Death Claims Mrs. Pearl Gates Monday

On Monday night, April 25, the Death Angel came and claimed the spirit of Mrs. Pearl Gates. Death occurred in a Lubbock sanitarium where she was taken Sunday and immediately underwent a caesarean operation with the hope that life would be spared. The little infant was brought back and laid away in the O'Donnell Cemetery Monday preceding her death.

Mrs. Gates body was shipped Tuesday to Montague, Texas for burial, accompanied by the husband, Mr. Pearl Gates, and his two brothers, Jake and Walter Gates. A large circle of friends join the Index in extending sympathy to the bereaved husband and sorrowing relatives.

W. O. STEVENS COMPANY ANNOUNCE THEIR OPENING SALE

W. O. Stevens Company, purchasers of the O'Donnell Mercantile stock who recently moved their stock of goods to the building formerly occupied by the Hart Mercantile, announce their opening sale this week which begins Friday, April 29th. C. A. Baldwin, manager, says they have added lots of new merchandise to the stock which is being sold at sacrificing prices in their big opening sale. See their big double page announcement in this week's issue of the Index.

MRS. ROY GIBSON SUFFERS ATTACK OF APPENDICITIS

Mrs. Roy Gibson suffered a very severe attack of appendicitis on Monday night. It was thought for a time that an emergency operation would be necessary. Her condition has been improving and the operation has been postponed until a later date.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Miles returned Friday afternoon from a three week visit in South Texas. They also visited the Rio Grande Valley and Mr. Miles stated the country was very beautiful and he enjoyed the trip, but he was glad to get back to O'Donnell and home folks.

ARE YOU A LOYAL SUPPORTER OF OUR LOCAL FIRE DEPT.

A short time ago the local fire boys inaugurated an honorary membership campaign in order to raise money to pay their dues to the State Firemen's Association, and other necessary expenses. Cards were sent out to the citizens of O'Donnell which entitled the holder to an honorary membership upon the remittance of the small sum of one dollar. Chief Clyde Ash says the folks of O'Donnell have not responded to the call as readily as they should. So far about fifty out of two-hundred have enlisted and an honorary member all of which is greatly appreciated by the boys. But a more loyal response should be given the boys. They are justly entitled to such, as they serve the people of our little city without the slightest monetary consideration and are ready and willing at all times of day or night to answer the call of the fire siren. Besides the protection to personal property they render by their untiring services, they save the property owners of O'Donnell something like four thousand dollars in insurance each year because of their affiliation with the State Firemen's Association. Without this affiliation the Insurance Commission of Texas would not allow this reduction in Insurance rates which has been given O'Donnell since the organization of the fire department. Show your loyalty and appreciation of the services rendered by our fire boys by sending in the small sum of one dollar. One dollar isn't much to one individual, but when each individual that is benefitted by the fire department enlists as an honorary member, it means much to the boys—it means that they will be able to carry on—pay their dues to the State Association and other incidentals which should be borne by those served, and not the one who renders the service. Think it over. You may be forced to call upon them for aid next—you never can tell.

THE O. K. HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MEET

The O. K. Club met Friday afternoon, April 22, at our regular permanent meeting place with Mrs. Snellgrove.

The meeting was called to order by the president and after a short business session, Mrs. Gary gave the demonstration in set-in-pockets and round button holes.

We are sorry indeed that Miss Grimes is ill and was unable to be with us, but we sincerely hope that she will soon be well.

The following members were present: Mrs. Snellgrove, Mrs. Gary, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Burleson, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Riggs, Mrs. Caudle and Miss Velma Conley.

Miss Nellie Walker was a very pleasant visitor.

Every woman in the community has a cordial invitation to attend our next meeting, May 27.

MRS. A. W. GIBBS AND MISS SCHOOER ENTERTAIN

On last Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. R. H. Schooler, Mrs. A. W. Gibbs and Miss Willie Schooler entertained a number of their friends with progressive bridge. The party was given in honor of Mrs. Good Graves of Desdemonia, and Mrs. Frank Wilkerson of Big Lake. No high score was played for but at the conclusion of the games it was soon found out that Mrs. J. R. Sanders had won the most points. Though much diligent inquiry and searching of score cards was made, it could not be discovered who had won low score. In fact, Messrs Wilder and Crunk' score cards could not be found after the sandwiches had been eaten.

Refreshments of coffee, cake and sandwiches were served to Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Schooler, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. House, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crunk, Mr. W. H. Crunk's mother of Dallas, Mmes. J. R. Sanders, Good Graves and Frank Wilkerson, Messrs E. M. Wilder, Ben Cowden, J. L. Schooler, A. W. Gibbs.

At a late hour the guests bid their charming hostesses good night feeling lucky indeed to have been one in "their midst" during the evening.

Lynn Theatre Will Show Sunday Evening

According to information given the Index yesterday, the Lynn Theatre will open to the public Sunday afternoon. Two complete shows will be run, the first beginning at 1:45 p. m., the second ending at 5 p. m. An admission of 10c and 20c will be charged, and all proceeds will be given the Red Cross for the relief of flood sufferers.

The film producers will give the films, the express company the transportation, the Index hand bills and all printing, the Lynn Theatre all operating expenses and we are informed the mayor of O'Donnell will give his time at the ticket window, and the entire proceeds going to the Red Cross for flood relief and the tornado victims of Rock Springs.

G. Bert Davis, manager of the Lynn Theatre, stated he did not know just what picture would be shown, but assured us that it would be a good one. The show has been arranged so that it will not conflict with any church and Sunday school programs.

This is merely one of the hundreds of ways of millions of dollars are being raised throughout the United States for the thousands that are homeless in the flooded districts along the Mississippi river valley and many other sections of the country.

THE POPULAR STORE IS INCREASING IN POPULARITY

TRUSTEES FOR LYNN COUNTY ELECTED DURING PAST WEEK

The commissioner's court last week canvassed the returns of school trustee election held throughout the county recently, and from the returns given and the record in the office of county superintendent H. P. Caveness. The News has compiled a list of the trustees of the county, Tahoka and O'Donnell not included. According to information given out by J. R. Sanders on Tuesday who came in from Wickett, he and "Sky Juice" Kellis have formed a partnership and are putting in two picture shows, one at Wickett and the other at Wink, both located in the Crane-Upton oil fields.

Mr. Sanders stated they had the building completed for the show at Wickett and expected to have it in operation by the first of the week. As soon as it is completed they will begin the erection of their second theatre at Wink.

Mr. Sanders was formerly in the show business in O'Donnell and Mr. Kellis is former owner and editor of the Index, both have many friends here who join the Index in wishing them much prosperity in their new venture.

BROWNFIELD WELL HAS NEW DRILLING CREW

We understand that a new crew of drillers have been put to work on the Brownfield well. Just why this change was made, we are unable to learn, but this is the third crew that has been employed on the well.

Just how deep the well is at present or what the prospects for oil is, the Herald is as dense as an owl, as very little if any information is ever given out especially for publication. In view of this fact, and not being of a very inquisitive nature toward any who seem to have a dark secret, we know nothing and very little of that concerning oil wells here or yon.

It is rumored here however, that we may in the near future have a test southwest of town. Also, one each over in Yoakum and Gaines counties, and most geologists are of the opinion that oil will be found in these sections southwest of Brownfield.—Brownfield Herald.

PLAINVIEW CEMETERY WORKING WILL BE APRIL 30TH

We have been informed that the date has been moved up to April 30th which is more convenient to all concerned. Lunch will be served on the ground at the noon hour and the public is asked to be present to aid in cleaning up and beautifying the Plainview burial ground. Remember the date, April 30th.

TELL 'EM OW!

A merchant stood in his front door way bewailing the times, the people and the low estate to which his business had fallen. Down the block a few doors away the matinee crowd was pouring out of a moving picture show.

"Look at that," moaned the merchant.
"Look at that crowd of saps coming out of that cheap picture dump. They swarm in there and pay thirty-five cents to see a show that I wouldn't walk ten steps to watch. Here my store stands empty.
What is the matter with the people anyhow?"

The observer asked; "have you a copy of your local paper?"

"What's that got to do with it?"
the merchant answered, Yankee fashion.

"It may have a lot to do with it, let me see your newspaper and I may be able to find the answer for you." The paper was produced.

The observer turned the pages rapidly. He pointed out a half page advertisement of the movie show and a half column of reading matter in which the show was reviewed and praised. Also people were advised to go see it. Turning on through the pages the observer asked: "Where's your ad? Where's your reading notice? What are you doing to win people into the habit of coming into your store instead of into the movie?"
And there is the answer for a lot of merchants who complain of the conditions in the retail business. They are making no endeavor to get the public interested in their merchandise.
They are standing idle, waiting, complaining but doing nothing. Look at the movie.—Swiped.

A. D. Brown thinks he has about the hardest luck of any man in town.
Upon approaching A. D. the past week on the streets of O'Donnell, we noticed he was carrying a battered thumb, and naturally we were anxious to learn how it all happened. We asked him how he hurt his hand. His reply was, "Nailing up a horseshoe for luck." We had nothing more to say.

STRAYED—Bay horse, roach about 1200 pounds, unbranded and has white spot in face. Strayed

SEVENTY-FIVE BANDS TO COMPETE AT C.
OF C. MEET IN MAY

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, April 29—Indications are there will be at least seventy-five band in Wichita Falls May 16 and 17 for the ninth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Stand Band Contest. L. V. Lawler of this city is manager of the contest.
Many entries have already been received.
The West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Wichita Falls
Chamber of Commerce are giving $5,000 in cash prizes. There are six divisions and indications according to Mr. Lawler, are there will be many entrants in each class. Hundreds of inquiries, Mr. Lawler says, have been received and this leads him to believe that almost one hundred bands will be here. High School bands thus far are in the lead for entrants.

This band contest has always been a big feature at the convention and this year is attracting more interest due to the fact that it is for all bands in the state. The band contest proper will take place on the second day of the convention in order that all may have part in the great convention parade which will be held on Monday, May 16.

Still another feature in musical lines will take place Sunday evening May 15, when it is expected more than fifty high school, junior and senior college glee clubs and church choirs will have part in a contest to be given at convention headquarters.
Many entrants have already been received by Mayor R. E. Shepherd, Chairman of this special committee.

KNOW TEXAS

Texas produces 19 per cent of all the natural gas gasoline output in the United States—about 190 million gallons a year.

The production of natural gas in Texas amounts to about 130 billion cubic feet a year and is increasing very rapidly.

Electric power plants in Texas showed a gain of 27 per cent in amount of electricity produced in February this year compared with February last year.

Every major division of Texas is now either producing petroleum and natural gas or is potential in such industry.

WEST TEXAS NEWS

STAMFORD—A plea for chambers of commerce to function as agencies in raising funds for Rock Spring's relief has been issued by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to towns in its territory. Rock Spring now left in wide-spread suffering and destruction with not a bit of tornado insurance, though an inland town, always did its full share in support of West Texas interest, and carried its quota of memberships in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Sister towns in the regional organization are therefore being asked by Manager Wade and President Dugan to organize Rock Spring Relief Drives.

DENTON—Denton, Queen College City of North Central Texas, has voted to affiliate with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Secretary Manager G. R. Warren of that place in making announcement of this, pointed out advantages of holding membership, one among which was benefit to local educational institutions with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, at the time this action was taken. The Denton Chamber of Commerce, and to observe Industrial Development Week. Denton is home of the College of Industrial Arts and the North Texas State Teachers College.

SWEETWATER—Judge R. C. Crane has returned here after attending the third annual session of the West Texas Historical Association, held in Stamford, April 21. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce whose headquarters are in that place has interested itself in that society, especially in respect to securing recognized names for historic, scenic, and beauty spots over West Texas.

MERKEL—Miss Emily Bailey was selected as sponsor for Lampasas at the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held in Wichita Falls, May 16 and 17. Towns throughout West Texas will have sponsors at the meeting. Miss Helen selected Miss Luda Travis as their sponsor.

THROCKMORTON—Throckmorton has been the scene of the annual meet of Texas Fox Hunters Association this week. The drive started Tuesday on the Davis Brothers Ranch, nine miles west of Throckmorton, and was extended over three days: The Throckmorton Chamber of Commerce and Throckmorton County members of the association were hosts at a big barbecue Wednesday at the ranch.

BROWNWOOD—The Mid-Texas Press Association will hold its first semi-annual convention at Brownwood, May 13, which will mark the first meeting since the organization formation last September. Prominent newspaper men from Coleman, Brady, Ballenger, Winters, San Saba, Hico, Brownwood, Stephenville, De Leon, Rising Star and Santa Anna will appear on the program.

WICHITA FALLS—United States Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will arrive in Wichita Falls by airplane about ten o'clock the morning of May 16, to attend the ninth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, according to advisement by telegram to Manager Homer D. Wade. Manager Wade opened up headquarters in Wichita this week, where he will remain until after the convention.

MERKEL—Merkel has voted for extension of the water system and to pave ten blocks of the business section.

Mrs. J. W. Roberts and little daughter Maralyn, returned Monday afternoon from Haskell, Texas where they spent the past month visiting the former's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith.

The Matter With Him

"Gracious goodness!" exclaimed the able editor of the Tumulville Torch of Liberty and Tocsin of the Times. "Who is that fellow that came in with you, and what is the matter with him?"

"Aw, that's Hunk Butters," replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "He's got a bunch of hounds that have running fits—they take 'em and light out and run for three days sometimes, and come back as gaunt as if they had been starved."

"Mr. Butters looked very dilapidated, too. What has happened to him?"

"He's been running after the hounds, I reckon."—Kansas City Star.

Cat's One Week

There are stingy people—and stingier people—and then there are people who vie with the proverbial Scrooge for high honors among the stingiest.

A few weeks ago a certain woman who was going out of town for a week's visit took her cat over to the home of a neighbor and asked her to care for it while she was gone.

"The cat will not be any trouble," said the woman. "Here is a cold boiled potato which I have cut in seven pieces. Just give the cat one piece each day I am gone."

Needless to say, the potato soon found its way to the garbage can, and the cat enjoyed square meals for at least one week.—Indianapolis News.

Public-Spirited Gift

As a wild-life sanctuary, a tract known as Little Wachusett mountain, Princeton, containing 127 acres of land, has been donated to Massachusetts by a Boston woman. In announcing the gift, the state department of conservation said: "This is one more link in the chain of permanent wild-life sanctuaries which is gradually being established throughout the state. All of our citizens will appreciate the generosity and public-spiritiveness of the donor."

Girls Growing Chunkier

According to a survey just completed at Simmons college, Boston, girls are growing chunkier. The average height was found to be five feet, three and three-tenths inches, while the average weight for that height was 120 pounds.

HOW TO LOSE WEIGHT AND KEEP VITALITY

How to reduce weight and increase energy is the problem not only of the woman who would be fashionably slim, but also of the man who likes to boast of being "in good condition." No one likes to deny himself continually. For this reason diets, which will bring one's weight back to normal, in a comparatively short time, have become increasingly popular. But the unfortunate thing is that most diets which reduce weight also reduce energy. And there is a very simple reason for this.

Most foods which supply something toward the building and repairing of tissues, supply as much to the fat cells as to the lean tissues. And on the other hand, those foods which do not supply starches, sugars or other fat-making properties to the body, do not always contain the food elements necessary to keep the body functioning properly.

A prominent physician, whose office had been filled with people seeking a scientific way to reduce weight without reducing vitality, was not so long since, what he considered an ideal diet for reducing weight. It is simply a combination of lamb chops and pineapple. Both are known to have lean-tissue building properties, both contain protein, lime, (needed for bone building and repairing,) mineral salts, a large proportion of liquid, fiber which supplies bulk and roughage, essential to elimination. Neither pineapple nor lamb chops have fat-producing properties. And, very important is the fact that lamb chops combined with pineapple make an appetizing and satisfying food.

Canned pineapple is preferable to the fresh fruit, in this diet as it is available at all times, and because fresh pineapple usually has to be picked green and allowed to ripen in ships en route, whereas the canned pineapple is the only really ripe pineapple exported. The fruit to be canned has ripened to full maturity in Hawaiian fields under tropical sun, and therefore contains more vitamins and natural fruit sugars.

Also, canned pineapple is full of "readily usable" energy, because it is preserved in cane sugar, and contains both the natural sugar of the ripened pineapple and the pure cane sugar added when the fruit is canned. And sugar is converted into energy within twenty minutes after it enters the stomach. Fat people who are accustomed to eating an amount of energizing sugar invariably feel their energy decreasing on beginning a diet. They have acquired the habit of eating sweets. But by including pineapple, which in both cane and fruit sugars, the craving for sweets is partly satisfied, and at the same time there is energy necessary for the usual activities of the day.

It is very important that the person who is reducing feels energetic enough to take a normal amount of exercise, because exercise hastens the breaking of fat cells and reduces weight. Physicians warn us against a diet which saps our energy to the extent that we feel weak and unfit for our customary duties.

Ways of serving the lamb chop and pineapple diet may be varied so that the two foods will not become monotonous. Both may be broiled, or roasted, or the pineapple may be eaten as it comes from the can.

One woman who lost weight consistently on this diet, adhered to the following method of serving.

Breakfast: One lamb chop broiled and two slices of pineapple; coffee, preferably plain, but one lump of sugar may be added if one wishes the morning cup sweetened.

Luncheon: Place one lamb chop on a broiler and cook for eight minutes without turning. Turn and cover with a slice of Hawaiian pineapple. Broil eight minutes more and serve on hot platter. A glass of pineapple juice may be served with this luncheon. (This is available now in cans.)

Dinner: Roast two lamb chops and two slices of pineapple in a self-baster, which allows the juice of the chops to permeate the pineapple; coffee without cream or sugar.

Physicians advise that reducing be done slowly so that the body may accustom itself gradually to the changes. One-fourth of a pound a day is sufficient to lose, so if after a few days on the diet, it is discovered that weight is being lost too rapidly, it would be well to add other foods temporarily so that one-fourth of a pound a day will be the average loss. A pound of fat is equal to about 4,000 calories. Therefore in losing a fourth of a pound each day we are decreasing our diet 1,000 calories, which is sufficient.

From the physiological standpoint, it is suggested that one weigh every other day, so that one can keep "tabs" on the pound so that the restrictions involved by the diet, will seem worth while.

Caliph Serves Fruit To His Favorite Wives and asked:

"Because," replied Hassan, "my enemy, Abdul, is tomorrow being punished with a huge pineapple."
But Hassan's hope for a punishment was unfulfilled when Abdul arrived the day, the happy Caliph had a huge pineapple to be served to him and his wives.
The moral of this tale is that pineapples are good for digestion — but happily, Hassan's tales have no medicinal value, however, the case of a Caliph's digestive troubles, would no doubt be agreed that pineapple was the fruit which the great Hassan needed.
Hawaii grows a pineapple "Smooth Cayenne", which make Hassan and even his wives, for it is not only the pineapple produced, but the and sweetest. Were he alive today, he would have of this Hawaiian pineapple ripened in the fields of Arabia to him, fresher than the one which he journeyed via "The Camel" right on the edge of the nations and thus the fruit to linger in the fields until has bestowed on it the ounce of flavor and health properties. It is then picked cans within twelve hours has been picked.
And since pineapple, the canned fruit, is second only to canned peaches, it is a variety of ways for the benefit of its ever increasing of consumers.
The market affords both Standard grades of pineapples packed in the following slices for serving plain or with salads and caldais; crushed and adapted to culinary uses; tid-bits for salads or dips; the slices are to be blended juice for delightful drinks.
The ancient Arabians enjoyed choice fruit and seasons is a custom which followed today, all year Hawaiian canned pineapples luxury and delicacy, it has rich food value, sunny color makes it as to so many dainty desserts also delicious in meat, and in the vegetable dishes serve every day, and because its dietetic importance, its appealing taste, its distinction of being the of Fruits.

'WAT back in the days of the Arabian Nights pineapples were on the menu. They were not the "Smooth Cayennes" which Hawaii offers today, but if we are to put faith in the tale of a pineapple grown for Haroun-el-Raschid, Caliph of Bagdad, "bigger and better" pineapples were even then in demand.
As the story goes, at certain holiday seasons it was the privilege of loyal Mohammedans to present rare and costly gifts to the Caliph. Two horticultural geniuses of that day, Hassan and Abdul, entered upon a bitter rivalry when each started to grow, as his offering, a fruit which would be larger and better than any fruit ever known in Persia or Arabia.
Hassan was a banana specialist. He set out to grow a giant banana which would outdo all other bananas on earth. Abdul was the only man in all Arabia who could grow pineapples. He sought to please the Great Caliph with the biggest pineapple ever beheld in Bagdad.
Nature was kind, and both fruits grew even beyond the fairest dreams of their planters. Daily, great crowds of Arabs gathered to watch the plants of the rival camps, and report progress. When word was brought to Hassan that the pineapple of Abdul was expanding to an alarming extent, Hassan became troubled. Abdul, however, was serenely conscious that he had the battle won, for was not the pineapple monarch of fruits?

It was the eve of the great feast. Imbued with a secret plan to steal a march on Abdul, Hassan crept into his garden, cut down his choice banana, and leaping upon his fleet dromedary sped away into the night.
Arriving at the castle, Hassan presented his giant banana. The Caliph took one look at the fruit and fell into a rare horrible to see. For that day Haroun-el-Raschid was suffering from a frightful attack of indigestion.
"The unfeeling wretch," cried the enraged Caliph, "Shove his banana down his throat."
The attendants grabbed the astonished Hassan and started shoving the fruit down his throat, when one of them pulled it out suddenly

In Bad All Around
Descending from a tramcar in Vienna, an English visitor threw away his ticket. In Austria's capital it is a misdemeanor to litter the streets with rubbish. A policeman fined him two schilling (28 cents) on the spot, giving him an official receipt for the amount. Rather annoyed, the Englishman crumpled up the receipt and cast it from him. The policeman again fined him two schilling! The Englishman used an expictive mildly indicative of his opinion on Vienna's police regulations. The policeman understood English and promptly fined the visitor ten schilling for "using bad language!"
"Fireproof" Film
After fourteen years of experimenting a British inventor claims to have perfected a fireproof moving-picture film. It is said that the film cannot burn, yet will produce as satisfactory pictures and at as low cost as the standard film now used. The invention promises to do away with the costly precautions against fire in projection rooms of theaters.
But Measure Was Filled
The weather was cold and the oil ran very slowly. Floyd Vanderhoef of Boonton, N. J., became impatient and went into the house, intending to come back later when the quart measure was full. That was Christmas morning. Two days later Vanderhoef went to his garage. The quart measure was full, but the 50-gallon barrel of oil delivered to him by the Phillips was empty.

RAILWAY ENDEAVORING TO RE- DUCE ACCIDENTS

possible means of reducing the number of highway grade crossing accidents which in 1926 took 2,492 and claimed 3,991 persons, will be the principal subject of discussion at the seventh annual meeting of the Safety Section of the American Railway Association at the Palmer House in Chicago, beginning Tuesday. The meeting, which will be attended by prominent men from all the railroads in the United States and Canada will last three days.

view of the increase of nearly 50 per cent in highway accidents in 1926 over the year 1925, due to such accidents together with the constant increase in the number of automobiles in use, this year's meeting is recognized as one of the most important that face the railroads today.

connection with and in addition to the methods already in force to insure greater safety at grade crossings and in order to create increased interest on the part of both the railroads and the public in the necessity of continued care being exercised at highway grade crossings, the railroad this year will conduct an intensive campaign in an effort to reduce the number of such accidents. It is now being discussed at the Chicago meeting for this campaign.

part of that campaign the American Railway Association has already created an essay contest among students in high school and grammar school with three cash prizes of $250 each to be awarded the authors of essays containing an original and readily available suggestion for preventing such accidents. The contest will be limited to 250 words each and will be held on June 1. The winning essays will be selected by three persons of national prominence who will act as judges and who will be announced in due time.

1926 there were 5,921 highway grade crossing accidents compared with 4,226 in 1925. In 1920, 4,226 accidents on the highways, railroad grade crossings and automobile accidents increased as rapidly since that time as the number of automobile accidents on the highways. Railroad officials believe a considerable proportion of the accidents at railroad crossings can be prevented if adequate precautions are taken at such crossings. While the entire elimination of grade crossings would be the ideal solution of the problem, this is physically and financially impossible.

marked progress has already been made by the railroads in an effort to insure greater protection at grade crossings. Safety devices of various kinds have been installed while obstructions which obscure a view of the tracks have been removed. In many other steps have been taken to increase the safety of the grade crossings. Engineers are devoting more attention to the safety of the grade crossings before the giving of adequate warning when their trains approach grade crossings and are doing everything possible to avoid accidents at such points.

greater realization on the part of motorists, however that he, too, cooperates with the railroads in the increased care in approaching grade crossings is necessary. In conducting the campaign the railroads hope to impress on the public the necessity for continued precaution being exercised at grade crossings and that, if there is to be a reduction in the number of such accidents, motorists and carriers must cooperate to a still greater extent in order to bring about the greater safety possible at those crossings.

THE EPICURE EATS PINEAPPLE

EPICURUS, the Greek philosopher, maintained that pleasure is the chief good.

No one seems to have recorded whether Epicurus found his food pleasure in ham or eggs, or quail on toast, but we have all known epicures. They tell us not of castles they saw in Spain but of Spanish sauces they ate there; not of the Alps they scaled in Italy, but of Italian spaghetti. To the epicure, Georgia is a place to eat corn bread, Boston a place to eat beans.

If it is a cold blustery day in a northern clime, the epicure who delights in physical comfort wants to be suddenly transported to the tropics. His food must have tropical flavor. The crisp cold air has bestowed on him a hearty appetite; he is hungry, but his food must have the flavor he craves.

Out of the magic of the epicure's kitchen, the chef produces a baked ham. Not an ordinary baked ham, but a savory entrée baked with delicious Hawaiian pineapple. Slices of the golden fruit garnish the platter; sweet potatoes lay alongside of it, baked with brown sugar and butter syrup which encrusts the ham; and the native fragrance of pineapple, combined with the sweet odor of a real Virginia ham, makes this a dish which Epicurus himself would have found a pleasure and therefore a great good.

The epicure will take his pineapple in canned form, as he knows that all the golden, sun-ripened fruit of the Hawaiian plantations are packed into cans and shipped across the ocean to us as fresh as the day they were gathered from the fields. His palate demands this perfection of flavor rather than the taste of a fruit which has been picked green and allowed to ripen in the dark holds of ships.

The instinct of the epicure does not lead him far wrong in the choice of foods, for a food which flavors and makes a meal more palatable, usually helps digest it. Aside from being palatable with meat, pineapple makes meat more easily digested.

Pineapple contains an enzyme, bromelin, which is part of the digestive juice and which not only makes it a very digestible food in itself but helps digest other foods. Besides this, the natural sugar of the fruit is converted into energy twenty minutes after it enters the stomach. Pineapple also contains mineral salts which tone one's system and vitamins which make for growth.

This delight in tropical flavor has made pineapple a favorite not only with the epicure but with all types of people. With vegetables, in fruit cups, in salads and desserts, as well as with meats, has pineapple become popular, since it has been discovered that not only is the flavor of pineapple itself very pleasing, but it brings out the pleasing flavor of foods with which it is served.

Freeze On April 21 Does Little Damage

A freeze on April 21 is rather unusual in most sections of Texas, but that is just what the people of O'Donnell experienced on last Thursday night. Plenty of ice was reported on Friday morning which at the time thought to have wrought considerable damage to fruit and early gardens, but so far very little damage has been reported. Some early feed was up but so far no damage has been reported from the freeze.

Surely Some Occasions When Lie Is Justified

The deepest recesses of the heart grow warm toward the bishop of Southwell. This British ecclesiastic justifies a lie which is uttered under certain circumstances. There are few human beings but do condone, in themselves, certain untruths. And to have public approval of this bishop, expressed in an address to Nottingham (Eng.) teachers, is comforting to a degree.

The bishop of Southwell, however, does not go far enough, according to the quoted text of his remarks, in his justification of a lie. From the cabled quotation the bishop, seemingly would be prepared only "to exonerate a person who tells a lie to save an innocent life. If I thought it was reasonably sure that not to lie would mean the loss of such a life."

We believe the moral code of many normal human beings, laymen or men of the cloth, permits a wider latitude than this. But, to the credit of the bishop, there are not so many who will admit any such feeling to the public, even to the extent "of saving life." What harm is possible in telling an innocent child that its father is ill, when one knows he is suffering from overstimulation? That certainly is a lie, unless we would quibble with words, and no life is involved. But the faith of a child may be at stake.

The bishop of Southwell probably would not be willing to condone such a lie, as he "deprecates, for instance, such untruth as 'the doctor has brought us a new baby,' according to the news cable. Doesn't the bishop believe very young children may know too much at too early an age for their own good? And, believing this, would he not approve the harmless employment of harmless fiction? Where truth results in a disservice and no harm is done by expressing a lie, why tell the truth?

This distinguished English divine said he did not believe in telling children legends about Santa Claus "in such a way as to make them believe that the stories were true." Why not repeat the legends surrounding Santa Claus, when we all know they are true, and when a great many of us have ourselves seen the merry old soul?

Just Dog

A primary school teacher once made an oral composition assignment to her third grade. The pupils were to discuss the subject of dogs, give the descriptions of their canine pets, names, ages, breeds, etc.

One youngster whose name was James completed a long recital about his dog Tiger, but forgot to mention its stock.

"James, you didn't tell us what kind of a dog Tiger is," reminded the teacher.

"Oh, yessum—I forgot. Well, he is part bull," said the lad.

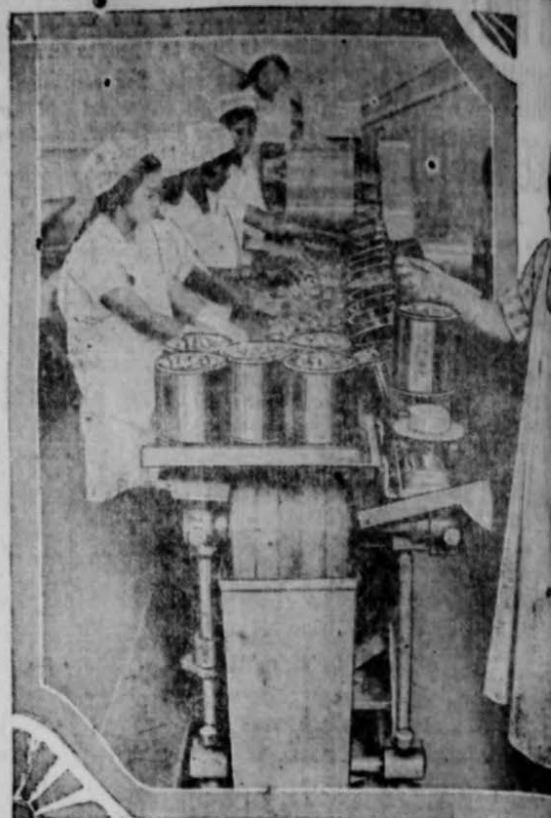

"What is the other part?" he was asked.

The boy studied for a while and answered: "Oh, just dog, I guess."

Uphold Human Sacrifice

A youth who vanished from his parents' kraal in the Elydsdorp district of the Transvaal, South Africa, was murdered as a sacrifice for rain. Witch doctors burned the body at night on a pile of medicinal roots on a hilltop. The police were unable to make headway with their investigations, because rain fell almost immediately after the sacrifice. The parents would have lodged a complaint if the drought had continued, but now they glory in the fact that the sacrifice of their child had the desired effect, and they have refused to divulge any information concerning the culprits.

WHEN a food outgrows the stage of being a delicacy and becomes so universally used as to be a staple, a demand is created for various forms of that food on the market. Not so long ago, tomatoes grew in old-fashioned gardens as "love apples," to be looked at but not eaten. Later it was discovered they were good to eat. The first tomatoes canned were a delicacy, but today, tomatoes can be bought in some dozen different forms — ranging from whole tomatoes to tomato paste.

Pineapple used to grow in royal gardens under glass. When it was discovered that Hawaii could grow better pineapple in the open fields and ship it, sun-ripened in cans, pineapple was a delicacy. It is not only a delicacy but an important food product and is packed in a variety of forms, ranging from sliced pineapple to the pineapple juice.

The most popular forms in which Hawaiian pineapple is available are sliced, crushed, "tid-bits" and broken slices, and pineapple juice. Both sliced and crushed pineapple may be had in what is known as "fancy," the choicest pack, and "standard," almost as choice but costing less, and very crushed pineapple is a culinary ingredient. Choice as the sliced is even better as far as concerned as it comes from a portion of the pineapple, the shell and this shell the sun.

The juice is pure pineapple, unswartened and can be mixed with other sundae, pudding sauce contains all of the properties and vitamins make pineapple so vital to the health diet.
