tage of all.

Business For Ladies.

The opportunities for ladies to find employment that is both suitable and remunerative are limited, their pay is usually poor as compared with the salaries paid to men in same line of occupation.
But there are some very noted exceptions: journalism, the drama, music and platform offer equal advantages to men and women, and one occupation in which women are sometimes more successful than men, and that is in the management of agencies. In this line The Queen City Suspenders Company, of Cincinnati, O., are offering inducements to ladies that we think ought to attract attention. They are now manufacturing and introducing their new Stocking Supporters for Ladies and Children, and their unequalled Skirt Suspenders for Ladies.
None should be without them, our leading physicians recommend them, and are loud in their praise. These goods are manufactured by ladies who have made the wants of ladies and children a study, and they ask us to refer them to some reliable and energetic lady to introduce them in this county, and we certainly think that an earnest solicitation in every household would meet with a ready response, and that a determined woman could make a handsome salary, and have an exclusive agency. We advise some lady who is in need of employment to send to the Company, her name and address, and mention this paper. Address Queen City Suspender Company, Nos. 177 and 179 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio. 308-321.

The Barnacles of Colorado.

Of all the pertinent speeches made at the pioneer's banquet in Denver last week, the following extract from the plain, honest talk of Judge Stone is best calculated to cause the memory of the old barnacle to turn back for a moment to the early days:

How like the autumn days of 1860 are the bright Indian summer days we are now enjoying. How the memory goes back in such days. Do you remember how badly some of us wanted to go back to the old home when the first autumn days brought a sad yearning for the red-apple orchard, the nut-dropping woods, the smoke house and the well-filled barn.
Many a silver-haired woman, who was then a young wife and a young mother, will never forget the heart-ache and the bitter tear that she could not help as she sat in the lonely tent or sod cabin, patiently waiting for the success of her husband on the dusty plain or lonely mountain gulch.

These experiences formed character.
That, in spite of all homesickness and hardships and discouragements, the pioneers had the pluck, the bravery and the determined character to stay, to dig and delve and build, to bring fruit out of barrenness, blossoms out of ashes, smiles out tears—that result is what we are proud of and this is why we celebrate and join in our annual festivities. We have overcome the inhospitalities of the desert land, we have outlived the grasshoppers, the Indians are mostly gone and the coyotes would have been all gone if the Legislature had not provided a bounty for their cultivation.

No, we did not discover the country; we covered it. The trappers pretend that they discovered it. They came all the way out here because it was a fur country. But the beavers were here before the trappers. The beavers built the first houses. They were carpenters and plasterers by trade, and generally worked in the night. They were the first Knights of Labor. But they were a lawless tribe.
They cut down timber on the government land without complying with the pre-emption laws. They were shockingly profligate also, for they used more water than the average pioneer, they were always damming it. All this may seem rather flat, but then the tail of the beaver is always flat.

The trappers made the beavers go; the Pike's Peakers made the Indian go, and now the tenderfeet are trying to make the pioneers go. Well, we are going—when we get ready. The boys want to have some fun yet. We had some fun in the pioneer days, mixed with the cares and griefs. While everything came by hard work there was no conflict between labor and capital, for labor was the only capital then. The only successful strikes were ten cents to the man. The pioneers didn't loaf around hotels then to entice capitalists into buying out the country.

They did not have the fresh tourist and the opulent consumptive to prey upon; there wasn't any market for right of way or damages for getting blind stock run over. But there were some compensating privileges. We didn't have any election primaries there, nor book agents, nor city sewer taxes, nor banana peddlars, nor brass bands, nor drug-stores. Men didn't have to buy a swallow-tailed coat to go to a ball, nor did the women have their trains stepped on in the dance.

No man was asked his politics or religion. The only passport required was that he should be an honest, kind-hearted, law-abiding citizen, and all this was com-prehended in the question, "Is he white?" Nor had this any reference to the color of his skin. Men were not elected to office on National issues, and a United States Senator was a superfluous reminiscence.

The pioneers are called barnacles. Why they are so called I don't know, unless it is that they know enough to catch on, and when they think they have a good thing they know enough to stick to it.

And so they have stuck for a quarter of a century, until the country has grown great; and they have kept pace with its progress and are in the front rank to day in all its business, its professions, its enterprises, improvements, inventions and reforms. The Hon. Joseph E. Bates, the Mayor of this city, who presides, etc., is a barnacle, the youngest one in town.
As an illustration of all the rest let me instance Wm. F. Byers, that typical Colorado pioneer, who came here with an ox team and pushed behind the wagon in sandy places—we've all been there—and in a few weeks he will give us all a ride through the streets of Denver on railroad propelled by electricity.

The time is not only coming, but is here, when to have been a Colorado pioneer will be a distinction of honorable rank. They are the noble fathers and mothers of the land. When they are gone their children will take their places, and will proudly boast of being the children of pioneers; members of the F. F. C.'s—First Families of Colorado.

A PILE FOR POLYgamists.

Judge Powers, in his charge to the Grand Jury of Provo, Utah, instructed them that a separate indictment could be rendered for each day that a polygamist had lived with more than one wife since the passage of the Edmunds Act. The penalty for each indictment is six month's imprisonment and $300 fine.

Mining Superintendents.

Mining and Scientific Press.
In the palmy days of mining in Nevada and California there was a certain class of mining superintendents employed at big salaries, whose duties were very light, and who established reputations for themselves on the work accomplished by those under them. This was the case on the Comstock, where the superintendent entertained visitors, looked after bullion, gave dinners, and "did the grand," while their knowledge was in inverse proportion to their self importance. These men cut a fine figure while money was plenty, assessments were paid as soon as presented, and big works were put up.
Their responsibilities were small. They simply obeyed orders from headquarters where stocks were manipulated. With good men supervising mine and mill, they had a fine time of it; and the system lasted much longer than one would have supposed possible.

But the time came when the mines paid less; the assessments were paid grudgingly, and the stock market attracted less attention. Then the kid glove superintendent had to go. Knowledge of the work was of more importance than the entertainment of visitors. A different class of men came to the front.
Those who gained their knowledge under ground and near the stamps were more sought after. And this is the kind of men who to-day are generally superintending our best mines, while the "gentlemanly superintendents" have "taken a back seat."

It is true, salaries are not so high as formerly, and duties are more onerous; while at the same time the grade of intelligence in mining matters has been raised. Skilled men have displaced the ornamental figure heads who spent money with a lavish hand, secure in the feeling that it does not come out of their pockets. It must be acknowledged, of course, that there has been a decided improvement in the scientific and practical knowledge of superintendents. Men having special knowledge of milling, concentrating, smelting, leaching, etc., are to be found more readily now than years ago; and in all matters concerning the development of mines there is more experience. The old time superintendent cut more of a figure in the world than the manager of the present, but in practical results he was far behind his modern successor.

Consulting Her Father.

New York Sun.
Young Mr. Ch. H. Isidore Coshnighin of Harlem was plainly embarrassed. For some minutes he had rested uneasily in his chair, and Miss Smith of Ninth street, near Second avenue, upon whom he was calling, knew what was coming—or thought she did—and her heart throbs were as a ticking of a clock.
"Er—Miss Smith," he said feverishly, "could I—er—see your father for a moment or so?"
"My father?" she repeated with a blush, "certainly, Mr. Coshnighin," and excusing herself, she swept from the parlor.
Presently the old man came in, and after a short conversation with Mr. Coshnighin, he stepped to the door and summoned his daughter.
"It is getting late," said Mr. Coshnighin, whose face was radiant, "and, as I have a long ride before me, I think I will say good night. Will I have the pleasure of finding you at home on Wednesday evening, Miss Smith?"
Miss Smith blushing assured him he would, and young Mr. Coshnighin was en route to Harlem.
"Oh papa!" she began, "did he—" and then she stopped.
"You must ask no questions," said the old man and he smiled as he stroked his daughter's hair fondly. "Mr. Coshnighin wished to see me in regard to a little matter which for the present must remain a secret."

A Veritable Old-Timer.

Tribe-Republican.
Aunt Clara Brown, the old colored lady, and the "fifty-niner" whom all the residents of this city at that time knew, the old "aunty" who has nursed so many of them and who has fed not a few when they were hungry and out of cash, was a notable person at the Pioneer's Banquet on Thursday. No lady, young or old, fair or wealthy, had more attention than did she. Wolfe Londoner, in his reply to the toast, to "The Pioneer Women," paid a pleasant compliment to Aunt Clara, and mentioned her as first in the list. He said that Aunt Clara had told him during the evening that she did not know her age within a few months, but thought that she was 120. He also stated that she had recently been joined by her daughter, who was fifty years old, and from whom she had been separated for forty-two years.

BIG DITCHES.

—The irrigating works of Colorado are on a great scale. The "Grand River Ditch" in Western Colorado, at the beginning, is thirty-five feet wide at the bottom, fifty feet wide at the top, five feet deep for the first ten miles, then diminishing until the last two and a miles are sixteen feet wide at the bottom, with three feet depth of water. The grade is a little over twenty-two inches to the mile, which gives a strong current.
One company engaged in the irrigating business has constructed over 100 miles of canals in the Rio Grande Valley at a cost of $750,000.—Silverton Democrat-Herald.

PICKING OFF THE RASPBERRIES.

—A dispatch from Lordsburg, N. M., says news has just been received that Saturday, W. R. Raspberry, rancher, was killed by the Apaches on his ranch in Graham county, Arizona.

A MAN WENT INTO KNOWLES LAKE, near Middletown, Ohio, after laying a wager that he could remain under water two minutes. He won the bet, but he'll never get the money.

The Little Game Called Freeze-Out.

Of a very bad, yet very common feature of the mining industry the Telluride Journal makes the following sensible remarks:

"There are two games of freeze-out played. The one most in vogue in the saloons and card rooms consists in the players taking each one an equal number of chips, and then playing poker to see which one gets broke, that is loses all his chips. The man who loses all his chips is 'stuck' for the drinks or whatever has been played for. Sometimes money, or some article is played for. In this case the game must be played clear out, and as each player gets 'froze out' he steps down and out, and the one who is so fortunate as to hold out to the last, and gets all the chips, walks off with the pot. It is a very interesting game, with cards and and depends for success very much on the adroitness and 'sand' of the player.

The other game of freeze-out is not played with cards, neither is it played so openly as the game already described.
It is played altogether by members of a mining company. Like the other it requires a great deal of adroitness and 'sand' and, like the other, it is not very beneficial to the community in which it is played. Several men get together and buy a mine. It is then stocked at a certain sum and the stock issued in shares to the different stockholders. Then the game of freeze-out commences. The shares of stock represent the chips, and although the game is not played with cards like the other yet the process and result is about the same. A shallow effort is made to work the mines and if there is any hope or signs that the mines can be made to pay the work is stopped, and the knowing ones make a bluff for the others' shares. If the ones who are not in the ring are able to hold out the game is a long and tedious one, and all this time is only working detriment to the interests of the country. However the game is played to a great extent throughout the country all the same. No one is much benefited by the game, not even the winner, when time is taken into consideration. But some men are endowed with a great deal of patience and long suffering, and to such only the game is in any way enticing. The gambler who stakes his money on the turn of a card, or the throw of a die is generally a rustling, bustling fellow in his way, and does so with the hopes of winning money on the spot and at the time, and after all is not one-half such an eyesore to the country as he who attempts the game of freeze-out in a mining company. As much as can be said against gambling in all its phases it is not near as detrimental to the prosperity of the country as is this game of freeze-out played by mining men.
A mining camp that is so unfortunate as to have a company playing this game in its midst is unfortunate indeed. The company is no good to the country or to themselves. The mines that should be pouring forth their precious burden to add to the wealth of the country are lying idle. Why it is that men of judgment should engage in this game of freeze-out is beyond the comprehension of anyone."

It is true, salaries are not so high as

on Thursday. No lady, young or old,
paid a pleasant compliment to Aunt Clara,
forty-two years.

ARTHUR FASSBINDER, one of Fassbinder's additions, is in the city. His father, Peter Fassbinder, is one of Durango's pioneers, and Fassbinder's Addition (North Durango) is an elegant residence portion of that city.

F. BURGESS, Alfred W. Carpenter and Frank Derham came in from Fort Lewis Thursday after a deserter who had tired of life at the post at $18 a month "and found" and struck out on his own hook and a cavalry horse.

A JOLLY dance was enjoyed by the young folks at Webber Hall last evening, who danced to the music of a hand organ and ate oysters with their fingers. The affair was decidedly informal, but produced a world of merriment.

LAFE PENCE started out to Denver on Monday morning, but will pass through here again next week on his way to the term of District Court of San Miguel county. He will remain here a short time on Johnny Bull business.

On the 5th of last June, Jack Phelps, who has resided at Rico more or less for the past several years, following his occupation of gambling, was killed in a row with some circus men at Salida. Jack was in the wrong and sought the quarrel, missed his men, and was then killed by them. Smith and Porter, the two men under arrest, had a hearing at Buena Vista last Saturday and that night were acquitted of the charge.

This is about the time of year the dead bent who has summered in the mountains and contracted all the debts possible, begins to devise ways and means to "skip out" undetected to a lower altitude. Two or three started out this week.

Mrs. A. H. MUNDEE departed for the home of her parents in Leavenworth, Kas., accompanied by her infant children, Helen and Alfred Henry, Jr., on Monday morning last. They will be absent all winter, but will return in the spring.

THE birth of a girl baby to the wife of W. J. Muncaster last Wednesday morning is the latest addition to the feminine sex in this vicinity. The young lady starts out in life with the advantage of an avoirdupois of 94 pounds and a healthy pair of lungs.

If the creditors of this paper should see its editor wearing a suspiciously new hat, they must not jump at the conclusion that he is squandering any of his money on good clothes. Old Holmes has simply opened his heart and made a donation party.

L. D. RATLIFF went out this morning and after remaining a couple of weeks in Colorado Springs will proceed with his wife to Marion, Indiana. Work on the properties of the Mount Wilson company which he represents will not be suspended for some time yet.

THE pins are all set for the inauguration of the Rico post of the Grand Army this evening. Major W. S. Hickox, of Sedgwick Post, Durango, is expected to arrive on this evening's stage to preside, and possibly Department Commander A. V. Bohn will be here.

Mrs. DORA JONES, of Ophir, formerly Mrs. Dora Center, of Rico, came in yesterday, and instituted suit against Dr. F. Roys for the recovery of a sewing machine left here some time ago. The case was dismissed upon the surrender of the machine by defendant and his paying the costs.

JIM HALL returned yesterday from the Unimac company. He has been in all the towns of the Uncompaggre region and in Gunnison City since he left here. He has made a sale of his placer property on the Dolores to Goss & Co., of Salt Lake, and is preparing to hunt for more gold in lower altitudes this winter.

GRAVES & KEMPTON's Chicago Comedy Co., which will be pleasantly remembered as having played a successful engagement of one week in Rico last June, are thinking of making another San Juan tour, calculating to strike Rico about Nov. 5th to 12th. They say they have a finer company now than ever before, and are playing to the Kansas circuit.

JIM DOUGLASS, the celebrated Dolores running horse, ran against the horse W. R. Woodard at Moberly, Missouri, yesterday for a special purse of $2500, the distance being one mile and a sixteenth, entrance money to be added to the purse. The result is unknown to us up to time of going to press. We trust Johnson's jockey carried the Dolores colors well to the fore.

F. W. RAYMOND is now managing the business of the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Co. at Aberdeen, Dakota. He sends us a copy of the Republican of that place, and among a list of delegates to some convention, there appears the name of Matt Keane, the radiant sunburst of whose long and gory locks once cast resplendent shadows over hill and dale in the Dolores country.

DR. J. P. LANDON was summoned on Wednesday to attend Mrs. I. W. Lacy, who is lying quite ill at the residence of her brothers, the Brumleys, on the Dolores, just below the Big Bend. Mrs. Lacy is called the "cattle queen of the south-west," and is the widow of I. W. Lacy, the cattleman who was murdered by one of his cowboys, "Big Dan" Howland, in May, 1881, at a dug-out near Fort Lewis. Sam Burghardt accompanied the doctor and both are expected home to-day from their long trip.

NIGHT before last a stranger put up his horse in the Quinn barn and left town early in the morning. A short time afterward Dan McNea missed a bridge and some other traps, and knowing that the stranger was the only man who had had access to the barn, he concluded to follow him and recover the property. So he and John Kring mounted two fleet chargers and set the road on fire for half a day without overtaking the thief. Returning home last night worn out with the chase, the missing stuff was all found, having been covered up with hay. Their chagrin could have only been increased if they had overtaken the stranger.

THE Rico Fire Co. has this week established itself in new quarters next door north of Wakeman & Pellet's. This leaves the Armory to the exclusive use of the Rico Guards, and gives the fire laddies a convenient room for their apparatus, which is on the main business street and quickly accessible in case of need. The doors are flung wide open. The electric alarm which gives notice of fire will also release the horses from their stalls, and they quickly spring to their places at the truck. The harness is suspended above, and after buckling the collar is pulled down upon the horses as they make the first jump. That is to say this arrangement is contemplated "when the waterworks are built."

Since the little episode of Monday Munt Grigsby has concluded that stage driving is a little too rich for his blood, and D. H. Gilmore now takes all the chances of being kidnapped and collects the wages. Munt thinks the salary is not strictly in proportion to the expenses of the position.

ANDY BRYDON will take his departure in a few days for Denver, Chicago, and his old home in Toronto, Canada, intending to be absent until about April 1st next. Frequently recurring attacks of sickness, the last of which came near proving fatal, have made it necessary for him to seek a change of climate and rest from business cares for a time at least.

The St. James hotel has been leased for the ensuing six months to H. Dunton, who will endeavor to maintain the fine reputation always heretofore enjoyed by the house.

J. H. SHERMAN is nothing if not persistent. He came down from Calico Peak last Sunday and again endeavored to enter the house of a neighbor—the same one which he mistook on the previous Sunday night for the house of a friend to which he had the key. Mr. Sherman is not naturally a profane man but on discovering his second tantalizing mistake, which he did just as a double-barreled shot gun was brought to bear on him from the window, he announced in very vigorous language that he would be essentially goldbrued by the great horn spoon if he wouldn't forever camp out in the brush before he would try to find a strange in house the night time.

The Telluride Killing. The San Juan press has had but few shooting scrapes to chronicle this year, but Telluride furnished a fatal case last Sunday evening, the victim being Mike Watson, and the man who did the shooting was bartender McDonald, of the Brunswick. Watson had been drinking for several hours and endeavored on various pretenses to engage in trouble with McDonald. In the evening Watson again entered the place and McDonald, thinking to appease him, asked him to take a drink with him. Watson walked to the bar and then called every man in the house up to drink. This was more of a good thing than the bar tender had bargained for, but he concluded to let the treat be general and avoid trouble.

After the drinks had been taken, Watson hurled the whiskey bottle at McDonald, and then commenced to throw all the bottles and glasses at him. McDonald pulled a pistol and shot him through the left breast near the heart, and Watson fell with one of the missiles still in his hand. He died in twenty minutes. McDonald had a preliminary examination last Wednesday and was discharged. Usually public sympathy goes out to the dead man, but in Telluride the verdict is that Watson got his deserts, and that living he was a cheap tin-horn and a hold-out, and was better dead. Ed Flanagan, of Rico, was standing at Watson's elbow, when the latter received his death wound.

A Road-House Sensation. A very sensational affair has agitated the usually placid current of the life of the stage drivers on the Rico and Rockwood road this week. When the incoming stage stopped for dinner on Monday, at Flag Station, the well-known half-way house, the driver, Munt Grigsby, was requested by Mrs. Watson to step into a side room. Supposing that there was an order to be sent to town for goods, as is often the case, Grigsby followed. On reaching the room, he found that he was "all surrounded," and was informed that Miss Lillie Gaffer, sister-in-law of Perley Watson, would in course of due time be come a mother, and that he (Grigsby) was held responsible for her pitiable condition. Grigsby denied the allegation, but under existing circumstances it would have been the height of folly for him to defy the allegator. He was informed that he was a prisoner, and would be kept so until married to the prospective mother and had also paid a stated money consideration. At the dictation of Perley, Munt wrote a note to his brother in Rico telling him to come out and bring a justice of the peace and $500. A new driver took the stage on to Rico and Munt was held in durance vile. All the dreary afternoon he sat a lonesome prisoner and when he retired to his virtuous couch, his clothes were taken from the cell and hidden, so that in case of possible escape, he would be in bad shape for travel over mountain roads at this altitude. All this time he was kept under close surveillance, and was so until the stage from Rico brought Grigsby's brother and a couple of friends. After a short parley through closed doors, the delegation was admitted and an arrangement perfected for the release of the prisoner, who came to Rico. The whole affair is a bad piece of business and who is most to blame for it, is not for us to say. While Grigsby admits that he may be the author of the mischief, he thinks it would be a hard matter to decide.

Relics of Capt. J. W. Gunnison.

Gunnison Review-Press. This morning Mr. J. W. G. Coffran, a nephew of Capt. J. W. Gunnison, for whom this city and county were named and who was killed by the Indians while acting as United States civil engineer in Utah in 1853, came in from San Francisco with some relics of Capt. Gunnison to present the city. The memento consisted of a very handsome cabinet, made of redwood, black walnut, live oak and mahogany, all California woods, containing the epaulets worn by Capt. Gunnison at the time he was killed, almost 32 years ago. Between the epaulets is a silver plate, bearing the following inscription:

Relics of CAPT. J. W. GUNNISON, Killed by Indians Oct. 23, 1853, while surveying route for Central Pacific Railroad under orders from United States Government. Presented to Board of Trade of Gunnison City by A. R. Gunnison, of San Francisco, California.

The donor of the relics is a brother of Capt. Gunnison.

THE United States vessels Swatara and Yantic, engaged in transporting silver from the New Orleans mint to the treasury at Washington, arrived at the Washington navy yard last Saturday night and the transferring of the coin to the treasury department was begun on Monday, and the work was calculated to be finished during the week by the Adams Express company, the wagons of which will be guarded by United States marines. The amount of coin in the vessels was $10,400,000, all in silver. When the coin is all received at the treasury department, the count will begin, a labor which will occupy two months. For a time it was feared that the vessels and their precious cargoes had fallen a prey to pirates, as it was two days after they were due in Washington before they were even heard from. The vessels were delayed by heavy gales off Hatteras. The vessels were staunch and strong and in charge of able and discreet officers.

A DISPATCH from Winnipeg gives an account of the trial of the renegade Indians who raised merry shod in the Manitoba country last spring. In that region the Indians are made to answer to law. The telegram says that at Battleford yesterday—Saturday—Wandering Spirit was sentenced to hang for the murder of Agent Quinn at Frog Lake. Some dozen other Indians were sent up for from four to fourteen years for arson and horse stealing. Charleboise and Dressyman were convicted of murdering a woman and were sentenced to hang. Guison Mongrand, a half-breed, was found guilty of murdering Constable Cowan at Fort Pitt and received a similar sentence. Bright Eyes was given twenty years for manslaughter. Wandering Spirit and Mongrand are to hang Nov. 27, at Regina. Big Bear and eight of his band were sentenced to 3 years in the Manitoba penitentiary, and Left Hand, Poor Crow and two others got two years.

"I tell you, Bromley, I've married an angel." "O, no doubt, but wait until you've been married as long as I have." "She's all smiles, Bromley; never a cross word. Her voice is as sweet as a harp." "O, she reminds you of a harp, does she? Inside of a year she'll remind you of an accordion." "But why of an accordion?" "Because she will make the most noise when you attempt to shut her up." This is the heartless way a Philadelphia paper describes a recent conversation.

PARALYZING PEN from a N. Y. paper.—"I don't think we need rain very badly," said the President of the Punsters' Club to the conductor of a Third Avenue car. "You would think so if you were half-blinded by the dust every day." "Maybe so I would; but I just saw a dude drop on the sidewalk." The bell-puller was so much paralyzed that he didn't have the power to knock down a fare.

WILLIAM G. WILLIAMS, an old pioneer of Clear Creek and Gilpin counties, and known to all the old-time residents of that section, died last week. He lived at Central City from 1866 to 1878, when he worked the Bobtail lode. He seemed to have been well supplied with ready cash, having had $4,600 on his person at the time of his death.

THE dividends paid by six Colorado incorporated mines for the six months ending June 30th, last, was $698,550, against $465,000 for the same period in 1884.
