New Bowling Season Starting

Smacking out three victories over the Corner Drug keggles, the Motor Parts bowlers started their march toward another bowling tourney championship Wednesday night.

On Monday night, the Whitsett five barely nudged the always tough Cicero Smith quintet out of two games while losing one.

High shooters for the week were Bubany, Applewhite, Teeter and Davis. Lack of space, and behind schedule of the paper prevents printing of averages this week, but next week all will be published.

Next Monday night, Cicero Smith tangles with Motor Parts and on Wednesday the Whitsett and Corner teams collide.

The local alleys are in perfect shape, and the ladies of the area do not realize what fun they are missing in not bowling.

Ray Weathers, tax collector, of Tahoka, was a business visitor here this week.

McCord Announces For Second Term

The name of Rollin McCord is added to our list of candidates this week. He offers for re-election to the office of district attorney. He is now serving his first term and has therefore served in this capacity for just a little more than one year.

Prior to his promotion to this office, he served two terms as county attorney of Lynn County. He had as his opponents two years ago four other young ambitious men. He was high man in the first primary and then he won in the run-off.

In addition to his legal accomplishments, Rollin is a very kind, courteous gentleman, and has a host of friends. He was reared in this county and belongs to one of the prominent families of this section.

His record as district attorney must have been generally satisfactory, for there seems to have been comparatively little criticism of it. He feels that with continued experience he will gain in efficiency, and he craves the opportunity to serve a second term.

He will appreciate the support of Lynn county voters in the July primary election.

Taxes Must Be Paid By Saturday

Taxes must be paid by Saturday or a penalty will be added on, according to collectors of county, city and school taxes. And no exceptions can be made even though it was "forgotten."

If you want to vote this year, you have until Saturday to get that poll tax.

Slaughter Seeking Commissioner Job

E. O. Slaughter of Wells is making his announcement this week as a candidate for county commissioner of precinct No. 3, which embraces O'Donnell, a small portion of Tahoka, and practically the entire southwest quarter of the county.

Mr. Slaughter is a farmer by occupation and has resided in that section of Lynn county for nineteen years. When he settled there, all that portion of the county was almost solely a ranching country. He has seen it develop into one of the most prosperous farming sections of the state and has had a part in its development.

Mr. Slaughter states that he has had considerable experience pertaining to the work of a county commissioner and he believes he can serve in this position with efficiency. He says that he will have a fuller statement to make concerning his candidacy some time later.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fincannon and two children who have lived north of here have recently moved to Sparenburg to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hafer were business visitors in Lubbock, Saturday.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

President Sketches World Strategy; Australia Is Periled by Japanese Army Invasion of Its Key Island Outposts; Nelson Speeds Up U. S. War Production

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state and head of the U. S. delegation to the Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is cheered by spectators as he waves his hat from the Tiradentes palace scene of the historic meeting.

BLUEPRINT: Of World Battle

While the nation girded itself for victory production on a scale never hitherto dreamed of, and while American soldiers were arriving on foreign fields ready to do battle until victory, while still others were filling the news with their heroic exploits, President Roosevelt gave newsmen a hint of the "blueprint of battle."

The President, following the close of the Churchill conferences, and the safe return of the British premier to London by airplane from Bermuda, had told little to newsmen save that there was a complete accord among the united nations.

Now he had begun to give them the picture, a portrait of battle carried on simultaneously in every part of the globe by the soldiers of all nationalities working in concert with each other.

Thus were found American aviators fighting in the Singapore area, with the Dutch in the East Indies, in the Philippines, over the Seven Seas, and most lately arriving in Britain and other points for service.

The President said one could look at the map of the world and assume that the anti-Axis group was doing something at almost every strategic point.

He said that joint technical committees were busy, covering the subjects of production, of transportation of produced supplies to every part of the globe, also to the assignment of fighting men and machines to points where they were most needed.

While all of his information had been of a general nature, the nearest he came to giving out details was when he said that excellent progress was being made in strengthening the Allied forces in the Pacific.

This latter statement was taken by the press to be an attempt by the President to allay Chinese fears that the Allies were not going to make a vigorous enough battle against the Japs.

The President had finished a conference with Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, lieutenant governor general of the Netherlands Indies. Dr. Van Mook came out of the conference room beaming.

JAPS: Extend Fronts

The Japs, far from being licked or even stopped, were constantly extending their front, and with reports of their continued advances spreading out with attacks on all fronts, came dispatches telling of two new ventures. These were the invasion of New Guinea and the Solomon island area; and an invasion of Burma by the Siamese as a measure to aid Japan.

Indicating a threat to Australia itself, the New Guinea invasion was paced by air attacks and a movement of naval forces. The Solomon islands lie in a chain northeast of Australia and east of New Guinea.

The Burma invasion had started at Myawaddie on the Burma-Thai frontier. This lies at the northern end of the Burmese panhandle bordering the puppet country.

It had not been unexpected, and General Wavell's headquarters some time before had told of Chinese reinforcements to the Burmese troops, apparently sent there for just such a contingency.

The invaders also seized the port of Tavoy, which bisects the panhandle and gave the Jap-assisters a good advantage in opening the fighting.

Jap fliers were reported to have occupied a flying field at Tavoy, and roared out to attack with bombs the important cities and ports of Moulmein and Rangoon.

PRODUCTION: OPM Finally Dies

The OPM, over which William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman had presided as twin geni for many hard-working, hard-fighting months prior to American entry into the war, finally died, Production Chief Donald Nelson supplanting it entirely with his new War Production board, probably to be known as WPB.

Mr. Nelson, however, had "portfolios" in his new series of divisions for most of the key men in OPM—for it was not so much a junking of an old organization as a revamping of it on a streamlined basis.

The placing of one man, Nelson, at the head of the war production effort, also necessarily called for a change in organization.

This was undertaken fearlessly by Nelson, who created five primary divisions, most of them utilizing as heads former members of the organization of OPM, SPAB and other groups.

Leon Henderson still was in charge of civilian supply; Hillman still had the labor job; Stacy May was "progress reporter," and so on down the line.

Probably the first and most vital job, almost coincidental with the naming of Nelson himself, went to Knudsen. The big motor man became a Lieutenant General, in direct charge of the speeding up of factory production in general, that is, as far as Army procurement was concerned.

But the man who was to be most in the public eye for the next few weeks was Ernest Kanzler, a new figure in the picture, who was named automobile production czar—not of automobiles, but of what the auto factories are going to make.

MAC ARTHUR: Resistance

As if to prove that the defeat of his army had been prematurely predicted, General MacArthur sprang a distinct surprise on Washington and the country's newspapers when he reported that American-Filipino resistance was continuing on the island of Mindanao in the vicinity of Davao.

An all-out Japanese effort to turn the Luzon defenders' right flank had earlier been turned back with heaviest Jap losses, and yet the danger was far from over, for the Japanese were reported returning to the attack again with vigor.

It was reported that an entire Japanese army—estimated by some as many as 300,000 men—had been thrown into the battle for Luzon and the whole Bataan peninsula front blazed into action in a renewal of the Japanese attempt to crush the defenders.

But the word from MacArthur's headquarters that fighting was continuing in Mindanao came long after official Washington had given up Mindanao for lost, and simply showed how difficult communications were in the area.

It was believed possible that MacArthur himself had thought Mindanao gone until he received belated word from the southern island that the battle was still in progress.

CRITIQUE:

A dual report on profiteering came before the legislative bodies of the congress, the Truman report and the Vinson report—named for their committee chairmen, the former rushing into print and into the press a few days ahead of the latter.

That congress, aware of the huge character of the hurling of 56 billions into war production in two short years, and of what this might mean if profits were allowed to go beyond certain limits, intended to clamp the lid down was evident.

Auto Plants Are Geared for War Production

Machine guns sprout where auto parts once grew in the Brown-Lipe Chapin division of General Motors in Syracuse, N. Y. Above at left you see an inspector putting the final Okay on a bevy of Browning machine guns before they are taken to the test range for inspection. At right, machine gun slide plates are carefully checked to .002 of an inch. There are about 300 parts in each machine gun turned out here.

Singapore, Crossroads of Far East Sea Lanes

Above is shown a view of Raffles square in Singapore, famed British bastion that is the meeting place of numerous important sea routes, and the main objective of the Jap drive through the jungles of Malaya. Inset: Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, allied commander in chief in the Far East, shown making a tour of inspection at the formidable British fortress at the tip of the Malayan peninsula.

Nazi Bumper Plane Gets the Bumps

The strange device affixed to the leading edges of this Heinkel bomber's wings is a bumper to help prevent it from entangling with the cables of balloon barrages which protect all of Britain's larger towns. The device leads the cables past the wing tips.

Decorated

Lieuts. G. M. Welch and K. M. Taylor were scarcely commissioned in the army air corps before they shot down six Jap planes at Pearl Harbor on December 7. Picture was taken after they were decorated with the distinguished service cross.

Three 'Big's' of O. C. D. Meet First Time

The three directors of the Office of Civilian Defense meet for the first time in Washington. They are, left to right, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant director in charge of women's activities; Mayor LaGuardia of New York, director, and James M. Landis, dean of law, Harvard university, assistant director.

For Anti-Axis Pact

Dr. W. M. Flochl, chancellor of free Austrian national council, who asked Cordell Hull that free Austrians be allowed to affiliate with nations that signed anti-Axis pact.

Hating Hate:

The President of the United States has announced a completed objective. It is: The United Nations. Twenty-six nations have united to win a war and to keep the peace that follows war. What the nations refused to learn from concentration camps and torture chambers of one continent, they have learned on the bitter battlefields of all.

Dictators fight for power; diplomats for prestige; and militarists for victory. But the Common People always fight for peace. Not an armistice between nations, but peace of soul between men.

That is why the present struggle is a total world war, because the dictators' New Order is a campaign against world conscience. The panzer attacks to break a military line are less important than the propaganda efforts to tear the fabric of law and order. The Common People today are fighting for their stake in law and order.

Men from all over the world are fighting side by side for their countries. Because they want to live in dignity side by side for their God. And when final victory comes, it will be the job of the diplomats not only to bring peace to nations—but peace to men.

For the Common People of the world are awake. Their enemy is out in the open. It is not a man. It is a creed. They know there is nothing to hate—but HATE!

Innocent Bystander:

Judge Joseph Guthrie, of Kansas City, tells the one about the show that came to town and was pretty bad. The audience almost to a man groaned and grumbled most of the evening.

Except, that is, one spectator, who just kept staring at the stage. His neighbor who kept growling, "This is awful," finally turned to him and said: "You haven't had anything to say—what do you think about it?"

"I am here on a free seat," was the dry reply, "but if this thing gets any worse—I am going to buy a ticket and raise hell."

Old razor blades are being collected to supply steel for tanks.

Don't forget. No blade is too dull to cut Hitler's throat.

Jessie Royce Landis, star of "Papa Is All," the Theatre Guild comedy about the Pennsylvania Dutch, had to spend a great deal of time around Lancaster learning dialect, customs, etc. She passes along this legend, typical of the people there. To appreciate it even more, she says the Dutch rarely keep money in banks. They usually hide it around the house or in the barn.

Anyway, this concerns an elderly pair who arrived at a real estate office before April 1—"Settlement Day" for the Dutch. They were buying a farm, the price of which was $17,000.

Papa brought forth a huge stocking packed with folding money and patiently counted it.

"It only comes to $14,000, Mama," he said unhappily. "What happened?"

"I guess," Mama said blandly, "we must have brought the wrong stocking."

How courteous is the Japanese! He always says, "Excuse me, please."

He climbs into his neighbor's garden and smiles and says, "I beg your pardon."

He bows and grins a friendly grin. And calls his hungry family in; He grins and bows a friendly bow; "So sorry, this MY garden now." Ogden Nash, March, 1938.

All the Axis citizens are Aryans now. Hitler issued an order admitting the Italians and the Japs to membership. A British soldier in Libya, a dress designer in private life, was a little confused by all this. The other day his sergeant sent him on patrol duty.

"The captain," he instructed, "wants you to catch him an Aryan prisoner."

"Veriwell," said the private. "Bleached, olive or snuff-colored?"

While negotiations were going on between Japan and the U. S.—during the Kurusu-fiction—Kurusu presented this plan: Why could not the two nations peacefully divide the Pacific?

Secretary Hull smiled agreeably. Encouraged, the Japanazi continued. "Which part would you want—the north or south?"

Mr. Hull is supposed to have replied: "As long as we are dividing the Pacific, we'll take the top; and you take the bottom."

Over at the new Club 181, they were talking about the magazine writer who disappeared for weeks. "Wonder where he is," somebody said.

"Oh, he's very busy," explained a Winchell fan, "blowing up a rumor and two untruths—into a full-length article for his mag."

The harsh reviews on "Johnny on a Spot" revealed there were two MacArthurs under bombardment—the General and Helen Hayes' Charlie, the author.

Few More Years Would Have Toughened Uncle

The oldest inhabitant had celebrated his hundredth birthday and the reporter of a local paper called on him for an interview. "To what do you attribute your longevity?" the reporter inquired. The centenarian paused a moment and then, holding up his hand and ticking off the items on his fingers, began: "I never drank alcoholic liquors, or over-ate, and I always rise at six in the morning."

"But," protested the reporter, "I had an uncle who acted in that way, yet he only lived to be eighty. How do you account for that?"

"He didn't keep it up long enough," was the calm reply.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary to Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, is amazed and angry when he discharges her with two weeks' salary and refuses any explanation. The same day her sister, Sybil, with whom she shares an apartment, loses her position in a beauty salon. Joan accepts a position from Karl Miller, handsome proprietor of a night club, who insists on paying her in advance, at the rate of $50 per week. Sybil suspects something sinister about the position, and divines Joan's quick interest in Karl. Though the sisters quarrel, Joan refuses to quit. She accepts his dinner invitation and when he tells her he has a beauty salon job for Sybil, and takes her into his arms, her happiness knows no bounds. The scene is interrupted by the entrance of Paul Sherman, Karl's manager. The two men leave, but Paul returns quickly to talk with Joan. He soon surprises the girl by asking her to tell him how she got the job.

CHAPTER IV

Joan's surprise showed in her voice as she replied, "What do you mean?"

"Just what I said. Who suggested it to you?"

"I lost my job last week," Joan told him, wondering why she was doing so. After all it really wasn't any of Paul Sherman's business why she was here. "That same night I saw a want ad for this one. I came down to apply and Karl, Mr. Miller, hired me."

"You didn't know Karl Miller before that?"

"I don't see what it is to you," Joan flared resentfully.

"Don't bite my head off," Paul said pleasantly. "I just wondered, that's all. I would like to be your friend, Miss Leland. You may need one."

"I'm doing all right!" Joan said, irritated.

"Okay. But just one more question. Have you met Karl's partner, Eric Strom?"

Joan answered him reluctantly. "Eric Strom? No, I haven't met him. Why?"

"I'm the one asking the questions," Paul retorted, and Joan felt that he was laughing at her as he rose and went to the door.

"I have work to do, Mr. Sherman," she said crossly.

"Call me Paul. By the way, how about having dinner with me some night?"

Joan was surprised at the audacity of this request. "I expect to be very busy," she said coldly.

"Nevertheless," Paul Sherman reported, "I shall meet you on Monday night at six o'clock." He mentioned the grill of a well-known hotel.

"I have no intentions of being here."

"By Monday you may change your mind."

Joan sighed as the office door shut behind him. It seemed that at every turn she met a surprise. What would Karl say if he knew that his manager had tried to make a date with his secretary? The secretary whom only a few moments ago Karl had held in his arms. In a way she was glad that Paul Sherman had interrupted that perfect moment. Karl would be angry and Karl's wrath was one thing that Joan would not risk.

"Karl!" Joan thought, closing her eyes against the memory of his handsome, expressionless face, leading herself against the flood of emotion that swept over her. "I shouldn't have let him kiss me," Joan told herself. "But I love him! I love him, yet I'm afraid..."

Even to herself Joan did not like to admit that the reason for her war was that Karl Miller did not return her affection. True, he had taken her out; he had even kissed her. But Joan doubted that any woman could possess his entire heart. The situation intrigued her; at the same time she was frightened.

Joan and Sybil spent a quiet Sunday. Karl had told Joan that he would not be able to see her over the week-end and she found that even one day without him was enough to make her unhappy.

Sybil seemed cheerful at the prospect of starting her new job at the Beauty Shop. "What's the matter with you?" she asked as Joan stared into space. "We've both got a job. There's nothing to worry about."

Joan suspected that Sybil knew that was worrying her but she disliked bringing up the subject of Karl Miller. Instead she told Sybil about Paul Sherman and his proposal that he have dinner with him.

Sybil lay on the couch, her blonde hair in curlers. "He sounds all right," she commented. "Why don't you go?"

"I don't even know the man," Joan protested. "I met him only last night."

Sybil raised an eyebrow as she contemplated her sister. "You didn't know Karl Miller either, but you are in love with him overnight. Or maybe I should say you think you're in love with him."

Joan curled up in the big chair and opened a magazine which she pretended to read.

"Look, honey, why not confess? I know how you feel."

Joan looked a confused, radiant face. "Oh, Sybil, you're right! I do love him. I'm so in love with him that it frightens me because I can't believe that he really cares about

"A woman with green eyes is very rare. Did you know that?"

me. I'm so young and unsophisticated."

"And you're going to stay that way," Sybil said sharply. "You don't love Karl Miller, Joan! You want him because you know he's out of your reach."

"Oh, it's more than that!" the youthful voice was full of pain.

"Even so, it can't hurt anything for you to be nice to this other man. He's young and apparently he likes you. Why don't you have dinner with him?"

"I don't want Karl to be angry with me," Joan confessed.

"Is it as bad as that?" Sybil asked quietly.

Joan sighed, "I'm sorry, Sybil! But that's the way it is. I can't help it."

Sybil was silent and in the twilight they could hear rain splashing against the windowpanes. When the telephone pealed through the room, Joan flew to answer it. Perhaps it would be Karl!

It was. And at the sound of his voice her heart sang.

"I find that I am going to be free this evening," came his carefully modulated voice. "Would you like to have dinner with me?"

Would she like to? "Oh, darling!" her heart cried. But she answered demurely. "I'd love to."

Joan ran into the bedroom to change her dress but Sybil had not missed the unconcealed joy in her face. Sybil's blue eyes were full of worry as she stared thoughtfully after her sister.

Joan was disappointed to find that Karl had invited another dinner guest. Eric Strom, whom Paul had described as Karl's partner, met them at the hotel. Sitting in front of the broad windows which overlooked the sea, Joan's spirits drooped.

Eric Strom asked, "Do you find the rain so depressing, Miss Leland?"

"It does seem gloomy," Joan admitted.

Karl smiled at her indulgently but the two men continued to talk about business. Joan did not like Eric. For the same inexplicable reason that she trusted Paul, she did not trust Karl's partner.

"My intuition's working overtime," Joan reflected, glancing at Eric.

He was a slight man, blond, about Karl's age. But he had none of Karl's magnetic power. There was something shifty about his pale eyes. His manner was cautious, unpleasantly so. He looked a great deal like Joan and his glance made her uncomfortable. If Karl noticed this, he gave no sign. He was cheerful during the meal, which seemed endless to his secretary. The two men, engrossed in their own conversation, left Joan free to speculate.

Joan looked at Karl, whose eyes were as sphinxlike as the vast ocean that rolled outside the broad windows. A little thrill swept over her that this man was here. But was he? For one small moment the day before she had been in his arms, but during the rest of the brief time she had known him he seemed a thousand miles away.

Joan's reverie was broken by the headwaiter who was speaking to Karl. "You're wanted on the telephone, Mr. Miller."

When he had gone, Eric Strom smiled at her and leaned across the table.

"You are very beautiful, Miss Leland. But I suppose Karl has told you that." His accent was much heavier than Karl's, and Joan found it difficult to understand. "A woman with green eyes is very rare. Did you know that?"

Joan forced a smile to her lips. "I don't believe we've met before, have we?"

He shrugged. "I am Karl's silent partner. He doesn't need me to run the club. Others can do that. By the way, Miss Leland, I would like to see you again sometime. Just the two of us."

Her piquant face was white beneath the sophisticated veil. She was afraid of this man. "I'm afraid it is impossible," she replied sharply.

But Eric Strom was not displeased. "Have a cigarette, Miss Leland? You may find that sometimes we have no choice in such matters."

Joan stared at him uncertainly. What did he mean by that? Did everyone at the Club Elite talk in riddles? First Paul's inexplicable behavior, now Eric Strom's! What would Karl think if he knew that his partner and his manager had both tried to make a date with his secretary? Paul was young. Perhaps high spirits had prompted his impudence. But Eric Strom was another matter, and Joan decided to tell Karl about it the moment they were alone.

She had no chance, however, for when Karl returned to the table he said briefly, "Something has come up. We'll have to go back to the office."

The two men exchanged glances, then looked at Joan. "Do you mind?" Karl inquired with his quick smile. "I'd like to get a couple of letters out tonight. I know it isn't in the bargain for you to work on Sunday."

She knew that she was powerless to refuse him. She would gladly have typed endless letters in order to be near him.

Karl paid the check and the three of them left. As they drove back to North Beach, sheets of rain beat upon the car. The Club Elite was closed on Sundays and Karl unlocked the door with his own key. Joan was surprised to see a streak of light streaming from the door of his private office.

Hurrying along the corridor, she reached it first and found herself face to face with Paul Sherman.

He grinned at her. "A manager never really has a day off."

Karl seemed to find nothing strange in his presence at the club.

"You don't happen to have some extra time, do you, Miss Leland?" Paul inquired. "I could use some help."

Before she could answer, Karl Miller said quickly, "She has enough to do, Paul, and now if you don't mind..." He left his sentence unfinished.

"Surely," Paul grinned and sauntered to the door. "See you tomorrow," he called back but his eyes were on Joan and she knew that he was thinking of the dinner date he had proposed.

She shook her head as she looked at him over her typewriter but Paul ignored it.

Karl removed his overcoat and sat down at his desk. Eric Strom mixed himself a drink.

"Take a letter," Karl said, reading from a sheet of yellow paper, "to A. H. Gomez, Mazatlan, Mexico... Dear Sir: I am happy to report that the situation you mentioned has been cleared up satisfactorily. The club will be open from eight to two and shows every sign of being successful."

Joan looked at him curiously. This did not sound like an important business letter to her. Certainly not so important that it couldn't wait until morning.

Seeing her glance, Karl said, "I'm afraid you're too tired. I shouldn't have asked you to work tonight."

"It's all right," she hastened to assure him, "I don't mind, really."

But Karl Miller had changed his mind. "I will call a taxi and send you home."

"But I'm not tired, Karl!"

He was dialing a number and Joan knew it was useless to argue with him. He went to the door of the club with her, pressing her hand as he said, "I'm sorry it had to turn out this way tonight. We'll arrange something else soon..."

Joan shivered in the damp night air as she waited for the taxi. A small coupe stopped suddenly before her with screaming brakes. Involuntarily Joan stepped back, surprised to see Paul Sherman.

"What are you doing here alone?" he asked.

"Waiting for a taxi," Joan replied with dignity.

"Well, jump in, my girl!" Paul ordered cheerfully.

He got out and opened the door of the car. "You may as well let me drive you home. You can't stand here in the rain, you know."

It did seem silly, Joan admitted, climbing in, but as Paul started the car she cried, "I left my purse in the office."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for February 1

JESUS CALLS FOUR DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Luke 5:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

Followers of Christ are those who have not counted their goods nor their persons their own, but have willingly yielded all to Him. Obviously many who profess to follow Him have only done so in that measure which will not interfere with their own plans and interests. They need to study this lesson with care.

The call of Christ is one which demands willing and wholehearted obedience.

I. Yielded Possessions (vv. 1-3).

These disciples had already responded to the ministry of Jesus and had followed Him for a time (see John 1:35-4:54), but they did not yet know the fullness of surrender to Christ and had now gone back to their old work of fishing. May they not be typical of many in our day who know the Lord and have for a time followed Him closely, but have again become engrossed in their daily vocation, perhaps just making money?

Jesus was now ready to call them out into a lifetime of service, and the first thing He did was to ask the use of their chief possession, their boat. That was first yielded to Him.

It was not by chance that it was Peter's boat which was just at hand when the Master needed it. Such things do not "just happen." The destinies of men are in the hands of God, and with His children the simplest happening is known to and controlled by Him. He who numbers the hairs on our heads, He who observes the fall of the sparrow, knows about everything that happens to us.

II. Yielded Service (vv. 4-7).

Having completed His teaching by word, Jesus had a special object lesson for Peter and the others concerning the fruitlessness of service apart from His guidance and control, and the blessed results which come from obedience to Him.

Taking them where he found them, He showed the disciples that He was the Master even of their secular vocation of fishing. He is the One who knows more about your business than you do, who can give or withhold His blessing. All that we have has come to us from His hand, and it is all within His control.

This Almighty One was ready to call these fishermen out into the greater business of fishing for men by revealing to them His mighty power to bless and prosper the fisherman—who becomes a fisher of men.

III. Yielded Lives (vv. 8-11).

The giving of their possessions, the yielding of their work into His hands in obedience, led up to His call for the yielding of their lives.

Often we speak of God's claims upon the life of the Christian as though it were the fiat of an autocrat, one who demands his rights. God might well do so, for He has full authority and power over all of us, but He is a gracious God and gently leads His children along to the place where they make their own decision to leave all and follow Him.

The work of God in the world is carried on by men. The joy of proclaiming the gospel was not given to the angels, but to redeemed men and women. Knowing the regenerating grace of God in their own lives, they have been called during all this Christian era to go out to tell others.

In preparation for that ministry our Lord needed yielded lives, which He sought and found in these humble fishermen. They were "not visionaries or dreamers, but were practical men with common sense. They had been disciplined in the school of common toil... Though unlearned so far as formal theological training was concerned, these men were teachable. Under the tutelage of the Son of God Himself they received matchless informal training... leading to a record of service which the world will never forget. It is that sort of teaching that counts. We, too, may learn in the school of Christ, through a study of His Word, assisted by His Spirit, and through the yielding of our lives to His control" (B. L. Olmstead).

Those in Need

While Jesus wants some who are tried and true and taught, He never lost sight of the fact that He came to seek and save the lost. Truly He wants a good, strong net, but He means for it to be generously used. The net is His and He will attend to the separating of the fish. It is ours to cast the net. The gospel invitation is "Whoever will, let him come." Too often we are afraid to cast the net lest we gather in some useless fish.

Section 2. The City Council may when it may see fit have the books and records of the person, association, organization or corporation rendering the statement required in Section 1 of this ordinance examined by a representative of the city to ascertain whether such statement is accurate, but nothing in this Ordinance shall be construed to prevent the city from ascertaining the facts by any other method.

Section 5. That the rental for the privilege of using the streets, alleys, highways, easements, and public places of the City of O'Donnell provided for in this ordinance is not charged as a tax, but is made for the privilege now enjoyed and to be enjoyed by such persons, associations, organizations, and corporations of using the streets, easements, alleys, and other public ways of the city in the conduct of their respective businesses; and such charges are additional to all ad valorem and franchise taxes and to all taxes of every nature whatsoever against the persons, associations, organizations, or corporations mentioned herein.

Section 6. That nothing herein is intended to relieve any persons, association, organization or corporation of any condition, restriction, or requirement imposed by any law or ordinance of the said City of O'Donnell, Texas.

Section 7. That this ordinance does not grant a franchise to any utility or person, association, organization or corporation to use the streets, easements, alleys and other public ways and shall never be so construed by the courts or otherwise, and the City reserves the right to cancel the privileges granted hereunder and refund the unearned rentals paid to the city.

Section 8. That the City of O'Donnell hereby reserves the right to put into effect at any time other restrictions and regulations as to the erection and maintenance of poles, wires, pipes, and other appurtenances in the streets, easements, alleys, and other public ways of the said city and from time to time to require such poles, pipes, wires, and other property equipment and fixtures as it may deem proper to be removed and to require wires to be run in conduits on such terms as the city may deem proper.

Section 9. That every person, association, organization and corporation who shall operate any business without the payment of the rental provided for herein shall be subject to a penalty of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars for each and every day that such persons, association, organization or corporation shall conduct such business using and occupying the streets, easements, alleys, or other public ways of the City of O'Donnell, Texas, without the payment of the said rentals which said sum may be recovered by the City of O'Donnell in a court of competent jurisdiction by a suit filed therein.

Section 10. The city fire marshal, building inspector, electrical inspector, city's police officers, and such other persons designated by the city, shall have power and it shall be their duty to examine and inspect from time to time all telegraph, telephone, electric light or other poles, gas pipe lines, pipes and other fixtures in the public places within the city for the purpose of seeing that all of same are in a safe and suitable condition, and whenever any such item is found to be unsafe or unsuitable for the purpose for which it is used, the person using the same shall be notified and required to place the same in a safe and suitable condition.

Section 11. If any section, paragraph, subdivision, clause, or provision of this ordinance shall be adjudged invalid or held unconstitutional, the same shall not affect the validity of this ordinance as a whole or any part or portion thereof other than the part so adjudged to be invalid or unconstitutional.

Section 12. That the fact that light, telephone, gas and sewer lines have been occupying and using the streets, easements, alleys, and other public ways of the City of O'Donnell, Texas, for many years without the payment of rental for such use creates an emergency and this ordinance shall take effect immediately upon its passage, and publication as required by law.

Luscious to Look At and Eat, Too... Orange Sponge Cake (See Recipes Below)

Snacks, II

"What shall I serve to guests who drop in for an evening of bridge or for a chat?"

This is a question I've heard many hostesses ask, especially often during colder weather when visiting time really comes into favor again.

Your guests will have finished their supper only a short time before, and since snacks do not come late in the evening, it is best to serve something not too heavy.

Hot drinks are favorites in the chilling weather. If you like coffee, be sure to have quantities of the steaming beverage on hand.

Here's the first cake on our list. It's like spun gold in color with just the right tartness.

Orange Sponge Cake.

5 egg yolks 1 1/4 cups sugar 1/2 cup orange juice 1/2 cup water 2 cups sifted flour 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/8 teaspoon salt 1 tablespoon grated orange peel 5 egg whites

Beat egg yolks, sugar and orange juice until light. Add water and beat 2 minutes. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Beat 1 minute or until thoroughly blended into egg mixture, fold in grated orange peel and egg whites beaten stiff but not dry.

Gold Topping.

1/4 cup cold water 1 tablespoon gelatin 4 egg yolks 1/4 cup sugar 1 cup orange juice 1 teaspoon grated orange peel 4 egg whites 1/4 cup sugar Orange sections

Soften gelatin in water. Cook egg yolks, sugar and orange juice in top of double boiler until thick. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved.

Lynn Says:

Hot mulled fruit juices lend tang to winter evening snacks. You can have hot mulled cider by heating the cider and adding 1 teaspoon whole cloves and 1 stick of cinnamon (tied in a bag) while the cider is heating.

Here's another mulled fruit juice served piping hot: Tie in a bag, 12 whole cloves, 1 3-inch stick of cinnamon, and 1 whole nutmeg. Empty a large can of apple juice and a 12-ounce can of cherry juice in the saucepan and add spices. Heat, remove spices and serve. This recipe takes care of eight people.

Hot spiced lemon tea has lots of pick-up. Make it by pouring 5 cups boiling water over 6 teaspoons of black tea. Steep 5 minutes, then strain. Dissolve 1/4 cup sugar in 1/4 cup boiling water. Combine 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon and 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves, and add to hot tea. Serve at once, garnished with lemon slices. Serves 6.

top of cake. Chill in refrigerator. Decorate with fresh orange sections just before serving.

Gleaned from an excellent chef, this Lemon Cake-Pie is a good combination of a cream pie and cake. Because of the delicate lemon flavor it will prove interesting to serve for those evenings when friends just drop in for a bit.

*Lemon Cake-Pie. 1 cup sugar 1 tablespoon butter 2 tablespoons flour 2 eggs 1 cup milk 1 lemon

Blend the sugar and butter, add beaten egg yolks, milk, flour and the juice and rind of the lemon. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into an unbaked pie-crust. Bake in a slow (325-degree) oven 35 to 40 minutes.

*Pumpkin Pie. 3 eggs, slightly beaten 1 cup sugar 1 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg 1/4 teaspoon ginger 1/4 teaspoon cloves 2 cups cooked canned pumpkin 1 cup cream, rich milk or undiluted evaporated milk 1 cup orange juice

Mix sugar, spices, salt. Add slightly beaten eggs, pumpkin, cream or milk, and orange juice. Pour into an unbaked 10-inch pie shell. Bake at (450 degree) for 10 minutes, and then in a moderate (350-degree) oven for about 50 minutes or until knife comes out clean when inserted in filling. Serve with whipped cream garnished with grated orange peel.

Gingerbread is a favorite for after-dinner bridge type of entertaining. Gingerbread made with boiling water gives the cake a special kind of feathery texture which is certain to charm. Most of the time you like to serve gingerbread with whipped cream, but you can vary this if you add crushed peppermints to the cream before serving.

*Old-Fashioned Gingerbread. 1/2 cup boiling water 1/2 cup shortening 1/2 cup brown sugar 1/2 cup molasses 1 beaten egg 1 1/2 cups flour 1/4 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon baking powder 1/4 teaspoon soda 1/4 teaspoon ginger 1/4 teaspoon allspice 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Pour water over the shortening and add sugar, molasses and egg. Add sifted dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Bake in a waxed-paper lined square pan in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 35 minutes. Cool before turning out from pan. For variation, 1 package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces may be added with the dry ingredients if a chocolate-flecked cake is desired.
