Neighborhood Notes.

From the La Plata Miner. B. A. Taft and wife went out to Alamosa last Saturday for the purpose of recreating a little while.

Messrs A. A. Wagoner, S. W. McCormick and S. H. Burghardt. County Commissioners of Dolores county, and F. W. Raymond, Clerk and Recorder of the same county, are in town to day.

Mr. John A. Dramer, of Animas City, has been appointed United States Deputy Fish Commissioner, and is authorized to prosecute all violations of the fish laws that come under his notice.

B. M. Krumpantzyk left for Trinidad, on the morning of the 15th, where he intends spending a few weeks with his old friends, and then return bringing with him the Misses Krumpantzyk, and make Duango their future home.

J. L. Pennington & Co., forwarding and commission merchants, shipped 85,000 pounds of freight to Silverton and Rico, on Tuesday, and received 14,000 pounds of beef bullion from the Eclipse Mining Company at Animas Forks for shipment east.

We received a pleasant call to-day from Mr. A. F. Billingsley, superintendent of the Gold King. Mr. Billingsley reports everything progressing finely at the Gold King. He is now laying in provisions for the winter and will start up the mill next week with the intention of running all winter.

Tom Sewall has again gone to Rico. What in the mischief calls Tom to Rico, anyhow? There will be a number of races at Fort Lewis, next Saturday, and several of the Duango sports are going over to try their steeds, and are determined to win.

Granville H. Walley, one of the natives from Miguel, who has been down on the reservation for the past two weeks, came in Tuesday and says that the ranches have been located all along the Uncompanghe valley, and also a great many on the Gunnison. He informed us that he witnessed the Utes cross the Grand last Saturday and that no stock, as has been reported, has been sent back and that he saw no Indians, for several days.

A party who knows the half-breed, who stole two horses here a short time ago, says that he is camped down at the mouth of Uncompanghe river, while the parties who are looking for him are off in Utah. It is stated officially that within the next forty days the D. & R. G. will reach Rizer, which is to be the terminus of the road for the winter.

In the 5th and 6th levels improvement in the mineral is noted in quantity and quality. The output of ore is about 10 tons a day. We speak of the Ulay.

"Scouty" Robinson is striking it rich in the Dolphin lode, above Crooke's works. At a depth of 50 feet he has six feet of sulphates of silver, galena and large quantities of gray copper that Mr. Crooke says will mill 100 ozs.

Judge Forrest of Cincinnati, one of the owners of the Goshute, among the earliest of Henson's creek's locations, has been examining the property and having it surveyed preparatory to more extensive development. The old shaft will be sunk and a cross-cut tunnel started shortly.

Our Mining Resources.

Some idea of the extent of the future magnitude of our mining interests may be obtained from a contemplation of the fact, as stated by the Mining World that more than half of the Territory of the United States, or over 2,000,000 square miles, is mineral land, producing gold and silver. Of this vast tract of mineral-bearing territory, less than 1 per cent, has been mined. That is to say, that the entire amount of gold and silver credited to the mines of the United States has been taken from less than 1 per cent of its mineral territory, and this by the crudest methods and circumstances.

A Durango Suicide.

Last night about 10 o'clock, Matt Lewis, an actor and barkeeper at the Coliseum, committed suicide, near the river, on H. street. He tried to borrow a revolver from Charles Green, the stage manager, a short time before, saying that somebody was trying to kill him. Green had no pistol, and it is not known where he obtained the weapon used, which was a 38 calibre five-shooter. Lewis appeared on the Coliseum stage to-night in the first part as interlocutor. He remarked to Green: "If I am in Durango to-morrow night, you may think it queer!" Green paid no attention to the remark, and did not dream that the man intended to kill himself. Lewis went down to Marshall's house and bid Ella Marshall good bye, and then went down to the river and, placing the pistol to his right ear, blew his brains out, the ball coming out near the left ear. It is said that he attempted suicide at Ft. Garland, some time ago, by cutting his throat.

Justice Craig was called to the scene by Officer Sullivan, and a jury was impaneled to hold an inquest. It was then decided to adjourn until to-day, and the body was taken to Undertaker Smith's morgue until the jury should meet again.

Deceased was a fine-looking young man, and was of an apparently cheerful disposition. The inquest will probably bring to light the cause of the rash deed.

Tom Marshall.

Tom Marshall was engaged in a trial of a case in Kentucky, when a decision of the judge struck him as so bad that he rose and said: "There never was such a ruling as that since Pontius Pilate presided on the trial of Christ."

"Mr. Clerk, responded the judge, "fine Mr. Marshall $10 for contempt of court." "I confess, your Honor," continued Tom, "that what I said was a little hard on Pontius Pilate, but its the first time in the history of Kentucky jurisprudence that it is held that to speak disrespectfully of Pontius Pilate is contempt of court."

"Mr. Clerk, make the fine $20 for continuous contempt," said the judge solemnly.

"Well, judge," added Tom, "as you won all my money last night at poker lend me the twenty." "Mr. Clerk," cried the judge, hastily, "remit the fine. The state can afford to lose it better than I can." "I congratulate the court on its return to a sane condition," said Tom, resuming his seat amid roars of laughter.

The Closing Scenes.

Incidents of Approaching Dissolution and its Effect Upon the South and Elsewhere.

LONG BRANCH, September 19.—The President's condition at the morning dressing yesterday was comparatively favorable, but the more cautious did not entertain a sanguine opinion that the President was safely beyond the effects of Saturday's rigor. The morning passed very comfortably, and Judge Advocate-General Swain went so far as to express the opinion that the President was having the most favorable Sunday which he had passed for several weeks.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—All members of the cabinet, excepting Blaine and Lincoln, came to Elberon at 11 o'clock and are now sitting on the piazza of Attorney-General MacVeagh's cottage. WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—At noon the following dispatch was received at the War department from Attorney-General MacVeagh at Long Branch: "Another chill, and outsiders look for death any moment. The doctors try to dispel this feeling, but without avail. His pulse is now 140 and growing weaker." "Everybody in Washington has abandoned hope, and the news of the president's death is expected at any time."

Dr. Bliss said: "Hope is buried in the grave. There is no immediate emergency in the President's condition. He called for the hand-glass after the morning dressing and said: 'I cannot understand why I am so weak when I look so well.' His voice is not so hoarse as when the parotid gland was inflamed. There is no evidence of repair in any of the wounds. The discharge from the wound is thin and a little stringy. Still he is cheerful. The left lung is only slightly affected. Agnew says 'there is no hope.'"

LONDON, September 19th.—Lowell, American Minister, has received a telegram from the Queen, expressing the grief of herself and family at the discouraging accounts regarding President Garfield, and requesting that all intelligence concerning his condition be forwarded immediately to Balmar.

WARREN, Sept. 19, 10:50 p. m.—The President is dead.

From what can be ascertained death was caused from sheer exhaustion. Warren Young, assistant to Private Secretary Brown, brought the news from the cottage at ten minutes before 11 o'clock. The first indication that anything serious had happened was the appearance of a messenger at the Elberon hotel, who obtained a carriage and drove rapidly off. It was supposed he had gone to summon the members of the cabinet, who left here about 9:30 to night.

New York, September 19.—A Long Branch correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle says: "It is ascertained from the Sheriff of Monmouth county, that Guitau will have to be brought here at once before a Coroner's jury. The Coroner can view the body and let it go, but Guitau must be produced at once. The New Jersey law is very strict on this point, and the Jersey men evidently want Guitau."

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 19.—The city is crowded with strangers from north and south to attend the reunion of the Army of the Cumberland and witness its reception by the ex-confederates. Public and private houses have been gaily decorated. The local committee of federals and confederates, in view of the tragic news from Long Branch, have decided that appropriate memorial service shall be a leading feature of the programme.

RICHMOND, Virginia, September 19.—Immediately upon receipt of the news of the President's death public bells commenced tolling. Some time ago the proprietors of the Rural New Yorker offered a prize of $50 in gold for the five best heads of wheat of any variety grown in any part of the world. The exhibition was held in New York. Competitors announced themselves from all parts of the civilized world. Professor Blount, among the others, sent samples of wheat he has grown on the Agricultural College farm. Yesterday he received notice that he had taken the first prize, above all competitors. Thus Colorado maintains the position she has claimed for herself, that she is the best wheat-growing country in the world.—Republican.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Christianity has frequently denounced his wife's testimony in her divorce case, as perjury. Her brother Dr. Lugenbell sent him a formal challenge. Christianity replied that he had no desire for notoriety as an assassin such as possessed Lugenbell, and assured him that for himself, he would depend upon the law of the land for protection. He then applied for the arrest of Lugenbell. Sidney Lanier, the best of the poets of the South, is dead. He was the author of the Centennial ode, composed for the opening of the Philadelphia exhibition in 1876, and, though his style was curious, he had won a good reputation as a writer. He has for some time been in delicate health.—Republican. Lizzie Pinneo, sister of Minnie, has won a ten-mile race at Topeka.
