

Area Grain Season Draws To a Close Early

The 1975 grain season is quickly drawing to a close now and Charles Krebbs of Goodpasture Grain says it has been one of the best he has seen.

The year's grain harvest ranks as the second best season since Krebbs has been at Goodpasture, as far as total amount of grain harvested goes, and the best season he's seen as far as moisture content goes. The lack of rain in the past few weeks allowed the area farmer to get in his fields and cut the milo in record time this year making this one of the shortest seasons also. The moisture content of the grain was very low throughout the harvest.

The price of milo, although far below last year's price, held good through the harvest although a slight weakening was seen towards the end of the season, dropping from 5.20 to 4.15 towards the end.

An estimated 70 percent of the area farmers are still holding their grain. They are hoping for higher prices after the first of the year. The recent 5 year plan for buying grain the U.S. government made with the Russians will help the grain market a bit, but it might be some time before area farmers see results.

Most area farmers are happy with the grain deal made with the farmers although the deal came a little too late thanks to the intervention of the U.S. government.

Mustangs Loose Again 14-6

Shallowater Mustangs dropped a 14-6 game against the Plains Cowboys Friday night.

The Shallowater Mustangs took on the Plains Cowboys here last Friday evening at Todd Field. The night was very cold and the Mustangs suffered a close defeat 14-6 at the hands of the Plains Cowboys.

Plains drew first blood on a quarterback sneak in the first quarter. The PAT was good, leaving the score 7-0. Shallowater came back, however, with their own quarterback sneak by Ray Jackson late in the second quarter. The PAT was no good and the score was 7-6 at the half.

The Cowboys took the winning score in the third quarter 14-6.

The Mustangs had a total offense of 204 yards Friday night with 174 yards rushing and 30 yards passing. The Mustangs were 3 for 8 in the passing department. They also recovered 3 fumbles and made two interceptions.

Jackie Randolph recovered one fumble and had one interception. Billy Dixon recovered two fumbles and Jessie Longoria had one interception. The Mustangs had a total of 15 first downs compared to the Cowboys 14. Each team had 3 penetrations.

Johnny Taylor had a total of 91 yards rushing, Billy Dixon had 85 yards rushing for the Mustangs Friday night.

The Mustangs junior varsity suffered defeat at the hands of the Plains Cowboys JV by a score of 16-0 Thursday. The Mustangs take on O'Donnell Friday night at O'Donnell. The Eagles, like Shallowater, stand at 0-7 for the season. The game should be an exciting one.

TGSPB Elects New Officers

Kress farmer C.C. "Pap" Reed has been re-elected chairman of the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board for his second term.

Board members named Larry Witten of Olton to a second term as vice chairman and elected John Gilbreath of Hart secretary-treasurer to succeed Gerlad McCathern of Hereford.

The new officers were named at the regular bi-monthly TGSPB meeting during which four newly-elected directors were sworn in.

The four directors, all incumbents, were chosen by fellow grain sorghum producers in the 29-county TGSPB area.

Named to their second six-year terms are Ralph Mabry of Petersburg, who received 492 votes; K.B. Parish of Springlake, 474 votes; C.P. Smith of Hale Center, 417 votes and Larry Witten of Olton, 485 votes.

Jerry Don Glover of Lazbuddie, the only other announced candidate, received 446 votes.

Several ballots contained write-in candidates.

The Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board works to solve production problems, develop new markets for sorghum and provide information on grain marketing.

John Henry Faulk, whose successful court battle aided in halting "blacklisting" of radio, television and stage performers by AWARE during the 1950's will participate as a panelist. Faulk was the subject of the CBS-Xerox presentation "Fear On Trial" aired October 2. Other panelists slated for the evening's discussion dialogue are John T. Montford, Lubbock attorney; Rev. Arthur Preisinger, Director of the Department of Biblical Literature at Texas Tech, and Ralph Sellmeyer, Professor of Mass Communications at Texas Tech.

The American Issues Forum is a national program for the Bicentennial developed under the auspices of the National Endowment for the Humanities with sponsorship from the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration. Local programming is made possible in part by the Texas Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

This program, the third in the series, is part of a nine-month calendar of topic for discussion. The program is designed to encourage every American to participate in public discussion about the peoples, land, institutions, ideals, values, and future of America. Topics have been selected at the national level and chosen for their particular importance in both an historical and contemporary perspective.

Panelist will present a topic formally. Time is allowed for a dialogue through audience participation and discussion.

The Lubbock Bicentennial Committee has designated the American Issues Forum as a Bicentennial Event. It will continue through May, 1976, meeting on a once-a-month basis. Admission is free.

The Shallowater Volunteer Fire Department answered a call last Thursday afternoon about 4 p.m. at Broadview Steel on Highway 84.

The fire, as it turned out, was not actually at Broadview Steel but at the junk yard east of the steel company.

Workers were apparently using cutting torches to free a truck when tar inside the truck caught fire and got out of hand.

The Shallowater Fire Department answered the call quickly and had the fire under control soon after they arrived.

Mission in Africa

by Boyd Pearce

(This is the first of a series of articles by Boyd Pearce, pastor of First Baptist Church, Shallowater, about his experiences as a missionary in Africa.)

It was March, 1959, and across the glassy-smooth water we were getting our first glimpse of the coastline of Tanganyika, East Africa. We had been on the old H.M.S. Warwick Castle for six weeks and we were tired of it. As a matter of fact, we had been tired of it since the first five minutes. The Warwick Castle was a very old ship which had been used as a troop carrier during World War II. It had wheezed and steamed and shuddered through the Mediterranean and Suez and now it was almost over.

Tanganyika (now Tanzania) was, at that time a British Protectorate. It is a large but basically poor country, having no natural resources of any significance. When we docked, the sun was about an hour high, but it was already hot. The heat of Africa is deceptive. Your first thought is that it isn't as bad as you thought it would be. Certainly not as hot as Houston in July. After a while you realize that it is the sameness of it that gets to you. Month after month there is no real change.

Of course, perpetual summer has its good points as well as its bad. The beaches of East Africa are fantastic. The sand is white and very fine. Behind you are the trees and foliage of Africa's coast. This is livened up by the brightly colored houganuilla bushes which grow in a variety of colors. Towering over all of this are the tall, swaying coconut palms. Now, add a few chattering monkeys for spice and you have the picture. In front of you is the Indian Ocean, warm and blue, with breakers rolling gently up on the white sand. Being from Texas I've had a lot of practice making things sound better than they really are (you should have heard how I described West Texas to the Africans), but paradise must have been something like the coast of East Africa.

Strangely enough, the Africans do not use their beaches. There are fishermen that go into the water when the tide is right, with their spears, nets or traps. Some of the most affluent ones have an old dugout canoe with one or two outriggers and a crudely fashioned sail. Their catch is usually good because fish are plentiful. But aside from the fishermen, almost no Africans go into the water. This was a mystery to us and I asked several why this was so. The only answer I ever got was that they were leery of the salt. They felt it was bad for their color and bad for their hair. Now, if I was the only man they had seen go into the water regularly and I was white and bald, I guess I can understand their point of view.

Grain Sorghum Producers Official Points Out Advantages to Soviets of Embargo

The Soviet Union is reaping great financial and psychological benefits from the current U.S. embargo on grain sales against them, an official of Grain Sorghum Producers Association has told President Ford.

"The embargo has cost the American farmer and the U.S. economy dearly," according to GSPA executive director, Elbert Harp. "The net result is that we have been out-traded by the Soviets."

The embargo was enacted by President Ford in August in spite of angry protest by American farmers. The Administration assured farmers it would be lifted following subsequent crop reports. When the October 10 crop report was released, an embargo extension to Eastern Europe was immediately removed, but the Soviet embargo remained.

According to Harp, world grain markets are established by speculators and traders on the Chicago Board of Trade. "It is here than an embargo depresses the grain markets, which tend to react and over-react to the announcement."

The embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union has driven down grain prices in the United States and throughout the world, and the Russians have continued to make large grain purchases from traders in other countries at prices which are greatly reduced because of the U.S. embargo against them, Harp explained.

"It has been reported that many of the sales made from other countries carry a 'sellers original optional' clause which means this grain can be shipped from the U.S. when the embargo is lifted," Harp said. "This will have very little effect toward improving prices even if the grain is shipped from the United States because there will be no new sales. Much of the psychological benefit (resulting from the embargo being lifted) will be gone."

"The new result is that farmers are now selling their grain for $20 per ton less than parity—and the Russians are the winners because of the lower market prices."

The GSPA official reminded the President that the American farmer was asked last spring to produce to his maximum ability and was promised free access to foreign markets. "But confidence Wonderful Thought Dept.: Did you ever stop to think that Texas Tech might win its last five games!

There. That balances last week's Horrible Thought Dept. It was so quiet in the SMU dressingroom that you could hear a sock drop. It was almost that quiet at Steve Sloan's post-game press conference, too.

The silence didn't last long. The Raider coach launched right into things by allowing as to how it felt wonderful to win a game, that it had been so long he had almost forgotten. He paid tribute to the defense for checking the Mustangs the last half and allowing the offense to get a safe lead.

Queried about SMU's fourth down gamble at midfield, Sloan opined that the way the Ponies were swallowing up yardage, three yards wasn't really too much of a gamble. Reminded that the score was pretty close, he said: "If I had known that, I would have been nervous."

Told that Tech only had a one-point lead, Sloan cracked that: "If I had known that, I sure enough would have passed out!"

He was much more relaxed. The victory obviously pleased him and he was more at ease.

"You know, we usually have the squad look at the game films Sunday afternoon, but I turned them loose this week. I think a lot of them wanted to go hunting, doves, I think."

As for Rice coming up Saturday, Sloan said that he really didn't know much about the Owls. "I've only looked at one film," he declared. "They're a lot like us."

In the losing dressingroom, a composed, but somber, Dave Smith paid tribute to his team for fighting back and to Tech for having an outstanding football team.

"They've played four great teams in a row," he declared. "Tech is a lot better than the record shows. I thought that the turning point in the game was when they threw the long ball and got behind (Harold) Perry."

Perry, a freshman, was beaten by Ricky Bates, who got a couple of steps behind his down the middle and went all the way on a 56-yard pass play that put Tech in front, 21-13.

"SMU's a lot like us," Sloan stated. "They have a good offense and an inexperienced defense. They have the type of offense that probably will score on anyone. They have a big line, too. Do they lose any of them after this year?"

A Dallas writer said that they lost all of the offensive line. Sloan shook his head in relief, then asked about David Bostick, the hard-running fullback.

He has another year, a writer said. Sloan whistled silently and remarked: "I sure wish he'd graduate. I hate to think of facing him again. He runs right at you and he runs hard."

"Our defense did a pretty good job of shutting them down the last half," Sloan said. "For a while I didn't know. It looked like it was going to be a high scoring game and close."

So, Tech has its third win of the season and is back in the race to finish in the top four despite a 1-2 record. Arkansas is hanging on with two wins and a loss, while Rice is 1-1 and in danger each week of dropping by the wayside.

Tech, Baylor and SMU all have two losses and are out of championship contention, while TCU is 0-3. The Bears should climb into the runnerup race against TCU, while Texas ought to handle SMU, which makes the Tech-Rice game the top one of the day.

I was proud to read that the Texas Sports Writers Assn. will honor the top pros from Texas, but more especially because E.J. Holub made the team.

Holub played in the days when material at Tech was scarcer than dandruff on a baldheaded man. It helped to make him stand out, although he'd have stood out on a national championship team. There have been few better linebacker-centers anywhere than E.J., everybody's friend and a friend to everybody.

Just an observation on the World Series. The Cincinnati Reds won because they probably are the best all around team in baseball and still one of the best in history.

But the Boston Red Sox battled every step of the way and there was little to choose between the two teams. The Sox surprised the Reds, who didn't hold the Sox in high regard. And the difference between the two teams, in the final analysis, was Bursleson striking out with the bases loaded and Morgan getting a bloop single. Otherwise, it was a standoff.

Years ago J.T. King said that, when he was an assistant coach at Texas, they used to figure whether Texas was going to win a football game by comparing positions.

"We'd go down the starting teams and decide which player we'd rather have at each position, our player or theirs. If we had six to their five, we figured we should win."

Sparky Anderson said much the same thing. And, when he went down the Reds' lineup and compared each position the only tossup was Yaztremski of Boston.

On the basis of that comparison, it should have been over in four games. Obviously, there are intangibles that enter into the picture, such as guts and determination. The Sox proved that they had their share of both. It was, in short, a great World Series and the sixth game was a classic.

Basketball is picking up at Tech, but the smile on George Davidson's face Friday night didn't exactly mean that the coaches are all that excited.

Kansas State, against whom Tech officially opens the season, is touted as a team likely to be in the NCAA finals. "And we must have been crazy to schedule Notre Dame in South Bend!" George exclaimed.

Right now the Raiders are still working on fundamentals and haven't really engaged in scrimmages as such. And nagging injuries have cropped up, with four players slowed to a walk.

Still, the coaches appear pleased with the work of several players, like Steve Dunn, Grady Newton, Rudy Liggins, Keith Kitchens and of course Rick Bullock. Liggins, by the way, is having no shoulder problems and is playing with more confidence.

Mike Dooley, former Lubbock Hubber catcher and one of the mainstays of the 1947 season team here that might have been one of the best in minor league history, has moved to town.

He and Jackie Sullivan are operating a Mobil station on University Avenue. Drop by and welcome him "home" and shake hands with Jackie, who is running for sheriff. He announced over a year ago and we're glad to read that it finally has been discovered locally.

Texans:

If you are tired of bigger government and higher taxes, vote NO on the proposed new constitution November 4.

Don't give future Legislatures a blank check.

The Houston Chronicle calls the new constitution "a dangerous document." Governor Dolph Briscoe warns it will "lead us down the road to a state income tax."

Governor Briscoe says: "It is my personal view that the current Constitution under which Texas has grown and prospered for a century is preferable to the proposed new constitution. Accordingly, I believe it is in the best interest of Texas that all eight propositions on the ballot be rejected."

Rays of Hope

by Pat Stanton
Truth Makes One Free

John 8:32, "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

There are countless numbers of people who are living in bondage because they are not living in truth. Jesus is the only way of real truth. He is the truth!

When you accept Christ into your heart, you open the door toward knowing his divine truth. "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." (John 8:36) Christ has set his people free. Are you walking in his freedom? Do you know enough about his truth to be totally free? Christian people can be freed from fear, danger, hurt, pain, and sorrow. You can have this reality in your life if you have learned the whole truth of Jesus through the Bible and the Holy Spirit.

Jesus can be our "joy of living." He can be our life. As we open our lives to his life, we naturally receive more of his light and truth.

The Holy Spirit will reveal the trut of God's promises in your life if you will open your life to his will.

If you have areas of bondage, open all of yourself to the power of filling of God's Spirit.

"Is there anything we can count on in 1976 as we make plans for planting next year's crop? Will it be a repeat of political manipulations to cut farm prices?" Harp asked.

"U.S. producers deserve full parity for their production and we aren't getting it," Harp pointed out. "We believe it should be the policy of the Administration to help agriculture receive parity."

New Deal Slides by Frenship "Fish" 8-0

Frenship's freshman Tigers dropped their third game in a row Thursday night in a defensive battle to New Deal 8-0. The first half was a rugged defensive battle with neither team being able to score. The Tigers were stopped once on a 4th and goal from the New Deal one foot line.

In the third quarter an errant snap from Reynoldo Pena to Ricky Soto on a punting situation rolled through the end zone for a safety and a 2-0 New Deal lead.

The only touchdown came on an 8 play 64 yard New Deal drive in the fourth quarter and the 8-0 tally.

Offensive leader of the game for Frenship was Ralph Gonzales who amassed 72 yards on 17 carries. Eddie Willard led the Tigers defense with 15 tackles and one interception.

Teacher Spotlight

by Melissa Martin

"I've lived here for the past two years and have enjoyed being a part of this friendly community and school system," comments Mrs. Jan Berry, a teacher here at the Shallowater schools.

Mrs. Berry resides at 4708 59th Street in Lubbock. She taught at a Lubbock Private School as a kindergarten teacher. Macrame and sewing are her special interests and hobbies.

We are fortunate to have Mrs. Berry as a Resource Room Aide in our own elementary and junior high. We wish her luck in her following years of teaching.

Second Graders Welcome Fall

by Laura Walker

It began with Mrs. Louis McMenemy's tree of bare branches. Thoughts of the changing seasons inspired the students to write poems about the coming of fall.

After discussing the theme for their showcase, students volunteered to bring the things that reminded them of fall. Many of these creative third-graders made birds for the branches and one bright young student even thought to bring a bird nest. A slithering snake curls around the branches of the tree and a wise old owl is perched intelligently near by.

Across the small fence circling the tree, orange pumpkins ready for Halloween and brightly colored Indian corn lie in a make believe pasture. A watermelon, a devil's claw, and even some pine cones accent the scenery. A sure sign of fall is the migration of geese and in the blue sky there are several geese flying south.

Presented here are three poems that are displayed in the showcase.

The Leaves

by Patti Middlebrook

It is fall you know,
The chilly wind begins to blow.
Leaves on the tree turn yellow and red.

And look as if they are dead.

Play In Fall

by Camie Stanton

I play a lot of ball in the fall.
I wear a sweater because my mother thinks it better.

The Seasons

by Lance Foerster

Soon the leaves will fall to the ground,
And soon they will be all around.
Then winter will come ho hum.
Then the birds will sing,
And it will be spring.

Only in America

I am an American. You are an American. He is an American. We are all Americans!

That's the way we put it. Simply, without any swagger, without any brag, in those four plain words. We speak them softly to ourselves. We roll them on the tongue, touching every syllable, getting the feel of them, the enduring flavor. We speak them humbly, thankfully, reverently: I am an American!

They are more than words, really. They are the sum of lives of a vast multitude of men and women and children. They are a manifesto to mankind; speak those four words anywhere in the world—yes, anywhere—and those who hear will recognize their meaning. They are a pledge. A pledge that stems from a document which says:

"When in the course of human events..." and goes on from there to the Declaration of Independence, and the Bill of Rights, and the Constitution.

Listen and you can hear the voices echoing from the past: "Don't give up the ship! Fight her till she dies..."

"Damn the torpedoes! Full speed ahead!"

"Pike's Peak or bust!"

"When you say that smile..."

"Don't fire till you see the white of their eyes..."

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right..."

"I am not a Virginian, but an American..."

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense..."

You can hear men demanding guarantees for which they suffer through the terrors of war, hear a Yankee voice speaking the text of a brief amendments...

Congress may not interfere with the freedom of religion, speech, meeting and petition. The people may bear arms. Soldiers may not be quartered on the people. Unreasonable searches are forbidden.

You can hear all those echoes and more as you walk along the streets...Hear them in the rumble of traffic; the lathe, in the roaring factory; hear them in the clack of train wheels, in the drumming throb of the airliner; hear them in the cornfields and the big woods, in the mine pits and the oil fields...

But they aren't just words any longer; they're a way of life, a pattern of living...They're the dawn that brings another day in which to get on with the job.

They're the noon whistle, with a chance to get a bowl of soup, a hamburger, or a cup of coffee...

They're evening, with another day's work done; supper with the wife and kids; a movie or TV, and nothing to fear, nothing to make us afraid...

They are a pattern of life as lived by a free people, freedom that has its roots in Rights and Obligations.

The right to go to a church with a cross or a star or a dome or a steeple or not to go to church at all...

And the obligation to respect others in the same right.

The right to harangue on a street corner, to hire a hall and shout your opinions till our tonsils are worn to a frazzle...

And the obligation to curb your tongue now and then.

The right to go to school, to learn a trade, to enter a profession, to earn an honest living.

And the obligation to do an honest day's work.

The right to put your side of the argument in the hands of a jury...

And the obligation to abide by

Mustangs Come Close

by Kim McMenemy

Last week the Mustangs played the Plains Cowboys. The game was an action packed thriller with the Mustangs playing one of their better games of the season, leading Plains in all statistics and everything else except the score.

Plains opened the scoring early in the first period when the Plains quarterback sneaked in for six; the PAT was good. Later in the second quarter the Mustangs returned the favor when quarterback Ray Jackson scooted in for the TD. The extra point attempt failed, and Plains led 7-6 at the half.

Plains scored in the third period making the scoreboard 14-6 and that was how the score remained at the end of the game.

This week the Mustangs play at O'Donnell so come out and back them as they play for Shallowater.

Club, and she is the reporter for the Distributive Education Club.

Some of Jeanne's favorites are: food-taco and color-blue. A special honor received during her junior year, was the Art Student of the Year.

After graduation she plans to do as little as possible.

Filling the second half of the spotlight is Johnny Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor.

Johnny is a Virgo, born on September 22, 1958. He is a member of Future Farmers of America (FFA), is a captain and tailback on the football team, forward on the basketball team, and runs track.

Things of special interest to him are working on and washing cars. He commented that he likes to make cars look sharp. He also likes to play football.

Johnny's favorite food is steak, favorite color is blue, and favorite subject is Ag Mechanic.

Johnny hasn't made any after-graduation plans as yet but he'll find something to do. His comment on the school year is, "It's all right. I like it because it's the last year."

the laws that you and your delegates have written...

Simple words...I am an American. You could write them on your thumbnail, if you choose...or you could sweep them all across the sky, horizon to horizon. You could engrave them on stone...you could carve them on the mountain ranges...You could sing them to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

But you needn't. You needn't do any of those things...for those words are engraved in the hearts of one hundred and seventy million people...They are familiar to one hundred seventy million tongues, every sound, every syllable...But when we speak them, we speak them softly, proudly, gratefully:

I am an American!

Counselor's Corner

Five Saturday mornings during the current school year will be especially important to Shallowater High School seniors who are planning to go on to college after graduation.

On those Saturdays students have an opportunity to take the ACT Assessment or the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). October 11 was the first date for the SAT, while students taking the ACT had their first opportunity on October 18. Each test has a registration deadline. The entire schedule of each test with registration deadlines is posted on the high school bulletin board.

Each college and university and some other post-secondary schools require either the ACT or the SAT as an entrance examination. Scores from the test are used for admittance, for determining placement in honors programs, for scholarships, and for counseling purposes. It is important for each senior considering college to take one or both of these tests at the earliest date possible. Mrs. Carol Witcher, high school counselor, can advise students who are uncertain about which test to take.

Application forms can be obtained from Mrs. Carol Witcher. Financial aid information and application forms are also available for seniors and their parents.

Senior Spotlight

by Sue Wall

Shining on, the Senior Spotlight is focused on Jeanne Cason and Johnny Taylor this week.

Jeanne is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Gene Cason. Born under the sign of Leo, July 28, 1958, she, like many other Leos, enjoys painting and riding horses.

Jeanne is an active member of the Future Teacher's Association (FTA), the Shallowater Riding

Football Spotlight

by Chris Hutchings

This week's football spotlight is on two sophomore Mustangs. They are Clay Dixon and Danny Green.

Clay Dixon weighs 155 lbs. and his height is 6 feet even. Clay plays linebacker on defense, and center on offense. Clay is a non-quitter.

Danny Green is the second of the two Mustangs. Danny plays guard on offense and defensive tackle. Danny weighs a tough 170 lbs. on a 5'9" frame.

This week the Shallowater Mustangs are on the road to O'Donnell to play the Eagles.
