carnations. The decorating committee, Bettie Green and Cathryn Setliff, presented the centerpiece to Mrs. Armstrong. The delicious meal of barbecued steak and all the trimmings was catered by Turkey Drive-In.

The speaker told many pertinent facts about the Lions Clubs work in the District and also in Texas. He reported that Borger is building a treatment center for girls, those who have been abused or have other problems. The Lions Clubs help Girlstown USA in many ways and the new center at Borger will also be on their list. He also mentioned Lions work among the blind and for crippled children. They are

NAMED TO CJC

DEAN'S LIST

Shirley Landry of Turkey and Deborah Cagle of Quitaque were recently named to the Dean's Honor Roll at Clarendon College for the fall semester. They are enrolled in cosmetology.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Cobb drove to Amarillo Friday of last week where they picked up their granddaughter, Laura, and they all emplaned for Arlington where they visited Michael Cobb, grandson of the Orval Cobbs, and brother of Laura, and Michael's mother, Helen. They spent Friday and Saturday in Arlington.

There were 45 present at the banquet.

QUITAQUE MAN AND WOMAN OF THE YEAR TO BE SELECTED

The Man and Woman of the Year are selected annually by an appointed committee of "We the Women" and presented plaques at the Spring Banquet.

This year, it has been decided to ask every interested person to write letters of recommendation. These letters will be considered by a committee and voted on by "We the Women."

Mail your letters to Mrs. Delene Tyler, Box 237, Quitaque, Texas 79255. The deadline for these letters is March 10.

Valley Lady Patriots Have Envious Basketball Record

The 1983-84 Valley Lady Patriots have posted a basketball record of 21 wins and seven losses.

The team placed first in the Canadian Tournament, and won consolation in the Kress Tournament.

Last week at Plainview the team played Silverton for the District Championship, and won.

The team relied on speed and depth to have a successful season. The team was composed of four seniors: Lori Clay, Sherri Hendrix, Karen Ramsey and Mary Dowd; three sophomores: Tammy Clay, Cynthia Fulbright and Devona Smith; and one freshman, Renett Brittan.

The success of the team can be based on the fact that the reserves on the bench played as much as the starters. No one member of the team was more important than any other.

In twelve years of coaching girls, this is the most fun and enjoyment I have had in one season.

A successful Migrant Program has been in service at Valley School for several years. The program is not a highly publicized function of the school but it has become an important function when attempting to reach the frequently relocated children enrolled in school. Children eligible for the program are those whose families have moved from one school district to another to secure employment in agricultural activities.

The program is totally funded from federal sources and its operation is optional with the school district. The Education Service Center in Amarillo is the fiscal agent and program manager for the Migrant Program in the Panhandle area and provides services to schools to insure that necessary guidelines are followed. The cooperation of federal, area and local education agencies help to insure that an effort is made in developing each student to his highest potential.

The core of the program is instructional enrichment and the underlying goal is increasing the migrant student's motivation for academic success and instilling in the student the need for regular school attendance. The teacher or aide employed by the school may function in a variety of ways to provide the child's needs, keeping always in mind the need for the child's success. The aides at Valley work primarily in the regular classroom giving assistance to the children in need. The program seems to work best when the child is kept in the classroom with the regular teacher but some students are given special assistance in particularly difficult subjects outside the classroom. If the child is behind because of his relocation, there is attempt to meet his needs.

Besides these areas of involvement, the school also strives to provide, within the constraints of funding, such services as clothing, medical, dental, etc. Additionally, the local school personnel make home visits in order to establish a cooperative relationship between the home and school.

If the child withdraws from this school during the year or at the end of the school year, a test is given to determine his progress while he participated in the program. Careful records are kept in each school district and these records follow the child even when he moves to another state. A central records system is located in Little Rock, Arkansas which allows schools to receive records quickly in order that a level of achievement can be determined. This provides a profile of the student's strong points and deficiencies.

A number of students enrolled in the fourth and fifth grades are now working hard in preparation for the Picture Memory Contest. The Picture Memory team from Valley will compete in the upcoming March 5 district contest in which students from Valley, Silverton, Hedley, Lakeview and Estelline are eligible to compete. In this contest students are asked to identify, by writing on paper, the name of the artist, nationality, and painting of the pictures exhibited before the whole group. Students are expected to spell the names correctly and write in a legible manner. The pictures will be taken from a list of 40 which the students are now studying. The Valley students hoping to make the four-member team are Laurie Norman, Tina Clay, Robin Lane, Shadi Mullin, Alicia Weir, Kay Edwards and Genie Seymour. A team from this group should win the blue ribbon.

DID YOU KNOW ?

Owners of personal and small computers are now getting a big hand when it comes to ordering diskettes. For example, one major company, 3M, has completely done away with numbers to identify its most popular diskettes. Instead, it uses simple codes and colors.

This dramatic simplification of diskette designation has been achieved by 3M with a complete revamping of its line. Diskettes now are simply defined by diameter, density, and number of sides used.

This makes it faster and easier for owners of mini-computers to buy diskettes, and for dealers to order and inventory them.

Quitaque Methodists Enjoy Valentine Party Sunday

A number of the members of the First United Methodist Church in Quitaque met Sunday evening for a delicious covered-dish meal and a Valentine party.

The service began with a sing-song led by Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Norman, Tom and Joy Loper. The couples added a quartet number or two which the congregation reportedly enjoyed.

The tables were decorated beautifully in the Valentine motif and a good time was reported by all attending.

Mrs. Joe (Ruby) McWaters of Silverton, who is well-known in this area, has spent a few days in St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock. She is home and reports she is feeling better, although weak. She was in Quitaque Tuesday morning on business.

MRS. BAIN IS HOSTESS FOR TURKEY UMW MONDAY

Mrs. Gordon Bain was hostess Monday afternoon to nine members of the Turkey United Methodist Women. The president, Mrs. Gene Fuston, opened the meeting with prayer and conducted the business session.

Mrs. Bain served as leader for the program taken from a back issue of Newsweek that told how artists' conceptions of Jesus had changed down through the centuries and gave examples. Mrs. Bert Degan gave an article on the book of Luke. She said if Luke hadn't written his gospel, Christmas would not have been heard of. She gave interesting facts about Luke.

Kathleen Green gave the closing prayer. The hostess served cake, hot chocolate, coffee and orange juice. The vice-president, Faye Armstrong, announced that the group would meet on March 5 in the church chapel for the first session of the study, "Worlds Uprooted."

Turkey Scouts Enjoy Hiking Trip Friday

On Friday, February 17, 1984, the Turkey Scouts enjoyed a hiking trip to the "Gravel Pit," "Drinking Cup" and "Bath Tub." All members, den leader, and two guests, Penny Mars and Vera Pinkerton, made the trip. Mrs. Don House and her mother, Mrs. Artie Tilbert, accompanied them as special leaders. The Scouts express thanks to them for a very enjoyable day.

We met at 9:00 a.m. and traveled first to the Gravel Pit. We collected turkey feathers and flat rocks there which will be used in our Indian Activity.

We drove from the Gravel Pit to the Drinking Cup and hiked down to the Cup. The Scouts gathered in a circle beneath the overhang and the Scout Promise was led by Chad Calvert, and the Pledge was led by David Lane. Following the prayer by Tommy Pinkerton, everyone enjoyed a sack lunch.

Following the lunch, the Scouts hiked down from the "Cup" to the "Red Bluffs" and climbed and played there for awhile. We returned to the cup and gathered our things and left them on a rock above, then hiked to the "Bath Tub."

The boys were all anxious for a dip in the water and managed to all have wet feet on the return trip. Bobby Silva couldn't resist a dare from Garrett Mills for someone to just give him a little push into the water.

Mrs. Artie Gilbert had everyone to her home following the outing for ice water, grape juice, cookies and cake. The boys left her home reluctantly, after playing on a steep creek bank behind the house.

After returning, the boys went over their Indian Song and were dismissed.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT!

A heady thought! The French, in the time of Louis XIV, ate sardines to bring out the flavor of their wine. Even today, people in the south of France consider sardines with red wine a delicacy.

Weigh in go! Sardines are a bargain in delicious eating for calorie counters. Sardines in Mustard or Louisiana Hot Sauce packed under the Port Clyde or Holmes labels, contain a remarkably few 160 calories per can.

Wealth of health! Sardines or their brothers, fish steaks, have more protein than T-bone steak, more calcium than milk and more iron than cooked spinach. They're loaded with valuable minerals and other nutrients, too.

For more thoughts, write to Food, P.O. Box 1769, Portland, ME 04104.

Turkey Cubs Attend District Pinewood Derby

On Saturday, February 18, 1984, the Turkey Cub Scouts attended the District Pinewood Derby Car Race in Plainview. Those racing in the ten-year-old group included Lee Roy Galvan. In the nine-year-old group was Bobby Silva. Danny House participated in the eight-year-old group.

Danny was eliminated in the fifth heat and the others in the third heat.

Those making the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Billy Pinkerton, Vera and Tommy, Joe Wayne Fuston, Garrett Mills, Lee Roy Galvan, Bobby Silva, Henry McNary, Mrs. Don House and Danny, Mrs. H. W. House, Chad Calvert and Jason Smith. The boys met at 10:00 a.m. at the Scout Room and a decision had to be made on who would race in the nine-year-old bracket.

Everyone carried a sack lunch and the group stopped at All-sup's for a drink.

We hope to have some faster cars for next year's race.

Through a process known as bonding, the dentist can layer a coating of liquid plastic over these rough surfaces, forming a protective shield. It takes only a few minutes to seal each tooth.

Sealants can be an effective cavity-fighting measure and should be part of a total dental care program that includes daily brushing and flossing, use of fluorides restricted snacking between meals and regular dental check-ups.

You can help your children ward off tooth decay by having their back teeth coated with a protective plastic armor.

Pit and fissure sealants, as they are known to dentists, are thin invisible plastic coatings painted on the chewing surfaces of a child's molars, or back teeth, to protect against the plaque and acids that cause tooth decay.

As a child's back teeth develop, tiny grooves and depressions form in the chewing surfaces of the

Catherine Curtis Buried Last Week

Catherine Louise Curtis, 64, died Tuesday of last week at Central Plains Hospital in Plainview.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN — Taxes make the government go round. Without our contributions in a number of different forms, things would bog down and become a nightmare.

When it comes to taxes, a poll by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations (ACIR) shows that taxpayers prefer the sales tax to all other methods.

The margin by which people would rather pay a sales tax is 3 to 1. We in Texas are among 45 states which levy a sales tax. Only Alaska, Delaware, Montana, New Hampshire and Oregon do not have a state sales tax.

The tax rates range from a high of 7.5 percent in Connecticut to a low of two percent in Nevada and Oklahoma. Texas collects four percent, which is the national average. Most Texans are used to paying five percent because local units of government are authorized to collect a one percent tax.

Texas last raised the sales tax to four percent from 3.25 percent in 1971. We first collected the tax beginning in 1962 at a two percent rate.

While the sales tax rate has doubled in the 22 years the tax has been in existence, revenue has risen by over 2000 percent. Texas pocketed $149 million in 1962. In 1983, that figure was $3.3 billion.

In 1983, the sales tax provided 39 percent of all tax collections, making it the state's largest single tax source. And, while the tax brings in a lot of money, Texans pay an average of only $211 a year in state sales tax.

Also, we all know from experience that it is easier to pay the tax in small bits, rather than in one lump sum.

The ACIR poll showed that this few pennies at a time approach is one of the main reasons people prefer it to other types of taxes.

The Legislature has avoided placing the tax on items of necessity, such as food and medicine. This reduced the taxing impact on our needy residents.

We all want to see taxes held to the necessary minimum. But, if taxation is a fact of life, as we know it to be, then the sales tax method at the current level is working for Texas.

Spring Barley

Spring barley is a profitable catch crop, according to Wyatt Harman, economist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at The Texas A&M Center in Amarillo. He says spring barley can be used in salvage fields of small grain damaged by freeze-out, insect or disease. The economist came to this conclusion when research showed that spring barley yielded from 53 to 66 bushels per acre with two or three irrigations. Profits above expenses and ranging from $2.00 to $20.00 per acre.

The scientist was assisted with the research at the North Plains Research Field at Elter, Texas, by Dr. Frank Petr, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Cecil Regier, manager of the North Plains Research Field. The scientists planted Tokak and Lud barley at 90 pounds per acre on March 2, 1983, and applied an emergence irrigation of 3.5 inches per acre on March 11. In addition, a four-inch irrigation was applied at the boot stage on May 26 to both varieties. Half each variety received an additional irrigation at heading on June 9. It was a dry season with rainfall from March to June was 60 percent less than average. However, snowfall during the winter was almost a record high.

Tokak was a little earlier and grew taller than Lud. Tokak had weak straw and was 20 percent lodged at harvest. Because T

Spring Barley Is Profitable Crop

Spring barley is a profitable catch crop, according to Dr. Wyatt Harman, economist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at The Texas A&M Center in Amarillo. He said spring barley can be used to salvage fields of small grains damaged by freeze-out, insects or disease. The economist came to this conclusion when research showed that spring barley yielded from 53 to 66 bushels per acre with two or three irrigations. Profits above expenses and rent ranged from $2.00 to $20.00 per acre.

The scientist was assisted with the research at the North Plains Research Field at Elter, Texas by Dr. Frank Petr, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Cecil Regier, manager of the North Plains Research Field. The scientists planted Tokak and Lud barley at 90 pounds per acre on March 2, 1983, and applied an emergence irrigation of 3.5 inches per acre on March 11. In addition, a four-inch irrigation was applied at the boot stage on May 26 to both varieties. Half of each variety received an additional irrigation at heading on June 9. It was a dry season and rainfall from March to June was 60 percent less than average. However, snowfall during the winter was almost a record high.

Tokak was a little earlier and grew taller than Lud. Tokak had weak straw and was 20 percent lodged at harvest. Because To-kak lodged and availability of seed, Petr recommends growing Lud. Bushel weight on both varieties was a little below the normal of 48 pounds per bushel due to high mid-summer winds and heat just prior to maturity. Tokak yielded 63 bushels per acre with the emergence and boot irrigation and 66 bushels per acre with three irrigations. Lud yielded 53 and 58 bushels per acre with the two irrigation treatments.

In the past, kochia and Russian thistle that germinated in late March seriously competed with spring barley and made harvest difficult. The researchers prevented the problems by applying the new herbicide, Glean, at planting. It kept the barley weed free until harvest.

Harman made an economic analysis of the yields. Using $5.15 per hundredweight, price for the 63 bushel per acre crop $155.50. Production costs were $84.00 per acre, and land rent was $33.38 per acre based on a one-third lease where the landowner paid one-third of fertilizer, chemicals, irrigation fuel and harvesting. Under these lease arrangements, returns to a tenant for machinery, management and risk were $19.95 per acre for Tokak. Profit for Lud was $5.71 per acre. A landowner could add the rent to these returns.

"Spring barley has a place in the Texas High Plains," Harman said. "Not many crops with the short production period of spring barley and low production costs will gross $150.00 per acre with only two irrigations," he reports.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN — Telling the future with any certainty is just not possible. Yet, most changes and crises can be anticipated through trends to which we apply the sophisticated procedures possible through technology.

That is certainly true with state government. We have been watching our educational situation move steadily to a point to where it becomes apparent that change is necessary. We have watched our highways building to the point of near crisis.

Hopefully the Legislature will have the opportunity to prevent these situations from becoming full-blown crisis situations by preventing them, rather than reacting to them.

Writer Alvin Toffler explained the way government usually reacts by saying, "Our political decision-makers swing widely back and forth between doing nothing about a problem until it explodes in crisis and, alternately, racing in with ill-equipped, poorly-prepared crash programs."

If those in the policy-making level of state government would devote more time to discussing the future we could turn possible futures into probable futures that would be preferred futures.

We in state government must begin with the assumption that the state's future is not predetermined and that policy-makers and citizens are able to design and anticipate the future.

Over the next several issues of our report, I will scratch at some of the items on the menu for the future in Texas. These are issues and trends which our policy-makers and citizens would do well to make decisions concerning which way we want to go, and what we need to do to get there.

Our future is dependent on what we do now, since all alternative futures only exist at the present.

IT'S A FACT!

An ordinary looking ranch-style house in Cleveland, Ohio, is really a research and test site for developing the high efficiency appliances of tomorrow's "dream houses."

This project of the American Gas Association is literally a "house-within-a-house," providing flexibility in research for both residential and commercial use. There's a central core with bedroom/bath, kitchen and cathedral-ceilinged great room. Natural gas appliances with efficiencies as high as 96 percent have been developed with more research planned.

We want to thank all our friends for the prayers, get-well cards, phone calls, visits and everything that was done for us while Cecil was in the hospital and since he has been home.

We want especially to thank Betty Chandler and the nurse from Matador who have taken care of Cecil since he returned home.

May God bless each and every one of you.
