Celebrates Anniversary

Approximately 150 friends and relatives attended open house Sunday, from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m., honoring Mr. and Mrs. O.A. Lambert on their Golden Wedding Anniversary in the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Andress, Mike, Mark and Melanie, at 7009 Miami in Lubbock.

Ag Credit Good In Texas

Agricultural producers in need of financing have a fairly good chance of getting a loan.

"There is plenty of money for agricultural loans, and a majority of lenders are actively seeking new farm and ranch loans. Furthermore, interest rates are down," says Dr. Wayne Hayenga, who conducted an agricultural credit survey recently in Texas.

Hayenga, an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, points out that more than 60 per cent of the 161 agricultural lenders responding to the survey said they are serving the same number of customers and have the same number of loan applicants as they did a year ago. Twenty per cent said they had more customers.

"Most of the people borrowing money are paying it back at about the same rate as last year," Hayenga says. "Twenty-three per cent of the lenders even reported a higher rate of loan repayment."

However, more bankers are requiring good financial records from borrowers before they loan money. Lenders reported that more than 60 per cent of all borrowers furnished cash flow budgets, operating budgets and past income statements when applying for a loan. Last year, only 50 per cent of the borrowers supplied these records.

Most of the banks in Texas have the same collateral requirements as they did a year ago, according to the survey.

"One advantage for people who borrowed money during the past year was the lower interest rates," says the Texas A&M University System specialist. "Interest rates for feeder cattle loans, real estate loans, and farm and ranch operating loans were all down slightly from 1975."

According to the survey, most lenders said they thought interest rates would stay the same but had more chance of going up than down.

About 60 per cent of the lenders surveyed said they thought agricultural spending would increase in the future, and a majority said they believed ranchers' incomes would go up but farmers' incomes would stay the same, Hayenga notes.

Some 40 per cent of the lenders felt the demand for short-term loans would increase in the future, and 27 per cent believed the demand for long-term loans would also increase.

Hayenga says lenders reported that almost 30 per cent of their borrowers contracted part of their crops, with 58 per cent contracting on a quantity basis and 42 per cent on an acreage basis.

Over half of the lenders said they thought the optimum amount to contract was one-half, adds the economist.

Banquet Held

The Sunday School and Training Union faculty of the First Baptist Church enjoyed a banquet Thursday night at K-Bob's Restaurant at 8:00.

The invocation was given by the pastor, Rev. Boyd Pearce, and the speaker was Rev. Charles Broadhurst, pastor of the Southcrest Baptist Church in Lubbock. Topic of his speech was "Challenge To New Teachers." Profitable and unprofitable servants, reach out and be a loving church, parable Matthew 25:14-30.

Special guests were Rev. and Mrs. Doyle Holmes, area Supt. of Lubbock Baptist Association.

The benediction was given by Bobby Styles.

The city of Shallowater will be the site of a new medical clinic to be staffed by Texas Tech University School of Medicine (TTUSM) faculty and residents, Dr. Thomas Nicholas, director of the Department of Family Practice in the medical school said at a Tuesday night town meeting.

About 50 citizens voted to authorize the Chamber of Commerce to sign a contract with TTUSM and apply for any loans necessary to put the facility in operation.

Nicholas said the proposed opening of the clinic is set for September 1. Harold Harriger, an attorney, told the gathering the financial vehicle for the clinic must be a non-profit organization, such as the Chamber of Commerce, in order to sign a contract with the medical school.

The Chamber must make two loans, one of $50,000 to buy the old bank building, the location of the clinic, and one of $70,000 to remodel the building and buy equipment, said Harriger.

The Medical School has received a grant from HEW of $200,000 to operate the clinic for the first two years, according to Nicholas.

Nicholas said the grant will enable the Med School to pay rent, salaries and operate the clinic for two years.

Harriger said TTUSM will pay rent of $1,250 a month which will be used to pay off the building loan. Any revenue from the clinic will be applied to the second equipment loan, he said.

Harriger said after all indebtedness is paid off a reserve fund will be set up from all revenue to be used for operation of the clinic. He estimated this fund will be in the neighborhood of $75,000 to $90,000.

Nicholas told the group the clinic should have an estimated patient contact of about 28 per day.

Based on these figures, Nicholas estimated the income from the first three months of the clinic should be about $18,592. The next three month period should provide an income of $28,224; the next period $23,968 for a total of $70,784 in gross income and professional fees.

The doctor also estimated other income as $30,000 from medicines; $84,000 from lab fees; and $48,000 from X-ray fees. This will give the clinic a total gross income of $233,000, he said.

Presenting figures which estimated operating expenses, the medical school representative noted $90,000 would be needed to cover rent, insurance, lab supplies and salary for a lab technician not included in the federal grant.

Nicholas said the clinic should be able to pay all debts in about one and one-half years.

The doctor also said nine faculty members of TTUSM and residents under the TTUSM program will staff the clinic. He explained the resident were doctors who had graduated from the medical school and have a years experience.

The hours of the clinic will be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, with a 24 hour emergency call service.

In response to questions, Nicholas said the patient will have his choice of hospitals, if that is required, and choice of Lubbock doctors for consultation.

The clinic has contracted with 19 Lubbock specialists, and can arrange consultations with any other doctor if the patient so desires, he said.

The clinic will also work with the local ambulance service and make a training course available to any resident wishing to take it, he said.

Nicholas said when a patient first comes to the clinic he will be examined by a faculty doctor. The patient will then have his choice of a resident who will become his doctor. Nicholas stressed a patient can change residents.

The resident will have the advantage of consulting with the faculty members before he makes a diagnosis.

Nicholas said this type of clinic usually is best for a community because the residents are more interested, more thorough and generally give the patient better medical care.

Nicholas also informed the meeting medicines will be available in the clinic through the pharmacy at TTUSM. He said several pharmacists had contacted him about setting up drug stores in the city after the clinic is opened.

The townspeople were informed all that remains is for Medical School lawyers to go over the contracts to make sure everything is legal, Nicholas said.

Chamber President M.J. Williams told the gathering loans have already been approved for the clinic, but the Chamber must get townspeople to sign a guarantee form for a portion of the $70,000 loan. This is mainly to provide collateral for the bank on the equipment loan, he said.

Williams said $10,000 has been pledged and he did not think the guarantees would provide a problem.

Water Reservoir Bid Accepted By City Council

City council Friday accepted a $162,000 bid from Hudson and Spark Company to construct a 350,000 gallon concrete water reservoir.

The bid was one of four proposals presented to the council. Construction on the concrete reservoir will not start, however, until an easement allowing the city to run water lines along railroad property is signed by executives of the Santa Fe Railroad Company.

A letter sent to company executives last May asking for the easement had received a reply that a decision would not be forthcoming for 30-45 days. Ralph Griffiths, an attorney for Farmers Home Administration, the agency which bought the city's bonds, said the city should hear from Santa Fe by the second week in July.

Griffiths speculated the company would grant the easement, and was only waiting for the board to meet.

"They may only meet once every three months," he said.

In the meantime, Griffiths said the FHA, the city, and the contractor will proceed with pre-work contract negotiations.

"There should not be a long delay," Griffiths said.

The contract calls for construction of a 350,000 gallon concrete water reservoir near the center of town with water lines emanating from it to the city's present water system. An additional water well will also be drilled.

Shallowater residents voted 74-4 in January 1975 to pass a bond issue which would provide funds to build a ground storage tank and finance improvements to the sewer system.

The city had experienced some delay in getting their application for purchase of the revenue bonds accepted by the Farmers Home Administration since then. Approval for additional sewer line work has not yet been given.

Both city officers and representatives from Willis Environmental Engineering, the company handling the city's planning, expressed satisfaction with the bids.

"I thought it would be over $200,000," one official noted.

The council instructed the contractor to explore costs for deepening the concrete tank before construction starts. Should a decision be made to expand the tanks storage capacity stronger pumps would be needed to take the water from the tank.

Hudson and Spark have built water storage tanks south of Canyon for the Canadian River Authority. The company estimated it would take 150 days to complete the project.

A July 4th Essay

By Dardie Williamson

Some have asked if America will survive as a free nation to observe its 200th birthday.

Well here we are almost on the eve of that eventful day. We are still a free nation and a proud nation among all the frustration and confusions of timely events that are happening in our world today.

Since the Declaration of Independence was signed on July 4, 1776, 200 years ago until now, history has been recorded by our forefathers, that has caused us to pause each year on this particular holiday and give thanks for the abundance of life that has been provided for us as Americans.

We thank God for the leaders of our times, that have made history in their reign, for the soldiers of wars who have given their lives for their country, some who have returned, disabled, but proud, to be a part of those who fought for their country's freedom and independence. All are to be commended.

So Sunday as July 4, 1976 arrives, let us as American ask ourselves, "What does this holiday really mean to us?" Most have planned a day of fun in the park, on the lake or some will just stay home and be lazy. Let's all stop and take inventory of the true meaning of this holiday. It's on a Sunday, go

Hunter-Probasco Vows Read Friday

Wedding vows for Miss Tana Lou Hunter and Mitchell Lane Probasco were exchanged Friday, June 25 at 8:00 p.m. in the Shallowater First Baptist Church with Rev. Clyde Cook performing the double ring candlelight ceremony before a background bouquet of white gladiolus flanked on either side by tapered candelabra. The altar also featured a memory candle flanked by small candles on either side. The aisles were decorated with white bows and greenery.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Teague of 1919 7th St. Lubbock and the groom is the son of Mrs. K.E. Probasco of Rt. 3, Floydada.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, the lovely bride was adorned in a formal length gown of ivory organza fashioned with a high Victorian neckline of scalloped valau with full length slender sleeves, enhanced with a ruffle of lace at the wrist. A deep oval lace yoke edged with a ruffle accented the princess line silhouette which extended into a full chapel length train. A deep ruffle of lace formed the hemline of the skirt and train. Seed pearls accented the yoke and sleeves. She wore a Juliet cap headpiece of matching lace holding a fingertip lace edged veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies and baby breath, entwined with white net and ribbon, enhanced with pearls.

Maid of honor was Miss Glenna Ryburn of Brownfield. Bridesmaids were Miss Bunny Lupton of Shallowater and Miss Teri Martin of Lubbock.

Mrs. Bill Avery is doing as well as can be expected in Methodist Hospital following the car accident she was in Thursday.

Mrs. C.W. Perser has been re-admitted to Methodist Hospital and is doing very well.

Mrs. R.A. Ballard is still in Levelland Nursing Home.

Visitors the past 10 days in the Burnis Penny home was her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ball, from Bella Vista, Ark.

They wore identical floor length gowns of Nile green Quiana fashioned with a deep V-neckline and short butterfly sleeves. The empire bodice and A-line skirt was enhanced with a soft grecian drape front. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow daisies entwined with yellow ribbon and baby's breath.

Greg Masek of Sierra Blanca was best man and Ronny Rains of Tokio and Eddie Ryburn of Brownfield were groomsmen.

Miss Jean Shipp, soloist was accompanied by Mr. Dalton Potter, on the organ. Ushers were Mark Probasco and Max Probasco, brothers of the groom of Floydada. The bride's niece, Lori Newton of 4009 30th St., Lubbock, was the candlelighter.

A reception was held immediately following the wedding in fellowship hall. The serving table was laid with a beautiful cloth of white linen enhanced in lace centered with an arrangement of white daisies and baby's breath and the memory candle taken from the altar. The lovely three tiered wedding cake was served from crystal and silver appointments.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Shallowater Schools and attended South Plains College. The groom graduated in 1972 from Floydada Schools and is a 1976 graduate of Texas Tech.

Following a wedding trip to Atlanta, Georgia, the couple will be at home at Rt. 2 Floydada where the groom is engaged in farming.

SPORTS

By Joe Kelly

By the time you all read these lines, hopefully we'll be catching our share of brook trout, lake trout, smallmouth bass, Northern pike and red salmon.

Yep, the annual trip to Saranac Lake, N.Y., got underway last Friday, along with Norm Williamson and his son, Scott. My two sons are both working and couldn't get away and the son-in-law is in the process of moving to a bigger home.

The next column will be from Saranac Lake and I'll try to bring you all up to date on how the fishing is. It will be the first trip to New York for Norm and Scott, but I know that they are going to enjoy it, even with all the hard work.

Ran across Ed Mooney, former Tech and pro linebacker, at the AA game and told him we were heading out. "Hey! That's my old stomping grounds," he exclaimed. Ed still lives in Lubbock and apparently has really found a home here.

For some 10 days prior to leaving, I was in Midland and, with nothing better to do, decided to take in at least one Midland Cubs' Texas League game.

Then I got hooked. I saw four games in three nights, because either the caliber of play is better than it was two years ago or I'm getting more mellow. Anyway, I saw some good baseball. I also saw some pretty sloppy ball, in spots.

Mike Sember is a strong, young player that the Cubs are using in centerfield. Mike started out as a shortstop, but the Chicago parent club wanted him tried in the outfield.

It's a trying time for the young player. He circles under a fly ball with all the confidence of a five-legged giraffe. You never know if he's going to make the catch — or if it is going to fall in for a hit, as it did at times.

All of us have to learn, and the learning process can be painful. Mike plays centerfield about the way you would expect a shortstop to play it. But then, I can remember that Jake Early of Washington and Yogi Berra of New York at times looked like pitchers trying to be catchers.

Mike made up for his shortcomings afield with some timely hits, including a grand slam home run with two out in the bottom of the ninth that brought Midland an 8-5 victory.

I noticed the name Kubski on the El Paso roster and immediately wondered if this could possibly be the son of Al, a former player-manager for the old Lubbock Hubbers. I was told that his dad's name was indeed Al, so I went to the clubhouse.

Bobby Knoop, the El Paso manager, was not overly receptive when I walked in. Managers have a way of being a little on the unpleasant side after losing a game that appears won. But, after satisfying him, he called to Kubski I wanted to talk with him.

Al has a good looking boy. He's fast, has a real gun for an arm and, from time to time, stings the ball good. He is 21, stands over 6 feet, was born in Longview.

"From time to time someone comes up to me and says he knew Dad," Gilbert Kubski said with a smile.

Dad, the former manager, is now the chief scout for the California Angels. The closest he gets to Lubbock is El Paso two or three times a year.

Some of the talk in Midland, of course, was about the Charles Finley deal of three players to the Red Sox and Yankees. Speculation was, at the time, that Bowie Kuhn would let the deal stand. The feeling was that he couldn't do anything else.

Kuhn, of course, fooled everyone. He might even have fooled himself out of baseball. The betting Saturday at the AA game was that the courts would find in favor of Finley.

The move to block a man selling players was unprecedented and makes no sense, except from the standpoint that the rich clubs can afford to buy players, others can't.

But, isn't that life? Even in this day of the credit card, there are things that millionaires can buy that peons like us can't. And yet the Supreme Court doesn't prevent anyone from buying what he can afford.

Kuhn is on shaky ground. You can see the logic behind his thinking, that letting the Sox and Yanks buy players is going to make them too strong. At the same time, there is no assurance that buying these players is going to make them that strong.

This time the commissioner is wrong. He's out of step, in my opinion, and I think the courts will say so. And, if they do, it will destroy Kuhn's effectiveness with owners and players alike.

The Roundup — Denny Sommers, Midland manager, was at Amarillo in the same capacity for three years. . . Carl Sawatski, Texas League president, has been in Lubbock trying to interest someone in sponsoring a team here. . . Bill Rigney, Midland GM, is the son of the San Francisco manager. He's doing a good job. . . Bud Wilkinson is being eased out as an ABC football commentator. His place may be taken by Jack Mildren, who was to have done a tryout at the AA game in Lubbock. . . No one seemed to know if Ron Farkas, El Paso third baseman, was any kin to Andy Farkas, a running back with the Washington Redskins 40 years ago.

Shallowater Baptist Youth Attend Evangelism School

Four youths from the First Baptist Church and their sponsor, John Thornell, left Tuesday morning for Dallas to attend the week long Youth Evangelism School and conference, sponsored by the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

An estimated 18,000 teenagers from throughout Texas will focus on "spiritual resurgence in America" in Dallas July 2 and 3 on the eve of the nation's Bicentennial Fourth of July observance.

"God Bless America" will be the patriotic-spiritual theme for the annual Texas Baptist Youth Evangelism Conference at the Dallas Convention Center.

"We will be challenging the youths to become an army of moral righteousness," said Dr. Lester L. Morriss.

Another emphasis of the two-day conference is "Good News Texas," a statewide evangelistic thrust which will culminate in an extensive media campaign next spring.

Musical Worship Service Set July 4th

The First United Methodist Church of Shallowater will present a musical worship service "I Love America" by John Peterson Sunday morning, July 4 at 10:45.

Much loved songs such as "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "America the Beautiful" will be combined in this program along with new songs by Peterson.

The exciting musical is divided into three sections, Patriotism, Praise and Prayer for America.

The children's choir will sing and lead the congregation in the pledge to the flag.

Everyone in the community is extended a warm welcome to join in this special praise and worship service.

Following the service program everyone will enjoy a church-wide lunch together.

"God Bless America" convention will be former University of Oklahoma quarterback Steve Davis.

At one point in the program, the youths will be given an opportunity to kneel in prayer for national repentance outside the convention center, officials said.

Local young people who left Tuesday, accompanied by Thornell included Belinda Seale, Dana Vickrey, Mitch Wilson and Lee J. Rinehart.

Rev. and Mrs. Boyd Pearce, Mrs. John Thornell, Stacy Hohenberger, Melanie Foerester, Jana Dobson, Lance Wilson and Randall Pearce left this morning to attend the conference. The group will all tour Six Flags Friday and return home Saturday.

Bible School Begins Monday At Shallowater United Methodist Church

The First United Methodist Church Vacation Bible School will get underway on Monday, July 12, going through Friday, July 16, from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. each day.

A bicentennial theme will be carried out in all study material entitled The Lord — The Nations — The People.

A nursery will be provided for all infants and all other children ages 3 through 6th grade will have special instruction classes.

The arts and crafts work will be supervised by Mrs. Hank Woodruff and Mrs. Wayne Oliver and classroom instruction will be under the leadership of other teachers of the school.

A very special invitation is extended to all children in the community ages 3 through 6th grade to attend.

Commencement exercises will be held on Sunday, July 18, at 6 p.m. in the auditorium of the

LCC Basketball Camp Opens

Texas Tech head basketball coach Gerald Myers has opened his annual basketball camp at Lubbock Christian College to a record number of boys.

Held each summer in the LCC fieldhouse, the camp has grown to 120 participants. Though this figure represents the highest total in the camp's four-year history, Myers pointed out that the facilities accommodate up to 150 boys.

Three more week-long sessions remain in this summer's program. They are July 11-16, July 18-23 and Aug. 1-6. The camp is open to boys between the ages of nine and 14. The cost is $95 for resident campers and $65 for day campers. Further information can be obtained by calling LCC at (806) 792-3221.

Wounded Vet Says War Fought to Preserve Freedom

By Janice Jarvis

While many may be preoccupied with the bicentennial celebration instead of what it represents, one man feels he has not forgotten. That man is William M. "Pug" Horton, who was awarded the Bronze Star for action in World War II.

Cpl. Horton entered the army in January 1942. After completing his basic training at Camp Walters, Texas he was assigned to 39th Infantry Regiment, then was stationed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. He participated in the invasion landings in North Africa and fought through the Tunisian and Sicilian Campaigns after which the Regiment went to England for a short training period. Then on D-Day plus 4 (June 10, 1944) he landed on the Normandy beaches to start the march of the 39th through France, Belgium and Germany.

"We had to fight the war to preserve this country's freedom," said Horton.

During the three years that Horton served in the army he was under shell attack for 700 days. Horton who suffered five concussions during the war said that "everything I did was all in the line of duty." The war veteran who stayed in the same company throughout his three years of active duty, was a machine gunner and jeep driver. As part of his duties he carried ammunition, rations and water to the front and picked up the dead and wounded. Although he said that he was "scared all the time" his fright did not get in the way of duty.

In addition to receiving the Bronze Star he also received the Combat Infantry Badge, the Purple Heart, Good Conduct Medal and the Distinguished Unit Badge.

While on duty he was exposed to heavy enemy fire and suffered numerous injuries.

Looking back to World War II, Horton said that D-Day was the worst part of the War.

"I never felt like it wasn't worth it," said Horton, "although when I was drafted I never thought I would have to face all the things I faced." He added that "if it hadn't been for the Lord I don't think I would have made it."

Horton, who plans to celebrate the Bicentennial by staying at home, said it means more to him this year because it is causing people to think more of the country and what men have fought for.

America is in danger of becoming a dictatorship and people don't realize, according to Horton. Urging people to vote in order to preserve freedom, Horton said the power of the people does exist, it's just people are too lazy to vote. America is still a democracy, even if the law does inhibit people. Besides, most of the times it would be wrong to do some things anyway, he said.

Although suffering numerous injuries during World War II, Horton said that he would fight in World War III if there was one and he was capable of fighting for America. "I hate to see young kids go to war," he said.

Children should be taught to serve America, Horton said, and although he thought the War in Viet Nam was a waste of "time and energy" his son served in the Viet Nam War.

"I would have served in the war in Viet Nam too, if I could have," said Horton, although he thought that the soldiers were not treated right. "They were being shot at but they weren't allowed to win the war," said Horton. The Korean War was just a political war, he said.

Horton, who was on a three day leave in Paris when the war ended said that morale was always high because they were fighting for freedom and they knew that was something that had to be done. When the war ended he said the whole town went wild.

While some people seem to think America is going downhill now, Horton believes that Americans just move at too fast a pace. Events such as Watergate taught Americans a lot. Recent problems in Washington have not hurt the country as much as it has hurt Washington, said Horton.

Horton, who moved to Shallowater in 1959, lives at 1318 7th Street, with his wife and daughter, Janis, 18. He has two other daughters, Mrs. Steve Briggs of Kerrville, Texas; and Mrs. Robert Cox of Lubbock. His son, Bill Horton, lives in Shallowater.

Remembering his part in World War II and thinking about this year's Bicentennial Celebration, Horton said, "People just don't know what freedom really is until

United Methodist Women Meet

The United Methodist Women of Shallowater met Monday evening, June 28th, in the Fellowship Hall. President, Mrs. R.R. Warren, opened the meeting with prayer. Roll was answered by reading a Bible verse containing the word "poor."

"Independence Days" was the topic of the devotional given by Mrs. M.J. Williams.

The concluding study of The Prophets was led by Mrs. C.E. Pair.

Mrs. Louis McMenamy gave the benediction. Mrs. Retha Crowther was hostess. Eight members attended.

The U.M.W. will not be meeting during the month of July. The August 23rd meeting has been re-scheduled to August 9.

Martin Suffers Fall

Martin is recuperating in Roswell, New Mexico.

Girls Attend Basketball Camp

Several girls from Shallowater were in Plainview last week where they attended the week long basketball camp held at Wayland Baptist College.

Girls attending were Vickie Pettiet, Seena Conner, Sandra Stewart, Cathy and Jamie Hahertz, Brandy Giles, Michelle Price and Melissa Cox.

Activities the girls participated in included ball handling, drills, layouts shooting, etc. Entertainment included movies, swimming, talent show and watermelon bust.

A total of 149 girls from the surrounding areas attended. Melissa Cox, Sandra Stewart, Cathy Hahertz and Jamie Hahertz made the All Star team and played Saturday afternoon.

they've been some place that isn't free."

This July 4, as people celebrate 200 years of Independence in America, perhaps people will also remember what a hard fight it has been to keep America free. For men such as Pug Horton, the fight for freedom is something they can't forget.

Sheridan's Ride

By Jack Sheridan

It was an interesting week all around with the Hayloft Dinner Theater play, "What Did We Do Wrong?," a science fiction movie, "Logan's Run" opening at the Arnett-Benson Theater, the all-star "Murder by Death," written for the screen by Neil Simon, at the Fox, and an all-day trip for a picnic barbecue at White River Lake.

The latter was the annual event given for friends by the Towndraw owners and staff and a fun time it was too. The party water-skied, operated their boats, swam and had their frisbies sailing all over the place.

The food was excellent and the liquids cool and refreshing in that blazing heat.

It was my first visit to this big lake which is most attractive and unpolluted. Near Crosbyton it is a fun spot and very popular. The Towndrawers held their bash on an island (really more of a peninsula) and the only way to get there was by following a path through water that at times was well above the knees (rolled up pants and bare feet or cut-offs a must).

And so the group headed for home with stickers in their feet, sunburned from the reflected glare from the water. But everyone had a durned good time and that's what picnics are all about, no?

I wish I could say the same thing about the Hayloft visit. The evening was marred by the sudden illness of my companion midway through the comedy which was unfortunate. However, "What Did We Do Wrong?" is no great shakes as a play and this is the second time around at the Hayloft. It is the story of parents with a hippie, non-conforming son and their bafflements. Until Dad decides to go the same route to laughs.

Dennis Whitcomb directed the production in somewhat pedestrian way and the players were adequate to their demands. There have been better plays at the Hayloft, that's for sure.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has again dipped into the future with "Logan's Run" set in the 23rd Century. In this computerized world 30 years old mean termination. Logan, played by Michael York is 29. The film reminds of another MGM film in recent years called "Soylent Green." The cast is uniformly fine with Jenny Agutter, Richard Jordan, Roscoe Lee Browne, Farrah Fawcett-Majors and Peter Ustinov supporting well.

"The Omen" which I caught at a recent preview and commented about at that time is the antichrist film of another Satan's child, starring Gregory Peck and Lee Remick, with David Warner and Billie Whitelaw co-starring. It's a handsome film and a gripper. Reminiscent of "The Exorcist" and "Rosemary's Baby" but superior to both by far, "The Omen" is a winner. At Showplace 4.

Walt Disney's delightful revival of "Peter Pan" is current at the Fox for the vacation period, while the anticipated "That's Entertainment, Part II" is at last heading for the same screen complex.

"Hamps," that funny, funny cavalry with camels picture is holding at the South Plains Cinema.

Incidentally, both "Hamps" and "Logan's Run" were filmed in and around the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

This is the time through Saturday night when we have the opportunity to see another Gilbert and Sullivan presentation by Texas Tech Music Theater and the University Center, this time the sparkling and funny "Iolanthe." Directed by John Gillis, with Peggy Willis handling the important ballet sequences, the show is a dinner production. Dinner is served at 6:30 p.m. and the musical follows. This is highly recommended for the whole family.

As is the continuing Summer Mummies mellerdrammer and olio on Fridays and Saturdays at the KoKo Palace. Tickets are available at the door and dinner is optional. Showtime is 8 p.m., preceded by dinner if so desired. The play is by localite Dan Donahue called "Who Was That Masked Man I Saw You With Last Wednesday." It's madcap, cheer the hero, hiss the villain stuff and you can even throw popcorn at that nasty man if you wish. It's a lot of fun and you'll like it. It benefits the Lubbock Theatre Centre and is produced by the theater's Act IV Club.

Americal! America!

It's Americal that America is in God's Hand!

Only through Him can America stand.

Many people and years have come and gone,

And yet America lives on and on. The Statue of Liberty still stands there

With her hand to Heaven as if to share

Americal which God gave to all. May we join ranks and never fall.

"Others", is the Motto of the Statue of Liberty — That makes this the land of the free.

To not forget God as our flag does yet wave

Makes this the true land of the brave.

Americal, America is, you see.

A free, safe place for you and me.

Miracles are happening every-day,

Because God has planned it that way.

So away with bondage in this land.

Americal, that America, is in God's Hand!

Let love and justice reign Supreme

That we may have liberty, and let freedom ring.

Conscience is that still, small voice that warns us — but doesn't stop us.

-Enquirer, Cincinnati.

IT'S HIGH TIME WE TOOK LIFE A LITTLE SLOWER.

On the highways, slower speeds save lives, save energy. For example, traffic deaths were down by 9400 in 1975, as compared to 1973, when speed limits were higher than 55.

And we could save eight and a half million gallons of gasoline a day if everybody slowed down.

The point is, the 55 mph speed limit isn't something to take or leave lightly. It's vitally important. To all of us.

IT'S NOT JUST A GOOD IDEA. IT'S THE LAW.

businesses have paid up, leaving 9,370 still delinquent.

These delinquents have lost the corporate shield which leaves each officer of the business without corporate protection like a nake armadillo in a field full of coyotes.

Some of the delinquents were out of state corporations and had their permits to do business in Texas cancelled.

The charters and permits of 9,300 delinquent corporations were forfeited last year for failure to pay business tax.

Every one of these delinquents has had plenty of notice and has been given every opportunity to pay up.

However, they failed to either pay up or to make some arrangement with our Business Tax Division for payment.

A list of the delinquents is available in the Comptroller's Office for inspection by the news media.

Unfortunately, it may take publicity in the newspapers about the delinquent taxpayers to shake loose the taxes owed.

If you have any state tax problems or questions, contact your local Comptroller's Field Office or call toll-free: 1-800-292-9687.

the unfortunate truth is that when a business doesn't pay its taxes, it gains an unfair competitive edge over other businesses.

In the case of the corporate franchise tax, there have been almost 10,000 delinquent corporations which have refused to pay the taxes they owe this year. We mailed out notices in March telling 9,565 delinquent businesses that the Secretary of State had lifted their corporate charters or permits to do business in Texas.

We asked the Secretary of State to cancel their charters or permits, which he did on March 15.

But since then, only 195 of those

"I Felt His Presence There," says Pat Stanton, After Trip to the Holy Land

By Pat Stanton

It was with much anticipation that we began our first day in the old city of Jerusalem at 8:30 a.m. We entered the city through Herod's Gate. There were many people already busily engaged in the affairs of the day. We saw little boys with the donkeys, a mother with two small children asking for money (the children looked fat and healthy) women carrying baskets on their head, and small cars coming out of the narrow gate. We were soon in the area of the Pool of Bethesda. This Biblical place with its fine porches is still very much as it was the day that Jesus came to the pool and healed the lame man. (John 5:1-9)

The golden Dome of the Rock, the El Aqsa Mosque, is one of the most popular tourist areas in Israel. It is beautiful in design. I did not appreciate the fact that it is a heathen shrine (Moslem) but it holds much history. Bible scholars today believe that the Mosque is built on the exact spot of the old temple. The Jews also firmly believe this because of history, excavations, and the fact that the old wall of the temple is near the Mosque area. The Bible clearly teaches that the temple will be rebuilt and that the antichrist (a man) will enter the temple and profane it.

Just below this area, is the western wall, which is the only remains of the temple area. Many call this the wailing wall. We were able to go near this to an underground area and see the excavations that show the wall to be sixty feet underground. It is made from Herodian stone which means that it was built in the days of King Herod. There is so much history in this area. If you did not believe the Bible, you would have to believe history as it is recorded. Of course, I believe all of the Bible and that made the area of Jerusalem so much more exciting and fulfilling.

The western wall is a fascinating place. At any hour of the day, you will find Jews praying at the wall. This is the closest place that they can find to the old temple. The men are on the left side and the women are on the right. The very religious men pray for hours a day and read from their prayer books. Some are praying for peace, for the temple to be restored, and for the true Messiah to come. It is so sad to see that so many Jews still do not accept Jesus as their Savior. But this also is according to scripture. God said that there would be a veil (blindness) over their eyes until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled. That time is approaching as more and more of the Jews all over the world are receiving Jesus as their Lord and Savior.

We also toured the area where Jesus was brought before Pilate.

The stones of the floor are the same stones of the area 2000 years ago. We walked the Via Dolorosa, "the way of the cross." This was the narrow street where Jesus walked after he had been beaten and persecuted.

The whole city of Jerusalem is still very much alive by the presence of God's Spirit. Whether you are in the new parts of the city or walking down market street so close to the people, you are still very much aware that this truly is the "Holy City."

Next week: Calvary, Garden Tomb and surrounding area.

Shallowater Church To Host Picnic

Sunday, July 4, the First Baptist Church will host a church picnic from 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. on the church grounds, followed by an evening worship service and program at 7:00.

The service will consist of a flag ceremony, singing and readings and Arlie Arnold will tell how the church and community was like before 1940. Special music from that time, "Church In The Wildwood" will be by Clifford Conner. Special music from 1940 to 1955 will be by Neff Preson, 1955 to 1970 by Tish Foerster and 1970 to 1976, Mitchell Wilson.

Mrs. Wana Beth Cook will sing "Because He Lives" and Bro. Pearce is the circuit preacher and will deliver the worship service.

"God Bless America" will be sung by John Thornell to close the evening service and fellowship will follow in fellowship hall.

All church members and residents of the community are invited to attend.

Services Held For Bill Avery

Services for Bill Avery, 47, of Shallowater were held at 2 p.m. Monday in the First Baptist Church with Rev. Boyd Pearce, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Resthaven Memorial Park in Lubbock with Rix Funeral Directors handling the arrangements.

Avery was dead on arrival at 7:54 p.m. Thursday at Methodist Hospital from injuries sustained in a three-car accident on Highway 116 near Carlisle.

Avery's wife, Betty, 44, sustained serious injuries and is a patient in Methodist Hospital. The other two drivers were not seriously injured.

Avery was a Shallowater resident most of his life. He was employed by the Lubbock Swine Breeders Association.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Billy P. of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Sherry Settles of Lubbock and Gwen of the home; his mother, Mrs. Elsie M. Avery of Levelland; four brothers, Robert and Donnie, both of Whitharral, Glen of Electra and Dwayne of Portales, N.M.; and one grandchild.

Services Held For Elizabeth Gregory

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Ellen Gregory, 87, of Ropesville were held at 2 p.m. Saturday in Ropesville First Baptist Church.

Officiating was Rev. Irving Looney, pastor of Hurlwood Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. Merle Rogers, pastor of Ropesville First Baptist Church.

Burial was in Resthaven Memorial Park in Lubbock under the direction of Resthaven - Singleton - Wilson Funeral Home.

Mrs. Gregory was dead on arrival at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at West Texas Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack.

An East Texas native, she moved to Ropesville from Idalou in 1945. She was a member of First Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Charles Monroe; five sons, John Thomas of Oklahoma City, Okla., Ike D. of Lovington, George Monroe and Ulan, both of Hobbs, N.M., and Charles Jr. of 315 79th St.; three daughters, Mrs. Iva Lee Andrews of Hurlwood, Mary Elizabeth Hurley of Shallowater and Ella Mae Purtle of Nacogdoches; 27 grandchildren, 39 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Grandsons were pallbearers.

By the 18th Century, libraries were flourishing in the colonies. But the books which had been brought over or imported from Europe were not as popular as works by American authors. Colonial publishing had flourished beginning with the publication of the "Bay Psalm Book" in 1640. One of the most widely read books for the next 100 years was a woman's gripping account of her captivity by the Indians and her life among them. Who was that lady who wrote this early best-seller? Mary Rowlandson.

Doctors have found a medication that in many cases gives prompt, temporary relief from pain and burning itch in hemorrhoidal tissues. Then it actually helps shrink swelling of these tissues caused by inflammation.

The answer is Preparation H®. No prescription is needed for Preparation H. Ointment or suppositories.

Cold war.

It was bad enough we had to fight the British for our freedom. But on top of that, we had to fight the weather, too.

Because winter at Valley Forge meant snow, ice, and freezing temperatures. All serious enemies to a makeshift army without proper clothing, not nearly enough food, and short on ammunition.

It was an army long on courage, but short on money.

And then the money came. Some $27,000,000 from the pockets of new Americans.
