Mrs. Ruth Merrell Named First Recipient of Lions' "Shallowater Outstanding Citizen Award" Tuesday

Mrs. Ruth Merrell, center, is shown with Allan Cartrite, pastor of First Baptist Church, left; and Mr. Mabry Brock, President of First State Bank of Shallowater, representing the Shallowater Lions Club during the open house honoring Mrs. Merrell as the first "Outstanding Citizen" last Tuesday.

Recently the Shallowater Lions Club announced that they would begin honoring an outstanding citizen each month. Tuesday at an open house held each month by the ladies of Shallowater through the WMU at First Baptist Church honoring the senior citizens, the first recipient was announced.

The honoree is Mrs. Ruth Merrell, a long time Shallowater resident and former school teacher and librarian. In addition to being named an outstanding citizen, a pecan tree will be planted as a living memorial to Mrs. Merrell and a plaque will be placed beside the tree noting the recipient's name and the month the tree was planted and indicating the tree was planted in her honor because of the distinguished service given to the community. A special open house will be held in her honor on Monday, December 3rd at the First State Bank of Shallowater. The general public is invited.

Mrs. Merrell was born in Hill County, Texas on August 3, 1894. She moved to Shallowater in January of 1920 with her husband, the late Mr. C.E. Merrell. Mrs. Merrell has two children, Edwin Merrell and Mrs. Edith Vardeman both of Shallowater. She has 6 grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren.

Pioneer Natural Gas Company announced that effective January 1, 1974, the rate under which several classifications of customers are receiving gas service will be adjusted, upward or downward, each month, based on the monthly current cost of gas

Houston Normal in Huntsville, Texas and later attended Texas Tech. She started her teaching career when she was 17 at Snake Creek near Hillsboro, Texas.

After moving to Shallowater, she began teaching at Hardy School, a rural school 5 miles northwest of Shallowater, where she taught until 1936. She then began teaching in the Shallowater School and also served as librarian for 10 years until her retirement in 1968. She served as unofficial counselor to many students through the years and had the 1968 school year book dedicated to her in appreciation for her distinguished service as teacher and librarian.

Mrs. Merrell is still an avid reader and according to her family is still very active. She kept the nursery at the First Methodist Church in Shallowater for over 14 years and was known as "Nanny" by the many children she came in contact with.

When informed of the honor by the Lions Club, Mrs. Merrell acted a little embarrassed and apologetic. Her comments expressed surprise and she indicated that there were others who deserved the honor much more than she. Apparently the citizens of Shallowater who mailed in the nomination forms thought she was very deserving. There were numerous comments around the town that a very fine lady had been honored and the Shallowater Lions Club Citizen of the Month program was off to a good start.

There were 47 attending and several were still tacking a quilt, including grandpa McMenamy and Larry Shields.

purchased for the company's West Texas system. This adjustment will not change the present base rate being paid by these customers. Presently, these rates are subject to the same adjustment on an annual basis.

In making the announcement, K. Bert (Tex) Watson, company president, pointed out that because of the energy crisis facing the nation, the cost of new gas supply in the field is changing at an unprecedented rate.

He went on to say, "The adjustment must be made on a monthly basis in order for Pioneer to remain in a competitive position for future gas supply." Watson continued, "Pioneer is fortunate to have pipelines into two of the most promising areas for acquiring additional gas supply. However, there are a number of gas companies with pipelines in these areas who are aggressively acquiring gas as it becomes available. Through the joint efforts of the company and its customers, the company is confident its ability to serve its customers' needs will continue to be favorable."

When this new rate plan becomes effective, more than 60 percent of the gas delivered from the West Texas system will be subject to the monthly cost-of-gas adjustment. In addition, the company has filed applications in all incorporated cities and towns on its West Texas system for approval of this same adjustment. To date, 19 of these cities and towns have approved the request. The adjustment is also being placed in all new industrial contracts and the existing ones as they expire and are renegotiated.

Letters detailing the rate plan and tariff sheets reflecting the new adjustment clause will be mailed to the customers to be affected by this January 1, 1974 adjustment. These letters will go to irrigation customers, small industrials, temporary industrials and large air conditioning customers.

South Plains Area Cotton Harvest Passes 500,000 Bales as Good Weather Holds

The South Plains cotton harvest passed the 500,000 bale mark during the past week and is nearing peak activity, according to Paul R. Dickson, in charge of the U.S.D.A. Cotton Classing Office in Lubbock.

Sample receipts at the four South Plains classing offices have reached a seasonal high of approximately 40,000 daily.

The U.S.D.A. Cotton Classing Offices at Lubbock, Brownfield, Lamesa and Levelland classed samples from 214,000 bales during the week ending Friday, November 23rd. This brought the total classed this season to 572,000.

Estimates indicate that approximately one-third of this season's crop is now out of the fields.

At this date last year only 126,000 samples of the 1972 crop had been classed. Quality of cotton continued excellent and is considerably higher than last year.

Grades 31 and 41 continued to be the predominant grades at Lubbock, making up 78 percent of all classed. Grade 31 made up 30 percent, Grade 41, 48 percent and Grade 32, 10 percent.

Staples were predominantly 30 to 32. Fifty-six percent had staple lengths of 30 and shorter and the remaining 44 percent stapled 31 and longer. Average staple length was 39.6/32nds of an inch.

Micronaire readings continued excellent. Eighty-six percent of all cotton tested at Lubbock had micronaire readings in the premium range of 3.5 to 4.9, 8 percent was in the high micronaire range of 5.0 to 5.2 and 2 percent was in the very high range of 5.3 and above.

The Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S.D.A. reported increased trading on the Lubbock market. Prices were steady from the previous week and averaged 34 cents per pound over the loan. Most lots were selling in the price range of 50 to 60 cents per pound.

Average prices paid for the most predominant qualities in the 3.5 to 4.9 premium micronaire range were: Grade 31, Staple 30 - 49.65

Reagan's Defeat

The nation watched in fascination as Governor Ronald Reagan perfected, and put to a vote, a plan whereby California's state taxes and spending would have been permanently limited.

In a close vote (54-46 per cent) the plan was recently rejected. Of course, politics entered into the picture. Reagan is of the minority (Republican) party in California. There is good reason to believe if the project had been originated by both parties, and politics and Reagan's political future not involved, it would have won overwhelming endorsement by voters of the nation's most populous state.

Democrats, however, feared that if Reagan won the tax limit referendum he would become a national hero to millions, and on his record as Governor could have won both the Republican presidential nomination in 1976 and perhaps the White House itself. The public is unquestionably strongly impressed by politicians who lower and limit taxes; thus there was an element of national politics as well as state politics in the California voting.

Aside from politics, defeat of the tax-limit amendment is a tragedy for the country. Taxes can easily be increased, and constantly are being increased. The squeeze on millions today is therefore very real. Reagan believes, and rightly so, that governments can operate on fixed limits for funds if they must.

He would have seen to it that the State of California's spenders faced this must. Unfortunately, politicians and political considerations defeated Reagan; his defeat was also a defeat for the people of California, and the people of other states where California's example would have been followed.

Suckers Decline

The American Cancer Society says there's been a considerable decline in cigarette smoking in the U.S. in the past decade.

The ACS says the decline has been about a 5.6 per cent in the number of cigarettes smoked and an even larger decline in the total amount of burning tobacco addicts suck—18.1 per cent—reflecting a greater proportion of filtering ingredients and less tobacco in cigarettes.

The ACS says reduced tobacco and tar content in cigarettes is conclusive evidence manufacturers, despite disclaimers, accept the fact that tar is dangerous to the addict's health. It decries, however, the end of anti-smoking commercials on television, the termination of which has slowed the rate of addicts kicking the habit.

Television, which has contributed so greatly to crime and violence, in addition to portraying drinking and smoking glamorously, should of course resume anti-smoking, public-service announcements, plus similar warnings about alcoholism—to offset its glamorization of both habits.

December, 1973

Hail To December! Say they all.
It gave to the earth our Christ, the Lord!
—J.K. Hoyt

The last month of the year, the end of 1973, is at hand as the years pass faster and faster. On the 21st, at 7:08 in the evening, winter arrives and Christmas falls on a Tuesday the 25th. The first Sunday in Advent is December 2nd, the second December 9th, the third the 16th and the Sunday before Christmas the 23rd.

On the 2nd, in 1823, President James Monroe promulgated the Monroe Doctrine (now largely abandoned); on the 4th in 1783, days after British troops had evacuated New York City, General Washington made his farewell address to his officers.

On the 5th, in 1782, the eighth President of the United States, Martin Van Buren, was born at Kinderhook, N.Y., descended from Dutch immigrants. The 6th is the feast of St. Nicholas—in Greek and Latin churches. Little is known about him but the Germans identified him as Santa Claus and this has made the name well known in all countries.

On the morning of the 7th, in 1941, Japan sneak-attacked Pearl Harbor and brought the United States into World War II. The 7th is also Delaware Day and on the 10th, in 1817, Mississippi was admitted to the Union. The 10th is Wyoming Day and the 11th Indiana Day.

On the 12th, in 1799, George Washington died at Mount Vernon and on the 15th, 1791, the first ten amendments to the Constitution (the Bill of Rights) were ratified to become a part of the Constitution.

Editor Says Nixon Foes Seek to Steal America's Presidency

by David B. Lindsay

(Editor, Sarasota Herald-Tribune)

The orchestration and choreography has been impeccable. The greedy motivation, disguised by skillful media manipulation, could not be faulted by Machiavelli. The stakes are the highest—nothing less than control of the government of the United States.

Across the nation there are calls for impeachment as a result.

Impeach the man who ended the disastrous Vietnam war, the fourth war in this century initiated under the leadership of the Democratic Party? Impeach the man who has achieved the impossible in bringing the real hope of peace between the Arabs and the Jews? The very idea will be viewed by history as grotesque!

But it has not become clear that nothing less than capturing control of our government is and has been the objective of those who cynically have exploited the scandal called "Watergate" to arouse the American people and in this process, incidentally, have shaken the confidence of our foreign allies in the American system, contributed to devaluing the dollar in world trade and endangered the detente achieved by President Nixon with the two Communist superpowers.

A coup d'etat has never been carried out in American history. But skillful manipulation of the media and the constitutional process has brought us close to what amounts to the same thing.

The resignation of Vice President Spiro Agnew has placed House Speaker Carl Albert in line for succession if President Nixon should die, be assassinated or removed from office by impeachment and trial. His elevation to the Presidency would not mean merely a change of the man and party in that highest elective office but a complete change of the party in control, of the Cabinet and the huge executive department of the government.

Senator Ted Kennedy's call for holding up senatorial consent to the appointment of Representative Gerald Ford as Vice President was the keynote speech in the campaign to obtain for left wing Democrats what was denied them by the overwhelming vote of the people in 1972.

Regardless of the rights or wrongs of the Watergate scandals, regardless of the legalistic question of whether or not privacy of presidential papers extends to presidential tapes, regardless of the multitude of petty controversies that befog the scene, the hard fact remains that the American people are entitled to a Vice President appointed and confirmed promptly under the provisions of the 25th Amendment of the Constitution.

Many sincere Democrats and Republicans have been stampeded into losing sight of what it would mean in division of our nation, turmoil in our government, temptations to rashness by our enemies, and peril to the foundations of our 200-year-old Republic should the President be hounded out of office. But the Ted Kennedys, the Tip O'Neils, the George Meanys and the Bella Abzugs who lead the pack baying for Nixon's blood know exactly what they are doing.

The judgment of the American people will be, unless discussion and analysis are stifled, to reject and condemn the insidious campaign to steal the Presidency from the man (and philosophy) on whom it was bestowed a year ago by the majesty of the elective process.

Would you hire you?

Of course you would.

You work hard. Care about what you do. And you know your job inside and out.

That's what everybody says.

And for most of us, it's true. But it's also true that we could all do better. Whether we're doctors or teachers, lathe operators or telephone operators, legislators or long-shoremen, bankers or union officials...every one of us.

And we'll all have more to show for it.

More money, for one thing. Because we'll be giving each other our money's worth for the products, the services and even the government we pay for.

For another thing, we'll be giving America better ammunition to slug it out with our foreign competitors. Not just here. All around the world. That would help bring the lopsided balance of payments back onto our side. And help make your dollar worth more.

Best of all, as we hit our stride, we'll be protecting jobs here at home. For ourselves and the future. And we'll have a deeper sense of pride in the jobs we've got. So maybe we'll find our work as fresh and challenging as it was the first day on the job.

Which brings us back to the original question.

Would you hire you?

America. It only works as well as we do.

Feedlot Waste As A Fertilizer

Throughout recorded history, the use of animal waste has made an important contribution to domestic agriculture. Within the last few decades commercial inorganic fertilizers have become prominent as a source of plant nutrients. Without doubt, commercial fertilizer will retain this position; but since their price is increasing and inadequate supplies are in prospect, it is time to take a new look at feedlot waste as a source of plant food.

The USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center at Bushland has been studying the effects of feedlot waste since 1968. Their chemical analyses of material from 23 feedlots show that on an average, 10 tons of

It was almost a carbon copy of the TCU game, with Texas Tech getting down by three points, then 10. The weak hearted began to sweat and take pep pills.

But the poise, maturity, yes, and the character of this 1973 Red Raider football team came alive. There may be better teams in this nation, but it's doubtful that there is one that believes any more in itself. And so the Raiders took charge and won their tenth game of the season.

It was a sweet victory, not only because it gave Tech a 10-1 seasonal mark, but also because it was the first victory ever for Jim Carlen and the seniors over an Arkansas team.

The win also gave Tech momentum for its Gator Bowl meeting with Tennessee, a game that hopefully will draw 15,000 or more Tech fans to Jacksonville, gas shortage or no gas shortage.

Honors came quickly. Jim Carlen was named Coach of the Year. Larry Isaac was named Newcomer of the Year; nine Raiders were picked to the all-conference teams. And the end to honors is not yet in sight.

Carles, graciously, was quick to say that, while he appreciated the honor, he felt that it was a tribute to his coaches and his players. No one can argue. Carlen picked the staff, possibly the best in the nation. He organized. And recruited. It's now paying off.

Bumper Sticker: Honk If You're Over 50 miles an hour!

Coach Gerald Myers actually wore a smile Monday! "Shoot, you might as well smile," Gerald said, "even though we do have problems. Our other forward spot has to come through if we're going to have a good team. I guess we should have taken a junior college boy, although we did try to get one," he added hastily. "But we only went after three of the top quality ones."

Myers went on to say that Tech would miss Ed Wakefield this year, because "he was so quick that it was like having three guards in the lineup when Little and Moore were playing. Ed wasn't a big scorer, but he made big plays and was always around the ball."

Gerald said that he might go to a three-guard offense at times, and quite possibly a double post, with Rick Bullock and Mark Davis. "There are all sorts of possibilities and combinations," he said.

Regardless of what Tech does on the road Friday and Saturday against Fresno State and Nevada-Las Vegas, there should be a good crowd for the opener against Vanderbilt here Monday night.

Tech is 1-4 against Vandy, always a strong club, and a win would help. But Gerald will, of course, use these non-league games as a testing ground for his squad. By the time the conference campaign rolls around, he'll have a pretty good idea of what the Raiders can do.

Tech was the only unbeaten team in non-conference football play, while SMU was next at 3-1. Texas and Rice both came up with the league's only losing records, 1-2 and 1-3 respectively. The others broke even in four games.

Friend of mine has a cabin at Timberon. He spent the Thanksgiving Day weekend there, said that it sounded like miniature warfare. Unfortunately, he didn't have any reports of the deer harvest.

But our youngest went to East Texas with his brother-in-law for a deer hunt and he reported accurately—and colorfully—on the results. All they got was rained on and mosquito bitten, didn't get off one shot. Still, he wants to go again.

Jim Carlen still is 110 percent sold on Andre Tillman being an All-America football player, so much so that he observed Monday that "if he doesn't make it, it will be an injustice."

I'll make this prediction: Tillman probably won't make either wire service team, maybe no others of the sort, but when the team picked by the pros is announced he'll be on it.

At the Tech-Baylor game, pro scouts from four teams were there and all were drooling over Tillman. He could go in the first round.

Carlen at his press conference: "Our kids are tired, mentally and physically"...."Joe Barnes? He found out the difference between injury and pain"....on all-conference players: "We have some talented players"...."Isaac is a top football player. He has poise and maturity. He has played well"....on Arkansas: "Our defense had a good game. The tackling wasn't good and that's on me, but you've had a good day when you hold Morton to 55 yards rushing"....on offense: "The line played well. Mosley and Garner played consistently good football. We had too few points for the opportunities we had."

Raiders Victory Over Arkansas Completes 10-1 Football Season

Out of the depths of despair, disaster and desperation came poise, maturity and a 24-17 victory over Arkansas last Saturday as the Texas Tech 1973 football team completed a 10-1 season.

The victory was the eighth straight, following a loss to Southwest Conference champion Texas, and tied this year's team with the 1953 eleven for the second best regular season mark in Red Raider history.

As a result, the Raiders reaped a batch of laurels: (1) Coach Jim Carlen, Coach of the Year; (2) Larry Isaac, Newcomer of the Year; (3) nine players on the all-conference (AP) team; and (4) a berth against Tennessee in the Gator Bowl December 29th.

The victory over Arkansas was anything but easy. The Raiders fell behind, 3-0, on a first period field goal, then dropped farther behind on a Razorback touchdown that made it 10-0.

Joe Barnes brought the Raiders surging back. The senior all-conference quarterback, who picked up 119 yards rushing and passed for 112 more, drove the Raiders downfield until Isaac could go sprinting into the end zone.

That touchdown brought the Raiders back and Isaac stormed over again for a 14-10 lead.

Don Grimes booted Tech into a 17-10 lead in the third quarter, but it didn't last long as the Hogs battled back to a 17-17 tie.

Again Barnes rallied the Raiders and this time, when Isaac scored his third touchdown, Tech made it stand up, using a stout defense, as they have all season, and Arkansas didn't threaten again.

Raiders Open Basketball Season This Weekend

Two big questions loom as Texas Tech opens its 1973-74 basketball campaign Friday and Saturday nights with two rough road games, facing Fresno State in the opener and Nevada-Las Vegas in the second.

The most important question is whether Grady Newton or Kim McClintock, both 6-5, can replace the departed Ron Richardson, 6-10, at forward. On their success may well depend the outcome of the season for the defending Southwest Conference champions.

The second question is whether the Red Raiders can combine scoring with defense that brought the championship to Lubbock.

"We need a game right now," Coach Gerald Myers said Monday. "We don't look good against ourselves in practice. I'll have to go with the player (Newton or McClintock) who has a hot hand, but if neither have one, we could be in trouble."

Known quantities return in Rick Bullock at center, reserve-starter William Johnson at one forward post and possibly the best pair of guards in the conference in Richard Little and Don Moore.

Newton, Myers observed, probably is the steadier of the two, capable of scoring 10, 12 or 14 points a game. McClintock, if he is hot, is the type who could score 18, 20 or 22 points.

In reserve will be Steve Trnack and James Derkowski at forwards, with Mark Davis ready to spell Bullock. Bryan Mauk and Phil Bailey are a pair of capable guards, with both Derkowski and Bailey better than average outside shooters against a zone.

"Our defense probably won't be as strong, because we'll miss Ed Wakefield", Myers said.

Do you ever stop to think how bad the situation would be if everyone agreed with you?

Christmas Program to Be Presented at City-County Library on December 4th

One corner of the Lubbock Public Library will be turned into a blacksmith shop and time will be rolled back to 1890 at 3:30 p.m. on December 4, when a re-creation of Lubbock's first Christmas program will be presented to the public.

County Commissioner Alton Brazell has loaned the library an old forge and anvil from the county's collection of old farm equipment and agriculture implements. This will provide the setting for the 1890 Christmas program as it was celebrated in Old North Lubbock, before the present town was organized.

Trees of any kind were non-existent on the South Plains and so the pioneers improvised their Christmas tree from ladders according to Myra Ann Perkins in her interviews with Bob Crump and Olive Fluke, as told in her thesis Pioneer Lubbock.

Christmas carols popular at that time will be sung by Mr. and Mrs. Rex Webster, Lynn Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leonard, Mr. Lloyd Thompson, Mrs. Arnold Maeker, and Mrs. Frank Goodwin.

Martha Hartman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Red Hartman; Susan Crow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Crow; and Steven Skibell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Skibell will recite Christmas poems. Mr. Bob Nash will be the declaimer.

The display case will feature hand tools used by blacksmiths and some of the tools and products made in their shops.

Everyone is invited to come and enjoy this old fashioned Christmas program at the library, 2001 19th St., December 4th at 3:30 p.m.

Feedlot Fertilizer . . .

manure contains 268 lbs. nitrogen, 244 lbs. P2O5 and 360 lbs. K2O. These values are much higher than those previously reported for barnyard manures. The material varied in nitrogen content, ranging from 226 to 392 pounds of nitrogen in 10 tons.

Research by scientists at Bushland indicates that about half of the nitrogen present in 10 tons of manure, or some 120 lbs. of nitrogen, is available to the first sorghum crop. Sixty pounds of the remaining nitrogen will be available the second year and 30 pounds, the third year.

The rate at which phosphorus becomes available for plant use appears to be similar to that of nitrogen. Potassium in the material is readily available.

In consideration of less crop removal and the slower mobility of phosphorus and potassium when compared to nitrogen, it is highly probable that application rates sufficient to supply adequate nitrogen will be more than adequate to supply these elements even on soils known to be deficient.

Ten to 15 tons applied at anytime after harvest and just ahead of cultivation is generally adequate for high yields of irrigated sorghum or corn. Additional commercial fertilizer is not likely to be needed.

The possibility of introducing weeds from seeds contained in the waste perhaps warrants consideration.

Even distribution and good incorporation of the waste fertilizer into the soil soon after application will insure best results.

Proper Operation - Maintenance Help to Conserve Gasoline

Conservative operating habits and proper vehicle maintenance can reduce fuel consumption and extend engine life, whether the vehicle is new or old, small or large, reports the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association.

The MVMA points out that fuel economy has suffered in recent years, the victim of added weight, stemming mainly from government mandated equipment additions, new systems for controlling vehicle emissions and buyers' opting for more power-driven equipment such as air conditioning, brakes and steering.

Add to this mileage decline the "energy crisis" with its accompanying higher fuel prices and the result is a driver concern for going as far as possible on a gallon of gasoline.

Among its tips for better mileage, the MVMA warns that gasoline is wasted by driving at high speeds, "hot-rod" accelerations, excessive engine idling, making short trips and driving at varying speeds.

Rapid acceleration and high speeds demand more engine power and hence more fuel. A study by automotive engineers has found that the difference in fuel economy between a "hot rod" and "Sunday driver" can be about two miles per gallon (mpg) in city driving.

Long engine warm-ups should be avoided. Mileage will improve if the car is driven at moderate speeds even with a cold engine.

Drivers pay for short, convenient trips with greater fuel consumption. A vehicle started cold and driven four miles during one manufacturer's test got an average of 8 mpg. With a longer trip length of 15 miles, economy increased to 11 mpg, while fully warmed up, the test car received 12.8 mpg.

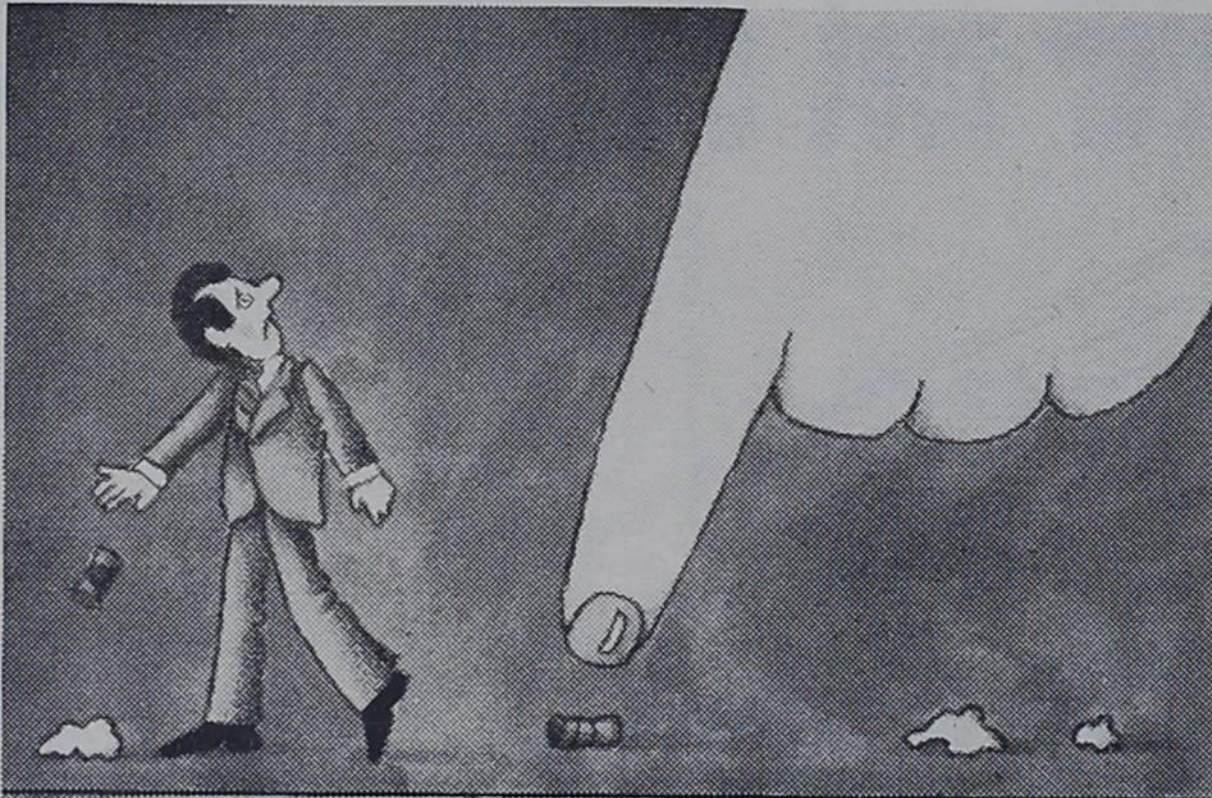

Stop and go city driving which is unnerving to drivers is also hard on fuel economy. For best results, try to maintain a fairly constant speed and avoid red lights and other conditions requiring stops or frequent speed changes.

Following the manufacturer's maintenance schedule for tune-ups, cleaning and adjustments will increase fuel economy for most vehicles. A manufacturer's study showed that a spark plug misfiring half the time at 60 mph dropped fuel economy by 7.3 percent. Replacing worn spark plugs can improve average fuel economy by 5 to 6 percent. Under-inflated tires and improper front wheel alignment are two vehicle conditions that cost drivers money by increasing fuel consumption.

18-Year-Olds Still Must Register With Local Draft Board—Or Face Prosecution

You don't hear much about the draft anymore. It ended when induction authority for Selective Service expired last June, but did you know that you are still required by Federal Law to register with Selective Service when you turn 18?

It is true, the "draft" has ended, but it is also true that you must still register with Selective Service.

You can register at any Selective Service System Area Office, at any Army National Guard Armory in Texas, at any County Court House in Texas, and at many High Schools. All you need is some positive means of identification, like your drivers license, your Social Security Number, and you should know the names and addresses of at least two people who will always know your whereabouts.

"Timely registration" is completed within a 60 day period beginning 30 days before your 18th birthday, but if you are already 18 and have not registered, you should report for registration immediately, for your own good. You are subject to Federal prosecution if you do not register with Selective Service.

The draft has ended and can begin again only after the Congress grants authority for inductions again, but the requirement to register with Selective Service is still a part of existing Federal Law.
