenny for parties, sir. Haven't for years. Never really at home, really enjoying myself. That's why I would rather eat with you, sir. Somehow,' he added, 'despite the fact that you are older, and my 'boss,' I have always had a feeling that you like me—for myself."

"You are not far off," MacBeth told him. "I liked you from the first. I'm going to sit here day by day, doing nothing, and watching you bring home the bacon."

Sir George stared at him in amazement. "I mean watching you do the work that I ought to do."

"I mean watching you do the work that I ought to do."

George's case. He was about to put something of this in words, when to his amazement the cigarette were dashed on the desk and Sir George, with a quick low exclamation went plunging through the window and along the terrace, in rapid pursuit of some one or something.

CHAPTER VIII

Some one had been listening at the window. Though he flung himself so heading into the pursuit that he was still carrying in his hand a box of matches and the single cigarette which he had taken out of the box for MacBeth, Sir George was not in time to see his quarry round the corner. He flung the matches and cigarette from him, as he leaped over the edge of the terrace and went toward the little landing place, where he could see a man getting into one of the canoes.

He had every reason to believe that at that moment he would have him in his grasp, when Roberta MacBeth rose suddenly, it seemed to him out of the earth, though it was really only from behind the shrubbery near the landing place, and blocked his way. He flung out his hand, to keep from falling himself or knocking her down, and grasped her shoulders. He spun her out of the way, disregarding her gasp of, "What's wrong?"

But the delay had been sufficient. There was no sign of the man he had been pursuing, and when he reached the water's edge there was no one there. Mechanically he began searching for some hiding place among the boats, when Roberta joined him. She was alone and breathless, and both parts made Sir George suspicious.

"What happened?" she asked him abruptly.

He answered her with equal abruptness. "You have just prevented my capture, and he would have been watching, or listening, under your father's window."

She gave him a quick startled look, and then raising her voice a little higher, whether with intent or astonishment he could not be quite sure. "What things you imagine. How could he have come this way without my seeing him?"

"Sir George did not answer. He went down to the water's edge and then started toward the bridge which lay in shadow. Instantly this provoking girl was in front of him again.

"In the heat of his anger at her persistence he answered her as he would not have done if he had stopped to think for a moment. "Some friend of yours, evidently, since you are so anxious to screen him."

She stepped back as though he had struck her. "Do you mean—?" she began. (Continued next page)

Cookies Have A Place Even in Modern Menus

By JOSEPHINE R. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company.

COOKIES fit admirably into almost any menu—and they are specially welcome when served for afternoon tea as dessert, or along with fruit salads, custards, puddings, or ice cream. Also, since cookies are not overly rich, mothers safely can include them in the school lunch box, or give them to the children when they come home hungry from classes several hours before dinner time.

In addition to their advantage of requiring no frosting, cookies are much easier to mix and bake than even the plainest cake. And this ease of preparation is a very important consideration for busy women.

Following are several excellent recipes for cookies that will prove very helpful in keeping your jar of "goodies" filled this summer, when you naturally will want to spend as little time as possible in a hot kitchen.

Cocconut Jelly Jumbles— $\frac{1}{2}$  cup butter,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar, 2 beaten egg yolks, few grains salt,  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon almond,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup more of sugar,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cups raisins, 1 teaspoon baking powder, Currant Jelly, 2 beaten egg whites. Mix ingredients together smoothly in order listed. Make into balls with hands. With thumb, make depression in each ball and fill with jelly. Sprinkle with cocconut and bake 10 minutes.

Peanut Butter Cookies— $\frac{1}{4}$  cup butter,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup Peanut Butter, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, 1/3 cup milk. Cream butter and peanut butter, add sugar and egg yolks. Sift flour and baking powder, and add alternately with milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet, and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

Rice Flake Cookies— $\frac{1}{2}$  cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 4 tablespoons milk,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup Rice Flakes, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup walnut meats, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, small amount salt, vanilla or nutmeg to flavor. Cream together butter, and sugar, and add eggs well beaten. Then add milk, Rice Flakes and raisins. Sift soda with flour and mix with walnuts. Put all together and drop by teaspoons on well-buttered baking sheet. Bake about 10 minutes in moderate oven. These cookies are delicious with fruit salads or desserts. This recipe makes 4 dozen small cookies.

Apple Butter Drop Cookies— $\frac{1}{2}$  cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 well beaten egg, 1 cup Apple Butter, 1 teaspoon soda,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup nut meats,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup raisins. Cream butter and sugar together, and well beaten egg, and continue creaming. Then add Apple Butter mixed with soda. Gradually add the flour which has been sifted with the salt, and mixed with nut meats and raisins. Drop by teaspoons on a buttered baking sheet, and bake in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes. This recipe makes 4 dozen small, delicious cookies.

Margarines—Beat 2 eggs well. Gradually add 1 cup of brown sugar, and continue beating. Add  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup flour sifted with 1/3 teaspoon salt and  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon baking powder. Add  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup nut meats and  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup Rice Flakes. Fill buttered muffin tin half full of the mixture, and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Serve sprinkled with powdered sugar.

NEW BARBER SHOP MEETS WITH APPROVAL

The opening of Welch's barber shop last Saturday was very successful, according to Paul Welch, Prop.

Mr. Welch is well known to O'Donnell people, being a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Nichols, and having been located here in past years. He was for several months connected with Mile's shop, during which he made many friends and supporters. He has on several occasions filled Mr. Nichol's place as mail carrier and has become acquainted with numbers of persons in the trade territory.

The shop itself is most attractive. The walls are tinted a delicate shade of green, while the fixtures and cabinets are a slightly deeper shade. Barber chairs and fittings in pastel shades are an innovation in this immediate part of the country, and the new shop came in for quite a bit of discussion on that account.

Of interest to feminine customers is the news that Miss Mattie Williams is this week opening up a beauty parlor in connection with the shop. Fixtures and equipment are being added, and patrons will find her ready to attend to their manicuring, wave setting, and facial needs.

Don't forget to remember the good deeds and remember to forget all others.

"When does the next train come in?" asked little Edward of the old station agent.

"Why, you little rascal, I've told you five times that it comes in at 4:44."

"I know it," replied Edward, "but I like to see your whiskers wobble when you say 4:44."

EAST SIDE NEWS

Not much news this week for it is too hot to stir around much.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Asteen and family of Ft. McKavett, Texas, came in Monday of last week to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Yarborough. Mr. Asteen is a brother of Mrs. J. H. Yarborough. Mr. W. L. Carpenter of Ft. McKavett came with Mr. Asteen to visit his brother Mr. Jim Carpenter, who lives out close to the T-Bar ranch. They will stay up there a while and pick cotton as the cotton is all out in Menard county.

Mr. E. E. Teaff of O'Brien, Texas came up Saturday of last week and bought his father to visit his brother and family. Mr. and Mrs. George Foster of O'Donnell. Mr. E. E. Teaff was looking after his farms east of O'Donnell and west of Lamesa and some property in O'Donnell, returning Sunday morning Mr. Teaff came by the writer's place and took back home with him some black eyed peas and roasting ears which were grown on his farm east of O'Donnell. 55

Calling By Number Takes Less Time

If you know the numbers on your out-of-town calls you can get many of them about as quickly as local calls. It is worth while keeping a list of numbers you frequently use. If you do not know them, "Information" will get them for you.

If there are a lot of them, write to our business office and ask us to make out the list for you.

If you want someone in a hurry, the telephone number is as important as the street address. Knowing the number will help you to speed your long distance calls.
