

LI HUNG IS FOR PEACE

Dean of the Chinese Viceroy and His Mission.

TO TREAT WITH THE POWERS

He Dared Death by Sending Message from England to the Dowager Empress—Viceroy's Views.

London, July 15.—The Daily Telegraph publishes a sensational dispatch from St. Petersburg, dated Monday, which asserts that there is no doubt that China has declared war against Russia.

"The Russian press," says the correspondent, "is restricted to the publication of official details and the publication of any dispatches from the front has been prohibited. I hear, however, from a reliable source, that the Chinese troops and the Boxers seized a Russian transport vessel laden with munitions near Algon (on the Amur river, about 58 miles from the Russian frontier), killing almost the entire Russian escort."

"They next attacked and bombarded the town of Blagoveshensk (capital of the Amur government on the Amur river). The garrison held out bravely but was finally overwhelmed. Nearly all perished and the town was burned."

London, July 15.—The Daily Telegraph has the following from Canton, dated July 16:

"An interview with the foreign consul today Li Hung Chang said that his mission to Peking was twofold—to save the lives of the foreign ministers and to arrange the best possible terms of peace with the allied powers. The American and French consuls, while congratulating him for these commendable purposes, renewed his pledges to protect foreigners and to preserve peace in central and southern China."

"Earl Li replied that he must obey the summons to Peking but that he had taken all necessary precautions. He added that he had received important cables from Lord Salisbury and M. Delcasse demanding protection for the foreign ministers in the event of any attack on their lives for the high officials responsible if the ministers were murdered. He told the consuls that he was the only man in China who dared convey such a message to the empress, but that he had sent them verbally and that he had no personal influence in saving the ministers' lives."

"He went on to say that, as the dean of the viceroys, he had also induced all the other viceroys except two, to join in a lengthy memorial to the throne, asking protection for the foreign ministers and full reparation for the damage done and the lives lost."

"To the American who inquired about the actual safety of the foreign ministers at Peking, Li answered that he had

Hope Held Out For Foreigners at Peking.

Walled Chinese City of Tien Tsin Falls Before the Fire of the Allied Forces

Washington, July 17.—A decidedly more hopeful feeling with regard to the Chinese situation, in all administration circles this evening. The tide of sentiment, which had been markedly pessimistic, turned with the announcement of the victory of the allies at Tien Tsin and the capture of the walled city, and gathered further strength from Minister Wu's cablegram declaring that the foreign ministers at Peking were safe July 9. Aside from these dispatches the arrival of the president and the special cabinet meeting called to consider the situation were the features of the day.

Washington, July 17.—The Chinese minister has received directly from the state department. Moreover, he said, all three statements bore evidence of having originated at Peking, including that of the Chinese minister's appointment necessarily must originate with the government at Peking.

The appointment of Earl Li as viceroy of Chi Li is considered by Minister Wu as one of the most important developments in the entire situation. Chi Li is the great province in which Peking is located and is the very heart of the Boxer movement so that the great victory now assumes supreme importance. The point of greatest danger, Minister Wu is satisfied that if Li Hung Chang had been at Peking there would have been no such outbreak as that which occurred, as the viceroy is a stern military man, who believes in nipping such movements in the bud. The present department officials are anxious to accept Wu's message as accurate, but there are some clouds of doubt about it. The facts in this connection, it is pointed out, are that in the past two weeks, if the Chinese government can communicate with its representatives abroad, why can it not permit the foreign ministers represented to be under the protection of the government? In answer to other questions as to what purpose would be served by a misrepresentation of facts in this connection, it is pointed out that one result desired by the Chinese would be the preservation of Tien Tsin and another would be the preservation of the Chinese government, temporarily at least. Li Hung Chang would replace as viceroy of the province a man who has been notoriously anti-foreign in his sentiments and actions. The summons to Li is regarded as a hopeful sign.

CONVENTION TO BELT

League of Republican Clubs Welcome Rough Rider Candidate.

BIG GATHERING AT ST. PAUL

Leaders From Many States Assemble to Plan the Campaign—President Stone's Address.

St. Paul, July 17.—The members of the National League of Republican clubs singly and in squads, have been arriving in this city for two or three days, and the morning trains today brought in a large number. The chief event of the day, however, was the arrival of Governor Roosevelt this morning and his speech in the auditorium in the evening under the auspices of the Commercial club of this city.

The Rough Rider club and Governor Roosevelt to the Hotel Ryan. As Governor Roosevelt alighted from his carriage at the Hotel Ryan the Rough Riders, who had escorted him from the station, gave him a few hearty cheers, which seemed to arouse a responsive feeling in the breast of the governor. For he went down the line and shook hands with the members. He said he was glad to see the young men of the country so active, and that much for the future good of the country.

The National League of Republican clubs assembled for its twenty-second session, which was followed by the roll call of states. About half the number of delegates present, however, made a short address of welcome.

Governor Roosevelt was then introduced.

"I am glad to have the honor of addressing you tonight all I shall say this morning is that I am glad to see you here and thank you for having come, and I wish you all success in your efforts in the coming campaign. When I wish success to you, I wish success to every principle that makes American citizenship worth having."

After appearing before the convention Governor Roosevelt was tendered an informal reception at the Commercial club. Later a public reception was held at the hotel.

After the mass meeting tonight the governor will leave at 11:25 for Chicago and the east. He stated sympathetically that he would be glad to see the members of the present trip.

United States Senator Nelson of Minnesota followed Governor Roosevelt in addressing the convention on the issues of the opening campaign.

The league followed Senator Nelson with an address. Mr. Stone said:

"The destruction of Manila bay, even if it were a brilliant epoch for Americans in the closing years of the century. And shall we think so lightly of those who asked only of glory the privilege to sustain their country's flag on these distant islands, and who now in the flower of their manhood all the humble grave of a soldier? What those lives have won shall we cast aside as of no consequence? People from foreign countries enter our gates by thousands, rejoicing to possess homes and blessings under our flag denied them in their native land. We will have no quarrel with them, but ever that flag is raised, whether on mainland or island of the sea, it carries to all liberty, protection and peace."

It is not enough to have able leaders, it is not enough to have immortal principles set forth in our platform. We must have loyal and patriotic citizens who value the privileges of American citizenship; men who will lay aside their selfish feelings and vote along the lines of patriotism.

Patriotism does not alone consist in following the flag. It is a sentiment implanted in the heart of a loyal man that will impel him to study his country's interest in peace as well as in war, to do right as well as to fight right. Patriotism will dictate to the honest American voter that he study the economic and industrial questions which will be submitted for his consideration with an eye single to his country's welfare, with a heart inspired for his country's glory. Then we can have no fear that, when the principles set forth in our platform are understood and the worth and merits of the men who carry our standards are fully estimated, the result will be the overwhelming election of McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

"Of the duties of public men the immortal Lincoln said: 'They should be men who know that the first and greatest duty of this nation is to extend individual liberty to every foot of soil under the stars and stripes.' Such men have we in the Republican party, and such are the men whose names are presented to the voters of the country for election to the high offices of president and vice president of the United States. Their names are synonymous with honesty, ability, loyalty, courage and qualities that make men great; whose ability in the highest council chamber of the land has been fully proved; whose courageous loyalty bade them throw aside the pursuits and pleasures of busy, happy existence and hasten to the battlefield at their country's call; one to a civil war which resulted in the emancipation of four millions of slaves in our own country; the other to a war resulting in the emancipation of fifteen millions of imperialistic slaves abroad, and with the moral courage, equally great, to bid defiance to criticism and follow the path of highest duty; and these are the men under whose leadership the grand old party will in November win over the party of dishonest government, of dishonest money and dishonest principles."

Mr. Hayes of Ohio presented a resolution, which was adopted unanimously, indorsing the "twice as patriotic administration of President McKinley and heartily approving the character of his successor in the call of Theodore Roosevelt."

The league then adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

KENTUCKY REPUBLICANS.

Yerkes Will Lead the Hoets in Blue Grass State.

Louisville, Ky., July 17.—The Republican state convention today nominated for governor John Yerkes of Danville, who adopted a platform, declaring the issue of the election to be the Goebel election law and adjourned within three hours.

There was no nomination to be made by the convention, except governor, this year's election in Kentucky being an extraordinary one to fill the vacancy in the governorship made by the death of William Goebel. The present governor, Beckham, will hold this office until his successor is elected. It was expected he will again become lieutenant-governor.

John W. Yerkes, the nominee for governor is a lawyer and one of the most prominent Republicans in Kentucky. He is at present a collector of internal revenue.

Chairman of the State Central Committee C. M. Barnett called the convention to order and presented ex-Lieutenant Governor John Marshall of Louisville, for temporary chairman. Mr. Marshall's speech dealt largely with Kentucky political history.

Judge T. Z. Morrow was elected permanent chairman and he refused the nomination to a high place in the platform by a vigorous speech in which he declared that "the democratic officials at Frankfort held their office by the same title by which a wolf holds a sheep, that it has just taken from the platform."

The platform adopted contained three planks, the second and third respectively indorsing the Philadelphia convention platform and its nominees and urging the government to protect Americans in China and the first dealing with the state campaign. There is a bitter denunciation of the present Democratic administration and the Democratic majority in the legislature.

The adoption of the platform, Governor Bradley nominated for governor, John W. Yerkes.

The nomination of Mr. Yerkes was made by acclamation. He was escorted to the hall and when the cheering had subsided, addressed the convention.

A. D. McKinley of Sheshone is temporary chairman of the Populist convention. The convention is in session tonight and possibly our nation's next president committee before which are two con-

A MIGHTY ARMY IS AT UNCLE SAM'S COMMAND

Washington, July 17.—The adjutant general's office tonight made public a detailed statement showing the provision made by the war department in the equipment of the expeditionary force sent by the United States to China.

"Troops leaving the states for China will carry a complete outfit of comfortable clothing, including their regulation clothing and tentage. Owing to the severe weather that may be expected in northern China, the outfit will include heavy overcoats, heavy winter clothing and other extra heavy winter clothing in proportion sufficient for the 5,000 men.

The Meade on August 1 will carry two distilling plants, capacity 600 gallons per hour, each. It is contemplated to send additional distilling plants as soon as possible, having in view the supply for at least 5,000 men.

Animal ships have been chartered and will be fitted up as fast as possible to carry about 4,000 animals.

The chief of ordnance reports that there is an abundant supply of ammunition for small arms and machine guns of rifle calibre on hand for a prolonged war on a scale of 400 to 500 rounds per gun. There are from 400 to 500 rounds per gun now available and additional orders have been placed for more. LONDON DISCREDITS THE WAR WITH RUSSIA STORY

London, July 15.—A m. m.—The news of the Manchuria disturbances is not regarded as justifying the serious view attributed by the advices. Amur is boundary territory between eastern Siberia and Manchuria. The district has been the scene of local disturbances for a long time owing to the provocative conduct of the Cossacks toward the 25,000 Chinese employed in the construction of the Russo-Manchurian railway.

Several serious collisions have occurred between the Cossacks and the Chinese troops. One happened several weeks ago and two Russian officers and sixteen men were killed. The extension of the Boxer movement to Manchuria has resulted in a great destruction of the railway, compelling the Russians to withdraw their officials. The Chinese tried to stop the Russian steamers, Michael, carrying ammunition to the Russian frontier commission on board from passing up the Amur at Algon. The local commander at Algon seems to have sent the Russians a sort of ultimatum to quit Manchuria.

The Chinese according to the Daily Mirror St. Petersburg correspondent have thrown up fortifications and placed 40 guns at a point 12 miles from Algon to impede the passage of the Russians. The official Russian advices leave the inference that Biagoveshensk is still in Russian hands, the Russian SILVER IS OUT OF POLITICS.

A MONTH ago, before the Democratic convention had been held and when the Republican convention had just completed its work, the Gazette said editorially: "The currency plank of the Republican platform but emphasizes in words the policy already in force since the enactment of the finance bill which eliminated the silver question as an issue in this campaign."

What was true then is doubly and trebly true at the present time. Silver could not have been made the main issue of the campaign even if the Democrats had sincerely endeavored to make it such at their national convention, for the reason, as stated, that the monetary standard of this country is fixed for at least four years more, and that other important public questions are pressing for settlement.

But far from insisting upon silver as a leading issue the Democratic party itself has abandoned it and turned against it. The convention at Kansas City showed that two-thirds of the Democratic voting strength was against silver; the states as represented in the committee on resolutions were 23 opposed and 21 in favor of an explicit silver plank; Governor Thomas' keynote speech omitted any reference to free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1; fusion was repudiated by the convention and the Populist nominee rejected because he was not a Democrat and because he was too radical a silver man; and finally the convention itself adopted by unanimous vote as a part of its platform a statement that the question of imperialism is the paramount issue of the campaign.

The person who votes the Democratic national ticket this year is a Democrat and nothing else. Fusion has been repudiated by the Democratic national convention, and is bitterly opposed by leading Colorado Democrats. Silver has been sidetracked and no longer affords any reasonable excuse for political action. The Democrats would not do anything for silver if they could, and they could not if they would.

What the future of bimetalism may be it is too soon to predict. It may well be that the gold standard will prove to be inadequate to the needs of the world and the double standard be adopted as the only sufficient basis of our financial system. But whatever may happen in the future, at the present time the country is committed to a single standard experiment, and the Democratic party is no longer pledged to overthrow that standard without giving it a fair trial.

By the action of the Democratic party, as well as by that of the Republican, silver is out of the campaign more thoroughly and effectually than was believed to be possible a few months ago.

EXPANSION AND COLORADO.

THERE is one matter of present politics upon which Colorado feels an interest that is not theoretical. It affects our business and our growth and the welfare and progress of our state. The matter to which we refer is the expansion of our national influence and trade towards the west with a view towards the securing of a large amount of the future commerce of the Pacific.

Our position with regard to these things is very largely a matter of geographical location. We are indeed on the crest of the continent. Our nearest neighbor is on the gulf of Mexico. To the east lies the more thickly settled portion of our continent, a land thickly studded with factories and busy with the highest forms of industrial activity. Beyond is the Atlantic, and further still the nations of the old world, highly civilized and possessing a highly organized industrial system of their own and active competitors in the neutral markets of the world. If our business relation continue to be largely with the east, our development will be comparatively slow. We have, it is true, such abundant and valuable natural resources that we can maintain our business and feel sure of a steady growth. But to a large degree we must export raw materials in exchange for finished products which can be produced to better advantage elsewhere and we shall labor under the disadvantages that all new countries have in their relations with older and more thickly populated ones.

The west conditions are different. There is scarcely more than a fringe of settlement along our Pacific border and the interests of Colorado are entirely in harmony with those of California, Oregon and other western states in this matter. West of these lies the Pacific, the greatest ocean of the globe, in its center Hawaii, already secured for us as the commanding center of trade and influence, and all along the borders of this ocean and especially on its western side, millions of people whose civilization is only beginning to be developed and who will need in the coming years everything that we can produce and who can give us everything we desire that our own state does not afford.

The market for our mining and manufactured products will be towards the west. It is the west that will make our farming lands valuable. It is the west that will stimulate the industrial growth of our state and build it up to be one of the wealthiest and most prosperous of those of the American union.

There is a peculiar theory, in evidence to some extent these days, that the American people should beware of anything that is to their own interests. We should be so unselfish, we are told, that it is not sufficient to do the things that are an advantage to us and to others. We ought rather to seek, according to this new philosophy, the things that are harmful and injurious to us, for only in this way can we demonstrate that we are truly humanitarian and altruistic.

Such an argument will not find favor in Colorado. It was not that spirit which prompted the conquest of the western wilderness and built states in the desert. There is a duty we owe to ourselves and to those who come after us, and it is a part of that duty to build up Colorado to a great state, as those before us have built the great states of the Atlantic seaboard and of the Mississippi valley. The people of Colorado have little patience with the theory that would draw a line and forbid us to cross it. We repudiate the idea that our material prosperity is an object to be avoided rather than sought. We believe in expansion. Expansion is growth. Expansion is life. Expansion is opportunity. Expansion is the duty and the nature of our being. Expansion is the history of our past and the promise of our future, and we will keep on expanding until Colorado is for the west all and more than Pennsylvania has been to the east, and until Colorado coal and iron, gold and silver, fruit and grain, are the mainstays of Pacific commerce from China to Mexico and from Alaska to the Philippines.

Nearly everyone in Colorado Springs appears to be wearing a McKinley button these days. We presume the Bryanites will come trailing along after a while, as usual.

A COMMON DANGER.

THE terrible violation of civilized customs and the danger which threatens from the Chinese uprising are shared by all Christian nations. There was no respect to persons nor to flags when the doom came to the foreigners at Peking. British and Russian, American and Japanese fell together. Legations were maintained in Peking by the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia, Italy, Austria, Japan, Belgium, Spain, Holland and Portugal, and of ministers, secretaries, attaches, visitors and guards, probably not one has escaped. All of the nations mentioned, will, it is believed, participate in the task of securing reparation for the awful crime, and of preventing a recurrence of a similar happening.

It is in presence of such a calamity that we realize how small are the differences which separate the civilized nations of the world, and how immense the gulf that lies between civilization and barbarism. China aroused and in arms represents a danger which threatens the world and one that no part of the world can afford to ignore. If the sleeping dragon of the east has been really aroused, national jealousies are of small importance and partisan strife fades into insignificance.

It may be true that China has been wantonly provoked by unjustifiable attack, and that the powers have made a most serious, possibly a fatal mistake, in stirring up the Chinese swarm, but that is not the problem. The questions that are causing the gravest anxiety in Europe and America at the present time are, "What is going to be the extent of the Chinese trouble?" and "What is best to be done to check the progress of a movement that threatens civilization?"

It must be confessed that we, the civilized, Christianized nations of the earth, are not in the best of conditions to meet the threatened storm. National jealousies, partisan rivalries, the sentimentalism that strikes at the root of national vigor, the demoralization of European finance as already evidenced by the tremendous weight of national debts, the distrust of each other's motives which prompts the nations to ask how far this one or that may be depended on in the common cause, the treason to civilization that sells arms and ammunition to savages, the attitude that might be assumed by the Mohammedan millions in case of a prolonged struggle between Christendom and China, are all matters that may vitally affect the history of the world in the Twentieth century, and go far towards overcoming our superiority in organization and mechanical craft.

To some persons these speculations may seem fanciful. They see in the Chinese movement nothing more than a sensational event of intense momentary interest, but of no far-reaching consequence. The massacre of the ministers and the missionaries is a crime that is to be punished as individual nations have meted out punishment to barbarians and savages in Africa and Asia before. If so, well; but the tremendous possibilities that lie in the swarming of a human hive of 400,000,000 already engaged the attention of many of the world's profound thinkers before the angry buzzing arose at Peking with an intensity that sounded throughout the world.

CHINESE GEOGRAPHY.

SOME simple notions of Chinese geography are essential to the proper understanding of the news that is occupying the most prominent part of the first page of the daily newspapers.

The empire extends along the coast of Asia from latitude 20 to latitude 40 degrees north, or from the latitude of Santiago de Cuba to that of New York. To the north of this the coast is occupied by Korea, but inland China and the province of Manchuria, now in whole or in part under Russian control, extends as far north as the latitude of Hudson's Bay. From east to west China proper extends as far as from New York to Denver, or including the dependent provinces (what we might call territories), which are largely independent, as far as from Boston to San Francisco.

There are nineteen provinces, which correspond to our states, and each is ruled by a viceroy, except that some have two viceroys, and some viceroys rule more than one province.

Peking, the capital of the empire, is situated in the Chinese Maine, the northeasternmost of the provinces, Chi-li. It is in the same latitude as Denver. The provincial capital of Chi-li is Tien Tsin.

Next south is the province of Shan-tung, whose capital is Che Foo. This is the Chinese empire state, second in population and probably first in strength and resource. It was from this province that the Germans seized the port of Kiao-chau, and according to some authorities, laid the foundation for the present trouble.

Next for a considerable distance extends the province Kiang-su, at whose southern border is the principal commercial city of China, Shang-hai. Its capital is Chinkiang. The next two provinces are in order, Che-kiang and Fo-kien. Ning-po is in the first of these, Fu-chau and Amoy in the second.

The southernmost of the seaboard provinces is Kwang-tung, in which are situated the important cities of Canton and Victoria, the latter on Hong Kong island.

The largest and most populous province is Sze-chwan, which is the middle one of the three most western provinces, and is credited with a population of nearly 70,000,000, or almost as many as the entire United States.

Back of the coast provinces lie two, Nganh-wei and Kiang-si, and still west of these three others, Ho-nan, Hu-peh and Hu-nan, the second of these containing the second most important interior city of the empire, Hankow.

The large rivers of China flow from west to east, the four most important being the Pei-ho, which flows past Tien-Tsin; the Yellow river, which traverses Shan-tung; the Yang-tse-kiang, which empties into the sea near Shang-hai, about in the middle of the Chinese map, and the West river, smaller than the others, which reaches the sea near Canton.

Chi-li, the province where the trouble is, is about as large as Georgia or Iowa, having 59,000 square miles of area and a population of 18,000,000. Shan-tung, its neighbor to the south, has 5,000 square miles less area, and twice as many inhabitants as Chi-li.

East of northern Chi-li, and between that province and the upper part of Korea, is the province of Shing-king, until recently a part of China, but now considered as under Russian control. In this province are the two important cities, Moukden, once the capital of Manchuria, and New Chwang. This province has been the scene of important Boxer outbreaks. Port Arthur, the new terminus of the transasiatic railway, is also in this province.

Next to Chi-li, Shan-tung is believed to be the most turbulent of the Chinese provinces, but there is grave danger that the trouble may spread to the southern provinces and finally involve the whole empire in a determination to get rid of the hated foreigners at any cost.

Friday is the day set for the address of Congressman Dooliver at the Boulder Chautauqua. There will undoubtedly be a large attendance from Colorado Springs and other points of the state.

This is one of the most successful tourist seasons Colorado Springs has ever known, but the city is so busy about other things as scarcely to notice it.

No wonder the Democratic convention left out the civil service plank. How would it have looked with Adlai the axe-man standing on it.

The Chicago Inter Ocean includes the Denver Republican among the Democratic newspapers that refuse to support Bryan. My, oh my oh!

FROM THE STATE PRESS

Teller, the "grand old man of the mountains," has gone over, body and soul, to the Democracy, and is trying to pull the silver Republicans along with him.—(Westcliffe Tribune.)

Erie has the distinction of being the first town in Colorado to establish a municipal electric light system. The system is proving a success, and is very little expensive to users.—(Berthoud Bulletin.)

And now the State Agricultural college is out with a bulletin recommending the use of the Russian thistle for hay. Now, if they will find some use for this thing for the festive cockle burr to do, they will succeed in filling a long-felt want.—(Fruita Mail.)

The very mention of the name of Hon. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois causes chills of apprehension to chase each other down the backs of the Republican postmasters and land office appointees throughout this broad land.—(Lamar Sparks.)

The name of Dr. John Grass, of Trinidad, will cut quite a figure in the new Republican state convention, when it comes to naming the candidate for governor. He is peculiarly fitted for the place, and is very popular at his own home.—(Denver World.)

The Gazette is the best, ably edited and most consistent Republican paper in this state, but it should studiously avoid historical reminiscences and "precedents," all that are of any importance under a Democratic and fusion platform from 1800 to 1900.—(Colorado Springs Democrat.)

As one of the great powers of the world the United States of America must lead, or at least march in the front ranks of progress. It cannot lag behind in civilization, as well as patriotism, declares the nations march to be onward as well as upward.—(Denver World.)

The Democrats nominated Bryan and Stevenson as their candidates last Friday night, a real hot struggle lasting three days. A gentleman at our elbow says that snow-balls have a better chance to grow on trees at Pueblo in July than Bryan has of taking the president's chair.—(Russell Journal.)

Governor Thomas neglected to say anything in his speech at Kansas City last week about the all-important subject, free coinage. But then the governor never makes notes for his enthusiasm over the silver question. Wasn't he one of the leading Gold Democrats in Colorado eight years ago?—(Canon City Record.)

The Colorado delegation to the Democratic convention voted against a silver plank for vice-president and in favor of a man put up by the eastern Gold Democrats. They voted against Thomas for vice-president. This is how can Colorado Democracy pose as silver's only champion?—(Canon City Record.)

As each week passes it is plainly to be seen that conditions are improving, both in a mining and business way in the great district which Eldora is in the center. The stages are coming in every day loaded with people, new stores are opening up, and the mines upon which everything depends, are in better condition and working more men and producing more ore than ever before.—(Eldora Miner.)

Does the Democratic platform mean that the American flag should be pulled down from Manila? If the original 13 colonies of this country had been proposed to expansion, what would be the condition of the western part of the United States today, and to what flag would we, of Colorado, owe allegiance? With our methods of transportation the Philippine islands are not as far from San Francisco now as the island of Omaha was from Philadelphia in the early days.—(Exchange.)

It has not been the general rule for the national Democratic party to go outside of its own lines for vice-presidential candidates and the convention at Kansas City made no exception to the rule. It was merely desirable for the Democrats to talk about a Silver Republican until the time came for the nomination of a candidate. David E. Hill would have given the party a worse black eye than it now has had if he had run for a candidate. David E. Hill was too smart to lay his neck on the block.—(Antonio Ledger.)

There is a most remarkable influx of tourists to Colorado this summer. Eastern people have been gradually understanding the advantages of the fact that the mountains afford the only genuine summer resorts in the entire country. Leaving scenic attractions out of the question, the shore has no other locality short of the frozen north, can compare with Colorado as a place where to play and forget that there is such an abomination as "dog days."—(Cameron Golden Crescent.)

The Democrats are not crowing loudly over the silver plank in their platform, for they realize that it only found a niche by a scratch and an reality by a minority vote. When the question came up in the committee composed of one member from each state after much discussion it only passed by the vote of 26 for to 24 against. The 26 votes represented the western and small electoral states, while the opposition represented such states as New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania two-thirds or more of the entire electoral vote.—(Gillett Forum.)

Sometime this forenoon Ralph Percival, while standing on the bank of the Pawnee ditch on W. E. Tetsell's farm noticed a commotion in the water that indicated the presence of a snake or some other monster was just under the surface. Ralph was armed with a pitchfork and he at once commenced hostilities. After a severe struggle he succeeded in landing probably the largest fish ever caught in Logan county, a rock sturgeon, 4 feet 10 inches long. They are abundant in the Missouri at the mouth of the Platte, but none has ever been heard of in this county before.—(Living News.)

The new engines of the Denver & Rio Grande railway have been installed along the roof of the cab and connecting with the boiler. Through this pipe, without making a perceptible noise, says the Railway Review, either the engineer or fireman can send, under 200 pounds pressure, a jet of steam and boiling water that would effectively kill or injure anything living that happened to be on the tender or the front end of the baggage car. The blow-off cock thus arranged is expected to prevent train robbers climbing over the tender.—(Vulcan Times.)

It will keep the Democratic brethren more than busy from now till election time explaining to the dear people that Adlai E. Stevenson's nomination for vice-president does not lend to their ticket some of the odium that attaches to the Cleveland administration. Mr. Stevenson was the running mate of Grover and served throughout his term in the same capacity in which he now desires to act, and yet Mr. Stevenson has made no public announcement of any change of heart. He was a Cleveland Democrat eight years ago, and he is one today. Do the voters of Colorado want in the slightest manner to vote their approval of any part of the Cleveland-Stevenson administration?—(Greely Republican.)

Capt. Coghlan on The Chinese Status

"We are paying dearly for the actions of some of our citizens, but now that we have got our foot in it, the only way to do is to repeat Kitchener's campaign in Egypt and slaughter fast and heavily until the Chinese situation is brought to a plane that will permit of a peaceful disposition."

It was no abstract statement that came from Captain Coghlan, commander of the U. S. Steamer Raleigh, who emerged from his confinement yesterday for the first time since early in May, but the result of personal observation of the people involved, their intellect, customs, and environments, while in pursuance of his naval duties. For several days Captain and Mrs. Coghlan have been quartered at the Alamo, where he has found the mountain air and Manitou water, the best medicines he has taken for neuralgia of the stomach and complicated results. Although somewhat emaciated in body, the captain's face would not impress a stranger as that of a convalescent, save for the pallid hue where the ruddy glow made by years on the deck of a war vessel was formerly set.

Keen interest was displayed by Captain Coghlan and wife in the reported capture of Tien Tsin by the allied forces.

Of the situation in general, he said to a Gazette representative: "The powers have made a mistake of sending an inadequate force to China. This prevailing impression that we are fighting Chinese like those of the southern provinces which the Japanese so effectively routed a few years ago, is sadly mistaken. The people of the north—the governing race—which we are engaged with, are descendants of the old Mongol Tartars, whose fighting is seldom equalled. They are people who care nothing for life and though not persistent, are educated and trained soldiers. War is in their blood for centuries back.

"A number of Americans, Germans, Frenchmen and other nationalities have spent years with the Tartars, training them for fighting, and furnishing them with modern implements of war, and now we are paying dearly for it. If we do not act quickly and with effect, they can put ten million men in the field and present a front the world will find difficult to break. If the powers put in say 200,000 men each, and collect an aggregate of 120,000 men by September, we will stand a chance of speedily wiping out the uprising. Everything over there freezes up in November, and what is done must be done quickly.

"In the southern part of China half a dozen men can look stern at a few hundred Chinese and the latter will fall to pieces, but those Tartars in the north are fighters and we must slaughter the whole outfit of them to gain the upper hand.

"I was not surprised and I do not blame Admiral Kempff for objecting to fire on the Taku forts as he did the other day. The other forces contended that if they were not taken then, the Chinese would have more men there later on, but that would be all the better for us, and it is precarious business to take one of their forts and attempt to hold it with an inadequate force. If we get them stirred up too much before enough of our men are on hand, they will put millions in the field and the result is obvious.

"There are some of the most polished and educated men in the world among the Tartars of northern China. I remember one occasion at Shanghai which illustrates this fact very clearly.

"My captain was ill and detailed me to go ashore and make an official visit to the Tantai, or governor. I asked for an interpreter, but the interpreter informed me that I needed no one if I spoke French. The Tantai spoke beautiful French and some English. He was as polished and highly educated a man as many of the world's statesmen. After the official interview, he removed his robes and we had lunch together. Some of his servants also spoke French very well.

"The lower classes do not care for human life and do not absorb the Christian religion as readily as one might suppose, clinging to the teachings of Confucius. They are loyal to family fostering high ideals of morality and with it all comes that terrible exclusion of other races that leads to spasmodic outbursts of sentiment and frequently action of arms against anything and any one foreign.

"Often I have seen one of them fall from his san pan at Shanghai and other ports, and drift down the river within a few feet of the houseboats below, grabbing frantically for something to save himself from going out. It is a case of drowning at once, and had a dozen inhabitants of the boats could have reached out a hand, a stick, or thrown out a rope and saved the life, but they went on about their business unconcerned and impassively. We have saved some with lines that had floated within three feet of us, and that might have been offered by a fellow native had he been so disposed."

"This Manitou water has done me more good than all the medicine I have taken," he said, "and I feel better every hour with drinking it. In a few days we may go to Manitou for a visit, but I want to get out on a ranch in the quiet and open air to pick up some of the fish that has gone from these bones."

And he shifted uncomfortably on the hard bench.

Rio Grande Has Sent H. Wildman to Denver

Changes announced yesterday in the Rio Grande employes include the removal of H. Wildman from Colorado Springs to the higher position of freight agent at Denver. While the change will be regretted by everyone who comes in contact with the genial gentleman who has been agent for the Rio Grande in this city for the last 12 years, his promotion is the cause of many expressions of good wishes and favorable comment. It was after many days of deliberation that the officials of the line decided to remove Mr. Wildman from this city, the agency in Denver having been vacated some time ago by the resignation of the former incumbent. On the whole system there was not a more faithful, energetic and capable employe than Mr. Wildman, who was considered thoroughly fitted for the responsible position in Denver.

Mr. Wildman received notice of the change yesterday afternoon and the notice was accompanied by a message instructing him to be in Denver this morning ready to assume his new duties. Despite the fact that his family is in this city, he responded to the call and left last night at 7 o'clock, intending to remove his family later.

T. J. Day, until this morning agent at Florence, will take charge of the Colorado Springs office, supplanting Mr. Wildman, and other changes down the line of competent will follow. Mr. Day is a thoroughly experienced agent who stands well with the company and as a citizen.

DENVER WHEEL CLUB PLAYS HERE SATURDAY

The Denver Wheel Club team will play the ex-Collegians on Washburn Field Saturday for the benefit of the Indian famine sufferers. The purpose for which the game is played should be sufficient for the presence of a large crowd, but the game will be a good one, also. The college nine defeated the Wheel club twice this spring—the last time by the close score of 5 to 4, and Manager Truxton says he is going to get even this time. The local boys have been playing a good game of ball since the close of the college, not losing a game, and winning the last one against what was heralded as a good team by a score of 25 to 2. The old college battery will play, Packard behind the bat, and Griffith and Jones in the pitcher's box. Tickets will be on sale today noon by Briscoe, Foltz & Hardy, Low, Ward, Robinson, Jones & Wellington and Muehl. The famine sufferers should net a nice sum from the proceeds of this game.

Dinner set, pure white semi-porcelain ware, $3.75 at Kaufman's.

Buffonhole Interviews

"Dr. Henry A. Ward arrived this morning from the east," said President Slocum yesterday, "and will be engaged here for several days checking over the different specimens which compose the natural history museum we have just received from California. Dr. Ward collected the exhibits which compose this museum and is therefore better able than anyone else to tell whether it has arrived in good shape and whether it is all here. He will be engaged at the work for some time."

Our Grand Opening Sale of New Pianos (NOW ONWARD)

Has opened the eyes of the people—opened the way to secure fine pianos—high grade—the people's favorites—the people's choice—at Reasonable Prices and on Easy Terms. Opened the way for the people to the interior parts of the piano; its mechanism; its materials; the principle upon which it is constructed. Is the good material, the good workmanship, the good idea, in the cheap piano? If so, why ask more for any piano?

P. T. BARNUM SAID:

"The American people like to be humbugged." If Barnum had been in the piano business he would have sold

$500 Pianos for $135

But, having been in the show business, he simply painted the elephant white and called it the sacred elephant. We have no white elephants. A new store and new, choice, up-to-date pianos. Our pianos, the

Hallet & Davis, Sterling, Huntington and Mendelssohn

Are modern choice pianos with all the improvements devised by nineteenth century genius. We don't trade on the reputation of bygone days nor the skill of dead mechanics. Every point in our pianos represents progress. They are as far ahead of the standard of ten years ago as that standard was ahead of the old pianoforte of the previous generation. THE PERSONAL FACTS.

(New York Sun.)

McKinley and Roosevelt.

William McKinley is 57 years of age; Theodore Roosevelt is 42. President McKinley was born in Ohio; Roosevelt was born in New York city. McKinley is of Scotch-Irish ancestry; Roosevelt is of Dutch descent. The name of Roosevelt means "field of roses." McKinley, educated in Ohio, studied law in Albany, N. Y. He was admitted to the bar in 1867. Roosevelt was educated at Harvard college and at the Columbia Law School of this city. Both McKinley and Roosevelt are trained in the affairs of public life, legislative and executive. Mr. Roosevelt was for three terms a member of the New York assembly. Mr. McKinley represented his home district for 14 years in congress. Afterward he was elected governor and was re-elected to the same office by a largely increased majority in 1892. He was the presiding officer of the convention which nominated his Republican predecessor, Mr. Harrison, for president.

McKinley was 38 years of age when elected prosecuting attorney of his native county in Ohio; Mr. Roosevelt was 22 years of age when he was first elected a member of the New York assembly. Roosevelt was made assistant secretary of the navy by President McKinley in April, 1897. He was elected governor of New York in 1898. Mr. McKinley was promoted to the presidency from the governorship of Ohio and Mr. Roosevelt was nominated for the vice-presidency while governor of New York.

Both McKinley and Roosevelt have war records. Mr. McKinley was a soldier in the 23rd Ohio Volunteers, which participated in the battles of South Mountain, Antietam, Lexington, Winchester, Fisher's Hill and Cedar Creek. McKinley was one of the youngest men in the regiment, which included 32 members under 21. Roosevelt's military record in Cuba and San Juan and on neighboring fighting fields is of universal public knowledge.

Both McKinley and Roosevelt are interesting and effective public speakers. Mr. McKinley comes from a state having 23 electoral votes; Mr. Roosevelt from a state having 36.

Both candidates upon the Republican national ticket are now in office. Mr. McKinley is president of the United States; Mr. Roosevelt is governor of the state of New York.

strong Republican counties of that state. It has a large colored population. Goebel lost it at the last election by 600 majority. Stevenson lost it to Theodore Roosevelt in 1892. McKinley was first elected in 1890; Stevenson 16 years earlier.

Stevenson was the tail of the successful Democratic ticket in 1892; Bryan was the head of the unsuccessful Democratic ticket in 1896. Nebraska, from which Bryan hails, has eight electoral votes; Illinois, from which Stevenson comes, has 24. Bryan was nominated for the presidency in Chicago in 1896 on the fifth ballot, one of his opponents being Stevenson. Stevenson was nominated in the same city for vice-president four years earlier, on the first ballot, as he was in Kansas City. His opponents were Isaac P. Gray of Indiana, Judge Morse (who has become a Republican) of Michigan, Henry Watterson and John L. Mitchell of Wisconsin.

Nebraska has never furnished the country with a president or Illinois with a vice-president, except Stevenson. The only Republican candidate for vice-president nominated from Illinois was Stevenson distinctively so. He was, however, a member of the board of visitors to the West Point Military academy in 1877.

Bryan is a tireless and effective political campaigner. Mr. Stevenson dated his letter of acceptance of the vice-presidential nomination in 1892 from Charleston, W. Va., and in it he wrote: "The greatest power conferred upon human government is that of taxation. A rabbit's foot was presented to him in that canvass." Neither Bryan nor Stevenson hold any public office at present.

in years has a national ticket been received with such unmistakable signs of fatigue and indifference. One can almost believe the election is already over.

Journeying down the Atlantic coast we find that the sound money revolt has reached North Carolina. The Charlotte Observer, which is the most influential daily newspaper in the state, says it "cannot support the candidate nominated for the platform promulgated at Kansas City. We are opposed to the free coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1. The saying is that the anti-imperialist plank presents the paramount issue does not make it do so, and moreover the issue does not appeal to us. This country had no business in a war with Spain, but it got into one and as a consequence certainty territory fell under its control. It cannot shirk its obligations in Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines if it wanted to."

Jumping from North Carolina to Minnesota, what attitude do we find? St. Paul Globe, the only Democratic daily paper in the twin cities, taking to the editor of the Chicago Times-Herald, says: "The control of William J. Bryan, which under threat of withdrawal forced the free silver falsehood down the throat of the Kansas City convention, points to a pathway already traveled in the journey to Democratic defeat and disaster. It refuses to support the candidates of a convention which seeks through cowardly evasion to win the support of those whom it feared to openly challenge."

Turning from the editorial expressions of disgust and revolt from Democratic newspapers, we find these indorsed and emphasized by interviews with leading gold Democrats in every section of the country. The interview with James H. Eckels, comptroller of the currency under Cleveland, printed in yesterday's Times-Herald, fairly represents the determination of conservative Democrats to vote for McKinley in preference to "Populism filtered through the channel of Bryanism."

When Devey smashed the Spaniards we should have seen content to grab and hold one coaling station in those islands. But I am not so blind that I cannot see that it is impossible for us to recede from the position that we have taken there without such a reputation of words and deeds, without such loss of prestige, without such injustice to our own people as would render it a wrong step for the nation to take."

The refrain of Democratic revolt against Bryan and Bryanism rings across the continent. In the language of a New York Democrat, who announces his intention to vote for McKinley and Roosevelt—"16 to 1 tolls the knell of the Democratic party."

The scotched snare of 1896 should have got a new skin before facing the people in 1900. It is easier to deceive than to defend. The deliberate endorsement of an anti-imperialist plank might have escaped the fate awaiting it next November.

By Bryanism the second time before the Kansas City convention has put Bryanism for the second time before the country. The name of Democracy again attaches to ticket and platform, but it is only in name that any connection with the traditions and principles of Democracy is maintained. The candidate for president had already been put in the field by another party, and only the acceptance of Towne for the second place on the ticket was needed to make the whole performance at Kansas City merely a ratification meeting for the Populist national convention. Indeed, the substitution of Stevenson for Towne hardly altered the dose, for he was a greenbacker once, and has no convictions to restrain him from being a Populist now.

While We Have Just Opened Our Colorado Springs Store Please Remember

That we have the largest piano warerooms in the west and carry the biggest stock. That we are the originators of low prices on choice pianos for the people. That we buy in carload lots for spot cash. That we have been doing the leading piano business in Colorado and the adjoining states for nearly a quarter of a century, and Don't forget that we always give the people the very best possible bargains in pianos.

The Superior Huntington Piano. Paderewski

The world's supreme pianist recognizes the great merit of the Huntington Piano. We clip from the Musical Age, June 7, 1900, the following: "Ignace J. Paderewski, the world-famous artist, before his departure for Europe, performed another of his many generous and graceful acts in presenting the Paderewski Singing society of Chicago, of which Joseph P. Szymanski is president, with a Huntington piano. In his communication to the Huntington Piano company, Paderewski refers especially to the 'excellent accounts' that he has heard of these instruments, and orders a Huntington piano to be shipped 'for his account' to the Paderewski Singing society. The value of such an indorsement from Paderewski cannot be overestimated, and the Huntington Piano company is to be warmly congratulated on this latest unqualified tribute to the merits of its popular product." No greater compliment has been paid to any maker in modern times.

THE Popular Sterling

Is recommended by the following well known musicians of Colorado: Dr. John H. Gower, Doctor of Music of Oxford University, England; Adams Owens, Denver's great baritone; Vincent Morgan, voice teacher; Charles Winfred Douglas, M. B. Hermon Krees, F. S. Robbins, Prof. Henry Housley, Edward Hesselberg, Prof. J. O. Sloat, Prof. W. J. Whiteman. Over 2,000 of these very popular pianos have been sold in Colorado and adjoining territory.

The Issue of the Campaign.

The long contest over the platform at Kansas City resulted in the retention of the free coinage plank, which Mr. Bryan regarded as essential, but in its complete subordination to other and truer issues of the day. The platform puts the paramount issue of imperialism foremost, as the one absorbing danger to the country, and the exciting demonstration in the convention when this declaration was read showed that the live interest of the campaign was there and not in the theoretic discussion of ratios or other questions of minor moment.

The free coinage plank was adopted by the committee on resolutions by a bare majority and it is not certain that it would have been adopted in the convention had the fight been carried there. But after this questionable triumph advocates yielded to the demand of those who wished to make the campaign a controversy. Journalists and platform finally was framed, with the reiteration of the silver issue of 1896 as a mere incident. It was adopted without further controversy. The nomination of William Jennings Bryan as the candidate for president followed by hearty acclamation.

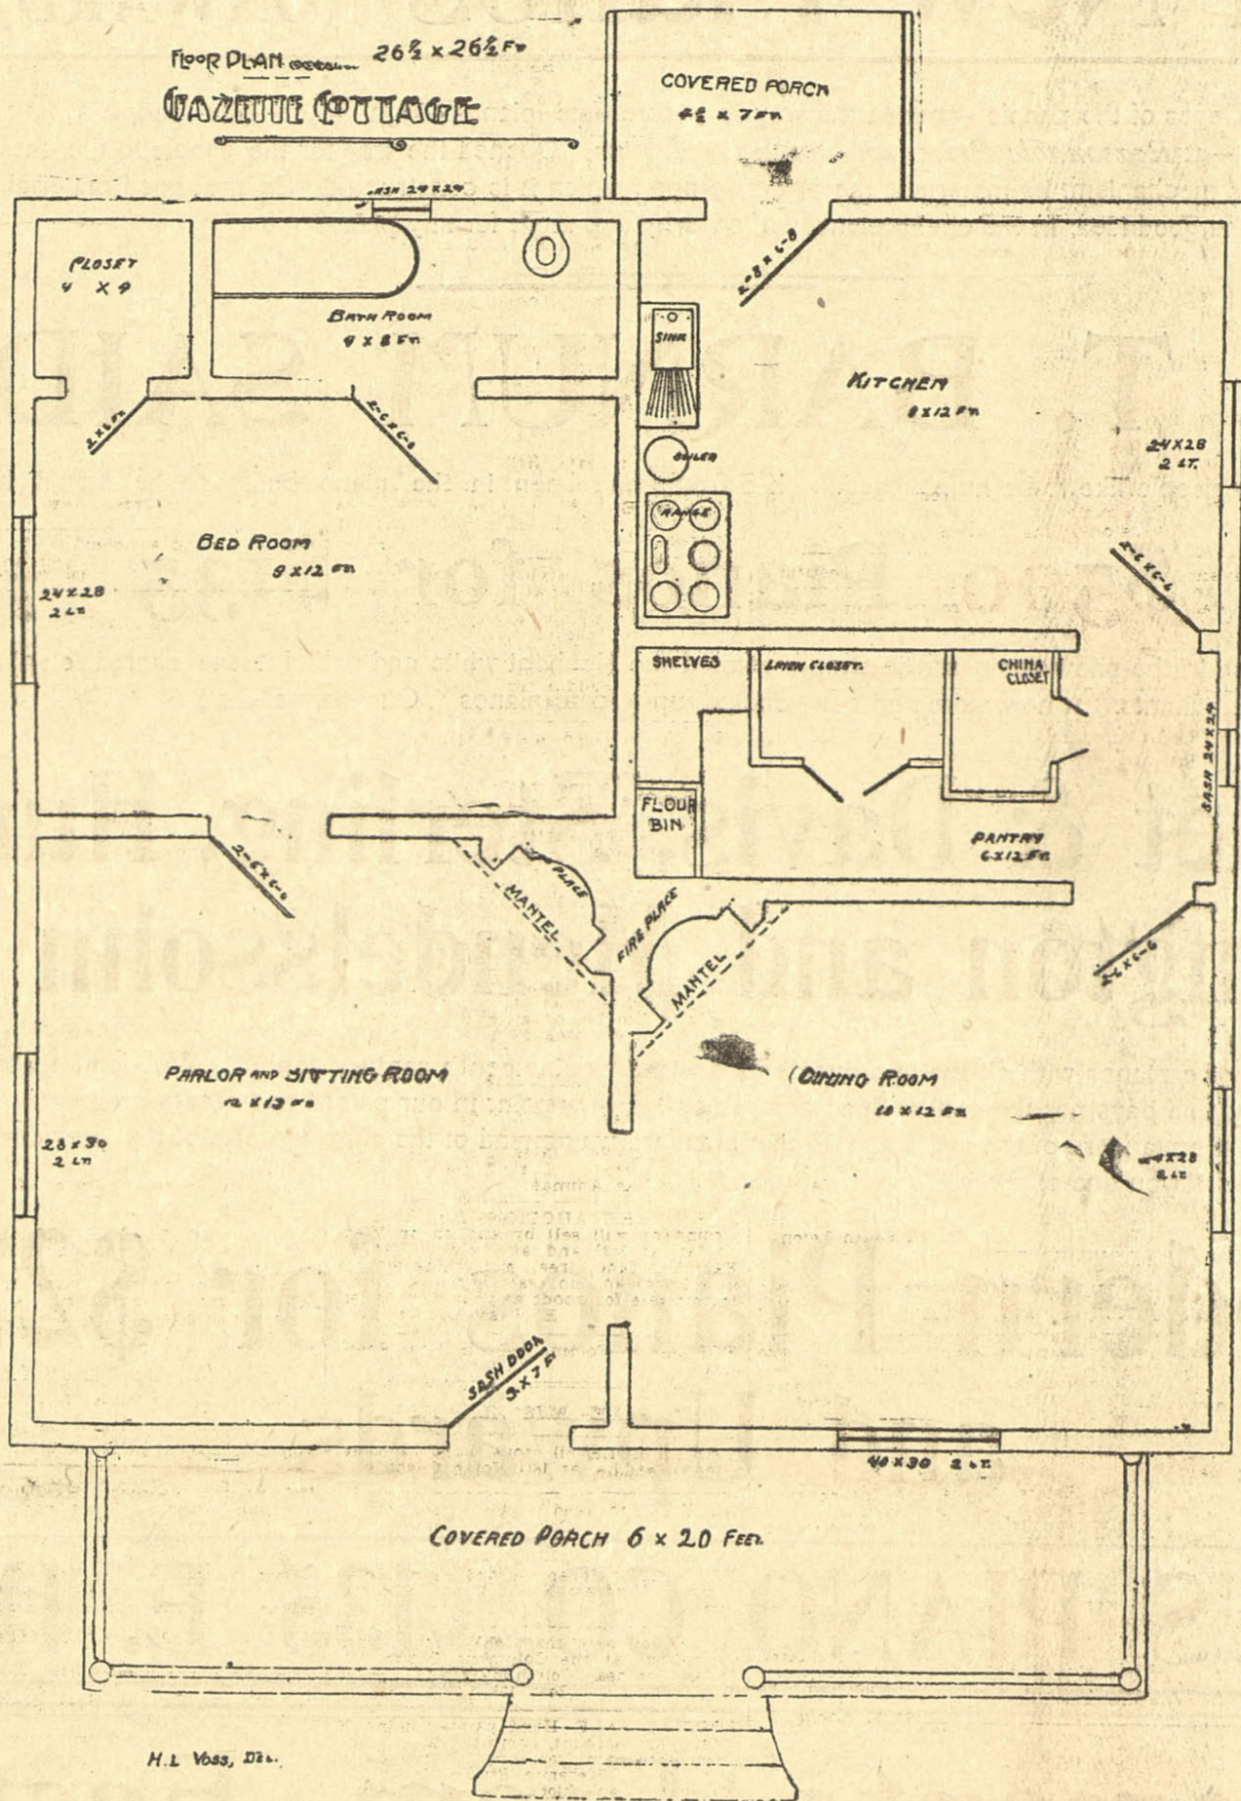

Decency and taste in Journalism are observed by the present Chicago newspapers to an extent not known either in New York or Boston, and the entrance of Mr. Hearst of the New York Journal and San Francisco Examiner into that field with a paper to be patterned on the bill-board lines of the yellow journalism of New York is to be regretted.

A prominent citizen of Chicago, recently visiting New York city, was surprised not so much over the piles of papers on the news-stands there, printed in many colors and gaudy type, as over the evident demand for such sheets by persons of respectable appearance. It may not follow that there is an equally good market for newspapers so offensive to good taste in Chicago, but the possibility of it makes easier the way for a most regrettable demoralization of Chicago journalismist standard by the Hearst venture. It is to be hoped that this tendency will be stoutly resisted. The great success of the Chicago Daily News has proved that sensationalism and huge type and red and yellow ink and garish illustration are not required to give a newspaper wide circulation among the masses of the people. The adherence of the other leading Chicago papers to desirable standards in typographical appearance and otherwise is a compliment to the people of that city, and section which should not be forfeited.
