

Mac's Farm Supply Suffers Extensive Fire Damage Tuesday

Damage was extensive in the fire last Tuesday night at Mac's Farm Supply, when the service station building was completely gutted in the interior by a blaze, believed to have started from a burning cigarette tossed in a trash container.

The local fire department was summoned to the scene between 8:15 and 8:30 p.m. by an unidentified party who discovered the fire and turned in the alarm.

Owned by J.B. McAuley, the building was partially covered by insurance and a complete estimate cannot be made until inventory is completed. He has been in business at this location for 8 years.

What could have been a major fire was quickly extinguished by the local fire department and interested citizens in answering the fire alarm so quickly, dousing the flames before a storage tank or the gas tanks could ignite from the blaze.

McAuley and his wife Corene wish to extend their sincere appreciation to the Shallowater

Volunteer Fire Department, the 7 to 11 Superette, the local policemen and the citizens who assisted in extinguishing the fire.

All are to be commended for their assistance, and the Shallowater area is very fortunate to have interested citizens always available to give of their time and to risk their lives.

Traffic Accident Here Monday

A traffic accident Monday morning at the intersection of So. Ave. L and Highway 84 left one vehicle totally demolished and the other suffering only minor damage. Miraculously no injuries were sustained in the 9 a.m. mishap.

The accident occurred when a 1969 International pickup, owned by James McMenamy and driven by Charlie Quigley of Lubbock, pulled north from a stop sign into the path of a '75 Chevrolet driven by Riley A. Armstrong of Picacho, New Mexico, headed west.

Fire units from Anton, Littlefield, Lubbock and a foam equipment unit from Reese Air Force Base joined in battling the blaze. Local units rushed over 20,000 gallons of water to the scene from Shallowater to aid in battling the blaze.

Pair chose not to run for re-election due to business reasons and Gerig's post is to be filled due to his moving away, and Hardin is running for re-election after completing a one year term on Mayor Jack Dulaney's council place. Dulaney resigned to run for the mayor's post last year.

Candidates whose names have been placed on the ballot are: Doris Epperson and Leroy Grawunder, Place 1; W.A. "Dub" Hardin, Place 3; and Danny Jones,

Men Apprehended Following Burglary

The alertness of the local police department resulted in the arrest of two Clovis, N.M. men in connection with a burglary at the Whistle Stop Cafe on Highway 84 and FM 1294 early Monday morning.

After answering an alarm at the cafe around 4 a.m., city policeman David Turner, who was on duty, and Lubbock County Sheriff's deputies, saw a suspect leave the back of the building. Shortly the officers spotted two men running north across a field near Highway 84, gave chase and caught them.

The burglars apparently gained entry by prying open the bathroom door at the back of the building. An 18-inch crowbar was found at the scene.

Nothing was reported missing from the establishment by Doyle Williams, owner and operator of the firm.

The two remained in Lubbock County jail Tuesday pending further investigation.

The arresting officers were assisted in investigation by Chief of Police Don Rackler.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. Sylvia Lewis of Greenville; two daughters, Lawanda Alsbrook, and Willie Gene Floyd both of Lubbock; three sons, Maurice Vester, Lubbock; Bennie Lewis, New York; and Willie Lee Floyd of Dallas; three brothers, Sandy Hill of Lubbock, Roy Hill of California, and Charlie Hill of Pittsburg, Calif.; two sisters, Willie Mae Lee, Greenville and Mary Lambert of Garland; 30 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

Shallowater Fire Department

Telephone and railroad communication lines were victims of the Sante Fe train derailment Saturday night. An explosion reportedly shot flames 300 feet into the sky. Traffic was rerouted around highway 84 for several hours. There were no injuries reported.

The local Volunteer Fire Department members are to be commended for the loyalty they perform during the line of duty. Strictly on a voluntary basis, these men risk their lives when summoned to the scene of a fire when the siren sounds the alarm. The dangers they experience were prevalent on two occasions last week, when they were called to a fire at Mac's Farm Supply, that was quickly extinguished before a major blaze began; and then late Saturday afternoon when they answered the emergency call to the train derailment near Roundup when a fire erupted from chemicals that were carried in the cars.

Luckily what could have been a major disaster was contained in the burning cars and none of the other tanks, containing chemicals, ignited.

These men, assisted by other area units, remained on the scene most of the night and aided the train crew, police and others in handling the derailment emergency.

These men not only risk their lives but they give of their time, use their own vehicles and fuel to go to the fires and stand a chance of ruining a good suit of clothes when fighting a fire, never taking the time to change into something appropriate to fight a fire in.

Other groups to be commended for their able assistance is the Civil Defense team and the Shallowater Police Dept., of which all three are members of the local fire department organization.

Public is Reminded Of Tornado Threat

Tornado season is here once more and residents are reminded of the siren whistle blast used to designate the emergency warning sound.

When the siren sounds one time, it means fireman meeting at city hall. When the whistle blows two times, there is a fire. And when it blows three times, residents are urged to seek shelter as a tornado has been spotted. Following the all clear sign, the siren will blow one time to let the people know it's safe to return from the storm shelter.

Residents are reminded that when a storm is brewing, clouds will be observed by the civil defense members, policemen and the local fire department in order to warn the residents of any danger that might be present in cloud formations.

Revised Beef Grade Standard "How is this 'new grading' of beef going to affect the quality and price of meat I buy in the supermarket?"

This has been a very popular question coming in on my office "hot line" during the last few weeks. So, I contacted U.S.D.A. in Washington and a few other sources that I thought would be helpful in answering this pertinent question and am passing my findings on to you.

The revised U.S. grade standards were designed to improve the accuracy of factors affecting eating quality and to make the carcass value identification more uniform.

By now, your next question is probably, "Will the beef be less tender?"

The minimum marbling in each grade will be reduced by only about one-half a degree. This will have little effect on overall eating quality. Tenderness should not be reduced because it is affected more by other factors—such as maturity—than marbling. Some beef previously graded as Good will now be graded Choice, probably resulting in a larger volume of Choice beef. If this is the case, Choice beef should sell at a lower price.

U.S.D.A. research shows that requiring additional marbling as the animal matures is not necessary for beef from young cattle under about 30 months of age.

Therefore slightly leaner beef will fall into the Prime and Choice grades. The Good grade will be more restrictive and the eating quality of the beef in the Good and Choice grades will be more uniform. Because of these changes, beef production and marketing should be more precise and accurate.

The most important effect will be seen in the future—high quality beef with less excess fat.

Because of the use of both quality and yield grades, producers will be trying even harder to produce the "meat-type" cattle that the packers are looking for. These are carcasses with high quality lean beef and a minimum of excess fat. This should result in significant savings in production and marketing costs.

An example that U.S.D.A. sent was the following: "In 1973, retailers trimmed an estimated 3.1 billion pounds of fat from our fed beef production. To the cattle feeder, that fat represented an estimated cost of $2.75 billion. But the salvage value of that fat to the retailer was only about $250 million—less than 10 percent of its cost."

By now, your next question is probably, "Will the beef be less tender?"

The minimum marbling in each grade will be reduced by only about one-half a degree. This will have little effect on overall eating quality. Tenderness should not be reduced because it is affected more by other factors—such as maturity—than marbling.

Some beef previously graded as Good will now be graded Choice, probably resulting in a larger volume of Choice beef. If this is the case, Choice beef should sell at a lower price.

I hope this makes the new beef

Car Cattin Dies In Wichita Falls

Shallowater residents were saddened to hear of the death of Car Cattin, Financial Vice President of White's Store, Inc. who died recently in Wichita Falls. Services were held there on March 6, 1976.

Mr. Cattin died Friday, March 5 in a Wichita Falls Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack.

He was a member of Floral Heights United Methodist Church, Wichita Valley Scottish Rite, Maska Temple Shrine and Faith Masonic Lodge.

According to M.J. Williams, president of the Shallowater Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Cattin was the man most instrumental in making the decision to locate the White's Distribution Center in Shallowater. Shallowater officials who were instrumental in working with White's to establish the multimillion dollar center stated that Mr. Cattin was a very astute businessman, yet he showed deep concern for people. The interest of his company was always foremost in his mind, but he had the unique ability of recognizing the community's needs and was a person who made sure the community got a fair deal as well as his company. At one time, he had told Shallowater residents that several sites offered the same benefits as Shallowater, but he felt the distribution center would be a real economic boost to the Shallowater area.

Mr. Cattin is survived by his wife, Marie, who resides at 4516 Wynnwood Drive, Wichita Falls, Texas.
