Reeves New Owner of Standard Station

James Reeves has announced the purchase of the Standard Station from the Neff brothers, effective January 1st and invites all past customers of the station to continue their patronage with him, and encourages new customers to drop by and get acquainted.

Reeves and his wife Glenna will be operating the station, assisted by their son Bobby, who is a senior at Shallowater High School.

Prior to purchasing the station, Reeves was farm manager for Paul Cates for eleven years and his wife was employed in the credit department at Sears in Lubbock for the past four years.

They are residing at 805 Avenue J and have two other children, Mrs. Wilcey Koinzan and Mrs. Randy Hutton both of Lubbock.

The Reeves are avid sports fans and are members of the Church of Christ.

B & B Welders Has Supply of Sweeps

Mr. farmer and fertilizer dealers, B & B Welders in Shallowater recently purchased a good supply of plain and hard surfaced sweeps before the price rise.

The sweeps, mostly 18 in. by 1/4 in. retail for $7.98, and B & B Welders are selling them for only $6.95 each.

They urge those who are in need of these sweeps to purchase them now while the supply lasts.

The company, owned and operated by Bill Woodard, assisted by his son and daughter-in-law, Steve and Laurie, are located at 707 6th Street, Shallowater, and have been in operation for 2 1/2 years.

They do all types of welding, chisel work, and other services and invite you to drop by and do business with them.

The $300,000 revenue bond election, first submitted for December 14, 1974, by the Shallowater City Council members has been rescheduled for this Saturday, January 11, with voting to be held at the city hall. Polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Presiding judge will be Mrs. George Blackmon and Julia Gentry as clerk.

Only those, who own taxable property within the city of Shallowater shall be qualified to vote and are urged to go to the polls on this day and vote their opinion.

Purpose of the called bond election is for improvements in both the water and sewer systems of which the city of Shallowater has needed for a number of years.

Due to the shortage of water the past few years, especially this past summer, it is necessary to construct additional storage and water supply to alleviate this condition. A ground storage tank of approximately 500,000 gallon capacity together with two new water wells are proposed as soon as possible and is hoped that the storage tank, at least, can be completed in time for the heavy usage this summer, that usually starts around May 1st each year.

Also improvements on the sewage disposal plant has been needed for several years and a new sewage disposal plant is planned in a new location, including a new lift station, and other sewer improvements.

Total cost of these improvements in both water and sewer is estimated to be between $300,000 and $400,000.

Maps and preliminary estimates are on file in the city hall for inspection. Voters are urged to inspect this material and if questions arise, to discuss the proposed improvements with the city officials.

Remember, Saturday, January 11th, is bond election day and voters are urged to keep this date in mind and go to the polls and vote for these improvements that will enable the city to serve the consumer more efficiently and also help Shallowater to grow.

Construction Booms in Shallowater With $3/4 Million in Permits Last Year

This past year the growth of Shallowater expanded at a rapid pace with approximately three quarter of a million dollars in construction estimated, including the $256,000 First State Bank Building, presently under construction and expected to be completed sometime around the middle of March.

Approximately seventeen new homes have been erected on 5th, 7th, 14th and 15th Streets in the $20,00 to $40,000 price range. Also three duplexes were built by Doyle Moseby on 11th Street, with two living quarters occupying each duplex.

Although the city limit sign shows the population at 1339, it has been estimated to be around 1800 people residing within the city at the present time.

Shallowater has the potential to continue growing due to being located near Lubbock, Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock State School, Texas Tech and Lubbock Christian College, and numerous industrial businesses, where it is convenient for people to commute to and from their work and school.

Those who live here can boast of a great school system, fine churches and a host of friendly people.

Buddy H. Winter, Lubbock, Texas, was awarded the top recorder of the year from the state of Texas, at the annual membership meeting of Hampshire Swine Registry, held at Cedar Rapids, Iowa in December. Presenting the award to Buddy is Shermion Shanklin, field representative of Hampshire Swine Registry.

Midland Man Dead Following Train Accident Just West of Shallowater

Richard T. Prigmore, 40 years of age, from Midland, died at 6:27 p.m. Tuesday in Methodist Hospital following a freak accident at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday west of Shallowater, at the crossing of Farm Road 1294 and Loop 388.

The victim, who carried no identification, was identified several hours after the accident by a close friend, according to investigating officials. Complete details of the accident were unknown at press time.

The victim's 1970 Ford was parked near the railroad tracks and he was apparently hit by a train. His hand and foot were severed in the accident and he received massive head lacerations. He was rushed by ambulance to St. Mary's Hospital, then to Methodist Hospital where he died.

A license plate check of the car, and a magazine lying on the front seat with Prigmore's name on it gave investigating officers a possible identification.

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy will rule on the death after an autopsy.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

A big West Texas welcome to Steve Sloan and best wishes for a long, happy stay at the grid helm of Texas Tech. Everyone is delighted to have the personable Texan-Alabamian here.

From all indications, his arrival indicates a fresh start for Raider athletics, a fresh start and a move forward. A lot of work lies ahead, but it seems as though the future held only hope and promise. We may well have achieved the perfect wedding this time.

I have no bone to gnaw with Jim Carlen. He chose not to remain. He wasn't fired. As Harry Truman said, if you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen. Carlen got out.

Carlen contributed to Tech athletics. He took over the foundation J.T. King laid and built on it. He knew success. And, from that viewpoint, success, no one could have any quarrel with Carlen. But along the way he scraped a lot of scales off a lot of people's backs.

But Steve Sloan landed here with both hands out and with an infectious "hey! Let's get the job done together." I have the distinct feeling that he's really our type of guy and he will get the job done.

Lubbock and West Texas is hungry for more than bowl games. The people want a conference championship. And anything less than the Cotton Bowl won't be cheered too strongly. Tech has come close under Carlen, now the Holy Grail of this league seems more probable.

Sloan faces a challenge, one that I'm sure that he is aware of, but at least maybe the air is clearer now. Under the prior regime, the athletic department was split into the Football Camp and the other sports. That needs to be healed and I think it will be.

As for the city portion of "Town and Gown", the hiring of the personable Vanderbilt coach should put a stop to the power struggle that has been going on behind the scenes.

Word that a Lubbock TV man had made a special trip to Nashville to dissuade Sloan from coming here was greeted with derision by Texas writers gathered in Dallas for the Cotton Bowl.

The writers, without exception, expressed their great displeasure with anyone doing a thing like that. There also was some disbelief that any businessman—in Lubbock, Waco, College Station—would do a thing like that. When you analyze it, it's so repulsive that you wonder how anyone could continue in business here.

Ramblings—Tom Wilson declined to go with Carlen to South Carolina. Could it be because his calls from the pressbox were not being honored? Twice, I was told, when Tech was on the one-yard line he called a play. It was never used. . . . During the Texas-Auburn game, I leaned over to Dick Moore of the Star-Telegram and said: "If Baylor also loses, that makes the ties Houston and Tech achieved look pretty good." As it turned out, the conference was 0-2-2 in bowls this year and the ties do look better. . . . One of the brightest ideas in a long time was a press conference after the Baylor-Penn State game. It was held the night after the afternoon game and remarkably well attended, with both Grant Teaff and Joe Paterno relaxed and at ease with the press.

I did a dressingroom story for Cotton Bowl pressbox personnel and was privileged to be allowed into the Baylor room before the rest of the press. I was impressed with Teaff. He was calm, unemotional, low-key in his post-game squad meeting. One thing he did stress was for the players not to forget their commitment. . . . Do you still believe in Santa Claus? How could you after Hank Stram was fired as Kansas City Chiefs coach? That's like saying there's no such thing as Home, Mother and Apple Pie, after all these years at the helm of the Dallas-Kansas City ship. . . . The most unbelievable thing in sports? It would have to be Bear Bryant's inability to win a bowl game. Eight straight times Alabama's outstanding coach has gone to the well and gone home thirsty.

Fred Sanner, former Abilene newsman and now at Austin, where he and UT have had a long love affair, is in serious condition. The former behemoth has lost a tremendous amount of weight and is fighting for life. The news casts a pall on all his many friends. . . . Hate to see Richard Bell leave Tech. The young coach, in our opinion, is one of the finest defensive coaches in the nation and, with a break, is a man who could become a tremendous head coach. I wish his well. . . . Tech is off on another hard basketball trip, and playing without Rick Bullock is a handicap. The big man is having a great season and looks much more agile and softer in his shooting than in the past. . . . Congratulations to Mark Davis for coming in and doing a good job against Arizona Friday night.

By coincidence, Arizona called time with the score tied at 53-53, with 53 seconds left. . . . Oklahomans were pulling for Notre Dame to beat Alabama, so OU could be No. 1 in the AP poll. OU is on probation for recruiting violations and, frankly, I thought the UPI did the right thing in excluding the Sooners. Giving them recognition was like a cop telling a robber he could keep whatever he had stolen. . . . Gerald Myers is more concerned about the Aggies, apparently, than any other team in the league. Gerald also is saving some money this year to use in recruiting. He's doing it by not scouting, in person, Raider foes. . . . Penn State people tossed a cocktail-buffet party in Dallas Dec. 28. So? Invited were Baylor people, as well as Cotton Bowl officials, and others. It was most unusual—also terrific.

Congratulations to Joe Barnes, former star quarterback for Texas Tech, who has been named field director for the Red Raider Club. Barnes is currently a quarterback for the Chicago Bears, and will work for the Red Raider Club during the off-season, based in Ft. Worth.

Nation's 1974 Census of Agriculture is Underway Following December Mailing

The 1974 Census of Agriculture got underway the week of December 29th with the mailing of approximately four million report forms to farms and ranches in the 50 states according to Vincent P. Barabba, Director of the Bureau of the Census. The Bureau is part of the Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

Farmers and ranchers are being asked to report on their agricultural operations during 1974. This 1974 census, the Nation's 20th farm census in a series that started in 1840, will update data most recently obtained in 1970 for 1969 operations. Primary emphasis will be on obtaining information about farms and ranches with sales of $2,500 or more annually. Such operations accounted for 98 percent of the total value of all agricultural products sold in 1969.

To avoid undue burden on small farmers and to reduce processing costs, a short version of the census report form is being mailed to the over one million addressees estimated to have had both farm receipts and expenses of less than $2,000 in 1973. All other addressees are receiving the standard form.

Forms are being mailed to a list of the following: persons who filled out Schedule F of the 1973 individual income tax return, persons listed with other Federal agencies as associated with agricultural operations, and those reporting large or unusual farm operations in the 1969 census (such as institutional farms, farms on Indian reservations, etc.). This combined list of addressees forms a pool of potential respondents in the census. The final total of farms counted is expected to be well under three million, as it was in 1969.

Completed forms are to be mailed back as soon as possible. Census by mail allows operators to fill out their reports at their convenience and use their farm business records. Estimates are acceptable and should be reported in the absence of records.

Recipients of census report forms are cautioned not to discard them. Followup mailings costing additional postage will be required until all forms are received. Even if the recipient is not farming, the form should be returned with that fact noted.

The five-year censuses are the only source of statistics on agriculture that are comparable county by county for the entire nation. They are the sole source of comprehensive agricultural data tabulated for each State and for the U.S. as a whole for farms classified by size, tenure, type of organization, market value of products sold, and type of farm organization.

Response to the census is required by law (Title 13, United

MAKING THE GRADE

Any kid loves a lunch break, including Jamie.

Jamie gets a helpful hand in clay modeling from teacher's aide James Tomeo.

How do you remember your first years of school? As a time of play, dabbling in brightly colored paper and paste, learning the three R's?

Whatever memories stir in you, they won't be quite the same as for nine-year-old Jamie Weaver.

You see, Jamie was born without eyes and wears artificial plastic ones. She is one of about 250,000 children afflicted every year in this country with a birth defect. But that doesn't keep her from an active day in her public school special education class in her home town of Spokane, Washington.

Jamie, who is in third grade this year, is the 1975 March of Dimes National Poster Child. Here she gives a glimpse of what a typical school day can be like for an undaunted blind child.

Bob Nash to Present Lunch Bunch Program

Mr. Bob Nash, popular radio personality and historian will give the January 14, Lunch Bunch program at the Mahon Library, 1306 Ninth Street, 12:15 p.m.

Mr. Nash promises not to disturb the stomachs of queasy listeners, even though his topic, "Early West Military Corporal Punishment", might so indicate. "In the early days of the Army sergeants inflicted unusual punishments," says Mr. Nash, "procedures that would not be tolerated in today's Army."

The meeting is open to anyone. Sack lunches may be brought to the library. Coffee is furnished.

Youths Become Better Decision-Makers Thru 4-H

Decisions! Decisions! Decisions! Regardless of who we are, what we're doing, or where we're going, we are placed in a decision making role constantly. And that role starts early and continues a lifetime, say 4-H leaders.

Recognizing the need for helping young people become proficient in this important area, decision making is receiving special emphasis in the national 4-H home management program. Cooperating on the program are the Extension Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Tupperware Home Parties and National 4-H Service Committee.

The 4-H'ers are urged to handle decision making as a process involving four steps.

First, decide what they really want to do, which involves value clarification.

Second, plan in terms of their resources—time, knowledge, materials and energy. The third step is to follow through—try it out. The last step in the decision making process is evaluation—could it have been more successful? How? Can it be useful in making future decisions?

The basic process has been outlined in a 4-H leaflet, Manage Your Go Power, produced by Tupperware especially for use in the 4-H home management program. And currently the company, Cooperative Extension Service and National 4-H Service Committee, are cooperating on additional materials designed to expand and improve the management capabilities of 4-H'ers.

Knowing how to make decisions is important for young people to learn today. Youths in the national 4-H home management program, learn how to make intelligent, smart decisions at home, at school and elsewhere. Skills that will help them in their later lives.

A full schedule of awards provides incentives and opportunities for recognition. Made possible through Tupperware's sponsorship, the awards include up to four county medals of honor. An expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress is offered in each state, and winners of eight national scholarships of $700 each are to be announced at that event in Chicago, Dec. 1-5.

Decision making for an 18-year-old Alabama 4-H'er involved helping other young people with their money saving and spending habits. Carolyn Thorn, 18, of rural Belmont, Miss., produced a booklet titled, "Tim and Tommy Meet Mr. Money." She also worked up displays at a commodity food distribution center and surveyed homemakers on the use of grocery shopping lists.

In America's heartland, Lori Schlichtemeier, 18, of Murray, Neb., has emphasized the wise use of resources. She says, "Time must be managed properly and so must be money, skills and energy. Good management is the key to conserving these and other resources."

Lael Smith, 19, of Rochester, Ind., sums up the program aims when she says, "Each of us can be a manager in our own lives if we understand our values and goals, and learn to use good methods of decision making, organization and buymanship in the use of our resources."

The county extension office can provide information and assistance in decision making and home management.

Rays of Hope

by Pat Stanton
Diary Of A Bible
Jan.—A busy time for me. Most of the family decided to read me through this year. They kept me busy for the first two weeks. They have forgotten me now.
Feb.—Clean up time. I was dusted yesterday and put back in my place. My owner did use me for a few minutes last week. He had been in an argument and was looking up some reference.
March—I had a busy day the first of the month. My owner was appointed leader of something and used me. I got to go to Church services for the first time this year. Easter Sunday.
April—Grandpa visited us. He kept me on his lap for an hour reading I Cor. 13. He seems to think more of me than he used to.
May—I have a few green stains on my pages. Had some early spring flowers pressed in me.
June—I look like a scrap book. They have stuffed me full of newspaper clippings. One of the girls got married.

July—They put me in a suitcase today. I guess we are off on a vacation. I wish I could stay home as I will have to stay in this thing for a month.

August—Still in suitcase.

Sept.—Back home again in my old place. Have a lot of company. Two "True Stories" and four funny books are on top of me. I wish I could be read as much as they are.

Oct.—They used me a little today. One of them is very sick. Right now I am shined up and in the center of the table. I think the Preacher is coming.

Nov.—Back in my old place. Was asked today if I was a scrap book.

Dec.—They are getting ready for Christmas, so I'll be covered under wrapping paper and packages.
