JOHN FOLEY'S FOLLY.

How This San Juaner Went Down to Death at Butte City.

Frank Lovejoy sends us very minute particulars of the recent wholesale shooting in Butte, Montana, by John Foley, who suicided immediately after attempting the lives of two others.

The tragedy occurred at 4:05 Sunday morning, as Miss Alice Flick and an Italian musician named Joe Yates, were passing along the street.

Foley met the woman about four months ago, becoming at once insanely in love with and jealous of her.

She broke off with him, telling her friends that she was afraid of Foley, and only a few nights before the shooting Foley had beaten her severely, as well as a man named D. R. McDonald (not Dunk McDonald, although same initials) with whom she chanced to be talking.

It was with great difficulty that he was arrested at that time by the police, and when she left the theatre with Yates, their steps were followed by Foley, who, wild with jealousy, decided upon frightful revenge.

As the couple turned the corner of Mercury and Montana streets they were suddenly halted by Foley, revolver in hand, a 45 calibre, self-cocking Weverley, who sternly exclaimed:

"We all must die!"

He at once commenced firing. The woman was shot in the right breast, the ball passing out at the right shoulder, and it was pretty certain from the first that she could not recover.

Yates was shot in the cheek, but his injuries were very slight. Foley then turned the muzzle of the weapon to his left breast and fired.

To make sure work he then placed the revolver within his mouth and again pulled the trigger. This ball entered the right side of the mouth, cutting the lips and ranging upward.

It penetrated the brain, pressing and cracking the skull and lodging there, causing a protuberance of fully half an inch. Death was almost instantaneous, and he did not speak.

For a moment his whole body was convulsed with pain; blood was gurgling in his throat and his breath came heavily until the end.

In his right hand he grasped the six-shooter, with four empty chambers. Miss Flick shrieked: "My God, I'm shot!" and fell.

The coroner found upon the person of Foley a sawl written on the back of one of the Theatre Comique programmes, which, after hard work, was deciphered, and read as follows:

"BUTTE CITY, MONTANA. Horrid crime. Hart broken man. Good bye, Miley Foley, Durango, Colo."

There were two additional words that could not be made out. There were also on his person two pawn tickets—one for a diamond ring, $11, and the other for a watch and chain, $22.50.

He also had on a gold watch and chain and on his breast was a badge "deputy sheriff." His body was taken in charge by Gordon & Hamilton, proprietors of the Theatre Comique, for whom Foley was acting doorkeeper, and was buried in the city cemetery at 11 o'clock of the morning after the tragedy, the pall bearers being policemen.

It is said that the only person Foley was ever afraid of was his wife, and since his liaison with the Flick woman has lived in dread lest she would find it out and go to Butte and kill him.

When they were together she could and always did conquer him. In July he wrote her to come to him and sent her money for that purpose.

That night he met Alice and next day he telegraphed Mrs. Foley to stay at home. Foley was then special policeman, but Marshal Stoner withdrew the appointment, because Foley became too free with the use of his gun and club.

FOLEY'S LIFE. Foley was what might be called a typical man of the west. He was 37 years of age, of restless and daring disposition, and at an early age sought on the frontier the excitement his nature craved.

Physically he was a splendid man, strong, active and well built, of spare build, but long and muscular, weighing 180 pounds. His hair and mustache were jet black, and he always dressed well and looked neat.

He was in Wichita, Kansas, in '72 dealing in stock and gambling incidentally to a considerable extent. He went to Dodge City and soon gained the reputation of being the most daring and successful buffalo hunter in the west.

It is related that in one month 2,000 buffalo fell before his unerring rifle; but that's a good many buffalo. In 1876 he went to Pueblo, but not liking the climate went to Del Norte and afterward to Alamosa, where he bought some teams and went into the business of freighting.

Again becoming dissatisfied, he made a trip into New Mexico with a view to bettering his condition. He located in Santa Fe, and opened a fine saloon and billiard hall and did well, but his restless spirit caused him to sell out and he returned to Del Norte.

Then he came to Rico and in this city he opened a saloon near the corner of Glasgow avenue and Campbell street. When the Durango excitement broke out in '81, he went there and opened a restaurant.

He soon made friends and was elected as a member of the city council and subsequently as city marshal, serving in that capacity for three years and giving entire satisfaction to the people.

Those who knew him best say that while he was a man of physical bravery and great determination, he was not in any sense of the word a "bad man," and that unless under the influence of liquor he was as quiet and peaceable as any man in the country.

As an officer he was remarkable for his quickness of decision and fearlessness.

Rico and a Railroad. Durango Herald. The Pasadena smelter at Rico, has shipped eighty-five cars of bullion by way of Durango during the past 11 months.

The bullion yielded the company $425,000.—this is rather a fine showing for our San Juan enterprise.

The early construction of a branch of the Denver & Rio Grande Railway from Durango to Rico would prove a blessing to both places mentioned, and would also prove a most profitable investment for the company.

There are thousands upon thousands of tons of low grade iron—carbonate ore on the dumps and in sight of Rico, and just what the Durango smelter needs for flux, that would instantly become valuable if the road mentioned was built.

Durango's future is assured when we can obtain the Rico ores by rail, and Rico will speedily become rich from the sale of what are now classed as worthless ores.

Confederate Matches. Atlanta Constitution. The first match factory in the Confederacy was in or rather near Atlanta. The owner was an Atlanta man and these matches were sold from Richmond to the Gulf.

Unlike some of our recent experiments in that line, there was no trouble in igniting the matches. A man did not have to strike one sixteen times and then hit it on the head with a hammer or light it by the fire. His main trouble was to keep the thing from going off prematurely and the only effectual safeguard was to keep it in a bottle of water.

TERRIBLE MINING DISASTER

The Bull-Domingo at Silver Cliff the Scene of the Explosion.

A telegram to the Tribune-Republican says that a terrible explosion occurred on Saturday last and that 12 lives had been lost in the Bull Domingo mine, a mile and a half from Silver Cliff.

The explosion was very violent, pieces of timber being hurled half a mile distant near the Lady Franklin mine. Pieces of rock and parts of the shaft house were thrown into the carbonate beds near Silver Cliff.

The explosion was so loud that miners at the Bassick mine, five miles distant, heard it, as well as the citizens of Rosita, two and one-half miles distant. Men hastened to the mine from Querida, Rosita, Silver Cliff, and the small camps along Grape creek and the Greenhorn foothills.

The Bull-Domingo mine is one of the most interesting in the state, and has a most interesting history. The Bull mine was discovered by the Hurter brothers (Englishmen) one of whom was a member of the last legislature. The Domingo (which was located on Sunday) was a cross survey, and after much litigation a compromise was effected, and the mine patented as the Bull Domingo.

During this litigation a poisonous compound was lowered into the mine, nearly suffocating fifty miners to death. The boarding house, five business office and residence of the superintendent were in the immediate vicinity of the mine and were burned and destroyed. The shaft house and excellent hoisting machinery were also destroyed by last Saturday's explosion, leaving the miners imprisoned below. These men were—Conovers, J. Westfield, Elmer Heister, D. W. Patton, N. DeGrossley, P. Lapoint, John Lanbe, George Smith, William Strong and Marcus Baptista.

Foreman Armstrong was let down 400 feet by the aid of ropes and found the shaft filled with debris and sent up after a pick and shovel. 300 men were working in an endeavor to find the bodies at the 350-foot level.

The plentiful supply of wild animals in Montana renders it a paradise for sportsmen, but it's hard on the stockmen whose herds are depleted by the wild animals.

Would that we had an influx of hunters, and that the noble red man loved the chase as of yore. But, alas! chasing the fat bovine satisfies the ambition of the sons of the forest now. Beef is good enough for poor Lou and is vastly easier to get than the flesh of wild animals.—Stockman's Journal.

The new arms and equipments for the Rico militia have arrived and the dazzling Eighth Corporal will soon indulge in a parade, with his cap over his left eye and a stony, show-me-a-Ute look in the right.

The company will be obliged up against a cigar sign once a week to keep up their nerve.—Del Norte Prospector. In the above atrocious article Captain Wagensler has ample grounds to institute suit for damages under libel in behalf of his company.

HERE'S a chance for Brother Benham to win fame, fortune and a chromo. The Colorado School Journal offers a chromo to any teacher who will parse correctly and fully the italicized words in the following sentence: "Woe worth the chase, woe worth the day, that costs thy life, my gallant gray." The parsing, if correct, will be printed in the educational column.

A HAND of wild dogs is reported to exist near the head of Wind river, Wyoming. The band was first discovered two years ago, and it has increased from a few head until it now numbers fully twenty. They are represented as powerful and ferocious beasts, catching and devouring strongest calves, and have been known to attack and capture well-matured yearlings.

THE Durango Light Company has filed its articles of incorporation. Thomas C. Graden, Harry Schiffer, C. M. Williams, James Luttrell, John L. Parsons, John A. Porter and John Knowles, leading citizens of Durango, are the incorporators. The capital stock is $25,000, and the objects of the company are to light Durango with both gas and electricity.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND, Secretary of the Treasury Manning and Benjamin F. Butler, are all mine owners in Ouray county—Muldoo. Located in by some ragged prospector who wants a dead sure thing on a winter grub stake and tackles the U. S. Treasury. Look out for a levy for your share of the assessment, Daniel.

A SPECIAL from the Cantonment at Ft. Reno announces the death of the noted and cruel Cheyenne chief, Stone Calf. Stone Calf was widely known and very influential with his tribe. He was the leader of the troubles last spring and was noted for his cruelty.

THE Grand Junction News will soon begin to agitate the holding of a "Cow-boy's Carnival, or Fair," in Grand Junction. The show would consist of competitive tests of skill at all the different labors of the cowboy and will be a novel layout.

DURING the last quarter of a century Colorado has produced $100,000,000, and still the cry goes on that mining does not pay.—Denver Mining Review.

MINING MATTERS.

THE BLACK HAWK.

An encouraging strike of good ore is reported from the Black Hawk.

ZULU CHIEF.

The boys at the Zulu Chief are drifting on a body of low grade lead ore.

BUYING A LEASE.

It is a cold day when there is not a change or two on some of the leases of the Newman group. Joe Spurlock this week bought the Dutchler interest in the Gorla-Fischer-Dutcher lease on the Newman proper, and is negotiating for the Gorla interest.

THE COBBLER.

The owners of the Cobbler are at work on the vein opening it up in shape for mining ore. Lately they have made several small shipments, more to determine the value of the ore than anything else, and these have netted the owners in the neighborhood of a thousand dollars.

THE LITTLE MAGGIE.

The Little Maggie is one of the busiest mines of the camp-to-day and is sending to mill a burro train load of magnificent ore every day. Taken in conjunction with the Leila Davis it makes a lively hill and those two mines will advertise Rico this winter. The mine is being worked under lease to W. J. Cox, with H. L. Scott as foreman on the premises.

THE C. H. C.

The C. H. C. now mines and sends to the Grand View daily about ten tons of ore. Foreman Muncester is working 23 men and opening considerable ground. This has been a remarkable mine; it has been shipping almost every day for more than 14 months, has never been out of ore and the aggregate amount and value of ore shipped is enormous. It seems a mystery how so many tons could have been taken from so small a compass of ground. The future of the mine is very bright.

THE LEILA DAVIS.

The Leila Davis mine is surprising the natives with its present output and future possibilities. A new ore body, about 4 feet wide has just been opened, and has been demonstrated to be of large extent by openings at various points. The grade is excellent, and the average of samples from all parts of the vein is 144 ounces, while a picked specimen ran upwards of 460 ounces. A good force of men is at work taking out and sacking the ore and it is shipped daily to the Grand View. The mine is doing more and promises better than ever before in its existence, and that is saying a good deal.

The Montezuma Ditch.

The Montezuma ditch scheme has generally been looked upon as a vagary which would never reach fruition and after the abortive attempt of two years ago, it was thought nothing would be done. The Colorado Irrigating, Mining and Milling Co. has however now completed arrangements to turn a river into the dry valley of the Montezuma. This valley contains upwards of 200,000 acres of magnificent land which is useless without water, there is an abundance of cedar and piñon timber as well as white and yellow pine and extensive coal beds.

The work about to be commenced means a great deal to Rico, as well as to other towns of this section. It will open up a wonderfully rich country and help us all. The Denver News estimates the cost of the ditch to be $300,000, of which $50,000 was spent two years ago. More than 25 miles of the main ditch and laterals were then constructed, also 300 feet of the tunnel. Within a month between 200 and 300 men will find employment on the ditch and tools and supplies are now being shipped from Durango. State Engineer Nettleton and John W. Hanna, president and manager of the company are now in the valley. The main canal will be 50 feet wide, and will take water from the Dolores. It will be necessary to drive a tunnel 1400 feet. Including laterals the system complete will be 83 miles in length. The Denver News speaking of the scheme says:

"Two railroads have been surveyed through the valley—a branch of the enterprising Denver and Rio Grande from Durango to Rico (ninety miles), and the main line of the Texas, Santa Fe and Northern, which is under construction, and is ultimately to connect Salt Lake City with Galveston. Referring to the Rico branch, a prominent Denver and Rio Grande official states that no doubt his company will proceed to construct it, now that there is a prospect of the valley being populated."

Charlie Newman tells us that he understands the ditch people are also figuring with the Atlantic and Pacific. It is by all means the largest undertaking lately started in these parts.

There was a tie in the vote for county treasurer in Grand county between Urban Blickey (Rep) and A. T. Hanscom (Dem). In the drawing to decide the matter the latter won the prize.

In the second night of the series of billiard games for the championship of the world, Vignaux defeated Schaefer at Chicago with a score of 600 to 445.

Hanging of Louis Riel.

Louis Riel was hung at Regina last Monday, as the leader of the half-breeds in their two revolts against the authorities of the Canadian government. He is the first person in fifty years to suffer the death penalty for treason to the British crown. Previous to his execution he was guarded by ninety men, many of whom were admitted within the confines of the barracks, and none until he was on the scaffold at 8:12 a. m. He was hung soon after and died without a struggle. He appeared to have complete self-possession, responding to the service in clear tones, the final words which escaped him being "Merci Jesu."

There is a poetic weirdness in the following words, which were among the last Louis Riel uttered: "I am a half-breed," he said, "but I am as proud of my descent and lineage as the proudest monarch in Europe. My father was a scion of one of the best families of Europe. Like that of many other haughty nobles of France, his house went down in the general wreck of the nobility which followed the advent and victories of the man of destiny, Austerlitz, and Jena and Leipzig swept away the memories of a long line of honorable ancestors. My mother was a princess of the land. Nature and nature's God entwined her crown and made her noble. Even as her forefathers died, so shall I, fearless and without a tremble. I only sought for justice for my people. We are uncouth and uneducated. What we know we have received from the voice and hand of God himself. I love interminable and illimitable woods of my native land, its deep streams and broad lakes. I find sweet music in the wolf's howl long at midnight. I love to listen to the loon's dismal cry from over the lakes, the whippoorwill's evening lay and the owl's nightly serenade. The sighing of the pines in my native forests is sweeter in my ears than the strains of an Eolian harp. Ah, yes, my old school-mate, I love my country, and for that reason I am now here, awaiting a felon's death. Had the pale faced vandals of the Ottawa and the St. Lawrence meted out simple justice to me and my people it would have been different—but they did not, and probably never will."

After the execution the excitement at Quebec among the French-Canadians was almost beyond restraint. A flag was hoisted at half-mast on the Canadian office, and some English speaking citizens who felt aggrieved at this came near being roughly handled. It would be hard to tell what the result will be. At night 200 or 300 students with their friends marched through the streets, shouting "Glory to Riel," and cursing the Orangemen. Hand-bills were distributed to all passers-by calling on them to meet at night. These bills read as follows:

RIEL HANGED! L'INAMIE CONSUMME! The triumph of the Orangemen over the Catholics and French-Canadians! There will be this evening at Jacques Carter market place a meeting of all the French-Canadians of the City of Quebec to protest against the terrible murder that was committed this morning by Sir John MacDonall, Sir Hector Langevin, Sir A. P. Caron and Mr. Chumpe. Let every one of you be at your post-to-night.

Three scaffolds were erected in the streets, and effigies were hoisted and burned, and each mock execution was accompanied by a stirring national speech, calling upon the French-Canadians not to forget the martyr who that morning died in their cause.

At Montreal a mob of ten thousand people thronged the streets, burning effigies and carrying French flags and transparencies.

The Bull-Domingo Disaster.

On the first page is a partial account of the terrible Sunday cliff disaster. A dispatch of Sunday says:—At 5 o'clock this afternoon Armstrong was let down to the 500-foot level and found the ten men all dead. Five of them had climbed eighteen feet from the bottom of the shaft to the drift, and their dead bodies were found in the mouth of the drift. The other five had died at the drills in the face of the drift.

At 7 p. m. one of the dead bodies was lifted to the surface. The others will all be raised as soon as possible. Three of the dead men leave families living here. One was engaged to be married next week. It seems now that the fire originated in the roof of the building and a portion of the burning roof fell into the boiler room on the Giant, which exploded, bursting a hole in the boiler and dislocating the machinery so that everything stopped at once, but the men could have been drawn from the mine if the machinery could have been kept running, notwithstanding the building was on fire.

The loss of the building and machinery to the company is not less than $50,000. No one was seriously injured by the explosion in the building, but the engineer and several others were stunned and bruised.

The engineer (Chamberlin) was standing at his engine trying to make it work when surrounded by flames, and was carried away by force by his friends. The removal of the bodies began about 6 p. m., the last being brought up to the surface about midnight. Robert McGregor and Thomas Armstrong alternating in going down the 500-foot shaft. The rope was attached to pulleys to let the brave men down. A corpse was bound to the rope and then the guide stood with his foot in the loop of the rope, with both arms encircling the body. Thus it was brought to the surface by the steady pull of scores of men.

The victims were probably suffocated within an hour at most, being stiff and cold when found, with their hats and coats pulled over their faces, in the vain struggle for life.

Westfall and Lambe left short letters, the former to his sister, assigning his insurance in the A. O. U. W. to his sister and two orphan nieces. The latter wrote to his parents and wife.

The following dispatch from Durango indicates that Harry Newcomb is coming to the front:—"More than 500 people gathered at the rink here Saturday night to witness a most exciting race between Harry Newcomb and Jeff Carpenter for $20 a side and 25 cent. of gate receipts. Distance fifteen miles on a 17 lap surface. Newcomb won easily by three and a half laps, gaining a half lap in the first four. Time, 61 minutes and 37 seconds. Carpenter was the favorite owing to the distance, and betting ran high.

F. T. Neely, of the Omaha Herald, took Newcomb in training, and in exercising him Saturday morning he made five miles in 18:47. An Eastern company manager has made a proposition to Newcomb, which he will doubtless accept, and when he returns he will be a close competitor for Colorado's championship, both for fast and fancy skating."

H. B. CLAFIN, the New York merchant prince, died last Saturday afternoon at Fordham, his country seat, dying from a sudden attack of apoplexy, which seized him while at lunch with his family. He did not recover consciousness. During the war Clafin & Co. sold $50,000,000 worth of goods annually and in recent years have sold more than $80,000,000 worth yearly. The building in which the business is conducted is the largest of the kind in America.

THE Denver liquor firm of Epstein & Sanders, one of the oldest in the city, went to the wall last Tuesday. They were part owners in the South Park mine of Rico.

FRANK HALL has reopened the old Star restaurant, and starts in with a good patronage. The hotels, restaurants, livery rooms, etc., are all doing a good business.

WARREN ROSE returned on Wednesday from a brief visit to McCandless, Butler county, Pa. He returns to work on the Swansea lease, in which he has an interest.

It will be good news to the friends of C. H. Steele to know that he is improving in his Wisconsin home, and his life, which had been despaired of a short time ago, will be saved.

JAS. and Harry McLaughlin, of Rico, were both employed at one time, in the Bull-Domingo mine at Silver Cliff, which was the scene of the terrible accident on Saturday last.

F. C. LORING and wife expect to go to Denver next week and from there Mr. L. may go to Idaho, where he is tendered a position as Clerk of the United States District Court.

MISS LIDA CULLEN, who has been with the Davis family for several years, came over from Telluride Monday and will remain all winter with Mrs. Poindexter at the Princeton.

It rained all Thursday night and most of yesterday. This is in keeping with the phenomenal mildness of the fall. There is little snow in Rico and the surrounding hills show but little.

FRANK LOVEJOY is now in Butte City, Montana, as are several other former residents of Rico. Frank is probably still calling out: "Keno on card 68! 58-31-17; keno is correct!"

BERNHARDT, better known as Barney Meyer, went out on Thursday's stage and may cross the water to see the old folks and have an interview with Bismarck. His home is in Beringhausen, Westfalen, Germany.

VICTOR YEAGER left Rico on Thursday morning, and after visiting his father and mother in Leavenworth, Kansas, for a time, will proceed to the Hot Springs of Arkansas, in an endeavor to build up a somewhat shattered constitution.

MISS EMILY POWELL took her departure yesterday morning for Richmond, Vermont, after a residence here of nearly three years for the benefit of her health. Her sister, Mrs. R. C. Darling, expects in a short time to join Mr. Darling at Ouray.

GEORGE W. JONES, the Rico freighter, has established himself in winter quarters at La Plata, Rio Arriba county, New Mexico, and his bulls will fatten themselves on the surrounding range for the bullion (no pun intended) campaign of 1886.

TO CORRECT a false impression I desire to say that the goods now in my hands are being sold at prices as low, and in some cases lower than they were offered during Clay's Closing Out Sale.

N. J. BRADLEY, Assignee.

C. H. CARPENTER is now sojourning at Salt Lake, but in a short while will go to San Francisco and cross the ocean. As Mr. Adams is already in Europe and Mr. Carpenter will travel quite extensively, these two former partners will doubtless meet and star the continent together.

WHILE the population of Rico is quite cosmopolitan in its character, there is a wonderfully large percentage who hail from New York state and Pennsylvania.

"Old Missoo" has "a right smart chance" of posterity in this neighborhood, and probably half our population was drawn from these three states. Ohio comes next in the list and the remainder can be credited to every state in the Union and all the foreign countries—England, Russia, China, Bulgaria and New Jersey.

DAN L. TAYLOR and Frank Collier will leave Rico next week, to be absent all the winter. They go first to Albuquerque, and Mr. Taylor will spend the winter in the sand, sagebrush and sunshine, hoping by this means to eradicate a deep-seated cold and attendant rheumatism.

THERE has been no raise in prices since Clay drove out. You must call early, if you want a sight in this pot. I will give you a square deal, and you need not go it blind.

JOE N. BROUGHTON and Mrs. M. B. Nixon have the sympathy of their friends in a sad affliction, having received news of the death of their father at Newport, Brant county, Ontario, Canada.

THE firm of Breen and McNicholas general merchants of Silverton, and which has done business in that place since a very early date, was dissolved last week and Abe Rapp takes the place made vacant by the withdrawal of Bob McNicholas.

There was a mistake as to the Rapp in the above. It should read Dave Rapp instead of Abe.

MARRS & MIDDLETON, the Kentuckians who in 1881 invested a bundle of good blue-grass money in the mines of the Newman group are now the owners of the Mammoth livery stables in Denver.

We notice in Tuesday's dailies an account of an auction sale at their elegant stables the preceding day of about fifty head of blooded horses.

At the People's Church next Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, Miss Jessie Ray will become Mrs. W. T. Williamson. Many friends of the prospective bride and groom have received and will accept invitations to be present on the occasion of their marriage on this festive Thanksgiving Day.

Their future home, which is now being prepared for them, is the cottage just south of the Pioneer Hotel.

LAST Tuesday morning at the boarding house of the C. H. C. mine, Rev. W. H. Howard united in marriage R. B. Dunham and Miss Carrie Smith. This happy culmination of love's young dream was not a total surprise to the many friends of the contracting parties, as it was well known that Bob had been putting in a board floor and making other high-toned improvements about his Disappointment home.

He has prepared a cozy home in the lower valley of the stream named and soon after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Dunham started for their new home.

E. P. LEHMAN had the contract to take the Chicago Comedy Co. from Rico to the railroad and landed them in the classic village of Rockwood last Sunday afternoon, where they remained until the train went up to Silverton Monday.

On their return next trip they will be prepared to put on the boards a thrilling drama entitled: "Among the Bedbugs; or Scenes of a Night at Rockwood." The managers have telegraphed south for a bushel basket of terrapins about the size of a silver dollar, so as to make the scene thoroughly realistic.

D. A. HOLMES and Niels Peterson made an attempt yesterday to cross the Johnny Bull divide on their way to Disappointment. They'd have made it all right with their saddle animals, but they had several head of loose stock which could not be driven through the snow.

Chris Bang started out with them this morning with about 30 animals for his winter herd and they will go over by the meadow route. Mr. Holmes is on a tour of inspection and goes to see the range, prospects and people of the cattle country and has serious intentions of investing in cattle.

This accounts for the persistency with which Mr. Holmes has lately mounted a sawhorse in the rear of his store and made graceful casts at a hitching post with a rawhide lariat.

H. DAVENPORT came up from his ranch Thursday and says we were misinformed as to the action of himself and Fernby at the time of the death of Stephen Heaton and that instead of being brutal and unfeeling in the premises, they did everything possible under the circumstances.

The statement was made that Davenport and Fernby accompanied Mr. Heaton on the hunt and then permitted him to lie out in the hills four days, not even knowing the cause of his death.

Of course on the face of it this looks barbarous, but an explanation by Davenport shows how it occurred. He says: "We started out on a hunt together and separated quite early in the morning, agreeing to meet at the cabin at night. As he did not return we concluded he was belated or had camped with the result of the day's hunt. This was day No. 1. On the second day Mr. Fernby started out with some breakfast for him, and after hunting for him all the forenoon, finally found his dead body. He convinced himself that the man was quite dead, but owing to the peculiar manner in which Mr. Heaton was shot and his position the bullet wound did not show and he supposed Heaton had frozen to death. He got back to camp about three o'clock and I rode to notify the neighbors. Unfortunately, nearly all the people were away and it was dark when I got to the Bend. I started to come to Rico to notify Henry Heaton but sent another man and returned to the ranch on what was counted as the third day, after trying to get an officer to go with me. That night Henry came, and soon after daylight on the fourth day we were on the mesa to get the body down. We did the best we could under the circumstances, and were it to do over again would do the same."

Mrs. F. ROYS left Rico Thursday going via the northern route. She will go to New York state and remain until spring.

CHAS. NEWMAN came in Thursday and will remain several days on business connected with the Newman leases, some of which will expire January 1st, and in which there have lately been several changes.

By an oversight last week the names of Miss Nettie Gardner and Billy Bruns were omitted from the list of those who took part in the literary programme at the festival. As their instrumental duet was a very pleasing portion of the entertainment, they deserved recognition.

PERSONAL from last Saturday's Salt Lake Tribune: "Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Clay and two daughters, of Rico, Colorado, have been spending a few days in Zion on their way to Southern California, where they will spend the winter. Miss Lottie Sanders was with the party, and all were guests of Mrs. L. S. Kelsey, who is a sister to Mrs. Clay."

GEORGE THOMAS came in from Silverton last Sunday with teams and on Tuesday started on the road to Rockwood with Grand View bullion. This is a portion of the outfit referred to in the following article from the Silverton Miner:—"Reese & Clemons will move their teams and wagons to Rico at once, where they will be employed in hauling bullion from the Grand View smelter to Rockwood. The livery stable will be closed for the winter at this place on the 1st of next month."

AL. PUETT was arrested early this week charged with unlawfully slaughtering and selling cattle. He had driven in seven cattle, butchered them at the mouth of Horse Gulch and sold the quarters at a low rate. The local butchers thought they were entitled to some protection from competition of that kind and complained. Puett was arrested under the law which compels a butcher to file a bond to keep a correct record of the brands of every animal killed, showing where obtained, and also to keep the hides exposed for a period of 30 days. The defendant was brought before Justice Loring, called for a jury trial, was acquitted and went on his way rejoicing.

THE brands of Sam Todd and A. C. (Ike) Marshall, cattle owners of the Disappointment, appear this week. The "curry-comb" cow was photographed just as she was performing the trapeze act made famous in the blood-curdling narrative commencing: "Hey diddle diddle." In behalf of Mr. Marshall we feel called upon to restate under the engraver. That gentleman does not wear knee breeches—neither does he run around over the range in his stocking feet. Moreover, whenever he takes a notion to ride one of his A M steers in the A. M. or P. M. he just throws his foot into the half circle for a stirrup and faces the music. He don't grab the brute by the tail with that fierce look in his eyes and get his face behind him. In other respects, the likeness is all that could be desired. It might at first glance be mistaken for "Kankicky Joe," but this is purely accidental.

THE Romantic Miner.

A FEW miners about Rico and probably everywhere else, for that matter, seem to be determined to make mines where Nature, with capricious hand, has failed to deposit the necessary mineral. A mine without mineral is an anachronism not permitted in the mining world. Such persons as we speak of, lightly throw a pick over their shoulder and meander forth upon the hillside in the glad flush of some spring or early summer morning. The blithesome burro is laying his maternal lay, the merry camp-bird is hopping its before breakfast hop and all Nature seems to betoken that the occasion is an auspicious one. The prospector sings a merry roundelay, whatever that is, and feels his bosom swell with the conviction that he is in luck. It is not necessary to say that this man has never had designs on the county treasurer's office and been left in the lather. On the sun kissed slope he pauses, later on, to eat his noonday meal of sow-belly and Saratoga chips in the rough. As he munches he meditates and as he meditates a brilliant idea strikes him right between the shoulder blades. Why is this not a good place for a mine? Right at his feet the shelving precipice would provide a magnificent dump; here to his left is a bubbling spring of purest water; monster trees of spruce assure a never-failing supply of timber; up the grassy slope to the right a wagon road could be built to the mine, and then it is so very convenient to town. Besides the view is simply superb, and the cabin could be built in that little cluster of trees secure from snowslides—what more could heart desire? He therefore stakes the "Good-Enough-For-Me" mine, the name looking like so many links of sausage when its hyphens are all strung out on a convenient tree. Our prospector now considers his fortune as good as made, and expatiates to his friends of the manifold advantages of the "Good-Enough," its dump, water, timber, wagon road, convenience to town, scenery and security from snowslides. When asked a foolish question as to width of paystreak he will explain just how far the cross-cut will have to be run to tap the vein, and will run the tunnel and exhibit with pride a well timbered property with no ore.

This exaggerated picture illustrates the idiosyncy of a very few in the mining regions everywhere. They forget that often the best mines are found far above timber, almost inaccessible, where every stick of timber must be packed and where water is melted from snow. Nature cannot be forced, and such people might find a wholesome lesson in the fable of Mohammed and the Mountain.

McIntyre's Misfortune.

The ringing of the fire bell and the screaming of the Grand View whistle last Tuesday morning between 3 and 4 o'clock called the sleepers to their feet to witness an unwelcome sight. They had no difficulty in locating the fire, as almost the entire upper portion of the McIntyre, or old court house building, on the corner of Mantz avenue and Commercial street, was enveloped in flames, and it was evident from the first that little could be done beyond saving adjacent buildings.

Its final destruction was most complete—there are no standing chimneys or blackened walls. Everything is prostrate in a very small heap of ashes. This was one of the best buildings in Rico. Originally it was a substantial log structure, in which D. McIntyre kept a large stock of general merchandise in the early day. Later a frame was built over it and another story added and it was used a long time as a court house. In the fire Mr. McIntyre lost valuable papers and nearly all his personal effects. While "Mac" was ringing the fire bell, R. R. Hoadley took out the blankets and in them was a roll of greenbacks containing several hundred dollars—the property of Mr. McIntyre. This was lost from the blankets, much to McIntyre's dismay, but he was extremely fortunate. He kept quiet about it and found the roll on the snow in the middle of Mantz avenue after nearly all the crowd had gone home.

The fire was probably communicated from the flue, as Mr. Hoadley came in about 1 o'clock and built a fire in the stove for the purpose of cooking a lunch. The first known of the fire, Mr. Hoadley woke up almost suffocated by the smoke and fire was dropping all around from above. He waked Mr. McIntyre and they had time to save but little.

The building was insured for $1500, half of which is in the North America and the other in the Pennsylvania. Mr. Benson, Colorado agent for the companies, will probably be here in a few days to adjust the loss, although they may notify Mr. Towne, who issued the policies, to do so.

You Are in Danger!

Accidents happen and will happen continually. Accidents always happen when unexpected. Accidents happen from the carelessness of others. You cannot tell when your accident will come. Therefore an accident policy is a wise investment for you. The time to secure an accident policy is before you are hurt. If you are without, you fail to estimate your own risk. Any one who reads these axioms must be convinced that one of the most important developments of insurance in recent times, is insurance against accidents to human life. The expense is small, and in case of a disabling accident, the benefits are not deferred to a time when the insured person has no use of them. On the contrary, he receives the benefits while he is living and when they are urgently needed. Therefore to all men whose circumstances or occupations expose them to risks of accidents, and to those who foolishly imagine that they are exposed to no risks, Accident Insurance is especially valuable. To every merchant, clerk, tradesman, professional man, farmer, holiday-seeker, man-of-leisure, even to every person whose income supports a wife and children, Accident Insurance is of priceless value. To them may be recommended The United States Mutual Accident Association, which effects a saving to the insured of one-half the usual cost of Accident Insurance as practiced by other companies. It has paid to its members more than 5,000 claims for indemnity for accidents causing disabling injuries. It has in force over $125,000,000 of Accident Insurance policies which carry weekly indemnities at the rate of $30,000-000 per annum. It gives to its members Accident Insurance at a very low rate as compared with the cost of similar insurance in any other trustworthy company. It has no proven death or indemnity claims, or indebtedness of any nature unpaid. Its system is distinct and original. It is approved by more than twenty-five thousand patrons. It has never allowed a just claim to be litigated. It has always paid promptly every valid claim. The cost of membership for entrance fee in this Association is $6, paid but once. Members having preferred occupations, such as mercantile and professional pursuits, can carry a policy in the Association that grants $5,000 in the event of death by accident, and $25 per week in case of disabling injury, at a cost (after paying the membership fee) of about $13 a year, which may be paid at one time in advance, or in six assessments, as preferred. $10,000 Accident Insurance with $50 a week indemnity is furnished at proportionate rates. Marshall Clements Will Hang.

All Southern Colorado people are familiar with the particulars of the Saguahe double murder, the trial of Marshall Clements for which has been progressing some time.

"But I have no desire to rehearse the sickening details of your crime. By the laws of this state you have doubly forfeited your life, and now nothing remains for me to do but to pass the sentence of the law upon you."

"It is the sentence of this Court that you be taken from the bar of this Court to the county jail of this county, or to some other safe place of confinement within the town of Saguahe, to be selected by the sheriff, and that you be there confined until the 3d day of next December, the day fixed for your execution; that the sheriff of the county do on that day, between the hours of 7 o'clock in the forenoon and 5 o'clock in the afternoon of said day take you from the place where you shall at that time be confined, and convey you from there to some place within the county to be by said sheriff selected for your execution, and that the said sheriff shall then and there hang you by the neck until you are dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

The others of the Clements family who are suspected of complicity in the deed, will be held to trial on the charge of being accessories after the fact. A strong case has been made against them by evidence already adduced.

The Editor "Gets Even."

A yellow-backed pirate named Jim Cummings, who works for Sam Hardacre, near Millville, came to town last Saturday, and, while drunk at Creswell's grocery, made some remarks about us as we were passing along the street with our youngest daughter. He was soured because we turned him over two weeks ago and his crowd, that took the lynchpins out of old man Parson's buggy at the Goose creek meeting. When he spoke his insulting froth, Hanby Davis took it up, and in a row which followed, he struck the gorilla a sur-binder on the jaw which knocked him out from between his wool suspenders and loosened six of his teeth. He had Davis arrested by Marshall Billings, and the mayor levied a fine of ten dollars, which we paid for him as soon as we learned the facts. We intend to show up the whisky yahoos from the Goose creek neighborhood who try to run this town Saturdays; and by the way Han Davis is a candidate for town marshal. He is the man for that job every time.

A ROMANTIC wedding ceremony was performed one day last week on the summit of the range between Animas Forks and Lake City. The bride was Miss Mellie Connors, from Lake, who had arranged to meet and marry Oscar Olsen upon top of the Continental divide. She left Lake accompanied by her two brothers, and at the same hour Olsen left his Animas Forks home with Father Ley of Silverton. The minister, bride, groom and witnesses grouped themselves as closely together as their Norwegian showshoes would admit; the ceremony was gone through with, champagne was drunk as a toast and then the party scooted down the hill to Lake, where a banquet was given them in the evening. The marriage took place 13,000 feet above the sea-level. How is that for high?

A CHEYENNE paper says that an ancient miner's cabin has been discovered on one of the southern tributaries of the Popogee, in the Wind mountains, in a locality where no persons were ever known to be. The cabin has fallen in and will soon be completely rotted away. Remoteness is indicated by everything for twenty miles around. The miners are supposed to have been Canadian voyagers, parties of whom penetrated into that region before the earliest days of the present mining system.

When you come to think of it, it is not odd that literary people prefer a pipe to a cigar. It is harder to smoke when they are writing, and ever so much cleaner. And then it gives them the true essence and flavor of the tobacco.

The most fastidious smokers among all nations and all classes of men agree that the tobacco grown on the Golden Tobacco Belt of North Carolina is the most delicious and refined in the world. Lighter than Turkish, more fragrant than Havana, freer from nicotine and nicotine than any other, it is just what the connoisseur prizes and the habitual smoker demands.

The very choicest tobacco grown on this Belt is bought by Blackwell's Durham Tobacco Co., and appears in their celebrated Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco. It is known in the world over. Get the genuine, with Bull trade-mark, then you will be sure of having absolutely pure tobacco.
