Leo Burnett Company of New York Shoots Scenes At Park

The colorful scenes in the Marlboro Cigarette Company advertisements in popular magazines will soon look very familiar to folks in this area, as the Leo Burnett Company of Riverdale, New York shot numerous scenes at Caprock Canyons State Park recently.

Eleven men from the company stayed at the Turkey Hotel for four or five days last week and kept around 30 horses at the Gary Edwards Rodeo Arena in Turkey and at the State Park.

It was reported that the men were very excited about the park and facilities, and would be returning in March or April to make more pictures, as they favored Caprock Canyons over Palo Duro.

Mrs. Faye Armstrong served the men breakfast at 5:00 o'clock each morning at the hotel. They requested freshly squeezed orange juice—no canned or frozen. She served it along with oatmeal, bacon, sausage, fried and scrambled eggs and homemade biscuits—no small task.

Roye Pigg served their other meals.

Ferguson Insurance Agency Sold To Elgin Conner

Mrs. Loetta Ferguson has recently sold Ferguson Insurance Agency in Turkey, Texas, to Elgin Conner of Quitaque, Texas. Mrs. Ferguson had owned and operated the business in Turkey for approximately thirty years; now, because of failing health, she offered Mr. Conner the opportunity of purchasing the agency.

The insurance business has been moved to the south side of Main Street in Turkey, into the building formerly occupied by "The Cotton Patch," directly across the street from Turkey Automotive. The business will be known as Conner Insurance Agency.

Brenda Smith, who has worked for the Ferguson Agency the past four years, has been employed by Elgin Conner and will be working with him and his wife, Ruth Ann, in the office at Turkey. Conner Insurance will also continue at its present location in Quitaque, with Jana Boyles working with the Conners.

Elgin is no stranger to this area. He was reared on a farm two miles east of Turkey and was graduated from Turkey High School in 1964. He attended Lubbock Christian College for two years and received his bachelor of science degree in education from Texas Tech in 1968. He returned to live in Quitaque in 1975 and began managing Stark Insurance Agency in October of 1977. After the death of Mr. Stark in 1982, he purchased the agency and changed the name to Conner Insurance Agency. Mr. Conner is licensed to sell property and casualty insurance, life and health insurance, and will be dividing his time between the two offices each week as the work load demands.

Long-Time Turkey Business Changes Hands This Week

Ferguson Insurance Agency has been sold to Conner Insurance Agency. Mrs. Loetta Ferguson opened the business as Ferguson Insurance in 1955. Before that time it was called the Boswell Insurance and she worked for Mr. Boswell from 1951 until 1955. She will continue to have the income tax business at the same location. Mrs. Gelene Proctor will continue to work for her in this capacity.

Mrs. Ferguson would like to thank everyone for their business throughout the years and asks that you continue to use her income tax service. Her note of thanks appears elsewhere in this issue.

Wise-Asikis Vows Exchanged In Double-Ring Ceremony In Marlin

Tamilyn Marie Wise and John Asikis exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring candlelight ceremony Saturday, November 10 at 7:00 o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist Church in Marlin, Texas. Rev. Lindsay Cofield, pastor, performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wise of Marlin. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Asikis of Boston, Massachusetts.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory gown of chantilly lace and tulle, designed with a sabrina neckline outlined with pearls and sequins. The bouffant tulle skirt had an overskirt of lace. Her fingertip-length veil was attached to a lace cap trimmed with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, candlelight and mauve roses on top of a white pearl bible that her mother carried on her wedding day.

The bride wore her mother's wedding dress for something borrowed. Her veil was something new, and for something old, she wore her mother's pearl necklace and earring set given to her mother by her father on their wedding day. Something blue was her blue garter. As the bride and her father came down the aisle, she presented her mother with a silk long-stemmed rose. As the bridal couple left the altar, she presented a rose to the groom's mother.

Kellene Powell of Farmersville was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Carol Vasser of Marlin, Sylvia Zakhary of Waco, and Lori Osborn of Longview. Leah Leps of Marlin was the flower girl.

The bride's attendants were attired in identical floor-length taffeta dresses with fitted bodices accented by cummerbunds. They carried nosegays of mauve and burgundy mixed flowers. Their hairpieces were of mauve roses and baby's breath.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length crepe dress with sleeves gathered at the wrists. The groom's mother wore a floor-length crepe ivory dress with floral design with an attached chiffon layer. Their corsages were of cymbidium orchids.

Best man was Demetre Koutros of Waco. Groomsmen were Scott McCarthy of Waco, Brent Wise, brother of the bride, and Tim Yarbro, uncle of the bride, both of Dallas, Joshua Yarbro, cousin of the bride, was the ringbearer. The candles were lighted by Billy Asikis, brother of the groom, of Boston, and Sammy Zakhary of Waco.

Guests were seated by Mark Newton of Waco and Jeff Yarbro of Dallas.

Wedding music was provided by Gordon Moore of Dallas. He sang "The Wedding Song" and "Flesh of My Flesh." Brent Wise, brother of the bride, sang "I Could Never Promise You." Both were accompanied at the organ by Linda Haptonstall. The wedding party was joined by the guests in singing "Blest Be the Tie" at the close of the ceremony.

Candelabra with white tapers were used to decorate the church altar. Arrangements of white gladiolas and mauve daisies were on either side of the prayer bench. Lighted votive candles adorned the windows of the church. Pews along the bridal aisle were accented with ivory bows and brass hurricane lamps.

The ceremony began with the chiming of the hour and the peal of the historical bell tower. Mr. and Mrs. Asikis lighted the groom's side of the unity candle and Mr. and Mrs. Wise lighted the bride's side of the unity candle. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bride and groom lighted the single unity candle.

The reception for the wedding party and guests was held in the historical Allen House and was catered by Macal's Catering of Cameron. Mark Newton provided music at the piano.

Elizabeth Brown of Waco registered the guests from a table covered with mauve and candlelight over lace. The bride's table held a four-tier round cake topped with a miniature bride and groom used on the bride's parents' wedding cake. The table was covered with a candlelight satin skirt with candlelight over lace. Gold appointments were used to serve the pineapple-lime punch and cake. Carla Campbell and Laurie Stem presided at the bride's table.

The groom's table was covered with a brown skirt and gold overlay. Gold appointments were used to serve cake and coffee. The groom's cake was a German chocolate with the bible verse, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord," Joshua 24:15 inscribed on the bible-shaped top. Tamara Holzschuh and Sonia Koutros presided at the groom's table.

Leah Leps and Bonne Manier picked up dishes and passed out rice bags. Many plants, candles and magnolia leaves were used in decorating the Allen House. The rice bags were held in an ivy covered birdbath.

The bride and groom left for a honeymoon trip to Jamaica. They will make their home in Hewitt, Texas.

Bridal courtesies included a miscellaneous shower in October in the home of Sylvia Zakhary. Hostesses were Sylvia Zakhary and Carol Vasser. On October 13 a miscellaneous shower was hosted by Mmes. Joe Campbell, Lindsay Cofield, Roy Jennings, Ron Leps, Truman McMillan, Mark Minor, Jack Stem and Sarah Roppolo in the home of Mrs. Joe Campbell. Is there a cancer epidemic?

HOUSTON, TX. — there really an epidemic cancer?

This is an often-asked and understandable question in view of all the statistics about substantial increases in our diet and the environment causing cancer.

"With the exception of lung cancer, which is caused by smoking, there is on the rise among all age groups, there are epidemics of malignant diseases," says Dr. G. Newell, director of cancer prevention programs at the University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital Tumor Institute.

Some kinds of cancer seem to be on the upswing although Dr. Newell observes this trend can be explained in light of additional numbers of people living longer to die of many malignancies.

Cancer used to be considered a closet disease about which few people talked openly. Dr. Newell credits intensified public information and education for boosting the awareness that cancer is no longer hopeless.

"We still need to work on clearing up the line between the awful misconceptions that cancer is contagious. There has never been any evidence that cancer can be caught by anyone else, say in the way the common cold spread," Dr. Newell says.

His major message is that more than 50 percent of Americans learning about cancer now can be cured. With relatively easy preventive steps, the outlook can be improved even more by keeping track of these cancers occurring in the first

HOUSTON, TX. — Many scientists maintain the majority of cancers could be prevented.

That's the good news. Unfortunately, far more of us don't take the personal responsibility of avoiding known suspected cancer-causing habits and substances, says Dr. Guy R. Newell, director of cancer prevention programs at the University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital Tumor Institute.

HOUSTON, TX. — Is there really an epidemic of cancer?

This is an often-asked and understandable question in view of all the allegations about substances in our diet and the environment causing cancer.

"With the exception of lung cancer, which definitely is caused by smoking and is on the rise among some groups, there are no epidemics of malignant diseases," says Dr. Guy R. Newell, director of cancer prevention programs at The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

"We still need to work on clearing up the lingering and awful misconception that cancer is contagious. There has never been an ounce of evidence that cancer can be caught from anyone else, say in the same way the common cold is spread," Dr. Newell says.

His major message is that more than 50 percent of Americans learning they have cancer now can expect to be cured. With relatively easy preventive steps, that outlook can be improved even more by keeping most of these cancers from occurring in the first place.

Many cancers can be prevented

HOUSTON, TX. — Many scientists maintain the majority of cancers could be prevented.

That's the good news. Unfortunately, far too many of us don't assume the personal responsibility of avoiding known or suspected cancer-causing habits and substances, laments Dr. Guy R. Newell, director of cancer prevention programs at The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

"There's not a shred of doubt that smoking, certain dietary elements, excessive sunlight and some occupational and environmental agents contribute to the high incidence of many malignancies. And we can all do our fair share to reverse these cancers," he says.

Dr. Newell's common sense advice for preventing cancer includes:

- * Do not use tobacco, especially cigarettes.
- * Maintain an ideal body weight, preferably slightly below the standard recommendations.
- * Eat a diverse diet, with emphasis on reducing fats and increasing fiber-containing foods.
- * Practice moderation when drinking alcoholic

- beverages.
- * Watch closely for changes in moles on the body.
- * Protect against unnecessary exposure to pesticides, chemicals in the workplace and various X-rays.
- * Get help, when needed, to cope with stressful situations.

Before it can obtain enough food to gain an ounce of body weight, a sponge must filter a ton of water.

News From Pack 264

November 19, 1984 Den I met in the Pinkerton home. Those present were Lee Roy, Chad and Tommy. Since November is Thanksgiving month, we plan to complete our Religious Activity this month. The boys made a list of the things they are thankful for, things they feel they have done that showed they were good examples to others and things they feel they can do in the future. Each boy is making a Webelos notebook.

These boys completed their Citizen Activity. They discussed why we have government and laws and things that make a good citizen. We made a list of the leaders of our local, state and national government and of five people they thought were good citizens. Many of the things the boys talked about they are studying in Miss Jones' social studies class. One of the laws listed in their Webelos book that they talked about was that children must attend school unless they are ill.

We concluded our meeting by singing our National Anthem.

We are thankful for the donation of aluminum cans from these people: Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell

Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. House, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Hogue, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Matthews, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stewart. A special thanks to Sue Proctor for her donation of Green Stamps. The cans we sold brought $18.56.

November 25, 1984, Den II met at the Pinkerton home. Those present were David, Bobby, Jason, Kyle and Garrett. Danny was ill and was given material to complete at home.

This group is working on their Wildlife Conservation Activity. The things they discussed were laws regarding wildlife, wildlife common to this area, and an uncommon animal that is endangered. We learned the "Ten Commandments of Gun Safety." The State Parks and Wildlife sent us interesting materials on wildlife conservation in Texas.

We drove to the State Park and stopped at all the displays. The last display shows pictures of the wildlife common to the Park.

Another interesting thing we discussed during the meeting was a program shown on 20-20 about Mrs. T. and her nature tours in California. Her motto was "This is my country and wherever I go I will try to leave it more beautiful than I found it."

TALKING ABOUT

Turkey is one of the most popular meats served on holiday meals. Turkey is available in a variety of forms, therefore it can be everyone's holiday favorite. The smallest to the largest to the most expensive to the least expensive, turkey is available in a variety of cuts. The fat content in turkey is low, and the cholesterol level is low. Turkey is a good source of the vitamins, riboflavin and niacin. The majority of turkey is raised in Texas in Temple and Waco areas.

If you are a "first hand" at preparing your holiday dinner, many facts to remember to make your meal delicious. When you purchase a turkey, either fresh or pre-stuffed, look for the USDA inspection mark. Let the turkey be as safe as possible. Since there is a difference in taste between fresh and frozen turkey, the choice is based on preference.

If purchasing a frozen turkey, keep the whole turkey—either pre-stuffed or unstuffed—in the home refrigerator until ready to cook. Recommended methods for thawing turkeys are thawing in the refrigerator or in cold water. Both methods keep the turkey safe while thawing—preventing excessive bacterial growth. Always remember to cook the turkey promptly.

To thaw in the refrigerator, place the turkey in its original wrapping on a tray or catch moisture that accumulates as it thaws. The thawing time is dependent upon the weight of the bird, usually 1-5 days. In cold water, place the turkey in an unopened bag in the refrigerator. Use a large container and cold water. Change the water every 30 minutes to keep the turkey safe and effective thawing. Thawing time is usually between 12-24 hours, again dependent on the size of the bird. Thawing pre-stuffed turkeys can develop bacteria. Do not stuff a turkey while the turkey is thawing. It is also not a good idea to thaw a turkey in the kitchen because room temperature is in the danger zone (45-125 degrees F.) which allows for active growth of bacteria. If a turkey is thawed on a kitchen counter, the turkey will thaw faster than if it is thawed outside in. As the surface bacteria could multiply to a dangerous level. Since some organisms are poisonous, it is important to follow safe thawing procedures.

TALKING ABOUT TURKEY

Turkey is one of the most popular meats served for American holiday meals. This versatile bird is available in all sizes, therefore it can be served at everyone's holiday meal, from the smallest to the largest families. Turkey meat is one of the highest meats in protein. At the same time it is one of the lowest meats in fat and calories with one cup light and dark meat, mixed, containing 265 calories. The fat content in turkey is the unsaturated type which reportedly does not increase the blood cholesterol level. Turkey is also a good source of the B vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. The majority of turkey production in Texas is around the Temple and Waco areas.

If you are a "first timer" or "old hand" at preparing turkey for your holiday dinner, there are many facts to remember in order to make your meal safe and delicious. When purchasing a turkey, either fresh, frozen, self-basted or pre-stuffed, be sure to look for the USDA label. This inspection mark lets you know the turkey has been inspected and that it is safe and wholesome. Since there is no significant difference in quality between fresh and frozen turkeys, the choice is based on personal preference.

If purchasing a frozen turkey, make sure that it is solidly frozen. Keep the whole, frozen turkey—either pre-stuffed or unstuffed—in the home freezer until ready to cook. The two recommended methods for thawing turkeys are thawing in the refrigerator or in cold water. The main point to remember is that both methods keep your turkey cold while thawing—the key to preventing excessive bacterial growth. Always remember to cook the turkey promptly after thawing.

To thaw in the refrigerator place the turkey in its original wrapping on a tray or in a pan to catch moisture that accumulates as it thaws. The thawing time is dependent upon the size of the bird, usually 1-5 days. If thawing in cold water, place the bird in its unopened bag in the sink or in a large container and cover it with cold water. Change the water every 30 minutes to assure safe and effective thawing. Thawing time is usually between four and twelve hours, again depending on the size of the bird. Never thaw pre-stuffed turkeys because bacteria can develop in the stuffing while the turkey thaws. It is also not a good idea to thaw a turkey on the kitchen counter because room temperatures fall within the danger zone of 60 to 125 degrees F. which promotes active growth of bacteria. If left on a kitchen counter, a frozen turkey will thaw from the outside in. As the surface warms bacteria could multiply to a dangerous level. Since some food poisoning organisms produce toxins that with-stand heat, cooking cannot be relied on to destroy all bacteria. When thawing is completed, remove the neck and giblets from the neck or body cavity. Wash the inside and outside of the bird and giblets with cold water and drain well. It is also important to wash your hands, utensils and sink after they have come in contact with the raw turkey to prevent the spread of bacteria. If purchasing a fresh turkey be sure to purchase the turkey only one to two days before you plan to serve it. Keep the fresh turkey refrigerated at 40 degrees F. or below.

Stuffing a turkey in advance may sound like a good idea, but actually this practice invites trouble because harmful bacteria can multiply in the stuffing and cause food poisoning. Turkeys should be stuffed only at the last minute. Dry stuffing and ingredients may be prepared the day before, tightly covered and left at room temperature. The perishables (butter or margarine, mushrooms, oysters, cooked celery and onions, broth, etc.) should be refrigerated. The ingredients should then be combined just before stuffing the turkey. Remember to allow three-fourths cup of stuffing for each pound of ready-to-cook turkey and to stuff the cavity lightly because stuffing expands as it cooks. Extra stuffing may be baked separately. In fact if you are in a hurry, you may want to bake your stuffing in a greased, covered casserole during the last hour while the turkey roasts. Not only does an unstuffed turkey take less time to cook than one that is stuffed but you'll save time by not stuffing the turkey and having to scoop the stuffing out to serve it once the turkey is done.

Holiday buffets are a festive, fun and wonderful serving method for a large crowd. However, they do require extra care in preparing, storing and serving the food. Be sure to have enough refrigerator space for the perishable foods. It's a good idea to keep buffet servings small and to replenish the serving dishes as needed, directly from the stove or refrigerator. If food is left out more than two hours, even in heated serving units, the risk of food poisoning is increased. When the guests have finished eating, put the perishables, especially the turkey and other meat and poultry products back into the refrigerator.

You bought the kind of turkey you wanted because you read the label, you thawed it properly and cooked it according to the directions and your turkey was the hit of the holiday dinner! Now—what do you do with the leftovers? Maybe these recipe ideas from the Texas Department of Agriculture will help!

TURKEY TURNOVERS

Pastry for two-crust pie
1 1/2 cup chopped cooked turkey
1 1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1 (2 1/4 oz.) can deviled ham
1/4 cup sour cream
1 Teaspoon parsley flakes
1/2 Teaspoon salt
1 beaten egg
Sesame seeds
Sour Cream

Prepare pastry for two-crust pie and divide into two equal parts. Roll each part on lightly floured cloth-covered board into 16x8-inch rectangles. Cut each rectangle into eight 4-inch squares. Mix turkey, cheese, deviled ham, 1/4 cup sour cream, parsley flakes and salt. Spread scant three tablespoons turkey mixture on a triangle half of each square, keeping mixture 1/2 inch from edges. Moisten all edges with water. Fold pastry over filling to form triangle. Seal edges with fork; prick tops. Brush turnovers with beaten egg; sprinkle with sesame seeds. Bake at 425 degrees F. until golden brown, about 13 minutes. Serve hot with sour cream. Serves eight.

TURKEY BUFFET
CASSEROLE

4 oz. med.-wide noodles
1 pkg. frozen broccoli spears
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 Teaspoon salt
1/4 Teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 Teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
1 cup (1/4 lb.) processed American cheese, grated
2 cups cooked turkey, diced
1/3 cup pecans

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender; drain. Cook broccoli as label directs until just tender; drain. Dice broccoli stems, but leave flowerets whole. In saucepan over low heat, melt butter; stir in flour, salt, mustard, pepper and milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Remove from heat and stir in cheese until melted. In greased shallow casserole or 8-inch square baking dish, arrange noodles, broccoli stems, and turkey; pour cheese sauce over all. Arrange broccoli flowerets on top, pressing them lightly into sauce. Sprinkle with pecans. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees F. for 15 minutes, or until bubbling hot. Yield: 4-6 servings.

TURKEY-STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

3 large green peppers
1 box cornbread stuffing mix
2 beaten eggs
1/2 cup chicken bouillon
2 cups chopped cooked turkey
Grated sharp cheese

Cut the green peppers in half lengthwise and remove seeds. Cook in boiling water for 2-3 minutes, then drain. Arrange hollow side up, in a casserole. Mix the stuffing mix with eggs. Add bouillon to moisten and mix. Add turkey and mix well. Fill the green peppers with turkey mixture and cover with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees F. for about 25 minutes.

Testicular cancer is curable

HOUSTON, TX. — Any mass in the testicles should be considered a tumor until proven otherwise.

"This message should be preached to all males, starting when they are teenagers," says Dr. Guy R. Newell, director of cancer prevention at The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

Although rare, testicular cancers are the leading cause of death due to malignancy among men in the 25 to 35 age range. That's the bad news.

Dr. Newell says the good news is at least 85 to 90 percent of testicular cancers found today can be cured—but only if they are detected early and treated promptly.

"All young men should be taught how to examine their testes regularly to check for any lumps. This can be done easily during a shower. Most lumps are not painful. A physician should be seen at the first sign of a tumor because any delay in obtaining the correct diagnosis and beginning appropriate therapy can diminish the chances for complete cures," Dr. Newell explains.

Testicular cancers usually strike men in the very prime of their adult lives. Besides painless lumps, men should be alert to such symptoms as enlarged breasts, a feeling of heaviness in the scrotum and perhaps some loss of sex drive.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Texas Cancer Information Service toll-free at 1-800-4-CANCER.
