Youth Center Work Continues

What is the Youth Center, and when completed, what will it be used for?

The Youth Center is what the name implies—a meeting place of activity center for the youth of Our own and a place where civic organizations can meet.

Iowa Park, as in most towns, is interested in our youth, and all organizations have youth programs.

The Jaycees have worked hard for over two years on this Youth Center, located near the Will Burnett ball field. They have devoted much time and money to this project.

The Jaycees have completed enough of the building that with a little help from organizations, clubs and interested persons, the Youth Center can be completed in a short time.

Bud Mercer, Jaycees president, plans in the near future to have a representative from the Jr. C of C and representatives from all civic clubs and organizations and others interested in completing the building to hold a meeting to make plans and tour the building, to see just what is needed.

Executive board of the Lionesse club met Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs. J. D. McElendon. Bud Mercer, president of the Jaycees, Mrs. W. A. George and Mrs. Stanley Williamson were special guests.

The group discussed the Youth Center and after the meeting Mr. Mercer took the women on a tour of the building.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

HOW TO BEAR THE LOAD

I heard an unusual and beautiful story a few days ago about two children. I think I shall never forget it.

It was a dark, dreary, cold night, so the story goes. The night patrolman in a large city pulled his overcoat collar up over his ears to protect them from the biting wind that was hurling snow down the bleak alleys and frozen streets. As he trudged down the barren, wind-swept avenue, covering his beat, he saw a small, shivering girl inching her way along the sidewalk. He hurried to catch up with her and found that she was carrying a little boy almost as large as she was.

"Hello, Little Miss," said the policeman. "Isn't that boy too heavy for you to carry? Why don't you make him walk?"

"Oh, Sir," answered the little girl through cold-numbed lips. "He's too tired and cold to walk; and besides, Sir, he's really not too heavy. He's my baby brother."

This story touched my heart. I knew that what the little girl meant was, "I don't notice how heavy he is, Sir, because I love him and want to help him. I really don't mind carrying my little brother, because when I carry him, the load doesn't seem heavy at all." The little girl in the story reminded me of a Person who has changed my life, and more important, has changed the world just because He loves it.

This Man was born at a time when the world was being swept by the icy blasts of indifference and covered by the snows of religious tradition. He was one Man against the evil and sin of an entire world that was enveloped in a spiritual winter. But He began ministering to people in need, with deep compassion and love. This Man spent most of His life doing things for people whom He didn't have to help.

He is the One who died for the sins of the world—for all mankind. The cruel, jeering mob that stood nearby as He was nailed to a rough, wooden cross and hoisted into the air became strangely silent as He began to die. This man didn't glare at them, cursing and screaming. Instead, His eyes held a strange look of love. As He hung there, His attitude and manner seemed to say, "I don't mind the agony, pain and heavy burden I bear now because this suffering is for all mankind. I don't mind the hardship, for it will bring abundant life to all the people of the earth."

That Man, of course, was Jesus Christ, who lives eternally today. He offers to share every heartache, solve every problem and meet every need that you and I ever encounter. He offers abundant life.

UNCLE AT BYERS DIES

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harris recently attended the funeral service of Mr. Claude E. Harding, 80, in Byers. He was an uncle of Mrs. Harris.

Mr. Harding was a retired insurance man. He moved to Byers in 1906 and had served as Sunday School secretary and member of the board of stewards for 43 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clem and sons Dale and Ronnie of Malvern, Ark., and D. M. Caldwell of Raymondville have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Johnston of Wichita Falls. Mr. Clem recently bought the Tom Pace farm. Mr. Caldwell is father of Mrs. Clem and Mrs. Johnston. All had dinner in an Iowa Park cafe Thursday.

Play Ball!

Iowa Park Little League baseball field is now in the making, so to speak. The Evening Lions club has taken the responsibility of furnishing the labor on the field, to be built to national Little League specifications.

Because of growing interest here it has become necessary to have another playing field. Last summer approximately 300 boys played on Will Burnett Field. Teams of Little League, Pony League, Girls Softball and town teams kept the schedule packed. In fact, there was not enough time to play all the games that were planned.

The Little League Field is to be located west of town on the Old Electra Road across the road from George Lofland's home on W. F. George property.

Anyone interested in working to help get this field in shape should contact Chester Miller.

Seniors in high school do not ordinarily go into business for themselves, but John Williamson of Valley Farms has done just that. He now is a professional auctioneer, complete with certificate of proficiency.

With training in FFA to give him a start, John has served as master of ceremonies at many social and club functions, so it was natural for him to enter the auctioneering game.

Last July and August he enrolled in a short course offered by the Kansas City (Mo.) Auction School and is now recognized as an experienced auctioneer.

John is scheduled to be auctioneer of the Texas Hampshire Swine Breeders State Sale to be held Saturday in Vernon. Eighteen consignors have indicated they will have 60 animals in the sale.

All of these animals will be registered breeding stock from the best blood lines. Many will be grand champions and others will be descendants of champions.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Banks had as guests this week his sister Mrs. Florence Smith of Holdenville, Okla., and her son and family Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith and Doug of California.

Have you noticed the Park Hotel is getting a face lifting? Porches are being rebuilt on the second and third floors, at the front and back of the building.

I add a few drops of olive oil to the water when I wash out my doekin or chamois gloves. Then after they dry, they're soft and pliant.

Church of God Father Dies

The Church of God on Cash St. will start a revival the latter part of this month with the Rev. Mr. C. E. Richard of Bessemer, Ala., as evangelist. Mr. Richard is one of the most outstanding evangelists of the Churches of God, and the people of Iowa Park will certainly enjoy his gospel preaching.

No definite date could be set because of his schedule, as he is in a revival in Dallas at this time. When he concludes that meeting he is expected at the church here.

The Church of God is experiencing a good growth in attendance of its services and in spiritual enrichment of the lives of its members. Maynard G. Swart, pastor, extends a cordial invitation to the citizens of Iowa Park to visit the church and the revival.

Gibbons Drubaker returned this week to Dallas for further treatment on his limb.

Survivors other than his son Bill are the widow; two daughters: Mrs. Margaret Ly Brand of Greenville and Mrs. Gaynelle Turner of El Paso; his mother Mrs. Maud Sawyer of Jackson, Miss.; and a sister Mrs. Rozell Hall of Jackson.

Several friends from Iowa Park attended the service in Midland.

First Flight

John Williamson of Valley Farms had an enormous experience during the Christmas holidays. He took his first airplane trip, going to Jackson, Miss., from which he went on to Brandon for a visit with friends.

A group then went to New Orleans where John attended the Sugar Bowl game.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Martin and daughter Jamey of Ft. Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Caldwell and daughter Kim of Lindsay, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Crawford and Gary, Kris and John; Mr. and Mrs. Jessie McCullough and son Kelly—were Sunday dinner guests of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fortner.

Mrs. Ted Overbey had surgery last week.

Mrs. Madge Francis, representative of Dale Carnegie Leadership course, was principal speaker at the Evening Lions club meeting Tuesday in the City Cafe.

The invocation was given by Dr. R. G. Warner. A membership certificate was presented to Harold McClung, new member.

Pres. Wayne House, Bill Sawyer and Dan Barrie received awards from District Governor D. L. Ligon for accomplishments during membership month. The club added more members during October than any other club in the district. The membership jumped from 17 to 26.

Mrs. Francis explained the Dale Carnegie Leadership course. At the 14 meetings a student meets a complete cross section of people in all walks of life. You share experiences and learn to have self and inter-self confidence, enabling you to sell your own ideas.

The memory course is also included.

Several of the local club members are enrolled in the course or have completed it.

Bill Sawyer reminded members of the Mid-winter conference to be conducted Saturday in Graham.

Basketball

Coach Orland Fitzsimmons' Iowa Park Hawks won their district game recently by downing the Electra Tigers 51-30.

Jim Gard hit for 17 to lead the Hawk scoring. He also had 11 rebounds. David Brown hit for 11 points and 12 rebounds, giving the Hawks control of the backboards.

Mack Mills held Gary Jones of Electra to 4 points. Winningham led the Tigers by dropping in 10 points.

In the girls game Jo Cowden with 29 points led the Hawks to a 48-36 victory over Electra. Miss Rodawalt led Electra's girls with 17 points.

Iowa Park won the consolation award of the Wichita Falls Invitational basketball tournament last Sunday with a 46-36 victory over Olney. Petrolia took the opener from the Hawks 64-49, but the Fitzsimmons boys took Burk Burnett 40-30 to get into the consolation finals.

The boys team takes on Burk Burnett Friday night and Neocoma Saturday in important district games. The girls play Burk at 6:30 Friday followed by the boys game.

Saturday there will be a B boys tilt instead of the girls game. Tuesday night of this week the Hawks lost to Jacksboro 38-36. Jacksboro played a full court press that rattled the Hawk guards and caused an excessive number of bad passes.

The first half ended with Jacksboro leading 22-11. In the second half Iowa Park went to the full court press and Jacksboro got rattled and threw the ball away, allowing the Hawks to narrow the lead.

A Hawk shot with 3 seconds to go failed to find the mark and the game went to Jacksboro.

Regular Cleaning Gives Rugs Life

Just about every item of equipment in the modern household is intermittently subjected to the cleaning and renewing process by the energetic housewife — drapes, furniture, appliances, utensils and, of course, bedding and apparel.

None of these items are allowed to become really dirty before they are laundered or cleaned (just to become soiled). Think what a bed sheet would look like after one year's use without laundering — and it is not walked on as is carpet — and, some carpets are allowed to go years without a real cleaning.

That really expensive item — carpeting — which is under constant and devastating attack by the forces of soil and grime has to get by on a "lick and a promise", usually a perfunctory surface job with the vacuum.

The Magikist people, professional specialists in carpet cleaning along with the National Institute of Rug Cleaning, offer some suggestions on how to preserve the beauty of rugs and carpets while adding years to their life.

Brush daily with a carpet sweeper for light pickups and for fluffing matted pile.

Vacuum as often as necessary, depending on traffic and soiling conditions.

When accidents happen call your professional rug cleaner at once. If at night or on a holiday blot up liquid spills immediately with clean white cloths or paper towels. Do not brush spot or rub too much. Have professional cleaning as soon as possible or stains may become permanent.

For emergency spotting, Magikist "Kiss of Beauty" compound will lessen the hazard of permanent staining.

Salt and ashes on slick winter walks and drives obviously reduce the accident rate outside but when tracked inside to the rugs and carpets, the abrasive action causes serious damage to floor coverings.

At least twice a year turn the job of cleaning over to professionals who know how to deal scientifically with the problems of carpet soil.

23 Study Club Elects Officers

Election of officers for 1961-62 highlighted the business meeting of the 23 Study club last Thursday. Mrs. C. J. Thurber and Mrs. Noel Troutman were hostesses at the Thurber home.

Mrs. James A. Sewell was elected president. Others officers named are Mmes. T. M. Clark, vice-president; T. M. Thaxton, secretary; C. L. Metz, corresponding secretary; Dave O. Harbour, treasurer; Fred Widmoyer, critic-parliamentarian; L. E. Brooks and O. E. Lochridge, executive committee members.

Communications division of the General Federation was stressed in the program of the afternoon directed by Mrs. Thaxton, using the words of Mrs. Harry Christopher, past chairman of GFWC radio and television division, she said "Communications is a powerful weapon in democracy's fight against communism." To further emphasize it she read Dave Garraway's article "Awareness of News."

Mrs. Clark presented a group of Grace Noll Crowell's poems for the fine arts feature. She related interesting facts about the author, revealing how an illness soon after her marriage taught Mrs. Crowell to depend upon God for everything, even the ability to write poetry.

Mrs. Clark read from a book belonging to the late Luella Cornforth, Livingston. On the flyleaf was a personal message from the author to Mrs. Livingston on the occasion of her accepting the presidency of the Junior 23 Study club.

Mrs. Homer Thompson brought the meditation on "In the Beginning God," using Genesis 1:1 and John 1:1 as scriptural background.

Mrs. R. R. Brubaker discussed the topic "The Problems of Television." She stated, "Television is a great medium of information and education, but many problems have developed. The recent furore of the rigged quiz shows is only a part of the picture. More and more ministers, judges and police officials are protesting about crime shows, fixed wrestling matches and the like."

Continuing, she said, "We wonder what must be the effect on

Mrs. Mattye Marye Barbour and Mrs. Patricia Leath, both registered nurses with Park Clinic, were recently honored for outstanding volunteer nursing service in Red Cross. Both received Red Cross nurse's badges.

J. H. Bingham is in Bethania hospital, Room 250, for treatment and surgery.

Regular Cleaning Gives Rugs Life

Just about every item of equipment in the modern household is intermittently subjected to the cleaning and renewing process by the energetic housewife — drapes, furniture, appliances, utensils and, of course, bedding and apparel.

None of these items are allowed to become really dirty before they are laundered or cleaned (just to become soiled). Think what a bed sheet would look like after one year's use without laundering — and it is not walked on as is carpet — and, some carpets are allowed to go years without a real cleaning.

That really expensive item — carpeting — which is under constant and devastating attack by the forces of soil and grime has to get by on a "lick and a promise", usually a perfunctory surface job with the vacuum.

The Magikist people, professional specialists in carpet cleaning along with the National Institute of Rug Cleaning, offer some suggestions on how to preserve the beauty of rugs and carpets while adding years to their life.

Brush daily with a carpet sweeper for light pickups and for fluffing matted pile.

Vacuum as often as necessary, depending on traffic and soiling conditions.

When accidents happen call your professional rug cleaner at once. If at night or on a holiday blot up liquid spills immediately with clean white cloths or paper towels. Do not brush spot or rub too much. Have professional cleaning as soon as possible or stains may become permanent.

For emergency spotting, Magikist "Kiss of Beauty" compound will lessen the hazard of permanent staining.

Jet Age Record-Breaker

This year millions of vacationers flew by jetliner to the major cities of every continent. Jetting along at 575 mph is so easy, convenient, and comfortable that travelers may be unaware of the years of airline planning and the vast experience of jet pilots. Very often they remain anonymous, since relatively few passengers get to meet them.

The many aviation achievements of Captain Lesieur accent the skills developed since he became a French Air Force pilot in 1940. He holds the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre with four citations. After completing military service in 1945, he was granted a navigation license, and the following year, when he joined the French airline, he earned a commercial pilot's license. Captain Lesieur was certified to fly jets as early as 1953, and later that year he set a speed record of 2 hours and 36 minutes between Paris and Casablanca in a four-engine jet. In April 1956, he was assigned to Air France's Caravelle jet program, and in 12 months logged 400 hours on this craft. By December 1960, Captain Lesieur had made 315 transatlantic crossings and had flown 707 jetliners over 750 hours. Such is the distinguished image of a jet age record-breaker.

Captain André Lesieur's career is highlighted by the jet speed record he established December 3, 1960, when he flew an Air France 707 Intercontinental 3,612 miles between New York and Paris in just 5 hours 37 minutes. Usually such a flight takes seven hours. The personal profile of Captain Lesieur reveals that he was born September 23, 1919
