Week Full of Activity

Patriots Win Highlight Of Homecoming Week

Last week was a very busy week at Valley due to the 1987 Homecoming.

Tuesday afternoon the wood for the bonfire was unloaded. The students and teachers who worked that afternoon had a lot of fun.

Wednesday was hat, tie, and sock day. The girls also did some decorating in the building.

Thursday was jam day. The students really enjoyed that day. That night the traditional weiner roast and bonfire was held. There was a large crowd present. Mr. and Miss Flame, Craig Setliff and Suzie Farley, representing the senior class were honored. Other candidates were; Juniors, Shane House and Sylvia Ortiz; Sophomores, Wade Cagle and Andrea Hinojosa; and Freshmen, Kirk Garner and Lori Martin.

Friday was red, white, and blue day and whisper day.

Pep Rally

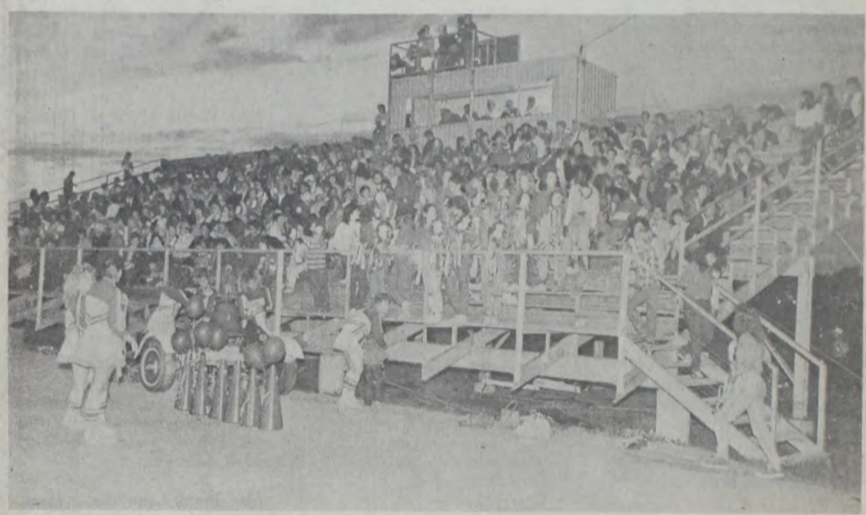

The Homecoming Pep Rally was held Friday afternoon in the gym. Blue balloons, signs, and streamers decorated the gym.

The cheerleaders, Lacy Price, Melissa Maupin, Sandy Price, Amy Hewett, Michelle House, and Amy Maupin did a routine and led the crowd in a number of yells. They also built two pyramids.

The boys' spirit sticks were given to Kirk Martin and Eric Scoggins. The girls' spirit stick was given to Samantha Stark. The winner of the whisper day award was Celeste Sperry. The cheerleaders presented their sponso, Mrs. Green, with a gift. Each of the cheerleaders and pep squad members gave a spirit stick to one of the boys. The large traveling spirit stick, which was won last week by Mrs. Davidson's fourth graders, was won by Mrs. Chadwick's fifth graders. Mrs. Ramsey's kindergarteners were each presented with a balloon for their support.

The junior high cheerleaders, sponsored by Lisa Price, did two yells. These girls are April Stephens, Katy Browning, Audra House, Julie Clay, and Carissa Rothwell.

Valley's 1987 homecoming football crowd.

West German Students Pedaled Thru Quitaque

Quitaque, somehow, always seems to draw interesting travelers, and recently these travelers seem to always be on bicycles.

Last Wednesday, two West German cyclists, Stefan

Mang, and Thomas Pichler peddled into Quitaque. The two spent most of their time at the Quitaque Service Center, visiting with passersby and customers and taking pictures of the town.

Stefan, who has just graduated from mechanic trade school, and Thomas computer science student in Berlin, arrived in New York City on August 3. Their travels have taken them through Washington, D.C., Williamsburg, Virginia; Charleston, S.C.; New Orleans, and Dallas, over a five-week span, before their arrival here. Leaving Quitaque, the pair bicycled toward Amarillo, with plans which include Grand Canyon, and their final destination Los Angeles, California -- a trip totalling 7,000 Km, (4,300 miles).

Local Man Acclaimed For Photography

Mr. Wilburn Leeper was contacted Wednesday morning by the Plainview Daily Herald to ask for permission to use a print of a slide of his for their color picture on the front page of the Sunday edition.

The picture was taken west of Abernathy and is of a farm house with a rainbow coming from behind the house. Rainbows are very difficult to get on film.

Mr. Leeper, President of the Caprock Camera Club, entered this slide in the monthly competition which was sent to Gordon Zeigler to judge. Mr. Zeigler, a professional photographer, is the Plainview Herald photographer.

5th Quarter Fellowship

This Friday night following the football game, there will be a 5th Quarter fellowship at the First Baptist Church Fellowship hall in Quitaque. This week we will have baked potatoes with all the trimmings, to eat. Also this week we will have a film featuring "Isaac Air Freight"

a well-known Christian comedy group. Great food and lots of laughs are guaranteed this week, so come on over for the 5th Quarter, immediately following Friday night's game.

5th Quarters will also be held following each of the next two home games.

Almost everything in life is easier to get into than out of.

You're getting older when most of your dreams are reruns.

The world is divided into two kinds of people, the good and the bad -- and the good decide which is which.

You know college basketball is out of hand when a player scores higher in a game than he does on a test.

Impartial observer: Someone who doesn't know what's going on.

When you make a mountain out of a molehill, don't expect anyone to climb up to admire the view.

Nothing cures insomnia like realizing it's time to get up.

Life is like a shower. One wrong turn and you're in hot water.

Remember when a compact was the perfect gift for a young lady? It still is -- if it has four wheels.

Do You Remember?

FROM THE FILES OF THE TURKEY ENTERPRISE SEPTEMBER 25, 1947

C. F. Taylor, who lives on the Rorie place east of town, killed a coyote with a stick on Aug. 23. The animal was believed to be affected with rabies. It was very poor, and in a bad physical shape. Mr. Taylor had gone to a windmill in the pasture accompanied by his dogs. The dogs immediately attacked the coyote and during the fight, Mr. Taylor got a chance to dispatch the coyote with a club. This was about two weeks before the mad coyote showed up and was killed on the Smith place north of Turkey.

The fire department who sponsored the Turkey baseball team in the Caprock League this season gave the players a party picnic or vice versa Wednesday night, Sept. 10 in appreciation of their accomplishments during the league season.

Of course, everyone knows, or should know that Dave Guest's recruits "copped the pennant" the venture for the fireboys netting the department $400.00 for the season after all expenses of the club were paid.

The 4-month old quarter horse colt belonging to Ollie Hall of Quitaque won first place in the division in the judging of livestock Saturday at the County Fair at Silverton. Competition was pretty stiff, colts being entered from over a wide area.

The Methodist WSCS met Monday in the home of Mrs. Roy Fuston with Mrs. Jay Russell joint hostess.

Mrs. Howard Irby was leader for the day and brought the devotional followed by the program on "The Child and His Education Today."

Mrs. J. H. Meacham closed the program with prayer. A gift was presented by Mrs. Abe Vinyard from the WSCS to Mother Meacham in honor of her 81st birthday Sept. 23rd.

Present were Mmes. J. H. Meacham, J. H. Richardson, Alga Turner, Howard Irby, M. T. Blume, C. W. Parmenter, Albert Hunter, C. L. Cooper, Abe Vinyard, Walters, U. F. Coker, D. Armstrong, R. C. Green, Aubrey Turner, E. B. Baisden, the hostess, Mrs. Fuston and Mrs. Jay Russell.

Brownie Troop Views Exhibit Of Scouting

Last month Brownie troop #366 ventured to Lubbock to view the portrait of Juliette Low. She began the first Girl Scout troop in 1912. An exhibit on "Seventy-five years of Girl Scouting" was on display at the Texas Tech Museum. The girls enjoyed viewing uniforms, books, and other various Girl Scout items; both old and new.

They had a special treat: television station KCBD of Lubbock used the girls in a news item about the Diamond Jubilee celebration. Later, they enjoyed eating together at a local Pizza Hut.

Present were Jessica Ortiz, Hollie McKay, Amy Stark, Traci Ham, Wynter Smith, Katrina Stewart, Linda Stark and Debra Smith. Amy Butler is their newest Brownie member. The girls meet after school every Thursday.

Valley FHA Installs New Officers

The newly installed officers are: Melissa Maupin, president; Shanlee Meyer, 1st vice president; Stacey Rothwell, 2nd vice president; Suzie Farley, treasurer; Amy Maupin, secretary-reporter; and Gina Conner, parliamentarian.

Guests of honor for the occasion were mothers of all the FHA members. A covered dish meal was served.

Currently, FHA members are preparing to submit their entries to the Panhandle South Plains Fair. Entries include sewing projects, foods, and crafts.

LIKING YOURSELF. . . How much do you like yourself? You may say, "That's a dumb question -- of course I like myself." Yet many people go through life not liking themselves.

Our attitudes and feelings about ourselves are reflected in our behavior toward others and have a powerful influence on our relationships with friends, family members, teachers, and those we work with.

How we feel about ourselves is called our "self-esteem." Self-esteem is based on all of our life's experiences. Adults carry feelings that were developed from childhood experiences as well as those from adult life.

Insecurity is something everyone experiences to some degree, and its roots are in our past. Parents' and teachers' expectations, if not realistic, can cause a lack of confidence in children. Parents, teachers, and peers can build or tear down a child's feelings of self-confidence and self-worth.

Successes build confidence. Every successful experience we have adds to our storehouse of confidence. Challenges successfully met and overcome, strengthen our good feelings about ourselves.

Protecting children from situations that may result in failure will not help them develop personal feelings of competence. We need to train and prepare them to be capable of facing problems and challenges. When they succeed, they need to feel pride in their abilities, and we adults need to express our acceptance of their accomplishments. When they fail, we need to let them know that they are not a personal failure but can try again to do better next time.

Expect the best of people, and you'll likely get the best. NEXT WEEK: "Developing Positive Self-Esteem"

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, national origin, or handicap.

Packaging People

Know why we build skyscrapers? In order to have many more people working in a limited area. We package people vertically!

Among the skyscrapers our photographer has discovered a church. It too has a vertical element — a steeple pointing heavenward.

Church architecture with its traditional spires expresses our beliefs. People today are packaged too tightly. Pressure, custom, conformity crowd in upon our souls. Christ teaches that every person is important — each one of us is loved by our Lord.

As we worship God each week side by side, our beliefs point us heavenward.

Fustons Honored With Wedding Shower

A wedding shower was given for Greg and Yvette Fuston on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 20, from 3:00 until 4:00 in the beautiful home of Mrs. Marjorie Bell in Turkey.

The receiving rooms carried out the bride's chosen colors of pink and white. The serving table was laid with a white lace cloth over pink with large pink bows in the center, and a beautiful bouquet of white mums with a pink candle on each side.

Bonnie Hill and Ann Coker served the guests from silver and crystal appointments.

Pink punch, Russian tea and coffee with white cake squares and mixed nuts were served.

Many pretty and useful gifts were received by the couple, with the hostess gift being an Oster Kitchen Center.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Bell were Mary Beth Adamson, Sybil Young, Clorene Geissler, Cindy Lane, Bonnie Hill, Wilda Fuston, Brenda Seymour, Vicki Lindsey, Pat Carnes, Dollie Irby, Bettie Green, Cathryn Setliff, Mozelle Eudy, Ann Coker, Mary Loury, Marjorie Pinkerton, Vera Guest, Nadine Baisden, and Virginia Degan.

DeLane Proctor Given Bridal Luncheon

Mrs. Betty Nan Tiffin was hostess for a bridal luncheon in her home in Silverton Saturday, Sept. 19. She was assisted in hostess duties by Jon Etta Zeigler also of Silverton.

A lovely meal was served and a special feature was the table cloths and napkins made by the hostess, especially for the occasion, in the bride's chosen colors of teal and fuschia. After the meal, everyone made rice bags.

Guests were the honoree, DeLane Proctor and her mother, Mrs. Gelene Proctor, of Turkey; Nadine Cargill, Kress; Mary McMurry of Turkey; Myra Brown, the bridegroom's mother, of Quitaque, and his sister, Cheri Sherrill of Amarillo, and Lana Burson of Silverton.

The wedding will be November 14, 1987, at the First Baptist Church, Quitaque, Texas.

Interest in model railroading as a hobby began after the Chicago World's Fair of 1933-34. Model railroad exhibits at the fair spurred this interest.

Landrys Given Wedding Shower

A wedding shower was held for Spec. 4 David and Katy Landry of Swansford, Germany, Saturday, Sept. 9, from 9:30 til 10:30 in the fellowship hall of First Baptist Church in Turkey.

When Souls Communicate

When souls communicate — it's like prayer. There may never be a word spoken... just a sigh, a wish, a hope, a longing. A child trying to express some simple feeling to its Mother. Mother trying to express her devotion to her child.

All prayer is founded on the idea that God loves us and cares about the things that affect us. Jesus taught us to pray "Our Father..." He wanted men to see God's love on the parental level.

When you feel the need to pray, reach out with your heart to God. You may not be able to find words. Yet He hears, He understands those deep feelings we find hard to express.

In church our efforts to communicate with Him are strengthened by the fact that many others are praying with us. They need Him just as much as we do. And we need their longings, their hopes and wishes and feelings to help us express our own. Join us in prayer at your local church or synagogue.

Much of the land along the Caprock in Briscoe County is ruggedly scenic and provides habitat for game such as mule deer, turkey, quail and dove. The program building committee in Briscoe County is working to tap this resource as an alternate source of income for farmers and ranchers.

Briscoe Farmers and Ranchers Lease Lands; Wildlife Is Seen As Alternate Crop

Ed. Note: The following article was taken from the Sept. 15, 1987 issue of TEXAS Farmer Stockman. The article was authored by Jim Steiert, Associate Editor.

Many Texas farmers and ranchers are seeking new ways to diversify their cash flow.

In Briscoe County, an active extension program building committee is now into its second year of an undertaking that uses a resource the area has had all along, but that never had been packaged and marketed effectively as an alternate crop before.

The communities of Silverton and Quitaque got together to market wildlife and recreation opportunities last hunting season. They intend to do it again this year. One of the organizers was county extension agent Dirk Aaron, who recently transferred to Coryell County to a similar job there.

He explained that the whole idea began when the county program committee sat down and decided that an alternative form of income was needed. "We met and looked at the resources we weren't using. We have been hurting just like everyone else, but we decided that we wouldn't roll over and die. We never had oil money, but we did have other resources such as Caprock Canyons State Park, a lot of rugged ranch country on the breaks of the Caprock, Lake Mackenzie and a diversity of wildlife."

He and members of the committee set up a liaison between landowners, sportsmen and those seeking recreation opportunities. "A few local landowners had used a shotgun approach to marketing wildlife in the past. But we made a community-wide decision to market recreation as a package."

THEN and NOW!

200 Years of Protecting The Constitution

The United States Constitution is safely on display in the National Archives in Washington, D.C. for all Americans to see. However, there were some times during the document's history when protecting it wasn't so easy.

Then: Two years after it was signed in 1787, the Constitution was put into the custody of the newly created Department of State. In 1800, the government shipped the document by boat down the Delaware River and up the Potomac to the District of Columbia. In the summer of 1814, just ahead of British troops marching on the capital, the Constitution and other priceless documents were packed in linen bags and hidden overnight in an old barn in Virginia. Although the Constitution made it safely back to Washington, D.C., it wasn't on public display until 80 years later.

Now: Over a million people visit the National Archives in Washington, D.C. each year to view the Constitution. It may be hard to believe, but the case protecting the document was designed in 1952. Experts at the Mosler Safe Co. of Hamilton, Ohio—called Mosler Inc. today—created a dual function vault which would protect against exposure, assault and the environment as well as display the Constitution. The fireproof vault is made of steel and reinforced concrete. The Constitution and other documents on display can be quickly lowered into the Aaron surveyed landowners to determine that kind of recreation might become available. The response was large.

Those who were interested paid a small fee to help finance a brochure listing what type of recreation opportunity might be available on their land. Local merchants also helped to get it printed. A similar brochure will be published again this year.

All told, about 217,000 acres in the county was listed in the brochure. It also gave a brief description of the properties involved, what kind of game or fish was available on them and paces for lodging. A good number of the listings described mule deer or aoudad sheep hunting along the Caprock, along with turkey, quail, dove and some pheasant. One even listed wild boar. Some properties have fish ponds, bird watching and hiking.

Getting local landowners and prospective customers together certainly provided benefit to the economy. The Briscoe County extension office will have copies of the new brochure available again this fall. City offices in both Silverton and Quitaque will likely also have them.

Aaron felt that the approach was a positive one that has excited those in the communities. At least eight families have said that they will provide room and board for sportsmen in their homes again this season.

John Schott, a committee member and landowner at Silverton, has participated in the effort. He is also optimistic about the economic benefits. He farms wheat and forage and runs stocker cattle and some Beefmaster cows on his pastures, which lie on the rugged edge of the Caprock. "I've leased to hunters before," he said, "but we vault by an electrically operated mechanism. When on display, there are three layers of glass to protect the document and the case is filled with liquified helium to keep the paper from drying out. It's hermetically sealed. Considering the Constitution had a few rough moments in its early days, it's nice to know the symbol of American freedom and democracy is in excellent shape and well protected as it enters its third century.

The Moon is one million times drier than the Gobi Desert, and the only floods on the planet have been ones of molten hot lava.

Just Ramblin'

By Jimmie Taylor

Editor's note: Jimmie Taylor is a long-time Paducah Post employee who writes Just Ramblin' weekly in the Post.

These fine late summer days and cool autumn-like nights are exactly to my liking. I wouldn't mind if the days stayed a little cooler, but that will come in October, my favorite time of the whole year.

I suppose there must be some deep-seated psychological reason for my being so partial to the month of October... I don't know what it is... but I do know that as a youngster, I loved everything about the fall days.

The sounds of the harvest... in my childhood, there were no mechanical sounds of boll-pulling; it was the chants and songs and easy murmur of the family and hired families bent to the task in the fields, pulling the long white canvas sacks down the rows of white cotton; the picture still lingers in my mind of the big trailer with the scales hung from a halyard on the back, and as each sack was weighed, it was swung up into the wagon, where my dad some of the time, a good-sized youngster part of the time - would tromp and pack the cotton down, until the wooden slat sides were bulging and the cotton stood above the tall sides.

At day's end, the tractor would head for the house, slowly, slowly pulling the high-piled wagon, usually covered with tired and grimy, but laughing boll-pullers, as the sun dropped below the western horizon.

I loved -- and still do love -- walking through the crisp, crunchy golden leaves that covered the ground beneath the trees of the shelterbelts that surrounded our place, and lined the road on the way to school. Many afternoons - although the schoolbus ran right by our house -- I, and a few other hardy souls who lived in my direction - chose to walk home from school, rather than ride the long, arduous bus route. I think it was about two miles to my house, less for some of the kids, further for one or two others; the McCains, the Scott kids; Mary Sue Gray; John and Harve Shavor; once in awhile, the Lermans, Mickey Jones; what fun we had on those Indian Summer days, trampling through the trees, lollygagging along, without a care in the world.

Now, it seems that every kid, by the time they get to high school, has to have their own car, even if they live only three blocks from school. But, that's now, and a lot of things are different, and probably if I were a kid now, I'd be the same way.

Anyway, fall was fun, even without football; that special time, neither betwixt nor between, a cool pleasant, happy time, seemingly made especially for little dreaming girls to sit in the tree-house, or tromp around in the countryside, full of so much color and beauty, one could not take it all in. Children, if allowed to do so, have a way of taking time to "smell the roses" along the way.

Fragrant potpourri evokes images of a more romantic, gracious time

One of the joys of spring and summer is the profusion of flowers, luxuriantly blooming in gardens, brightening windowboxes and cascading out of vases. In their infinite variety, they add color and fragrance wherever they are placed. They're equally appealing dried, as bouquets and potpourri, and distillations of their heady fragrance make splendid additions to a steaming bath. Sachets containing mixtures of dried herbs and flowers add a note of spicy sweetness to drawers and closets, and pillows filled with potpourri create an enticing environment for the sweetest of dreams.

Barbara Milo Ohrbach has made creating potpourri and other floral delights not only her avocation but her profession. Her renowned New York shop, Cherchez, purveys the floral mixtures she has developed, plus bowls and linens and delicate cut glass bottles which complement them.

She's also written a book, The Scented Room (Clarkson N. Potter), in which she shares many of her recipes, along with providing the sort of straightforward, practical advice that people delving into the floral arena for the first time will find especially helpful.

Inspiration is provided by an enthusiastic text, plus evocative full color photos that create a mood of old-fashioned romance, a sense of nostalgia for a leisurely lifestyle full of grace, graciousness and beauty, which Ohrbach's floral recipes can help recapture.

Below are two recipes from The Scented Room, for Spicy Lavender Potpourri and Cottage Garden Potpourri, preceded by Ohrbach's instructions for making potpourri in general.

MAKING DRY POTPOURRI

The ingredients in these recipes are all listed in order of mixing and should be followed accordingly. Certain ingredients are more delicate than others, and because of that, they are added later to avoid their being crushed by heavier ones.

1. Gently mix all the flowers and dry ingredients together in a large glass or glazed pottery bowl.

2. With an eyedropper, scatter the drops of the essential oil all over the combined mixture of flowers and dry ingredients and stir. All of your stirring motions should be extremely gentle in order to avoid crushing the more delicate ingredients.

3. Place the mixture in a roomy brown paper bag that you've lined with wax paper (so the oils won't seep through). Fold and seal the top of the paper bag with a paper clip or clothespin and put in a dry, dark, cool place to "cure" for about two weeks.

4. Every two days or so, turn the contents gently with a wooden spoon to disperse and blend the ingredients so that the scents of the herbs, spices, and oils will permeate one another.

5. After it's cured, the potpourri is ready to be placed in a decorative container. Fill the bowl to the brim so that a mound forms in the middle to give the potpourri some dimension.

SPICY LAVENDER POTPOURRI

- 5 ounces lavender flowers
- 2 ounces blue malva flowers
- 1 ounce cornflowers
- 3 ounces whole cloves
- 1 ounce crushed cloves
- 1 ounce cinnamon sticks, broken into 1-inch pieces
- 1 ounce cassia chips
- 1/2 ounce powdered allspice
- 1/2 ounce powdered cinnamon
- 1 ounce powdered orrisroot
- 15 drops lavender oil

To top off your Spicy Lavender Potpourri, you might want to add whole dried heads of purple or lavender irises.

Fall Is For Planting

Here's a fact that may take root in your fall planting strategy: September and October are ideal times to plant trees. That's because the soil is warm and the tree has plenty of stored-up energy. These conditions are perfect for good root growth and a well-established tree.

It is 261 degrees below zero on the planet Saturn.
