Increased levels of weed control in corn due to introductions of more selective herbicides and herbicide combinations will be one of the premier research programs set for display Thursday, September 11, in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Halfway Field Day.

Field Day tours of the experiment station at Halfway are set for 1:00 p.m. continuing throughout the afternoon until 5:00 p.m. The research center is located 14 miles west of Plainview on Hwy 70.

According to TAES weed scientist, Jim Schrib, the field day weed stop will feature control of one of the Texas High Plains' most prolific annual broadleaf weeds, pigweed.

"Even though the weed continues to present problems, its susceptibility to triazine herbicides has made the species relatively easy to control," reports Schrib. "However, grassy weeds such as barnyardgrass, shatter-cane, fall panicum, and crabgrass have increased in importance in recent years.

Another of the weed tour's highlights are herbicide combinations for weed control in corn. Combinations such as Aatrex plus Sutan, Bladex plus Sutan and Aatrex plus Lasso have indicated in most instances much better weed control than either herbicide alone.

In addition to providing a wider spectrum of weed control, herbicide combinations will allow a lower usage rate of the more persistent herbicides, which would be beneficial for corn to cotton rotations, notes Schrib.

Several highly effective herbicides on grassy weeds which have been recently developed for use in corn, will also be discussed, says the TAES scientist. Most of these herbicides are short residual compounds, which offer advantages for certain double cropping and crop rotation systems.

"In the future with the availability of these new herbicides," Schrib concludes, "producers will be able to match the correct herbicides to his particular

Rites Read for Leader Tuesday

Final rites for Roy B. Davis, age 74, were held at 10 a.m. Tuesday morning in the First Baptist Church with Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor, officiating. He was assisted by Rev. I.D. Walker, associate pastor; and Rev. J.T. Bolding, a retired Baptist minister.

Burial was held in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Rix Funeral Directors.

A friend to many residents of the black community, he was known to the Lubbock community as "Mr. Cotton". He died at approximately 2 a.m. last Sunday morning in Methodist Hospital after being admitted Friday after suffering from chest pains.

Davis, a very modest man, held many positions in the field of the cotton industry. His most visible contribution to the cotton industry was in West Texas where he contributed a great deal to Plains Cooperative Oil Mill. He was general manager of the mill. This mill was known at the time of his retirement, as the largest cottonseed processing plant in the world, from 1943 until 1971.

After his retirement, he was named a consultant to the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech University and had worked actively in plans leading up to the building of the $30 million American Cotton Growers denim mill in Littlefield.

He was a friend of the Eastern Little League Baseball organization. He wanted young people of East Lubbock to have an opportunity to participate in active recreational activities.

Mr. Davis was born in McGregor, Texas and moved to Lamesa in 1906. He later moved to

GOURD DIPPERS

Before houses had indoor plumbing, a common fixture in most homes was the water dipper and pail. Usually they were on a shelf or small table in the kitchen where they were handy to anyone wanting a drink and also where the water could be used in cooking.

There were a variety of different types of dippers and pails. Some were made of porcelain enameled steel, others zinc-coated or galvanized iron. However, most old timers agreed that the best water pails were those made of cedar wood and the only kind of dipper anyone should have was one made of a gourd. The wooden pails kept the water cooler (iced water was unheard of) and the gourd dipper, besides being hand crafted, just made the water taste better. Zinc was thought by some to contain a poisonous substance that gave the water a bad taste and porcelain enamel was dangerous because it chipped easily and a person might swallow the small sharp pieces.

Large, domestic gourds could be grown at home. Upon maturity the best were selected for dippers and put away to dry. It was better if they dried for a couple of years or more before making dippers from them. Gourds for dippers were selected primarily for their shape and size. Some preferred gourds with long, straight necks while others chose the curved necked ones because they could be hung on the rim of the water pail. After the gourd had seasoned long enough, it was marked and a knife or small key-hole type saw was used to cut it to the shape desired. The insides were scraped and cleaned out and it was ready to use.

Water was fetched from the well, cistern or spring and most people tried to keep the pail at least half full at all times because you never knew when company might drop in. When company did come, one of the first things they did was gather around the water pail for a drink. All drank from the same dipper and not much thought was given to the danger of spreading germs. However, a person was expected, if he didn't drink all the water in the dipper, to swish it around a little and throw it out, leaving the dipper clean for the next person. It was a time when things were shared, especially dippers, water and germs.

Lubbock in 1921 and began working for this community. He was a graduate of Texas A&M University in 1923 after attending Lubbock High School.

In agriculture, he also served on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Cotton an Cottonseed Research and Marketing Advisory Committee during the late 1940's and early 1950's.

He was also a member of the First Baptist Church and the Downtown Bible Class, the Lubbock Consistory, the Khiva Shrine Temple, the West Texas Museum Association, the Lubbock Club and the Lubbock Country Club.

Texas Safety Association Says Rest Your Feet at Jaycee Rest Stops Along Way

Austin—What are you planning on doing for the rest of your life? If your immediate future includes a Labor Day weekend highway trip, Texas Safety Association advises that a stop at one of the nearly 200 Texas Jaycee holiday rest stops may just provide you with the "rest of your life"; it can be the pause that defeats driver problems like highway hypnosis, delayed reaction time, and traffic tedium.

For over 15 years, the Jaycees of Texas, in cooperation with the Royal Globe Insurance Companies and local merchants, have provided free coffee and refreshments to highway travelers on long holiday weekends. The campaign was originally begun as the Labor Day Rest Stop program, but with the shift of many major holidays to Mondays, the emphasis was expanded to all holiday weekends by many Jaycee chapters.

Response to the program has been gratifying, even though no real figure on accidents prevented or lives saved is available, because you can't count accidents that never happen.

The Texas Safety Association reminds you that a 15-minute break in a two-hour drive can be the difference between a safe arrival and an accident. Drop in at a Jaycee holiday rest stop this Labor Day, for the rest that can save your life. (And don't forget to say "thanks.")

Clothes may make the man but our opinion is that it is the woman who makes the dress.

The best way to get your share of the wealth of the country is to work hard for it.

Weed Control Stop Set For TAES Field Day

A potential volunteer sunflower weed problem along with the latest information and equipment in weed control will be spotlighted Tuesday, September 9, as the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station marks its 66th Annual Field Day.

Heading up the field day weed control program is Dr. John Abernathy.

The TAES weed scientist reports that research information gathered from several thousand test plots will be stressed in the field day tour stop set to focus on resistant annual and perennial weed species plaguing area cotton, sorghum, soybean and sunflower fields.

Says Abernathy, with some 400,000 acres of sunflowers being grown on the High Plains this year, a potential volunteer sunflower problem exists. The threat is especially significant in the rotational crops like cotton and soybeans, notes the scientist.

Resistant weed species on tap for the field day discussion are lanceleaf sage, morning glory, thornapple, wild sunflower and watergrass. Perennial weed problems scheduled to be covered are yellow nutsedge, lakeweed, Johnsongrass, Texas Blueweed, and Whitewood.

Current status and use of new herbicides such as Roundup will also be highlighted in the weed control tour stop, Abernathy adds.

Several new types of herbicide application equipment can also be viewed during the tour of weed control research plots.

A recirculation sprayer for Johnsongrass control in cotton an soybeans, a shielded sprayer for directing powerful herbicides beneath cotton plants and new types of spray nozzels and additives for controlling spray drift will be detailed in the TAES's comprehensive review of weed control research.

TAES Lubbock Field Day Activities begin at 1:00 p.m. continuing until 5:00. Tours by way of tractor pulled trailers will leave the Experiment Station's headquarters every 15 minutes throughout the afternoon.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is located 7½ miles north of Lubbock just off Hwy. 87.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

It was an interesting week. Football practice started at most colleges and many high school players chortled, because they have been working out for days and days.

And, on the baseball front, the Red Sox took a look at Baltimore and decided that the Orioles weren't so tough. But the Phils made the Pirates look over their shoulder and forced Pittsburgh to play the type of ball of which it's capable.

Steve Sloan wiped his brow, sent his Raiders through three days of dummy drills in shorts and longed for the day when he could hear padding and flesh crackle.

There was laughter over the continued "feud" between Barry Switzer at Oklahoma and Darrell Royal at Texas. CW performers didn't take sides, but Charley Pride probably had a few words to say about OU. But maybe Merle Haggard had a few words for UT, too.

The bird season is right around the corner and those doves, which have been so thick that they are a menace to motorists—even those going 55 mph—probably will disappear with the first volley of shots. And there should be a lot of volleys this year.

The birds have one thing in their favor, though, it's been dry for a long time now and that makes the ground powdery. It may not help the doves, but it will aid quail and pheasants.

Youth must be served, which probably is the reason why so little was written not long ago when Morris Frank died. It was a shame, too, for Morris was one of the giants in Texas newspaper circles.

The quick-witted, nimble Morris Frank probably didn't have an enemy in the state. He was in demand as a master of ceremonies, as well as an after dinner speaker. He wrote a column for the Houston Chronicle that often had evidence of his humor.

Years ago, when I was covering the Golden Gloves state tournament in Fort Worth, the Star-Telegram tossed a dinner for the visiting scribes. If it hadn't been for Morris, that would have gone down as the all-time dullest dinner in history.

But Morris was the emcee that night and, when the other talent fell shorter than short, he stepped into the breach. From his knowledge of the writers, and with no notes, he proceeded to tell something funny about each one. He had the place roaring.

Only one writer didn't think it was funny when Morris got to him. The writer, his face flushed, rose to his feet to make a feeble attempt at embarrassing Morris.

I can't really pass on the exchange between the two, because family papers frown on rowdy language. But Morris had a retort so quick and sharp that nothing was heard from that particular writer again. Wise people learned to roll with his humor, which was much like Will Rogers', gentle and innocuous.

I treasure a picture of Morris taken on one of his visits to Tech. Somehow he managed to get a couple of those green freshman beanies and we're posed, wearing silly grins, with arms around each other's shoulders.

He sent me one of the pictures with a notation to the effect that, if the educators could see the picture, it would set back college education 100 years. Morris Frank was one of a kind in an age when humor is needed. He will be missed, sorely.

Dave Forbes recently won a victory for pro hockey when he was freed on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, intentionally, in a hockey match injury to Henry Boucha.

Having been a hockey participant in my younger days and an aficionado of the sport throughout my life, I was happy to see the verdict. Although I'm as sure as shooting that the attack undoubtedly was deliberate.

Hockey is not like other sports. It is played at breakneck speed. The action is almost continuous. The body contact is every bit as rough as football. Adrenalin flows faster and quicker than in other sports and that causes strange things to happen.

I remember one particular case when I was playing defense in an inter-class game. John Gray was a fraternity brother playing for the other team.

I don't remember just what happened, but one of the unforgivable things was to let an offensive player split the defense and go in on goal. Gray had the puck and I checked him, forcing him off. As I recall, he stuck the butt of his stick in my ribs, not gently.

The next time he came down ice, I went to meet him. I forced him to the boards, cross checked him and hammered him into the woodwork resoundingly.

Gar Laux, who used to be with Ford Motor Co., and a frequent visitor to Lubbock, was the official. Gar was the college goalie, and a good one.

He blew his whistle, jerked his arm with thumb upwards and I was on the way to the penalty box. I was still steaming, but as soon as I got in the box and had a chance to calm down, I felt just a little regret that it had happened.

That's hockey for you. In the heat of battle, an unintentional trip, a crash into the boards, a stick in the ribs, anything like that can get your blood pressure up. You forget the prime thing and think in individual terms instead.

I'm sure much the same thing was true in the Forbes-Boucha affair. It may not be right, but it's part of the game. And anyone who plays hockey knows that. You expect it and protect yourself as best you can. Believe me, you don't need courts to try cases. The players will settle them themselves.

The Pirates may have come out of their tailspin just in time. Breathing hard were the Phillies, Cardinals and Mets. A three out of four conquest of the Reds may have done the trick.

The contenders all had chances, but blew it. Not one of them could be consistent just when they had a chance. Still, it's just about the only race left and it isn't over yet. The Pirates, though, seem to have recovered in time.

Shallowater High School Opens New School Year Under New Leader

by Sue Wall

Among the many new faces at Shallowater High School this year, one stands out. That is the face of our new principal, Mr. Beryl Harris.

Mr. Harris came from Keller, Texas, and has experience in running a much larger school. With him, came some new policies, such as the hair code, which consists of no hair length limit, as long as the student's hair is kept clean and well combed or styled, and he also brought some new punishment. One good thing about the penalties, Mr. Harris does not like detention hall. Therefore, there will be no D-hall this year. However, students who don't want to obey the school policies can look forward to a 3-day vacation.

We welcome Mr. Harris to the Shallowater schools and we wish him a long and joyful stay.

The Student's Spokesman

by Melissa Martin

The student council president for 1975-76 is Russel Martin. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Martin. He is a 17-year-old senior, and has attended Shallowater schools for 12 years.

Russel has been involved in several organizations. As a junior last year, he played basketball and was a miler in track. The juniors were fortunate enough to have Russel play the part of the preacher in their play. In his sophomore year he played football. Russel's favorite way to spend his leisure time is to play his guitar.

He intends to make this a better year for all of us.

Extra Annuals

Do you want a copy of the 1975 Mustang? This is the school's yearbook containing pictures of students, kindergarten through 12th grade. Get yours now. The cost is $8.00. Anyone wishing to buy an annual may come by the high school office.

The pictures that were used in the annual are also for sale.

Eighth Grade Elections Staged

by Lisa Gates

The new 8th grade class officers are: President, Neal Luck; Vice President, Tonya Emerson; Secy., Rodney Jackson; Reporter, Lisa Gates. The class representatives are Katie Blackmon and La Donna Pair.

The Quarter System

by Kim McMenemy

This year things are going to be a little different around the Shallowater Campus.

A few years ago the Texas Legislature voted that all Texas Public Schools go to the quarter system. This year will be the first year for Shallowater to go to the system.

In effect the school year is divided into three semesters instead of two. Most courses will require you to attend all three quarters to get a credit for that class, but there are some courses that can be taken in one quarter and the student will receive partial credit.

Students will be receiving report cards every six weeks instead of every nine. This may mean some kids will be grounded six times a year instead of four. Since we are receiving report cards six times a year, at present we are not planning to have failing slips.

Basically things will be about the same as always, we will still be going to school nine long months out of the year.

New Band Hall

by Laura Walker

This year the Mustang Band will be practicing in the new band hall as well as marching on the practice field. It was used for a little while last year but it is still very new to us all.

The building is air conditioned, heated, and carpeted. Band instruments are kept safe behind the steel lockers. There are two large closets used for uniforms, music stands and percussion instruments. Among the advantages of the new bandhall are the restrooms and the water fountain.

In the office hangs a plaque with the baton Mr. Sherman used to conduct the band to Sweepstakes last year. Trophies earned over the years are proudly displayed on a shelf.

The new band hall is something we can all be proud of.

'75-'76 Class Schedule Listed

by Geree Green

Classes for the 1975-76 school year remained at 55 minutes per class with 5 minutes allowed for changing of classes. With the shortening of the lunch hour, classes are dismissed earlier in the afternoon at 3:00.

The student's day starts out with first period beginning at 8:20-9:15, second period at 9:20-10:15. The high school students enjoy a 10 minute break at 10:15-10:25, then hustle on to third period beginning at 10:30-11:25, fourth period beginning at 11:30-12:25. High school students are released for lunch at 12:25-1:05. They are back at school for their fifth period classes beginning at 1:05-2:00, then on to their last class of the day beginning at 2:05 and ending at 3:00.

Teachers this year, are required to remain at school until 3:50. Very few teachers were allowed a conference period, so this time that is spent after school hours is referred to as their conference.

Early Dismissal

School will be dismissed at 2:30 on Friday, August 29, to begin the Labor Day weekend. There will be no school Monday and classes will resume on Tuesday, September 2, at the regular time.

Mustangs Shine

by Kim McMenemy

The Shallowater Mustang football team scrimmaged Meadow, here, last Friday night. The Mustangs scored 4 times to Meadows 0.

The team is looking good and they really would appreciate your attendance at the scrimmage game at Wilson, Friday at 6 p.m. and throughout the season.

"Mustang Spirit" Gets Started

The first pep rally of the season is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 5, at 2:40 p.m. The theme for the pep rally is "Get on the Good Foot". Everyone is invited.

A New Beginning

by Geniese Grawunder

Twas the night before school started, And all through the town, Students were stirring, running around. New school clothes were hung in the closet with care, In hopes the new school year would soon be there!

School bells rang early on August 15th to bring the 1975-76 school year to a rousing start. It was the first time in the history of the school that a Friday was opening day.

Students spent most of the first day getting acquainted with new students and teachers, covering books, and receiving the usual lectures concerning behavior and discipline.

Well into the second full week of school, students and faculty are settling into the routine of classes. Schedule changes and other small problems have been taken care of, and it looks as if the year is on its way to being a great one!

No Time to Loaf

Why is it when I work all day With no time out for talk or play, My teacher's always far away? But every time I rest a bit There's the teacher, lickety-split. It isn't often that I shirk; Why can't he come when I'm at work?

"Mighty Mustang"

by Caran Conner

With a new year beginning we also have a new staff for the "Mighty Mustang" newspaper.

The staff consists of seven seniors: Caran Conner, editor; Geniese Grawunder, Geree Green, Chris Hutchings, Melissa Martin, Kim McMenemy, Sue Wall, and Anita Alvarado; one junior, Laura Walker and our faithful sponsor, Mrs. Barker.

The "Mighty Mustang" is your source of information about what's going to happen and what has already happened. So teachers, class officers, club officers, or anyone with news, be sure and see one of the staff members so it can be known by all.

In Appreciation of Me

I love the paper,
I think it's swell.
On that certain morning,
I run pell mell.
To get my copy
And read each line.
The stories and columns,
I think are fine.
I laugh at the jokes,
I read about the lads.
I note all the news,
I take up the fads.
When I praise the paper,
I scorn those who laugh.
I'm really most loyal,
I'm on the staff.

With your help we can make this an "informed" year.

Seniors Leave Impression

The 1975 Senior Class left their imprint on the walls of Shallowater High School. The Mighty Mustang is snarling and kicking on the south wall of the gymnasium. This bold black horse will reign at pep rallies, and other events to be held in the gym.

Mr. Bill Boone did the beautiful art work. The simple outline drawing here will give you an idea of what the seniors gave to the school.

Homecoming Set

The Shallowater school officials have designated September 19 as the date for Homecoming. The Friday activities will feature the Shallowater Mustangs against the New Deal Lions on Todd Field at 7:30 p.m. Circle Sept. 19th on your calendar. Make your plans now to attend.

It isn't necessary to prime an alert mind with alcohol.

The truth hurts people who don't like to face facts.
