Downey Grandchildren Receive Awards

Cheryl, Jamie and Shawn Gustin, children of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gustin of Lubbock were among the students of Western Hills Baptist Academy to receive awards in ceremonies at the church Sunday afternoon.

The pastor, Rev. J.R. Church, presented the academic awards. Cheryl received the 100 Club academic award and Jamie was awarded the incentive award, along with other students of the school.

The Gustin children are the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Downey of Shallowater.

On May 28th three Shallowater High School students will depart Shallowater with their band director, Rusty Sherman, to travel to Austin to compete with several thousand other students from across the state of Texas. The event is the Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest. The three students are Geniese Grawunder, a recent graduate of Shallowater High School; Alison Terry, a senior at Shallowater, and Laura Walker, also a senior at Shallowater. The three qualified for the state meet by competing at the Regional level in Lubbock in February and receiving 1st Division awards in solo and ensemble.

Geniese plays the oboe and received a 1st Division in her solo and was also a member of the award winning ensemble. Geniese has been a member of the All Region Band for the past 5 years, a remarkable feat in itself. Besides being a twirler for the past 4 years, she has also found time to excel in the classroom as she was also Valedictorian of the recent graduating class. Geniese plans to be a member of the Red Raider Band at Tech this fall.

Alison Terry qualified for the state meet by being a member of the ensemble. Besides playing the flute in the Mustang Band, Alison is also a cheerleader, a position she has held for 4 years. Alison was an alternate in the All-Region this past year as well as being a tremendous leader in all the activities she participates.

Laura Walker plays the clarinet and has been in the All Region Band the past two years. She qualified for the State meet by being able to substitute for George Parsley, who was unable to attend the meet. Besides being an accomplished musician on the clarinet, Laura will also be accompanying Geniese on her solo by playing the piano. Laura was also actively involved in the annual staff and writes for the school newspaper.

It is quite an honor for these deserving young students to be able to participate in the State Solo and Ensemble Contest. This marks the first time in the history of Shallowater High School that Shallowater has been represented at the State Meet. Geniese plays her solo at 1:30 on Saturday and the ensemble will perform at 2:00. The event is being held on the University of Texas campus. We

Registration Underway at LCC for Industrial Classes

Persons wishing to gain marketable job skills can register at the Lubbock Christian College Industrial Technologies Division through the end of May for classes in machinist trades, welding, drafting, electronics and auto mechanics.

"We're continuing in our efforts to train students for jobs that are already waiting," explained Dr. Tommy Gilbreath, head of the Industrial Technologies Division. "The only problem is that there are more jobs than we have students to put in them."

Fulltime students can finish a program in six months, while it takes a year for part-time students to get a certificate of completion. Students are then given help with job placement.

"The time required to complete a training program is especially important when the opportunity for wages are considered," according to Gilbreath. "If a person is required to train for two years, he will lose from $12,000 to $18,000 in opportunity wages. If training time is cut without a loss in the quality of the training, it is important to the students and to the employer who needs the skills of the trainee."

Students enrolled in the Industrial Technologies Division attend chapel and enjoy the many social aspects of the Lubbock Christian College campus, but they don't receive college credits. Students working on degree program at LCC can receive credit for any industrial technologies courses they take as electives.

Both full and half-time day programs are offered in machine shop, welding and auto mechanics. Half-time day programs are available in electronics. Night programs are offered in all areas, including drafting.

The schedule for fulltime day programs are from 8:30 to 4 p.m. five days per week. Half-time schedules are from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. five days per week or 6 to 10 p.m. four nights per week. A part-time student may also opt for classes just two nights per week.

"While our students aren't masters of their trade when they complete a course, they do have a solid foundation," Gilbreath said. "Their schooling is much more in depth than on-the-job training. In fact, it would take at least four or five years of on-the-job training for them to learn as much as they would in six months with us and employers recognize this."

The Industrial Technologies Division was founded at the college as the Vocational Training Department in 1965. The division has grown to the point where it is housed in three adjoining buildings on the west side of the Lubbock campus in an area with nearly 11,000 feet of space for shop areas, classrooms and office space.

Future plans for the department include building trades, air conditioning, diesel mechanics and refrigeration, a two-year degree in industrial technology and a degree program in industrial

by Joe Kelly

It's obvious that, if the Southwest Conference had any discussion or took any action on alleged illegal recruiting and/or other wrongs, the executives carefully concealed the news. But no matter how hard they tried, it will come out.

Oh, it probably will take a while and it will be in smatterings when it does, but the information will leak. It virtually always does, no matter how carefully it is concealed.

Sports writers generally are pretty close to coaches, athletic directors and faculty representatives. They are known to have a friendly drink together, to play golf or just have friendly little talks from time to time.

Those are the occasions, all too often, when someone lets drop a slip of the lip. And that's all it takes. Some careful prodding, some shots in the dark and wham! Here comes the information.

One Tech coach of some years back was the greatest source of information for out of town writers. At least once or twice he spilled the beans about a situation that he had informed me about and then sworn me to secrecy.

That's the dilemma for a writer given information "off the record." If he sits on it until given the green light to report it, and then the source breaks the confidence, the writer is made to look silly.

On the otherhand, if the writer breaks the confidence he's in danger of being shut off entirely from "good" stories from time to time.

Most writers will take the gamble and respect a confidence. It generally pays off, although it will backfire from time to time.

And sometimes wives will talk out of turn and blow the best kept confidence apart.

Anyway, to get back to the original subject, if the SWC fathers took any action on any of the subjects that were expected to be discussed, they didn't announce their actions.

This is unfortunate. The fans are the ones who financially support the conference. Many of them send their sons to perform in various sports. And, in the case of five institutions, the various programs are supported by tax dollars.

It's all well and good to try and protect one or more schools from having unfavorable publicity, but the conference is not a closed corporation. It depends on the public and thus it owes it to that public to make public its actions.

Keeping the public in the dark about actions affecting the institution members isn't fair and leads to a breakdown in confidence. Or maybe the SWC fathers haven't heard of Watergate.

Under Steve Sloan Tech is starting to rebuild some of the adverse publicity and confidence it held B.C.—Before Carlen. One popular move was the restoration of the Raider Club luncheons. Now comes the golf play.

Just about once a week now for some time the various coaches go to area towns, play golf with invited Red Raider Club members, have a dinner that night and talk informally.

The golf tour was one of the highlights in towns and cities throughout West Texas under DeWitt Weaver and J.T. King. Carlen stopped the tour, but Sloan has approved its revival.

The men who get to play with the coaches become their biggest supporters, and the fans who turn out for the informal dinners and talks go away pleased. They get to ask questions and they meet the men who guide Tech's athletic destinies. The revival of these dates is a popular one.

Will Pres. Gerald Ford be in the VIP section of the press box for the Coaches All-America game? It could be.

Bob Fuller told us that, at one of the informal receptions for the President when he was here that he had asked Mr. Ford if he would be here.

The President, according to Fuller, replied that he really wanted to see the game, but he didn't think that he'd be able to make it.

"But he asked me the date," Fuller said, "and even wrote it down. He told me that he'd make every effort to be here, but he was afraid that he'd be covered up campaigning."

With or without the President, the game will go on and the cast is pretty exciting. If you follow collegiate football, a lot of the names are top caliber.

Certainly the pros think they are, because many were drafted pretty high and that's the supreme compliment.

Regardless of that, this year's field shapes up as one of the best yet. Frankly, just the addition of New Mexico's great quarterback, Steve Myer, promises to make it an exciting game.

So, get your tickets early and be assured of a good seat to a game that should be great and with many of the proceeds going to worthwhile causes that need your support.

Caran Conner, Dee Highley Exchange Vows in Sunday Afternoon Ceremony

In an early afternoon wedding ceremony Sunday, May 23, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Conner was the setting for the uniting in marriage of their daughter, Miss Caran Conner, to Dee Highley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darel L. Highley, Sr. of Forsan. Rev. Richard McMahon of Amarillo performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a colonial styled floor length gown of powder blue dotted swiss, featuring long puffed sleeves, accented with pearl buttons on elbow cuffs. The scooped neckline was enhanced with a self ruffle across the bustline and on the bottom. A white taffeta bow completed the ensemble. Her shoulder length veil of white fell from a petal crown and pearl headpiece, accented with pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet a white and blue sweetheart roses, and white carnations on top of the Bible her mother carried at her wedding for something borrowed. For something old she carried her great-grandmother's handkerchief, something new, a necklace given to her as a gift, and something blue, a garter.

Seena Conner, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a spring blue floral length dress complimented with a white summer hat. She carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Bob Highley of Alpine, brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception was held in the home immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was laid with a lovely blue cloth, centered with a beautiful arrangement of shaded blue velvet roses. The 3 tiered wedding cake, decorated in white with dainty blue roses was served by Belinda Mabry and Cindy Conner from milk glass appointments. The guests were registered by Marka Highley.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Shallowater High School. The groom graduated from Forsan High School in 1970 and will be attending Sul Ross State University in Alpine where the couple will make their home.

Pam Thomas and Michael Hinze Exchanged Vows Saturday

Wedding vows were read at 3:00 p.m. Saturday, May 22, in the United Methodist Church for Pamela Thomas and Michael Hinze, with the pastor, Rev. Tommy Ewing, performing the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.H. Thomas of Shallowater and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hinze of Aspermont.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride wore a formal length Victorian gown of white lace, with accents of blue ribbon. The hi-rise empire bodice featured a V-shaped yoke, rimmed in an underlay of blue with a high Victorian collarlet repeating the blue motif. Long tapered sleeves were cuffed in wedding bell cuffs, rimmed in the underlay of blue. The full circular skirt was caught to a peaked waistline and was encircled in a wide flounce, also rimmed in blue ribbons, and swept to a full back reaching to a chapel length train. She wore a matching veil which fell in tiers from a camelot headpiece, reaching fingertip length.

She carried a bouquet of daisies, and her chosen colors of blue and yellow were carried out in the wedding decor. The altar bouquet featured a beautiful arrangement of yellow gladiolas and white carnations.

Miss Cindy Jouett of Shallowater was maid of honor and Miss Nancy Thomas and Miss Barbara Thomas, sisters of the bride, both of Shallowater, were bridesmaids. They wore floor length gowns of pastel blue crepe, featuring an empire waistline with long shirred sleeves. The shirred bodice was accented with an overlay of matching floral material. They wore wide brimmed hats, accented with a bow of matching floral material. They carried long stemmed yellow carnations.

Best man was Cal Hoffman of Waco, and Tim Reed of Uvalde and Mike Rogers of Brownfield were the groomsmen and ushers.

Mrs. Robert Middlebrook, organist, accompanied Wayne Starch as he sang "Walk Hand In Hand," "For All We Know," and the "Lord's Prayer."

A reception followed in fellowship hall of the church. Attendants were Miss Karen Durham of Burleson and Mrs. Renei Waits of Lubbock. Mrs. John Jouett of Lubbock, sister of the groom, presided at the groom's table.

The serving table was laid with a lovely lace cloth over blue. The three tiered wedding cake, iced in white was decorated with daisies.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

This week's column is going to be about movies. All about movies, which I love and have since I was a very little boy and that goes back further than I will tell.

Most of my readers do not attend X-rated movies, but once in a vicarious while, I do go and so can share some of the sinful secrets with you.

The X-rated movie this week has a kind of special attention, otherwise, I assure you, I would not have singled it out for your attention.

It is called "Inserts" and it has been playing to mild effects for the past week at the South Plains Cinema. This is the last day, so I can't be faulted for steering you wrong. The reason that I caught the film is that it stars Richard Dreyfuss whom you may remember was the star of the most successful picture in show business history, "Jaws."

Well, poor Mr. Dreyfuss must have made this one (in England) before "Jaws" and it must be one that he would gladly, gleefully, spend his own money to buy up all the existing prints.

Now, don't get me wrong. It's a pretty fair movie, in its genre, but that doesn't mean I recommend it. The language is coarse, crude and blunt, and so are some of the scenes. But, to qualify it, the acting isn't at all bad, and the plot line is strong. As I say, I wouldn't, for the life of me, recommend it, but if one is mature and interested in movies it has its merits.

Actually, there are two categories of what they now call "hard-core" sex movies. There is the shocking, blunt hard-core feature such as "Deep Throat" and there is what they call a "soft-core" pornography film. This "Inserts," made in Great Britain, falls in the latter category and as such, if you are accustomed to the current R-rated films, is tame stuff indeed. Yes, there is some nudity, not frontal, only suggested, and the sex moments are only simulated. It could, and does, offend many, but it is not in the league with the celebrated Marilyn Chambers, "Behind the Green Door", "The last Tango in Paris," "Deep Throat" and the others.

It's not to be recommended as a shining entry in the cinema world; by the same token, it is to be viewed as a freak and is well on its way with tonight's last showing.

I said that we were going to talk movies exclusively this week. So, if you have a television set, I want to give you a schedule from now through June, so that you, along with me, can enjoy some really great ones.

So, mark these dates and times and know that I shall be watching, as I hope you will, some of the films that made the "Golden Age of Movies" what we all so fondly remember.

First, Channel 28, KMCC-TV. For weeks now they have been running a series of really thrilling films from the hey-day period of which I speak. It's too late to have caught "The Big Parade" with John Gilbert and Rennee Adore, the Charlie Chaplin recall, Garbo in "The Temptress" — all these are silent films with a score added — and this week's Lon Chaney "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," adapted from Pirandello's "He Who Gets Slapped" which was Loretta Young's first film when she was a tender girl of 16.

But now I'll give you the remaining schedule as I know it. They are at midnight and no notice has been accorded this estimable series in the competitive press.

This Saturday at midnight KMCC will be showing the famous "Love" film, which starred Greta Garbo and John Gilbert. This is a silent one, remember, and it was the film that, when the "talkies" took over, that Garbo, Fredric March and Basil Rathbone successfully transferred silence to sound. In case you recall, this is the one where Anna takes her life by hurling herself under a train.

Well, each Saturday night to come, KMCC will be bringing us back some of the famous, beloved films. Do stay up to midnight and share them with us. Okay?

KTXT-TV, the wonderful Tech station, who brings us so much to good, also has a series that I wish to recommend to you. They have, for weeks now, been running an 8 p.m. Saturday night series called "Film Classics."

Do try to catch these. The whole month of June should be joy. KTXT is doing all of Alec Guinness, starting with "Kind Hearts and Coronets" and following with "The Lavender Hill Mob" and all the others dear to memory.

So, film lovers, you are in the midst of a bonanza. Join me and enjoy. Monday is a sellout at the Lubbock Coliseum when swivel-hipped Elvis comes back. I'll be there as some 10,000 other Lubbockites will be

Missionary to Speak Sunday at Shallowater United Methodist

Edgar Wilkinson, missionary to Southwest Indian School, near Phoenix, Arizona, will speak at First United Methodist in Shallowater Sunday, May 30, at 10:45 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

The Wilkinsons serve with World Gospel Mission, an interdenominational sending agency with 335 missionaries and homeland staff, laboring in eighteen areas of the world. International headquarters is in Marion, Indiana.

Born in Panama City, Florida, Mr. Wilkinson is the son of missionary parents. He spent much of his boyhood in Kenya, Africa, and in Arizona, where his parents served as WGM missionaries. He studied at Glendale Community Junior College, Arizona, and received is Bachelor of Arts degree at Vennard College, Iowa.

Southwest Indian School, where the Wilkinsons have served for a term, is a Christian boarding school accommodating grades one through twelve. Its purpose is to provide a Christ-centered education, and to challenge students with the gospel of Christ, to the intent that the Indian young people will want to share their faith with parents on the reservations.

In the past year, SIS has had a record enrollment of 180 students. Some have come from as far as Oregon and Montana, although most of them are from the Navajo and Papago reservations in Arizona. Since its beginning in 1952, the school has ministered to 34 tribes.

Mr. Wilkinson had many opportunities to give spiritual counsel to the boys in the dormitory, and he directed the athletic program of the school. Mrs. Wilkinson worked in the school office and assisted with the teaching load. Since July, 1974, she has kept busy caring for their twin babies, Shannon and Brad.

Mr. Wilkinson will show by message and pictures what World Gospel Mission is doing to reach these long-neglected Americans with the gospel of Christ. The Wilkinsons plan to return to the work in Arizona after a regular furlough.

OR MORE ON YOUR HEATING & COOLING . . .

It has been known for some time that methods existed to insure the building of ENERGY EFFICIENT HOMES. But inexpensive energy in the past made it logical to ignore the extra investment such a home would require. Now with energy costs rising, it becomes more and more important to use effectively every bit of energy we consume. The TOTAL ELECTRIC ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME has construction features which result in savings of 40% or more on heating and cooling costs when compared to previously accepted standards for total electric construction.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

An Open Letter to Precinct 1 Farmers on FARM TAXES

I want to apologize to you for not making myself clear on the question of equalizing taxes. I AM NOT TALKING ABOUT FARM LAND. Farm land should never be taxed like other property, since its worth is in what it produces.

What I have been trying to say is that a farmer's house should pay the same COUNTY (not city) taxes on each dollar's value as a city residence, and homeowners should not be paying higher COUNTY taxes than businesses do.

All I'm seeking is fairness for all and adherence to the law, and the law provides for special exemptions for farm land taxes, as it should.

And I repeat that I offer Lubbock County experience with and knowledge of county government at a critical time in its history. Our county is losing two commissioners with 40+ years of experience just when it is facing its most serious challenges—hospital, jail, rising crime. Meeting these challenges will require common sense, experience, new ideas and strength of personality. I will do my best to offer you a combination of all these.

Yours for better county government,
