Old Fashion Box Supper Planned by Shallowater Lions Club for July 7th

Remember back when we had old fashioned box suppers and designed a beautiful box decorated to perfection and filled on the inside with goodies enough for two. Well some of you may remember those box suppers and how much fun they were to attend, but to the younger generation it's something new.

The Shallowater Lions Club is spearheading an event called "Community Bicentennial Celebration" in Powell Field on Friday, July 11, at 7 p.m., and topping the attraction will be an Old Fashion Box Supper, followed by an enjoyable evening of entertainment.

Ladies and girls are invited and urged to use their imagination, and decorate a box, filled with good things to eat and bring it to the supper to be auctioned to the highest bidder. The club will be giving a prize for the most attractive box.

Also everyone is encouraged but not required to dress in old fashioned attire for the event. In case of inclement weather the supper will be moved into the Community Club House.

So remember this date, get that box ready and the men in the community bring your money and bid for the box of your choice and have a most enjoyable evening with residents in the community.

Shallowater 4-H Club Meets

The Shallowater 4-H Club had fun at the Skate Ranch Thursday night. The meeting was first called to order by Kim McMenamy at the Shallowater Clubhouse. After roll call, Mrs. Bruce Maunder installed the officers for the coming year.

Lynda Maunder, incoming president, then presided and made announcements of the County Dress Revue and Record Books which are due July 8. Lesa DuLaney, council delegate, told of the Bi-Centennial celebration to be held in Lubbock July 4th. A committee for the Shallowater celebration consisting of Robin McMenamy, Ellen Green, Lesa DuLaney, Jordan Cox, and Eddie Grisson was appointed.

Recent rains, cloudy weather and earlier hail storms have combined to boost the development of Ascochyta or wet-weather blight on much of the Texas cotton crop.

That assessment comes from Dr. Walter Walla, plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Ascochyta blight is caused by a fungus which survives from year to year in the soil on old infected plant parts. The disease-causing organism may also be carried over on fuzzy and mechanically delinted seed that have not been treated with a fungicide," points out the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"Seedlings and plants that are unthrifty because of fertilizer deficiencies are more susceptible to the blight when they are damaged by blowing sand or hail. The fungus easily invades the weakened tissues and becomes epidemic in proportion," says Walla.

Symptoms on leaves occur as small, round, purple lesions. Later the lesions enlarge, becoming irregular in shape. The centers become ashy-colored and may fall out. Lesions may also occur on stems and vells.

"Ascochyta blight can kill plants early in the season," notes the pathologist. "In older plants, defoliation will occur and yields and fiber quality will be reduced."

Hot, dry weather will boost cotton growth and development and cause the disease to subside, points out Walla.

He recommends the use of acid delinted seed or seed that has been treated with a recommended fungicide to prevent problems with the blight next year.

Walla also advised producers who plan to plant cotton on the same land again next year to make a special effort to shred and turn under all old cotton debris.

Steven James Makes University of Texas Dean's List During Spring Semester '75

Steven Lee James has been informed by James A. Hitt, associate dean at the University of Texas at Austin, that due to his outstanding academic performance in course work during the spring semester of 1975, his name appears officially on the Dean's Honor List for this semester.

The Division of General and Comparative Studies takes pride in the exceptional scholastic motivation and achievement of the students in its many and varied programs. In determining which students, among the 1,157 students enrolled in the division, should be honored by this citation, both quantity and quality of work is taken into consideration. Accordingly, the number of students whose names appear on the Dean's Honor List is limited to approximately one-tenth of the students in the division. In order to be recognized, a student must pass all work undertaken for the semester and must complete at least thirteen semester hours, one hour more than the All-University minimum.

Steven is one of 40 students from the United States chosen to go to Greece this summer to study Greek at the American School at Athens.

A 1972 graduate of Shallowater High School, James made a grade point of 3.8 for the spring semester and has been on the Dean's Honor List each semester at the college, following the first semester in attendance there.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Couple

Debra Gates and Melvin Salley were united in marriage, Friday, June 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church. Officiating clergymen at the double ring ceremony were the Reverend S. Homer Salley, father of the groom, of Coahoma and the Reverend Henry Salley, brother of the groom, of Seminole.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gates, Jr. of Shallowater and the Reverend and Mrs. S. Homer Salley of Coahoma.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown she had fashioned and designed. The gown of white satin was accented with an overskirt of organza, featuring a square neckline with a wedding band collar and full sheer sleeves. The skirt was pleated in the back and fell into a chapel length train, the bodice and lower edge of the skirt were enhanced with imported French lace and tiny seed pearls. The full illusion veil fell into two tiers from a wide headband of matching lace and pearls. Following the tradition of something old, the bride wore on her slip, a tier of lace from her grandmother's (Mrs. A.C. Woodruff) wedding dress, something borrowed was a handkerchief that the bride's mother carried at her wedding, something blue was a blue garter presented to the bride by Mrs. Robert Middlebrook and something new was the wedding gown.

Maid of Honor was Miss Sue Conners of Lubbock and Junior Maid of Honor was Lisa Gates, sister of the bride. The attendants wore long dresses of peach crepe with V-neckline, the bodice and skirt front were softly gathered to a front inset, self fabric back tie and short flared sleeves. The flower girl was Mindi Woodruff, cousin of the bride, and she wore a long white dress of eyelet embroidery with a peach velvet sash.

Best man was Sam R. Salley of Lubbock, brother of the groom, and Harry Leonard of Shallowater was groomsman.

4-H'ers Express Life-styles In Home Environment Projects

CHICAGO—Consciously or not, people are affected by color. Red expresses a mood of boldness and power, blue seems hopeful and serene, and yellow happy or frivolous.

Color, texture (the feel and look of things), and design (sizes, shapes and arrangements) are all basic to the creation of pleasant, functional living spaces.

For the nearly 170,000 young people in the national 4-H home environment program sponsored by The S&H Foundation, Inc., living spaces might mean a shared room or one's own room, an apartment, the family home, or housing in the community at large. Personal and family life-styles differ, and 4-H'ers find that furnishings, equipment and housing can be means of expressing these differences—ways of saying "This is me!"

Projects are varied "Learning by doing" activities in the Cooperative Extension Service conducted program are educational and fun. Attics may turn out to be treasure troves of discarded furniture and accessories that can be restored to usefulness with some repairs, sandpapering, and refinishing or painting.

Has the family outgrown its home or has some room ceased to serve its purpose? 4-H'ers might blueprint structural additions to the house or draw up plans for remodeling a room. They'll compute costs and decide who will do the work: themselves, other family members, or outside contractors.

Young people in the national 4-H home environment program are eligible for awards donated by The S&H Foundation, Inc. Six achievers, yet to be designated, will replace these 1974 scholarship winners shown with Patrick McGee (right), senior vice president, Corporate Services, The Sperry and Hutchinson Company. Creating more pleasant and functional living spaces—through furnishings, equipment and housing—is the goal of this Cooperative Extension Service conducted program.

4-H members from 9 to 19 help budget, shop and care for household equipment—from hair dryers to stereos to automatic washers. In the process they develop the consumer skills they need to cope with today's inflationary economy.

Developing citizenship Shifting their sights to the larger area of the community, 4-H'ers study zoning laws, how they operate and how they can be changed if necessary. As they become aware of special housing needs of the elderly and of lower-income families, they grow in responsible citizenship.

For outstanding achievement in the 4-H home environment program, S&H provides $800 college scholarships to six national winners. The six are chosen from among 24 sectional winners who receive expense-paid trips to the 54th National 4-H Congress, to be held in Chicago Nov. 30-Dec. 4.

A $50 U.S. Savings Bond goes to one winner in each state, and four medals of honor are awarded in each county.

More information on the 4-H home environment program is available from county extension agents.

Texas Taxes

by Bob Bullock
State Comptroller

Austin—When was the last time you met someone who was licensed by the state to "scalp" football tickets?

If your answer is "never", don't feel left out. There never were more than 11 licensed "scalpers" in Texas—and what's left of them are about to become a thing of the past.

The $250 scalpers license fee is one of several antique taxes to be repealed in a bill approved by the Legislature and now waiting for Gov. Dolph Briscoe's signature.

The measure was called the "omnibus tax reduction bill" but it will actually take only $2.7 million worth of taxes off the books during the next two years because much of the bill is directed at such outdated and nonproductive taxes as the scalpers fee.

The Comptroller's Department supported the elimination of several of these old taxes because they produced so little money it cost more to administer them than we took in.

Another outdated tax which would be repealed by the bill is the oleomargarine tax—a tax which had never been collected since it was first passed more than 35 years ago.

At the time margarine was brand new to the world and was so much cheaper than real butter it threatened to drive butter out of the grocery store. The tax was aimed at vegetable oils used in

REMEMBERING...

BY BILL D. BROOKS

THE SWIMMIN' HOLE
It could have been a river, wide place in the spring branch, pond or maybe a creek after a big shower. Each was irresistible to youngsters on hot summer days. Everyone was welcome and swim suits were not usually necessary attire.

If the swimmin' hole had water in it most of the time, it usually had some improvements that readily identified it for what it was. The improvements were mostly contributed by anonymous builders and usually included a diving board made from scraps, a rope swing, some type of slide (usually a muddy trench leading down a steep bank into the water).

The most significant thing I remember about our swimming hole happened once when the preacher's kid came for an afternoon visit. To make the story shorter than I would like to, we almost drowned trying to teach him to swim. Afterwards, safely out of the water and lying exhausted on the shore, we made a solemn oath not to tell a soul what had taken place. We knew mom wouldn't let us swim there if she thought something like that could happen. While walking home we continued talking about how we would never tell what had happened that day. We got home just as his dad came to pick him up. He ran to meet him screaming, "Daddy, Daddy, we almost drowned in their crick!". It's a wonder more accidents didn't happen because many pranks were pulled at the swimmin' hole. A popular one was often pulled on the new kid. Everyone else would hurry and get into the water, the shallowest part, and squat down low so the water came up to their chins. They would all yell for the new kid to dive in. He would usually fall for the trick and dive in, burying his head in the mud two feet below the water's surface. Lots of people had their clothes stolen or tied in a million knots while they were in for a swim.

It was fun to float around on blown-up innertubes or in an old No. 3 wash tub. Another fun thing was to wedge yourself inside an old tractor tire and roll down a steep hill, splashing into the muddy water at the bottom. If you had a swing with a long rope it was fun to swing around in circles just above the water, dragging your feet or bottom, splashing water on everyone. The big guy's favorite thing was to swing really high and turn loose to do a "cannon ball" to see if they could knock all the water out on the bank. My favorite thing was just to have a place to swim and use it as often as I could.

margarine and produced outside of Texas as a means of raising the price to protect the homegrown Texas butter industry.

The bill now on the governor's desk would also abolish the sleeping car and dining car tax and something called the "express company" tax.

Express companies in the old law were defined as companies doing business by steam, rail or water, but this law was written in 1907 and what we have come to know as "common carriers"—railroad companies, freight lines and the like—aren't covered by it.

The sleeping car and dining car tax didn't amount to a hill of beans even back in the days when trains were a major means of travel. The tax in the beginning was levied only on the amount of lease payments the railroad companies paid to the out-of-state owners and manufacturers of Pullmans and dining cars.

Besides getting rid of these obsolete taxes, the bill on the governor's desk contains some important sales tax exemptions which we will discuss in future columns.

One last word in closing: ticket scalping is illegal whether taxed or not.

Department of Public Safety Predicts 54 Texans Will Lose Their Life Over July 4th

The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety estimated that traffic accidents in the state over the July 4th holiday weekend will claim 54 lives.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir said his department expects travel will be heavy in Texas over the holiday period "particularly in and around recreational areas" such as lakes and beaches.

He added that the estimate covers a 78-hour period starting on Thursday at 6 p.m. and counting until midnight Sunday. Last year during a 102-hour Independence Day celebration, 46 persons were killed in traffic mishaps in Texas.

Speir also pointed out that highway traffic deaths are about 25 per cent over the total at this time one year ago. "This is due to increased travel and somewhat higher speeds," he added.

In a concerted effort to help keep deaths down, the DPS and local law enforcement agencies will be cooperating in the all-out effort to make the streets and highways as safe as possible. All available DPS troopers will be on duty, Speir said, and they will be especially watchful for drinking drivers, speeders and persons driving in a reckless manner.

In addition, the DPS will be working with the news media in a special public education program termed "Operation Motorcide" which focuses public attention on where and why fatal accidents are occurring during the holiday.

Most men think well of themselves.

Boys Ranch Receives License

Texas Boys Ranch of Lubbock last week received their license from state officials in Austin, which was the last step required to receive homeless or unwanted boys. The ranch was started in January of 1973 and has one cottage at the ranch site located just north of Lubbock on Liberty Road.

"This means we now can accept applications for boys", says Roger Engels, executive director of the ranch, "and hopefully the assessment committee can meet in early July and we will have ten boys living in the cottage by the end of July." Hopefully another cottage will be started by fall. Engels said the office has been swamped with calls about applications and the sooner we can build more facilities, the sooner we can accommodate more boys.

Texas Boys Ranch has received the license required by the state department of public welfare. County judges, families, educational facilities, churches, and concerned citizens throughout the fifteen South Plains Associations of Governments county area may receive more information regarding admission into Texas Boys Ranch by writing to Texas Boys Ranch, P.O. Box 6040, Lubbock.

by Joe Kelly

Saranac Lake, N.Y.—Obviously we made it here, despite nearly running out of gas in the middle of Pennsylvania Wednesday night, a leaking power transmission unit and the omnipresent State Police.

Still, we got in early enough on Thursday morning to get camp set up and in pretty good shape. This morning (Friday, June 20), we did some other refinements, cut enough wood for a couple of days and now are in town to buy fishing licenses and do some belated last minute supply buying.

It was cloudy all day Thursday and seemed threatening, and it did rain after we had gone to bed—early—Thursday night. But the wind has been out of the north today, it cleared off and the sun has been brilliantly warm.

They said that May was a horrible month, with heat in the 90s and all the rich, green grass turning brown. Typically, it was followed by a wet June, that has turned everything emerald green again. Hopefully, the rain is about through and we'll have good weather from here on out.

Unfortunately, this is being written before the All-America game, so there's no comment. We plan to come to town tomorrow night and watch it. I feel sure that it was a great success again.

During the four days in Washington, not a word was carried in the Washington Post about the game, even though there was a Maryland player involved. Most of the copy printed was about Pele, the soccer star. He may be the greatest thing since bottled beer, but it seemed to me that the space was wasted.

I'm writing this from the Saranac Lake Daily Enterprise office. It's brand new and more spacious than the former quarters. People have been most cooperative and friendly here.

My wife already has the fishing bug, but Jack talked to a couple of men on their way back from Cold Brook yesterday and they said that the trout fishing hadn't been good. They had only six between them for a full day's effort. We hope that changes.

The bass season is just starting and it ought to be good, hitting it this early, while the Northern Pike are, we're told, biting well. The water in Oseetah Pond is high, but the lily pads are floating and everything indicates good conditions.

So far the wildlife has been quiet. We put out some corn leftover from dinner and the ears were gone this morning, so something was stirring. Things probably will start happening tonight.

The NFIB Conference in Washington was tremendous. You all probably saw some of it on TV and Hubert Humphrey, who gave a major talk Wednesday evening, said that in all the years he had been in Washington, he had never seen better coverage of any convention.

It's hard to beat the lineup of speakers—Pres. Gerald Ford, Ronnie Reagan, George Wallace, Humphrey, Rogers Morton—to say nothing of the Congressmen who were in seminar panels.

I just wish all the NFIB members in Texas could have been at the conference, because it was worthwhile from start to finish. Almost every Congressman paid tribute to the work of NFIB on behalf of the small independent businessman.

I found that businessmen from all sections of the country talking about conditions shared the same outlook at those in West Texas. When anyone mentioned welfare, unemployment compensation, food stamps, taxes, there were cheers and applause.

Washington may be "Hell City" or "Fear City", as it is called, but we saw little evidence of it. Twice we saw police cars with lights flashing apparently on a serious call, and once we saw, in Georgetown, police manhandling a couple of young blacks—whom they let go.

The security at the Hilton for Pres. Ford's appearance was tight, but there was no personal security check. Of course, all the delegates had to be in the ballroom by 8:30 a.m., for a 10 a.m. talk. And there were Secret Service men very much in evidence.

The most interesting experience was to walk into a liquor store in Georgetown and, at the checkout counter, have a girl look at my badge and say: "Lubbock, Texas! That's my home."

The young lady had just graduated from Georgetown University's dental school and was working there to defray expenses. She mentioned that she had a brother working for Furr's and we had quite a talk. She left Lubbock in 1967.

There were a lot of Texans at the conference, mostly from Houston. But I ran into people from Friona, Plainview, Amarillo, Abilene. Jack created a lot of chuckles with his Tee-shirt "Think Dust."

On the way up here, we saw a lot of Texas cars, more than usual. And one, in Washington, indicated a government official. There's no question that Texans get around—and few people are observing any 55 mph speed limit anywhere.

So much for the conference and Washington. It's a nice place to visit, but no one in his right mind would want to live there. It's crowded, hot, humid, and filled with fumes from cars and trucks. The food at the Hilton, though, was superb, as well as at O'Donnell's Seafood Restaurant.

Visited Cong. George Mahon, briefly, since he had to leave to answer a voting call on the floor, and Nancy Langston, Lonnie's daughter, took us on a tour of the Capitol. She also is a recent Georgetown graduate.

Anyway, the heck with writing any more now. The bass are beckoning and I mean to wet me a line. I may get nothing more than exercise, but I'm an optimist when it comes to fishing.

See you next week with a glowing (?) report!

Rays of Hope

by Pat Stanton

The word of God has much to say regarding material needs and possessions. The Bible very plainly shows that God wants His children to prosper in all things.

We as believers have been given dominion over the earth and everything within the earth. (Genesis 1:26-28).

From the beginning of God's fellowship and walk with man, God has promised every material blessing to those who are obedient. In Genesis, chapter 24:1, we are told that the Lord blessed Abraham in all things.

We are to expect blessings from God. The New Testament says that Jesus became poor on this earth so that we might become rich. (II Cor. 8:9). This was not speaking of spiritual matters, because Jesus never was spiritually poor.

Luke 6:38 states that as we give to others, we can look for and expect to receive great blessings in return. It is not wrong to look and expect to receive when you give. Jesus himself gave the words of Luke 6:38.

Philippians 4:19 shares that all of our need can be supplied because Jesus has riches in heaven. These riches can be given to us through the windows of heaven. (Malachi 3:10).

Many Christians never receive their rightful share because they have not been taught that they are joint heirs with Jesus Christ.

There is a mature walk with God that allows the believer to continually receive material blessings.

God wants his children to prosper just as well as the devils kids.

3 John 2 "Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth."

Isaiah 1:19 "If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land."

Proverbs 22:4 "By humility and the fear of the Lord are riches, and honour, and life."

District Two 4-H'ers to Compete for Horsemanship Honors this Monday

About 180 4-H'ers from across the South Plains converge in Lubbock Monday, June 30, at Lubbock's Panhandle South Plains Fairground to compete in one of the toughest events in 4-H, the District Horse Show. When the final buzzer sounds Tuesday afternoon, only 20 youths will be named to carry the District 2 banner to the State 4-H Horse Show in Ft. Worth July 23-26.

According to District Extension Agent Billy C. Gunter, the youths from the 20-county District 2 will be competing in halter, showmanship, and performance classes.

Halter and showmanship classes will be judged Monday, starting at 1:00 p.m., and performance classes will be judged the next day, beginning at 9:00 a.m.

Tom Gibbs of Wichita Falls and Douglas Wilson, Hardeman County Extension agent from Quanah, will serve as official judges for the 1975 contests. Superintendent will be Ken Cook, Lubbock County Extension agent.

The quota of entries is based on the number of active 4-H members with horse projects in each county, Gunter says.

The 4-H program in the state is administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Grape Meeting . . .

County, Jones says. He'll be accompanied by Don Bales, president of the West Texas Sandy Land Grape Association.

Sponsored by the Cochran County Cooperative Extension Service on conjunction with the West Texas Sandy Land Grape Association, the grape production meeting is open to the public.

A question and answer period will follow discussions.

Jones says the meeting was prompted by increasing interest in grape production on the Texas High Plains.

Mrs. Jack Coward, Son, Greg, Return From Vacation

Mrs. Jack Cowart and son, Greg, returned recently from a vacation trip to Kansas City, Missouri. They flew to Dallas on Wednesday and went sightseeing and shopping and spent the night in Fort Worth.

From there they caught a train to Kansas City where they visited with Mr. Cowart's sister, Mrs. Del Peterson. They visited many points of interest in Kansas City, and Independence, Missouri; and also in Kansas City, Kansas. They returned by plane to Amarillo on Sunday where they were met by Mr. Coward and Cindy, and the family spent some time visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jake Powell.

The plane ride was Greg's first experience on a commercial airliner and the train trip was a first time experience for both of them.

Don't expect everyone to think you are perfect; just be satisfied if you are able to fool a few.

Receives Check from Arthritis Foundation

Dr. Bruce Bartholomew (r.) holds a check from the Arthritis Foundation for $3,150 to support arthritis research at Texas Tech University School of Medicine. The check was presented by Mabry Peel of the Arthritis Foundation Board and accepted in behalf of the School of Medicine by W.B. Harris, Jr., TTUSM Development Officer.

The Arthritis Foundation, West Texas Chapter, has presented a check for $3,150 to Texas Tech University School of Medicine (TTUSM) to support arthritis research by TTUSM's Division of Rheumatology.

Mabry Peel, a member of the West Texas Chapter's board of directors, presented the check to Bruce A. Bartholomew, M.D., associate professor of Medicine and chief of the Division of Rheumatology.

The research will be carried out by Bartholomew and Charles W. Seward, M.D., associate clinical professor of Medicine. The focus of the research will be better methods of evaluating Systemic Lupus Erythematosus (SLE).

"SLE is a very serious disease affecting many organ systems of the body and falling into the general category of connective tissue diseases associated with arthritis," Bartholomew said. "It is often fatal, but, if well evaluated, it may be readily controllable; this study represents the investigation of a parameter of this disease that has not been investigated to any great extent before," he added.

The funds for the study were made available through contributions to the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. The research grant was made by the board of directors on the advice of the Chapter's Medical and Scientific Committee.

The West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation has been supportive of the Division of Theumatology at TTUSM and the activities of the Theumatology Research Laboratory. Less than one-third of U.S. medical schools have rheumatology departments or divisions; there are only 2200 rheumatologists in the country.

Of this number, five are in West Texas; one each in Lubbock, Amarillo and Big Spring, and two in El Paso.

Arthritis, which strikes one in 10 Americans, is the nation's number onecrippler. Contrary to the belief that it is an 'old folks disease', rheumatoid arthritis, the most common, crippling and painful kind, may strike any time from birth to age 30 or 40. Last year 250,000 children were diagnosed as having Juvenile Rheumatoid Arthritis.

The economic toll in lost time and wages, and medical bills caused by arthritis, was $9.3 billion last year. Americans also threw away $408 million in 1974 on quack cures and remedies.

In addition to supporting research efforts, the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation sustains a scholarship fund and fellowship funds that go strictly to West Texas young men and women who are interested in further study of arthritis and the rheumatic diseases.
