

City - County Officials Resolve Dispute

Paper Staff Visits Home Offices

by Sue Wall

A Shallowater High School journalism class and two sponsors, Mrs. Sharon Barker and Mrs. Dora Potter, a student teacher, went on a field trip to Publication Service Company in Lubbock last Thursday.

The company publishes the West Texas Times, the Wolforth Plainsman, and the Shallowater Suburban Today.

After lunch at the Bonanza Sirloin Pit, the seven students, Caran Conner, Melissa Martin, Anita Alvarado, Laura Walker, Sue Wall, Kim McMenemy, and Chris Hutchings, witnessed the method by which their school paper is produced.

The students were met by Mr. Norman Williamson, publisher, and Richard Mason, a reporter for the company.

Mr. Mason critiqued the student's articles and offered suggestions for news and feature story ideas.

The class was then taken to the typesetting room where Zuella Wheeler and Mr. Williamson typed an article and headlines to illustrate how stories are fitted into columns.

Mr. Williamson demonstrated methods for enlarging and decreasing the size of pictures in the darkroom. Afterwards, he explained layout procedure to the students.

The staff would like to express their appreciation to the employees of Publication Service Company for showing Shallowater students how articles are put together in the Suburban Today.

Shallowater High journalism students Caran Conner, Laura Wall, Anita Alvarado, and Chris Hutchings watch copy being arranged by a typesetting machine in the offices of Publication Service Company, publishers of the Shallowater Suburban Today.

The students journeyed to the Lubbock office last week to see how the newspaper was produced.

In a special session held Saturday morning, county commissioners unanimously agreed to fund joint city-county programs at previous levels, to approve a $99,550 Hospital District contribution to the city-county Health Department, and to contract with the city for fire service at $400 per call made outside city limits.

The agreement between the officials is contingent upon a Hospital District contribution of $55,000 to the Health Department budget plus an additional $44,550 to cover an 81 per cent inflationary factor on services which the original 1968 Hospital District funds financed.

The county, which approves the Hospital District budget, last month vetoed the district's $55,000 share of the Health Department budget and cut their own funding to the unit from 25 to 15 per cent after the city decided to raise rates for fire calls made outside city limits by the municipal fire department from $506 to $723 during 1976.

A five hour Friday night meeting between council members and county commissioners ended with a city proposal to offer the county rural fire service for $400 per call provided the county fund joint programs at previous city-county percentages, and approve the $99,550 Hospital District contribution to the health unit.

The joint programs and percentage city-county funding are: Library 60-40 city; Health Department 75-25 city with a $55,000 contribution by the Hospital District; General Welfare 65-35 county; and Child Welfare 50-50 split.

The city administers the library and health units while the county administers welfare.

In addition, the county contracts with the city for services such as fire, and, before the establishment of the Emergency Medical System, ambulance service.

The Friday night meeting ended with the county holding out for a $300 cost per fire call.

Without the agreement, fire service outside city limits would have expired November 28th, and Health Department programs would have been cut December 31st, since county funding at previous rates to both those units lasted only to those dates.

The cost of fire service calls to the county was based on a formula worked out last year between city and county officials. The city subtracted those parts of their fire department budget which provided fire service to the airport, financed fire hydrants, fire boxes and other non-operating costs, and divided the number of fire calls made to the county into the remaining figure. The total cost per call amounted to over $800.

The city divided that figure by two-thirds because of the time involved in getting to the fire, and arrived at a cost of $506 per fire call made outside the city limits.

This past year, fewer calls were made beyond city limits, so the

Roundballers Lose to Post

The Shallowater Mustang basketball team played its second game of the season last Friday night on their home court. They took on a strong team from Post and lost by a score of 56-47.

Chris Hutchings had 11 points for the game and Daryl Morris came up with 19 points.

The girl's basketball team played Post Friday also, losing 62-52. Kim Young had 22 points, Robin Truelock scored 12 and Beverly Pair had 11 points.

First State Bank of Shallowater Elects New Officer Recently

At its November meeting, the Board of Directors of the First State Bank of Shallowater, elected Mark Huckabee as Assistant Vice President of the bank. Due to the continued growth of the bank, now having assets of over 11 million dollars, the Board felt the need for another bank officer.

Mark is a native of Lubbock and was an honor graduate of Monterey High School. He attended Texas Tech University and graduated with honors with a B.B.A. degree in general business. He was also a National Merit Scholar.

Mark and his wife, Billie, are members of the First Baptist Church in Lubbock and they are both active in the music ministry. Mark is a charter member of the Shallowater Chamber of Commerce and is on the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) natural resources advisory committee.

Mark's duties now as assistant vice president will include general lending functions and handling the bank's credit department. He will also handle all advertising for the bank and business development.

Littlefield Textile Plant In Completion Stages

A $30 million textile plant capable of producing 20 million yards of denim annually—about 19 million pairs of blue jeans—is nearing completion in Littlefield.

Permanent offices were completed this past week, and some management personnel will begin moving to the new building November 18th.

The plant, owned by American Cotton Growers and co-sponsored by 27 area regional farmer cooperatives, is located on a 105 acre site east of Littlefield.

Training on weaving machines and long-chain beamers began in September for the 200 people expected to start work in early 1976. By fall of that year, the plant will employ 500 people with an annual payroll of $3.3 million.

Under total operation, the mill will consume 65,000 bales of raw cotton a year, weaving and spinning 10 per cent of the denim produced by the free world.

Construction on the building, which covers nine acres, began in May, 1975.

Over $18 million has been spent on equipment for the facility.

Local Fireman Receives Award

LaVon McAuley was honored last Thursday night at the Fireman's Annual Awards Banquet, held in the women's building at the South Plains Fairground. LaVon received the Community Service Award, which is awarded each year to the Lubbock fireman who has contributed the most to his community.

The letter of nomination was sent by Jack Dulaney to the board that selects the winner of the award.

LaVon and his wife, Pat, have been married for 23 years and have three children. LaVon has been a fireman in Lubbock since 1968. He was also employed as a fireman in Odessa, Texas, making a total of 15 years as a fireman.

"WASHINGTON AS SURVEYOR"

At the age of 15, the future "Father of Our Nation" began his career as a surveyor. His first major project, in 1749, was to help lay out the new city of Alexandria, Virginia. Later in that same year he was appointed official surveyor of Culpepper County, Virginia. Also in that same year he surveyed the Shenandoah Valley. By 1750, he owned nearly 1,500 acres of land in the valley. SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

One season begins before another has finished in sports and nothing could be truer than in Tech basketball. The Raiders already have one game under their belts and the official opener coming up.

Kansas State invades the Coliseum Saturday night and easier opening games have been found. The Wildcats are pre-season choices to win the tough Big 8, are ranked in the top 20 and could make a serious run at the national championship.

Tech assistant, George Davidson, himself a K-State basketball ex, holds the Wildcats in opinion that reaches almost the state of awe. He knows what the Wildcats possess.

"There may be better guards, somewhere," he opines, "but I'd bet that no single team in the nation has two guards as good as Kansas State's. They are unrelievable. They can do it all and what that means is, they'll beat you."

The Raiders "warmed up" by playing the Yugoslavian National team last week and took a 65-62 beating in the process. It was, of course, only an exhibition and did not count on the season's record.

Frankly, I was impressed. The Nationals already had a couple or three games under their belts; Tech was in its first outing. Under the circumstances, the Raiders did well.

Obviously, Tech needed more work. The passing, at times, left a little to be desired. There was a need for a bit more delay before taking shots. Rebounding was not strong enough. And there were far too many turnovers.

Those were the negatives. On the positive side were an aggressive attack, fair shooting and evidence of a balanced attack. Also, some of the newcomers showed a lot of promise.

The Raiders have been picked to win the conference and it's a long, rough road before league play begins. The experience gained against the Nationals, as well as the other top non-conference foes, should help this club jell.

The talent would appear to be present, and it is needed, in view of the loss of William Johnson. Outside of him, Tech really didn't lose too much and incoming players should fill the void.

The crowd for this opener should be large. It's an opportunity to see a truly outstanding Kansas State team, as well as a Raider team that is good now, should get much better.

The fact is, Tech has three great teams at home in non-conference play. In addition K-State, there will be Oklahoma State and North Carolina. On the road Tech must play Notre Dame, Mississippi and in the rugged Far West tournament at Portland, Oregon.

The football curtain has been dropped on Steve Sloan's first season at Tech and the work that needs to be done must be obvious to everyone. The first order of business is to develop a defense that goes along with an offense that is nearing the level required.

Fumbles may not be corrected, but certainly it is an area that needs attention. Those errant bobbles cost the Raiders dearly during the past season, certainly cost Tech any chance of winning the Arkansas game.

If Tech had not fumbled early in the Arkansas game, it might have made no difference in the outcome. Still, the psychological edge of 7-0 plays a part in any game.

When you analyze the season, it is obvious that there were three levels among conference teams. In the top group were Texas, Arkansas and Texas A&M. They stood out.

Tech was on a level all by itself. It lost to all three top teams, by large margins, but it beat the other four beneath it handily.

Then came the other four—SMU, Rice, Baylor and TCU. The state schools beat each one of them, which is sad, really, because it emphasizes the growing gap between private and public institutions in athletic fields.

But to get back to the Raider football picture, work must be extensive on the defensive side of the ledger. Tech gave up 42 points to Texas, 38 to A&M and 31 to Arkansas. That's an average of 37 points a game. Tech managed an average of 13 points.

That is an average of four touchdowns, or three touchdowns and a field goal, that Tech must overcome to be a challenger. It's a big gap to overcome and the effort is a major challenge.

Offense alone wins few games anymore. It is important to stop the other team. The Raider defense came along late in the season, but offensive turnovers hurt the defense.

The Arkansas game was typical. By radio count, I tallied six fumbles, with four lost. These were turned into three Hog touchdowns and a field goal. BUT, a stronger defense might have been able to overcome those turnovers.

No, recruiting will be vital to Tech's future and defense is going to have to be the key area. I know nothing of the defensive strategy and whether it is sound or not. All I know are the facts—Tech gave up 160 points in five losses, scored only 85 in those defeats.

It's obvious that a lot of work needs to be done. I believe that Steve Sloan and Co. will attack it in spring training and that the job will be done.

One thing is sure; with adjustments, changes, improvements, the future for Tech looks good and bright.

According to city figures, the county received six per cent of the municipal fire department's service but paid less than three per cent of its operating costs. Through the formula, the city included the county's fee for fire calls in the operating budget of the municipal fire department.

Questions on the legality of the county paying part of the operating cost for the municipal fire department have been raised, however.

County Auditor Roy Ferguson, who contacted the criminal district attorney for an opinion, said the county could not contribute to the operating cost of a budget (such as the municipal fire department budget) if the county had no voice on how the money was spent.

For the joint programs whose operating budgets are funded by both governments, the city and the county appoint seven board members to oversee each operation. Four of the appointees are made by the governing unit which administers the program, the remaining three made by the other.

Ferguson noted that the commissioners could contract with the city to buy service at a flat fee, though. He said the state attorney general will be asked to clarify the matter.

The county's agreement for flat fees on fire calls extends the fire service contract between the city and county through October 1976 with 30 days notice for cancellation.

In return, the city received assurance from the county that the commissioners court would approve a $99,550 contribution from the Hospital District to the Health Department.

The $44,550 increase accounts for inflationary costs beyond the original Hospital District contribution.

In 1968, the city, county, and Hospital District agreed to fund the Health Department by subtracting $55,000 from the total budget and splitting the rest 75 per cent city, 25 per cent county.

The $55,000 which the Hospital District paid was half the cost for providing medical care to indigents through the health unit, a district function by law. At that time, the Hospital District was planning to build a county hospital and was assessed only half of the amount needed to care for indigent people. The other half was included in the city-county split.

When the county hospital is finished in 1977, the Hospital District will assume the total cost for providing medical care to indigent people.

With an 81 per cent rise in costs due to inflation, the district would have to pay $99,500 to equal the $55,000 1968 contribution.

The Sunset In Her Life

—Miss Heroin—
So, now, little man, you've grown tired of grass, L.S.D., goof balls, cocaine, and hash; And someone, pretending to be a true friend, Said, "I'll introduce you to Miss Heroin."
Well, honey, before you start fooling with me, Just let me inform you of how it will be.
For I will seduce you and make you my slave. I've sent men much stronger than you to their graves. You think you could never become a disgrace, And end up addicted to poppy seed waste.
So, you'll start inhaling me one afternoon; You'll take me into your arms very soon. And once I have entered deep down in your veins, The craving will nearly drive you insane.
You'll need lots of money (as you have been told); For darling, I'm much more expensive than gold. You'll swindle your mother; and, just for a buck, You'll turn into something vile and corrupt.
You'll mug and you'll steal for my narcotic charm, And feel contentment when I'm in your arms. The day when you realize the monster you've grown, You'll solemnly promise to leave me alone. If you think that you've got the mystical knack, Then, sweetie, just try getting me off your back. The vomit, the cramps, your gut tied in a knot, The jangling nerves screaming for just one more shot. The cold chills and hot sweat, the withdrawal pains, Can only be saved by my little white grains. There's no other way, and there's no need to look; For deep down inside, you will know you are hooked. You'll desperately run to the pusher, and then You'll welcome me back to your arms once again. And when you return (just as I foretold!), I know that you'll give me your body and soul. You'll give up your morals your conscience, your heart, And you will be mine until Death Do Us Part.

Texas Safety Association Asks Motorists Not to Share Turkey's Fate this Season

Many Thanksgiving holiday travelers may find themselves giving thanks to be home alive and in one piece after a harrowing battle with the perils of holiday highways. So if you are planning a Thanksgiving trip, Texas Safety Association offers the following tips to improve your chances for surviving the holiday and being alive for Christmas.

—At 55 mph, driver fatigue can be a very real hazard. A four-day holiday is a poor time for a cross-country trip, especially if you have to drive into night to make your destination. Either plan shorter trips or have another licensed driver with you to trade stints in the driver's seat. Wear your seat belts and shoulder harnesses, and don't let the speedometer needle creep over the posted limit. A traffic ticket can cost you the price of a couple of Tom Turkeys and a high-speed accident can cost more than you can ever recover.

—Take it easy on the turkey. A full stomach leads to drowsiness, and the driver's seat is no place for a nap. Don't eat and run; rest or nap for a short while after eating before doing any extensive driving.

Fifth Graders Bid Farewell to Mrs. Johnson

by Laura Walker

Mrs. Bobby Johnson, for the past five years a favorite among elementary students and teachers, completed her last day with Shallowater Schools this past Friday.

Mrs. Johnson, her husband Bobby, and children Krista 7 and Barry 5, will be moving to Nacogdoches, Texas, where she will be teaching sixth grade language arts in a middle school. Mrs. Johnson comments, "I certainly have enjoyed working the last five years with the fine administration and school system of Shallowater. The fifth grade boys and girls are a fine group of students. I have learned to love and appreciate each one."

Her fellow teachers in the elementary school honored Mrs. Johnson with a farewell coffee Friday evening after school.

Mrs. Christine Rostberg has been employed to replace Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Rostberg, a native of Minnesota, has substituted a number of times in the Shallowater schools. When asked about her first week in the system, Mrs. Rostberg said, "Everyone in the school has been very helpful and friendly."

Teacher Spotlight

by Melissa Martin

Sewing, reading, and watching her husband play basketball, are special interests and hobbies of Mrs. Betty Bates, this week's teacher spotlight.

Mrs. Betty Bates is shown with some of her kindergarten students. Back row left to right is Synthia Hooten, Jeremy Frye, & Mrs. Bates. Front row are Yvette Bohn, Tammy Elliott and Tony Carillo.

Mrs. Bates has taught kindergarten in Shallowater for three years. Mrs. Bates and her husband reside at 4703 60th Street.

"I enjoy teaching in Shallowater because of the warm and friendly people with whom I come in contact," comments Mrs. Bates.

One can easily tell that Mrs. Bates cares about all her little students, and she deserves recognition for the patience she shares among them.

FHA'ers Serve Spaghetti

Thorough advertising, expert planning, teamwork, and lots of hard work netted enough to pay expenses and add to the club treasury for FHA last Friday evening.

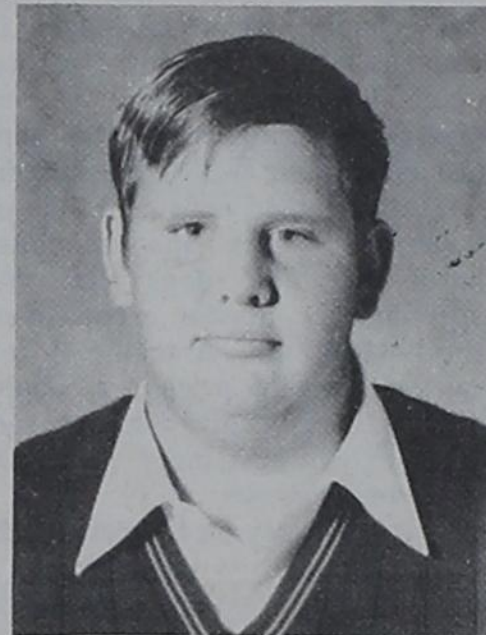

Approximately 160 parents, students, and community friends were served spaghetti, homemade pies and all the trimmings this past Friday evening in a real "Italian" atmosphere created by homemade candles and greenery.

All of the club members worked extra hard at everything from dicing onions in a flood of tears to washing dishes at the close of a busy evening, to make this community project a success. Heading the project were Geneise Grawunder, projects chairman; and Jeanye Hunter, impacts chairman for the club. Other committee chairman were: Robbie Mauldin, advertising; Susan Heinen, decorations; Donna Evans, service preparations; Amy Boring, serving line; Claudett Lam, cleanup chairman.

Stars of the Six Weeks

by Sue Wall

National Honor Society has selected Laura Walker and Sam Bohner as outstanding students for this six weeks.

Sam Bohner is a sophomore at SHS. His activities range from studying very hard in his classes to being manager of the Mustang football team. He likes watching television, but his favorite hobby is reading. Sam's comments on being a student at Shallowater include that he really enjoys it.

Laura Walker is a well-known face at Shallowater. She is very active in school. Laura is reporter for FTA and vice-president of FHA. She is also very active on both annual staff and newspaper staff. Last but not least, she is a member of the Mustang Band.

New Electives Offered

Replacing the Bicentennial Study during the second quarter will be studies in three different student interest areas. These include needlecraft, supervised by Mrs. Keitha Hopson, Basic Electricity under the guidance of Mr. Randy Barnes, junior high principal; and Environmental Science taught by Mr. Terry Forbes.

These subjects are structured to be educational and at the same time appeal to students with special interests. Courses such as these often lead students into creative hobbies or productive careers in later years.

Future Mustang Band in the Making

These beginning flutists are working toward that big day when they'll be full-fledged members of the Mighty Mustang Band. Shown left to right are Jennifer Taylor and Rhonda Ellis.

by Laura Walker

Another contest won, another trophy added to the shelf in the Mustang Band Hall, but where does it all begin? Because the Mustang Band is in the spotlight most of the time, the Beginners Band is sometimes forgotten.

Early in the fall, boys and girls in the 4th and 5th grades, eagerly flocked the band hall in hopes of becoming members of the band. Students chose their instruments in various ways. Some took up the instrument that their parents and/or brothers and sisters had played. Others, under Mr.

Sherman's advise, took up instruments that were best suited for them.

Learning to master the complicated "rules" of music can be a frustrating experience for these prospective musicians if it were not for a very patient band director. Parents play an important role in the lives of these students in having patience during practice time.

The forty-two member band will present a concert in February. These young musicians should be encouraged as they are the future Mustang Band.

New Light Shed on Thanksgiving Day

by Laura Walker

Almost everyone has heard about how the colonists gave thanks after they had landed at Plymouth Rock; but, few people realize that "Thanksgiving" was not an instant holiday.

Set aside for the special purpose of prayer as well as celebration, the first Thanksgiving Day was decreed by Governor William Bedford for July 30, 1663. Friendly Indians brought wild turkeys and venison; the men of the colony brought geese, ducks, and fish. Women served journey cake, corn meal bread with nuts, and succotash. The three-day feast, held less than a year after their arrival, was eaten outdoors at big tables.

Eight days of thanks were observed during the Revolutionary War because of the victories and sparing of injuries. This was the second Thanksgiving Day observed. On November 26, 1789, President George Washington issued a general proclamation for a day of thanks and the Protestant Episcopal Church announced that the first Thursday in November would be a general day of thanks.

During thirty years of hard work and strong determination, Mrs. Sarah J. Hale helped promote the idea of a National Thanksgiving Day. President Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday in November, 1863, as "a day of thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father".

For seventy-five years thereafter, each president formally proclaimed Thanksgiving Day as the last Thursday in November. In 1939, in order to help business, President Roosevelt set the special day one week earlier.

In 1941, Congress ruled the fourth Thursday of every November as Thanksgiving Day and as a legal holiday.

Perhaps, for you, this article has shed a new light on the understanding of Thanksgiving and how it really came to be in American lives.

Roving Reporter

by Chris Hutchings

This week's question from the Roving Reporter is "What are your plans for the Thanksgiving holidays?" Here are a few people and their answers:

Coach McKennon—"I'm going to a cousin's wedding in Ft. Worth, and coach the team."

Bill Dixon—"Eat turkey."

Coach Wolski—"I'm going to the Texas and A&M football game."

Kim McMenamy—"Stuff the basketball and my stomach."

Mrs. McCollum—"Go see my new niece and clean house."

Sue Wall—"Going to see my grandma."

Laura Thompson—"Stay here." Jeanye Hunter—"Go to basketball practice."

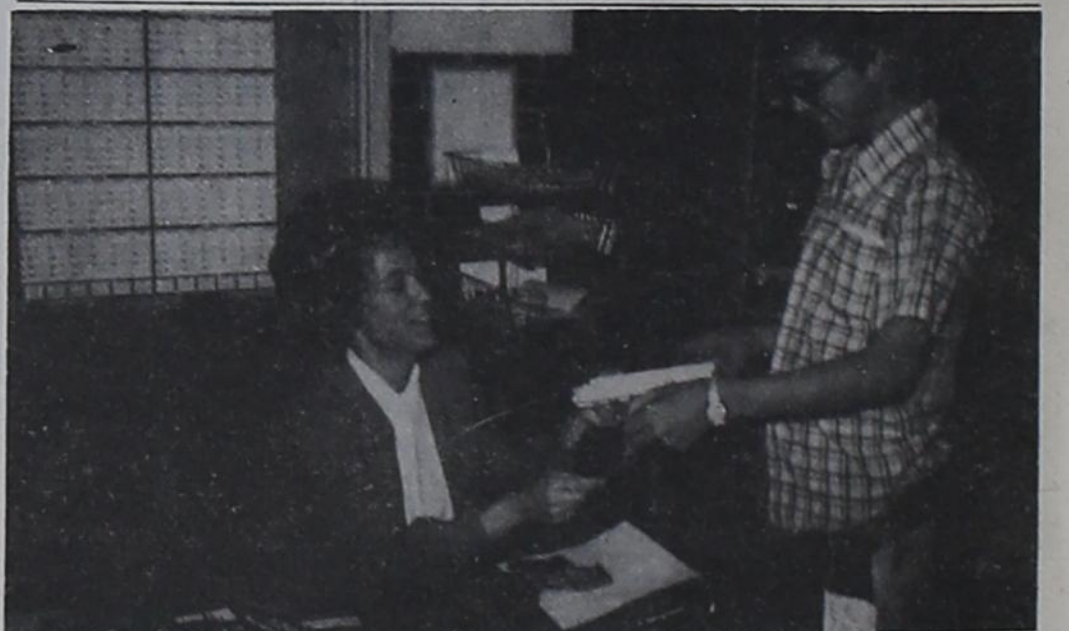

Terry Martin—"Going to Oklahoma and then to Dallas to celebrate my birthday."

Robin Mauldin—"Go to a family reunion."

Carol Shropshire—"Nothun!"

Janis Horton—"Stay home, eat turkey, and uh...have company."

Barbara Stephenson—"A bunch of people are coming to my house to eat some turkey."

Seventh grader Tim Dunn makes another sale for his class as he sells a piece of World's Finest Chocolate Bars to school secretary Mrs. Barbara McCollum. Seventh and Eighth graders have knocked on doors, pounded pavement, and sold candy to everyone within their reach for several weeks now. They have sold about $500.00 worth and anticipate selling even more according to Mrs. Keith Hopson, sponsor. Funds earned will be used to purchase a gift for the school.
