Bird Lore

by Marie Stankewitz

The Purple Martin is a small bird, but the largest member of the swallow family. Mature males are a deep iridescent purple color, measure an average of 8½ inches in length and weight four ounces. Females are slightly smaller and have gray breasts and considerable gray on other parts of the body.

Immature martins of both sexes resemble the adult female until the second year, when the male takes on mature coloration.

Martins nest in colonies ranging in number from one pair to as many as three hundred birds. A nesting pair will hatch three to six young. Incubation period is four days and feeding period in the house is 28 to 32 days. A young bird does not leave the house until he is an adept flier.

Martins raise only one brood per season throughout their range.

Why attract these birds? They are an insect-eating species, each bird consuming its weight in insects each day. They catch all their food on the wing and rid the neighborhood of practically all types of flying insects, including mosquitoes, flies and others, particularly those normally considered nuisances.

Indians and colonists also attracted Martins because these birds would drive crows, hawks and other large birds away from their villages and farmsteads and protect the crops.

Martins sing beautifully and are graceful in flight. Martins are either on the wing or perches on their own houses, never alight on soil or objects about your house or patio.

Martins arrive in early spring from their winter home in the Amazon valley of Brazil. All we have to do to get these wonderful birds to stay in our community is to furnish proper housing for them.

Whether you plan to build or buy a martin house, I urge you to put up a house with a minimum of six rooms, each measuring 6x6x6 inches in size. Entrance holes should be 2¼ inches in diameter with the bottom one inch above the floor. A porch should extend ¾ inch and should have perch railings to prevent the young from falling.

The compartments should be easy to clear. This house should be mounted on a pole at least 14 feet high. Location is important. Your house should be erected in an open area at least 15 feet from an overhanging limb or a building.

Enemies of this species are the starling and the house sparrow, so keep your house covered or the compartments closed until the martins arrive. They return to the same sites year after year.

Some nesting material, twigs, sticks and straws about 3 inches long may be placed on a flat surface nearby, also a pan of wet soil. Place one tablespoon of flowers of sulphur in each room to control mites and larvae.

Martins enjoy baked crushed egg shells placed on a flat feeder or surface.

It is not too late to install a martin house. Excellent ones can be obtained from one of our local dealers. A house may be installed as late as April and still attract young birds which arrive much later than the mature martins. My house was installed May 8 and I had one pair and raised one fledgling.

Of all the species of bird life the martin is one of the most desired by man.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Stock Your Tank

Landowners who wish to stock their ponds with bass this spring need to get their applications in by March 15, says Gary Batte of the SCS. The bass fingerlings are provided free of charge by the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior. Deliveries will be made in May.

Application forms can be obtained by contacting the Soil Conservation Service office in Iowa Park or by calling 592-4176.

Mini-Tillage

Reduced air pollution and better wildlife habitat—these are some of the benefits of a new practice being used by Texas conservation farmers.

The procedure, called minimum tillage, also cuts farming costs by reducing tractor trips required to produce a crop.

"With minimum tillage farmers plant crops without prior land preparation," reports Gary Batte, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service work unit at Iowa Park. "Using a coultter and other special equipment, they plant directly into a mulch of residues left undisturbed from the previous crop. Herbicides are used to control weeds, so costly time-consuming cultural operations are reduced or eliminated."

Stalks, leaves and stems from the previous crop are left on the surface year-long with minimum tillage. The protective cover is highly effective in preventing air pollution and wind erosion with blowing dust.

Batte said the cover is effective in preventing water erosion.

"Scattered seed and cover left on the soil surface by minimum tillage are also extremely valuable to wildlife. Pheasants in the Texas Panhandle are almost entirely dependent on crop residues for survival during the winter months. Quail, geese, turkeys, doves, song birds, deer, antelope, rabbits and other wildlife benefit from the food and cover," Batte said.

SCS has published a booklet "Minimum Tillage in Texas" describing the new farming system in detail. To get a free copy, contact the SCS office in Iowa Park, phone number 592-4176.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Wayne Coulson of Wichita Falls have announced the engagement of their daughter Rebecca Lee and Randall Odus Lovelady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Odus Lovelady of Iowa Park.

A senior in Rider high, Miss Coulson is employed with Wichita General hospital.

Randall is a graduate of IPHS and is a sophomore at Midwestern university. He is employed with Sheppard Air Force Base. They will exchange their promises on June 24.

In regular meeting Monday night the City Council heard Harry Gray request permission for the Wichita Valley Water Corp. to tie on to the new water line to be constructed from Wichita Falls to Iowa Park. The aldermen directed W. J. Wischmeyer, consulting engineer to bring up the question with officials of the City of Wichita Falls.

The bride-elect is a graduate of IPHS and is now a junior in Midwestern university.

Robert was graduated from W. F. George high and is to receive a BA degree from MU in May. He is a member of the Texas National Guard and is also employed with Southwestern Investment Co. in Wichita Falls.

Cosmetology Department

I recently had the pleasure of spending two days with the cosmetology classes to discuss new products and makeup techniques.

While there I observed the girls as they eagerly waited for customers to arrive for hair styling, permanents and manicures. Although it is through these people's coming that the girls learn their skills and gain experience for the day they apply for professional licenses, I must tell the women of Iowa Park it's you that receive the most reward.

Not only did the girls create lovely hair styles and give good manicures, they were constantly seeing that the customer was comfortable and pleased.

Mrs. Vest, instructor, is a most gracious and talented woman whom the girls adore. She constantly supervised the girls, giving advice and help when needed.

Every woman I saw left pleased with her hair style and the feeling of truly being appreciated.

One other thing I found—these students participating in the different vocational schools must also take the subjects required for high school graduation and college entrance. Thus, when they finish high school, not only will they have a vocation but many are planning to continue towards a college degree because of the type of jobs they will be able to do to pay for their own education.

As you see, I am very proud of these students and ask the women of Iowa Park to help in the support of these students by calling Valley View school for an appointment for a hair styling at a very nominal price.

Business men can also give support when secretarial work is needed—full or part time—by calling Mrs. Medinger at the business division of V.O.E. at the junior high.

Sincerely
Sue Teel

Discrimination

by Brennan on the Bayou

According to a recent news release, a religious statue is to be removed from a park in Utah because it discriminates against everyone who does not adhere to Judeo-Christian beliefs. Don't suppose they considered adding other statues representing other philosophies instead of hauling that one away, but then we're all in the anti-discrimination game these days, so to blazes with logic.

The whole world seems to have developed a chip-on-the-shoulder complex, and I'm awaiting the day when vegetarians demand that all meat be removed from the market because it offends them.

We seem to have lost sight of the fact that indiscriminate discrimination is the witch we're all after—the kind that hurts all of society. Although we're usually unaware of it, we are subjected to minor forms of discrimination every day.

For example, the red light that makes me wait while other lanes of traffic move ahead, temporarily puts me at a disadvantage, but it also keeps me from getting my lead bashed in. With that in mind, I find the delay bearable.

The point is that we've forgotten all about tolerance. We fail to recognize that every time one raises his fists and shouts "discrimination," someone else must stand aside. Then the other person retaliates in kind, and we have either an ongoing conflict of interests or a stalemate, in which case neither party wins and both lose. The obvious solution, of course, is co-operation, working out the conflict in such a way that the two sides can co-exist, each with its own preferences, each yielding to some degree.

But then our grades in flexibility have dropped for ages. Some of us would rather keep the fires of conflict burning by standing firm on our own demands no matter who gets hurt or how unreasonable the goal may be.

There comes a time when we must yield the right-of-way or pay the consequences. That is tolerance, and tolerance is logical. There is no good reason why the vegetarians and the carnivores, the Christians and the Moslems, and other diverse groups cannot enjoy the same environment, provided one or both sides don't insist theirs is the only right way and don't demand that everyone else accept their particular way of life. Love it or leave it is just not the answer.

In a school cafeteria I once saw a sign that read "What would the world be like if everyone were just like you?" Personally, I think it would be terribly boring, no matter which person we were all alike. There is ample room in this great big beautiful world for diversity of behavior, interests and life styles.

On the other hand, we're rapidly running out of room for irrational acts, selfishness and intolerance. The time has come for us to include instead of excluding, add instead of subtracting, join together instead of backing away. This is no time to widen the breach between ourselves and the rest of the world by raising walls of defensiveness.

Instead, we must reach out to rebuild the crumbling fortress of tolerance with bricks of individual strength and beauty. And while we are at it, let's put up a couple more statues.

CARD OF THANKS

Iowa Park had given $828 to the Peart Fund by Tuesday, reports Mrs. Erwin F. Soell, and there will be more before all returns are in.

Mrs. Soell thanks everybody who called at the homes for gifts and all those who responded to the need for money to support research and education about the killing disease.

She particularly called attention to the efforts of Bill Steger and Allen Shewmake who canvassed the business districts.

Symposiums Set on Cattle Feed

Cattle by the tens of thousands have been foraging this winter on small grains in our Texas rolling plains — reason enough for two upcoming symposiums related to the maximum production of small grains.

First gathering is March 15 in Farmers National Bank at Seymour; and the second will be March 16 in Wilbarger auditorium in Vernon. Starting time on both days is 1:30 p.m., when specialists of the Wheat Producers board and of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will discuss practices now recommended in selecting the varieties best adapted to our area, in fertilizing and grazing, in controlling insects and diseases, in storing and in marketing, and in evaluating various farm programs.

B. T. Haws is a good man to see for additional information of these symposiums.

WSCS

"How the Church Can Help Stabilize the Country" was the theme developed in the last session of the Africa Study at the Tuesday morning meeting of the Women's Society at United Methodist church. Mrs. Travis Smith directed the program.

Sierra Leone was the country presented by Mrs. Elgin Denny as she told of the progress of the nation and of agricultural possibilities. The young men leave the area and the work must be done by the older men, so teaching women to function is a vital part of the program.

Mrs. S. B. Keeter gave an overall look at the role of the church in all areas of endeavor. The role of nationals in the program of education was emphasized, describing the problem to be making relevant the type of education to the living of the people. So much of it does not prepare them for functioning in either the urban or rural areas.

Five women, representing five officers of the Women's Division, served as a panel and told how the work in Botswana is so correlated as to prevent overlapping of endeavor, thus alleviating the confusion caused by so many denominations' claiming to be the Christian church. The women were Mmes. Don Cook, Emma Gauntt, David Thomas, J. W. Farmer, James A. Sewell.

Mrs. Keeter opened the meeting with prayer and an announcement that the study of the Gospel of Matthew will begin March 7 with Mrs. David Whittington as leader.

Mrs. Miles Thompson presented to Mrs. W. M. Owens a life membership pin in the new emblem, signifying that an offering had been sent to the mission field in her name. Members who serve well in places of leadership are eligible for this honor.

Others present were Miss Ethyle Kidwell and Mmes. Johnny Starnes, Gladys Robinson, Doris Widmayer, M. O. Cheves, Carroll Hester, Gordon Clark, Sam Hunter, L. A. Teal, Gene Lowrey, C. L. Thompson, Paul Zink, E. H. Pierce, Jerry Voyles, Bessie Brohard, M. L. Hines, W. F. George, Lydia Hudson, Eita Bennett, W. C. Albright, H. M. Mahler, Wanda Weldraff, Carl Sullivan, Ray I. Low, George Trammell, Floyd Boyd, Oris Davenport.

Vocation Girls to Amarillo

by Mrs. Earl Watson

All aboard—three carloads of students, teacher and mothers, luggage and assorted items of equipment were off for Amarillo last Thursday. The occasion was Iowa Park's first participation in an area Office Association Contest.

Primary purpose of this meet was to offer an opportunity for several students to compete in various office skills.

Mrs. Jim Medlinger, who teaches this new class in Vocational Office Education, is doing an excellent job of preparing her students for office positions. Some have 1 hour of classwork each day and a part-time office job. Others have 3 hours of classwork daily. They become proficient on such machines as typewriters, dictaphones, adding machines, mimeograph, offset press and calculator.

Guin Johnson and Patti Roberts submitted notebooks in the contest consisting of information about their part-time jobs carried on in connection with their school work. Patti described her work with the Soil Conservation Service, stressing through her book the need for conservation of all natural resources. She included a history of the Soil Conservation Service.

Guin's manual pictured her work with the Iowa Park Leader and told in detail the processes involved in the publishing of a newspaper. Both girls used pictures very effectively in their manuals.

Christy Thompson had prepared the chapter activities report using a Zodiac theme very cleverly. Her art work and arrangement of pictures and sections of the book were excellent.

Becky Powell and Denise Wheeler were in charge of the chapter display. It was an attractive, colorful 4-ft. by 5-ft. display of the year's OEA activities, including class work, field trips, student jobs and socials.

Carol Sharp, Sue Staber and Karen Watson were entered in General Office, Level II. Carlene Soale was entered in Accounting, Level I, and Becky Powell was entered in Typing, Level II. And Christy Thompson entered Job Application.

Six hundred were registered at the meet.

Karen Watson had been entered as a candidate for Area President. She had had much support from the rest of the chapter and the townspeople in preparing her campaign materials. Especially helpful were Mrs. Oliver Newman, Sgt. Eugene Sharp and Mrs. L. W. Teal. We were all quite disappointed when we found that she had been eliminated from the running because she plans to attend a college in Oklahoma. Our chapter had not been notified of such a rule.

All the girls were nervous and excited about the contests and the mothers were too. We sat on pins and needles at the final luncheon waiting for the results; and here they are:

Patti Roberts, 5th, job manual
Guin Johnson, 8th, job manual
Carol Sharp, 10th, general office
Christy Thompson, 10th in both chapter manual and job application
Becky Powell & Denise Wheeler, 10th, chapter display

These girls brought home six certificates—a very good showing for the first contest. Iowa Park has good reason to be proud of the young people in the Vocational Educator Programs.

It was a great trip with a grand group of girls. Mrs. Dale Thompson and I are glad that we got to participate in it.

Gun Safety

Newspaper reports include details of 31 fatal gunshot incidents in Oklahoma in one year.

Eighteen of the victims were under 20 with 13 persons of adult age. Only 2 of the 31 were females: a 40-year-old housewife shot by her son who was examining a pistol, and a 19-year-old girl shot by a boy friend who was handling a six-shooter.

Ten of the deaths were attributed to hunting accidents. Seventeen fatalities were due to some individual mishandling a loaded pistol or gun at home. Seven individuals shot another person and 10 accidentally killed themselves.

All of these accidental deaths were caused by mishandling of a loaded gun. Most would have been prevented by adherence to a rule like this:

"The only reason for having a loaded gun is to shoot somebody or something. Therefore, keep the gun in an unloaded condition until the shooting range or hunting place is reached."

Wm. Dove on USS Mobile

Petty officer 3c William L. Dove, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dove, 105 Westview, is serving aboard the USS Mobile. He is in charge of receiving and transferring Mobile navymen and updating crewmen's records.

A 1968 graduate of IPHS, Dove attended Midwestern university two years. He joined the Naval reserve in 1970 and took his recruit training in San Diego in June of that year. He went on active duty in Dec. 1970 and attended Personnelman "A" school before reporting in March 1971 to the Mobile for duty.

Read Books

"How to Win Over Worry" by John Edmund Haggai is a practical formula for victorious living. Worry is Public Enemy No. 1—and the methods usually used on this problem fall far short of being effective. Praise plus Poise plus Prayer equals Peace.

"The King's Vixen" by Pamela Hill is a swift colorful story of a woman's ambition fulfilled not as she entirely wished it, but still beyond the dreams of most. Medieval Scotland with all its mingling of luxury and savagery comes to life in this book.

Circulation for February, 906.

With the children

STORY TIME is learning. The children have studied winter, the farm, and transportation these past three weeks.

STORY TIME is listening. Children learn to sit still so they can hear the stories. If a child listens while others speak, others will listen while he speaks.

STORY TIME is participation. Boys and girls are encouraged to take part in discussions about their own experiences.

STORY TIME is fun. They have finger fun, exercises, poetry, pantomime, music and refreshments, along with their books.

STORY TIME is growing. They have had to move into a larger room in the library. Now more children can be accommodated.

IF YOU HAVE a child between the ages 4 and 6, bring him to Iowa Park Library at 331 East Park on Wednesday from 10:00 to 11:00 a.m. Mrs. Keith Auld will have an exciting hour planned for your child.

Mrs. Orville Bell of Abilene visited her mother Mrs. L. A. Teal here last weekend and attended the Miles Hines funeral.

What is an Independent Baptist Church?

It Is What All Baptist Churches Used to Be . . .

. . . before Baptist churches began to organize into Conventions and Associations to accomplish a united purpose. INDEPENDENT BAPTISTS do co-operate effectively for the common cause of world evangelization through the combined efforts of a Fellowship-relationship of local congregations. We feel involvement determined by "membership" in a Convention often creates a situation in which the program of that Convention becomes more important than the local Church that created it, causing the lustre and importance of the local Church to be obscured.

All Baptist Churches That Are Baptist . . .

. . . believe and accept the one statement of Faith of all Baptists that have ever cherished that name. There are churches called Baptist, who practice footwashing as an ordinance and do not even believe in eternal security. These are not true Baptists.

Independent Baptist Churches Will Receive and Grant Letters . . .

. . . to all Baptist Churches that adhere to the Baptist Statement of Faith regardless of their Convention or Association affiliation.

Independent Baptists Have No Quarrel With Any Baptist Church . . .

. . . that strives to win hell bound lost sinners and endorses without apology or reservation the Bible as the infallible Word of God. To all

We Do Not Choose to Become Involved with Organized Conventions or Associations Because . . .

. . . all too often we have discovered that many Colleges and Seminaries sponsored by organized Conventions, while being supported by local churches, have professors who do not believe or teach doctrines that we feel are Biblically true and vital to the Christian Faith. Such doctrines as the Verbal Inspiration of Scriptures and the Deity and Virgin Birth of Our Lord are included in these. We find that the local churches make their existence a reality by financial support, yet their voice and convictions do not carry enough influence to correct the errors that arise in these institutions.

If Truly Baptist, a Church Will Be Fundamental in Doctrine . . . Making It a Fundamental Bible Baptist Church.
