According to the statements of Mrs. Mary J. O'Donnell, Police Officer Martin Purcell will have some serious charges to answer to before the fire and police board. She claims that he assaulted and abused her 13-year-old adopted daughter, Nora Keefe. It seems that the girl's foster father was in a saloon at Thirty-second and Downing avenues drinking when the girl went after him to take him home. Policeman Purcell was in the saloon and was also drunk. When the girl came in he asked her several questions and becoming angered at her refusal to talk with him, he grabbed her and threw her violently to the floor. Her foster mother reported the matter to the police and officers were at once dispatched to arrest him. When found, he was too drunk to walk. Charges will be filed against him.

Leroy W. Secor who was arrested here yesterday charged with embezzling over $18,000 of a steamship company's money at Milwaukee, has been taken back for trial. Before leaving he said that he could prove his innocence.

Owing to the fact that the farmers in and around Lamar, Colo., are so busily engaged the annual rabbit hunt by Parson Uzzell will not be held. In speaking of the matter the parson said:

"We can't have it this year. The farmers do not extend an invitation to us. They have been busy and it would really have been quite a task to furnish fifty or sixty wagons that would have been required. I think maybe we could have arranged it by dividing the crowd and part going to another station twelve or fifteen miles from Lamar. The may try it next year at Lamar or some other place. It is to be this year to plan for it now. More gunners were planning to go this year than ever before and we would have been able to give a larger number of families rabbit meat than in past years."

A committee composed of 25 of Denver's most influential citizens has been appointed to try to secure the Grand Army encampment for this city for next year. Look At Yourself

Is Coffee Slowly Killing You?

IF YOU ARE A COFFEE DRINKER, examine yourself very carefully indeed. It will pay you big returns for the examination.

Remember, the nerves traverse the entire body, and when they are out of order, convey their trouble to some one or more parts. No living being can tell just where the nerves will deposit the trouble, but it is certain they will place it somewhere in one or more organs. In some cases disease is slowly built up, for instance, in the kidneys, or in the brain, or perhaps in the bowels, and does not make any violent show for weeks or months, but it is being piled in slowly and surely, so that when enough diseased cells are built to make a showing, the trouble is so far gone that many times it is impossible to recover.

The only safe pathway for anyone who cares for health, is to throw out the poisonous drug coffee as soon as you find some evidence of incipient disease, shown by aches or ails, or uncomfortable feelings anywhere in the body.

Highly organized people are distinctly poisoned by coffee, and think it hard to give up the drug (for it is a habit), but it is really no task what-ever to rid one's self of coffee, if one will take on Postum Food Coffee, the result of the change will be so pleasing in point of good, healthy, comfortable feeling, that one is well repaid, particularly when there is no self denial, for the taste of Postum Food Coffee is so clearly marked and delicious when it is properly prepared (and that is easy), that the change from the old coffee is not noticeable.

Stop disease when it is small and you are able to stop it. If you allow it to grow it will master you. Postum Food Coffee affords a pleasant and sure way to conquer and be well.

WONDERFUL CAVE FOUND NEAR BUTTE, MONTANA

By Associated Press. Denver, Dec. 8.—A special to the News from Butte, Mont., says: A new and wonderful natural cave and believed to be one of the largest known in the world, was discovered in the canon of the Jefferson on the line of the Northern Pacific railway about 50 miles west of Butte. An exploration party from Butte spent several days in the cave going over an area of ten miles and to a depth of nearly one thousand feet. A large river with a cataract of about 100 feet was explored for a distance of several miles without discovering its source or outlet. A few articles of stone and copper utensils and some bones, believed to be human bones, were also found in one of the large apartments of the cave. There were other evidences that at some time in a pre-historic period the cave was inhabited. It is believed that an earthquake closed the entrance to the cave and killed its inhabitants. The formations of stalactite and other natural decorations throughout the cave are most beautiful.

FLORENCE

New Rocky Mountain Smelter Blown In--Machinery Works Satisfactorily.

Special to the Gazette. Florence, Dec. 9.—At 2 o'clock this (Monday) morning the furnaces of the Rocky Mountain smelter were blown in and the refinery is working nicely. By Wednesday night the entire plant will be under full blast. President Marsh, his vice and the entire directorate will arrive from Iowa about the middle of the week to see the new plant in full blast.

This places in operation another smelter and makes complete the chain of metalliferous plants in every town and valley from Pueblo to Leadville, and the local plant is considered among the best in the state and is operated independently of the trust. In the test trial given last week every department of the machinery ran so smoothly as clock work. Nearly $100,000 has been spent in improvements, the last few months and now it works wonderfully well.

Ore is arriving from all parts of Colorado and no shortage will be experienced. By 7 o'clock tonight 75 men will be working and by the middle of the week nearly double that number. Lime fluxing is being secured from a quarry eight miles north of here.

Business men of West Main street are exercised upon having the postoffice moved to the east end of town. Some of them say they will fight for its remaining where it is, as they believe moving it will be detrimental to business.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

All Records for Passenger Travel Broken--Reception to Carlton.

Cripple Creek Bureau Colorado Springs Gazette Cripple Creek, Dec. 8.—Previous records for cut rate passenger travel into the camp were broken today. Excursionists from Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, Canon City, Florence and Intermediate points came in upon every train and were greeted with ideal weather. The roads leading to the district were taxed to their capacity to carry the hundreds of passengers. Suburban travel between the towns of the district was very heavy from all points. In the rate war now being waged the C. S. & C. C. D. R. Co. has all the best of it.

By actual count made by the Short Line conductors, this road today brought into the camp 1,159 passengers, the majority of whom held the round trip tickets, good for five days. This five day rate is now good from all points mentioned above. In addition to the 1,159 arrivals, 617 from the camp went to valley points over the Short Line to spend the day, or the five days as they wish.

On the Denver & Southwestern line the officials of that company estimate that 900 were carried. They state that it is shown by the travel so and from Terminal and about 200 upon the F. & C. C. The local officials of all roads are watching the travel upon the different lines, and a prominent district official of the Short Line, states that by actual count the Midland Terminal brought 12 passengers to the camp and carried out 12. Regardless of figures, it is shown by the travel so and from the depots that the Short Line is carrying 10 passengers to the Midland's one. As a result of the cut rate war commenced by the Denver & Southwestern combine, much money is being spent in Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo that should rightfully go to the merchants of the district. Trucks that went out with passengers are being sent back from the valley towns filled with merchandise. Yesterday a woman called at the local office of the Short Line and bought a round trip ticket to Colorado Springs, telling the ticket agent that groceries were much cheaper in that city and that she was going down to buy a supply for the winter and ship them back. She stated that she could get five pounds more of sugar for one dollar in the Springs than in Cripple Creek.

Its stage will have about the same dimensions as that of the Tabor Grand in Denver.

NEWS NOTES FROM PUEBLO

Enlarged Switching Facilities for Minnequa Works--C. F. & I. Improvements.

Pueblo Bureau Colorado Springs Gazette Pueblo, Dec. 8.—The freight business in Pueblo has increased so enormously during the past few months that it is recognized upon all sides that something must be done to relieve the strain and that something quickly. Chas. Dyer, general superintendent of the Colorado & Southern was in the city yesterday looking after several concerns of the company. Among other things he devoted considerable attention to an investigation of the new switching facilities of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company.

Three gangs of carpenters are now occupied in putting in bridges over the Bessemer ditch, and other places where they are required and the laying of track has already commenced. By means of the new arrangements of the Colorado & Southern it will be independent of the Denver & Rio Grande road in its switching at the steel works, it having in the past been obliged to transfer the cars to the D. & R. G. at Bessemer Junction before they could be turned over to the C. F. & I. company. When the new tracks are laid from a point near the Union Stock yards, the C. & S. will be enabled to transfer cars direct to the steel works switch tracks. The new switching facilities will be in operation by the first of January.

It is estimated that the construction of a line of its own to the steel works switching tracks by the Colorado & Southern will have a marked effect in relieving the congested condition in the Pueblo yards of both the D. & R. G. and the C. & S. For some time past the condition has been serious, and the steel works have suffered to a great extent in the inability to get ore cars moved with expedition. The side tracks of the C. & S. between Denver and Pueblo have been filled with cars of ore for the congested condition of the yards at this point has prevented the handling of them.

LONDON STOCK MARKET HAS A BETTER OUTLOOK By Associated Press. London, Dec. 8.—The outlook on the stock exchange was somewhat brighter during the past week owing to the message from President Roosevelt, the speech of the Prince of Wales and the unexpectedly heavy captures in South Africa. These latter also helped the market for mining shares, and Kaffirs rose slightly, on indefinite predictions of the termination of the South African war. The money situation was satisfactory and there was no prospect of stringency in New York, Paris and Berlin bills, while after the first of January the customary cash returns from the monetary centers promise easy money for several weeks to come. thought this promised situation, combined with the present low price of all stocks, will stimulate both investment and speculation. The volume of business to date is still limited. American securities were lethargic in spite of the improvement of Wall street. Home rails had a brighter outlook on improved traffic reports and the promises of the directors to increase economies as well as efficiency of the roads during the coming year. The silver situation is still critical although silver has recovered slightly from its lowest quotations. The future of silver is said to depend entirely upon whether the United States refrain from pressing further sales. COMPULSORY INSURANCE

A BENEFIT OF PATERNALISM

Many Are Saved From Want by Being Compelled to Save for a Rainy Day.

By William E. Curtis.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—An interesting feature of the paternal government of Germany is compulsory life insurance, "old age insurance," as it is commonly called.

This insurance system is under the minister of the interior. The officials in charge occupy a beautiful building, one of the handsomest in all Europe.

Insurance premiums are paid by pasting stamps upon cards. If the wages are weekly the stamps must be affixed in advance every Monday.

The stamps must be canceled with the date on which they are affixed to the card, and the employer must observe all the regulations is punishable by a fine.

The stamps are sold at all post-offices and other places where postage stamps can be had.

There are various denominations, from 10 pfennigs to 1 mark.

For the purpose of insurance, wage-earners are divided into five classes, according to their incomes, as follows:

Table showing income per yr. per wk. for five classes: Class 1 (Income per yr. $300 or less), Class 2 ($300 to $400), Class 3 ($400 to $500), Class 4 ($500 to $600), Class 5 ($600 or more).

There are all sorts of private insurance companies, more perhaps than in any other country.

Among other curious insurance schemes is one which guarantees its patrons against the expense of illness.

Will Give or Take $450 for the Piano

In the Knight-Campbell Music Co.'s Xmas sale of pianos there is offered a most liberal and entirely fair proposition to any one having in mind a piano for Xmas.

One week ago this morning this company announced in the issue of this paper an Xmas sale of pianos and music boxes, saying that some of the most liberal discounts that they have ever offered would be in force during the next ten days.

Following closely this announcement were advertised assertions of some of the very best and oldest makes of pianos, either upright or grand styles, at such prices as $120, $231, $267, $284, $303, $332, etc., and we are informed that these are sold under a money guarantee of perfectness.

An entirely reliable person, who was shown through the Knight-Campbell Music Co.'s big store and stock Saturday is authority for the statement that there is truly some of the greatest piano bargains in this stock that he has ever seen.

For instance—There was shown to this person, among other equally as good instruments, a Chickering & Sons concert grand piano for $450, and which will be sold with the understanding that it is in perfect repair and tune and that it is no more than two years old and as a further protection to the buyer $450 will in turn be given from date of purchase, in exchange for any new grand piano of this company's regular stock at regular prices, should the Chickering piano not prove satisfactory.

Now, it seems to us that this is certainly a most liberal inducement to piano buyers. Not only is there an opportunity to buy a good piano at a most reasonable price, but the Knight-Campbell Music Co. agrees to refund the full purchase price, and do so any time within two years from date of purchase, in the way of exchange for any new grand piano of their stock.

We are told that this Xmas sale of the Knight-Campbell Music Co.'s will positively close this week, but during the few remaining days some of the greatest bargains may be had.

You may not be able to buy a piano, then there are organs, the very best makes, at prices cut, some of them more than 40 per cent. Elegant organs from $27 up, and music boxes too. Boxes that sold regularly for $50 and $75 go in this sale for $33 and up, cash or time.

Saturday was banner day in this big Xmas sale, and today promises to go way beyond Saturday. The earlier you are in this sale the better selection you will have.

The Knight-Campbell Music Co.'s big store, 113 North Tejon street, will be open every evening this week.

Truth Through the Holy Scriptures

Rev. Benjamin Brewster of Grace Church preached yesterday morning on "Truth Through the Holy Scriptures," taking his text from Second Corinthians, second chapter, the last half of the fourth verse: "By manifestation of the truth, commending itself to every man's conscience." He said in part: One aspect of the Christian religion is the revelation of truth, not merely for the intellect, but inward and vital, giving moral bearing and strength, and commending itself to the conscience, and not alone to the intellect.

New, Neat, Good

When you purchase a present for a friend, you insist that it shall be new and neat and good. Lacking any of these qualities a gift falls short in its mission.

At the Christmas season one does not care to buy at auction or at bargain sales. A shelf worn book at half its price will not do. A finger mark alone will mar a dainty gift.

Mere cheapness is no attraction to a generous giver—and there should be no other kind. Our strongest claim to your Christmas trade is the newness, the neatness and the quality of our goods.

You may buy a present here for 25c or for $75.00 as you choose, but in each case it is new, it is neat and it is good. On this ground we solicit your patronage.

THE SOUTHERN NEGRO TODAY.

THE GAZETTE hopes that everyone of its readers who is interested in American politics, in the broader sense, will read the article in The Outlook for November 30, on "The Negro: A Business Proposition," by Mr. J. M. F. Irwin of Chicago. Mr. Irwin, himself a Southerner, is using northern capital in the south in a peculiar way and one that has already accomplished marked results and promises much more for the future.

In the same number of The Outlook there is an editorial commenting upon two articles which recently appeared in the Richmond, (Va.) Times, and which may be said fairly to represent the two leading and opposite southern views at the present time of this most important subject.

The Outlook says:

TWO SOUTHERN VIEWS. The Times of Richmond, Va., contained in October two articles on the race problem in the south which represent very clearly the two contrasted views held on this subject by influential southern men. The first article was by Professor R. H. Dabney, of the University of Virginia. The gist of his article might be summed up in a sentence, thus: The education of the negro is to be discouraged because, in so far as it succeeds, it will fit him to become an industrial competitor with the white man, and thus industrial competition will be added to race antagonism.

These are the premises. And what are the logical conclusions? Evidently these: All lawful measures should be taken to remove any removable cause of economic, social, or political competition between the races. The bulk of the negroes should be disfranchised by means of property, poll-tax and educational qualifications; and for two reasons the whites should cease to support the free schools for the blacks—the first being that these schools do not give the negroes the proposed educational qualifications for suffrage, and the second that the schools tend to make some negroes idle and vicious, and others able to compete with the whites in occupations which the latter have determined to keep to themselves.

Professor C. E. Vawter has written a reply to Stenographer Dabney. Professor Vawter was an adjutant of Stonewall Jackson in the civil war. He is a thorough southerner by education, training, and lifelong residence. He represents the southern sentiment. He has no illusions respecting the negro race, and no doctrinaire belief that the negro is to be treated as though he possessed all the qualifications which it is possible he may acquire by education. He is also an experienced educator. He is superintendent of the Miller Manual Labor school at Crozet, Va., a school organized and maintained for the education of poor whites. It is one of the best organized, equipped, and administered schools that have ever existed in this article has ever seen, and he has visited a considerable number of such schools both in the United States and in England.

Professor Vawter holds that the negro came into possession of the ballot by the greatest fraud upon the Constitution that has ever been perpetrated in the history of our nation; that this fraud has "brought only sorrow and harm to the negro; it has retarded his progress; it has perverted his life; it has alienated his friends, strengthened his enemies, corrupted his honor, and given him hopes only to be dashed to the ground." But for this the negro is not responsible. The ballot was thrust upon him. He is not to blame for not knowing how to use it, but the whites who have been using it in the methods which have been used to counteract the negro vote. "I do not know," he says, "what is to become of the negro with the ballot in his hand, but I do know what is to become of the white man if he is to continue his ascendancy by the methods which have been used in his behalf. The ballot law ought to be changed, but the change should be dictated by justice, not by prejudice. The ballot law ought to be one that is clearly understood by all, that is self-executing, that bears equally and fairly upon all, and that does not contain any clause that will admit of juggling, or that will allow local political leaders to construct it one way for the white man and another way for the black man. "Fotting is not a right, it is a privilege. "But every citizen has an inherent and equal right to all the advantages offered by the state whereby he can attain unto this privilege." Professor Vawter believes that the Anglo-Saxon race is the superior race; but if it can maintain its superiority by depriving an inferior race of the benefits of the schools and of the privileges of fitting themselves for better citizenship and for the better and more intelligently and efficiently doing what they have to do, then the line that marks its downfall is already being traced in our near future. "The remedy, the remedy for race antagonism is not keeping the negro in ignorance; it is in intelligent and profitable labor. The crimes of which the negro is guilty are partly the result of his idleness, partly the result of his misguided education; but "the remedy will not be found in abolishing the schools, but in making them what they should be. . . . No state can long continue to educate and elevate one part of her citizens, and to leave at the bottom a great mass of ignorance, untrained, untaught, uncontrolled. They will fill our jails and penitentiaries, and will cost in the end far more than all their schools will ever do." Because the white race is at the top, it should set itself to elevate those who are below. Granting that injury has been done by misdirected education in some cases, by education so directed as to widen the breach between the races in other cases, nevertheless education has not been a failure. "It is only necessary to give unbiased, unprejudiced study to see that the result, on the whole, is good." It was a mistake to give the ballot first and endeavor to give education afterwards. Education should have been given first, and the south should have looked after and guided with care the education of the negro. The out of the schools incompetent teachers, should have prevented men from teaching the negro to hate the white race, and giving him false notions on the subject of social equality. It must take up this work now. "For long time at least we need our best southern white teachers for this work. They understand the negro best and love him most. We need teachers who have love for this work, teachers imbued with the spirit of the Great Teacher of Galilee—love for the lowly."

Nor does Mr. Vawter think that the education of the negro will create industrial war between the white and black races. His experience leads him to a different conclusion. "I have employed for years a great many skilled and common laborers, both white and black. I have never seen any exhibition of this spirit (of antagonism). I admit that it exists, but it exists far more in the north than in the south. In the north the negro is given the field of labor a far better show than in the north." He believes that the south is ready to give equal industrial opportunities to honest and skilled laborers of both races, and that to maintain and promote friendly relations between the two races is to teach them to live and labor in relations of mutual respect. Indeed, there is in his mind no question whether the negro shall be educated or not; the only question is whether he shall be educated with the cordial aid and co-operation of the southern whites or in spite of their apathy or their opposition. The serpent has already beguiled the negro, and he has eaten of the fruit of the tree of knowledge, and has found out that he is naked, and he is going to sew together fig leaves and clothe himself. . . . It will take an angel with a flaming sword to guard him from the fruit of the tree of the garden. As we have neither the sword nor the angel, we had better let him eat and live."

We here undertake only to report these two papers representing the two southern views. Our readers do not need to be told with which view The Outlook sympathizes. It is the right of every human being to receive the fullest development of which he is capable, whatever may be the result to others of such development. His right to become a man is an absolute right. It would be quite as legitimate to justify paralyzing his arms or putting out his eyes, lest he should imperil the industrial prosperity of his competitors, as to justify paralyzing or blinding his mind for the same reason. No industrial or social considerations can justify dwarfing a growing soul. We wish that the new southern educational commission could see its way clear to print these two papers in pamphlet form and circulate them widely throughout the south. Professor Dabney's would show southern people what is the conclusion to which a logical mind is inevitably brought if it adheres to the old slave premise that the negro must be kept a menial. Professor Vawter's paper would show what is the inevitable result of the premise of freedom, that every man is to have a fair opportunity to make what he can of himself and find his own place in the world. Professor Dabney's paper, in its assumption that the white race are afraid to enter into industrial competition with the negro, does the Anglo-Saxons a great injustice. Professor Vawter's paper, in the courageous spirit with which he welcomes freedom, but insists that capacity shall be proved before the responsibilities which capacity entails are thrust upon the individual, is based upon a fundamental principle of justice and equity. Professor Dabney's paper represents a new phase of the old slave spirit; Professor Vawter represents the spirit of the new south. Whoever studies without prejudice southern conditions today cannot doubt that the new spirit is more and more pervading the south; it is certain at no distant date to dominate the south absolutely.

To this the Gazette desires only to add that the wisdom of the north has come gradually to recognize that the only permanent satisfactory solution of the negro question in the south is one that is accomplished by the southern people. In the days following the great war it was natural that military force should be looked upon as the power to be invoked for the redress of evils and the furtherance of reform. The progress of reconstruction substituted constitutional amendment and federal legislation in place of bayonets, but the principle was the same. Lately we have come to see that this policy will not succeed. The reconstruction of the south must be a growth and not a compulsion. The attitude of the north should be one of sympathy, of help wherever possible, but it should not be one of reproof, of superiority or of force.

That progress is being made is unquestionable, in spite of much that might be alleged to the contrary.

That progress will be even more rapid and extensive in the future than it has been in the past is the belief of the majority of true Americans and the hope of them all.

PROGRESS IN IRRIGATION.

THE rapid growth of sentiment favorable to irrigation is most encouraging. The statement is made that there are now more eastern congressmen favorable to national appropriations for this purpose than the total congressional representation of the arid land states. However that may be, there is no doubt that the sentiment in favor of this enterprise is much more favorable than it has ever been before, and it has now received a further great encouragement from the reports of the secretaries of agriculture and of the interior, and from the message of President Roosevelt.

There is now every reason to believe that a well considered and reasonable plan, supported by the unanimous influence of the western states will receive enough eastern support to carry it through congress and give it a permanent place in the domestic policy of our government.

AMERICA LEADS THE WORLD.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Mr. Stead says his "Review of Reviews Annual," which is to be published next month, will be devoted "to the Americanization of the world," and will bear that title. "No movement now visibly in progress amongst us is so significant, none is fraught with such momentous issues," says Mr. Stead, "as the triumphant advance of the American to the first place among the leading nations of the world. The nineteenth century was the century of the British empire; the twentieth is the century of the American republic. The headship of the English speaking world passed with the century from the elder to the younger branch."

Mr. Stead has somewhat of a reputation for saying unusual things in a striking way, but what Mr. Stead says does not always "go," either in Great Britain, Europe or the United States.

The important thing, therefore, is not what Mr. Stead says about us, but the facts upon which he bases his opinion. The facts are sufficiently favorable to attract general attention and to cause renewed pride and a large amount of satisfaction in our own country. Americans do not care so much whether we "lead the world" or not, so long as we are able to secure our own prosperity and to pursue our own development without interference.

Possibly this indifference to outside opinion and this carelessness in regard to our exact position, internationally, may be one of our best qualifications for the position of leader of the world and the best evidence that we already occupy that position.

The rumor that the verdict of the court of inquiry is unfavorable to Admiral Schley is sufficient to set his partisans bubbling with excitement, and they are ready to go to any lengths to discredit the court and its verdict. We are not aware, on the other hand, that any one proposes to appeal to congress, or to make charges against Admiral Dewey and the other honorable members of the court if Admiral Schley is acquitted. All of which goes to show that the admiral's friends have shown themselves very strong partisans and frequently very lacking in good judgment. Whatever the result of the court's consideration may be, the great majority of Americans will accept it as conclusive and final. If it decides in Admiral Schley's favor, we shall all be glad that so prominent an American naval officer has been vindicated. If, on the other hand, the court shall decide against him, it will be entirely useless for his partisans to seek to discredit the verdict or to cast dishonor upon the members of the court. Admiral Schley will stand or fall in the popular estimation according to this verdict, and his friends as well as his enemies should make up their minds to this result.

An interesting article from the Chicago Record-Herald in regard to compulsory life insurance as it prevails in Germany was crowded out of Sunday's edition. It will be found in another column this morning.

Big Fire at the Loraine Ranch

A big fire seen from a distance on the Loraine ranch, 14 miles northeast of this city, at noon yesterday, is supposed to have destroyed the ranch-house. The ranch is a popular resort for Colorado Springs people in the summer time. The building which is believed to have been destroyed was a two-story frame structure of 13 rooms, which has practically been a summer hotel for some time.

The party which held a courting meet yesterday was within four miles of this city. Mr. Walker had heard nothing of the fire until informed of it last night by a Gazette reporter. He had not been out there for some time. The place is managed for him by Charles A. Rudisill. Mrs. Rudisill was at the ranch at the time of the fire. Others who are known to have been there are Charles Harris, William Wagner and a man named Anderson, besides a cook.

None of these men came to town after the fire and their friends are worried about them.

Big Crowds Went to Cripple Creek

The Short Line and Midland railroad handled over 3,000 passengers yesterday. Nearly 2,000 excursionists went up to Cripple Creek from Colorado Springs, most of them returning last night and a goodly number of Cripple Creek people visited this city for the day. The heavy travel was due to the rate war.

Instead of three regular morning trains the Short Line ran four. The first, early in the morning, was crowded. The second, at 8 o'clock, had five cars, all loaded, over 500 people being on this train. There was another at 10:37 and still another morning train after this. On the 10:37 train was the Primrose & Dockstader minstrel company in three special cars. The members of this famous organization were delighted with the scenery along the line.

The afternoon train to Cripple Creek was run in two sections. Many of the residents of the camp who came down in the morning went back on this train. All the trains out of camp on the Short Line were thronged.

The Midland also did a big business. All the regular trains were crowded. No further developments in the rate war were noted yesterday.

Cut off the End of Justice's Nose

No arrests have yet been made as the result of Saturday night's cutting affray at Roswell. The row occurred at a dance and two men were badly slashed, it is said, by a man named Mackey, a violinist.

The identity of the man who was most seriously injured was learned yesterday. He is Eli Justice and lives on the east side. He and a man named Taft were badly cut. They came down from Roswell after the affray and went to Robinson's drug store, where Charles Zohrist told them to see a physician. Justice met Dr. Estill who attended to his wounds.

The end of Justice's nose had been cut off by a razor, which is said to have been wielded by Mackey. There was also an ugly gash behind Justice's ear and his clothing had been cut in several places. Taft had his wrist cut while trying to separate Justice and Mackey while they were fighting.

WASHINGTON NEWS NOTES

Breezy Letter From the Gazette's Special Correspondent at the Capital.

WEST IS WELL REPRESENTED In Both Congressional Bodies--The Roosevelts Expected to Foster the "Washington Habit."

(Special Correspondence.) Washington, Dec. 5.—This is a session of congress in which the west should get its innings. The president himself a western man through several years of western experience, knows the needs of the west thoroughly and has given full expression concerning them in his first message to congress. It is slowly dawning on the east that the message devotes more space to irrigation, forestry and other kindred western matters than it does to ship-subsidy, international affairs or other matters more directly concerned with the east.

In addition to the personal interest the president takes in the west it will be noticed that the west is represented in the new congress by an infusion of new and vigorous blood. As a rule the new representatives in the senate and house are typical western men who have built up their fortunes by hard knocks and who understand fully what the west needs and are prepared to get it.

Colorado sends a new man to the senate in the person of the Hon. Patterson who should become a power in that body. He has lived in Colorado for 30 years, and the history of that state from territorial days to the present time has been almost entirely his own varying fortunes, politically and financially.

Montana sends two new men to the senate, Clark and Gibson. The biography of Senator Clark reads like a chapter from Monte Christo. A miner in the quartz mines of Central City, Colorado, in 1882; fighting Indians in 1887; later a business-man, banker and mine owner, and now one of the wealthiest men of the world. He is just at present engaged in developing the railroad facilities of the west and, as he subordinates politics to the welfare of his people, he can be counted upon as a power in the senate for western interests. His colleague Senator Gibson is also a pioneer. He drove the first flock of sheep into Montana in 1876 and helped open that rich state to the industry which has made it now the leading sheep-growing state in the west. He founded the city of Great Falls, Montana, and is in every sense a type of the successful business man.

Nebraska's two new senators are also products of the west. Senator Dietrich was one of the "Black Hills" men of 1876 and helped open that rich region. Later he was a pioneer in the farming development of Nebraska. Senator Millard has been a resident of Omaha for over 40 years and has seen that city grow from a straggling village to one of the finest business centers of the west.

Senator Kearns of Utah, is another hardy son of the west who has carved a place and name in the world with his own hands. As freighter, miner, rancher and prospector, he has learned what the west requires and is prepared to assist in securing it. Representative Sutherland of Utah, takes his seat in the house a new member. He is conversant with western conditions, having been in active practice at the Salt Lake City bar for nearly twenty years. With this infusion of young and vigorous life into the national congress and with a president alive to the interests of the west a new era of development may be confidently expected.

Had President McKinley lived it is certain that much would have been done by him for the west at this session of congress. To numerous western men he expressed his gratification of what he saw during his visit to the Pacific coast and on his trip across the continent. Especially was he impressed with the possibilities of irrigation and it is certain he would have recommended in the strongest terms the adoption of a policy of national aid had he been permitted to live to make recommendations to the 57th congress.

Next to the importance of a president being a good president, the Washington people consider it chiefly important that he be a good society man and have a following of wealthy and socially influential friends. The social propensities of the Roosevelts are the subject of more than casual curiosity. It is realized that they may mean millions will go on down the list of the prominent Republican members of the house who dominate its policies in legislation.

Several of the new western senators will build residences in Washington. Senator Clark of Montana has razed the old Stewart castle to the ground, and its site on Dupont Circle is now available for the handsome residence he contemplates building. Senator Clark, when he builds, will be a neighbor of Mr. Thomas F. Walsh, of Colorado, who is building what will be the most palatial residence in the city. Mr. Walsh's residence will be architecturally beautiful, as well as costly. In this respect it will present a sharp contrast to some of the expensive residences now building in Washington. One of these is the house of General Corbin. The architecture of his new home at the intersection of Twenty-second and R streets resembles nothing so much as a penitentiary, with its small iron-barred windows, the hideous lines of its walls, and total lack of artistic conception. The residence of the Patten family, while very large, is one of the barest, coldest and most uninviting houses from the outside in the city. It is a real disgrace to have an aristocracy contrived by the member of the family who has just married General Corbin.

The president's wife is exceedingly annoyed by the persistent curiosity of sight-seers these days. One day recently she made the Capital city the winter social center of the country while they are at the White house. And this will be reflected, if the experts are correct in their deductions, in a continuance of the editors of the Washington real estate market.

It is said that Miss Bell Hagner, private secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt, is becoming exceedingly unpopular with some of the women newspaper writers of Washington. The matter has assumed such formidable shape that a boycott is threatened to be placed upon the editorials of the newspapers, and that in the future the great American daily press will have scant news from that news-producing center. Miss Hagner is reported to be somewhat lacking in tact, and is said to show sufficient consideration for the women writers who go to the White house, not because they want to, but because the editors of their papers instruct them to do so.

She is a charming young woman, noted for business-like methods, but this is her first experience in standing before a hungry horde of newspaper-gatherers and the social throne at the White house, and she has not done all things as she should. The insatiable craving of certain journals for personal news, which would lead to the questioning of the principals concerning their most private affairs, deserves to be suppressed, and the president's extreme limit on newspaper correspondents are only obeying orders, and disagreeable ones at that.

First Assistant Secretary of State Hill has barricaded his door against newspaper "boys." He has so arranged matters that they can not even gain entrance to the portals of his house. The push button of the door bell is located in the vestibule, and the outside doors are tightly locked; therefore, when the eagle-eyed and argumentous slouts of the daily press are detailed to see the mighty first assistant, they are prevented from gaining access to this great man or even to the flunkies who wear his livery.

A great many people in Washington, among them many of the visiting statesmen, regret the closing of "Chamberlain's." This famous restaurant and refreshment parlor, which was famous for its rich in humor and popularity, but it never had for a manager any one with selfishness enough to collect his dues. The incident, recorded on the books of "Chamberlain's" would make a modern fortune. John Chamberlain, famous for the world over, was "easy." Any one could beat him. In fact, he liked nothing so much as to beat himself. One night, well-beloved Colonel Dick Winterboth was delivered of a particularly brilliant witticism, and Chamberlain at once opened his eyes, and in a moment was signing his delight. "This was the witticism: A couple of strangers had taken a table and were guessing at what they wanted for dinner. One said: 'You know the thing I like best of all is sirloin steak with smothered onions, but I am going to Wanamaker's reception later, and my breath—' whereupon Colonel Dick left his seat, walked over to the hesitating stranger, and said in his most fatherly way: 'Never mind that, my friend, eat all the onions you want, John Chamberlain will take your breath away.' Dear old John could hardly contain himself for joy. Hon. Tim Campbell was then talking of coming to Washington, promising to reopen Chamberlain's, and if he does, he will accumulate a fortune of unpaid accounts. He will receive a cordial welcome.

The formation of new committees will absorb more of the attention of the senate during the coming two weeks than will matters of legislation. The senate committees are organized by a committee on committees and the selection of this committee is in the hands of the Republican steering committee of the senate, which in other words is Senators Frye, Allison and Aldrich. This committee on committees is now in course of formation, and when completed it will reorganize the various standing and special committees of the senate. As many of the older members have gone out of the senate, and as there have been several deaths the changes in committee membership and in chairmanships will be many. For instance, on the important committee on territories Senators Shoup, Carter, Thurston and Towne have gone out of the senate, and have fallen in the election, and Senator Kyle died during the summer recess. This leaves but Senators Sewell, Beveridge and Dillingham, all eastern men, as the majority members of the committee. Friends of Senator Clark of Wyoming are suggesting his selection as chairman. Senator Clark was the delegate in congress from Wyoming when that territory was admitted to statehood. He is familiar with conditions in the remaining territories and at this particular time, when New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma are seeking statehood, his services would be particularly valuable as the head of this committee.

Changes in the house committees will be comparatively few. "Uncle Joe" Cannon will still hold the key to the treasury as chairman of the house appropriation committee. From that Postoffice New York will continue at the head of the ways and means committee and control whatever legislation may be introduced affecting the revenue of the government. Mr. Burton of Ohio, as chairman of the river and harbor committee, will continue to oppose irrigation for the west. Mr. Hull of Iowa will again be chairman of military affairs, and thus it

Alleged Poker Game in Electric Plant

Four men were arrested by the police last night for alleged gambling at the electric light plant on Cucharas street. The men are said to have been playing poker there.

The police were given a "tip" that a gambling game was under way at the electric light plant and about 10:30 last night Captain Fair, Detective Dayton and Officer Bennett went quietly to the place. They listened outside and say they heard what sounded very much like: "It's up to you," "I'll raise you twenty," and "It's your pot."

The blue coats broke in the door of the office, where the game was being played, and took the last pot.

The police say the banker was "cashing in" when they appeared on the scene. There was no money in sight, but the officers took possession of a pile of chips and the players.

The prisoners were Charles Fairley, William Johnson, A. M. Smith and S. P. Manley. They were ordered to appear in police court at 9 o'clock this morning.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR AT ITS WORK

By Associated Press. Scranton, Pa., Dec. 8.—Many delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor now in session in this city, did not cease their activity despite the fact that this was Sunday, the day being given up to the transaction of committee business. The executive council was in session for several hours, but nothing was given out for publication.

W. D. Mahon of Detroit, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees, was in frequent conference with local labor leaders who are directing the street car strike in this city. It is probable that Mr. Mahon and President Mitchell of the Amalgamated Association and the executive council will take charge of the strike.

A delegation from the Allied Building Trades of Philadelphia, arrived here during the day and held an interview with Mr. Mahon on the street railway situation in that city, where a strike is said to be among the probabilities of the near future. The conferees desired a plan of conciliation by which an attempt will be made to bring together the Amalgamated Association and the rival organization known as the Philadelphia Street Railway Employees association.

The Metal Trades Federation held another meeting and discussed plans for perfecting the organization. Nine of the 15 eligible metal unions in the United States were represented.

The American Federation of Labor convention will remain in session for the next six days. Probably the most vital question that will come before the convention is that of trade autonomy. The brewery workmen and the mine workers' delegates probably will be the storm center on this question. Both of these trade unions want industrial autonomy, that is they advocate that all trades in one industrial establishment should form one organization for the better advancement of the condition of all. They also announce they will oppose trade autonomy to the bitter end.

Nearly a dozen resolutions on the matter of the exclusion of Chinese from the United States and island possessions are in the hands of a special committee. This committee probably will report one resolution embodying the good points of all of them. It will be adopted along with one commending President Roosevelt for advocating in his annual message the continued exclusion of Chinamen. There has been no development in the Gompers-Mitchell-Shaffer controversy which grew out of the strike. Diligent inquiry failed to confirm the rumor that the matter will be threshed out on the floor of the convention. The principals of the affair maintain absolute silence, but the close friends of each side express confidence as to the outcome if the controversy is thrust upon the delegates.

At this time it seems reasonably certain that all the present officers of the federation will be re-elected.

Among the cities that have entered the convention for the next place of meeting are Los Angeles and San Francisco. Portland, Ore., wants the convention in 1905, the year of their exposition.

FAMINE RELIEF MEASURES UNDERTAKEN BY RUSSIA

(Correspondence Associated Press.) St. Petersburg, November 22.—The ministry of the interior yesterday issued another statement about the famine. Five and a half million pounds of winter grain and 3,000,000 of summer grain has been purchased and forwarded to the needy districts. The total amount of grain given as exceeding 16,000,000 pounds for which 10,000,000 roubles has been expended. The entire famine fund so far disposable is 213,258 roubles. The original estimate of grain to relieve the famine districts are now found to be excessive and they have consequently been reduced in a number of cases. Petitions for earlier proclamation of famine from Asiatic Russia were received from 27 districts and were granted in 22.

Private reports which have appeared in the press from time to time are not nearly as optimistic as the governmental. Hunger and disease have been reported more prevalent than the ministry of the interior admits.

In addition to direct help for the famine districts, indirect has been granted in several forms. Workmen traveling to public works will enjoy the moderate emigrant rates and materials needed for the works as well as grain will be distributed at greatly reduced tariffs.

The emperor has just sanctioned the beginning of preliminary work on the two great railroads Petersburg-Viatka and Bolegoye-Sieditz. The latter is a strategic road leading to the western frontier. Many workmen from the famine districts will find employment in clearing the right of way of these roads.

LYMAN J. GAGE, Secretary of the Treasury, is one of a long list of distinguished men and women who will contribute to

SUCCESSFUL TEST OF NEW DYNAMITE GUN

By Associated Press. Savannah, Ga., Dec. 8.—The test of the new pneumatic dynamite gun at Hilton Head, S. C., yesterday under the auspices of a board of army officers, is believed to have been satisfactory. Major Ira McNutt of the ordnance department, was chief officer of the board. The gun is at the entrance to Port Royal harbor, which it commands. It was shown that the gun has a range of 6,000 yards. Eight projectiles loaded with explosive gelatine were fired. Six of them exploded upon impact and threw columns of water into the air. Two were fixed with time fuses. If they were exploded it was at such a depth under water that there was not any disturbance discernible. The explosive charges ranged from 50 to 200 pounds of nitro gelatine. Five dummies were fired to test the speed. The government required that they should be discharged in 20 minutes. The time taken to fire them was ten and one-half minutes. Forty dummies of 180 pounds each were then fired as an endurance test. There was no hitch.

he comes in contact with; and through his eyes the hero of the book is united to the heroine, and all ends happily. The characters are well drawn, the scenes logically arranged and the utmost deference is paid to the dramatic aspects of the narrative, yet with that restraint exercised which keeps it from being too melodramatic. One is not surprised that it has made a good play—the dramatization of the story now holds the boards at the Criterion in New York.

From the commendation which has been passed on the book itself, one may wonder why it is already doomed to pass into oblivion. The reason lies in the fact that it is not so good as the works of the Dumas, and even those are not so popular as they once were. The book is like a brilliant flash which startles and demands the attention of the reading public; but in Dumas one finds the steady and enduring flame. There is all the brilliancy of Miss Rankin's work in "The Count of Monte Cristo" and a great deal more besides.

GOD WILLS IT.

God Wills It. A tale of the first crusades. By William Stearns Davis, New York, The Macmillan Co. 12 mo. $1.50.

When "A Friend of Caesar" appeared something over a year ago it was at once recognized that a writer of considerable power had come forward. For historical accuracy and romantic flavor the book was quite remarkable. In Mr. Davis' second book these qualities are even more conspicuous. "God Wills It" is a romance of so much raised to a very high level; but it emphasizes more clearly than any book which has been published in a long time the great difference between the real and the ideal. With a wealth of detail almost appalling, the author has pictured the times which witnessed the greatest religious war of history; but the very minuteness of his knowledge and over-weighted the romance and left the book the work of an erudite, rather than of a story teller. Not that there is no story, for there is one, and very interesting it is, in a way. Mr. Davis is too skillful to neglect that important side of historical romance making, and has manufactured a plot and created characters with the carefulness of a trained craftsman.

The story opens with the death of Pope Gregory when he arouses his followers to take oath to free the Holy City from Moslem rule, and the stirring battle cry which furnishes the book with its name is given by the dying man. The story then follows the fortunes of Richard Longsword through his contests with his private enemies, his love for Mary Kurkus, the Greek and his part in the war against the enemies of Christianity. The scenes are laid in France, Italy, Sicily, Syria and Palestine, and the characters include Frenchmen, Italians, Spaniards, Egyptians and Turks. There is an especially vicious incident in the person of an Egyptian who abducts Longsword's bride; and an especially lovable incident in the person of a Moor who is Richard's life-long friend, whom he finally slays by mistake. There are many dramatic scenes in the book, and the movement of the crusade is well managed, leaving a clear impression at the end.

In writing this story, the author has deliberately challenged a comparison with Sir Walter Scott, and one only has to go to Ivanhoe to see how far "God Wills It" falls below greatness. Too much is told, the narrative is constantly overburdened with detail which weakens both the dramatic movement of the story and the atmosphere in which it is laid. The best work in the book is a description of a medieval tourney and the great fight between Longsword and Louis de Valmont. This is worth reading over more than once. It is vivid and convincing, and compares favorably with much of the great Scotchman's work.

Mr. Davis' style is very forcible, a fitting vehicle for describing the relentless war and bloodshed of the times. In his manner of telling the story he has shown himself the same diligent student; but here also is lacking the fire and originality and power of using a few and effective means instead of a preponderance of effects which is probably the only quality of the book which prevents its from being a great one.

THE PINES OF LORY.

The Pines of Lory. By J. A. Mitchell, New York, Life Publishing Co. 12 mo. $1.50.

Here is a story pure and simple. There are no problems, no historical unities to observe or ignore, no scamy sides of life to portray, no obtuse moods to analyze; but only a genuine, interesting, refreshing bit of love story to tell; and it is told in as delightful a way as the author could tell it. "Amos Judah" and "Conchita," the wholesome and sturdy story of a small boy in "Gloria Victis." Mr. Mitchell is the editor of "Life" and it is to be expected that he would bring to the telling of a story humor and quaint fancy; and so he has.

In "The Pines of Lory" a girl and a man are the chief characters—the girl is lovely and fresh as the heroine of a love story should be; and the man, just back from the Boer war, with enough audacity and dash about him to make him interesting. Indeed, he is a little too audacious at first, and wins the story's hearty disapproval. But when they are landed by mistake on a deserted island, instead of a summer resort where they had both been bound, and they find themselves alone together in a house of mystery, they soon discover that they like each other pretty well. Their life here, among the pines, is an idyll, as the author tells us, even though the reader be inclined to question the situation. The interest never lags, and the story is brought to just such a conclusion as a romantic love story should have. The book cannot brag much depth; but it is told with such a light touch, so much sympathy and gaiety and flashes of humor that it is bound to interest anyone who has got a heart.

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

Israhel Putnam. By William Farrand Livingston, New York, G. P. Putnam's Sons. 12mo $1.50.

As the fourth number in their "American Men of Energy" series the Putnam's have just issued an intimate biography of "Israhel Putnam," treating of his great man as pioneer, ranger and major-general. His career is traced from childhood to his last days with great sympathy and the care with which the biography has been prepared is evident throughout, especially, as it treats of the campaigns in which he fought with which General Putnam was connected. The stirring life of the many young fellow is full of romance and inspiration, reading as easily as a story. Mr. Livingston has been especially successful in making his hero's personality very clear and striking, and the account of his relations with his relations with his family and friends makes him very real to the reader, and even more of a hero than he has descended to posterity in the ordinary run of histories.

The leading article in the December Atlantic is a discussion of expansion policy, written by the late Mr. Ball Osborne. Referring to President McKinley's last address Mr. Osborne continues with a brief resume of former reciprocity measures, and surveys the present foreign expansion cannot long continue without meeting vigorous opposition from foreign governments, unless we disarm such opposition in advance by means of reciprocity.

Many a popular name is a misnomer, but hardly any are more glaringly so than those of Judge Lynch and Lynch law as applied to the "Thomas W. Egerton" and the original Judge Lynch was a peaceable, law-abiding citizen and patriotic soldier of the revolution, who in his later years was a successful merchant. The name of "Judge Lynch" is a misnomer, and the name of "Lynch law" is a misnomer. The name of "Lynch law" is a misnomer, and the name of "Lynch law" is a misnomer.

Ernest Newman discusses Maeterlinck and his music, and compares the results with the musical dramas of Wagner.

Miss Johnston's "Audrey" increases in force and interest with every issue. Susan Lawrence and Margaret L. Knapp furnish powerful and interesting short stories.

The December Era offers a rich and varied selection of timely articles, stories and poems, which, taken in connection with the regular features, make up the best number yet issued of this magazine. There is no wonder that the Era has forged ahead and is now one of the most extensively quoted monthly publications in this country.

In the Christmas number of Lippincott's Magazine there appears a completed novel by Louis Evan Shipman, the author of "D'Arcy of the Guards." As a compliment to his hero, the title is "Raith Tarant." There is the same sparkle and spirit so much admired in the author's earlier book, while in plot this may be said to out-distance its predecessor. The present member of a fine old Virginia family, goes pleasuring to Paris, where he at once loses his heart to a beauty, Lady Anne Bevis. Unfortunately, a married man, he has been arranged between the lady and her cousin, Hilaire d'Albret. The dauntless Tarant determines to win her in spite of it; and out of this Mr. Shipman makes his brilliant novel.

In addition to the complete novel there are many short stories in the Christmas Lippincott's; one of these is the latest in the history of the sea by Cyrus Townsend Brady. It is called "The Captain of H. B. M. Ship Diamond Rock." It is as stirring as anything the magazine has ever published, and tells how a seaman commanded a fortified rock.

"The Unfinished Elegy," by Karl Edwin Harriman, is a pathetic Christmas story about a musician.

A charming sort of "Alice in Wonderland" story is contributed by a young Englishwoman, E. Aytton. It is entitled "The Little Gate of Fairyland." Paul Laurence Dunbar's story, called "The Visiting of Mother Danbury" continues his series of tales about types of our country people. The tragic scenes.

The Christmas number of The Century is, if anything, handsomer than the November number. The cover design, by J. C. Leyendecker, is a holding aloft the infant Jesus—is printed in eight colors on a creamy background; and the frontispiece is one of four full-page pictures, in tints, by Maxfield Parrish, accompanying the text of Milton's "L'Allegro." Following this comes a paper on "Christmas in France," by Mme. Th. Pentzon, with drawings of children by the artist's pen. One of the greatest of living artists in the presentation of the characteristics of childhood. This precedes a poem by Anita Fitch, "The Christmas Eve," our full-page decorative designs in tint by Orson Lowell. Then follows "The Mystery Play: Christmas at the Cross-Roads Farm" by Elizabeth C. Chubb, with designs by Charlotte Harding. "The Christmas Angel," a poem by Clinton Scollard, is accompanied by a full-page drawing, in tint, by Miss Armstrong. "Christmas Eve: Fantasy," consists of a title-page in tint, and two large illustrations in black and white, by A. J. Keller; and Miss "Thomas" poem, "How the Christmas Tree was Brought to Nonesuch," has a double page and smaller designs in tint by Jules Guerin. Pictures by Frederic Remington, and maps, illuminate the text of the second of Emerson's "The Great West," which deals especially with the "up-stream" movement of the pioneers.

Junk. Verses, pathetic and otherwise; mostly Lotherport. By Leon Lemport, Jr., instigator. Boston: C. M. Clark Publishing Co.

"Junk" is described as "a book to stagger sorrow," which may be true, if the sorrow is of the timid kind. It is a large book, with plenty of caricatures in red ink and rhymes of considerable merit. Mr. Lempert has proved himself clever and diverting, and his verses may be read with more or less enjoyment. As a special holiday pleasure, the stanza from the poem, "Peter Stuyvesant" will suffice. The barrels which were to be used as barricades when the English came to attack New Amsterdam were found empty of ball; but then Peter cried: "Go get your fraus, and every able man. Und soon the able barricades So quickly like you can." And soon the able burghers With their wives and children smasmyed Sat down to drink the insides out Of Peter's barricade.

MAGAZINES

The Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine is especially notable for charming fiction and novel and effective art features. The old-fashioned Christmas story does not prevail, but in its place has come the story of "The Old Harbor," a story of delicate sentiment, wit and humor. The best work of the best writers is used in these special numbers rather than Christmas tales written to order. In this number appear such authors as Thomas Nelson Page, F. Hopkinson Smith, William Henry Bishop and Arthur Cosslett Smith.

Artistically, the Christmas number contains many effective features. Maxfield Parrish, who has a place of his own among artists as a designer in color, furnishes the beautiful Christmas cover and the illustrations in black and white to accompany one of the stories.

Castaing, whose work is always full of vigor and imagination, illustrates a romantic episode in the career of Cleopatra—accompanying a poem by Benjamin Paul Blood, author of "The Lion and the Lamb," these are printed in color and are probably the most effective illustrations in that method which have appeared in this magazine.

A stirring sea-story by A. W. Vorse, "The Sinking of a Pirate Ship," is illustrated by Reuterbach. It narrates how a burning ship was saved in New York harbor.

Thomas Nelson Page, who knows the South by intimate experience in a delightful romantic vein the characteristics of "An Old Virginia Sunday," as it was kept in his boyhood, Clinedinst sympathetically illustrates the scene. There is a witty and satirical tale, full of amusing dialogue, by Eleanor Stuart. The scene is laid in provincial France. It is humorously illustrated by Gluckens.

stone cast at her by virtuous and unvirtuous alike. Mr. Kyle stated that he had endeavored to play his part with all the power and convincing force of which he was capable and that he had received numerous letters from unfortunate women thanking him for the revelation of the fact that such a man existed on earth; and this play, to the Savannah divine is immortal,—one to be classed with the salacious plays which from time to time, are staged. "The truth is," Mr. Kyle said, "it is not the vicious plays that ever endure. They may have a little temporary success, but the success soon fades, while plays like 'Tip Van Winkle,' 'The Old Home-stead' and 'Way Down East' live in the affections of the people."

When so much good might come, in these days, from a closer union between the pulpit and stage, it is a pity that ministers should take the short-sighted, unintelligent stand of Van Deventer and his kind. It only embitters the one forced to witness "The Sky Farm," while "Way Down East" itself has secured the hearty approval of the broad-minded clergy. Be the inartistic aspects of "The Christian" what they may, there is small doubt of its good effect; while reports from those who have seen "The Sky Farm" pronounce it to be one of the most beautiful of American melodramas.

The Reverend Charles Casson of the First Unitarian church, Revere, said of the play: "Edwin Holt is at present one of the most effective preachers in Boston, and 'Neighbor Nixon' makes an ideal assistant pastor. It is the very summit of achievement to be able to preach for two hours and a half to a congregation that pays for the privilege of attendance." Holt is playing the part of "Rev. Milo Towers, who asks little and receives less." Rev. R. A. Beard, of Cambridge, said of the play: "The showing up of such a character as that of the man whose nails are beautifully manicured, but whose mortal aint's a piece of work which will stand repeating indefinitely, while the statement of Neighbor Nixon, 'I own myself,' expresses an independence that must be the final resort for the solution of our public questions."

Probably this play is not unlike "The Christian" in its inartistic aspects, but they can be tolerated because it is that kind of a play which is bringing nearer the time when, as Rev. Casson said, "the pulpit and the stage, the student and the artist, the preacher and the actor, will unite their forces for the moral uplifting of the world." The crudities of the play will be gradually overcome.

"Neighbor Nixon, by the way, is being played by Forrest Robinson, who made such a favorable impression here last winter in 'Sag Harbor.' He took the morose part in that play with great ability, and he is rapidly winning his laurels in the present impersonation, which is a much more congenial one."

This will be a rather eventful week in musical and dramatic circles. Considerable interest is being taken in the evening of opera which Mr. Crampton has arranged for Tuesday evening, and which has been spoken of before in these columns. The indications are that there will be a large audience to hear "Hansel and Gretel" in the Antlers ball room. Another event of the week is the engagement of Andrew Robson in "Richard Carvel" which was very favorably received in Denver last week. The play is the first of the popular novel dramatizations which have been flooding the eastern stage to reach Colorado. As a romantic actor Andrew Robson is said to be as good as O'Neill. There is in addition another minstrel troupe due here, this time the well-known Primrose and Dockstader, while the melodrama "For Her Sake" is billed for Thursday night.

tion in book form it was the most popular romance in the United States. Although it furnishes a good example of what advertising can do in these days, it asserts for itself a certain quality without which no amount of advertising could have made it sell. The story deals with one of the most interesting periods in French history—that just preceding the ascension to the throne of Henry of Navarre, and the rapidly moving plot of broil and intrigue, revealed in a style at once polished and sprightly, almost entirely conversational, with the action compressed into four days. It made an appeal to everyone who loves a story for the story's sake.

The narrative is in the first person—the narrator being a stable-boy in the service of one of Henry's supporters. Felix comes up to Paris and from the day of his arrival he becomes involved in plot and counter-plot which succeed one another with breathless haste. When the action lags for a moment, there is a brilliant conversation going on; or in the explanations of Felix himself there is a plausibility of manner which is highly entertaining. The boy is Fate all the way through the book, changing the fortunes of the great men

MARKET LETTERS

BONBRIGHT & CO.'S MARKET LETTER December 6, 1901. The important dividend announcements of the week were made by Elkton and El Paso, as the result of meetings held by those companies on Tuesday last. The Elkton directors raised the quarterly rate to four cents, and the El Paso company declared its first dividend at a rate of one cent per share, which will mean a dividend of $24,250 to stockholders on Christmas day. The action of both companies was generally anticipated, and had been freely advised in these letters during the past few months. It is understood that the Elkton company will have something like $250,000 left in its treasury after the disbursement of the $100,000 dividend. The rate of interest on the increase in the rate is intended to be a permanent one. Elkton has paid over $1,200,000 in dividends, and the property appears to be in condition for larger production than ever before. Recent developments in the property have added extensive ore reserves, especially in the seventh level, where strikes were made in both the south and north drifts. Another source of income should arise from the immense dump of the Elkton, which has been leased or practically sold. The leasees agree to remove the dump in the next few months, and pay $1.50 per ton for rock, respectively of its value in gold. This should net the company a handsome amount, and goes far to show the value in the dumps of Cripple Creek, which will all be worked when treatment charges at mills and smelters are lowered sufficiently to permit the work to be done at profit.

L. E. HILL'S MARKET LETTER Colorado Springs, Dec. 7, '01. In preceding letters I have dwelt somewhat upon the melancholy causes of our present depression, and while not infrequently the blame for loss may be traced to unscrupulous advisers, it is also true that investors who are careful in ordinary business ventures seem to throw caution to the winds when they approach mining stocks. And yet, there are rules, of a kind, for guidance in this field as well as in the usual walks of business life, and if I can but bring my readers to a serious consideration of a few fundamental principles of mining as an industry, I shall have done them a genuine service. The value of stocks is at all times a vexed question. In the ante-productive stage of a mine, it is a special problem, but with several known quantities to assist in the solution. There is, for example, the capitalization, by which we may know among how many shares the value of the property is divided. Then comes a consideration of the means to the disposal of a corporation to enable it to carry on the search for ore. Next perhaps, one should consider the grounds for hope that with a given expenditure, ore in pay quantities may be found, remembering always, that the odds are heavily against finding it. But more important still, in my judgment, is the character of those to whom the affairs of the corporation are entrusted. Furthermore, the value of a prospect decreases in direct ratio to the amount of production developed, for by just so much, ordinarily, is the adverse chance increased. These items ought to assist one in estimating a fair price for the gamble. With the discovery of mineral in profitable amounts, the investor has to face an almost strictly business proposition. In the case of a mine, the revenue is not only interest but sinking fund as well, and that there should be also a substantial compensation for the risk attaching to this particular industry. At this point experience becomes the way. Careful mining operators try to get principal and interest out in five years, which is more than the average life of a mine, and they make their calculations accordingly. One fairly well opened, with air drills and great hoisting plants, the heart can easily be taken out of a mine in five years. This is particularly true of Cripple Creek properties and ample evidence could be adduced to demonstrate it by citing numerous properties once as full of promise as any now flourishing, but now extinct. It is the vanity of human wishes. It is my opinion, therefore, that one is paying a high price for a mining stock when the dividend rate is such as to pay all the cost of the investment in less than eight or ten years, no matter what stories he may hear about better dividends that might be paid. It is safe to assume that a property is paying all it can afford. For the man distant from the scene of operations to hope to make money in this business he should not buy without serious investigation a stock that pays less than 15 or 20 per cent on the purchase price, and part with it when the price rises to a point where the interest is low. No mine is inexhaustible, and ore does not grow.

RAMSAY C. BOGY'S MARKET LETTER Denver, Dec. 7, 1901. A steady decline has been the story of the market this week, the drop being more radical during the first days. Trading, too, has grown lighter, while there is not much to be done which will derive immediate comfort for those who are looking for improved conditions, the fact is that the market is a shade better than it was the opening of the week. Selling orders are not so pressing, and they will probably become less so as those who are in the field for quick turns swallow their impatience and lay their bets on the more permanent advantage that is sure to come eventually. With readjustment on the lower basis and new clientele brought in through the manifest improvement of Cripple Creek properties and the more intelligent advertising that is going on in the East—with these should come recuperation. We do not look for early improvement, but sooner or later an advance will come, and those who have made careful selection of stocks for long holds will undoubtedly reap handsome profits from them. The five recent years of the continued and improved prosperity of Cripple Creek mines, also the enlarged scope of the exchange in receiving on its lists new outside properties of recognized standing, such as our Calera in Mexico. A movement unique in the annals of mining markets is now being urged at Colorado Springs for the greater exploitation of Cripple Creek. It is the suggestion of President Donaldson that an Exchange Development company be organized for the purpose of exploring the less known hills in the Cripple Creek district, the stockholders to be men who are interested in the camp. There are promising sections on the outskirts of the district where development shafts might prove of inestimable importance and greatly enlarge the producing radius of the camp. It is a philanthropic movement, and should be encouraged.

DELANY & DELANY'S MARKET LETTER Dec. 7, 1901. If the distribution of large dividends and correspondingly heavy gold output from the Cripple Creek district does not stimulate prices, it is hard to see what will. The Elkton's increase of its regular dividend from three to four cents per share, and the declaration of its initial dividend by the El Paso, would seem to favor a higher level of prices, but the reverse appears to be the result. The fear that the market is over-burdened with too many low-priced stocks. It seems to us if mining stocks are to receive any substantial support from the public, the many companies with small mineral areas will have to unite with other contiguous territory, thereby placing their stock on a higher plane, and relieving at the same time the congested state of the stock market. The time is come when the investor wants quality, and not quantity. Imagine, if you will, what a ludicrous spectacle our stock market must present when quotations go out to the world, of shares of stock selling at the ridiculous price of one-tenth of a cent per share, being equivalent to 12 cents per dozen. One might imagine how much prestige such a state of affairs will add to the exchange, and the mining business generally. Does not every investor who owns the "opera comique" to behold trading in shares with quotation values not in excess of the price of a dozen of eggs. It would be useless to attempt to tabulate all the mistakes and blunders made within the past ten years in the Cripple Creek stock business, and it is not our object to attempt a portrayal of them. What we do desire, however, is to inculcate in all an active and earnest desire to improve and better

STATE MINING

CLEAR CREEK COUNTY.

The Good Enough company opened a very promising streak of ore in the drift on the Gold King vein last Saturday, and the improvement which it has since made indicates that it has come to stay. They have about eight inches of solid ore, carrying a large percentage in lead, and good values in gold and silver. The lode has been getting in better shape during the last few days of drifting, and showing more or less ore, so that it should not be surprising that a good streak should make its appearance. The surface outcrop on this vein ahead of the breast of the drift indicates a strong pocket of ore, and the drift is now probably just entering it. Milton L. Chapman, president of the company, was up from Denver Sunday, and took home with him from the new strike a fine chunk of ore weighing about 40 pounds. The Gold King group is one of the best prospective propositions on Griffith mountain.

The new streak of ore in the breast of the Scopter tunnel level on the Red Oak property is now reported to be from three to four feet wide of solid and mixed ore. The stopes are looking very good, and the mill is running satisfactorily. Most of the men at the mine came down off from the hill to spend Thanksgiving.

Boyd, Des Moines & Co. are pushing development work in the Union tunnel of the Terrible mine, and are taking out considerable good ore. With proper development and by driving the tunnel ahead to the Silver Coin, Glasgow and other veins in the group which have proven so rich in the upper workings, the Terrible will again be one of the best producers in this district.

THE LUCANIA TRANSPORTATION, TUNNEL, MINING AND DRAINAGE COMPANY WAS INCORPORATED DURING THE PAST WEEK. THE DIRECTORS ARE W. W. Kirby, Joseph P. Lilly, C. H. Dudley, Herbert A. Riedel, John M. Kirby, William Barnes, Joseph A. Wright; capital stock, $2,500,000; to do a general mining, milling and smelting business, chiefly in Clear Creek and Gilpin counties; principal offices at Colorado Springs.—(Georgetown Courier.)

CREEDE DISTRICT.

The Humphreys mill appears larger and more complicated with each day's work, to one not acquainted with such gigantic operations. But it is fast nearing completion and when completed we will give a thorough description of the mill together with a large cut of the building. A person not visiting the plant has no conception of the magnitude of the mill and the car load upon car lots of machinery that is there and fast being put in place. The perfect net work of belting and shafting that has to be placed exact to the smallest fraction of an inch requires men of ability, judgment and experience and such men the company have secured to do the work. Mr. Raymond Whinnerah, the general superintendent of the entire mill, is conceded by all mining men to be the ablest man in the west and his work upon this mill substantiates it. He has had no little experience in mill building however, for he has erected most of the largest mills in this state. The Humphreys Co. are very fortunate in securing his supervision of the erection of this immense concentration mill. The mill is gigantic in every sense of the word and is the pride of the camp. We will publish the full account of the mill together with the cut in our New Year's write-up, if not sooner.—(Creede Candler.)

SILVERTON DISTRICT.

A close corporation consisting of Chicago men only is working the North Star mine on Silverton mountain. The North Star has already produced over two million dollars in gold, silver, lead and copper, and was worked only for silver. It was this mine that in the opinion of many made Silverton. Like many other mines, it was closed down when silver slumped.

John C. O'Neill, the Chicago mining man and brother of Arthur O'Neill, came to the San Juan district about six months ago and saw that Tom Walsh was working the great Camp Bird mine for gold as well as silver and lead. He also saw that the San Juan, Gold King, Sunnyside and Iowa, all great producers, were being mined for gold as well as for silver and lead. After examining the great mines of the San Juan mining district, he was convinced that the San Juan mining belt was a greater mineral belt than that of Cripple Creek. He found greater ore bodies and better values in any mining district in the United States. Mr. O'Neill had the North Star examined by an expert and found that it was rich in gold and silver and produced, besides those metals, lead and copper. He made a contract with the Denver owners of the mine and then interested John Machin, Nick Kuhn and other rich men of Chicago who were associated with him in mines in British Columbia.

Work was commenced in July with 50 men, and now the company is prepared to work about 250 men, and air compressors, electric light plants and other up-to-date improvements were made on the great mill at the mine. Work is being done in two of the tunnels and a shaft of a thousand feet is being sunk. Four great ore bodies are being run through the properties. The Chicago men are so well satisfied with their mine that they paid for it in full without waiting for the year allowed them, and they expect to pay $20,000 a month dividends beginning with January. There is no stock in the market and none for sale. John Markin is the president, Nick Kuhn general manager, and Herbert Starkweather, one of the best engineers in Colorado, the superintendent. The ore runs about $60 to the ton and is found in large bodies in true fissure veins. This Chicago mine could clear more than a million on their deal, but they believe they have a mine like the Camp Bird and the Gold King—two of the greatest mines in Colorado.

The people of Silverton, who were once dependent on the North Star, are delighted with the push of the enterprise.

I was never free from misery and do what I liked I was unable to obtain relief. Now, when Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Jones & Wellington's drug store, 109 N. Mr. O'Neill has secured interests in other good properties in the San Juan country and mining men recognize him as a new factor in the mining field, as he has a genius for organization and command, the influence of rich men and has shown great judgment in mining.—(Silverton Standard.)

LEADVILLE.

Operations have been resumed on the property of the Big Evans Mining company, which is using the old Hofer shaft near the Boston smelter as a base of operation. The delay was caused by the failure of galley timber to arrive, but it has since reached its destination, and the frame work is now about complete, ready for the installation of the machinery. The galley frames will be 40 feet high, as large as any in the camp. Oregon pine being used. It is the intention of the company to erect a large plant of machinery, capable of going 1,000 feet if necessary. It is expected that there will be some water, but nothing like what might have been expected ten years ago before the down town basin was partially drained. The proposition is one of the most important in the district, for it explores a piece of territory heretofore opened up only in a small way. The Hofer shaft is being run up a regular formation, with a good mineralized contact. This country simply requires capital to develop an ore shoot, and the Big Evans company, amply backed by Boston people, is able to push an enterprise to a successful conclusion.

Attention has been again directed to Iowa gulch on account of the extensive operations mapped out by the Keystone Mining company, which has secured the old Rex group. This company is composed of Pittsburg, Pa., capitalists, the local representative of the company being Mr. Stevenson, who has been preparing after the preliminary work looking to an active campaign on one of the best known groups in the camp. The company is busy about the work in a businesslike manner. Two 100 horse power boilers, just from the factory, are now being moved on the ground, and will be placed in position at once. The pumps are already in the shaft, together with water and steam columns, etc. New buildings will be erected as soon as possible, and the first of the year operations should be well under way. The Keystone group, as this block of claims will hereafter be known, is one of the most favorably located in Iowa gulch. There is an extensive bench of ground here, showing the regular Leadville formation, and the drill records of the company which operated here in 1894 are such a satisfactory nature as to warrant the belief of a large body of oxidized ore being found, to say nothing of the sulphides that are below. The tract is just below the famous Little Ellen property on Printer Box hill, and the shaft has been sunk a depth of about 400 feet to the lime. This is the first time in eight years that any systematic attempt has been made to work the ground, and no great difficulty is expected in handling the water, which shows a noticeable decrease. The new boilers purchased by the company are among the finest ever brought to the camp, and all the other machinery will be equally as efficient. The gentlemen back of this enterprise have been for many months quietly preparing to explore this territory on a large scale, and the delay has simply been due to the desire on the part of the company to be assured of ample means to carry the work to completion.—(Herald-Democrat.)

THE NEW MONARCH GROUND WAS THE SCENE OF A SENSATIONAL DISCOVERY OF ORE RECENTLY, WHICH WOULD INDICATE THAT SURFACE INDICATORS OF ORE ARE BY NO MEANS EXHAUSTED. THE FIND WAS NOT MADE BY MINERS BUT BY RAILROAD GRADERS, WHO WERE ENGAGED IN MAKING A CUT FOR THE NEW TRACT TO THE NEW MONARCH SHAFT. THEY EXPOSED SEVERAL FEET OF CARBONATE ORE, THE OLD FASHIONED KIND. BETWEEN 600 AND 700 TONS HAVE BEEN TAKEN OUT AND PILED UP, BUT IT WILL NOT BE SHIPPED FOR THE PRESENT. IT WILL PROBABLY BE HELD FOR THE NEW SMELTER AT SALIDA.

This is another exemplification of the advantages of the trenching system for the discovery of ore bodies in the gold belt. It is somewhat difficult to trace the line of outcropping in many portions of Breese and Little Ellen hills. A trench cut across a parcel of land might be considered a rather expensive method of prospecting, but it has many advantages over a shaft as a purely prospecting venture in these portions of the gold belt where the veins come close to the surface. The Rio Grande extension up Big Evans gulch has cut several very promising looking contacts, but this is one of the first cases on record in the camp where the graders have opened up a bona fide body of ore. It has not yet been fully developed, but Manager Goodwin will no doubt take the matter up at the proper time. A shaft will probably be put down somewhere near the railroad switch in order to tap the vein to advantage. If the body is anything like the one in the Little Winnie it will prove to be a chimney of ore 15 to 20 feet wide for a distance of 180 to 200 feet. This was the characteristic of the Little Winnie body. It required only five days to unwater the Rioalto shaft, the work having commenced Monday and being completed and there was a 200 feet of water standing. The work was done by two No. 11 sinkers and a compound at the 370-foot level, which threw the water

GILPIN COUNTY.

Another mining sale has been completed, the consideration covering an amount of $75,750. Mrs. Etta M. Baldwin of Chicago, has conveyed to the National Tunnel M. & M. company a two-thirds interest in and to the Illinois, Merrimac and Lexington lode claims in Lake and Russell districts, the consideration being $10,000. The same party has also conveyed to that company a group of 14 lode claims and a three-fourths interest in the Everett lode, all situated in Gregory, Lake and Russell districts, for mining deeds—the total consideration being $75,750. Another deed has been given that company from Albert Oechsler and Fred W. Stevens, each conveying an one-sixth interest in the Illinois, Lexington and Merrimac lodes, the consideration being $5,000.

This company during the past year has been working a portion of the property through two tunnels, namely, the Wash and the National, both being situated in Entersburg mining district in Black Hawk. The latter tunnel is equipped with a gasoline engine, power drills, air compressor and other appliances for prospecting development as rapidly as the nature of the ground passed through will permit. The company is composed of Chicago people, with Mr. C. W. Baldwin as one of the principal stockholders. He is no novice at mining, having had a large experience in mining in the state of California. John Brohl of this city is the mine foreman at the National tunnel. The company is working quite a force of miners and have taken out considerable ore, tests from which by concentration methods have proven highly satisfactory. The concentrates meeting with a heavy sale at the sampling works and smelters.

The Town Topics Gold Mining company, under the management of Mr. Draper, will soon declare its fifth dividend since the organization of the company. A large proportion of the smelting ore that is taken out contains gold values of a high grade.

The announcement made by an officer of the United States Reduction and Refining company that all mills of that company in a short time will be prepared to handle ores at a profit running 50 per cent. The official states that the method of handling the ore of a low grade has been constantly improved; hence the low rate of treatment.

The well known mining engineer, Harry Paul, arrived here last Saturday morn-

RIPANS TABLETS From Railroad Folks: Mr. Adam W. Brown, section foreman of a railroad, living at Carp Lake, Mich., writes: Having been a sufferer from stomach trouble for the past eight years and being cured by Ripans Tablets, I feel it my duty to speak of the great benefit I have received from that medicine. Have been a section foreman for the past fourteen years. For eight years I have suffered dreadfully from stomach trouble, have taken medicine from five different doctors, but all to no avail. I had given up hope of ever being cured. Last fall I got so bad that I had to give up my position altogether. I had an awful gnawing pain in my stomach, every day after each meal, for about three hours, when I would turn deathly sick and then I would vomit. After which I would feel easier until the next meal. I kept on this way until I fell away in flesh from 190 lbs. to 145 pounds, and then I got so weak that I could scarcely walk around. About this time a friend told my wife about Ripans Tablets, and she got a box from the drug store and wanted me to try them. I did so, but did not have any hope of their helping me. I did not notice any change until I had taken about half the box, when I began to feel easier after meals. The gnawing got less and I did not get sick and vomit as before. My appetite came back and I began to feel brighter. I took six boxes of Ripans Tablets in all, which did me more good than all the doctors' medicine. I think there is nothing like Ripans Tablets for stomach trouble, as I gained up to my old weight. I felt splendid until a short time ago, when I began to have headaches quite often. I sent for more Ripans and I have been getting better.

In support of her husband's testimony, Mrs. Adam W. Brown writes as follows: "I really believe had it not been for Ripans Tablets my husband would not have been with us to-day. He was confined to his bed and the doctor could not help him. Another doctor said he had consumption. His stomach trouble affected his heart so that at times I thought he was surely dying. I recommend Ripans Tablets to all sufferers from stomach trouble."

Mr. Chas. E. Clymer, a Camden, N. J., railroad man, writes: I was troubled with the heartburn after eating and have been taking Ripans Tablets and they have given me great relief. I hold a position as foreman on a section of the Pennsylvania Railroad. I have to stoop over a great deal and before I began taking Ripans Tablets when I would be at my work after eating I would feel as if my meals were coming up. I had taken a good many kinds of medicines but did not find relief from them, but Ripans Tablets have done the work. I tell everybody. They have done me a lot of good. I have about thirty men under me and I believe every man takes them now. They would not believe they were any good until they saw what they had done for me. Chas. E. Clymer, Pavonia Sta., Camden, N. J.

ROYAL LIMITED Between NEW YORK AND WASHINGTON, D. C. Mr. B. F. Marbury, conductor on the Royal Limited, between New York and Washington, D. C., living at 107 8th Street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes under date of March 27th, 1901: "I have been on the railroad for ten years and have tried all kinds of medicine for habitual constipation until a friend gave me some Ripans Tablets. Since then I have always carried a package in my pocket for use. I also give many a tablet to persons I find in distress. Ripans Tablets I find always a great remedy, not only for constipation, but also for indigestion and headaches. I give this testimonial for the welfare of others. I always have a package with me on the train and my wife keeps them in the house."

ing from Leadville for the purpose of resuming work on the old Main prospect. Developments will be continued through the west shaft, which is equipped with a splendid up-to-date steam boiler, air compressor, power drills, etc., for continuing developments along economic and businesslike lines. As the mine has been idle for some length of time it will require several days to put the plant in proper order. As soon as this is done developments will be continued with as large a force of men as can be profitably employed.

The Lucania Transportation, Tunnel Mining and Drainage company, last Friday filed its incorporation papers with the secretary of state. The directors named are W. W. Kirby, Joseph P. Lilly, C. H. Dudley, Herbert A. Riedel, John M. Kirby, William Barnes, Joseph A. Wright; capital stock, $2,500,000; to do a general mining, milling and smelting business, chiefly in Clear Creek and Gilpin counties; principal offices at Colorado Springs.

Charley Hanks has secured an option and lease on the Woods lode at the head of Leavenworth gulch, Russell district, and has returned to Central City with the intention of working that property, etc. The mine is filled with water at present. He will unwater it and resume work upon the mine. It is well known as a producer of uranium ore, which ore contains a very desirable gold metal. He expects to be in full operation by the first of December next.—(Gilpin Observer.)

WARD DISTRICT. At a depth of 30 feet Messrs. Forman and Bemis, leasers on the Jolly Tar have opened up one of the richest pockets that has ever been seen in this district. A piece of the ore showed a streak of solid gold an eighth of an inch thick running through the rock, besides having tellurium sprinkled thick all over it. Alongside of this ore is a streak of solid iron from two to six inches wide with all indications pointing to its getting larger as depth is gained. This iron is very rich in gold. This property is situated on the ridge between the B. and M. and the Worth and very close to the Colorado and the Nelson, about a half a mile from town. Dan Hutchinson, Lew Boyd, and Bert Still, leasers on the Red Lion, were drifting 50 feet from the surface in a soft oxidized dirt and knowing that it contained penny weight, they shipped a sample lot of 2,170 pounds to the sampler at Boulder and received a check for the same on the basis of $150 per ton. They have at present 25 feet of this ore and have reached neither wall. It needs no crushing and can be mined very cheaply, as it can be shoveled into Parasites Cause All Hair Troubles. Nine-tenths of the diseases of the scalp and hair are caused by parasitic Chicago. The importance of this discovery by Professor Unna of the Charity hospital, Hamburg, Germany, cannot be overestimated. It explains why ordinary hair preparations, even of the most expensive character, fail to cure dandruff; because they do not, and they cannot, kill the dandruff germ. The only hair preparation in the world that positively destroys the dandruff parasites that burrow up the scalp into scales called scurf or dandruff, is Newbrow's Herpicide. In addition to its destroying the dandruff germ, Herpicide is also a delightful hair dressing, making the hair glossy and soft as silk. A Christmas Present. GROWING OLD GRACEFULLY. Nothing is so interesting, nothing so restful and refreshing, as to see a man and woman who have lived together for a quarter of a century, starting down the shady slope of life, hand in hand, and happy as they were when she, with flushed face, heard love's old, sweet song. Marriage is often a failure, because people marry without even giving the future a thought—marry and go to work and work without recreation till they are ready to die. I once heard a lady telling her daughter what to do when she was married. "Take a trip," she said; "get married in winter time when the world is cheerless and you are short on sunshine; take a trip to the southern states and turn winter into summer again; go to Little Rock, Hot Springs, or San Antonio, and get acquainted with your husband; watch him at the hotel, and see what he likes to eat, and how and when he likes it. It won't hurt you to study his comfort a little; it would make him love you more. But you must know something of how before you are married. Never marry a man who will laugh at the jokes on mothers-in-law at the minstrel show, or who will not buy his wedding four tickets over the Missouri Pacific Railway."

WESTERN TO HAVE FAST BASEBALL

Burns Is a Magnate Who Will Make Good for His Team This Season.

WILL SPEND SALARY LIMIT

Nothing Will Stand in the Way of a Pennant Winning Aggregation of Ball-tossers in Millionaires Suits This Season—Story of the Double-Cross.

A year ago Colorado Springs did not have a dozen "baseball fans." It had been many years since professional ball had been played here, and a whole generation of young people had grown up who knew nothing of the game...

The ball season turned out very well in most of the cities, Tebeau especially making good money in Denver. Hulén got through without loss, but with a full-team, because he did there just as he afterwards did in this city.

George Tebeau has been a well-known ball player and manager for many years. He has a brother who was also very prominent at one time and people frequently confuse them. In the season of 1900 a western league was organized by him which included Denver, Sioux City, St. Joseph, Omaha and Des Moines.

The ball season opened Hulén brought here an Irishman named Tim Donahue, who had more or less of a reputation as a catcher, and practically gave him an interest in the team for his services during the season.

Mr. Tebeau had decided that he could make more in running the new Kansas City team than he could with his old Denver team and sold his franchise to D. Packard, an insurance man. Apparently there were strings on the sale, however.

The season opened big in both Denver and Colorado Springs, while the other cities ended without a loss at least. It was apparent almost from the first that Hulén and Donahue would play winning ball. They were at longheads, sold or traded off their good men and before the end of the season refused to strengthen their team. In fact they got no bats that they had amateurs from the city filling in.

At this point Mr. Thomas Burns appeared. Mr. Burns is a brother of the president of the National Association and interests in that mine have made him wealthy. He is fond of sporting matters and wanted the city to have good ball. A cheap variety of some kind in the Denver Republican, boosting for Tebeau, has tried recently to impeach Mr. Burns' nerve, claiming that he is a "quitter" because he did not finish driving a race in which the famous Mrs. Miss Williams was entered in Denver. That needs no answer, of course, but if it did Mr. Burns could point to the fact that for 15 years he has been in the office of the G. & N. G. railroad up and down the passes of the Rocky mountains. After consultation with some business men, Mr. Burns, secretary for Hulén and Donahue, offered them $10,000 for their team and franchise. The team was then at Minneapolis and Hulén wrote back that the offer would be accepted if the money was in cash and paid a commission of $500. Mr. Burns could not see the point and withdrew his offer.

At the end of the playing season Mr. Burns was able to buy the Colorado Springs team and franchise at less than half the price he had offered for it, making the purchase he had the assurance of Hickey, Tebeau, Rourke and the other managers that the transfer of the franchise to Burns would be a success. It was not long, however, until it began to look very much as if Burns had bought a gold brick, because Tebeau and Hickey began manufacturing to practically wreck the league.

Tebeau came out to Denver and demanded the old team back from Packard and to James McVey and tipped off to Burns that he could secure "Big" Bill Everett, the playing manager, for Denver last year, also Jones, a crack pitcher, and other western players. He did that very thing, as he found the contracts were open. Tebeau then began to storm and he and Hickey exposed their hands.

Their plan was to take Kansas City, Omaha, St. Paul and Minneapolis out of the Western and join them with some cities further east in a new American association. The other western players were to be left in a little league all to themselves along with some scrub towns. Of course Mr. T. J. Hickey was to be president of the two leagues and get the best salaries, not to mention railroad rebates and other things that fall to the lot of great presidents. Mr. George Tebeau was to have back his Denver team, which is always a money-maker, no matter in what class of league it is placed, and he was also to have the Kansas City team in the new American association. It seems that he owns the ball park in Kansas City.

It was a pleasant and comfortable arrangement for Hickey and Tebeau and George was so easy about it that he went to the Colorado Springs office and tried to get the Portland mine case at Council Bluffs and Mr. Burns had to be down there for a month, but not kept very long. After the deal was made, Hickey began work and soon had with him Van Brunt of the St. Joseph team, Rourke of the Omaha team and perhaps others. After consultation they sent Rourke out to Denver to get a contract. Then Hickey took alarm and sent for Tebeau to come back quick. They made public their plans and most baseball authorities in that city believed them to carry them out. Even such a great authority as the Sporting News of St. Louis appeared on Saturday with Tebeau and Hickey interviews that seem ridiculous now.

Wednesday the magnates got together and the deal was made. The deal was in control. They retired Mr. Hickey as president and refused to give Tebeau the Denver franchise back. Not only that, but they voted the Kansas City franchise to James McVey, a former team brainiest man in baseball. Last year he managed the Washington team in the American league.

Mr. Tebeau announced that the league will be the same in all probability as last year. Manning will put in new grounds at Kansas City. Nearly every team in the American league has a catcher company. The National and other American leagues have noticed that they are with the Western, in fact Hickey was expelled.

An important extension of the forecast work of the bureau was made during the year whereby meteorological reports from certain points in the British Isles, the continent of Europe, and from the Azores are transmitted to Washington and with observations from Nassau, Bermuda and Turks Island, are regularly published on the weather map, together with forecasts of the wind and the state of the weather for the first three days of steamers bound eastward. In a number of instances, when storms of marked strength were passing eastward off the American coast, forecasts of the weather or which probably would be experienced westward bound, were called to England. Fog predictions also were issued. The weather bureau has been improved. The cotton region service has been extended into Oklahoma and the Indian Territory and arrangements have been made to have the most accurate weather information to be known as the fruit and wheat service.

NEURALGIA. We suggest curing a pain in the face by taking Scott's Emulsion into the stomach. Usual way of treating neuralgia is to rub liniment on the outside. That's only a makeshift.

Scott's Emulsion is nerve food. Scott's Emulsion feeds and strengthens nerves.

For an obstinate neuralgia for nervousness, for nerve weakness take Scott's Emulsion. It's nerve food and nerve strength.

BEST COURSEING IN THREE YEARS Cripple Creek and Colorado Springs Huntsmen Enjoy a Fine Chase Over the Prairie.

According to the experts, yesterday's coursing meet and coyote hunt was the best held in this vicinity in three years. Twenty-five men and women from Cripple Creek and this city enjoyed the chase. The start was made from the Antlers early in the morning. The Cripple Creek party had five greyhounds, and Joe Kenyon, who was in charge of the chase, had Corbett and Cuba, two greyhounds, and King and Pete, coyote dogs. The party went to the Neff pasture, north of the Garden ranch, where a coyote was started. It was a lively chase, but the coyote managed to escape when its pursuers were stopped by a fence.

On the Scott ranch three rabbits were started and the greyhounds were given a chance to see what they could do. On Wilson's pasture eight rabbits furnished lots of sport. Altogether, according to Mr. Kenyon and other members of the party, no such successful hunt has been held at Colorado Springs for three years.

Those who took part in yesterday's chase were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barry, Joseph Murphy, Alderman James Haney, Theodore Sarhana, John E. Murphy, Lewis D'Brien and P. J. Donehue, all of Cripple Creek, and Mr. and Mrs. William Dunning, Mrs. Morgan, Lou Thompson, Mr. Merrick, Mr. Beckell, Frank Adams, Wm. McMahon, Al Davenport, Mrs. McCombs, Mr. McHale, Mr. Degert, Mr. Vesey, Henry Rose and Joe Kenyon, of this city.

HOEY KNOCKED OUT. Painesville, O., Dec. 8.—The fight between Jimmy Hoey and George Siddons, which was held here last night, was a good one, but was prevented by the sheriff on orders from Governor Nash, was brought off early today at Richmond. Hoey was knocked out in the fourth round. No arrests have been made.

WILL FIGHT TERRY AGAIN. New York, Dec. 8.—Yielding to the personal request of Terry McGovern, Young Corbett last night, it is said, agreed to fight Terry next July. It is understood both will meet in the ring on the 15th of the month. Terry McGovern, who quit the ring on November 19, sailing for Seattle upon the Japanese steamer Shetnana Maru. Ever since, the authorities have been on the lookout for him. In some manner he managed to elude the officers at Seattle. Mayer is about 28 years old and of English descent. When arrested he was en route to London.

Mayer says he will fight the proceedings. He did not claim the right to the protection of the consul of any foreign nation, and apparently will contest the case as an American citizen.

WRECK ON CENTRAL OF GEORGIA RAILROAD

By Associated Press. Macon, Ga., Dec. 8.—The Central of Georgia railway passenger train from Savannah, after crossing the river entering Macon at about 4 o'clock this morning with 100 passengers, jumped a switch on an embankment. The engine and the first two passenger coaches were thrown into a culvert and burned. The second class coach was thrown on its side and from the Azores are transmitted to the mainland on the Pacific coast.

The system of selective telegraphy, he regards as well demonstrated theoretically, but had not been fully tested in practice. And the report says: "A system of merit and discipline has been gradually developed in the weather bureau. The letter of the civil service law but carries its spirit to a logical conclusion. The system compels each employe to take the initiative in his own official salvation. It is fair to all, enables honest and efficient persons to take themselves upward; it contributes to a high standard of many character and it holds back those of mediocre attainments or of slothful habits."

BRIEF CITY ITEMS.

DAILY WEATHER RECORD. The following meteorological record is furnished by the Colorado college weather bureau. Observations recorded in local time.

WEATHER FORECAST. Washington, Dec. 8.—Forecast for Colorado: Partly cloudy Monday and probably Tuesday; light variable winds.

A line of sterling silver toilet articles of latest patterns at Ashby's. Oldest established jeweler in the county.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.—G. A. Dunn, the Tennessee evangelist, is conducting meetings at No. 214 E. Las Animas street. Yesterday's services were well attended.

DE MOSS CONCERT.—The members of the famous De Moss family will give a concert at Perkins hall next Thursday evening. The members of the family play on 40 different instruments.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The Horticultural society will meet tomorrow evening in room 11, Postoffice block. All members are requested to be present as business of importance is to be transacted.

DANCE POSTPONED.—The Antlers club's first dance, which was to be given tonight at the Antlers, has been postponed indefinitely. It may be given before the end of the month, but no date has been decided upon.

FIRST CONCERT.—The Colorado Musical club will give its first concert next Friday evening at Perkins hall. Mrs. Katharine Flisk has been secured for the occasion. The officers of the club have arranged a fine series of concerts for the season.

The Ormonde European hotel at 19-a South Cascade avenue, will be opened in a few days by Mr. F. G. Hope, who is well known in this city. There are some very desirable rooms and suites to rent. The house is modern throughout, newly furnished in first-class style.

MINSTREL COMPANY.—Primrose & Dockstader's minstrel company, which has just completed a successful engagement in Denver, passed through Colorado Springs yesterday. The company went up to Cripple Creek on the 10:37 train of the Short Line. They occupied three special cars. They will come to this city today.

FROEBEL SOCIETY.—The Colorado Springs Froebel association will hold a business meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon and at 4 o'clock the first program meeting will be held. The meetings will be held at Miss Henry's school, corner of Nevada and Cache la Poudre. Parents, teachers and all others who are interested in child study are invited to attend.

TO VISIT QUARRIES.—At midnight tonight the members of the building committee of the city council, architects of the new city hall and the building inspector, will leave for Coto-paxi, where they will inspect the Kerr stone quarries. The Kerr stone, which has been used in the new county court house, has been suggested for the new city hall. The party will return tomorrow night.

FALSE ALARM.—Some would-be practical joker gave the fire horses another hard run for nothing at about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He turned in a false alarm from box 23 at the corner of Prospect and Kiowa streets and the department made a hard run up the hill and arrived there in good time, but when the companies reached the box there was no one there and nobody knew who turned the alarm in. If this "practical joker" is ever caught it will go hard with him.
