Texas Top Soybean Producers Named

The top soybean producers in Texas for 1973 were recognized in Lubbock, February 8th, during the seventh annual meeting of the Texas Soybean Association.

Named state champion was Robert L. Carthel of Route 1, Lockney. The Floyd County farmer produced 67.6 bushels per acre with the York variety. He was awarded a plaque and a two-week trip for two to Japan, Hong Kong and Taiwan. The trip is sponsored by Elanco Products Co. Carthel also received $50 for being one of three top regional producers.

Second place winner in state competition was D.L. Lewis of Star Route, Kress. He produced 65.4 bushels per acre on his Hale County farm, also using the York variety. He was awarded a plaque plus $100. Lewis received an additional $35 as the second place producer at the regional level.

Capturing third place was the Obenhaus Farms of Route 3, Lubbock, which produced 62.3 bushels per acre, again with the York variety. The placing merited a plaque and $75, plus another $25 as a third place regional winner.

In addition to the South Plains region which boasted the top three state winners, regional winners were also named for the state's other two soybean producing areas, Northeast Texas and the Coastal Prairie.

Top producer in Northeast Texas was Gary R. O'Connor of Route 2, Sumner. The Lamar County farmer produced 60.9 bushels of soybeans per acre, using the Bragg variety. He received $50. There were no other entries from that region.

In the Coastal Prairie, Arnold Hlavinka of Wharton came in as the top producer with a yield of 53.5 bushels per acre with the Bragg variety. He was awarded $50.

Second place went to Mike Salas of Pledger in Matagorda County with a yield of 46.4 bushels per acre with the Bragg variety. He received $35.

Third place winner in the Coastal Prairie was J.W. Douglas of Sourlake. The Hardin County farmer produced 46.1 bushels per acre with the Bragg variety.

The four producers with yields of above 60 bushels per acre plus H.B. Vaughn and Clayton Terrell, both of Plainview, were initiated as members of the 1973 Texas 60-bushel Soybean Club. The club recognizes those producers who have reached the milestone of producing an average per acre yield of 60 bushels or more. The average per acre yield in Texas is about 28 bushels.

The Texas Soybean Association sponsored the cash awards and plaques. The annual soybean production contest and annual meeting are sponsored by the TSA in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Chief Deputy in the Lubbock County Tax Collector's Office and as First Assistant in the County Auditor's Office.

Shallowater Lion Boss, Floyd Epperson, stated his satisfaction with the selection of Judge Vance as an Outstanding Shallowater Citizen and he also pointed out that ballots are available at various businesses in the area for nominating the March Outstanding

Young Farmers to Conduct Heart Fund Drive in Wolfforth Saturday and Sunday

The Frenship Young Farmers will conduct the Heart Fund drive in Wolfforth on Saturday and Sunday. The drive is part of the Lubbock County Heart Fund campaign.

Under the direction of President Mike Dunavant, the Young Farmers will contact city and community residents, delivering educational literature concerning heart disease and receiving contributions for the Heart Fund.

Dunavant said that contacts will be made at the Wolfforth rabies clinic on Saturday, and that door-to-door contacts will be made

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White will be keynote speaker at the annual meeting of Water, Inc. to be held Feb. 16 at Lubbock. White will speak at 10:30 a.m.

Theme of the meeting revolves around state, national and world needs for increased agriculture production. Duncan Ellison, executive director of Water, Inc., said.

Water, Inc. is an organization devoted to getting sufficient water for an expanding Texas. "We must provide sufficient water so that Texas can expand its economy," White said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture, which White directs, has several ongoing programs aimed at expanding the economy of Texas as well as improving life for its citizens.

They include consumer services to assure all consumers of getting full value for money spent, and the popular Texas Agricultural Products (TAP) program which promotes Texas produced food and fiber throughout the state, the nation and the world.

Programs are also underway through Commissioner White's office for improving the environment of Texas and in redeveloping rural Texas.

conducting missionary evangelism campaigns and researching people and places of world-wide interest. He has also lectured on over two thousand secular campuses in addition to a schedule of appearances at prominent Christian colleges. Bob's mission is now extended through a one-half hour television series that provides thoughtful insights and searching disclosures to millions each week.

The main thrust of Bob's ministry is an outreach of evangelistic crusades held in America's largest cities and churches. His varied talents as a singer, composer and guitarist are an added attraction to these efforts. Bob understands the problems of today and convincingly relates current trends to God's Word. He has reached thousands with the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Let him share with you in music and word how he was able to find reality in his own life.

This is the first time that a concerted community drive for Heart Fund has been conducted in Wolfforth.

The literature to be distributed is a pamphlet, "Why Risk Heart Attack?" It lists six ways to "Guard your heart."

Dunavant pointed out that diseases of the heart and circulation cause more than 50 per cent of all deaths at all ages, and approximately one half of all deaths between ages 35 and 65.

He added that the American

To The Right?

One of the ironies of American politics is that vocal and loud radicals usually elect their worst enemies. That's because the average American has a natural tendency to pull for the underdog, to resent extremism and any element which seeks power and control at any cost, to country and opponents alike.

President Nixon benefited from this process in 1968. That election was decided by the wild antics and sorry, illegal behavior of the liberal-radical fringe, which disgusted millions at the Chicago Democratic convention and at other times.

Chances are good the same process is occurring again. A recent poll in behalf of the New York Times showed New York City voter opinion farther to the right than at any time in decades. And while the people of New York City certainly aren't typical Americans, traditionally being to the left of the average, it's obvious if they have moved that far right, America probably has also.

The big reason, of course, is the effort of the liberal media and liberal Democrats to kick the President out of office whatever the cost to country, to world opinion, to many good and conscientious men now serving the Nixon Administration. In short, the American people are tired of constant muckraking and constant political scandal and maneuvering.

The likelihood is very strong that if Democrats vote impeachment, the reaction will be very much in the President's favor. Of course, the Senate, where a trial would be held, won't remove the President from office. So the net gain, to the radical-liberals who are out to get Mr. Nixon, could well be a Republican victory in the 1976 presidential election, just as in 1968.

George Washington

In modern times when old virtues such as duty, patriotism and service to one's country meet with a certain cynicism, it's good to remember the birthday of George Washington—"first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Washington was born February 22, 1732, in Westmoreland County, Virginia—one of five children of a family which had for three generations lived in America because his father, a well-to-do planter, died when he was twelve he was not sent to England like his older brothers for an education.

He became a surveyor and took his place in the militia when his brother became ill. As a major he was sent on two expeditions against the French, and on the second he was defeated. On a third, led by General Braddock, the British and Americans were again defeated. But from this start Washington rose to become the commander in later years of American forces in the successful, long, hard-fought revolution against Britain. He then became the new nation's first President.

Thus, for fifteen years, seven in war and eight as President, Washington founded and guided a new nation to manhood and, as the father of our country, bequeathed a precious heritage to all of us.

Smoke Warning

The Federal Trade Commission has asked Congress to strengthen the printed warning on cigarette packages and add warnings on small cigar packages.

The FTC would change the cigarette warning from, "Warning: The Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health," to "Warning: Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer, coronary heart disease, chronic bronchitis, pulmonary emphysema and other diseases."

Although millions have been induced to kick tobacco addiction in recent years, because of population growth and the number of young people successfully addicted by films and advertising each year, tobacco consumption continues to increase.

The need for sterner warnings on cigarette packages is thus obvious and Congress should enact legislation to afford the gullible, ignorant and young better protection, which will save many lives in the years to come.

Spock's Admission

The much published and quoted baby doctor, Ben Spock, has now admitted what so many common-sense parents have long known. He and other experts in the field overemphasized not saying "no" to junior so much many parents became reluctant to be firm enough with their children.

Spock recently said too many parents today are not firm enough with their children for fear of losing their love or incurring resentment. Parents have too often been persuaded that only trained persons know how children should be reared, Spock added.

This, Spock admitted, is a cruel deprivation "we professionals" have imposed on mothers and fathers, though done with the best of intentions.

This, of course, is something many observers have known and recognized for some time. Today we have part of a generation of little darlings who grew up not being told "no" into monsters.

Thankfully the tide has begun to turn, with even a candid Dr. Spock now admitting the error of method he and others effectively sold parents some years back.

Shallowater's National Honor Society to Conduct Heart Fund Drive Sunday

The National Honor Society of Shallowater High school will conduct the Heart Fund drive here Sunday. The drive is part of the Lubbock County Heart Fund campaign.

Young Farmers Hold Seminar

Fort Worth has been the place in the Southwest where it has been happening for the past years, and it is about time for it to happen this year.

On March 8 and 9 the Texas Association of Young Farmers will again converge upon Fort Worth for one of the most important seminars for Young Farmers in 1974. The seminar is being held in conjunction with the Southwest Hardware and Implement Association dealers annual convention, and the crowd-drawing Southwest Farm Show and Tractor Pull.

Young Farmers, with their new president, Erwin C. Gisler of the Three Rivers' Chapter, will arrive on March 8 and begin the seminar with a noon luncheon. The luncheon will be sponsored by the various manufacturers who not only will be conducting the seminar, but will have approximately six million dollars of equipment on display throughout the entire Farm Show.

Continuing the seminar through Saturday, Young Farmers will have a chance to exchange ideas and collect valuable information from the experts on hand about some major topics of 1974. One of the most timely of these topics is "Fuel Economy Through Maintenance", in which the Young Farmer will be shown how to get the most use from his equipment with the supply of fuel on-hand.

The Shallowater drive will be under direction of Mrs. J.C. Kulm, NHS sponsor, and Sharon Williams, NHS president.

The NHS group will make door-to-door contacts of city and community residents, delivering educational literature concerning heart disease and receiving contributions for the Heart Fund.

This is the first time that a concerted community drive for Heart Fund has been conducted in Shallowater.

The literature to be distributed is a pamphlet, "Why Risk Heart Attack?". It lists six ways to "guard your heart." Mrs. Kulm pointed out that diseases of the heart and circulation cause more than 50 percent of all deaths at all ages, and approximately one half of all deaths between the ages of 35 and 65.

She added that the American Heart Association with its affiliated local associations, such as the Lubbock County Heart Fund, is the only national voluntary organization working to overcome heart and circulator disease.

The Heart Fund supports research into heart and circulator disease, provides public education about the diseases, and funds professional education programs to keep physicians updated about heart disease.

More than 80 cents of every dollar contributed goes into education and research, Mrs. Kulm added.

New Dental Knowledge

Millions of Americans are brushing their teeth after every meal, using hard-bristle tooth brushes, stroking their teeth with up and down motions. Only recently, however, newer and better ways to save teeth have been discovered.

In fact, the American Dental Association has recently revised all its brochures on dental care to reflect the new knowledge. Most of the advice is concerned with plaque, which is now known to be the cause of serious tooth and gum troubles.

Dentists now usually recommend soft bristle brushes, one brushing a day for adults (evening, after all food, is best), the use of dental floss and kits to determine where the plaque is. These kits can be bought at many pharmacies.

Plaque can be removed by dentists and sometimes by proper brushing and cleaning at home. Bleeding gums are often a sign of it. Bad breath is another. The best

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

Some people will be saying, as some people said last week, that the Southwest Conference basketball campaign is over. Don't you believe it. A trend may have set in, but the race isn't over. Indeed, as of last Sunday morning, not a team had been eliminated.

TCU was, after eight games, hanging by its fingernails, but the Horned Frogs still were mathematically alive. Thus, the race still is on, even though Texas Tech appears to be in the driver's seat.

Going into this week's games, here's how the race appeared:

Team	W	L	GB	TP	Home	Road
Tech	7	1	—	6	4	2
Texas	6	2	1	6	2	4
Baylor	4	4	3	6	2	4
SMU	4	4	3	6	2	4
A&M	4	4	3	6	3	3
Arkansas	3	5	4	6	4	2
Rice	3	5	4	6	3	3
RCU	1	7	6	6	3	3

As I said last week, that was the critical period for the Red Raiders. If they could split, they'd be in good shape. They split, now have the inside track. They have won four of five games on the road and haven't lost at home.

Texas, it's true, hadn't lost on the road, but it suffered two losses at home. Tech (3-0) and A&M (4-0), Saturday night opponents, are the only teams not to have lost at home.

Baylor, A&M and TCU are the only teams not to have won on the road, while unbeaten Texas must go to Tech, A&M, Baylor and TCU.

It may not be over, but unless the Raiders fall apart completely, Tech should tack up another title.

Early in the season it was predicted that the team winning the title probably would have three losses, maybe four. It was thought that there was better balance in the league this year.

There may be better balance. The difference is that Tech has come up with another great team effort. Scoring generally is led by Rick Bullock, William Johnson and Rich Little. Then come several players who have contributed timely points and filled in well.

The Raiders aren't overpowering. Instead, they get consistent scoring out of their top players and enough assistance out of their reserves that opponents can't give anyone free room. Gerald Myers expressed fears about the zone, but the zones haven't bothered Tech.

What has been troublesome have been the turnovers and reaction to the press. It's impossible to explain either, because it's the experienced players who have been involved as much as anyone.

So, going into the final games, you have three plateaus. Tech and Texas are really the only two teams with a solid chance to win. SMU, Baylor and A&M are fighting for second or third. Arkansas, Rice and TCU are fighting to avoid the cellar.

Tech is over the hump, with four of six games at home. SMU and A&M, both keys to the title, have three at home, three on the road. Texas and Baylor have only two at home, four each away. Even with A&M at College Station Saturday, Tech appears to be on the downhill glide.

The proposal that SMU return its football games to old Owenby Stadium on the campus is one that many SWC observers have long thought made sense. It would return Mustang games to their campus.

Polk Robinson, who has eyed the fortunes and misfortunes of conference schools for many years, thought that SMU made a mistake when it moved into the Cotton Bowl. His contention was that schools have control over games played on campus and, after all, games are for the students.

The move to the Cotton Bowl was made because of the Doak Walker-Kyle Rote era teams. Owenby was too small for the crowds who wanted to see these greats.

For a while, the crowds justified the move. Then a not-so-funny thing happened. Pro football move in, SMU's teams weren't great anymore and the fans started to stay away in droves. Before 1973 ended, a crowd of 20,000 at an SMU game was worthy of special mention.

Obviously, crowds of that "magnitude" are expensive. They hardly pay expenses. And soon you have a program that is running deep in the red. It takes a heap of enthusiastic, well-heeled alumni, willing to pay the price, to keep the program going.

It would cost a lot to refurbish Owenby Stadium. But it might be money well spent. It might be the salvation of SMU football. It might, just might, start SMU on a return to sound economic practices and maybe, even, a return to the glory days it once knew.

This is the week of decision for scores of potential college football stars; letters-of-intent will be signed and thus the fate of football teams two and three years away assured.

Tech ought to do well, even with the reduced numbers allowed to sign. The Raiders had a great season (11-1), impressive regional TV victories and a magnificent Gator Bowl performance. There's the feeling that Tech is on the verge of national greatness and this feeling ought to carry over to prospects. I hope the Raiders do well.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. has started a new program called a "Certificate of Merit", and it will go to persons catching the largest fish, by category, using line and pole.

The department has established 14 categories covering both fresh and salt water fish. Here are some minimums established in order to get the special award:

Largemouth bass, 8 pounds; crappie, 3 pounds, 8 ounces; white bass, 4 pounds; channel cat, 15 pounds; walleye, 12 pounds; rainbow trout, 2 pounds.

You can get more details from Parks and Wildlife offices, or from your favorite fishing license store.

Trout fishing in Texas? You bet. As I mentioned last summer, rainbows were stocked in Lake Rita Blanca, near Dalhart and the P&W Dept. says that they survived and grew to eight inches in four months. However, they are not expected to reproduce.

The Guadalupe River below Canyon Dam Lake was stocked with 21,000 eight-inch rainbows and another 65,000 two to three inch browns.

So, if you are planning a trip to those areas, stick a rod in your car and have some fun.

method to fight plaque is to see a dentist. But one can do some things at home.

With a kit to locate plaque, use a brush and dental floss to rid your teeth and gums as much as possible. A soft brush, horizontally inserted, should also rub the edge of the gums, with short strokes angled downward at forty-five degrees about eight per tooth.
