Swine Flu Vaccination Clinic Set At Lubbock High for Elderly, Ill

A swine flu vaccination clinic for the elderly and the chronically ill has been set for Saturday and Sunday at Lubbock High School's cafeteria.

Lubbock Health Department officials said the two-day clinic will be for persons aged 65 years and older and for persons suffering from chronic illnesses such as asthma, heart disease, diabetes, neuromuscular disorders and malignancies.

The clinic will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. There will be public parking on the north side of Lubbock High School. The public is to enter the building on the east side along avenue T. Wheel chair ramps will be provided.

Health Department medical director Dr. David Cowgill urged all persons aged 65 or older to consider attending the free clinic. Persons who are chronically ill are encouraged to consult their private physician before attending the clinic.

Seating will be provided for those waiting to receive inoculations. All persons will be required to read and sign an information form explaining the swine flu prevention program before receiving the flu shot.

All inoculations will be administered under the supervision of a physician. There will be an interview with a doctor after a shot is given.

The vaccine to be given Saturday and Sunday is the bivalent type that inoculates against swine flu and the Victoria flu.

Additional clinics will be announced later for persons between the ages of 18 and 65 who will receive vaccine for the swine flu only.

Vaccines for the swine flu have been tested with persons over age 18 and are proven to produce very few side effects, according to the U.S. Public Health Service. Some people who received the vaccine had fever and soreness during the first day or two after vaccination.

Fluoride—dentists claim it's good for the teeth, but too much of the substance can be harmful to the human body.

Keeping fluorides and other contaminants found in domestic water supplies at levels safe enough for human consumption is the intent of the Safe Drinking Water Act passed by Congress in 1974. The act authorized the Environmental Protection Agency to adopt regulations that will go into effect in June, 1977.

Texas is one of about six states experiencing problems with too much fluoride in its public water systems, noted C.K. Foster, director of the division of water hygiene for the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Foster and other TDHR officials as well as EPA representatives conducted classes on the new federal water law and its impact on South Plains cities during a water utilities short course that started Tuesday in Lubbock. About 400 water utilities personnel from throughout West Texas participated in the three-day training session.

During a Tuesday morning press conference, Foster estimated that approximately 480 public water systems in Texas exceed the maximum fluoride levels, with about 200 of these systems located on the South Plains.

Although the City of Lubbock's water system has a safe fluoride level, the TDHR has identified 31 water systems in the county that contain too much fluoride.

"A good number of these (water systems) are in mobile home parks," explained Floyd Williams, chief of the domestic water supply branch of the TDHR.

Shallowater's water system also has been identified as containing more fluoride than the maximum level, Foster and Williams pointed out.

Compliance with the federal regulations does not have to be done immediately, Foster said, but by 1981, all systems have to be in compliance with the law unless they plan to join a regional system.

Under the act, communities can apply for a variance or an exemption to the law.

A variance can be granted if a community's water supply does not meet requirements of maximum allowable contaminants levels and no treatment techniques are available to remove the contaminant—if the water does not represent a risk to the public health. Foster said a variance could not be granted for water systems containing too much fluoride, however, because there are treatment techniques available to reduce fluoride levels.

If it is not economically feasible for a community to immediately comply with the act, an exemption may be granted if the water supply is not hazardous to the public health. According to Foster, the community must hold a public hearing at least one year after the exemption is granted and set up a compliance schedule.

Still to be determined is who will enforce the regulations, Foster said. The federal law allows states to assume the enforcement responsibility he said. But if the state does not enforce the law, the federal government will.

Starving Artist Sale Scheduled

The fifth annual Lubbock Jaycee-Ette Starving Artist Sale will be held this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the former

Last year's sale had over 350 artists entered, and over 40,000 people attended. The sale this year promises to have even a larger number of artists with even more different mediums and types of crafts.

Artists from all over Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma have entered the sale. Art works and crafts range from painting, pottery, batik, sculpture, needlework, to macrame and jewelry.

Money raised from the sale's commission goes back to the community to help local service organization. In the past, proceeds from the sale have gone to Lubbock Meals-on-Wheels, the YWCA, Multiple Sclerosis, Texas Boys Ranch, Humane Society, Camp Kiwanis and other worthy community organizations.

The success of the sale depends solely on artist and public participation. All interested persons are encouraged to participate and purchase arts and crafts during the sale.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

It was as good a football game as anyone would want to see, that battle between Texas and Texas Tech. The decision wasn't nailed down until Raymond Clayborn was stopped on a punt return.

Clayborn scares you. He's one of a bevy of fast backs that the Longhorns have and it was conceivable that he could return it all the way, not probable, but possible.

I was standing on the Texas side of the field. I saw Clayborn look up, make the catch. Then I saw what he saw, a solid wave of red bearing down. He didn't have a chance.

The Steers, champions that they are, came silently up the ramp to the dressing room. No tears showed, only the sweat of battle and obvious despair that they had lost. They had fought the good fight and lost a hard decision.

Darrell Royal also took it like the gentleman he is. There were no alibis, no complaints. He complimented Tech, Steve Sloan, his own Jim Johnson, Ted Constanzo, the Texas offensive team "we moved the ball better and scored better."

It was quiet and players dressed quickly and left. Probably telling the story better than anything else were the orange and white paper streamers over the doorway. They seemed to sag like the Longhorns.

Both coaches agreed that Rodney Allison's scramble for a first down was the turning point in the game, along with Texas' failure to move in for a 21-7 lead when the Steers had a first down at the Tech 20, leading 14-7.

Three plays forced the Horns back 26 yards and Russell Erxleben's kick was low and short.

"It was a mixup between the center and me," he said. "I wasn't ready when he snapped the ball."

Now the game is history, the sixth triumph in a season that has been one of surprises. And one of the big questions, partially answered in the A&M game, has been fully answered—can the Raiders play a physical game? Yes, they can.

They paid a price. Both teams did in a battle that had hard hitting from start to finish. Fortunately, it appears that Travis Mileur is the only Tech casualty.

Incidentally, when Greg Mahoney snapped the ball for the game's final punt, that was the first time he had centered the ball in a game! He answered the pressure.

Arkansas answered the pressure by overcoming Rice, although not exactly as expected and that leaves the Raiders and Razorbacks as the only undefeated teams in the conference. A step behind are Texas and Houston, neither out of the race.

Darrell said that he thought Tech was in the best position to win the title and Steve, in a way, agreed. He said that he didn't think Arkansas could beat both Texas and A&M. The Hogs do get both Tech and A&M in Little Rock, face Texas in Austin.

Sloan was relaxed at his press conference following the game. I was standing by the sandwiches (where else?) when he came in. We shook hands and I offered congratulations.

"Thanks a lot," he replied quietly. "I just wish you'd quit scheduling those breathers, though, coach," I remarked.

Steve almost doubled up with laughter, and much of the conference, after that, followed that routine. It was serious, then humorous.

For instance, Steve was asked if the publicity Tech was getting had an effect on his team. It was pointed out that Sports Illustrated was here, along with writers from all over the state.

Steve's reply was that they tried to talk with the squad and that the publicity helped in recruiting, school spirit, alumni relations, in everything.

"I'll tell you one thing," he quipped. "I'm getting a lot more calls from around the nation since we've been No. 6 than when we were No. 83!"

Dan Cook San Antonio sports writer, broke precedent and was typing a column during the conference. He suddenly asked Steve if it bothered him to have him type?

"No, it doesn't bother me, Dan," he said. "I don't care if you take your clothes off!"

On Allison's apparent injury: "He was having cramps, in his calves. We chatted on the sideline with him and shoot, I'd have kissed his calves if that would have helped!"

On Billy Taylor's dives into the end zone: "He goes so high that you'd nearly have to be on a stepladder to stop him. I was afraid that he was going over the crossbar!"

On Allison's three carries at the one, Sloan said that he wasn't worried "We've had good luck with the sneak this season. The trouble was that the line was blocking to the right and Allison was going to the left. I kept thinking he'd make it. Finally decided that we'd better try something else!"

TCU comes up this week and this game is scary. The Horned Frogs don't have a record worthy of fright, but usually, once a season, the Frogs play over their heads and upset someone. If Tech isn't alert, it could be this week.

Rice almost slipped up on Arkansas and the conditions are not dissimilar. The Raiders, bruised and weary after the Texas game, can't afford a letdown. I don't look for one, but with the possibility that an announcement about Jim Shofner's future might be forthcoming, it could be scary.

Producers Warned to Check Their 1977 Seed Tags

COLLEGE STATION — Farmers buying certified seed to plant their 1977 crop should pay particular attention to the labels on the seed bag—there's been a change.

"Certified seed sold after January 1 next year must bear two labels—one certifying the variety and the other indicating a number of seed quality factors," points out Dr. Robert B. Metzger, cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Whereas in the past, seed was certified for both variety and quality factors, the certification now pertains only to the genetic identity of the seed. However, since the Texas seed law still requires that seed quality information be truthfully stated, an analysis label must also accompany all certified seed, explains Metzger.

"The analysis label will tell the farmer such things as purity, inert matter, other crop seed, weed seed, noxious weed seed and germination," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist. "The fact that the seed is certified has nothing to do with these particular factors."

Metzger explains the new certification labeling this way. "Take cottonseed, for example. TAMCOT SP37 sold as certified seed must bear a label (blue in color) that indicates that the seed is indeed the SP37 variety. The certification label will show net weight, kind and variety and who produced the seed, but nothing on quality factors. A second label on the seed bag will list the various quality factors mentioned above and will tell the farmer the percentage that the seed contains, such as the per cent of weed seed.

"The main thing for farmers to remember when buying certified seed for the 1977 crop is to look at both labels on the seed bag," emphasizes Metzger. "Both labels must be checked to get the complete story on the seed."

The change in seed certification standards in Texas came about recently in an effort to assure a

Insulation Firm Opens

Basin Insulation Co. has announced the opening in Lubbock of a franchise business dealing in the foam insulation of wall cavities in homes and commercial facilities.

Bill Harding, Lubbock manager, will operate from temporary headquarters at 4511 42nd St., according to J.W. Luchini of Midland, owner.

The firm's product is a urea-formaldehyde foam designed to be pumped into wall cavities under pressure from a small orifice in the wall. The fully expanded foam fills the smallest crevices, Luchini said.

This type of insulation is expected to reduce heating and cooling costs about 30 per cent, and up to 50 per cent, the company indicated.

Harding said the insulation is non-combustible to more than 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit. At that point it vaporizes, releasing a non-toxic gas, primarily water vapor, according to the company.

News From The Shallowater Schools

HORSE TALES

Senior Spectacular

by Janice Cook

Our honored senior this week is Laura Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tevis Walker.

This January-born female tells us that her favorite subjects this year are psychology and journalism. Talking is required in psychology and she likes that. Journalism is a very special interest because Laura is on the yearbook staff; in fact, she is the Editor.

She is a member of the FHA and is treasurer of that organization. As a member of the high school band, Laura has been able to accomplish a difficult task—being on the All-Region Band for two years. In other UIL competition, she has received awards in Feature Writing and Typing.

Laura enjoys music, basketball, traveling, and most of all, just having a good time in anything that she does. Some of her hobbies are oil painting, writing, and collecting miniature pianos. She belongs to 12th Street Church of Christ.

After graduation, she plans to attend college. She would like to be a dental assistant, or music therapist. Laura has enjoyed her twelve years of school in Shallowater, but she "is ready for something different and new" to her.

A Chilling Upset

by Gloria Lara

The seventh grade Ponies had another upset this past Thursday night. They, too, went against the O'Donnell Eagles but they just weren't as lucky. For a while they had a victory but, the Eagles wouldn't give in. The Ponies tried very hard but they still lost by a score of 14-6. They also travel to Stanton this coming Thursday. Let's bring home a victory. Good luck Ponies!

Zero-Zero

by Claudett Lamb

That is the way the junior varsity game went last week. Shallowater and O'Donnell both played a hard defensive game. Neither team was able to score. This week is open to them, but next week they play Stanton. Good luck to you in your last game. GOOD LUCK!

FHA News

by Debbie Paul

The Future Homemakers of America want to thank all those who came to the Chili Supper Friday night. The girls had a great time preparing the meal and they served more people than they had served at any of their previous suppers.

We appreciate the community's involvement in our projects and activities.

A Skin Shaking Win

by Gloria Lara

Last Thursday night was one of remembrance. That was the night the Mighty Ponies went against the O'Donnell Eagles, and it was freezing cold. It had been snowing for a couple of days and for a while they thought there was going to be no game. But as our boys are strong, they played. They wanted a quick victory; so, during the first quarter, Marcus Lara went in for two touchdowns to make it an overwhelming score of 14-0. As the game continued into the second quarter, Ronnie Rosas went in for a touchdown that made it 20-0. The Ponies were strong and they kept that strong score and they held back the Eagles. In other words they plucked them clean. This coming Thursday they will be traveling to Stanton. This will also be the last game of the season. The Ponies plan to bring home another victory. Let's wish them luck and let's go out and support them if we can. Good luck Ponies!

Football Sweetheart

by Suzie De Anda

Robbin Mauldin was honored by being presented to the crowd at the Shallowater-O'Donnell game as the 1976 Football Sweetheart. She was given a glittering red and black helmet, symbolizing the football team, during pre-game activities.

Shelly Adams, Kim Myers, and Judy Waller were also nominees for Sweetheart. The escorts were Jesse Longoria, Dwaine Thomas, Curtis Lester, and Wes Walker.

New Club In Junior High

A new club, sponsored by Mrs. Raines and Mr. Barnes, has been formed at Shallowater Junior High for students who enjoy Math and Science.

The Math and Science Club is made up of forty members and the elected officers are: Louis Whaley, President; Kelly Roberts, Vice President; Sheirsa Rolling, Secretary; and, Robin McMenamy, Treasurer.

Activities of the club will include field trips, money-making projects, service projects, and recreational trips. Saturday, Oct. 30, club members were involved in an egg sale. A trip to a chemistry lab at Texas Tech was taken Nov. 1.

Notice

Retakes for Shallowater School students will be this Friday, beginning at 11:00. Please wear colorful clothing as the pictures are in color.

Friday is also the last day for students to pay for or return the school-day pictures. The package is $5.72.

Mustangs Slide To Victory

Shallowater dominated the game against the O'Donnell Eagles even though the score of 6-0 does not show it. The Mustangs were much more willing to play in the snow than was O'Donnell and they proved it.

Billy Glenn put the Mustangs on the scoreboard quite early in the first quarter with a 43-yard run. The extra point attempt failed and the score stood 6-0. No more points were scored, but the Mustangs had many opportunities to do so. Turnovers deep in O'Donnell territory prevented Shallowater from running the score up. O'Donnell had their share of turnovers. Curtis Lester intercepted two Eagle passes, with Andy Blackmon and Steve Waller both recovering fumbles.

Every player really put out with great blocking, running, and tackling. The offense and the defense were both very impressive. Billy Glenn's 43-yard run was just the start of a great night of rushing. Billy ended the game with a total of 183 yards rushing.

The win gave the Mustangs a 1-2 district record. This week is an open week, but the Mustangs will be back in action a week from Friday against Stanton. The drive is a long one, but for those who can make it, it will be appreciated. A victory would give Shallowater 2-2 record ensuring the Mustangs of a third place finish in the very tough 5-A District.

Losing Tie is Trophy

by Alison Terry

Mr. Harris, our principal at SHS, has been wearing a plain, white tie for the past eight weeks! After our first football victory against Sands, it was proclaimed by Mr. Harris as the "victory tie." Several Mustang losses followed this proclamation and our beloved principal was convinced his "victory tie" was a jinx. Therefore, he converted the name of his tie to the "losing tie." He made it known to all that as soon as we won another gridiron contest, the "losing tie" would be cut off by the Mighty Mustang football captains.

Last Friday night, Big Red snowed under the O'Donnell Eagles and the scoreboard read 6-0 at the end of the game. What extreme joy lay ahead for the captains of the Mustang Machine!

Tuesday the moment everyone at SHS had been waiting for arrived. Witnessed by an assemblage of the student body, Mr. Harris' tie was snipped off by the captains.

The "losing tie" is now resting peacefully in the Mustang locker room as a trophy—and a reminder to GET STANTON.

A Change in Time

by Gloria Lara

How do I like the change? As we all know, we went off daylight-savings time this past Saturday. It really gives us an extra hour. Many students like it because they say they "can stay out later on dates," they have "more time to study," but they all like it better because they "can sleep later!" The change was for the better. We like it!

When Bad Weather Threatens

IF (and that is a big if) there is ever a need to call school off, you can find out by listening to your radio. Tune in KSEL and KLLL for the Shallowater School information. Because the school calendar is set without consideration of missing because of bad weather, any missed days would mean a make-up day by students and faculty.

Hall of Fame

Larry Bartlett, Andy Blackmon, and Lane Giles are the Hall of Famers honored this week. All three of the young men are sophomores and first year varsity players.

Larry Bartlett works very hard as a football player and he gets good results. Larry is 5' 9" and weighs 140 pounds. Larry plays both ways doing a good job at both. On the defensive side, Larry plays in the backfield preventing the opponent from passing. Larry is a split-end on offense, running pass routes and blocks. He does a good job at both, helping the offense move down the field. Watch for number 10 will be Larry Bartlett.

Andy Blackmon shows outstanding potential as a football player. He goes at it all game long hitting people and anything else that needs to be done. Andy is a good sized player at 6 feet even and 165 pounds. Andy is a linebacker on defense who hits people hard, a facet of the game that he really enjoys. Andy plays quarterback on the other side. Of late, he has seen a lot of action in this position. Andy does a good job at quarterback. You will see him wearing number 15.

Lane Giles also stands 6 feet, but is five pounds lighter than Andy making him 160 pounds. Lane loves the game of football and enjoys to run with the ball. He plays as a wide receiver on offense and gets chances to show his enjoyment by catching the ball and running with it. Lane catches and runs the ball well giving fans enjoyment. Lane is the defensive safety, his job being to stop whatever may get past the line and secondary. Lane wears number 21.

"Snow"

Snowmen, snowball fights, snow down your back. The students really enjoyed the snow at Shallowater High School. There were snowballs flying and many people were slipping. It was dangerous but "boy" was it fun. It's not everyday you get snow, but when it's here, we take advantage of it. (Thanks for the snow, who ever sent it, and please send more.)

Thanks,
A representative from
